Microphologographed
by

SAMFORD UNIVERSITY
DEO ET DOCTRINAE
1842

Harwell Goodwin Davis Library
Samford University
Birmingham, Alabama

CONTINUING

ALABAMA NEWSPAPERS

THE UNION
1903-1912

1906

NEWSPAPER CHECKLIST MICROFILM HOLDINGS

The Union
Clanton, Ala.

1903	1904	1905	1906 (From Page Barricade)	1906
Ja M	Ja 7 Pages Missing	Ja 5	Ja 4	Ja
M	14 Pages Missing	12	11
M	21	19	18
M	28	26	25
M
F M	F 4	F 2	F 1
M	11	9	8
M	18	16	15
M	25	23	22
M
Mr M	Mr 3	Mr 2	Mr 1	Mr
M	10	9	8
M	17	16	15
M	31	23	22
M		30	29
Ap M	Ap 7	Ap 6	Ap 5	Ap
M	14	13	12
16	21	20	19
23	28	27	26
My 7	My 5	My 4	My 3	My
M	12	11	10
M	19	18	17
M	26	25	24
			31
Je M	Je 2	Je 1	Je 7	Je
11	9	8	14
18	16	15	21
	23	22	28
	30	29
J1 M	J1	J1 6	J1 5	J1
M	14	13	12
M	21	20	19
23	28	29	26
30
Ag 6	Ag 4	Ag 3	Ag 2	Ag
M	11	10	9
20	18	17	16
M	25	24	23
		31	30
S 3	S 1	S 7	S 6	S
M	8	14	13
17	22	21	20
M	29	28	27
O 8	O 6	O 5	O 4	O
15	13	12	11
22	Missing	19	18
29	27	26	25
N M	N 3	N 2	N 1	N
M	Missing	9	8
M	Missing	16	15
26	Missing	23	22
		30	29
D M	D 1	D 7	D 6	D
10	Missing	14	13
M	15	21	20
31	22	28	27
	29

DEFECTIVE ORIGINAL

THI

EQ

VOL. III.

FOOTPADS CAPTURE $5000

ve Masked Men Waylay Paymaster Schieck near New Brunswick.

NEW JERSEY HOLD-UP

Highwaymen Spring Out of a Thicket and Cover Him and Foreman Harkins With Shotguns—The Leader Then Demands the Money Bag and Grabs It From the Wagon.

New Brunswick, N. J.—masked men held up William Schieck, a paymaster, and William F. Harkins, and got away with a satchel containing nearly $5000. The robbery occurred at 1.30 p. m. near the Raritan Driving Park track on the Georges road to Benhamtown, where trolley cars run every few minutes. In many respects the hold-up was similar to the one which occurred on August 24, 1904, when Dana White, assistant paymaster of the O'Rourke Construction company, was robbed of more than $50[illegible] by six men near Montclair, N. J.

Schieck lives at Newark. He came here during the afternoon. He and Mr. Harkins started out in a buggy to pay the men employed by the Delaware River Quarry and Construction company. The men are now at work about three miles from this city. The two men had just passed the driving park on the main road, when the five men jumped from behind a clump of trees taking them completely by surprise. Neither Schieck or Harkins was armed.

The leader of the highwaymen was a tall Italian [illegible] wore no mask and carried a [illegible] horse's head, bringing the [illegible] up with a jerk to one side [illegible] they threw the occupants out of the [illegible].

Three of the party had revolvers and two had [illegible]. One of the Italians sprang into the wagon and snatched the satchel out of the hands of the paymaster. The five men, four of whom were masked, then disappeared in the woods.

The men held up at once alarmed the workmen near by, and they started off after the robbers. The police sent telephone messages out to all the neighboring towns and Prosecutor Berdine sent out three separate squads of officers in rigs behind fast horses to try to head off the highwaymen. The men were seen after the hold-up near the Stelton station of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and later on their way to Newmarket. It is believed that all of them had been former employes of the quarry company, and were familiar with the way the men were paid off. In the satchel was the money to pay the 300 men their wages for the last two weeks.

A reward of $1000 was offered for the capture of the five men. Every possible effort is being made to run them down, but there are so many chances of escape by boarding freight trains that they will be hard to capture. Detectives Mulvey and Grover returned early in the evening after having got within a quarter of a mile of four of the highwaymen, when they saw them in the woods. All four had shotguns when they saw them. The highwaymen disappeared near Bound Brook. Farmers all over the section where the highwaymen were seen scoured the woods all afternoon with shotguns. The search proved unsuccessful.

KILLED RICH FATHER-IN-LAW.

Forrest Simpson Says His Gun Went Off by Pure Accident.

Northport, L. I.—Dr. J. W. Simpson, a New York dentist, shot and killed his father-in-law, Bartley T. Horner. He says it was a pure accident, but he was put in the custody of Policeman Decker pending an inquest.

Mr. Horner was one of the wealthiest men in this part of Long Island. Dr. Simpson says that, not suspecting that the gun was loaded he handled it carelessly. Mr. Horner was sitting in a chair reading a paper and he received the full charge of birdshot in the side. He fell to the floor unconscious and died two hours later.

Mr. Horner was fifty-five years old. He had been the Southern representative of the Lorillards, but he retired several years ago. Dr. Simpson married his only daughter. She was in the house when the shooting occurred.

EXPLOSION KILLS FOUR.

Engine Boiler of Fast Freight Blows Up, Train Takes Fire, Crews Perish.

Chicago.—Four men were killed when the boiler of the engine of a fast freight train on the Erie Railroad from Chicago blew up and wrecked the train near North Judson, Ind., fifty miles from Chicago. The train took fire and was destroyed. The men killed were John O'Brien, Huntington, Ind., engineer; Thomas Blackman, fireman; Len Fisher, head brakeman, and an unidentified man.

REBELS DYNAMITE TREASURY.

Polish Revolutionists Get $240,000 in Raid and Escape.

Warsaw, Poland.—Eighty revolutionists blew up with dynamite the safe of the district treasury in Wysokiemuzowiecke, Government of Lomza, Poland, securing $150,000 in paper rubles, $10,000 in gold and $80,000 in silver.

They first cut the telegraph wires, then they posted patrols in the market square and terrorized the inhabitants of the town by firing revolvers. The raiders escaped with their booty.

RAILROADS BUILT IN 1

New Mileage Exceeds That of by Seven Hundred Miles.

Track Extensions to the Amount of Miles on 337 Lines in Forty-five States and Territories.

New York City.—During 1905 miles of new railway tracks have laid in the United States, on 337 in forty-five States and Territories. addition, several hundred miles been graded and track is being lai many lines as the year closes. T figures are not final, for there are s roads which have not yet furnis full reports, and it is probable that complete returns will show over miles.

The new mileage of 1905 exceeds of 1904 by over 700 miles. For a g many years the Southwestern St have furnished a larger percentag new mileage than any other group, the scene of active construction op tions appears to be shifting to Northwest. With the Chicago, waukee and St. Paul headed for Pacific coast, with the new Gould (the Western Pacific) already u construction between Salt Lake and San Francisco, and with m new lines planned by the Harri and the Hill systems, the Western Northwestern States will be the sce of bustling activity for the next years.

The most noteworthy piece of struction during the past year was extension of the Soo Line from Th River Falls, Minn., to Kenmare, N. a distance of 297 miles. Contracts this work were not let until Ma and track laying was not begun u July, yet the road was comple ready for operation the latter part November. The Soo Line also b two branches in North Dakota, e nineteen miles in length, making a tal of 335 miles of road built by t company. To tap the same region Great Northern has built five branch aggregating 126½ miles, north from main line. Altogether the Great Nor ern laid 243 miles of track on ext signs in Minnesota, North Dakota, braska and Washington. The seco longest line built was by the St. Lou Brownsville and Mexico, which co pleted 171 miles of its extension fr Robstown to Houston, Tex.

Baby Crop Pays Best.

George Cramer, a hard working B ler County (Iowa) farmer, is a hea endorser of President Roosevelt's a suicide theories. He has reas Every time an infant is born in Cramer household a check for $1000 rives from Grandfather Cramer, in G many. There have, thus far, be twelve domestic additions and the sa number of checks from the Fatherlan

Train Kills Father and Daughter.

A horse attached to a buggy ran in the Pennsylvania eighteen-hour "flye at Delphos, Ohio, and Henry Honhor and his daughter, Rose, were instant killed.

Killed by Train.

Walking on the Southern Railwa track, near Spartanburg, S. C., D. Hill and Richard Rogers, well-to- farmers, were struck by a train an killed.

President at Pine Knob.

The President and Mrs. Roosevel with three of their children, went Pine Knob, Mrs. Roosevelt's place Albemarle County, Va., for a few day Miles to Be Retired.

Secretary Taft, at Washington, C., granted the request of Gener Miles, retired, to be relieved from du with the Massachusetts militia.

Loeb Has a Son.

Mrs. William Loeb, Jr., at the Washington, D. C., home, presented son to her husband, the Secretary the President.

Asphyxiated by Gas.

Having blown out the gas John Mc Call, J. H. Wells and James Betse were asphyxiated in a New Orlean (La.) hotel.

Beaten and Robbed.

August Fellows, a wealthy city of Huntingtonburg, Ind., was beaten insensible and robbed of $1100 in a lumber yard.

Revolt in Russia Spreads.

Dispatches from all parts of the Russian Empire showed an alarming spread of the agitation against the autocracy.

Teachers Get Back Pay.

Justice Gaynor, of the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, awarded $24,000 back pay to teachers of New York City.

Schurman For Football.

President Schurman, of Cornell, declared himself a friend of football in an address at Syracuse, N. Y.

Suicide of Policeman's Wife.

The wife of James Allen, a New York City patrolman, shot herself with her husband's revolver.

Shops Open in Poland.

The shops on the main streets opened in Warsaw, Poland.

Martial Law at Odessa.

Martial law was declared in Odessa, but the strike seemed to be broken.

A GREAT COMBINATION OFFER

We Will Furnish the "TWICE-A-WEEK" Issue of the

Louis Globe-Democrat

—With—

THE UNION

—For—

Both Papers, one year, only $1.50.

he St. Louis Globe Democrat should not be classed with the many cheap ly papers. It is a high-grade Semi-Weekly, eight or more pages, every day and Friday. It is beyond all comparison the biggest, best and cheapest nal News and Home Journal published in the United States. It is strictly ıblican in Politics but is above all

A Great Modern Newspaper.

. is not made up indiscriminately from the Daily issue. It is care d with special reference to the needs of the Farmer, the Merchant an ssional man who desires to keep thoroughly posted without sparing to read a large Daily Paper. It also contains a great variety of well sele ıng matter, making it invaluable to every member of the family.

This Liberal Clubbing Offer

ɔen to all old or new subscribers, but may be withdrawn at any time, and w t receive the cash with order. Address

THE UNION,
Clanton, Ala.

Ben M. Jacobs & Bros.,

Furniture and Rugs.

—SOLE AGENTS—

ıobe-Wernicke Elastic Book Cases and Filing Cabinets.

Catalogue for the asking.

ɪɪ First Ave., BIRMINGHAM, ALA

DISPATCH PRINTING CO.

Blank Book Makers and Lithographers.

County and Office Supplies a Specialty.

ısk for Estimates.

113-2119 Morris Ave., BIRMINGHAM, AL

Farmers' Mutual Insurance Associatio

OF ALABAMA.

CHARTERED BY SPECIAL ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE

By the People and for the People.

Chilton County Branch

Organized February 3, 1900.

W. M. WILSON, President.

WALLACE C. EDLER, Sec'y.-Treas.

INSURES Farmers' dwellings, outbuildings and conte and live stock against loss by fire, wind and lightni The cheapest, safest and most sensible method of ins ance known to man

Average Yearly Cost for Five and a half Years 43-100 of 1 per cen

Full particulars furnished upon application to WALLACE C. EDLER, Clanton, Al

PAUL CALAME,

205 21st Street

Birmingham, Ala.

Practical Watchmak and Optician

Eyes Correctly Fitted

Mail orders promptly fille

DO YOU WANT

Letterheads, Noteheads, Billheads, Envelopes,

OR ANYTHING ELSE PRINTED?

Then Call at

THE UNION OFFICE

and See Fine Work at Low Prices.

500 Noteheads
500 Envelopes
All For $2.00

Good Work on Good Material, done on Good Machine
Don't forget! THE UNION, Clanton, Alabama.

ADVERTISE IN

Your Home Paper

FOR GOOD RESULTS.

Days in th

Adventures with After

oon after the close of the Civil War umber of troops of the Fou alry were sent out to the diff ng the Rio Grande. These usiness was to watch Indians ould cross over from Mexico horses. The Indians seldom ed ranches; that would not l business. The men living nches, if not driven off uld in the course of time gather other bunch of horses for the ans to steal. Our troop and were sent to Camp Verde, Tex was one of the frontier pos about all the country west as still out of doors. We ting Indians as soon as we here. There were a good ma ttlers east of us and several sm owns. Kerrville and Bandera w he nearest ones. They are probab arger towns now.

The citizens were continually los horses and we were kept busy hunt them. The greatest drawback to inding them was due to the fact th these men did not report their los soon enough, and about the time would be told of it the Indians wo be safe in Mexico. There was no rangement now under which we co follow Indians to Mexico, and Mexican troops could follow the across to our side of the line if th wanted to do so. They ran them o to us, then quit, while we have of followed them 150 miles into Mexi
I have been as far down as that them myself while in the Fourth C alry. We had no such arrangem when we first went across, and there been any civil government
Mexico then our presence over th would have been the cause of an tended diplomatic correspondence tween Mexico and Washington to plain what we were doing over th but at this time there was no civil g ernment in Mexico, or rather th were two so-called governments.
Juarez was at the head of one,
Emperor Maximilian of the ot and they were too busy just now ing to keep out of each other's way pay any attention to us.

An old gentleman who had arra near Kerrville lost a bunch of ho and told us about it. We followed the Indians, and crossing the Grande a few hours after them, into their camp at night when thought they were safe at home.
got back all the horses, the Ind making their escape on foot, all cept a few that came in contact our pistol balls; they stayed w they were.

These Indians were Lipans Kickapoos. They had originally longed in Texas, but had emig to Mexico and would now come on foot, then ride back on horses, sell them to the Mexicans come and get more. We returned horses to where they belonged short time after Mr. Crawford, owner, paid us another visit. He found us more Indians, but they not taken his horses this time.
had been west of this hunting cattle and had seen a bunch dians, how many he did not he had not stopped long enou count them.

About a dozen of us under co of our First Lieutenant, a Brev jor, were sent out with Crawf help him count those Indians.
us up through Bandera Pass, miles south of the post, then west. Had he kept on west far we would not have needed him guide. Edwards county was ou and we had been all over it After going west a while he north again and late in the af we rode past a chain of hills.
were off to our right, and I when passing one of them what like a small cave up in the side hill, twenty feet above its base.
ford saw it, and riding over his horse and examined the There certainly could not be in that cave, I thought; not mo a dozen, anyhow. It was abo feet wide and hardly that high entrance. After looking at the or rocks that lay on the ground
Crawford climbed up to th
The Major had stopped the
and now called out:

"What have you got there, M ford?"

"I think there is a b'ar in th sir."

"Let him stay in there th come on. I want to make soon as I can now."

Crawford mounted and came us, and the major asked hi had meant to crawl into after a bear?

"No, sir; not all the way in wanted to find out if he was not."

"Well, if he had been th would have found it out pr quick."

I nearly choked myself keep from laughing. I rode hind the major, and it would laugh. This Mr. Crawford riosity. He was about 60 and rode with his stirrups that his knees were shoved up to his chin, and in riding forward in the saddle som English hunters are repre newspaper cuts as doing, b hunter or any one else co
the hounds riding as he did not, at least.

We were taught to ride w straps long enough to allo

TION OFER

-WEEK" Issue

pe-Democrat

NION

ar, only $1.50.

e classed with the many cheap eight or more pages, ever the biggest, best and cheape the United States. It is strict Newspaper.

Daily issue. It is care Farmer, the Merchant an y posted without sparing a great variety of well sele mber of the family.

ng Offer

withdrawn at any time, and w

UNION,
Clanton, Ala.

& Bros., Rugs.

Book Cases an ets.

GHAM, ALA

ITING CO.

Lithographers.
des a Specialty.

BIRMINGHAM. AL

nce Associatio
MA.
F THE LEGISLATURE
the People.
Branch
y 3, 1900.
LACE C. EDLER,
Sec'y.-Treas.

tbuildings and conten
re, wind and lightning
ensible method of insu

00 of 1 per cent
lication to EDLER, Clanton, Al

actical Watchmake
d Optician

Eyes Correctly
Fitted

l orders promptly fille

WANT

otehead, velopes,
E PRINTED?
OFFICE
t Low Prices.
For $2.00
re on Good Machine
Clanton, Alabama.

IN

e Paper
RESULTS.

Days in the Saddle.

Adventures with a Troop of Cavalry After Indians.

Soon after the close of the Civil War number of troops of the Fourth were sent out to the different on the Rio Grande. Their prin- business was to watch Indians, would cross over from Mexico to horses. The Indians seldom de- yed ranches; that would not be d business. The men living on the nches, if not driven off or killed, uld in the course of time gather up other bunch of horses for the In- ns to steal. Our troop and one r were sent to Camp Verde, Texas, h was one of the frontier posts about all the country west of as still out of doors. We began ting Indians as soon as we had t here. There were a good many ttlers east of us and several small owns. Kerrville and Bandera were the nearest ones. They are probably larger towns now.

The citizens were continually losing horses and we were kept busy hunting them. The greatest drawback to our finding them was due to the fact that these men did not report their losses soon enough, and about the time we would be told of it the Indians would be safe in Mexico. There was an arrangement now under which we could follow Indians to Mexico, and the Mexican troops could follow them across to our side of the line if they wanted to do so. They ran them over to us, then quit, while we have often followed them 150 miles into Mexico. I have been as far down as that after them myself while in the Fourth Cavalry. We had no such arrangement when we first went across, and had there been any civil government in Mexico then our presence over there would have been the cause of an extended diplomatic correspondence between Mexico and Washington to explain what we were doing over there, but at this time there was no civil government in Mexico, or rather there were two so-called governments. Gen. Juarez was at the head of one, the Emperor Maximilian had the other, and they were too busy just now trying to keep out of each other's way to pay any attention to us.

An old gentleman who had a ranch near Kerrville lost a bunch of horses and told us about it. We followed up the Indians, and crossing the Rio Grande a few hours after them, ran into their camp at night when they thought they were safe at home. We got back all the horses, the Indians making their escape on foot, all except a few that came in contact with our pistol balls; they stayed where they were.

These Indians were Lipans and Kickapoos. They had originally belonged in Texas, but had emigrated to Mexico and would now come over on foot, then ride back on stolen horses, sell them to the Mexicans and come and get more. We returned the horses to where they belonged and a short time after Mr. Crawford, their owner, paid us another visit. He had found us more Indians, but they had not taken his horses this time. He had been west of this hunting up his cattle and had seen a bunch of Indians, how many he did not know; he had not stopped long enough to count them.

About a dozen of us under command of our First Lieutenant, a Brevet Major, were sent out with Crawford to help him count those Indians. He led us up through Bandera Pass, a few miles south of the post, then turned west. Had he kept on west far enough we would not have needed him for a guide. Edwards county was out here, and we had been all over it lately. After going west a while he turned north again and late in the afternoon we rode past a chain of hills. They were off to our right, and I noticed when passing one of them what looked like a small cave up in the side of the hill, twenty feet above its base. Crawford saw it, and riding over got off his horse and examined the ground. There certainly could not be Indians in that cave, I thought; not more than a dozen, anyhow. It was about two feet wide and hardly that high at the entrance. After looking at the ground or rocks that lay on the ground rather, Crawford climbed up to the cave. The Major had stopped the column, and now called out:

"What have you got there, Mr. Crawford?"

"I think there is a b'ar in that cave, sir."

"Let him stay in there then, and come on. I want to make camp as soon as I can now."

Crawford mounted and came over to us, and the major asked him if he had meant to crawl into that cave after a bear?

"No, sir; not all the way in. I only wanted to find out if he was thar or not."

"Well, if he had been there, you would have found it out pretty —— quick."

I nearly choked myself trying to keep from laughing. I rode just behind the major, and it would not do to laugh. This Mr. Crawford was a curiosity. He was about 60 years old and rode with his stirrups so short that his knees were shoved half way up to his chin, and in riding he leaned forward in the saddle something as English hunters are represented in newspaper cuts as doing, but no fox hunter or any one else could follow the hounds riding as he did. I could not, at least.

We were taught to ride with stirrup straps long enough to allow our legs to extend their full length and be erect in the saddle. Had we leaned forward, as he did, an officer's sword across our backs would have straightened us up. Crawford carried a Henry rifle on the saddle in front of him and lugged around two Colt's pistols day and night. He slept with them on. We had to do that ourselves at times, but unless I was told to keep mine on it came off promptly when I lay down. I could get it quickly enough if I needed it.

He had been an Indian fighter all his life, or said he had, and as he found us no Indians this trip, and never made another one with us I will have to take his word for it, but from what I saw of him afterward, if I were an Indian he would be the man I should want to follow me. I would not expect to have to fight him oftener than twice a day.

We went into camp more than half a mile beyond the cave, and as soon as our horses were staked out I went to Crawford and asked him if he would go and examine that cave with me. No, he did not care to walk that far.

"It is only half a mile," I said.

"Yes, but it is another half mile back, and I ain't used to walking. You may go down and get that bear if you want him."

"I want him of course, if he is there."

"Oh, he is there all right. I saw his tracks there."

I went to the major and asked permission to hunt the bear.

"Yes," he told me, "hunt him, but don't crawl into that cave after him, as Mr. Crawford was going to do."

I had no idea of doing that. I did not want bear quite so badly as that, and I don't think that Crawford had ever meant to crawl into it, either. He was not exactly a fool.

On my way to the cave I began to study plans to get him out of it if he was in it, without going in and dragging him out. I first thought to climb up there, then give him a shot or two into, but I dismissed that plan. I might kill him if I did and would not know it. I was not going in to see. According to some authorities on bears, it takes a man and a gun half a day to kill one. Sometimes it does. I have followed one with a rifle a half day, then did not kill him. I don't know that I ever wounded him, though I shot at him often enough. And again I have killed one in less than two minutes with a pistol. It depends a good deal on where you hit the bear how many shots it takes to kill him.

I got down in front of the cave and examined the ground for bear signs, but found none. The ground, what little there was of it that was not covered with loose rocks, was hard yellow clay—an ox team passing over it would hardly leave a sign.

Gathering up a lot of dry brush, weeds and leaves I piled them in front of the cave, set them on fire, and going off a few feet to one side waited for the bear or bears to come out. I had a Spencer carbine and a Colt's pistol, and I though that I could stop all the bears that might be in there. The wind drove the smoke right into the cave, the fire burned out, but no bear made his appearance. There would be no danger in going into that cave now, and I tried it, but as there was too much smoke in it I had to crawl out. I went back to camp and Crawford wanted to know if I had seen the bear.

"No, sir, there is none there, nor has there been any lately."

"Oh, yes, there has been;" he had [illegible]

"You could not see a sign there with a microscope. The ground is too hard."

"There might be plenty of signs there that an old hunter could see, and you could not. You have not been in this country long."

"Yes, I know; but we have men in this troop that have been, some of them twenty years out on the frontier. I myself have been pretty well over the Northwest, and have hunted with Sioux Indians. They know something about signs, don't they? We are not all tenderfeet, if we were born and raised in the big cities."

"Yes, maybe so, but there has been a b'ar up thar."

"Well, as the Major told you, we will let him stay up there. I can't find him."

We started again early next morning to hunt those Indians of Crawford's, and soon after breaking camp it began to rain and kept on raining all forenoon. The Major went into camp as soon as he could find grass and wood. We did not need to look for water. We had all we wanted of that and some more.

The timber here was cypress, and there was a lot of blocks of it that had been cut to make shingles out of which had been left; Indians had probably interrupted the shingle making before it had got well started. That had been some years ago, "before the war," probably, to use Crawford's favorite expression when giving the date of his numerous fights with Indians. We tried to start a cook fire with these blocks but they were wet and would not burn, only smoke.

I got a liberal dose of this smoke and a small dose of cypress smoke a cure. Then I hunted up something that would burn more and smoke and found a lot of dead cedars, but took hard work to get wood off oar, eight 20.00.

ne to let the mp or ure on it, mp puller
m could be

A farm hand
06.

-Fresh milch me not to give gallons of milk
M. J. Barrett,
Thorsby, Ala.

ALE OR RENT!

or sale, or to rent.
o, three and four rms; two miles north son. Call on or ad-

J. C. DUBOSE,
Jemison, Ala.

on's Magazine
crease in Price

ing with the February (1906) our Magazine will be called N'S MAGAZINE. It will have omer cover. Several new fea- ill be added. The price at book- and newsstands will be 15 cents. just to our present subscribers, ve decided to receive renewals w subscriptions at $1.00 a year up rch 31st, 1906. After that the sub- tion price will be $1.50 per year. is is a golden opportunity for those are not within easy reach of news- ds. If you have never seen the gazine, ask for sample copy, mention this paper and address,
TOM WATSON'S MAGAZINE,
121 West 42d St., New York City.

60 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

We Club With
New York World
THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION.
The English Language is Spoken
mr, season now at hand le paper to you will be Thrice-a-week world, ou more at the price aper published anyreat events. We s and other are occurring
The Thriceevery other the news, told.
is fair in get the r you are that is ays has always uthor.
lishes paper ntion are D'S
1.00
rs.
d
).

Store Your Cotton
WITH MULLINS & DOWN
Planters Warehouse
Clanton, - Alabam
Robidoux Scales. Best in the World.

Wouldn't You Like
BETTER WHISKIES FOR LESS MONEY?
than the kind youvl been getting? Then send your order to us
THE BIG MAIL ORDER HOUSE
The house that sells nothing but the purest goods and guarantees every article it sells. If it's drugs or whiskies you want
WE CUT THE PRICE.

	Our Price.	Regular Price
Shehan's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50	75
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60	1 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65	1 00
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75	1 00
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75	1 00
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	1 25
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00	1 50
Stewart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	2 00
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84	1 50
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1 50
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1 50
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1 50
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00	1 50
Wilson Whiskey	85	1 50
J. M. Atherton bottled in bond	1 00	1 50
Mammoth Cave bottled in bond	1 25	1 75
Old Jordon bottled in bond	1 50	2 00
Green River, the whiskey without a headache	1 00	1 25
Old Shades Mountain Corn	50	75
Old Mountain Due Corn	75	1 00
Old Lincoln County	65	1 00
Old Holland Gin	50	75
Old Crown Gin	75	1 00
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	75
California Sherry or Port	50	75

Mellow Old Liquors and Wines by the Gallon in Jugs.

	Per Gallon		Per Gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.00
Old Mountain Due	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.50
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.00
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club	3.40
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County	2.50
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.00
Old California Port or Sherry	1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.00

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY,
The Big Cut Rate Drug Store
2012 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St. THE BIG STORE, Cor. Ave 7th St.
—Is at The Head of The Procession.—
Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Shoes
FURNITURE,
COFFINS AND BURIAL NECESSITIES.
W. I. MULLINS,
Clanton, - Alabam

The Bank Saloon
Calera, Alabama.
Has the finest stock of Whiskies, Wines and Cigars in Central Alabama. Rye Whiskey, by the gallon, from $2.25 to $3.75. All good, but some better than others. Corn Whiskey $2.25 to $3.50 per gallon. Express charges prepaid on all orders of one gallon and upward, where cash accompanies the order, as these prices are absolutely "rock bottom."
XX Rye,pure,.....$2.25 per gallon
AAAA Rye, good,..... 3.75 per gallon
Frisco Rye, fine,..... 3.75 per gallon
Jack Daniel No. 6 finest. 3.75 per gallon
A. Stein, Proprietor

Downs & Littlejohn
Clanton, Alabama.
General Merchandise, Corn, Hay, etc.
SHOES
The most for the money in town. Come and see and we will do you good. :-: :-: :-: :-:

...S AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

Circuit Court.
...t Term—Third Monday in May.
... Term—Fourth Monday in No...
...—S. L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
...itor—W. B. Bowling, Dadeville.
...—Sam W. Collins.

Chancery Court.
... Term—Second Monday in ...
... Term—Second Monday in Sept...
...cellor—Hon. W. W. Whitesides.
...ister—Mrs. S. A. Stewart. Clan...

County Court.
...t Monday in each month.

Commissioners' Court.
...ond Monday February, first Mon... April, first Monday June, second ...y July, second Monday August, ...Monday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.
...ge of Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
...easurer—W. T. Callen.
...eriff—J. M. Morgan.
...iciter—W. M. Adams.
...x Assessor—L. B. Pounds.
...x Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.
...st District—W. H. Conway.
...cond District—Alex Glasscock.
...rd District—R. P. Kendrick.
...urth District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.
...of. J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor.
...F. R. Dahl, Calera.

State Senator.
...on. W. R. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.
...stors and clerks are cordially asked ...o send the editor any news regarding ...their churches which they would ...e published. Also if there are any ...rs in these notices please send cor...ions.

MISSIONARY BAPTISTS.
...eth-Salem—Rev. J. E. Moore; 3rd ...day. E. B. Popwell, clerk, Billings... R. F. D. No. 1.

...lanton—Rev. A. C. Swindall, 1st ... 3rd Sundays. W. I. Mullins, clerk.

...hestnut Creek—Rev. T. J. Deason, ... Sunday. H. A. Harris, clerk.

...Liberty Hill—Rev. S. Smitherman ... Sunday. W. M. Wood, clerk.

...Macedonia—Rev. G. W. Freeman ... Sunday. H. H. Armstrong, clerk.

...New Salem—Rev. S. Smitherman ... Sunday. W. M. Pierce, clerk.

...Poplar Springs—Rev. A. L. Foshee ... Sunday. J. J. McDowell, clerk.

...Union Point—Rev. A. L. Foshee, ...nday. J. N. Miner, clerk, Clanton.

...Collins Chapel—Rev. J. H. Thomas ... Sunday. J. W. Littleton, clerk.

...Union Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas ...d Sunday. R. S. Chandler, clerk.

...Pleasant Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas ... Sunday. T. J. Headley, clerk.

...Mars Hill—Rev. J. H. Thomas, ...nday. G. W. Gothard, clerk.

...Rocky Mount M. E. Church—Rev. ...r. Carroll, pastor, 2nd Sunday. Ser...vice every 2nd and 4th Sunday ...rnoons. Prayer meeting every We...sday night.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.
Masonic.
...Clanton R. A. Chapter, No. 11... ...ird Saturday, Clanton.

...Amande Lodge, A. F. and A. M., ...0—Fourth Saturday, Cooper.

...Clanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., ...3—First Saturday, Clanton.

...Century Lodge, A. F. and A. M., ...7—First Saturday, Billingsley.

...Bozeman Lodge, A. F. and A. ...o. 534—Saturday on or before ...oon, Marbury.

...Jemison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., ...1—Saturday on or before full m... ...mison.

...Stanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., ...3—Tuesday on or before full m... ...anton.

I. O. O. F.
...Jemison Lodge—First and third ...days.

...Clanton Lodge, No. 304—Second ...urth Saturdays.

Woodmen of the World.
...Black Jack Camp, No. 190—First ...ird Mondays.

I. O. H. M.
...Geronemo Tribe, No. 90—First ...ird Mondays sleep. Visiting c... ...rdially invited. H. B. Langston ...R.; J. H. Patton, Sachem.

L. M. B. A.
...Eureka Lodge, of Thorsby—Se... ...d fourth Saturdays.

r Cotton

DOWN

arehouse

Alabam

st in the World.

You Like

LESS MONEY?

Then send your order

DER HOUSE

he purest goods and gua
s drugs or whiskies yo

PRICE,

	Our Price.	Regular Pri
	75	1 00
	75	1 00
	75	1 00
	50	75
	60	1 00
	65	1 00
	75	1 00
	75	1 00
	85	1 25
	1 00	1 50
	1 25	2 00
	84	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	85	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 25	1 75
	1 50	2 00
ache	1 00	1 25
	50	75
	75	1 00
	65	1 00
	50	75
	75	1 00
	50	75
	50	75

by the Gallon in Jugs.

	Per Gallo
Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.5
Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.5
. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.5
Old Style Country Club	3.5
Old Lincoln County	2.5
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.0
t. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.0

COMPANY,

Drug Store

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

STORE, Cor. Ave 7th S

Processions.

g, Hats, Shoe

TURE,

AL NECESSITIES.

LLINS,

Alabam

Saloon

abama.

Whiskies, Wines
Alabama. Rye
n, from $2.25 to
some better than $2.25 to $3.50 per es prepaid on all
d upward, where ler, as these prices ottom."

$2.25 per gallon
3.75 per gallon
3.75 per gallon
3.75 per gallon

, Proprieto

Littlejohn

abama.

Corn, Hay, etc.

ES

town. Come and

TS AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

Circuit Court.

ing Term—Third Monday in May.
Term—Fourth Monday in No
er.
ge—S. L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
ditor—W. B. Bowling, Dadeville.
rk—Sam W. Collins.

Chancery Court.

ing Term—Second Monday in
.
Term—Second Monday in Sep
er.
ncellor—Hon. W. W. Whitesides.
gister—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan

County Court.

st Monday in each month.

Commissioners' Court.

cond Monday February, first Mon
April, first Monday June, second day July, second Monday August,
Monday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

dge of Probate—L. H. Reynolds
easurer—W. T. Callen.
eriff—J. M. Morgan.
liciter—W. M. Adams.
x Assessor—L. B. Pounds.
x Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.

rst District—W. H. Conway.
cond District—Alex Glasscock.
ird District—R. P. Kendrick.
urth District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.

rof. J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyer.

. P. R. Dahl, Calera.

State Senator.

on. W. R. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.

astors and clerks are cordially ask o send the editor any news regard their churches which they would published. Also if there are any rs in these notices please send cor ions.

MISSIONARY BAPTISTS.

eth-Salem—Rev. J. E. Moore, 3rd day. E. B. Popwell, clerk, Billings
R. F. D. No. 1.

Clanton—Rev. A. C. Swindall, 1st
3rd Sundays. W. I. Mullins, clerk.

Chestnut Creek—Rev. T. J. Deason,
Sunday. H. A. Harris, clerk.

Liberty Hill—Rev. S. Smitherman,
Sunday. W. M. Wood, clerk.

Macedonia—Rev. G. W. Freeman,
Sunday. H. H. Armstrong, clerk.

New Salem—Rev. S. Smitherman,
Sunday. W. M. Pierce, clerk.

Poplar Springs—Rev. A. L. Foshee,
Sunday. J. J. McDowell, clerk.

Union Point—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 3rd
nday. J. N. Miner, clerk, Clanton.

Collins Chapel—Rev. J. H. Thomas
Sunday. J. W. Littleton, clerk.
Union Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas,
Sunday. R. S. Chandler, clerk.
Pleasant Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas,
Sunday. T. J. Headley, clerk.
Mari Hill—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 1st
nday. G. W. Gothard, clerk.

Rocky Mount M. E. Church—Rev.
. Carroll, pastor, 2nd Sunday. Song
rvice every 2nd and 4th Sunday af noons. Prayer meeting every Wed
sday night.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

Masonic.

Clanton R. A. Chapter, No. 118—ird Saturday, Clanton.

Amande Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
0—Fourth Saturday, Cooper.

Clanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
3—First Saturday, Clanton.

Century Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
7—First Saturday, Billingsley.

Bozeman Lodge, A. F. and A. M., o. 534—Saturday on or before full oon, Marbury.

Jemison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
1—Saturday on or before full moon,
mison.

Stanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
3—Tuesday on or before full moon,
anton.

I. O. O. F.

Jemison Lodge—First and third Sat days.

Clanton Lodge, No. 304—Second and urth Saturdays.

Woodmen of the World.

Black Jack Camp, No. 190—First and ird Mondays.

I. O. R. M.

Geronermo Tribe, No. 90—First and ird Mondays sleep. Visiting chiefs rdially invited. E. B. Langston, C.
R.; J. H. Patton, Sachem.

L. M. P. A.

Eureka Lodge, of Thorsby—Second
d fourth Saturdays.

CLANTON COTTON MARKET.

Total receipts to Jan. 3, '05, 5,915.
Price same date, 11 1-4.
Receipts same period, 1904, 6,147.
Price same date, 6 1-2c.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Lee Vickers returned Saturday from his visit to Tallapoosa county. He looks well and says he "had a good time and visited some mighty good people." Lee is a straight, staunch republican and gives good work for the cause. He brought in a bunch of a dozen or so new subscribers for THE UNION. "Go thou and do likewise."

A. Eiland was in Clanton Saturday, hale and hearty, and we were glad to say "Howdy."

County Secretary Dennis will address the Mt. Pleasant Union Saturday night (Jnuary 6th) on diversified farming and fertilizers.

W. F. Jones and son Hardy were pleasant visitors Thursday.

Prof. W. M. Sorrell, of Oak Grove school, was a welcome caller Saturday.

M. Miller was a pleasant visitor Saturday.

John Thames was a welcome caller Saturday.

S. Driver paid us a call Saturday, which we highly appreciated.

A. L. Robinson was a pleasant visitor Saturday.

Z. S. Avery and son Jesse were in Clanton Monday. Zack has some mighty good ideas about the Mineral Land Company, and their land values.

Calvin Dennis brought us in a jar of fine Japanese cane syrup Monday. Experts such as Newt Kicker pronounce it "the best ever."

T. A. Lefstad, the rural carrier on Thorsby route No. 1, was in Clanton Monday taking advantage of the holiday "Uncle Sam" gave the carriers.

G. W. Tunnell was a pleasant visitor Monday.

J. H. Cox was a welcome caller Monday. Mr. Cox is a member of that sterling family of Cox's that we got from Chambers county a few years ago.

Albert and George Gore were in Clanton Tuesday.

Judge Reynolds and Robert J. Williams went to Montgomery Wednesday to attend the meeting of the State S. C. A., where they represent Chilton county.

Our colored population had a celebration Monday, the anniversary of the emancipation of their race from the bonds of slavery. The Rev. B. F. Rollins, of Clanton, who got up the meeting, deserves credit for his work. There were many colored visitors from other towns, and everything passed off in good order.

Some hoodlums cut up the tent of Photographer Lyon the other night. It is a pity that our criminal officers can't bring these offenders to justice. They are put there for such purpose.

John W. Hawkins, P. M. at Clear Creek, is in Birmingham on a business trip.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

F. H. Brown and Miss Mae Abney. Ernest Milstead and Miss Ruby Skaggs. David Wilson and Miss Lee Robinson. E. F. Sims and Mrs. Pearl Payne. D. W. Vines and Miss Belle Jones. J. H. Busbey and Miss Mayme Blankenship. E. H. Devaughan and Miss Dora A. Wright.

COLORED.

Everett Roberts and Mary Lee Shelton. James DeJarnette and Mattie Houser. Lum Hall and Eliza Belle Powell.

COUNTY COURT.

The County Court held the regular session on Monday, Judge Reynolds presiding. The following cases were disposed of: B. F. Foshee, assault and battery, discharged; Ann Speigner, trespass, continued; Munroe Cleckler, abusive language, waived to grand jury; Dan Tillery, same, continued; Mark Hosey, two cases assault and battery and abusive language, waived; Dutch Headley, two cases of abusive language, waived; Bob Middlebrooks, two cases, assault and battery and concealed weapons, and Charlie Middlebrooks, assault and battery, both waived; Monroe J. Cleckler, assault with weapon, found guilty and sentenced to three months hard labor.

NOTICE.

Cooper, Ala., Dec. 30, 1905.

The books and accounts of A. G. Clark & Son are in my hands for collection. All parties interested will please come at once and settle and save time and trouble.

J. J. M'DOWELL,
tf Justice Peace, Beat 10.

NOTICE.

I hereby appoint the 4th Saturday in each month as my regular day for hearing civil causes at my residence in beat 3. Chilton Co. Deeds, mortgages and papers of all kinds carefully and legibly made out.

J. A. CADDELL,
Notary Public & Ex-off. J. P.
tf

A NEW DISCOVERY.

A great improvement, the Dixie Liver Regulator, does not gripe nor sicken, and cures Constipation, Heartburn, Vertigo, Dyspepsia, Kidney troubles and Lazy Liver. For sale by all Dealers and by Shelby Drug Co., Calera, Ala. tf

Alabama Gleanings.

Holt Found Murdered.

Florence, Ala.—Sheriff O. B. Hill received a telephone message Saturday morning from Sharp's Mills, near the Tennessee state line, asking for blood hounds to trace the murderer of Ben Holt, a wood chopper. Holt left home yesterday morning and when evening came failed to return.

As night wore on and he still did not come his wife became alarmed and this morning a searching party went to look for him. Holt was found where he had been at work the day before with a gunshot wound which had caused his death. Holt had no enemies so far as known and no clue was left by his murderer or murderers, which might lead to their detection.

Are To Investigate Certain Offices.

Mobile, Ala.—Much speculation is rife in local republican circles over information to the effect that an inspector will be here in a day or two to investigate charges of interference on the part of two employes of the customs office in the matter of appointing of a man to succeed Postmaster P. D. Barker. The officials named in connection with the investigation are F. F. Conway, special deputy collector, and S. J. Locke, cashier in the office of Collector W. F. Tebbetts, who just now is on his bridal tour. Both men were seen, but neither had anything to give out. Postmaster Barker was also seen and expressed surprise at the report and declined to be interviewed.

Fourth National Buys American National.

The Fourth National Bank of Montgomery has purchased the American National Bank of this city, and in the future the business of the American National Bank will be done at the banking house of the Fourth National Bank on Commerce street.

There will be no change in the officers of the Fouth National bank. President Thomas J. Reynolds, Cashier W. H.Hubbard and Assistant Cashier A. J. Jones will be in charge of the affairs of the Fourth National Bank as they have been in the past.

Montgomery Sues for $40,000.

Montgomery, Ala.—A suit for $40,000 was yesterday filed in the civil division of the city court of Montgomery by City Attorney C. P. McIntyre in behalf of the city council of Montgomery against former City Treasurer R. H. Somerville and his bondsmen, A. A. Wiley, John W. Durr, Sr., and F. M. Billing.

The suit is the result of the failure of the Josiah Morris bank in which the city of Montgomery lost $96,000. The bond of the city treasurer was for $40,000 and for this amount the city sues.

Delegates Named to Rivers Congress.

Birmingham.—Judge Thos. R. Roulhac, president of the Tennessee River Improvement Association, has named the delegates whom the association will send to the National Rivers and Harbors congress, which meets in Washington on January 15th next.

The list, as sent our by Secretary W. E. Royster, is as follows:

TENNESSEE.

Knoxville, J. T. Wilder, G. F. Milton, E. C. Camp; Rockwood, Willard Warner, Jr.; South Pittsburg, Jeptha Bright; Chattanooga, J. A. Patten, Newell Sanders, H. S. Chamberlain, C. W. Olson.

ALABAMA.

Huntsville, R. E. Pettus, Charles P. Lane, —. —. Ward; Decatur, H. A. Skeggs, C. E. Albes; New Decatur, S. S. Blackwell, H. B. Beard; Scottsboro, Virgil Bouldin, S. W. Frazier; Florence, Emmet O'Neal, A. E. Walker, W. M. Campbell; Tuscumbia, Jas. T. Kirk, John Delony; Sheffield, J. C. Harris, Snowden McGaughey, Joseph N. Nathan, L. J. Andrews; Riverton, J. T. McWhorter.

KENTUCKY, INDIANA AND MISSOURI.

Paducah, James Koger, B. Berryman; Evansville, Harry Gilbert; St. Louis, J. E. Hassengale.

His Warlike Pose Cost Two Teeth.

Russellville, Ala.—Tuesday afternoon Jim Thompson and a Mr. Patton went down to the photograph gallery of T. J. Turnell to have their pictures made and were posing in a bravo style when the pistol in the hand of Patton accidentally discharged, and as a result Jim Thompson is minus two teeth and a portion of his lower jaw bone and has a hole in one side of his face.

Given 45 Years.

Chicago.—Dr. Oliver B. Hart, son of a wealthy resident of St. Louis, who two weeks ago pleaded guilty to the murder of Irene Klowkow, 10 years of age, in his residence in Rogers' park lalst October, was sentenced by Judge Barnes in the criminal court to forty-five years in the penitentiary.

President Palma has made a record as a sincere patriot and a safe, level-headed statesman. Instead of harboring narrow prejudice against the United States, he is bound by ties of whose acquaintance he made during friendship to numerous Americans his long residence in this country, and his hope is to steer Cuba in the path of American traditions.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County.
Probate Court, December 22, 1905.
In the Matter of the Estate of E. A. Knight, Deceased.

Letters of administration on the estate of E. A. Knight, deceased, having been granted to the undersigned on the 12th day of December, 1905, by the Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate of said county, notice is hereby given that all persons having claims against said estate are hereby required to present the same within the time alowed by law, or the same will be barred.

W. C. JONES,
12-28-05-3t Administrator.

NOTICE NO. 26306.

Department of the Interior,
Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
December 18, 1905.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Clerk of the Circuit Court at Clanton, Ala., on February 3, 1906, viz: Andrew J. Johnson, homestead entry No. 37392, for the N. 1-2 of N. E. 1-4, N. E. 1-4 of N. W. 1-4, section 27, township 22, range 15 east.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:

Wash Parrish, Monroe Parrish, William Easterling, Benit Easterling, all of Clanton, Ala.

ROBERT BARBER,
12-21-05-6t Register.

COUNTY COURT.

Hold first Monday in each month. All interested will pleased take notice that the court will open at 9:30 a. m. sharp.

L. H. REYNOLDS,
Judge of County Court,
tf Chilton County, Ala.

ABOUT CANDIDATES.

All letters praising any particular candidate by name will have to be paid for at the rate of 1-2 cent per word. The UNION will publish free all matter relating to the general welfare and prospects of the party of the People. tf

REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE CALL.

Clanton, Ala., Dec. 18, 1905.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Republican party of Chilton county is hereby called to be held in Clanton at 11 a. m. on January 6, 1906, to attend to all business that may come before it. A full attendance of the members is requested, as matters of importance will come up. All true republicans are invited to come and be with us.

W. R. JACKSON,
Chairman.

A. C. SMITH, Secretary.
tf

FOR SALE!

80 acres, 1 1-4 miles east of Cane Creek church, very strong land, lies well, about 20 acres cleared, fair tenant house and fine well of water. Price $600.00, terms easy.

ALSO

66 acres, with water power grist mill in running order, good custom, house and fine well of water, 3 miles east of Clanton—about 20 acres cleared, lies well. Price $700.00. Terms easy. Apply to office of

tf. THE UNION.

NOTICE!

Bring your Cross-Ties, Chickens, Eggs and Money and get bargains in General Merchandise from

A. A. JACKSON,
tf. Lomax, Ala.

FOR SALE!

Full bred Holstein Milch Cow (6 years old), will come in fresh in November. Her milk record is 3 1-2 to 4 gallons per day. Address,

W. L. McDowell,
tf. Clanton, Route 2.

COTTON SEED

I am now ready to buy cotton seed at my new office just east of Johnson's Drug Store. Also cotton seed meal and hulls and feed stuffs for sale. Come and see me and I will do you good.

FRANK GOODGAME
tf Clanton, Ala.

NOTICE.

Blank Deeds, Mortgages, and all official forms for Justices of the Peace, etc., for sale at The Union Office. Only best approved forms are used. Come in and give us your order. tf.

Come and Be Pleased.

PRICES AND TERMS upon which we are selling the most beautiful and attractive goods of the season will certainly please and surprise you.

The styles on which fashion has stamped her approval for the coming season are now shown with newest materials.

A Full line of Star Brand Shoes.

Men's and boys' Clothing.

Full line of Gents' Furnishing Goods.

Ladies' and children's Jackets, Skirts and Ready-to-Wear Hats.

Anything you want in Dress Goods, Hardware, Saddlery and Florence Wagons.

J. C. JONES,

Clanton, Alabama.

Pure Water Prevents Fevers.

DRILLED WELLS FURNISH PURE WATER

We guarantee water or no charge made. Estimates given. Address

I. E. SARBER CO.

Thorsby, Alabama.

ADVERTISE IN

Your Home Paper

FOR GOOD RESULTS.

What Japanese Loans Are Based On

By Thomas F. Millard.

THE loans that have been issued are based upon two things: the resources of the country, upon which is founded the ability of the government to pay, and the security offered for regular payment of the interest. The two foreign loans already placed have their interest secured by the customs receipts and the tobacco monopoly, both assets liable to fluctuation. But on their face bankers in London and New York have apparently thought them sufficient guarantee for the amount of interest involved, the security for the principal being the national credit. Would they have been accepted as a guarantee, however, for ten times the amount? Most certainly not. Therefore, had 10 times the amount had been offered, instead of it all being taken, none would have been taken at all. Again, it must be remembered that banks have not been the real takers of these loans. The bulk of the money has come from individual Englishmen and Americans, who in view of reputable banking firms underwriting the loans, accepted them as a good investment at the market price, which nets about eight percent. It is amusing to see the turn which the pro-Japanese propaganda, both east and west, has given the acceptance of these two loans in England and America. It is everywhere in Japan hailed by the propaganda as evidence that the British and American governments are backing the Japanese government in the war, and that these two wealthy countries stand ready to continue to provide the funds. It is hardly necessary to point out the error of this belief. People in America and England invest in the Japanese loans just as they do in Galveston municipal bonds, on purely business principles. As long as they think the security is good they will continue to invest, but the moment they begin to suspect the security offered they will not have them at all except at a discount which compensates them for the risk taken. The Japanese statesmen who are financing the war undoubtedly know this, but the masses of the people are encouraged to entertain some very elusive hopes and expectations.—From "The Financial Prospects of Japan."

Large Families Desirable

By A. S. Williamson.

IT IS dangerous to deduce certain conclusions from isolated examples. Statistics covering years, based on millions of observations, are often worthless. This is true in the observation of inanimate things, and to a far greater degree bears on the statistics of such a complex organization as a man, and still more on the complex structure of society. But even allowing the comparative worthlessness of statistics in this matter, it is a matter of personal observation and of general knowledge that from the class of cultured parents come the best children, and that from the class of ignorant and vicious parents come the criminals and vicious. In view of this, are only the ignorant to produce children and the cultured to spend their time in literary, artistic, and scientific pursuits? This is the question which Mr. Roosevelt would like to see answered by the best people raising children—and by the best people is not meant the fashionable or rich exclusively, but those who by their superior intelligence and well-nourished bodies can produce children endowed from birth with intelligence and strength. Of this class of children we cannot have too many. The cultured will never overrun the world, while the vicious may and, but for the laws of nature, would. These will always be in the majority. It is too much to be hoped for that a great proportion of the world's population will ever be cultured, but we can raise the proportion of good to bad by having the cultured leave children in such numbers that the good will increase. By this means, and not by the repression of the bad, will we attain this desirable condition of relatively general culture.—Harper's Weekly.

SYD, THE STRENUOUS.

When Syd is six,
  Who now is only five,
No more display of any baby tricks,
  He's going to shed his kilts, as I'm alive,
When Syd is six,

When Syd is six,
  What wonders will arrive!
A really truly nickel watch that ticks;
  A cart and pony, too, for him to drive,
When Syd is six,

When he is six.
  He's going to swim and dive.
And shoot—in fact, my brain is in a fix
  To think of anything he won't contrive
When he is six.

When he is six.
  I hope we shall survive,
I hope we won't be turned to lunatics
  From hearing of the strenuous way he'll strive
When he is six.
  —Rose Mills Powers, in Pilgrim.

THE BELFRY TOWER.

"Tell me a story, please!" begged the little boy.

"Well, go to my desk and bring me that little picture in the gold frame."

So the little boy brought the picture and climbed upon his father's knee, and this was the story he heard:

"This, laddie, is the miniature of your most famous ancestor, your great-great-great grandfather, Sir Roger Templeton. He was a brave and gallant knight, and lived in merry England in the time of good Queen Bess. And when I was a little boy like you, laddie, there was nothing in all the world I liked so well as to listen to the stories of his many valiant deeds.

"And often he would look first at this minature and then at me, and say produly that I had the Templeton nose—the long, aristocratic Templeton nose. Then I would dream of knights and lists and tournaments, and the brave deeds of my ancestors.

"And one day I thought of the belfry tower in the old church where my father preached. I had heard that the ascent was difficult, and that no one had attempted it for a long time. Here at last was a task worthy of a valiant, longnosed Templeton! So instead of golf matting with the boys, I slipped into his study and took from his desk the heavy iron church key, and hurried to the church, which stood on a lonely hill a little out of the village.

"I turned the key in the rusty lock, climbed the gallery stairs and opened the door leading to the belfry. The first two flights of stairs were easily climbed, though the way was dark and dusty, and, oh so dreadfully still!

"Then the stairs ended, and a long ladder led upward into the tower. Some of the rounds were broken, and the whole thing seemed terribly shaky. For a moment I longed to turn back; then I remembered my brave ancestors. I started up the ladder.

"I climbed it safely and found myself in a tiny room just below the belfry. Then came the end of my journey. And, oh, how good it seemed to be out in the clear air and bright sunshine once more! And how tiny the village looked, far, far below.

"Then I saw by the setting sun that I must hurry down if I wished to go, but turned back for just one more look at the big bell, and at that very moment there came a loud crash from below. The treacherous old ladder had fallen, and I was a prisoner in the tower.

"I shouted and called, but no one heard me. The sun went down, and it became quite dark in the belfry. The stars came out, one by one, and still I crouched beside the big bell, hungry and cold and frightened.

"At last, shivering with cold, I crept down to the inty room below the belfry. It was warmer there, and I sobbed myself to sleep, and dreamed that Great-great-great-grandfather Templeton came a-riding on a broom, witch fashion, and carried my away—away—over the treetops.

"Then I awoke in great terror, for the whole tower was alive with sound, and shaking and trembling in a fearful manner.

"The big bell was ringing madly: Boom! boom! boom! All the world seemed full of noise.

"Boom! boom! boom! I clapped my hands to my ears.

"Then it stopped for a moment, and far below, very, very faintly, I heard the cry, 'Boy lost! boy lost! boy lost!' Then boom! boom! boom! went the bell again.

"But at last it stopped, and they heard my cries, and came with lights and a ladder, and took me safely home.

"In my mother's arms I told my story. My father listened quietly, and somehow with his grave eyes upon me, the taking of the church key seemed anything but a knightly deed.

"When I had finished, my father said, very sternly. 'There was one virture, my son, that your noble ancestors valued even more than courage, and that was honor.'"

The little boy gazed long and thoughtfully at the miniature. "Papa," said he, "have I the Templeton nose?"

"No, laddie," said his father. "Your nose is just an every-day-twentieth-century nose, and the most gallant deed you can do tonight is to go straight up-stairs to bed!"—Louise Octavian, in Youth's Companion.

GAME OF INITIALS.

This entertaining game is intended for the older boys and girls. The first thing to do is to write a certain number of questions, all of which are to be read to the players, and answered by them in writing. Only one copy of the questions is necessary, and that is kept by the one who is to act as leader, say, the host or hostess of the evening.

Each player is furnished with a sheet of paper and a pencil, the paper having on it as many numbers as there are questions. If, for example, six questions have been prepared, the numbers from 1 to 6 should be written down the sheet of paper, and the players are to write the answers opposite to those numbers, in order.

The special point in this game, however, is that each player must write his answers only by words beginning with the initials of his name. If there are six players, therefore, there will be six different answers to each question, and the effect, when they are read aloud, will be very amusing.

As an illustration, her are six questions, all of which are supposed to be answered by a player whose initials are R. G. W.:

1. What is your favorite drink? Really Good Water.
2. What is your favorite dance? Rattling Good Waltz.
3. What is your pet vice? Robbing Grocery Wagons.
4. What is your greatest virtue? Reforming Great Wrongs.
5. What do you dread most in the future? Raising Gray Whiskers
6. What do you most hope for in the future? Real Gold Wings.

Remember that each player must use the initials of his own name in answering just as the letters R. G. W. are used here, and the result may be imagined. A certain time should be allowed for writing the answers, and, if desired, a vote may be taken to decide which set is the best, and a prize of some kind awarded accordingly.

THE REAL YOUTH LINCOLN.

A great deal of nonsence has been written about his (Lincoln's) early years, and a grave effort has been made to prove him a youth of exceptional promise, a brilliant scholar, and a prodigy of application and industry. As a matter of fact, he did not begin to develope mentally until he was about eighteen—even in the prime of his life his intellectual processes were not quick—and there is nothing to indicate that he was a particularly industrious boy. Five pedagogues—two in his birthplace, Kentucky, and three in Indiana—share the honor of contributing to his elementary education; but had their pupil been ever so gifted, they could scarcely have discovered it, for his schooling amounted to less than a year in all—about as long as it must have taken some of the minor biographers to collect and record the pointless reminiscenses of his alleged schoolmates.

TRAITS OF BUTCHER BIRD.

There is a strange little bird, about as big as a robin, which nearly every winter brings us. He is generally alone, like a tiny black and gray hawk in many of his ways, but related truly to the gentle vireos and waxwings. He is the northern shrike or butcher bird, and he gets a cruel living by catching mice and little birds, which he hangs on locust thorns, sharp twigs or the points of a wire fence, as his little feet unlike the hawk's are not strong enough to hold his prey.

But he is a handsome fellow, says St. Nicholas, and rarely one may hear a very sweet little song as he sits on the top of some leafless bush, particularly late in the winter. But generally he is silent, like the true birds of prey, or at best gives only a rasping squeal.

Dr. Prinzing, of Berlin, denies that the number of bachelors and old maids is increasing in Europe generally.

THE STORY OF BOB WHITE

FACTS ABOUT AMERICA'S MOST POPULAR GAME BIRD.

Quails Being Rapidly Exterminated, Though They Might Easily Be Preserved—They Are Great Allies of the Farmer—It Would Pay to Raise Them.

A little pamphlet just issued by the Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Biological Survey might properly be entitled "The Story of Bob White." It treats of the quail and was the last official work of Prof. Sylvester D. Judd, an assistant in the bureau who hanged himself a few weeks ago at his country home near Baltimore. Prof. Judd had been in poor health for several months and just before his death had been released from a hospital in Baltimore, after a course of treatment for melancholia.

The story of Bob White is simply told, as becomes the life of a simple member of the quail family. Many interesting facts concerning the habits of the bird, its usefulness to the farmer and its popularity on menu cards are told.

There are seven members of the quail family in the United States. The most beautiful species occur in the Southwest and on the Pacific Coast.

Of the seven species only one, the Bob white (Colinus virginianus), is indigenous of the eastern United States, where it ranges from southern New England to Florida and Texas. The sub-species, the Florida Bob White and the Texas Bob White are recognized by scientists.

Owing to the climatic influences, the birds of Florida and of Texas differ enough to be distinguished as geographic races. But wherever it occurs, the Bob White has the same call and varies little in habits.

The Bob White proper is a handsome bird, but is the plainest of the seven species, with the exception of the cotton top or scaled quail of the deserts of southern Texas and Arizona. The latter is slatey bluish on the upper parts, which are ornamented with scale-like markings, and has a whitish crest.

"The most bizarre and curious of all," said Prof. Judd, "is the Merns quail of the high broken plains and mountain slopes of southwestern Texas, southern New Mexico and Arizona."

It looks not unlike a little guinea hen. It is the gentlest and most unsuspicious of the quail family and is frequently killed with a stick or a stone by persons who encounter it in their walks. The people in the region which it inhabits have given it the name of fool quail on account of this trait.

The Bob White is the most widely distributed and popular game bird in the United States. While it is rapidly being exterminated, its preservation could be secured very easily, for, unlike most wild fowls or animals, it does not vanish with the growth of agriculture, but increases when not molested by hunters.

The Bob White is called a quail in the Northern, Western and Middle States, while in the Southern States it is known as a partridge. Both names were brought to America by English colonists. The name Bob White is from the familiar call note of the bird.

In some of its characteristics the bird differs strikingly from other members of the family. "For example, the crest—a well developed adornment of several closely related American quails—in Bob White is invisible except when the bird is excited."

The common Bob White ranges more or less generally over the eastern half of the United States and southern Ontario, except in the colder mountainous parts, from Maine to Florida, and west to South Dakota, Kansas and Texas. I naddition colonies have been introduced and found to thrive in Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and the Island of Jamaica. The bird has also been found in limited numbers in Cuba, Mexico and Guatemala.

"In the field," said Prof. Judd, "the nuptial call note of the cock bird is an infallible guide to its identity. This familiar challenge, sounding to the sportsmen like 'Bob White,' 'Bob-Bob-White,' and to the farmer like 'more wet' or 'no more wet,' is by no means the only note of the species during the breeding season.

"It was the good fortune of the writer during the last week in June, 1902, to hear the nesting note and other calls. Again and again the cock left his distant perch, where he had been whistling 'Bob White' and, still calling, approached the nest on the banks of a little sluggish briery run between open fields.

"When within fifty yards of his mate he uttered the rally note, so thrilling to the sportsmen in the fall, 'ka-loi-kee,' which the hen often answered with a single clear whistle. Then followed a series of queer responsive 'caterwaulings,' more unbirdlike than those of the yellow breasted chat, suggesting now the call of the cat to its kittens, now the scolding of a caged gray squirrel, now the alarm notes of a mother grouse, blended with the strident cry of the guinea hen.

"As a finale sometimes came a loud, rasping noise, not unlike the effort of a broken voiced whippoorwill."

The call of the hen to her youngsters is invariably "ka-loi-kee," "ka-loi-kee," while the youngsters respond "whoil-kee." At a close range the whistle of the bird loses all its melody and becomes a nasal shriek almost painful to the ear.

As many as forty-two eggs have been found in the nest of a Bob White. The main breeding season for the Bob White in the Northern States is May, June and July, although Prof. Robert Ridgeway, curator of ornithology in the Smithsonian Institution, found a nest of Bob White eggs in southern Illinois in the middle of October.

Another naturalist found a nest filled with eggs in Missouri in January, on which the mother bird was found frozen. Two or three broods have been produced in a season.

There is a tendency among Bob Whites toward local migration. In Virginia and Maryland, particularly, they leave their summer homes on the approach of winter and congregate near the large water courses.

The habit of the bird during the hunting season is to move about most actively and feed in the early morning and late afternoon. The best shooting is to be had the hour before sunset, in the places where the birds have decided to spend the night. They roost on the ground, forming a solid ring, with tails in and heads out.

The Bob White, as an ally of the farmers is chiefly valuable as a destroyer of weed seeds. Prof. Judd made an estimate of what the Bob White would accomplish in this line for the farmers of the two states of Virginia and North Carolina from the beginning of September to the end of April.

He allowed four Bob Whites to each square mile of land, which is a low estimate, and would give 354,820 in the two states. The crop of each bird holds half an ounce of seed and is filled twice a day.

Since at each of the two daily meals weed seeds constitute at least half the contents of the crop, a half ounce daily is thus consumed by each bird, and on this basis the total consumption of seed in the two states covering the period mentioned would amount to 1341 tons. A similar calculation shows that 340 tons of destructive insects would be consumed by the birds in the same period. The Bob White eats the Rocky Mountain locust, the chinch bug, the potato beetle, the cotton boll weevil and cotton worms and army worms.

Prof. Judd estimated that with proper management some farms of from 500 to 1000 acres would yield a better revenue from the raising of Bob Whites for the market than from poultry growing. In North Carolina many farms yield a regular income by this industry.

The shooting rights are leased to sportsmen who pay considerable sums for the privilege. In some places in Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina sportsmen pay from five to twenty-five cents for every bird shot.

Millions of dollars can be realized by the proper management of the quail crop of the United States. No game is so much sought for in the market as quail.

"The writer," says Prof. Judd, "knows of a single dealer in Washington who in 1902 sold 100,000 quail. The present price is $3 to $5 a dozen, yet Audubon tells us that in 1810 the birds could be bought for 12 cents a dozen and in 1851 for 50 cents a dozen."

T. S. Van Dyde, the author says: "Dear little Bob White has brought more rest to the business wearied soul, more new life to tired humanity than nearly all other American game combined." Prof. Judd said that the pursuit of many kinds of game is possible only in the distant wilderness, where traveling is difficult and the exposure incident to the sport may be dangerous to health; but the pursuit of the Bob White belongs to open, accessible country, and is not too severe for men accustomed to a sedentary life.

To thousands of such men quail hunting is the yearly means of restoration and results in a direct benefit to the community, though one not readily computed in money value. At a conservative estimate, between 300,000 and 400,000 sportsmen go out from cities every fall to hunt Bob White, which means a large expenditure of money, much of which goes to farmers who hold shooting land.—New York Sun.

Trumping the Bishop's Card.

Bishop McCabe relates the following story: "Once upon a time I was in a railroad accident. It was one of the only two I ever experienced, and I have traveled more than seven hundred and fifty thousand miles on trains and steamers, three times as far as from here to the moon. A broken wheel threw the train off the track. The car I was in shattered very much. Seated just ahead of me was an elderly woman who was suffering from rheumatism. It was necessary to change cars. I helped her off the car, carried her valise and gave her the support of my arm. Behind us came a noble looking English woman with her husband by her side. She was scolding well for starting on their journey on Friday. 'I told you, James,' she said, 'that something would happen if we should start on Friday.'

"She looked at me with indignation and said: 'Sir, in my opinion, it is a great pity that America was ever discovered at all.'"—Northwestern Christian Advocate.

A Record Summer of Tips.

Last summer has been a record one in Paris for tips. The inference is that more tourists come here than ever before. The porters in all the Paris museums say that they have never had such a prosperous season. They made more out of visitors whose umbrellas and sticks they took charge of than even during the World's Fair of 1900. At the Pantheon tourists who went to see the graves of France's illustrious dead brought in as much as £1 4s daily in tips of pennies or two-pence to the attendants —London Telegraph.

THE PULPIT.

A SCHOLARLY SUNDAY SERMON BY THE REV. EDWARD NILES.

Subject: Godliness in Form.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—The Rev. Edward Niles preached at the White Church Sunday evening from II Timothy iii:5: "Holding a form of godliness, but having denied the power thereof." He said:

That "distance lends enchantment to the view" is true of time as well as space. The older we grow, the more immaculate appear the imagined days of youth. Christian believers are purer in our eyes in proportion to the number of centuries that intervene. Within the covers of every volume of sermons, whether written in one age or another, are the well-nigh certain jeremiads over "these time of extreme worldliness, unequaled love of money, peculiar indifference to spiritual things," followed by laudations of the apostolic age as the golden era of Christianity.

A reconstruction of conditions existing in those New Testament churches from materials afforded us in the epistles, warrant no such assumption. Heresies then were rampant, inconsistent lives numerous, backsliders distressingly frequent. The things of sense made cogent appeal. The husks of the gospel often satisfied to the disregard of its kernel. Paul's description of "the last days" was based upon facts about him. As he penned the sentence of our text, he probably had in mind fellow communicants who held the form of godliness, but denied the power thereof.

Since then outward changes have been many, kingdoms have come and gone, languages have died and been born, church order and ritual been metamorphosed. Human nature is unaffected by time or clime. So the New Testament is not a graveyard, with epitaphs of only antiquarian interest, but is photographic of contemporary heart throbs.

In our Borough of Brooklyn are 156,679 people holding to the Protestant form of godliness. While statistics are unable to figure out how many hold to the Protestant power thereof, if form and power were identical, not one of the buildings where divine worship is being held to-night would have a vacant seat and every theatre and hall would be utilized for overflow meetings.

The original of "deny" has as its root meaning "not to seek." "Holding a form of godliness, they have not sought for its power." The world has much to say about hypocrites. I believe the outcry against them is out of all proportion to their numbers. The conscious hypocrite to-day is a rare bird. I have made frequent hunts or him. Despite the most diligent search, I have seldom found him.

The number of those called hypocrites, who would rightly be catalogued as formalists, is legion. They are not striving to deceive others. They succeed in their striving to deceive themselves. Satisfied with the appurtenances, the trappings of godliness, they inquire no further. Attendants upon the services of the church, members of it, supporters of its outward activities, they fancy themselves to be godly. Branded as Christians, they but feebly apprehend what disrepute they bring upon the name by their inferiority to the real article. Their gullibility is wrongly taken for hypocrisy. They submit to the drudgery of religion to pacify troublesome consciences and impose upon themselves.

An important reason for so many lapses from church membership is because so many become dissatisfied with a form, yet fail to seek the reality, so give up all.

Almost every one in this congregation has a form of godliness. You look good. I find little to criticise in what you do, for there is so little you do on which to base a criticism. The trouble lies in what you do not. You may have called me here to predigest your spiritual food, to relieve you from first-hand study of the Bible, to represent your church not only in classis but in the tenement, to be your proxy in heart to heart work for souls, your substitute when the battle is on between good and evil, while you go your business and household ways during the week and on Sunday enjoy your cushioned pews, criticise the sermon and singing.

The Lord never called me to any like task. If there has been any such tacit agreement I now repudiate it. I am called of God to point out the forms of godliness as means of obtaining its power.

The imperative needs of our inventive age have almost bodily transferred to our language the Greek here rendered "power," in the word dynamo. I believe in forms, just as the railroad engineer believes in the third rail, as he believes in the elevated structure on the Williamsburg Bridge. But the mass of iron is a senseless eyesore until it is connected with the main line. Even then it is useless until related to the power house, until the power, the fire-fed dynamo, sends forth the electric current, enabling the cars to carry thousands of wage-earners to and from their places of everyday toil. What private concern would be so insane as to sink for two years such a wealth of money in an enterprise for accumulating rust?

The forms of religion are essential as preliminaries to the accessories of power. Churches, ministers, Bibles were instituted and have been perpetuated because divinely ordained and humanly tested to be good for making the kingdom of heaven "go" upon earth. In themselves, they have no value. The power of godliness generated in Christian lives must electrify them or they are encumbrances.

You are commissioned to lead others to Christ. Your commission gives you "power to act." Are you availing yourself of that privilege? I find no verse in the Scripture which reads "Be good and you will be a Christian." I find reiterated, over and over, "Do good."

Christianity is not colorlessness. It has no minus sign. It is ever positive. A negative being is peculiarly abhorrent to Him whose biography is epitomized by "He went about doing good." "I would thou wert either cold or hot" is His message to such torpid professors. "Because thou art lukewarm, I will spew thee out of My mouth." Better the mistakes, better even the sins that come from activity than the flabby absence of good or bad. True religion is not in outward observances, heavenward graces; not in semblance, but reality. Because God is a living God He has no satisfaction in lifeless saints. We must not only serve Him in this life; we must also live for His service. The arc lamp unconnected with the dynamo is in the way. Our presence in the church is in the way of others, unless the dynamo of power within you is at work and your light is shining.

A man may cry "Church! Church!" every word
With no more piety than other fowls;
A daw's not reckoned a religious bird
Because it keeps a-cawing from a tower.

Forms are by no means confined to liturgical churches. A printed prayer is less formal than one which varies in phraseology each time it is uttered, if the first come from the heart and the latter from the head. Some one confesses and questions and answers:

I often say my prayers.
But do I ever pray?
And do the wishes of my heart
Go with the words I say?
Words without the heart
The Lord will never hear.
Nor will He to those lips attend
Whose prayers are not sincere.

Spiritual forces are all about us, as pervasive as the subtle element of electricity. The power of godliness is in the concentration of this energy in ourselves, so as to make it effective for good to others. We are to be in form. We have taken Christ as our Prophet and listen to His teachings. We recognize Him as our Priest in accepting the atonement He offers. He our King Whom we obey, in whose strength we go out to fight foes within. Because hypocrites exist is no reason why you should be a coward. Let us not hesitate to say what we mean. Let us determine to mean what we say.

A form of godliness may be full of words of sympathy to mourners, of warning to evil doers, of hope to afflicted ones. But the power is not there. It is "voice, voice; there is no more." Although ministering to the self-complacency of the speaker, such ministers to no one else. The lack of godliness lacks substance. The hollowness is revealed when its wearer needs sustaining power. It is no use for staff to comfort when the valley of the shadow of death is to be traversed. It has no light to shed when darkness comes to the forks of the road and one knows not which way to take. It may fool him for a while here. Its hollowness is apparent on his first appearance in the world that knows no shams.

The power of godliness is present both for the life that now is and for that which is to come. Its possessor has "the tongue of the taught that he may sustain with words him that is weary," may "reprove, rebuke, exhort with correct." A man is behind the times and Christ is behind the man. In times of trouble, it supports us mightily. When the house is darkened and the friends make their pitiful attempt to condole, they are anticipated by the God of all comforts.

He whose form of godliness is validated by its power, with unblushing cheek, with firm confidence, faces the crisis of life, the supreme crisis of death, knowing Whom he has believed, persuaded that He is able to keep what is committed to Him throughout eternity.

A Clear Call.

"It is very noble and lovely of you, Elsie, to give so much of your time to that work among the tenement house children. I'm sure I admire you for it; but for my part, I never have any call to that kind of work."

"Any call?" Elsie's eyes looked gravely questioning.

"Yes, of course. I suppose you were called to go into it, didn't you?"

"I don't know. I don't think I ever thought of it just in that way. I simply saw the need of something I had the strength to do—that was all. Why, wouldn't that be call enough?"

Would it not indeed? What better call can there be than a need that we can meet? What more eloquent appeal than the cry of the hungry ones around us for bread that we can give?

There are not many loud and startling "calls" to any form of service, but God has unmistakable ways of making His will known to every one whose own will is to know it. We have but to keep our ears open to hear His voice, our eyes to see His coming. Every opportunity is a call, every outstretched hand that we can meet helpfully is God's beckoning hand to us."

To most of us no other call will come than that which comes to us from human lips, no other than the prompting of a vacant place which we can fill, a need for work which we can do.

If we wait in idleness for some other vocation than comes to us in these ways, we are but losing our time, and the world is losing our service. Let us instead find in "the duty that lies nearest" our present, definite call, sure that when we are ready for another work that too will be made plain to us. Opportunity—that is God's call to us.—Young People.

Rest in Christ.

Coming to Christ, we enter into rest of faith. The very act of faith brings tranquillity, even when the reason or thing trusted in is human or creatural, and therefore unreliable. For to roll the responsibility from the self, as it were, upon another by the purpose; and they who lean upon the strong arm do not need to fear when their own arm be very weak.

The rest of faith, when we come from having to take care of ourselves when we can cast all the gnawing cares and anxieties that perturb us upon Him, when we can say, "Thou wilt undertake for me, and I leave myself in Thy hands," is tranquillity deeper and more real than any other that the heart of man can conceive. "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on Thee, because he trusteth in Thee."

Cast yourself upon Christ, and rest in that atmosphere of calm confidence, and though the surface may be broken by many a storm, the depths will be "peace subsisting at the heart of endless agitation."—Alexander Maclaren.

Lofty Examples.

The loftiest examples of devotion, self-sacrifice, heroism, patience and patriotism ever in history have found their motive and inspiration in the Christian life.—Henry B. Williams.

OF GIRLHOOD OF PAIN AND PERIL

Cole Says that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has Saved Her Life and Made Her Well

many lives of beautiful young women have been sacrificed just as they were coming into womanhood! How many irregularities or displacements might be developed at this important time resulting in years of suffering!

Miss Emma Cole

modesty and oversensitiveness often puzzle their mothers and baffle physicians, because they withhold their confidence at this critical period. Every mother should come to her child's aid and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will at this time prepare the system for the coming change and start the menstrual period in a young girl's life without pain or irregularities.

"I, Miss Emma Cole of Tullahoma, Tenn., write:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I want to tell you that I am enjoying better health than I have for years, and I owe it all to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"When fourteen years of age I suffered almost constant pain, and for two or three years I had soreness and pain in my side, ached and was dizzy and nervous, and nothing at all failed to help me.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended, and after taking it my health began to improve rapidly, and I think it saved my life. I sincerely hope my experience will be a help to other girls who are passing from girlhood to womanhood, for I know Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound will do as much for them."

If you know of any young girl who is in trouble and needs motherly advice ask her to write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., and she will receive free advice which will put her on the right road to a strong, healthy and happy womanhood.

Tale of Tailless Cat.

It is well known that Manx cats have no tails, only slight stumps, and that the offspring of such in other parts of the world, in the first generation at least, are in the same abnormal condition. While living in Scotland many years ago we had a Manx kitten given to us, which, although born tailless, was tailless. The door of our breakfast room was spring shutting, like most of the screen doors in this country, but only opening toward the house. Before the kitten was full grown he had learned to let himself in without pushing from the outside, but never closed, although we often tried to teach him, however, to pull it open from the inside.

It was not, however, the opening of the door from the outside to which I wish to call attention—any cat could readily have learned to do that; but the fact that invariably, after he had soundly closed it and got his body partially through, he made a rapid turn or whirl to prevent the tail that was not there from being caught between the closing door and its frame.

This he did dozens of times every day so long as we had him, and was always willing to show off before our visitors, as he never seemed to grow weary of the fact that he had not a tail like his neighbors.

Life of Wage Workers.

In manufacturing occupations the average life of soap boilers is the highest, and that of grindstone makers the least.

MALARIA???

Generally That is Not the Trouble.

Persons with a susceptibility to malarial influences should beware of coffee, which has a tendency to load up the liver with bile.

A lady writes from Denver that she suffered for years from chills and fever, which at last she learned were mainly induced by the coffee she drank.

"I was also grievously afflicted with headaches and indigestion," she says, "which I became satisfied were likewise largely due to the coffee I drank. Some months ago I quit its use altogether and began to drink Postum. My headaches have disappeared, my digestion has been restored, and I have not had a recurrence of chills and fever for more than three months. I have no doubt that it was the change that brought me this relief, for I have used no medicine while the improvement has been going on. Postum is a really relief from congestion of the liver caused by coffee.)

My daughter has been as great a coffee drinker as I, and for years was afflicted with terrible sick headaches which often lasted for a week at a time. She is a brain worker and by close application together with the headaches began to affect her memory seriously. She found no help in medicines and the doctor frankly advised her to quit coffee and use Postum. For more than four months she has not had a headache—her mental faculties have grown more active and vigorous and her memory has been restored. No more tea, coffee or drugs for her, "as long as we can get Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

"There's a reason. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville" in pkgs.

SYD, THE STRENUOUS.

When Syd is six,
  Who now is only five,
No more display of any baby tricks,
  He's going to shed his kilts, as I'm alive,
When Syd is six,

When Syd is six,
  What wonders will arrive!
A really truly nickel watch that ticks;
  A cart and pony, too, for him to drive,
When Syd is six,

When he is six.
  He's going to swim and dive.
And shoot—in fact, my brain is in a fix
  To think of anything he won't contrive
When he is six.

When he is six.
  I hope we shall survive,
I hope we won't be turned to lunatics
  From hearing of the strenuous way he'll strive
When he is six.
  —Rose Mills Powers, in Pilgrim.

THE BELFRY TOWER.

"Tell me a story, please!" begged the little boy.

"Well, go to my desk and bring me that little picture in the gold frame."

So the little boy brought the picture and climbed upon his father's knee, and this was the story he heard:

"This, laddie, is the miniature of your most famous ancestor, your great-great-great grandfather, Sir Roger Templeton. He was a brave and gallant knight, and lived in merry England in the time of good Queen Bess. And when I was a little boy like you, laddie, there was nothing in all the world I liked so well as to listen to the stories of his many valiant deeds.

"And often he would look first at this minature and then at me, and say produly that I had the Templeton nose—the long, aristocratic Templeton nose. Then I would dream of knights and lists and tournaments, and the brave deeds of my ancestors.

"And one day I thought of the belfry tower in the old church where my father preached. I had heard that the ascent was difficult, and that no one had attempted it for a long time. Here at last was a task worthy of a valiant, longnosed Templeton! So instead of going nutting with the boys, I slipped into his study and took from his desk the heavy iron church key, and hurried to the church, which stood on a lonely hill a little out of the village.

"I turned the key in the rusty lock, climbed the gallery stairs and opened the door leading to the belfry. The first two flights of stairs were easily climbed, though the way was dark and dusty, and, oh, so dreadfully still!

"Then the stairs ended, and a long ladder led upward into the tower. Some of the rounds were broken, and the whole thing seemed terribly shaky. For a moment I longed to turn back; then I remembered my brave ancestors. I started up the ladder.

"I climbed it safely and found myself in a tiny room just below the belfry. Then came the end of my journey. And, oh, how good it seemed to be out in the clear air and bright sunshine once more! And how tiny the village looked, far, far below.

"Then I saw by the setting sun that I must hurry down if I wished to go, but turned back for just one more look at the big bell, and at that very moment there came a loud crash from below. The treacherous old ladder had fallen, and I was a prisoner in the tower.

"I shouted and called, but no one heard me. The sun went down, and it became quite dark in the belfry. The stars came out, one by one, and still I crouched beside the big bell, hungry and cold and frightened.

"At last, shivering with cold, I crept down to the inty room below the belfry. It was warmer there, and I sobbed myself to sleep, and dreamed that Great-great-great-grandfather Templeton came a-riding on a broom, witch fashion, and carried my away—away—over the treetops.

"Then I awoke in great terror, for the whole tower was alive with sound, and shaking and trembling in a fearful manner.

"The big bell was ringing madly: Boom! boom! boom! All the world seemed full of noise.

"Boom! boom! boom! I clapped my hands to my ears.

"Then it stopped for a moment, and far below, very, very faintly, I heard the cry, 'Boy lost! boy lost! boy lost!' Then boom! boom! boom! went the bell again.

"But at last it stopped, and they heard my cries and came with lights and a ladder, and took me safely home.

"In my mother's arms I told my story. My father listened quietly, and somehow with his grave eyes upon me, the taking of the church key seemed anything but a knightly deed.

"When I had finished, my father said, very sternly. 'There was one virture, my son, that your noble ancestors valued even more than courage, and that was honor.'"

The little boy gazed long and thoughtfully at the miniature. "Papa," said he, "have I the Templeton nose?"

"No, laddie," said his father. "Your nose is just an every-day-twentieth-century nose, and the most gallant deed you can do tonight is to go straight up-stairs to bed!"—Louise Octavian, in Youth's Companion.

GAME OF INITIALS.

This entertaining game is intended for the older boys and girls. The first thing to do is to write a certain number of questions, all of which are to be read to the players, and answered by them in writing. Only one copy of the questions is necessary, and that is kept by the one who is to act as leader, say, the host or hostess of the evening.

Each player is furnished with a sheet of paper and a pencil, the paper having on it as many numbers as there are questions. If, for example, six questions have been prepared, the numbers from 1 to 6 should be written down the sheet of paper, and the players are to write the answers opposite to those numbers, in order.

The special point in this game, however, is that each player must write his answers only by words beginning with the initials of his name. If there are six players, therefore, there will be six different answers to each question, and the effect, when they are read aloud, will be very amusing.

As an illustration, her are six questions, all of which are supposed to be answered by a player whose initials are R. G. W.:

1. What is your favorite drink? Really Good Water.
2. What is your favorite dance? Rattling Good Waltz.
3. What is your pet vice? Robbing Grocery Wagons.
4. What is your greatest virtue? Reforming Great Wrongs.
5. What do you dread most in the future? Raising Gray Whiskers
6. What do you most hope for in the future? Real Gold Wings.

Remember that each player must use the initials of his own name in answering just as the letters R. G. W. are used here, and the result may be imagined. A certain time should be allowed for writing the answers, and, if desired, a vote may be taken to decide which set is the best, and a prize of some kind awarded accordingly.

THE REAL YOUTH LINCOLN.

A great deal of nonsence has been written about his (Lincoln's) early years, and a grave effort has been made to prove him a youth of exceptional promise, a brilliant scholar, and a prodigy of application and industry. As a matter of fact, he did not begin to develope mentally until he was about eighteen—even in the prime of his life his intellectual processes were not quick—and there is nothing to indicate that he was a particularly industrious boy. Five pedagogues—two in his birthplace, Kentucky, and three in Indiana—share the honor of contributing to his elementary education; but had their pupil been ever so gifted, they could scarcely have discovered it, for his schooling amounted to less than a year in all—about as long as it must have taken some of the minor biographers to collect and record the pointless reminiscenses of his alleged schoolmates.

TRAITS OF BUTCHER BIRD.

There is a strange little bird, about as big as a robin, which nearly every winter brings us. He is generally alone, like a tiny black and gray hawk in many of his ways, but related truly to the gentle vireos and waxwings. He is the northern shrike or butcher bird, and he gets a cruel living by catching mice and little birds, which he hangs on locust thorns, sharp twigs or the points of a wire fence, as his little feet unlike the hawk's are not strong enough to hold his prey.

But he is a handsome fellow, says St. Nicholas, and rarely one may hear a very sweet little song as he sits on the top of some leafless bush, particularly late in the winter. But generally he is silent, like the true birds of prey, or at best gives only a rasping squeal.

Dr. Prinzing, of Berlin, denies that the number of bachelors and old maids is increasing in Europe generally.

THE STORY OF BOB WHITE

FACTS ABOUT AMERICA'S MOST POPULAR GAME BIRD.

Quails Being Rapidly Exterminated, Though They Might Easily Be Preserved—They Are Great Allies of the Farmer—It Would Pay to Raise Them.

A little pamphlet just issued by the Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Biological Survey might properly be entitled "The Story of Bob White." It treats of the quail and was the last official work of Prof. Sylvester D. Judd, an assistant in the bureau who hanged himself a few weeks ago at his country home near Baltimore. Prof. Judd had been in poor health for several months and just before his death had been released from a hospital in Baltimore, after a course of treatment for melancholia.

The story of Bob White is simply told, as becomes the life of a simple member of the quail family. Many interesting facts concerning the habits of the bird, its usefulness to the farmer and its popularity on menu cards are told.

There are seven members of the quail family in the United States. The most beautiful species occur in the Southwest and on the Pacific Coast.

Of the seven species only one, the Bob white (Colinus virginianus), is indigenous of the eastern United States, where it ranges from southern New England to Florida and Texas. The sub-species, the Florida Bob White and the Texas Bob White are recognized by scientists.

Owing to the climatic influences, the birds of Florida and of Texas differ enough to be distinguished as geographic races. But wherever it occurs, the Bob White has the same call and varies little in habits.

The Bob White proper is a handsome bird, but is the plainest of the seven species, with the exception of the cotton top or scaled quail of the deserts of southern Texas and Arizona. The latter is slatey bluish on the upper parts, which are ornamented with scale-like markings, and has a whitish crest.

"The most bizarre and curious of all," said Prof. Judd, "is the Merns quail of the high broken plains and mountain slopes of southwestern Texas, southern New Mexico and Arizona."

It looks not unlike a little guinea hen. It is the gentlest and most unsuspicious of the quail family and is frequently killed with a stick or a stone by persons who encounter it in their walks. The people in the region which it inhabits have given it the name of fool quail on account of this trait.

The Bob White is the most widely distributed and popular game bird in the United States. While it is rapidly being exterminated, its preservation could be secured very easily, for, unlike most wild fowls or animals, it does not vanish with the growth of agriculture, but increases when not molested by hunters.

The Bob White is called a quail in the Northern, Western and Middle States, while in the Southern States it is known as a partridge. Both names were brought to America by English colonists. The name Bob White is from the familiar call note of the bird.

In some of its characteristics the bird differs strikingly from other members of the family. "For example, the crest—a well developed adornment of several closely related American quails—in Bob White is invisible except when the bird is excited."

The common Bob White ranges more or less generally over the eastern half of the United States and southern Ontario, except in the colder mountainous parts, from Maine to Florida, and west to South Dakota, Kansas and Texas. In addition colonies have been introduced and found to thrive in Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and the Island of Jamaica. The bird has also been found in limited numbers in Cuba, Mexico and Guatemala.

"In the field," said Prof. Judd, "the nuptial call note of the cock bird is an infallible guide to its identity. This familiar challenge, sounding to the sportsmen like 'Bob White,' 'Bob-Bob-White,' and to the farmer like 'more wet' or 'no more wet,' is by no means the only note of the species during the breeding season.

"It was the good fortune of the writer during the last week in June, 1902, to hear the nesting note and other calls. Again and again the cock left his distant perch, where he had been whistling 'Bob White' and, still calling, approached the nest on the banks of a little sluggish briery run between open fields.

"When within fifty yards of his mate he uttered the rally note, so thrilling to the sportsmen in the fall, 'ka-loi-kee,' which the hen often answered with a single clear whistle. Then followed a series of queer responsive 'caterwaulings,' more unbirdlike than those of the yellow breasted chat, suggesting now the call of the cat to its kittens, now the scolding of a caged gray squirrel, now the alarm notes of a mother grouse, blended with the strident cry of the guinea hen.

"As a finale sometimes came a loud, rasping noise, not unlike the effort of a broken voiced whippoorwill."

The call of the hen to her youngsters is invariably "ka-loi-kee," "ka-loi-kee," while the youngsters respond "whoil-kee." At a close range the whistle of the bird loses all its melody and becomes a nasal shriek almost painful to the ear.

As many as forty-two eggs have been found in the nest of a Bob White. The main breeding season for the Bob White in the Northern States is May, June and July, although Prof. Robert Ridgeway, curator of ornithology in the Smithsonian Institution, found a nest of Bob White eggs in southern Illinois in the middle of October.

Another naturalist found a nest filled with eggs in Missouri in January, on which the mother bird was found frozen. Two or three broods have been produced in a season.

There is a tendency among Bob Whites toward local migration. In Virginia and Maryland, particularly, they leave their summer homes on the approach of winter and congregate near the large water courses.

The habit of the bird during the hunting season is to move about most actively and feed in the early morning and late afternoon. The best shooting is to be had the hour before sunset, in the places where the birds have decided to spend the night. They roost on the ground, forming a solid ring, with tails in and heads out.

The Bob White as an ally of the farmers is chiefly valuable as a destroyer of weed seeds. Prof. Judd made an estimate of what the Bob White would accomplish in this line for the farmers of the two states of Virginia and North Carolina from the beginning of September to the end of April.

He allowed four Bob Whites to each square mile of land, which is a low estimate, and would give 354,820 in the two states. The crop of each bird holds half an ounce of seed and is filled twice a day.

Since at each of the two daily meals weed seeds constitute at least half the contents of the crop, a half ounce daily is thus consumed by each bird, and on this basis the total consumption of seed in the two states covering the period mentioned would amount to 1341 tons. A similar calculation shows that 340 tons of destructive insects would be consumed by the birds in the same period. The Bob White eats the Rocky Mountain locust, the chinch bug, the potato beetle, the cotton boll weevil and cotton worms and army worms.

Prof. Judd estimated that with proper management some farms of from 500 to 1000 acres would yield a better revenue from the raising of Bob Whites for the market than from poultry growing. In North Carolina many farms yield a regular income by this industry.

The shooting rights are leased to sportsmen who pay considerable sums for the privilege. In some places in Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina sportsmen pay from five to twenty-five cents for every bird shot.

Millions of dollars can be realized by the proper management of the quail crop of the United States. No game is so much sought for in the market as quail.

"The writer," says Prof. Judd, "knows of a single dealer in Washington who in 1902 sold 100,000 quail. The present price is $3 to $5 a dozen, yet Audubon tells us that in 1810 the birds could be bought for 12 cents a dozen and in 1851 for 50 cents a dozen."

T. S. Van Dyde, the author says: "Dear little Bob White has brought more rest to the business wearied soul, more new life to tired humanity than nearly all other American game combined." Prof. Judd said that the pursuit of many kinds of game is possible only in the distant wilderness, where traveling is difficult and the exposure incident to the sport may be dangerous to health; but the pursuit of the Bob White belongs to open, accessible country, and is not too severe for men accustomed to a sedentary life.

To thousands of such men quail hunting is the yearly means of restoration and results in a direct benefit to the community, though one not readily computed in money value. At a conservative estimate, between 300,000 and 400,000 sportsmen go out from cities every fall to hunt Bob White, which means a large expenditure of money, much of which goes to farmers who hold shooting land.—New York Sun.

Trumping the Bishop's Card.

Bishop McCabe relates the following story: "Once upon a time I was in a railroad accident. It was one of the only two I ever experienced, and I have traveled more than seven hundred and fifty thousand miles on trains and steamers, three times as far as from here to the moon. A broken wheel threw the train off the track. The car I was in shattered very much. Seated just ahead of me was an elderly woman who was suffering from rheumatism. It was necessary to change cars. I helped her off the car, carried her valise and gave her the support of my arm. Behind us came a noble looking English woman with her husband by her side. She was scolding well for starting on their journey on Friday. 'I told you, James,' she said, 'that something would happen if we should start on Friday.'

"She looked at me with indignation and said: 'Sir, in my opinion, it is a great pity that America was ever discovered at all.'"—Northwestern Christian Advocate.

A Record Summer of Tips.

Last summer has been a record one in Paris for tips. The inference is that more tourists come here than ever before. The porters in all the Paris museums say that they have never had such a prosperous season. They made more out of visitors whose umbrellas and sticks they took charge of than even during the World's Fair of 1900. At the Pantheon tourists who went to see the graves of France's illustrious dead brought in as much as £1 4s daily in tips of pennies or two-pence to the attendants —London Telegraph.

THE PULPIT.

A SCHOLARLY SUNDAY SERMON BY THE REV. EDWARD NILES.

Subject: Godliness in Form.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—The Rev. Edward Niles preached at the White Church Sunday evening from II Timothy iii:5: "Holding a form of godliness, but having denied the power thereof." He said:

That "distance lends enchantment to the view" is true of time as well as space. The older we grow, the more immaculate appear the imagined days of youth. Christian believers are purer in our eyes in proportion to the number of centuries that intervene. Within the covers of every volume of sermons, whether written in one age or another, are the well-nigh certain jeremiads over "these time of extreme worldliness, unequaled love of money, peculiar indifference to spiritual things," followed by laudations of the apostolic age as the golden era of Christianity.

A reconstruction of conditions existing in those New Testament churches from materials afforded us in the epistles, warrant no such assumption. Heresies then were rampant, inconsistent lives numerous, backsliders distressingly frequent. The things of sense made cogent appeal. The husks of the gospel often satisfied to the disregard of its kernel. Paul's description of "the last days" was based upon facts about him. As he penned the sentence of our text, he probably had in mind fellow communicants who held the form of godliness, but denied the power thereof.

Since then outward changes have been many, kingdoms have come and gone, languages have died and been born, church order and ritual been metamorphosed. Human nature is unaffected by time or clime. So the New Testament is not a graveyard, with epitaphs of only antiquarian interest, but is photographic of contemporary heart throbs.

In our Borough of Brooklyn are 156,679 people holding to the Protestant form of godliness. While statistics are unable to figure out how many hold to the Protestant power thereof, if form and power were identical, not one of the buildings where divine worship is being held to-night would have a vacant seat and every theatre and hall would be utilized for overflow meetings.

The original of "deny" has as its root meaning "not to seek." "Holding a form of godliness, they have not sought for its power." The world has much to say about hypocrites. I believe the outcry against them is out of all proportion to their numbers. The conscious hypocrite to-day is a rare bird. I have made frequent hunts or him. Despite the most diligent search, I have seldom found him.

The number of those called hypocrites, who would rightly be catalogued as formalists, is legion. They are not striving to deceive others. They succeed in their striving to deceive themselves. Satisfied with the appurtenances, the trappings of godliness, they inquire no further. Attendants upon the services of the church, members of it, supporters of its outward activities, they fancy themselves to be godly. Branded as Christians, they but feebly apprehend what disrepute they bring upon the name by their inferiority to the real article. Their gullibility is wrongly taken for hypocrisy. They submit to the drudgery of religion to pacify troublesome consciences and impose upon themselves.

An important reason for so many lapses from church membership is because so many become dissatisfied with a form, yet fail to seek the reality, so give up all.

Almost every one in this congregation has a form of godliness. You look good. I find little to criticise in what you do, for there is so little you do on which to base a criticism. The trouble lies in what you do not. You may have called me here to prediguest your spiritual food, to relieve you from first-hand study of the Bible, to represent your church not only in classis but in the tenement, to be your proxy in heart to heart work for souls, your substitute when the battle is on between good and evil, while you go your business and household ways during the week and on Sunday enjoy your cushioned pews, criticise the sermon and singing.

The Lord never called me to any like task. If there has been any such tacit agreement I now repudiate it. I am called of God to point out the forms of godliness as means of obtaining its power.

The imperative needs of our inventive age have almost bodily transferred to our language the Greek here rendered "power," in the word dynamo. I believe in forms, just as the railroad engineer believes in the third rail, as he believes in the elevated structure on the Williamsburg Bridge. But the mass of iron is a senseless eyesore until it is connected with the main line. Even then it is useless until related to the power house, until the power, the fire-fed dynamo, sends forth the electric current, enabling the cars to carry thousands of wage-earners to and from their places of everyday toil. What private concern would be so insane as to sink for two years such a wealth of money in an enterprise for accumulating rust?

The forms of religion are essential as preliminaries to the accessories of power. Churches, ministers, Bibles were instituted and have been perpetuated because divinely ordained and humanly tested to be good for making the kingdom of heaven "go" upon earth. In themselves, they have no value. The power of godliness generated in Christian lives must electrify them or they are encumbrances.

You are commissioned to lead others to Christ. Your commission gives you "power to act." Are you availing yourself of that privilege? I find no verse in the Scripture which reads "Be good and you will be a Christian." I find reiterated, over and over, "Do good."

Christianity is not colorlessness. It has no minus sign. It is ever positive. A negative being is peculiarly abhorrent to Him whose biography is epitomized by "He went about doing good." "I would thou wert either cold or hot" is His message to such torpid professors. "Because thou art lukewarm, I will spew thee out of My mouth." Better the mistakes, better even the sins that come from activity than the flabby absence of good or bad. True religion is not in outward observances, but ward graces; not in semblance, reality. Because God is a living He has no satisfaction in his saints. We must not only serve in this life; we must also live service. The arc lamp uncon with the dynamo is in the way presence in the church is in the of others, unless the dynamo of within you is at work and you is shining.

A man may cry "Church! Church every word
With no more piety than other
A daw's not reckoned a religious
Because it keeps a-cawing from a

Forms are by no means confined liturgical churches. A printed is less formal than one which in phraseology each time it is if the first come from the heart latter from the head. Some confesses and questions and

I often say my prayers.
But do I ever pray?
And do the wishes of my heart
Go with the words I say?
Words without the heart
The Lord will never hear.
Nor will He to those lips answer
Whose prayers are not sincere.

Spiritual forces are all about vasive as the subtle element electricity. The power of godliness the concentration of this energy in ourselves, so as to make it for good to others. We are form. We have taken Christ our Prophet and listen to His sings. We recognize Him as our accepting the atonement He of He our King Whom we obey, in strength we go out to fight for Because hypocrites exist is no why you should be a coward. not hesitate to say what we Let us determine to mean what

A form of godliness may words of sympathy to mourn warning to evil doers, of hope flicted ones. But the power there. It is "voice, voice; more." Although ministering self-complacency of the spent ministers to no one else. The godliness lacks substance. The ness is revealed when its wearer sustaining power. It is no staff to comfort when the the shadow of death is to It has no light to shed when comes to the forks of the road knows not which way to take. fool him for a while here. Its ness is apparent on his first ap the world that knows no shame

The power of godliness is both for the life that now is that which is to come. Its has "the tongue of the taught may sustain with words him weary," may "reprove, rebuke, correct." A man is behind the and Christ is behind the times of trouble, it supports us ly. When the house is darkened the friends make their pitiful to condole, they are anticipated God of all comforts.

He whose form of godliness idated by its power, with unit cheek, with firm confidence, fac crisis of life, the supreme death, knowing Whom he has persuaded that He is able what is committed to Him thru eternity.

A Clear Call.

"It is very noble and lovely Elsie, to give so much of yo to that work among the te house children. I'm sure I adm for it; but for my part, I ne any call to that kind of work."

"Any call?" Elsie's eyes gravely questioning.

"Yes, of course. I suppose called to go into it, didn't you?

"I don't know. I don't think thought of it just in that way. the need of something I had strength to do—that was all wouldn't that be call enough?

Would it not indeed? What call can there be than a need can meet? What more eloquent peal than the cry of the hungry ones around us for bread that give?

There are not many loud and ling "calls" to any form of but God has unmistakable making His will known to ev whose own will is to know have but to keep our ears open His voice, our eyes to see His oning. Every opportunity is every outstretched hand that can meet helpfully is God's be hand to us."

To most of us no other call come than that which comes human lips, no other than the ing of a vacant place which fill, a need for work which we

If we wait in idleness for other vocation than comes to these ways, we are but losing and the world is, losing our Let us instead find in "the d lies nearest" our present. defi sure that when we are wa another work that too will be us. Opportunity—that is God call to us.—Young People.

Rest in Christ.

Coming to Christ, we enter rest of faith. The very act brings tranquillity, even when son or thing trusted in is h creatural and therefore For to roll the responsibility self, as it were, upon another pose; and they who lean upon strong arm do not need to fear their own arm be very weak.

The rest of faith, when from having to take care of when we can cast all the gnaw and anxieties that perturb Him, when we can say, "T undertake for me, and I leave in Thy hands," is tranquillity and more real than any other heart of man can conceive. keep him in perfect peace who is stayed on Thee, because he in Thee."

Cast yourself upon Christ, in that atmosphere of calm and though the surface may by many a storm, the depth "peace subsisting at the heart less agitation."—Alexander

Lofty Examples.

The loftiest examples of de votion, self-sacrifice, heroism, tience and patriotism ever history have found their moti spiration in the Christian Henry B. Williams.

...S OF GIRLHOOD

...E OF PAIN AND PERIL

...Cole Says that Lydia E ...'s Vegetable Compound has ... Life and Made Her Well

...many lives of beautiful young ...ve been sacrificed just as they ...ming into womanhood! How ...egularities or displacements ...n developed at this important ...resulting in years of suffering!

Miss Emma Cole

...' modesty and oversensitiveness ...puzzle their mothers and baffle ...ians, because they withhold their ...ence at this critical period.

...other should come to her child's ...d remember that Lydia E. Pink... Vegetable Compound will at this ...repare the system for the coming ...e and start the menstrual period ...oung girl's life without pain or ...larities.

...Emma Cole of Tullahoma, Tenn.:

...rs. Pinkham:—
...rant to tell you that I am enjoying bet...lth than I have for years, and I owe ...o Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Com...

...hen fourteen years of age I suffered al...constant pain, and for two or three ...I had soreness and pain in my side, ...bee and was dizzy and nervous, and ...s all failed to help me.

...dia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound ...commended, and after taking it my ...began to improve rapidly, and I think ...d my life. I sincerely hope my experi...ill be a help to other girls who are pass...om girlhood to womanhood, for I know ...Compound will do as much for them."

...ou know of any young girl who is ...and needs motherly advice ask her ...ife Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., ...e will receive free advice which ...uther on the right road to strong, ...hy and happy womanhood.

Tale of Tailless Cat.

...is well known that Manx cats ...no tails, only slight stumps, and ...the offspring of such in other ...of the world, in the first genera... at least, are in the same abnorma... ...ition. While living in Scotland ...y years ago we had a Manx kitten ...to us, which, although born ...e, was tailless. The door of our ...kfast room was spring shutting, ...most of the screen doors in this ...try, but only opening toward the ...e. Before the kitten was full ...n he had learned to let himself in ...ushing from the outside, but never ...ed, although we often tried to ...him, however, to pull it open ...the inside.

...was not, however, the opening of ...door from the outside to which I ...to call attention—any cat could ...y have learned to do that; but the ...that invariably, after he had so ...ed it and got his body partially ...e made a rapid turn or whirl to ...ent the tail that was not there ...heredity impressed on him the ...that it ought to have been) from ...g caught between the closing door ...its frame.

...his he did dozens of times every ...so long as we had him, and was ...ays willing to show off before our ...tors, as he never seemed to recog... the fact that he had not a tail like ...neighbors.

Life of Wage Workers.

...manufacturing occupations the ...rage life of soap boilers is the high... and that of grindstone makers the ...est.

MALARIA???

...enerally That Is Not the Trouble.

...ersons with a susceptibility to mala... influences should beware of coffee, ...ch has a tendency to load up the ...r with bile.

...lady writes from Denver that she ...ered for years from chills and fever ...ch at last she learned were mainly ...duced by the coffee she drank.

...was also grievously afflicted with ...daches and indigestion," she says, ...ich I became satisfied were like... largely due to the coffee I drank. ...months ago I quit its use altogether and began to drink Postum ...d Coffee, with the gratifying re... ...that my headaches have disappeared, my digestion has been restored ... I have not had a recurrence of ...s and fever for more than three ...ths. I have no doubt that it was ...tum that brought me this relief, for ...ave used no medicine while this ...rovement has been going on." (It really relief from congestion of the ...r caused by coffee.)

...My daughter has been as great a ...ee drinker as I, and for years was ...cted with terrible sick headaches, ...ch often lasted for a week at a ... She is a brain worker and ex...ive application together with the ...daches began to affect her memory ...t seriously. She found no help in ...dicines and the doctor frankly ad...d her to quit coffee and use Postum. ...For more than four months she has ...had a headache—her mental fac... have grown more active and vigor... and her memory has been restored ...No more tea, coffee or drugs for us. ...ong as we can get Postum." Name ...n by Postum Co., Battle Creek, ...

...ere's a reason. Read the little ... "The Road to Wellville" in pkgs.

ity than the flabby absence of good or bad. True religion is not in outward observances, but ward graces; not in semblance, reality. Because God is a livi He has no satisfaction in h saints. We must not only ser in this life; we must also live service. The arc lamp uncon with the dynamo is in the way presence in the church is in of others, unless the dynamo of within you is at work and you is shining.

A man may cry "Church! Chur every word
With no more piety than other A daw's not reckoned a religious Because it keeps a-cawing from a Forms are by no means con liturgical churches. A printed is less formal than one which in phraseology each time it is if the first come from the heart latter from the head. Some confesses and questions and

I often say my prayers.
But do I ever pray?
And do the wishes of my
Go with the words I say?
Words without the heart
The Lord will never hear.
Nor will He to those lips
Whose prayers are not sincer

Spiritual forces are all about pervasive as the subtle element electricity. The power of god the concentration of this energy in ourselves, so as to make it for good to others. We are form. We have taken Christ our Prophet and listen to His ings. We recognize Him as our accepting the atonement He of He our King Whom we obey, in strength we go out to fight fe Because hypocrites exist is no why you should be a coward. not hesitate to say what we Let us determine to mean what

A form of godliness may words of sympathy to mourn warning to evil doers, of hope flicted ones. But the power there. It is "voice," more." Although ministering self-complacency of the speak ministers to no one else. The godliness lacks substance. The ness is revealed when its wearer sustaining power. It is no staff to comfort when the va the shadow of death is to b It has no light to shed when comes to the forks of the ro knows not which way to take. fool him for a while here. Its ness is apparent on his first ar the world that knows no chan

The power of godliness is pr both for the life that now is a that which is to come. Its po has "the tongue of the taught may sustain with words him weary," may "reprove, rebuke, correct." A man is behind the and Christ is behind the mas times of trouble, it supports un ly. When the house is darkene the friends make their pitiful at to condole, they are anticipated God of all comforts.

He whose form of godliness dated by its power, with unbl cheek, with firm confidence, face crisis of life, the supreme cr death, knowing Whom he has b persuaded that He is able what is committed to Him thro eternity.

A Clear Call.

"It is very noble and lovely Elsie, to give so much of yo to that work among the ten house children. I'm sure I adm for it; but for my part, I ne any call to that kind of work."

"Any call?" Elsie's eyes gravely questioning.

"Yes, of course. I suppose called to go into it, didn't you?

"I don't know. I don't think thought of it just in that way. the need of something I had strength to do—that was all wouldn't that be call enough?

Would it not indeed? What call can there be than a need can meet? What more eloqu peal than the cry of the hung ones around us for bread that give?

There are not many loud an ling "calls" to any form of but God has unmistakable making His will known to ev whose own will is to know have but to keep our ears open His voice, our eyes to see H oning. Every opportunity every outstretched hand can meet helpfully is God's hand to us."

To most of us no other call come than that which comes human lips, no other than the ing of a vacant place which till a need for work which we

If we wait in idleness fo other vocation than comes t these ways, we are but losi and the world is losing our Let us instead find in "the d lies nearest" our present, defi sure that when we are wan another work that too will b us. Opportunity—that is God call to us.—Young People.

Rest in Christ.

Coming to Christ, we enter rest of faith. The very act brings tranquillity, even when son or thing trusted in is h creatural, and therefore w For to roll the responsibility o self, as it were, upon another pose; and they who lean upon strong arm do not need to fea their own arm be very weak.

The rest of faith, when from having to take care of when we can cast all the gnaw and anxieties that perturb but we can say, "T undertake for me, and I lea in Thy hands," is tranquilli and more real than any othe heart of man can conceive. keep him in perfect peace wh is stayed on Thee, because h in Thee."

Cast yourself upon Christ, in that atmosphere of calm and though the surface may by many a storm, the depth "peace subsisting at the hea less agitation."—Alexander M

Lofty Examples.

The loftiest examples of d votion, self-sacrifice, heroism tience and patriotism ever history have found their mos spiration in the Christian Henry B. Williams.

IS OF GIRLHOOD
E OF PAIN AND PERIL

Cole Says that Lydia E Vegetable Compound has Her Life and Made Her Well

many lives of beautiful young have been sacrificed just as they ripening into womanhood! How irregularities or displacements been developed at this important resulting in years of suffering!

ls' modesty and oversensitiveness puzzle their mothers and baffle icians, because they withhold their dence at this critical period. mother should come to her child's and remember that Lydia E. Pink- Vegetable Compound will at this prepare the system for the coming ge and start the menstrual period young girl's life without pain or ularities.

Emma Cole of Tullahoma, Tenn., s:

Mrs. Pinkham:—
want to tell you that I am enjoying bet- alth than I have for years, and I owe to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Com- d.

When fourteen years of age I suffered al- constant pain, and for two or three I had soreness and pain in my side, ches and was dizzy and nervous, and rs all failed to help me.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound recommended, and after taking it my began to improve rapidly, and I think ed my life. I sincerely hope my experi- will be a help to other girls who are pass- rom girlhood to womanhood, for I know Compound will do as much for them."

you know of any young girl who is and needs motherly advice ask her rite Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., she will receive free advice which pather on the right road to a strong, thy and happy womanhood.

Tale of Tailless Cat.

is well known that Manx cats no tails, only slight stumps, and the offspring of such in other s of the world, in the first genera- at least, are in the same abnormal dition. While living in Scotland y years ago we had a Manx kitten n to us, which, although born e, was tailless. The door of our kfast room was spring shutting, most of the screen doors in this try, but only opening toward the de. Before the kitten was full n he had learned to let himself in ushing from the outside, but never ned, although we often tried to h him, however, to pull it open the inside.

was not, however, the opening of door from the outside to which I to call attention—any cat could ly have learned to do that; but the that invariably, after he had so hed it and got his body partially he made a rapid turn or whirl to ent the tail that was not there t heredity impressed on him the that it ought to have been) from g caught between the closing door its frame.

his he did dozens of times every so long as we had him, and was ys willing to show off before our tors, as he never seemed to recog the fact that he had not a tail like neighbors.

Life of Wage Workers.

manufacturing occupations the rage life of soap boilers is the high- and that of grindstone makers the est.

MALARIA???

Generally That Is Not the Trouble.

Persons with a susceptibility to mala- l influences should beware of coffee, ich has a tendency to load up the r with bile.

A lady writes from Denver that she ffered for years from chills and fever ich at last she learned were mainly duced by the coffee she drank.

I was also grievously afflicted with adaches and indigestion," she says, hich I became satisfied were like- e largely due to the coffee I drank. months ago I quit its use altoge- her and began to drink Postum od Coffee, with the gratifying re- t that my headaches have disap- ared, my digestion has been restored d I have not had a recurrence of lls and fever for more than three nths. I have no doubt that it was stum that brought me this relief, for have used no medicine while this provement has been going on." (It really relief from congestion of the r caused by coffee.)

My daughter has been as great a fee drinker as I, and for years was icted with terrible sick headaches, ich often lasted for a week at a e. She is a brain worker and ex- sive application together with the adaches began to affect her memory t seriously. She found no help in dicines and the doctor frankly ad- ed her to quit coffee and use Postum. For more than four months she has had a headache—her mental facul- s have grown more active and vigor- s and her memory has been restored. No more tea, coffee or drugs for us. long as we can get Postum." Name en by Postum Co., Battle Creek, ch.

There's a reason. Read the little k "The Road to Wellville" in pkgs.

HOW SHE'D REPLY.

"If I should say," I asked my love,
"That your dear eyes outshone the blue
That gleams in yonder sky above—
What would you do?"
"I'd smile at you."

"And if I'd tell you that my heart,
Whatever happened, would be true,
And that from you I'd never part—
What would you do?"
"I'd laugh at you."

"But should I swear to make you mine,
Whatever swains came here to woo,
And asked you for a true love sign—
What would you do?"
"I'd wink at you."

"Then if this coquetry should force
Me to turn chill and freeze you through—
If I pursued a calm, cold course,
What would you do?"
"I'd sneeze—atchoo!"
—Cleveland Leader.

Mrs. Knocker—Professor Searchlite is going on another baboon hunt; they say. Mr. Knocker—Is he going out of town?—Judge.

Hoax—Why did he commit suicide? Joax—The after effects of a blow-out. Hoax—A blow-out, eh? Gas or brains? —Philadelphia Record.

Cashier (coughing)—Pardon me, I didn't catch your last name. Ethel (blushing)—I haven't caught it yet, myself.—Cleveland Leader.

"Was he kind to his family?" I should say he was. He couldn't have been kinder if he had been an insurance president."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Farmer Socede—What's thet book yer readin' all about, Mandy? Aunt Mandy—'Bout the war, Joshua. It's one o' these here hysterical novels.—Brooklyn Life.

"It takes a lot of patience to run an automobile, does it not?" asked the man. "Yes, lots of patients," replied the doctor; "and I've got 'em."—Yonkers Statesman.

Lady—Don't you know that a barking dog never bites? Tramp—Yes, but how am I to know that all of a sudden your dog won't quit barking?—Detroit Free Press.

Shorte—Chugger is just carried away with his automobile. Sharpe—Yes; and were it not for Hank Hibbley and his two horses he wouldn't be back for several days.—Judge.

"What are you making such a kick about? You're carrying a policy of only a thousand." "I'm kicking because I find I am carrying all the president's relatives."—Chicago Tribune.

"You are always having more or less trouble, aren't you?" said the sympathetic friend. "You are mistaken," answered the Czar with hauteur. "We never have less."—Washington Star.

"I wonder what Bragg means by forever talking of his 'social obligations'?" "I suppose he's a member of several social organizations and never pays his dues."—Philadelphia Ledger.

"Ah, darling," remarked Newed, "I see you have prepared some pudding with your own little hands. What kind is it, pet?" "T-that," sobbed Mrs. Newed, "is b-bread."—Chicago Daily News.

Old Gentleman (as the train gets a terrific bump at a station)—Phew! What's that? Old Lady—I guess they must be coupling on that buffet car we've heard tell about.—New York Weekly.

"Pop, what's a synonym?" "It's one of those places where you have nothing to do for a big salary. That's right, my son. Always come to papa for information in your studies."—Baltimore American.

Knicker—So James got mixed in his excuses? Bocker—Yes. He told his wife that he had been up all night with the baby, and his employer that he was detained in the office on business. —Harper's Bazar.

Mrs. Hunks—I wish you wouldn't be so positive. There are two sides to every question. Old Hunks (with a roar) —Well, that's no reason why you should always be on the wrong side! —Chicago Tribune.

"Starr's manager has promised to give a presentation of that comedy of mine," said De Riter, "but I don't know when it's to come off." "Probably the night after it's put on," suggested the cruel critic.—Philadelphia Press.

Little Gladys—Auntie, dear, do all the people who die and go to the bad place camp out? Aunt—Why, no child. Why do you ask? Little Gladys—Well, our Sunday school teacher told us today that the heat was in tents.—Judge.

"What do you think posterity will say of you?" asked the indignant Sorghum, "what posterity says I do not expect to hear. It is the present generation that duns you if you do not look out for your finances."—Washington Star.

Arry—Hi, there! You there! Hi! Come off the grass, can't you? Don't you see the notice? It's the likes of you trespassin' chaps as makes 'em shut their parks. Noble Owner—Oh, I beg pardon. I forgot the notice. I'll come off at once.—Punch.

"I don't think I'm conceited," said Bragley, "but I can't help remarking how much the girls make of me." "Say," remarked Knox, "don't leave words out in that careless way." "What do you mean? What word?" "The word 'fun' after 'much.'"—Philadelphia Press.

UNSIGHTLY BALD SPOT

Caused by Sores on Neck—Merciless Itching For Two Years Made Him Wild —Another Cure by Cuticura.

"For two years my neck was covered with sores, the humor spreading to my hair, which fell out, leaving an unsightly bald spot, and the soreness, inflammation and merciless itching made me wild. Friends advised Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and after a few applications the torment subsided, to my great joy. The sores soon disappeared, and my hair grew again, as thick and healthy as ever. I shall always recommend Cuticura. (Signed) H. J. Spalding, 104 W. 104th St., N. Y. City."

Where Men Are Needed.

There is much railroad building at Spokane, Wash., until there has come to be a demand for 10,000 more laborers than are on the spot. The price for a day's work has risen from $1.75 and $2 to $2.25 and $2.50. Men in logging camps can get $40 and $45 a month and board, while $30 and $35 a month and board is offered for ranch hands.

GOING WEST?

If so, don't fail to write the undersigned for rates, routes, maps, etc. Twelve hours shortest line to Texas. A. B. Freeman, Trav. Pass. Agent Queen and Crescent Route, 1925 First avenue, Birmingham, Ala.

California's Oldest Building.

A tablet has been placed on the old Hispano-Mexican customs house at Monterey by the Landmarks Club. This is the oldest building in California, except the missions. It is a very interesting relic, as it has served as the recipient of customs for three nations. The customs house was built soon after the foundation of the Pueblo in 1722. A galleon came once a year from Spain with supplies for the colonists, who, it seems, could not gain a support in this fertile land of varied resources. The galleons from the Philippines, laden with gold plundered from the natives, touched at Monterey, and pirates laid off the California coast waiting for the treasure ships. In 1818 the bold Bouchard landed at Monterey, plundered the mission, burned the town, took all the treasure in the customs house and sailed away. The old customs house was the only building left standing except the mission. When Mexico gained its independence in 1821 the broad banner of Spain was lowered and that of Mexico was hoisted, to be in turn displaced by the "Star-Spangled Banner" in 1846.

The Natalie, which was the brig in which Napoleon escaped from Elba, was wrecked off Monterey. Some of the timbers are still to be seen on the beach. At the customs house was also landed the printing press upon which was printed the first newspaper in California.

In Norway much progress has been made in the use of air-tight cooking boxes, in which food that has been thoroughly heated continues to simmer till it is cooked. In Germany progress is slow. Cooks are proverbially conservative and do not seem to understand how the same feathers and wool that keep people's bodies warm can prevent the escape of heat stored in food by previous exposure to fire.

It is said that 7,700 wives were deserted by their husbands in New York last year.

STOPS BELCHING BY ABSORPTION —NO DRUGS—A NEW METHOD.

A Box of Mull's Free—Have You Acute Indigestion, Stomach Trouble, Irregular Heart, Dizzy Spells, Short Breath, Gas on the Stomach?

Bitter Taste—Bad Breath—Impaired Appetite—A feeling of fullness, weight and pain over the stomach and heart, sometimes nausea and vomiting, also fever and sick headache?

What causes it? Any one or all of these: Excessive eating and drinking—abuse of spirits—anxiety and depression—mental effort—mental worry and physical fatigue—bad air—insufficient food—sedentary habits—absence of teeth—bolting of food.

If you suffer from this slow death and miserable existence, let us send you a sample box of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers absolutely free. No drugs. Drugs injure the stomach.

It stops belching and cures a diseased stomach by absorbing the foul odors from undigested food and by imparting activity to the lining of the stomach, enabling it to thoroughly mix the food with the gastric juices, which promotes digestion and cures the disease.

SPECIAL OFFER.—The regular price of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers is 50c. a box, but to introduce it to thousands of sufferers we will send two (2) boxes upon receipt of 75c. and this advertisement, or we will send you a sample free for this coupon.

THIS OFFER MAY NOT APPEAR AGAIN.

1606 FREE COUPON. 123

Send this coupon with your name and address and name of a druggist who does not sell it for a free sample box of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers to

MULL'S GRAPE TONIC CO., 328 Third Ave., Rock Island, Ill.

Give Full Address and Write Plainly.

Sold by all druggists, 50c. per box, or sent by mail.

John Adams was the originator of our national motto, "E Pluribus Unum."

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E W. Grove's signature on each box. 25c.

Jacob Steiner, of Brookiyn, has a collection of rare pistols.

Itch cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion; never fails. Sold by Druggists. Mail orders promptly filled by Dr. Detchon, Crawfordsville, Ind. $1.

The Japanese still use American leather.

Corn-cob pipes were worth $250,000 were manufactured last year in Missouri.

Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullein is Nature's great remedy—Cures Coughs, Colds, Croup and Consumption, and all throat and lung troubles. At druggists, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

A dog show which opened at the Crystal Palace, London, recently contained 3,503 entries, valued at $1,250,000.

A crab caught recently in the English Channel measured three feet from tip to tip of claws and weighed nearly fifteen pounds.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY.

FRANK J. CHENEY makes oath that he is senior partner of the firm of F. J. CHENEY & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of CATARRH that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CATARRH CURE. FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A.D., 1886. A. W. GLEASON, Notary Public.

SEAL.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by all Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

The Great Tun of Heibelberg Castle, a world-famous wine cask, holds 283,000 bottles of wine, and has been filled three times.

The Russian government has arranged to commence a service of motor cars in the Persian districts of Tabriz, Hamadan and Kazvin.

The Area of Japan.

Exclusively of Formosa, the area of Japan is reckoned at 146,000 square miles, while that of Great Britain is only about 120,000 square miles. On account of mountains, however, it is estimated that only one-tenth of Japan's area is capable of successful cultivation. The population of Japan is very dense, being about 3,000 to the square mile.

Vegetables as Medicines.

Lettuce for tired nerves.

Turnips, onions, cabbage, cauliflower, watercress and horseradish contain sulphur.

Potato, salts of potash.

French beans and lentils give iron.

Watercress, oil, iodine, iron, phosphate and other salts.

Cabbage, cauliflower and spinach are beneficial to eanemic people.

Tomatoes stimulate the healthy action of the liver.

Spinach, salts of potassium and iron. Food specialists rate this the most precious of vegetables.

Parsley, mustard, cowslip, horseradish, dock, dandelion and beet tops clear the blood, regulate the system and remove that tired feeling.

Some women use their husbands to make other women jealous.

UNSEEN IN A SAW

There are unseen things about this Saw. You cannot see the fine texture of the Steel; takes a sharp, cutting edge and holds it longer than any other Saw. You cannot see the toughness of fibre; bends without a break or a kink. SILVER STEEL, the finest crucible steel in the world, is made on the Atkins formula, tempered and hardened by the Atkins secret process, a. used only in Atkins Saws. You cannot see the perfectly graduated taper of the blade; runs easily, without buckling.

But you can see the Atkins trade-mark and it is your protection when you buy a Saw. We are saw-makers and our trade-mark on a Saw means that it is our own make and that we are justly proud of it. We make all types and sizes of Saws for all purposes.

Atkins Saws, Corn Knives, Perfection Floor Scrapers, etc., are sold by all good hardware dealers. Catalogue on request.

E. C. ATKINS & CO., Inc.
Largest Saw Manufacturers in the World.

Factory and Executive Offices, Indianapolis, Indiana.

BRANCHES: New York, Chicago, Minneapolis, Portland, (Oregon), Seattle, San Francisco, Memphis, Atlanta and Toronto, (Canada).

Accept no Substitute—Insist on the Atkins Brand

SOLD BY GOOD DEALERS EVERYWHERE

PAXTINE TOILET ANTISEPTIC FOR WOMEN

troubled with ills peculiar to their sex, used as a douche is marvelously successful. Thoroughly cleanses, kills diseased germs, stops discharges, heals inflammation and local soreness, cures leucorrhœa and nasal catarrh.

Paxtine is in powder form to be dissolved in pure water, and is far more cleansing, healing, germicidal and economical than liquid antiseptics for all

TOILET AND WOMEN'S SPECIAL USES

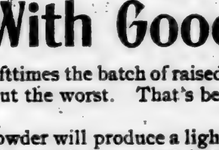
For sale at druggists, 50 cents a box.

Trial Box and Book of Instructions Free.

THE R. PAXTON COMPANY BOSTON, MASS.

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

PRICE, 25 Cts



ANTI-GRIPINE

IS GUARANTEED TO CURE

GRIP, BAD COLD, HEADACHE AND NEURALGIA.

I won't sell Anti-Gripine to a dealer who won't Guarantee It. Call for your MONEY BACK IF IT DOESN'T CURE.

F. W. Diemer, M.D., Manufacturer. Springfield, Mo.

If you want to see dollars grow, feed your fields with Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers. They will "increase your yields per acre," and thus bring down the cost of production, even if you use fewer teams and less labor.

We have thousands of strong testimonials from farmers who have tried other makes of fertilisers and assert that are by far the best. They will give you crops that will make more money for you. Buy no other, even if some dealer endeavors to get you to buy some "cheap" brand just because he may make a little more profit on that. Of course, that would be to his interest —not yours.

Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers

VIRGINIA-CAROLINA CHEMICAL CO.,
Richmond, Va. Norfolk, Va. Durham, N. C.
Charleston, S. C. Baltimore, Md. Atlanta, Ga.
Savannah, Ga. Montgomery, Ala. Memphis, Tenn. Shreveport, La.

Avery & Company

SUCCESSORS TO
AVERY & McMILLAN,
51-53 South Forsyth St., Atlanta, Ga.
—ALL KINDS OF—
MACHINERY
Reliable Frick Engines, Boilers, all Sizes. Wheat Separators.

BEST IMPROVED SAW MILL ON EARTH.
Large Engines and Boilers supplied promptly. Shingle Mills, Corn Mills, Circular Saws, Saw Teeth, Patent Dogs, Steam Governors, Full line Engines & Mill Supplies. Send for free Catalogue.

Am. 1, 1906.

Dropsy CURED Gives Quick Relief.

Removes all swelling in 8 to 20 days; effects a permanent cure in 30 to 60 days. Trial treatment given free. Nothing can be fairer Write Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Box B Atlanta, Ga.

PERMANENT MEADOWS should have an annual dressing of 500 pounds per acre of a fertilizer containing eleven per cent. POTASH and ten per cent. available phosphoric acid.

This will gradually force out sour grasses and mosses from the meadows, and bring good grasses and clovers; thus increasing the quality as well as the quantity of the hay.

Our practical book, "Farmer's Guide," gives valuable facts for every sort of crop-raising. It is one of a number of books on successful fertilization which we send on request, free of any cost or obligation, to any farmer who will write us for them.

Address, GERMAN KALI WORKS,
New York—93 Nassau Street. or Atlanta, Ga.—22½ So. Broad Street.

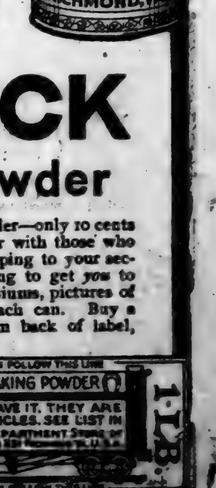
Mix Your Baking With Good Luck

Perhaps you've noticed that ofttimes the batch of raised biscuits with which you take most pains comes out the worst. That's because you forgot to put in the "luck."

Good Luck Baking Powder will produce a light, crisp baking every time—for a fact. Its use will save those spoiled bakings, because Good Luck is the always-reliable baking powder. Strength invariably the same, and highest purity guaranteed.

GOOD LUCK
Baking Powder

costs less than any other good powder—only 10 cents for a pound can. It is so popular with those who have once tried it that we are shipping to your section in whole carload lots. Hoping to get you to try it we offer you many handsome premiums, pictures of which are shown in gift book inside each can. Buy a pound can to-day; cut the coupon from back of label, and save it.

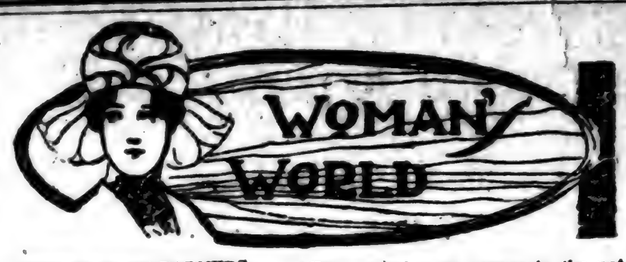


THE SOUTHERN MFG. CO., Richmond, Va.

IN CUTTING OUT COUPON FOLLOW THIS LINE
Solid Carload "GOOD LUCK" BAKING POWDER
CUT OUT THIS CAR AND SAVE IT. THEY ARE GOOD FOR VALUABLE ARTICLES. SEE LIST IN EACH CAN. Address: THE DEPARTMENT STORE OF THE SOUTHERN MFG CO. Richmond, Va.
1-LB.

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES

Color more goods brighter and faster colors than any other dye. One 10c package colors all fibers. They dye in cold water better than any other dye. You can dye any garment without ripping apart. Write for free booklet—How to Dye, Bleach and Mix Colors. HONROE DRUG Co., Quincy, Ill.



WOMEN WAGE EARNERS.

Over 5,000,00 of the women of the United States, are wage earners. About 2,000,000 of the number are employed in industrial pursuits and nearly 1,000,000, most of them negresses, are agricultural laborers. The clubwoman of the country have started a movement to secure a thorough investigation into the conditions under which working women earn their bread.

Women in the United States do not do much of the heavy work performed by those in other countries. They do not harness themselves to carts, or toil in bog pits, or carry hods here as they often do in Europe. Here and there may be found the wives and daughters of foreigners who go into the field and pitch hay and grain as they did at home. The agricultural work done by women in this country is chiefly cotton picking.

It is the opinion of Mr. Robert Hunter, however, that a searching inquiry into women's pursuits in the United States will reveal the existence of a worse state of affairs than is generally suspected. Much of the work they do, he says, is extremely injurious to their health, and the work done by mothers or women about to become mothers has especially deplorable consequences to the workers themselves and also to their offspring and to society. There are nearly 800,000 married women, more than 800,000 widows and about 63,000 divorced women in the United States engaged in gainful occupation. Many of them have young children who are much neglected while their mothers are away from home making the living. These children will largely constitute the ignorant and criminal portion of the next generation of citizens.

The need and propriety of legislation by the states regulating the conditions of the employment of women, are now generally recognized, Mr. Hunter would go still farther and entirely prohibit mothers with young children from working outside their homes. He would relieve married women from the necessity of outside work by sending drunken or lazy husbands and fathers to penal institutions, where they would be compelled to labor for the support of their families. Widows or women with disabled husbands were educated and were old enough to help them.

It would be easy to cast ridicule upon Mr. Hunter's scheme or to brush it aside as "paternalistic" or "socialistic," and therefore unworthy of attention. It would be better and more profitable to look carefully into the facts and ascertain whether the remedy he proposes or any remedy the lawmaker can apply is needed to deal with a growing evil.—Chicago Tribune.

TO MAKE SACHETS.

To make a bureau satchet, take two pieces of light-weight silk or liberty satin exactly the size of the bureau drawer. Lay between them two thin layers of cotton batting, thickly powdered with the following ingredients, which must be well pounded together in a mortar:

Quarter pound coriander seeds, quarter pound rose leaves, quarter pound aromatic calamus, quarter pound orris root, two ounces lavender blossoms, half ounce mace, half ounce cinnamon, quarter ounce cloves, two drams musk.

Stitch the edges of the silk carefully together to prevent the powder from sifting with tiny little rosettes of baby ribbon and border the edge with a narrow ruffle of French lace, or an applique of heavy color lace. These sachets are made to suit the color scheme of the room in which they are to be used and make very attractive and useful gifts for a bride-elect.

A close imitation of violet perfume for dress sachets is made by mixing together and then carefully powdering in a mortar the following:

Twelve drops of oil or rhodium on two blocks of cut sugar, and two ounces of pulverized orris root.

If a rose perfume is preferred use more of the oil of rhodium.

Make small flat bags out of taffeta ribbon about four inches in width and six inches in length and place the powder between very thin layers of cotton batting inside the bag. Sew the open end carefully. Make a bow from three quarters of a yard of the same ribbon and attach it at the extreme end of each loop to the upper two of the long ends of the bag, allowing the rest of the bow to fall loosely. The idea is to have the flat sachet bag fit snugly between the corset and corset cover to have the bow fall over the outside of the corset cover and show through the sheer lingrie waist.

ECONOMY OF PONGEES.

A young woman who has to make herself look presentable on a very small sum of money, and who, to her credit be it said, does it so thoroughly that a stranger would suppose she was able to spend three times as much on her clothes as they actually cost, says: "I am using pongees largely for my shirtwaist material, and while it is expensive in the first place, I find it economical in the long run. For general wear pongee in the natural color is very satisfactory, says the Indianapolis News. Because it is somewhat colorless and needs brightening, I have collars and sometimes belts of sky blue, or scarlet or a pretty green. The waists, except those for the very best wear are made to be washable and pongee of a good quality washes as well as linen. It is actually hard to wear it out, and though I am usually denied the luxury of giving away clothes, I have been able recently to bestow on a young girl somewhat slighter in figure than myself a pongee gown out of which I had between two and three years' steady wear, and which was yet good enough to be a boon to the girl, who received it thankfully. This gown was trimmed with narrow blue velvet ribbon and after it was given up was freshened up by its new owner with new velvet and a lace yoke, so that it looked almost like a new gown.

A DUCHESS' ROSE GARDEN.

The great interest the Duchess of Argyll has taken in the new rose gardens at Windsor is the outcome of her intense love of flowers, and she often makes valuable suggestions as to the grouping of the different sorts, the succession of the times of bloom, soil and so on, which are based on her own experiences with her rosery in the grounds of Roseneath Castle. Queen Alexander is also devoted to flowers and is said to love white roses, lilies and violets best. Her pleasure in them is not limited to mere walks in the garden or admiration of the blooms gathered by the gardeners for decoration. Among other royal ladies who find charm and solace in flowers is the Empress Eugenie, who in the palmy days of her splendor used often to be called "the Empress of Flowers." She would stop her carriage at the Madeline steps in Paris, where the flower market is held, and getting down, would pick her way among the market woman's baskets, piling the front seat of the carriage high with lilies and violets. Flowers have since consoled her in the sadness and solitude of her life in exile, for they are friends which never change.

THE VALENTINE SKIRT.

The new suspender skirt is a princesse skirt with shoulder straps. hese skirts and straps are made of thin cloths (all cloths are thin, if they are fashionable), silks and even velvet. At their smartest they are of velvet, and are worn with lace or mousseline waists. In one of bronze-green taffeta the skirt flares into great width and is trimmed, below knee high, with a wide puff. Only a woman of excellent proportions can wear such a skirt, for its line silhoutte the figure in its most trying part, the girls call the suspender skirt of the fall the valentine skirt.

THE HOME ATMOSPHERE.

To create and sustain the atmosphere of a home—it is easily said in a very few words; but how many women can say to themselves or others that this is their aim? To keep house well women often say they desire. But keeping home well is another affair. * * * Into the home she will create monotony, stupidity, antagonisms, can not come. Her foresight will provide occupations and amusements; her loving and alert diplomacy will fend off disputes.—H. H. in the Indianapolis News.

WHY CHILDREN ARE BAD.

Because they are hungry and thirsty.

Because they have been given pernicious cheap sweets.

Because they have not had proper sleep.

Because their clothing is not comfortable..

Because the room in which they sleep or play is stuffy and ill aired.

Because their parents break promises to them and buy them off with bribes.

Because they are brought up on a negative diet of continual "No, no, no," instead of an occasional good, hearty "Yes."—Chicago Journal.

FASHION NOTES.

Never was underwear so dainty nor so cheap. The heavy Italian valenciennes is so satisfactory.

It would really pay to take a few lessons in tying bows. Ribbon bows furbish up costumes wonderfully.

The three chief stones of the season are turquoise, amethyst and the lighter sapphires. This is true of the imitation gems as well.

Rennaissance lace is very much used for both cloaks and gowns. And truly there could be nothing simpler and handsomer than this.

Butterfly bows in pale ribbons are correct for night dresses and every maid should have a box of bows for all sorts of occasions, as knots and loops and ribbon bands are a necessity in these beauty-loving days.

One very handsome French coat was made with lace, circular ruffles of chiffon, buttons and handsome embroidery, through which glistened from underneath a delicate green satin. The inner lining was of brocade.

HOW TO PROMOTE SLEEP.

SIMPLE EXPEDIENTS WHICH ARE BETTER THAN MEDICINE.

The Slumber Thus Obtained Is Far More Beneficial Than That Which Is the Product of Drugs—A Light Meal Just Before Retiring One of the Best Sleep Promoters.

One of the most common ailments, specially among the people who do not take a suitable amount of exercise, is inability to secure sufficient sleep. The results are impaired efficiency, nervous irritability and a lot of other ills which follow in the train of these two. To some extent, insomnia may be regarded as a disease; but relief from it may often be secured by simple means, intelligently and patiently employed. The sleep which is obtained in consequence is more beneficial than that which is a product of medicine.

A great variety of the maladies which humanity suffers from are caused by an excessive amount of blood in one locality. Congestion of the lungs (pneumonia) is only one of the many illustrations of the principle. Wakefulness is associated with, if not directly due to the presence of an abnormal quantity of blood in the brain. During the hours of labor and thought, the blood belongs there. To encourage natural drowsiness one should coax it away.

One of the best means of doing so is to eat. Almost every one has noticed how dull he feels after a hearty meal, particularly if he refrains from drinking coffee or strong tea. Well, here is a useful clew. During the work of digestion the blood vessels in walls of the stomach are unusually full. Ordinarily the stomach is empty at bedtime. Give it something more to do, and there will be another healthy diversion of the blood away from the brain. A light meal, taken just before retiring, is one of the best promoters of sleep. A person should be careful to eat and drink what will agree with him, and not overdo the matter. Fruit, crackers, two glases of milk, boiled eggs and sandwiches are among the best and most readily obtainable articles. Pie, too, is generally harmless. Where practicable, it is well to keep a plate of crackers, some fruit or a pitcher of milk in a convenient place, so that if a person awakes in the middle of the night these resources will be at hand. The stomach may finish its work in three or four hours; and if wakefulness follows it is wise to take another instalment of food or milk. There are persons who have retired on the double-dose plan for twenty or thirty years, and who would no more think of going to bed without a light lunch and sometimes to take later in the night than they would retire without undressing. Every one who tries the plan needs to experiment a while, to find out what is handiest to eat and what agrees best with him. It is foolish to give up after a short trial. A trifling change of fare will often work wonders.

One should also learn that certain things which may be taken in the day time with impunity should be avoided at supper time, in the evening and on retiring. Coffee is among them. So is strong tea. Iced drinks and ice cream also act hurtfully. Coffee and tea are brain stimulants, and ought not to be taken when one wants his brain to lessen its activity. Cold beverages and dishes drive the blood away from the stomach, and that fluid tends to go back where it was before—into the brain. On the other hand, warm milk helps on the process of persuading the blood to visit and stay in the vicinity of the stomach.

A second line of procedure which is often helpful is also designed to get the blood out of the brain. Warmth alone, in any part of the body, operates in that manner. Hence it is desirable on retiring to have plenty of bed clothing—more, in fact, than mere comfort demands. One blanket in addition to those usually required, spread over the whole figure, and another doubled and laid across one's feet, will operate very gently but beneficially in drawing the blood to the skin and to the lower extremities. Often when the scales hang evenly balanced between wakefulness and sleep, the addition of extra covering will turn them in the right direction.

Before the full influence of these agents is felt there is often a period of consciousness lasting half an hour, more or less. During that interval mental control is important. With the most positive determination one should shut out thoughts of business or family troubles, personal grievances and annoyances. All of those matters can be more wisely attended to at other times, i they really need attention at all; and at night they excite the brain, when that organ should be soothed. The latter effect can be secured in various ways, but the essential principle is that the mind must be concentrated on some monotonous task, and kept there by the will. Counting is one of the best expedients, but if a rather complicated system of doing so is adopted the result will be better. A plan should be pursued that is just laborious enough to call for an effort. We know a man who proceeds in this fashion: "One"; "One, Two"; "One, Two, Three"; "One, two, three, four," and so on. But he leaves out seven numbers ending in a seven, and all multiples of seven. With a little ingenuity one can work out another plan which will demand equal or greater care and concentration.

It is wonderful what a combination of the night lunch, extra bed clothing and mental control will do.

EAST IS EAST, WEST IS WEST.

And Never the Twain Shall Meet—Kipling's Words Proven Anew.

Fifteen years the bachelor lawyer and Sam, his Chinese servant, had lived together in that peace which passes the understanding of all save those favored mortals who are their own servants. Sam was cook, valet, housemaid, watchman, friend—and perfect in each relation. He never took a vacation; he seemed not to eat or sleep. He was always near when needed; he disappeared when he should. He knew nothing, yet he knew everything. For weeks scarcely a word might pass between these two men, they understood each other so well.

But one morning, so the story runs in the San Francisco "Examiner," as Sam poured his master's coffee he said quietly, without a shade of emotion in his yellow face, "Next week I leave you."

The lawyer smiled.

"Next week I leave you," repeated the Chinaman. "I hire for you better man."

The lawyer set down his cup of coffee. He looked at the white-robed servant; he felt the man was in earnest.

"So you are going to leave me. I don't pay you enough, eh? Doctor Sanders—he knows what a treasure you are—has offered you more than a hundred a month. Well, I'll make it a hundred and fifty. Say no more!"

"Next week I leave you. I go to China," said the servant, impassively.

"Oh, I see; you are going back for a wife. Very well, bring her here. here is work for two to keep this place in order; the place is lonely anyway. I'll see the collector of the port myself and arrange your passage papers."

"I go to China next week; need no papers; I never come back," said the man, with exasperating calmness and persistence.

"You shall not go!" thundered the lawyer.

"I go!" answered the Chinaman.

It was the first time in their experience together that the servant had used such a tone toward his master.

After an instant the lawyer said, quietly, "Sam, you must forgive me. I spoke quickly. I do not own you; but tell me what I have done? Why do you leave me in this way? You know I need you."

"I will not tell you why I go—you laugh."

"No, I shall not laugh."

"Very well; I go to China to die."

"Nonsense! you can die here. Haven't I agreed to send your body back?"

"I die in four weeks, two days."

"What do you mean?"

"My brother, he in prison. He twenty six; I fifty. He have wife and baby. In China they take any man of same family instead to die. I go to China, give my money to my brother—he live. I die."

Sam disappeared without saying goodby. He went to China and was beheaded, four weeks and two days from the day he broke the news of his intent to go.

His brother was set free. The lawyer's household goes along about as usual, save when the master calls for "Sam" when he should say Charlie." Then there comes a kind clutch at his heart.

What Do the Zionists Want?

What would the Zionists have us do? So far as I can make it out, they want a sort of "reserve" for Jews to be established in Palestine, where they may enjoy the rights of self-government. But the sovereign of Palestine is the Sultan, and would they have us head a crusade to annex the country and then hand it over to them? In Palestine there are inhabitants—mostly Mohammedans. Are they to be driven out and to be deprived of the ownership of the soil? The scheme is altogether a preposterous one. But if the Jews really want to found some sort of Hebrew State, I should advise them to treat the matter themselves with the Sultan. He is a very needy Sultan, and possibly might agree to deal for a good sum down and a handsome tribute and give them a portion of Palestine under his suzerainty, provided that they are prepared handsomely to compensate its inhabitants for expropriation. I doubt, however, whether many Jews with money are either desirous themselves to settle in Palestine or are disposed to provide the means for other Jews to do so.—London Truth.

Forestalled.

A young clerk, out looking for a job, paused on a bridge to watch a heroic sailor struggling bravely in the water with a drowning man.

Though the sailor was resolute and dauntless, the drowning man was too heavy for him. After a few minutes he sank, and when they fished him out with a boathook life was extinct.

The clerk on the bridge hurried down, found out where the dead man had worked and ran off at breakneck speed to apply for his vacant place.

"And how did you know Harold Janes's job was empty?" he asked.

"I saw him fished out of the river," the young man replied.

"Ah," said the manager, "I am sorry, but the position has already been disposed of. I have given it to the man who saw him fall in."

Thorsby, Alabam

Business Directory.

Commercial Club
OF THORSBY
DEFINITE and RELIABLE information furnished to parties who desire to locate in the South.

A. M. Johnson
Groceries and Delicatessen

J. J. STANLEY
GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

MRS. MARY R, RASBERRY
General Merchandise.

E. H. Adams
General Merchandise.

J. R. PARNELL
General Merchandise.

"MOLINE" Farming Implements and "FLORENCE" Wagons in stock at all times.
J. K. ORR SHOES.

J. L. FOSS
Meat Market.

The Thorsby Inn
G. C. Michelson, Prop.
Good Beds and Meals.

Harkness Pays Fortune For Home.

Los Angeles, Cal.—The announcement has been made of the sale of the beautiful home site in Pasadena, known as "Carmelita," to L. V. Harkness, the Standard oil magnate. The consideration was $180,000.

OLAF SCHI
Watchmaker
And Jewele
Horn's Drug S
Full assortment of Watche elry, etc. All repair wor anteed.

Thorsby Win —Co.—
Lofthus & Bromberg, P

A. HORN
Drugs, Stationery and Articles.
LICENSED PHARMA

City Bake
BREAD. CAKES PIES
of all kinds, fresh every
K. A. EKBLA

A Langville &
BLACKSMITHS
and
HORSESHOERS
Dealers in
WAGONS and BUGG

C. L. Forsma
Brick Yard.

J. BICE
Charcoal Ovens

Subscribe for this Paper

WHITE CAT WITH BLUE EYES. The Feature of the Annual Cat Show in London.

Several new varieties of cats were in evidence at the recent annual exhibition of the National Cat Club, at Crystal Palace, London.

There were cats of every breed and every degree. There were cats of brown, and cats of blue, and cats of every hue, ranging from the carefully nurtured "blues" sent by Princess Victoria, of Schleswig-Holstein, to the humble "tabbies" forwarded by workmen's wives.

Three valuable competitors belonging to the Countess of Aberdeen were accidentally entered in the wrong classes, and in consequence did not receive a single prize or even a word of commendation. That, too, despite the fact that one of the cats possesses the deepest orange-colored eyes of all cats seen in the show for many years, a virture which should have gained it priceless honors.

Louis Wain, the well-known painter and caricaturists of cats, who acted as a judge, explained that this year the "blues"—which to the lay mind are curious, fluffy, dusty-colored cats, are remarkable for their round, bullet-shaped heads and the depth of the orange tints in their eyes. They are a quite superior cat.

But the blues stepped aside before another, who was prince of the show. A white cat which to an inexpert observer would not have presented anything out of the ordinary, created a tremendous sensation. It marks a great step in feline evolution.

"For 15 years," said Mr. Wain, "we have sought to produce a white cat with blue eyes instead of the usual golden or green eyes. The result of there efforts hitherto has been a white cat, certainly with blue eyes, but in the process of abtaining the eyes the cat has lost much in size and in the quality of its coat. Now, however, we have secured this fine specimen which, although it possesses eyes of the deepest blue, has the proportions of an ordinary white cat.

Cats in general, it further appeared, are growing in size. They are also growing in numbers, everywhere. This one show has a hundred more entries than last year.

CUBAN FEET UNLIKE A CAN.

They Have Used Only Footwear On Specially Designed La

"Cuban feet differ from Ame The former require a peculia and not until American m turers discovered this and be make shoes of this kind wer able to sell footwear on the There is a big field for A merchants in Cuba if they wil the wants of the natives, a them."

The above advice is given general agent for the Illino tral Railroad in Havana, Cub is now in Chicago arranging new winter train and steama tween this city and Cuba. An American by birth, the ag resided in Cuba ten years a ried a Cuban woman. Spea conditions on the island, the said:

"The Cuban people will ov all difficulties and govern the without assistance from the States. It is doubtful if the ed treaty with Great Britain adopted, as the people of C against it on the ground that tend to give England advant the West Indies.

"The people of Cuba are the United States. Cuba is ous as never before. It does a dollar and has a surplus of 000 in the treasury. Its cu ceipt for October amounted to 000. The bulk of the trade island is with the United Sta with fair reciprocal arrange will stay there. New steams are continually being establi $1,000,000 hotel in Havana is ed by a New York syndicat banks are springing up eve The Havana Central is buildi five miles of electric lines in Province. A 400-foot steel pi ing built in the harbor by a company, and the city of has just let contracts for worth of improvements in bor. These will include and a new custom- hous York Tribune.

VOL III.

ALABAMA ST

Items of Interest Gathe Over the E

Tornado in Pike Kills Two Boys.

Montgomery.—A special to the Advertiser from Troy, Ala., says:

A tornado struck the school house of Pinsie beat and two boys were killed by falling timbers. The dead:

Twelve-year-old son of Albert Pittman.

Aaron Lee, aged 11.

The school house was demolished and none of the occupants escaped without injury, although the injuries of only fourteen are serious.

The neck of the Pittman boy was broken, while the head of Aaron Lee was crushed.

Ramah church was damaged by the tornado, the residence of Cato Green was wrecked and the postoffice and many outbuildings were damaged.

When the high wind struck the school building the sides of the structure gave way and the roof fell in upon the occupants.

Collects the Money.

Huntsville.—A man who gave his name as Dr. Heller and claimed to be a German specialist, has victimized several Madison county people during the last few weeks, and has left with several hundred dollars of their money. The alleged specialist confined his operations to invalids and collected money in advance for treatment he never gave them.

Shooting in Lauderdale.

Florence.—News has reached Flor ence of a killing which occurred a Wright, a small settlement in the western end of the county. The dead man is Edgar Sharp, and his slayer is a man named Dean. Sharp and Dean had a difficulty a few days previous to the shooting and Dean swore out a warrant for Sharp's arrest. Dean was deputized by the constable to assist in making the arrest and he claims that Sharp drew a pistol on him Sharp, who lived several days after the shooting, denied this and claimed that he was backing away from the officer when Dean shot. The weapon used by Dean was a shotgun charge with small shot.

Warehouse Proves Too Small.

Huntsville.—The Farmers' ware house has proved to be a success far beyond expectations and although it was finished late in the season, it has 3,300 bales in storage and is nearly full. The directors have decided to duplicate the present plant and double its capacity. The work of construction will begin in time to have the addition ready before the opening of the next cotton season. The warehouse is owned by farmers and local capitalists and was not established as an investment so much as to provide storage for cotton when the price of cotton is unreasonably low.

Jury Finds Cline Guilty.

Anniston.—The jury in the case of William Cline, charged with the murder of J. E. Phillips, rendered a verdict of guilty in the second degree. The jury recommended a sentence of 25 years, and Judge Pelham acted accordingly. The execution of the sentence was suspended for an appeal to the supreme court.

Cline when asked by the court if he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed, replied that he had not had a fair trial, owing to the absence of material witnesses. The murder of Phillips occurred in December on a highway while Phillips was returning from Anniston after his wife had completed a runaway marriage with Cline's daughter. After a few words Cline emptied the contents of a shotgun into the head of Phillips, killing him instantly.

Bill for New Judgeship.

Washington.—Representative Richardson, of Alabama, Saturday introduced a bill providing for an additional federal judge in Alabama. The judge is to be a resident of the Northern district and exercise the same power in that district as usually belongs to federal judges.

There is considerable conflict of opinion in the delegation over the question of the new judge, all of which will be thrashed out at the hearing January 15, when it is hoped that a bill satisfactory to the state bar can be drawn.

Charged With Arson.

Birmingham.—William Harmon, Sr., William Harmon, Jr., and John Harmon; father and two sons, were brought to the city jail and locked up charge of arson. It is alleged that the men know something about a fire which destroyed the business house of George Cogwell, near Lewisburg early in December.

Alabam
Directory.

OLAF SCHI
Watchmaker
And Jeweler
Horn's Drug S
Full assortment of Watche
elry, etc. All repair wor
anteed.

Thorsby Win
—Co.—
Lofthus & Bromberg, P

A. HORN
Drugs, Stationery and Articles.
LICENSED PHARMA

City Bake
BREAD. CAKES
PIES
of all kinds, fresh every
K. A. EKBLA

A Langville &
BLACKSMITHS
and
HORSESHOERS
Dealers in
WAGONS and BUGG

C. L. Forsma
Brick Yard.

J. BICE
Charcoal Ovens.

r this Paper

CUBAN FEET UNLIKE A CAN.

They Have Used Only Footwear
On Specially Designed La

"Cuban feet differ from Ame
The former require a peculia and not until American m aurers discovered this and be make shoes of this kind were able to sell footwear on the
There is a big field for Am merchants in Cuba if they will the wants of the natives, a them."

The above advice is given general agent for the Illinoi tral Railroad in Havana, Cub is now in Chicago arranging new winter train and steame tween this city and Cuba.
an American by birth, the ag resided in Cuba ten years a ried a Cuban woman. Speak conditions on the island, he said:

"The Cuban people will ov all difficulties and govern the without assistance from the States. It is doubtful if the ed treaty with Great Britain adopted, as the people of C against it on the ground that tend to give England advant
the West Indies.

"The people of Cuba are the United States. Cuba is ous as never before. It does a dollar and has a surplus of 000 in the treasury. Its cust dept for October amounted to 000. The bulk of the trade island is with the United Sta with fair reciprocal arrange will stay there. New steamsh are continually being establi $1,000,000 hotel in Havana is ed by a New York syndicate banks are springing up ever
The Havana Central is buildi five miles of electric lines in Province. A 400-foot steel p ing built in the harbor by company, and the city of has just let contracts for worth of improvements in bor. These will include and a new custom ho York Tribune.

THE UNION.

EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL; SPECIAL FAVORS TO NONE.

VOL III. CLANTON, ALA., JANUARY 11 1906 NO. 42

ALABAMA STATE EVENTS.

Items of Interest Gathered as They Transpire Over the Entire State.

Tornado in Pike Kills Two Boys.

Montgomery.—A special to the Advertiser from Troy, Ala., says:

A tornado struck the school house of Josie beat and two boys were killed by falling timbers. The dead:

Twelve-year-old son of Albert Pittman.

Aaron Lee, aged 11.

The school house was demolished and none of the occupants escaped without injury, although the injuries of only fourteen are serious.

The neck of the Pittman boy was broken, while the head of Aaron Lee was crushed.

Ramah church was damaged by the tornado, the residence of Cato Green was wrecked and the postoffice and many outbuildings were damaged.

When the high wind struck the school building the sides of the structure gave way and the roof fell in upon the occupants.

Collects the Money.

Huntsville.—A man who gave his name as Dr. Heller and claimed to be a German specialist, has victimized several Madison county people during the last few weeks, and has left with several hundred dollars of their money. The alleged specialist confined his operations to invalids and collected money in advance for treatment he never gave them.

Shooting in Lauderdale.

Florence.—News has reached Florence of a killing which occurred at Wright, a small settlement in the western end of the county. The dead man is Edgar Sharp, and his slayer is a man named Dean. Sharp and Dean had a difficulty a few days previous to the shooting and Dean swore out a warrant for Sharp's arrest. Dean was deputized by the constable to assist in making the arrest and he claims that Sharp drew a pistol on him. Sharp, who lived several days after the shooting, denied this and claimed that he was backing away from the officer when Dean shot. The weapon used by Dean was a shotgun charged with small shot.

Warehouse Proves Too Small.

Huntsville.—The Farmers' warehouse has proved to be a success far beyond expectations and although it was finished late in the season, it has 3,300 bales in storage and is nearly full. The directors have decided to duplicate the present plant and double its capacity. The work of construction will begin in time to have the addition ready before the opening of the next cotton season. The warehouse is owned by farmers and local capitalists and was not established as an investment so much as to provide storage for cotton when the price of cotton is unreasonably low.

Jury Finds Cline Guilty.

Anniston.—The jury in the case of William Cline, charged with the murder of J. E. Phillips, rendered a verdict of guilty in the second degree. The jury recommended a sentence of 25 years, and Judge Pelham acted accordingly. The execution of the sentence was suspended for an appeal to the supreme court.

Cline when asked by the court if he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed, replied that he had not had a fair trial, owing to the absence of material witnesses. The murder of Phillips occurred in December on a highway while Phillips was returning from Anniston after his son had completed a runaway marriage with Cline's daughter. After a few words Cline emptied the contents of a shotgun into the head of Phillips, killing him instantly.

Bill for New Judgeship.

Washington.—Representative Richardson, of Alabama, Saturday introduced a bill providing for an additional federal judge in Alabama. This judge is to be a resident of the Northern district and exercise the same power in that district as usually belongs to federal judges.

There is considerable conflict of opinion in the delegation over the question of the new judge, all of which will be thrashed out at the hearing January 15, when it is hoped that a bill satisfactory to the state bars can be drawn.

Charged With Arson.

Birmingham.—William Harmon, Sr., William Harmon, Jr., and John Harmon, father and two sons, were brought to the city jail and locked up on charges of arson. It is alleged that the men knew something about a fire which destroyed the business house of George Cogwell, near Lewisburg, early in December.

Dean in Jail at Florence.

Florence.—John Dean, the man who fired the shot which caused the death of Edgar Sharp at Wright, ten miles west of Florence, was brought here and confined in the county jail. Dean applied for bond, but the matter is out of the jurisdiction of the Florence officers and will have to be fixed by the magistrate who committed Dean at Wright. The constable, Pope McCorkle, had gone around another way to head Sharp off when the shooting occurred and was not a witness to the tragedy. Dean claims that he shot in self-defense, but his statement is not corroborated by some girls who were witnesses to the shooting.

Delegates to New Orleans Cotton Convention.

Greenville.—The Cotton Growers' association, recently organized, held an enthusiastic meeting Thursday, presided over by J. N. McBride. Seven delegates had attended the state meeting in Montgomery the previous day and reports were heard from them and other business attended to. The following delegates were chosen to attend the meeting at New Orleans, La., which convenes Wednesday, the 10th inst: T. H. Crenshaw, R. G. Shanks, W. H. Shanks, J. R. White, C. C. Stewart, J. T. Johnson, W. F. McKenzie, Frank Whittle, J. E. Wall, J. B. Stanley, U. C. Vinson, Sam Searcy, R. A. Beeland, W. H. Shanks, Sr., G. S. Lazenby, H. C. Parker, J. Lee Long, W. H. Rogers, R. A. Lee, A. T. Hinson, W. W. Thagood, J. S. Brunson.

Immigrants Go to Lauderdale.

Florence.—The population of Lauderdale county has been largely increased by a number of immigrants who have recently settled in the east end of the county in the vicinity of Anderson. Within the past few months about fifty families, principally from Cullman county, have become property owners in Lauderdale, attracted here by the splendid agricultural lands and will in the spring plant cotton and corn. They are said to be an honest and industrious class of citizens.

Judge Nathan Holds Court.

Florence.—Judge Joseph A. Nathan, the newly appointed judge of the Eleventh district, held court here Friday for the first time, the session being a very brief one. No cases were tried and probably none will be tried when court re-convenes on Jan. 12, an agreement having been reached between the judge and the attorneys to let what few cases there are on the calendar go over until the March term.

Fifth District School Destroyed.

Wetumpka.—The Fifth district school was burned here by a fire which originated in the belfry while the school was in session, but the scholars, under the direction of Professor Willingham, were marched in safety from the building.

The loss amounts to about $12,000 with insurance of $5,000. The piano, teachers' desks and many of the school books were saved.

Tennessee Racing Men Jubilant.

Nashville.—Turfmen here are jubilant over the bright prospects for uninterrupted racing in Tennessee, despite the act put on the statute books by the last legislature prohibiting betting on horse races in the state. Judge William Hart, of the criminal court of this (Davidson) county, declared the act unconstitutional.

Bennett Arrested for Forgery.

Birmingham.—What appears to be an important arrest was made when a man giving his name as John Weber, but who the police say is G. H. Bennett, was locked up in the city jail on a charge of forgery.

It is asserted that Bennett came to Birmingham about Dec. 27 or 28 last, and since that date passed eight or more checks on local merchants. These checks are alleged to be worthless, the aggregate amount involved being already ascertained to be as high as $1,687.05. To the checks the name of J. T. Webb & Bros. had been signed, the firm being prominent in North Alabama.

Child Burned to Death.

Union Springs.—The little 1-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Boyd, of Invorness, was left in a room in a little wagon last Tuesday while the mother stepped out for a few moments. Some water was boiling in a vessel on the fire and the child got out of the wagon and turned the water over on itself. It died from the effects of the burn next day.

ARREST IN EDWARDS CASE

Coroner Orders Maxcy Hiller, Brother-in-Law, Held.

NEW HAVEN'S MURDER MYSTERY

Inquest Develops That There Had Been Bitter Feeling Over Estate of Aged Abigail Hiller and That Edwards and His Wife Had Feared For Their Lives —The Case in a Nutshell.

New Haven, Conn.—As a startling climax to a day fraught with sensational incidents in the investigation into the death of Charles A. Edwards in the home of his brother-in-law, Judge Charles A. Hiller, in College street, there came the detention for a couple of hours of A. Maxcy Hiller, lawyer, former president of the Board of Aldermen and candidate for Mayor of this city. The detention of Hiller, who also was a brother-in-law of Edwards, did not continue beyond the hearing. Then he was driven to his home in a carriage with two detectives and a uniformed policeman.

Coroner Mix said positively that Maxcy was not under surveillance, and there was absolutely no charge against him. He was simply a witness.

Not only did the temporary detention of Hiller, who is one of the most prominent men in this city, come as a surprise, but it revealed a fight in one of the oldest and proudest families in this State over the estate of a mother, in which brother and sister are arrayed against brother. The testimony on which Hiller was detained was given before Coroner Mix by Mrs. Edwards, the widow, who is a sister of the man under detention, and by Judge Charles Hiller, his brother.

The action of the Coroner was due also in part to the many contradictory statements Maxcy Hiller had made since the death of his brother-in-law and the fact that, ever since the death of his mother, he had been in a controversy with his brother and with Edwards, who represented his wife, in the settlement of his mother's estate. Maxcy denies that he knows anything about the shooting, and says he was asleep in his own home when the deed was committed. He was detained after being questioned for four hours by Coroner Mix, and was taken to Police Headquarters, where he was placed in charge of two detectives.

Following the order to Detective Sergeant Ward to take Hiller to Police Headquarters there was a short delay, in order that Erliss P. Arvine, his counsel, could be reached by telephone. He came over and accompanied Hiller to headquarters. Hiller walked calmly along the street, but on reaching the police station he began to gesticulate wildly and to talk almost irrationally. He was extremely pale, and seemed on the point of collapse from the mental and nervous strain undergone by him in the last thirty-six hours.

Later at night he was taken again to the Coroner's office, where his examination and that of his wife was continued. It was after that hearing he went home.

A. Maxcy Hiller is about fifty years old, and, like the other members of his family and th . of his brother-in-law, he has been prominent in circles of culture and refinement. He is chairman of the Board of Directors of the City Library, and for several months has been active in having the library enlarged.

The death of Edwards in the home of his brother-in-law under circumstances that led the police to believe he had been murdered brought into the case two families which for generations have trod the shaded path of learning, and which now suddenly find themselves in the full glare of the police limelight.

In a nutshell the fact revealed in the Edwards murder case are as follows:

Autopsy disproves possibility of suicide.

Absence of the weapon from which the fatal shot was fired precludes accident.

Members of the family admit that bad feeling existed over disposition of the $100,000 estate of Mrs. Abigail Hiller, mother-in-law of the dead man.

Edwards had complained to a friend in New York that he had incurred the enmity of a relative by marriage and was in fear of his life.

Allan Maxcy Hiller, brother-in-law, did not speak to Edwards when they met in the Hiller homestead on the Tuesday afternoon before the tragedy.

Charles Alldis Hiller and Edwards enjoyed a pleasant evening before retiring the night of the murder.

Mrs. Edwards, her brother Charles and her husband were opposed to Allan Maxcy Hiller being made administrator of the Hiller estate.

Only three persons are known to have had keys to the Hiller house, where the murder was committed—Mrs. Edwards, Charles and Maxcy Hiller.

Servants in the house declared that lights that had been put out when all went to bed were burning in the morning. The back door was found unlocked.

A wallet known to have contained important papers is missing from Mr. Edwards' clothing, money and watch were not taken.

Allan Maxcy Hiller arrested in New Haven police and held without bail.

Predicts a Panic.

Jacob H. Schiff, in a speech before the Chamber of Commerce, New York City, predicted a panic in the event of a failure to reform the currency.

PUT OUT OF WHITE HOUSE

Police Eject Mrs. Morris, Who Wanted to See Roosevelt

Sister of Representative Hull Insisted on Complaining to the President of Her Husband's Removal.

Washington, D. C.—Screaming and protesting so loudly and so vehemently that she caused a panic in and about the White House, Mrs. Minor Morris, wife of Dr. Minor Morris and a sister-in-law of Representative Hull, of Iowa, Chairman of the House Committee on Military Affairs, was carried bodily from the Executive offices of the White House by a policeman, a Secret Service man and a servant in the President's household, placed in a patrol wagon and sent to the House of Detention. Her offense was insisting upon seeing President Roosevelt to ask for the reinstatement of her husband as a clerk in the office of the Surgeon-General, creating a scene in the Executive offices, and refusing to leave when requested to do so by Assistant Secretary B. F. Barnes. In fact, she was so determined to see the President in behalf of her husband that she took a seat in the reception room and threatened to camp out there for a month or until her request for an interview had been granted. It was by all odds the most distressing scene that had been enacted in or near the White House since Mr. Roosevelt became President, and caused great excitement and much regret.

Mrs. Morris is an accomplished musician, a woman of education and culture, who has traveled abroad. She is the wife of Dr. Minor Morris, who some time ago was dismissed from the United States Army Medical Museum.

It was soon after 1 o'clock p. m. that Mrs. Morris, handsomely gowned, entered the Executive offices. She is about fifty years old and stout.

Mrs. Morris was released from the House of Detention late in the afternoon. The charge of disorderly conduct was wiped off the blotter by directions from the White House. She was then charged with insanity. The police surgeons examined Mrs. Morris, but decided that she was perfectly sane and ordered her release.

MISS ROOSEVELT'S WEDDING.

It Will Take Place in the White House at Noon on February 17.

Washington, D. C.—The President and Mrs. Roosevelt announced that the wedding of Miss Alice Roosevelt to Representative Longworth, of Cincinnati, would occur on Saturday, February 17, at noon, in the East Room of the White House.

The Rev. Dr. Henry Yates Satterlee, Bishop of Washington, will officiate, assisted by the Rev. Roland Cotton Smith, rector of St. John's Church. Following the wedding ceremony a breakfast will be served in the state dining room. Buckner Wallingford, of Cincinnati, a brother-in-law of Mr. Longworth, will probably be the best man, and Representative Robert Adams, of Pennsylvania, and Benson Foraker, son of Senator Foraker, will be two of the ushers. Bellamy Storer, American Ambassador at Vienna, has applied to the State Department for leave of absence to attend the wedding. Mrs. Storer is a relative of Mr. Longworth.

RODRIGUEZ KILLED IN HAYTI.

General Cespedes Routs His Enemy and Ends His Ambitions.

Cape Haytien, Hayti.—General Demetrio Rodriguez, whose army unsuccessfully attacked Porto Plata, was killed by the forces of the present Government of Santo Domingo, commanded by General Cespedes.

The Government's troops attacked Rodrigues outside of Porto Plata, in the position to which he retrcated. Stubborn fighting followed, many being killed or wounded. Rodriguez's army was routed and its leader, who had announced that he would be a candidate for President if he captured Porto Plata, was killed.

Porto Plata's streets are almost deserted, stores are closed and business has stopped.

General Demetrio Rodriguez, called the "Czar of Monte Cristi," his native place, was known by many young New Yorkers, having been for two years a student at St. John's College, Fordham. He left there two years ago to return to Santo Domingo.

EXPRESS COMPANY ROBBED.

About $18,000 Taken Between Atlanta and New York City.

Washington, D. C.—It was learned that about $18,000 was taken from an express pouch between Atlanta, Ga., and New York a few days ago. The Southern Express Company received the package at Augusta. From there it went to Columbia, S. C., and it arrived in Washington early on Sunday morning. The Adams Express Company sent it to New York, and there the loss was discovered. Officials of the express company are making an investigation, but nothing has yet been found to indicate who took the money.

Charge Fraud in Franchise Tax.

Charges of the most serious character involving a branch of the government of New York State, which collects the franchise tax upon corporations amounting to between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000 a year, have been filed with State Controller Otto Kelsey, at Albany. Mr. Kelsey said that he would begin an immediate investigation.

SIX PERSONS MURDERED

Youth at Caledonia, Minn., Shoots Three Helpless Women.

REJECTED LOVER TAKES REVENGE

Kills Himself by Self-Inflicted Wound in His Head—One Sister of His Sweetheart Escapes—Awful Tragedy in a Michigan Home Revealed by Nearby Neighbors of the Victims.

Caledonia, Minn.—Frenzy arising from disappointment in what he called love led a young dental student in the University of Minnesota, Matthew Styer, to the particularly cowardly murder of three women and to suicide. He shot his sweetheart to death and sent fatal bullets through her mother and sister. Then he wounded himself beyond recovery and flung himself down to die with his head on the breast of her he would have wed. None of the women had a chance for life. The man shot them down one after another as he sped from room to room. Pearl Wheaton, the murderer's inamorita, was the last he shot before turning the weapon on himself. Her mother, Mrs. S. N. Wheaton, and her sister Ruth fell in her defense. A smaller sister escaped the student's bullets by making a flying leap through a window by which Styer entered the house.

Styer had been rejected by Pearl Wheaton. He went to the house in the early hours, when he knew Wheaton had not returned home, and rapped on the hall door for admittance. Mrs. Wheaton opened the door a few inches and told the young man he could not enter her home. Styer hurled himself against the door, but it was held by a safety chain. Then he rushed along the veranda to a window and smashed it with a blow of his fist. His hand was cut severely, but he beat on pane after pane until all the glass was broken, and then he battered down the frame. Blood was streaming from the gashes in his wrists when he sprang into the house.

"You mustn't come here!" cried Ruth Wheaton.

"I must see Pearl," Styer shouted.

"Stand back!" shrieked the girl, leveling a revolver at the intruder. The maddened man snatched the pistol from her grasp and shot her twice. Both bullets pierced her breast, and she sank unconscious to the floor. Styer leaped across her, only to be confronted by Mrs. Wheaton.

"You shan't kill both my daughters," the mother screamed, throwing herself upon him. He shot her through the arm, but she grasped him about the neck with the other and tried to bear him to the floor. He fired again, the ball passing through her throat, and she fell across the sensless girl.

"Pearl! Pearl!" cried Styer, bounding upstairs. It was then the child got away. The elder Miss Wheaton was barricaded in her room. Styer burst the lock and pushed back the furniture that held the door. He sent a bullet through the young woman's heart and shot himself in the head. The girl's body was found on the floor by neighbors. Half way across it, his head above the heart his bullet had pierced, lay Styer dying. Surgeons found that heart cleft in twain. They said they could not save the lives of the wounded persons.

Farmer Butchers Family.

Rochester, Mich.—Alarmed by the deserted appearance of the farm house of Clarence A. Barnum, who recently settled near here, neighbors broke into the house and found Barnum, his wife, his daughter, Louise, aged twenty-three, and his son, Chester, aged sixteen, all lying dead. The wife and the son and daughter had apparently been murdered with an ax.

A single-barreled shotgun lying near his corpse and the fact that his head was almost entirely blown off, showed how Barnum himself had met his end. Mrs. Barnum's body lay in the woodshed. It appeared that she had been able to resist the murderer for a brief time, or at any rate had succeeded in eluding him long enough to reach the shed. Here she was struck down and met the same fate that had befallen her son and daughter.

Barnum sold a farm near Homer, Mich., only a few months ago and came here late in the season. It is said that the harvest in his new home did not meet his expectations and that he had become despondent. This was made evident in a letter he had written to a brother in Waterloo, N. Y. Two other sons and a daughter were away from home when the tragedy occurred.

William Barnum is editor of the College News Letter, an official publication of the University of Michigan, at Ann Arbor. John Barnum lives in Coldwater, Mich. The surviving daughter, Mary Barnum, lives in Albion, Mich.

GERMAN ARMY'S NEW HEAD.

Count von Moltke, Nephew of Famous Commander, in Command.

Berlin, Germany.—Lieutenant-General Count von Moltke has been appointed Chief of the General Staff, succeeding Field Marshal Count von Schlieffen. He is the nephew of the famous Count von Moltke.

Puerto Plata Besieged.

The Dominican revolutionists besieged Puerto Plata, and all ingress or egress from the town was stopped except for those who wished to go on board the American war ships.

Professional Cards.

Attorneys.

William M. Adams,
Attorney-at-Law.
CLANTON.
Office, Adams Place. Practices in all Courts. Long time loans negotiated on Improved Farm Lands.

N. S. JOHNSON, M. D.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
Office at
Clanton Drug Store CLANTON

L. V. STABLER, M. D
Physician & Surgeon
Office Over Horn's Drug Store
Thorsby, Alabama

DR. E. G. HYMAN
DENTIST
Office in Tipton Mullins' Building
Office Hours 9 to 12 a. m. 1 to 5 p. m.
CLANTON

A. C. SMITH J. OSMOND MIDDLETON
Smith & Middleton
Attorneys-at-Law
Practice in all Courts.
Office 6th St., Opp. Court House
CLANTON.

H. C. Junkerman
DENTIST
OFFICE: Franzen Building
Thorsby, Alabama.

G. H. GERALD,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Office at Thorsby Inn.
Deeds, Mortgages, Affidavits and other papers carefully made out.
I. S. Gerald, Notary Public
AT THORSBY SAVINGS BANK.

In addition to our Complete Stock of DRUGS Etc.
You will find a full line of
SCHOOL BOOKS, STATIONERY, ETC. SEEDS.
PAINTS OILS and GLASS.
CLANTON DRUG COMPANY

FREE
to Readers of
THE UNION

To everyone who sends us $1.00 for a year's subscription to THE UNION, new subscriber or renewal, we will give as a premium absolutely FREE,

A Year's Subscription
to
The Southern Ruralist

We have examined the Southern Ruralist and consider it to be the best and most practical farm paper published in the South, and it just suits this locality. Drop by The Union Office when you are in town and see a copy of the Ruralist. It will mean dollars in your pocket to read this paper with The Union for a year. tf.

TIMBER FOR SALE!
Over a hundred acres of Virgin Swamp timber for sale. Apply to T J. Billingsley, Clanton, Ala, Route 3. tf.

FOR SALE!
Lands, both improved and unimproved (timbered); 4 head Beef Cattle: 10 stands Bees, 8 double story and 8 with supers on; 10 fine Wyandotte Chickens, 12 hens and 4 roosters. Small farms to rent.
Alfred Pogwell,
tf. Clanton, Ala.

An Empty Chair

It stands in its old, old place.
But yet—with a strange, chill air;
For I miss the smile on a tender face
'Neath a crown of silvery hair,
And I turn from the silence there.

Am I in a dream? Ah, me!
Some day, perchance, I shall wake
And that same sweet vision see,
And the hands of a dear one take,
When the clouds o'erveiling shall break.
—Annie G. Murray in Boston Herald.

AT THE BRINK OF ETERNITY

BY CHARLES SLOAN REID

(Copyright, 1905, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

Just off the street, in a narrow alley that reeked with the scent of garbage, rested a large dry goods box, and in the box crouched the figure of a man trying to shield himself from the falling rain. The faint lights of the street glimmered in front of him, but none of the rays penetrated to his place of refuge. The man had been sitting there for some time in silence and motionless. At last he muttered:

"There's nothing to it, why keep it up?"

Then he relapsed into silence again for another half hour. At the end of this time he muttered again:

"No; there's nothing to it—and why keep it up?"

Silence again for a moment, then:

"What's to gain anyhow by keeping up the fight? Nothing. Who's to care if I drop it? No one. There'll be an end to everything. All will be blank, no feeling either good or bad, no more misery, no cold or hunger, nothing, absolutely nothing—it's pleasant to think that there will be nothing to feel. Maybe there's a soul. If so, it will go darting here and there through space like the pollen sheath of a grass stalks in a varying breeze."

He fell into silence once more and listened to the patter of the rain on the top of his box while his thoughts ran over and over the same line of reasoning.

"Yes, I'll do it." He caught the edge of the box to pull himself up from his crouching position. "It will be a very easy thing to do, much easier than to hold on another twenty-four hours. Yet there's something that tugs at my determination somehow. But it is off—I declare it to be off now."

He crept out of the box and turned in the direction of the North river. The rain beat upon his head, but he seemed to care no longer for that. He had thrust his hands into his pockets and his shoulders had drooped forward as if he carried a weight on his back. He walked slowly, sometimes stopping still for an instant, as though he still argued with himself.

It was more than half a mile to the North river at the point which he sought, an abandoned portion of a rotting old wharf. There were no near-by lights, and the place was murky and dismal. The surroundings suited the mood of the man and encouraged his determination. He continued on across the planking which was curled and hollowed and twisted from the contending forces of the dampness from below and the sunshine of the day from above. Occasionally a weak board gave way just a little beneath his feet, and involuntarily he sprang forward to a sounder part of the flooring. Reaching the edge he leaned against a piece of piling which extended above the wharf, and looked down toward the waters. He could not see the line where they played against the timbers of the wharf, but he knew that it was just four feet down at this point. No sound came to his ears above the lapping of the waves against the timbers for some time, for the rain had almost ceased, though no stars were visible overhead.

"No, there's nothing to it, and I'll not keep it up; though I shall just stand here a little while longer, just while I am feeling no particular indisposition, either mentally or physically."

He walked slowly.

He continued to gaze toward the waters of the river. A half hour passed. Then a sound came to the man's ear that was not from the river. Footsteps, light, hesitating footsteps, sounded from behind him, coming in his direction across the flooring of the wharf. Throwing his arm about the post he half turned to listen more intently.

The footsteps came on directly toward him it seemed and he started to move away to escape detection for soon he was going to put into execution the thing he had come there to do. But presently the course of the intruder swerved a little and led toward the edge of the wharf several feet away from the man. The footsteps were far too light for those of a man—they were evidently being made by a woman or a child. But why should a woman or a child come here at this hour? The footsteps halted at the edge of the planking, and silence again reigned for a few moments. Then a sob broke from the form that had stopped there, and a woman's voice murmured:

Laid a hand upon the woman's arm.

"God have mercy on my soul! If I am doing that which I should not, but it seems that I have endured all that I can endure. There is no use to try longer. It is hopeless. If only there will be nothing beyond this, absolutely nothing—just an eternal blank and void."

The voice broke off quiveringly, and the man, still clinging to the post leaned outward toward the woman. His free, outstretched hand might almost have touched her. Thoughts of his own situation had for the present vanished.

"But why hesitate longer," the voice continued soon, "only to prolong the misery? I wish I were braver—and yet I am brave enough for this thing. There is no one to miss me, there is hardly one that would know my dead face. But it is strange that I hurried so to get here, and am now no longer in haste to do what I came for. But I shall not wait another moment. God forgive me!"

She crouched a little to make a spring. But the man had crept away from the post and he now laid a hand upon the woman's arm. She turned quickly but made no outcry.

"Who are you that you lay your hand upon me?" she asked in a low but steady tone.

"I am one who came here for the same purpose which brought you."

"Then why do you restrain me?"

"Because something has suddenly taken a grip upon my heart that had not existed before. I have been listening at your talk. You have drunk at the thick and murky fountain—you could be something to me, and I believe I could be something to you. I have just learned that sympathy is the half of bread in this world. Let us go back together and take up the struggle again—already I feel new life in my soul. We should belong to each other. You have saved my life and I shall save yours. In a single instant love has been born in my heart. And you will love me—I shall make you."

The woman did not answer. But she allowed his arms to steal about her and to lead her away from the brink of the river. They crossed the wharf back toward the city. Stopping at the inner edge of the planking he drew her to him closely and kissed her lips timidly; and a momentary trembling as of virgin confusion passed through her body. Then hand in hand they walked back toward the pavements and the lights and the sounds of the city; everything seemed beautiful and fair, and in their hearts was a wonderful hope.

Her Darling.

A fashionably gowned young woman, after leaving her carriage at the entrance to a leading shop in West Twenty-third street the other day, gave a parting glance toward her seat mate, a stylishly frocked pug, says a writer in the New York Press. The pug eyed its mistress wistfully, and milady retraced her steps to her vehicle and said, sympathetically: "Come, dearie, you're lonesome without your mother. I'll take you along."

Promptly the footman saluted, and transferred the dog companion to "mother's" arms.

SHOOT FROM THE TISBURY YEW

Interesting Relic Secured by a Boston Clergyman.

When Dr. Charles E. Banks was in England six years ago and visited Tisbury he saw in the old churchyard of that parish the famous yew tree which is said to have been planted by one of the Arundel family seven hundred or more years ago. It is about thirty-six feet in circumference, hollowed at the trunk and capable of holding about ten persons in the cavity.

The vicar promised the doctor a shoot from the tree as soon as one could be procurred. Recently the doctor received by express a young tree from the old giant, and it is now potted and ready for transplantation at the proper time. When it becomes acclimated this memorial of the old Tisbury will find a home in the new town on the lawn of Dr. Banks' summer home at Vineyard Haven. The yew is a large and beautiful evergreen tree, with a trunk often of great thickness, branching a few feet above the ground and forming a large and dense head. Fine specimens of it are frequently found in English churchyards, and, for this reason, it has been often mentioned in the elegiac poems of English authors.

The yew tree obtained by Dr. Banks will have a deep significance and interest for the Vineyard people not only because it came from old Tisbury, but also for the reason that under the spreading branches of the parent tree Thomas Mayhew, known to fame as Gov. Mayhew, must have been carried to his baptism over three hundred years ago.—Boston Transcript.

This Is the Approved Method.

She runs to the gate as he comes, there to meet him;
The joy that she feels in her smile is expressed.
With wifely embraces she lovingly greets him:
She knows he is weary and needs a good rest.
But first, it is certain he ought to have dinner.
He'll feel a deal better, she's sure, after that,
The lady is what we would all call a "winner."
She knows what to do when she wants a new hat.

She wears his pet gown and she's mighty good looking;
She has, which is lucky, his favorite dish;
The coffee is worthy the rest of the cooking;
He seems to have all a mere mortal could wish.
She talks to him gayly, her silvery laughter Rings out at his joking so ready and pat,
He has his suspicions of what she is after.
But then it is cheap at the price of a hat.

She brings his old jacket when dinner is ended,
His slippers and pipe, not forgetting the match,
And when on the lounge he is fairly extended
She gets out her basket to darn and to patch.
Oh, cynics may sneer at the marriage relation,
But what half so sweet as that nice,
cozy chat?
And what does it matter if soon conversation
Insensibly turns to a new winter hat?
—Chicago News.

Lighthouse as Bird Trap.

The night watch of the Cape May lighthouse was chatting with a visitor when something struck hard against the netting around the light. The watch went out upon the tiny circular balcony and returned with a dead bird in his hand. "A mud hen," said he. "Sometimes we get five or six in a night. Often we find robins and ducks dead on the balcony."

"It's a fine life you lead here," remarked the visitor.

"Yes; if it wasn't for the oil—the six gallons of oil that the light burns nightly. The government won't give us any machinery to hoist it up with. Consequently every day I must carry the whole six gallons up these 217 steps. That's hard on the heart."

"It must be," agreed the visitor. "It would be so easy to rig up a rope and pulley, too, and draw the oil up that way."

"It ain't allowed," said the watch. "In every oil-burning lighthouse the attendants must carry up the oil by hand. It does seem——"

Plop!

He slipped out to get another mud hen.

Inconsistent Science.

"Did you like that scientific paper on germs and baleful bacilli that I read at the club?" said Ethel to her companion as they entered a Lexington avenue car.

"Indeed I did, dear. I was shocked to know that almost every article is covered with disease germs."

"Well," said the amateur scientist, "every word I spoke about the danger of infection is absolutely true." She fumbled in her pocketbook as she spoke. "No, dear," she added hastily; "it's my turn to pay the fares." She spoke rather indistinctly because she held a greasy, battered dime between her teeth as she used her hands to close her chatelaine bag.—New York Press.

Texas Railways.

Texas is building or planning so many new railroads that it is next to impossible to keep track of them all. When they are all completed Texas will not fall far short of having 50 per cent more main track than Illinois, which was the state of greatest mileage until recently, when the iron horse took a fresh spurt over the boundless areas of the Lone Star State.—St. Louis Republic.

Two Breaks from Party Lines.

William Travers Jerome of New York is not the only man who won at the recent election without having any party nomination. In Massachusetts John R. Moran, who ran for district attorney of Suffolk county (Boston) on the indorsement of the requisite number of voters, was elected over the fusion nominee of the Republicans and Democrats.

TRACTS IN MANY LANGUAGES

Feats of Printing Done Here for Missionary Work Abroad.

One of the most difficult of all publishing tasks is accomplished by the American Tract society, which prints not only tracts, but also books in native African languages such as Mpongwe, Bulu, Umbundu, Benga and Fang. Inasmuch as these tongues, though spoken by millions of blacks, were not written—or, at all events, were not written until recently—the problem of rendering such works as the "Pilgrim's Progress" into their vernacular in printed form is beset by many obstacles.

For the copy dependence must be had upon the missionaries, who write it out in typescript. It has to be sent all the way to New York to be set up in type, and, as a matter of course, care must be taken that it shall be as close to perfect accuracy as possible.

The languages are not understood either by the men who set the type or by the proofreaders, and so the editors, who are equally ignorant on the subject, must follow copy slavishly. As far as possible the typewritten words represent phonetically the spoken words as uttered by the natives.

Having thus translated their vocal speech into print the missionaries have taught the blacks to read their own languages, an accomplishment which has helped greatly in their mental and moral elevation. They have not only simple dictionaries, but also primers illustrated with excellent woodcuts.—New York Sun.

Too Thirsty to Stay Alive.

Some years ago, at the time Gen. Wm. A. Bancroft was colonel of the Fifth Massachusetts the regiment was camped at South Farmingham. A private in one of the companies, named Faught, was one day on guard. Before going on post at 11 p. m. he drank a number of glasses of rum punch.

While on post he fell asleep, and was found sleeping by the relief. He was taken to the guard house, and in the morning was brought before Col. Bancroft.

The colonel said in a stern voice: "Private Faught, do you realize that it is a very serious offence to sleep while on post? Why, if this were in time of war," in his loudest tones, "you would shot for sleeping on post."

"As I am very thirsty, sir, kindly consider me shot."

He then faced about and started to leave. He was brought back, severely reprimanded, and returned to the guard house. It was very hard for the officers present to hide their smiles at the look on the colonel's face.

Cleveland and the Women.

When Grover Cleveland was president a young woman from Cleveland, who had been a schoolmate of the president's wife, was a guest at the White House. A matter of large public moment was up for the president's decision, and Mrs. Cleveland and her guest brought it up for discussion at the breakfast table.

Their views were of the radical, persuasive order, and were quite emphatically expressed. Mr. Cleveland listened with an amused smile behind his newspaper. Finally the girl from Ohio said to him:

"Now, Mr. President, you have heard our views. Are you prepared to indorse them?"

The president folded his paper and arose.

"You girls," he said, with a smile, "can beat me all to pieces in millinery and dressmaking. But when it comes to my end of the house, I feel under obligations to do my own thinking."—New York Tribune.

Suzannah.

When de dew on de grass am a-fallin',
An de stahs am a-twinklin', too,
O, it's den dat meh heaht am a-callin',
O, meh li'l' yallah gal, fub yo';
Suzannah, O-o-o Suzannah,
Meh heaht am a-callin' yo'.

Now de light's fallin' sof' on de rivah,
F'om de moon high up in de sky,
An' Es watchin' de watah a-quivah
Es de night wind goes passin' by;
Suzannah, O-o-o Suzannah,
De night wind's a-passin' by.

O, de katydid done stop a-singin'
Caze de glowwo's he shine so bright
On de bundle of love yo's a-bringin'
Tuh yo' own niggah boy dis night;
Suzannah, O-o-o Suzannah,
Yo' bundle of love dis night.

Now de fishfiles am shinin' out brightah,
An' dey's liftin' dey night lamps high,
Jes' tuh make all de pathway lightah,
Caze dey know yo's a-drawin' nigh;
Suzannah, O-o-o Suzannah,
Dey knows yo's a-drawin' nigh.

F'om de ole grapevine swing in de thicket
I jes' stretches meh ahms to'ds yo'
An' meh heaht it do sing wid de cricket,
Caze I wants yo', meh honey, I do;
Suzannah, O-o-o Suzannah,
I reckon yo' wants me, too.
—Ella Middleton Tybout in Lippincott's.

Where Words Fail.

"What is the color 'chatain'?" a certain young man asked a venerable Creole lady, whose hair was white as snow.

She rummaged through her mind for terms of explanation, being a little liable to forget English words at times.

Finally, however, she replied:

"'Chatain,' dat is the color of my hair, you understand, when I was young."

And then she smiled with satisfaction at the exact manner in which she had explained the term, while the questioner still wondered what color "chatain" was.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Satisfied.

"Can't see why you're so smitten with her."

"Why, because she's so deucedly pretty."

"Beauty's only skin deep."

"Well, great Scott! I'm no cannibal. That's deep enough for me!"

SALARY RAISE HIS UNDOING

In one of the Broadway hotels much frequented by mercantile travelers, a knot of drummers were seated at gossip of the trade after dinner. "What has become of Johnes?" asked one. "Haven't you heard about him?" replied the man addressed. "Have you not heard of his rise and downfall? Well, it was this way.

"You all know Johnes was the best seller Smithson & Co. had. Donald & Rathbone offered him a bigger salary if he would come with them, and he succumbed. Johnes was foxy and demanded a written contract for five years, which they gave him. It was $4,000 a year—and expenses. Well, the first trip Johnes made he ran up against hard luck. Everything seemed to go against him. When he got back he was ashamed to show up at the office. He had not made his salary, let alone his expenses. But, to his great surprise and gratification, his employers greeted him rapturously. 'We know how things go sometimes, Mr. Johnes,' they said, 'but never mind, we are perfectly satisfied with your work.' And they sent him on a trip down South.

"That trip was worse than the first. When he got back he went into the office prepared for a roasting. Before he could say a word the head of the firm said, 'My dear Mr. Johnes, we are delighted with the energy you have shown. It is true the returns have not been great, but we appreciate what you have done. As a reward for your industry we intend to raise your salary $500 a year. Hereafter you will be paid weekly at that rate. Good day.'

"Johnes nearly fainted and pinched himself when he got outside the office. At the end of the week Johnes drew his salary, which was computed at the new rate, and signed the usual receipt. A few days later he received a letter from the firm saying his services were no longer required. Johnes was thunderstruck. He hurried to the office, flourished his contract and demanded an explanation.

"'Your contract is no longer valid,' said the head of the firm, blandly. 'You broke it by accepting an increase of salary. Good day.'

"Johnes is temporarily out of business. He wants now to know whether that is good law or not."

None of the assembled commercial travelers could tell him.

DREAM OF VANISHED BOYHOOD

There's a scene I remember, an oft chosen byway,
Where the grass in midsummer was wavy and long,
And where, in its joy, was a bright little river
That rippled and babbled and murmured its song.
A clear little, bright little mite of a river
That sparkled and chattered and murmured along.

And there on the high grassy bank was the beechwood,
The far-reaching elm cast its shadow around;
'Twas there too the silver leaved maple was growing,
And the bright fiery tassels of sumach were found—
While on through the patches of shade and of sunshine,
In ripple and eddy still dancing away,
That dear little, clear little mite of a river
Kept murm'ring and singing the whole summer day.

And there, too, the red-breasted robin was singing,
The bluebird once swayed in the branches on high
As if undecided which charms to be seeking—
The green of the earth or the blue of the sky.
While still from the depth of the shadiest places,
With ripple and song, never ceasing to run,
That dear little, bright little mite of a river
Whirled merrily into the light of the sun.

And there leaped the trout through the rapids and shallows,
Midstream 'neath the dead white bough of the tree,
Where oft in his glory the bold feathered fisher
Swooped down on his prize, 'twas intended for me.
While I, youthful angler, expectant waited
The impulse conveyed by the twitching of the line
That hung in that clear little mite of a river,
Whose bright, finny treasure no more may be mine.

E'en now the gay butterfly flits o'er the water,
The wild bee returns to the sweet scented flowers.
The summer born locust flings out from the treetops
His shrill whistled praise of the bright sunny hours;
Even now I imagine the maple invites
To come back and lounge in the dell of the glen.
That the dear little, clear little mite of a river
Is calling me back to the meadow again.

No more by the bend, where the water is deepest,
I pile the few garments a boy needs must wear.
No more may I plunge in the pure sparkling water
To sport with its ripples, their coolness to share.
For I'm far, far away from that green grassy meadow,
While time into years passes slowly along.
But still in the distance that mite of a river
Is calling me back with the voice of a song.
—Floyd D. Raze in Chicago Inter Ocean.

WEALTH DUE TO LAZINESS

With the opening up of the section of the Province of Ontario in the neighborhood of North Bay, a couple of hundred miles directly north of the city of Toronto, all sorts of tales have drifted down out of that country about the mineral wealth it contains and the lucky "strikes" that have been made by prospectors. One of the most romantic of these, and one that has the merit of having real wealth to show for it, concerns W. G. Tretheway, now a resident of Toronto, who is the possessor of a mine that has already paid him a small fortune, which he found simply owing to his lazy habits.

At the time he made his "strike" Tretheway was a traveling salesman for a wholesale shoe house and was possessed of a certain amount of knowledge of chemicals and ores of various kinds. Two years ago his business route carried him to one of the new settlements on the Grand Trunk railway, in the North Bay district, called Cobalt, from the deposits of that mineral that had been found in the neighborhood. Tretheway, who was always keeping an eye out for something in the way of a "strike" for himself, took a walk out in the forest around the place, and strolled along a beaten path because it made the easiest walking. He came to a place where a big tree had fallen across the trail, but instead of walking around the tree, as every one else had been in the habit of doing, he ducked under it to save himself a much distance.

As he bent his head to pass beneath the prostrate trunk his eye caught something that had been rooted up by the fall of the tree, and he dropped down on the ground. He gathered up some of the earth, put it in his pocket and returned to the station. At the earliest opportunity he went through the necessary formalities to get possession of the land, and with the little money he possessed he began to work the claim, which was a cobalt mine. In less than two years he has cleared nearly $200,000 from the mine and has reduced the price of cobalt about 40 per cent. All because he was too lazy to walk around a fallen tree.

FAMOUS PONY EXPRESS RIDERS

The world's record for organized and "schedule" riding was made by the Pony express, says C. F. Lummis in McClure's Magazine. Never before nor since has mail been carried so fast, so far and so long merely by horse power, and if I am not in error, never elsewhere have horses been so steadfastly spurred in any regular service. The Pony express carried mail between the east and California (at $5 per half ounce) for about two years. It ran from Independence to San Francisco, 1,950 miles. Its time was ten days and it never needed eleven. It employed 500 of the fastest horses that could be found, of couse, all western horses, 200 station keepers and 80 riders. It had 190 stations—crowded down the throat of the wilderness, 65 to 100 miles (or even more) apart, according as water chanced. The rider was allowed two minutes to change horses and mails at a station.

William F. Cody, "Buffalo Bill," was the most famous of the Pony express riders—and as a 14-year-old "kid" his first "job" from the man who invented the Pony express. Cody made the record here—a round trip ride of 384 miles without stops, except to change horses and to swallow a hasty meal.

Another of the Pony express riders, Jack Keetley, made a run of 340 miles in thirty-one hours; and another, Sam Moore, rode 280 miles in four hours and forty-six minutes.

Such men got $100 to $125 per month and "found." Their mail was limited to fifteen pounds. Postage was $5 per half ounce for some time; then the government ordered it cut down to $1 per half ounce, at which figure it remained till the completion of the overland telegraph to San Francisco (Oct., 1861), ended the life of this gallant enterprise.

DREAMING AND WAKING FORMS

Harvey, who discovered the circulation of the blood, is said to have recorded a dream in which a bumblebee stung him in his left thigh, on a place where a couple of days later appeared an ugly ulcer. Malesherbe, the renowned French author, found himself in a dream attacked by a rowdy who stabbed him in his left breast with a dagger in an area where the following evening he felt the first attack of severe pneumonia. "The archives of medical reports," says Dr. Axel Emil Gibson, "are heavy with cases of a similar character, which have either received no explanation at all or else have been explained away entirely."

Dr. Gibson calls attention to the fact that dreams depend on some other media than those known as the five senses. A conclusive evidence in favor of this view is found in the circumstances that even the blind are able to see in dreams—as witness the experiences recorded by Helen Keller, "Blind Tom," the poet Milton, and others. Hence the conclusion seems to be unavoidable that it is only so far as physical vision is concerned that the optic nerve guides and limits the field of vision.

This same author arrives at the conduction that dreaming and waking differ in degree and form of manifestation only, not in principle and essence. "Like waking consciousness," he avers, "the dream reveals, but does not create. The same world that surrounds the waking individual surrounds the dreaming, only the centers, points and media of observation are changed."

GASTON'S

TRANSLATED FROM

AKE up, Gaston—wake up, man; are you so besotted that you can take no interest in this glorious day? Wake up, you fool, listen to the shouts of the mob, listen to the chant of the tumbrils—away they go, away to Dr. Guillotine, a brave sight, a fine sight, for all of us, and yet you sleep. You are a clown; you are unbelievable."

Jean, the innkeeper, snapped his fingers in the air as he gave off with this burst of enthusiasm these last words. Gaston Perodil raised his head from the table whereon it had been resting and looked with sleepy, bloodshot eyes at the burly figure of Jean, the innkeeper.

"No interest to me," he said, slowly. "What do I care if a thousand aristocrats lose their heads today—let them." He reached over for the wine bottle and looked at it critically. "Empty!" he muttered.

"Gaston, you weary me. A man of your talents, a man of your strength, a man who could do so much for the cause. Come, citizen, bestir yourself, get into the rabble—be the first to seize the carrion when it is thrown from the steps of the Conciergerie. Hurrah, this is a glorious day!" Gaston Perodil rose and shook himself like a big dog. He was tall, broad shouldered, dressed in a garb which bespoke him to be a soldier—although that garb was now sadly bemirched and rent, the tricolor blased on his cap, his tricolor sash, crumpled and torn, showed here and there dull stains—the stains of blood.

"I have done enough," he said, "I am sick of it. Jean, it is you who talk like a fool, no—not like a fool, like a tiger. Does the thought ever enter your thick head that some of these people whose deaths we gloat over are mere flesh and blood, as good—ay, and better—than you or I; that there is too much of slaughter in it all, that there is scant justice? Haven't you been there, man, to the Conciergerie? Haven't you listened to the sentences? Guilty! guilty! guilty! until the word trips off the tongue mechanically. Everybody guilty—you or I, Jean, if we were there; if we had done everything possible in human power for the cause, if we were ranged there, it would be impossible for the mob to shout 'Not guilty'—they have forgotten how."

The little eyes of the innkeeper twinkled.

"Heaven help you, Gaston," he said, "if you said such words to any other man but myself. How do you know that I will not denounce you?"

"Because," said Gaston, and he pushed his way through the chairs to the innkeeper's side and laid his heavy hand on the innkeeper's shoulder, "you dare not. I would find a means of killing you before my head lost company with my body. Pah! I must go out. I must walk—anywhere away from those sounds."

He pushed his hat tightly on his head and passed out into the street; a street deserted even of the children, who but a week or two back had made the very stones ring with their childish clamor—deserted, for the street's population was at the foot of the Conciergerie, or at the foot of the guillotine. Gaston Perodil walked rapidly down the street, crossed the square at the end and plunged into the narrow, alley-like and tortuous arteries of lower Paris. He came to the end of the fortifications and gazed with eyes of some melancholy upon the works which, prosecuted once with so much vigor, were now all abandoned.

The afternoon deepened. He could faintly hear on the warm autumn breeze the clamor of the city; but here he sat in solitude, thinking, and thinking deeply.

There had been a time when Gaston Perodil had lusted for the blood of the aristocrats. He had been among the first to shout for the cockade of the citizen, he had been in the front rank of those who had brought the dreaded Bastille to a mere heap of masonry. He it was who had received promotion after promotion until, at that moment, he scarcely knew what his position was in the army of the republic.

Twilight deepened until night crept across Paris. Gaston rose and prepared to walk back to the city. He had scarcely taken two steps, however, before a noise close at hand arrested his progress. It was a sound which was foreign to his ears—some one sobbing. He remained for a moment rooted to the spot. Yes, he was not mistaken; it was not the rustle of the breeze in the lime trees of the little garden, it was the sobbing of a woman.

He looked around, but could see nothing, then crossed with a few rapid strides to the gate of the deserted cottage, pushed it open and peered within. Still he could see nothing. He went further with catlike tread, and then perceived the figure of a woman on the little bench under the lime trees. He crept around to the back of the trees and laid his hand gently on the woman's shoulder.

"Citizeness," said he, in his rough voice, "why do you cry?"

The woman started to her feet and faced Gaston. One swift glance at his uniform, at the tattered sash and tricolor cockade, and she screamed and retreated, holding her hands before her face, and tottered until she fell against Gaston laughed.

"There is more in this," said he to himself, "than meets the eye. A p

HIS UNDOING

fice prepared for a roasting. Be could say a word the head of m said, 'My dear Mr. Johnes, we lighted with the energy you own. It is true the returns
t been great, but we appreci hat you have done. As a reward ur industry we intend to raise lary $500 a year. Hereafter you paid weekly at that rate.
"Johnes nearly fainted and pinch mself, when he got outside the
d. At the end of the week Joh ew his salary, which was compu
the new rate, and signed the ceipt. A few days later he recei letter from the firm saying his ces were no longer required. John s thunderstruck. He hurried e office, flourished his contract manded an explanation.
"'Your contract is no longer va
d the head of the firm, blan ou broke it by accepting an ease of salary. Good day.'
"Johnes is temporarily out of siness. He wants now to k ether that is good law or not.

None of the assembled commer
velers could tell him.

SHED BOYHOOD

Midstream 'neath the dead white bough of the tree,
here oft in his glory the bold feath fisher swooped down on his prize, 'twas tended for me,
ile I youthful angler expectan waited
The impulse conveyed by the twinge
the line
at hung in that clear little mite
river,
Whose bright, finny treasure no
may be mine.

n now the gay butterfly flits o'er water,
The wild bee returns to the scented flowers, summer horn locust flings out of tree tops is shrill whistled praise of the brig
sunny hours;
en now I imagine the maple invites o come back and lounge in the de of the glen,
at the dear little, clear little mite
river
calling me back to the meadow aga more by the bend, where the water deepest,

pile the few garments a boy ne
must wear,
more may I plunge in the pure gu
ling water port with its ripples, their co ness to share.
I am far, far away from that gre
grassy meadow,
While time into years passes slow
along,
I still in the distance that mite of
river
calling me back with the voice of song.

loyd D. Rape in Chicago Inter Ocea

TO LAZINESS

s always keeping an eye out f nething in the way of a "strik himself, took a walk out in t est around the place, and stroll ng a beaten path because it ma easiest walking. He came to o where a big tree had fall oss the trail, but instead of wa around the tree, as every one e been in the habit of doing, hed under it to save himself t ch distance.
As he bent his head to pass ath the prostrate trunk his e ght something that had been re up by the fall of the tree, and opped down on the ground.
hered up some of the earth, put his pocket and returned to t tion. At the earliest opportun went through the necessary f lities to get possession of the la l with the little money he possess began to work the claim, whi s a cobalt mine. In less than t is he has cleared nearly $200,0 m the mine and has reduced t ce of cobalt about 40 per cent. A because he was too lazy to wa nd a fallen tree.

EXPRESS. RIDERS

William F. Cody, "Buffalo Bill," w most famous of the Pony expr ers—and as a 14-year-old "kid" first "job" from the man who cted the Pony express. Cody m record here—a round trip ride sitated by the killing of his rel 384 miles without stops, except nge horses and to swallow ty meal.
Another of the Pony express rid k Keetley, made a run of 340 m thirty-one hours; and another, me, rode 280 miles in fourt
rs and forty-six minutes.
Such men got $100 to $125 per mo
"found." Their mail was limi fifteen pounds." Postage was $5 f ounce for some time; then ernment ordered it cut down to half ounce, at which figure it s the completion of the overland aph to San Francisco (Oct.
0), ended the life of this gal
erprise.

WAKING FORMS

this view is found in the circ nces that even the blind are see in dreams—as witness ences recorded by Helen K ind Tom," the poet Milton, ers. Hence the conclusion be unavoidable that it is only as physical vision is concerned optic nerve guides and limits
l of vision.
This same author arrives at the tion that dreaming and wa
er in degree and form of ma on only, not in principle and ce. "Like waking consciousn wers, "the dream reveals, but create. The same world that nds the waking individual nds the dreaming, only the uts and media of observation nged."

GASTON'S SACRIFICE

TRANSLATED FROM THE FRENCH.

AKE up, Gaston—wake up, man; are you so besotted that you can take no interest in this glorious day? Wake up, you fool, listen to the shouts of the mob, listen to the ...nd of the tumbrils—away they go, ...way to Dr. Guillotine, a brave sight, ...y son, for all of us, and yet you ...eep. You are a clown; you are un...teresting."

Jean, the innkeeper, snapped his ...ngers in the air as he gave off with ... burst of enthusiasm these last words.

...aston Perodil raised his head from ...e table whereon it had been resting ...nd looked with sleepy, bloodshot eyes ...t the burly figure of Jean, the inn...keeper.

"No interest to me," he said, slowly. "What do I care if a thousand aristocrats lose their heads today—let them."

He reached over for the wine bottle and looked at it critically. "Empty!" he muttered.

"Gaston, you weary me. A man of your talents, a man of your strength, a man who could do so much for the cause. Come, citizen, bestir yourself. Out into the rabble—be the first to seize the carrion when it is thrown from the steps of the Conciergerie. Hurrah, this is a glorious day!"

Gaston Perodil rose and shook himself like a big dog. He was tall, broad shouldered, dressed in a garb which bespoke him to be a soldier—although that garb was now sadly besmirched and rent, the tricolor blazed in his cap, his tricolor sash, crumpled and torn, showed here and there dull stains—the stains of blood.

"I have done enough," he said, "I am sick of it. Jean, it is you who talk like a fool, no—not like a fool, like a tiger. Does the thought ever enter your thick head that some of these people whose deaths we gloat over are there flesh and blood, as good—ay, and better—than you or I; that there is too much of slaughter in it all, that there is scant justice? Haven't you been there, man, in the Conciergerie? Haven't you listened to the sentences? Guilty! guilty! guilty! until the word trips off the tongue mechanically. Everybody guilty—you or I, Jean, if we were there; if we had done everything possible in human power for the cause, if we were ranged there, it would be impossible for the mob to shout 'Not guilty!'—they have forgotten how."

The little eyes of the innkeeper twinkled.

"Heaven help you, Gaston," he said, "if you said such words to any other man but myself. How do you know that I will not denounce you?"

"Because," said Gaston, and he pushed his way through the chairs to the innkeeper's side and laid his heavy hand on the innkeeper's shoulder, "you dare not. I would find a means of killing you before my head lost company with my body. Pah! I must go out. I must walk—anywhere away from those sounds."

He pushed his hat tightly on his head and passed out into the street; a street deserted even of the children, who but a week or two back had made the very stones ring with their childish clamor—deserted, for the street's population was at the Conciergerie, or at the foot of the guillotine. Gaston Perodil walked rapidly down the street, crossed the square at the end and plunged into the narrow, alley-like and tortuous arteries of lower Paris. He came to the end of the fortifications and gazed with eyes of some melancholy upon the works which, prosecuted once with so much vigor, were now all abandoned.

The afternoon deepened. He could faintly hear on the warm autumn breeze the clamor of the city; but here he was in solitude, thinking, and thinking deeply.

There had been a time when Gaston Perodil had lusted for the blood of the aristocrats. He had been among the first to shout for the cockade of the citizen, he had been in the front rank of those who had brought the dreaded Bastile to a mere heap of masonry. He it was who had received promotion after promotion until, at that moment, he scarcely knew what his position was in the army of the republic.

Twilight deepened until night crept across Paris. Gaston rose and prepared to walk back to the city. He had scarcely taken two steps, however, before a noise close at hand arrested his progress. It was a sound which was foreign to his ears—some one sobbing. He remained for a moment rooted to the spot. Yes, he was not mistaken: it was not the rustle of the breeze in the lilac trees of the little garden, it was the sobbing of a woman.

He looked around, but could see nothing. Then crossed with a few rapid steps to the gate of the deserted cottage, pushed it open and peered within. Still he could see nothing. He went further with catlike tread, and then perceived the figure of a woman on the little bench under the lilac trees. He crept around to the back of the trees and laid his hand gently on the woman's shoulder.

"Citizeness," said he, in his rough voice, "why do you cry?"

The woman started to her feet and faced Gaston. One swift glance at his face at the tattered sash and the tricolor cockade, and she screamed and fell backward, holding her hands before her face, and tottered until she fell into Gaston's arms.

Gaston laughed.

"There is more in this," said he to himself, "than meets the eye. A poor cottage deserted, a woman crying. A peasant? Faugh—no; a dress of silk, a shoe of satin, a bodice which must have cost thirty louis, a hand white and with jewels on the fingers. Oh, Gaston, you are in luck's way!"

He bent over the prostrate woman and took her hand in his.

"And yet wondrous fair. A pity that a neck like that should be spoiled by Dr. Guillotine; a pity that such a face, that such a form should be worth nothing more than a handful of dust. But she is an aristocrat—my duty is clear."

He lifted her in his arms as if he were lifting a child, carried her into the cottage and gently laid her on a rough, wooden bench.

"Yes," he added, "my duty is clear. I will take her to the Conciergerie."

He rose and scratched his chin thoughtfully for a minute, wrinkled his brow and tapped the floor with his heavy boot.

"Pah!" he said, at last, "what am I thinking of?" Then ran through the cottage to the yard and brought in his cap some water, with which he liberally besprinkled the white face of the unconscious woman. In a few moments Gaston Perodil had the satisfaction of seeing her eyes open. She rose and gazed at him with a look of such terror that Gaston feared she would faint again.

"It seems," said the soldier, "that I have frightened you."

She shuddered and pressed her hand upon her bosom. "You are a soldier of the people," she half whispered.

Gaston nodded.

"A soldier of the people, mademoiselle, that is true. And you——"

"Why do you question? You know me."

"Not at all," replied Gaston, with an air of indifference—"not at all, I assure you. But I am a soldier of the people; that is true, every word of it. You are not a citizeness. As a soldier of the people, I must ask you to come with me."

"To the Conciergerie?"

"To the Conciergerie."

"Money will not tempt you," she cried, looking at him with imploring eyes. "Oh, if you only knew," and here she broke down and sobbed. "If you only knew. I have been here two days. I fled, leaving them all, my father, my brothers! Heaven help me, where are they?"

Gaston raised his right hand and struck the back of his neck, then smiled.

"Mademoiselle," said he, "you will accompany me; but, better still, I will let you remain here, for you will promise me, as an aristocrat, that you will not attempt to escape?" Then he laughed in a manner which was so brutal that the girl fell back from him in horror.

"You are mad," she cried, "you are drunk—ah, I see, drunk with the blood which you and your compatriots have shed. Take me with you, then, if you will. It is soon finished, it is soon over—it is better."

"You have a mantle?" asked Gaston.

She rose, and from a chair close by took her cloak and put it on her shoulders.

"I am ready," she said.

"Good," said Gaston, "let us go."

* * * * * * *

Jean, the innkeeper, looked puzzled.

"What the devil has come over you, Gaston?" said he. "I can't make it out. It is Honore Louvet, daughter of Count Lovet. How could you be so foolish? You tell her you are taking her to the Conciergerie; you bring her here, she remains here. What am I to do? I am a fool not to have acted upon my first impulse—I must, I will!"

"You won't," said Gaston. "I am a man of moods. As a soldier of the people I should have taken her to the Conciergerie, of course. But, you see, it was a long walk to the Conciergerie, and I had to pass the inn, good citizen, and I had had time to reflect in the passage from the fortifications to the inn. So Mlle. Louvet is here, and here she will remain under our protection."

"Citizen," said Jean, "do you know what will happen to us if it is discovered?"

"Pah!" retorted Gaston. He raised his hand and struck the back of his neck again. "Don't talk; bring me some wine."

* * * * * * *

The little street in which Jean's wine shop was situated was crowded with an excited mob, which concentrated itself upon the inn. Jean was there, his face aflame, his eyes twinkling.

"Good citizens," he cried, as he waved his arms excitedly in the air, "I have done my duty, but it will be terrible work. Gaston Perodil knows; he has armed himself; he will fight. Prepare yourselves, citizens, if you would take her, if you would take him."

"Tell us," said a tall, black-haired and brawny individual, who pushed his way to the front with an impetuosity brooking no denial, "tell us, Citizen Jean, all you know. It is Louvet, you say—what of Perodil?"

He raised in his hand the iron bar which he carried.

"Bring him here," he cried, "so that I can beat his brains out—traitor!"

"Traitor!" echoed the crowd, in unison.

"He has firearms!" screamed Jean. "What has he done? He suspected, he came down, he taxed me, but I denied everything. He heard you coming, and he then came through the inn like a lion, breaking things, as a gladiator would break things in his passage. He threw things this way, he threw them that, he seized the guns, and he is now in the cellar. I heard the noise of bolts being shot. I heard the sound of heavy beams being torn from their fastenings. I heard the noise of those beams being put against the door. How will you get in?—what will you do?—and he has the aristocrat with him. What will you do?—be careful, good citizens, be careful."

"Out of the way!" cried the big man; "let us attack the door; let us get at them. What matter if he does fight? The bigger the fight the better. A madman, you say—so are we madmen and madwomen."

Gaston Perodil was, indeed, mad. But twenty minutes had elapsed since he became conscious that he had been betrayed. What had he not done in that time? In the big wine cellar of Jean, the inkeeper, he stood at bay. Around him he had distributed a half-dozen firearms. Mad—yes, but with a madness which could not be seen. He was like a volcano ready to burst forth into fire and fury.

"Good mademoiselle," he said, "don't come too near. Take that lamp a little away from that barrel. It looks like a wine barrel, dear mademoiselle, but it is not—it is gunpowder—ha! ha! gunpowder! When I tell you to hand me the guns, you will do so, because we must fight, mademoiselle, to the very end."

The girl was on her knees at his feet, trembling, shuddering, and the tears falling in streams from her eyes.

"Why do you protect me?" she cried. "Save your own life; it will be better. We two must die if you persist."

"Of no consequence," replied the soldier. "Listen—they come!"

He sprang to the door, a huge pistol in each hand, and waited. The heavy beams of wood which he had placed crosswise and lengthwise against the door looked solid enough to resist all the force which could be brought to bear by those without. He listened and then came back.

"Mlle. Louvet," he said, "it is true we must be prepared to die. You will hold the lamp a little higher, but do not tremble so much; do not drop the lamp."

He went into the barrel and pulled it gently into the middle of the cellar, put his hands to the staves until they creaked and creaked and gaped. Then, with a wrench he tore away the covering, and the black powder stood revealed.

"Take away the lamp, mademoiselle," he said; "you are too near. Take it to the other side of the cellar."

He picked up the pistols again, went to the door, and, hearing a shuffling of feet, fired through the woodwork. A muffled scream came to his ears, and he laughed as he turned to reload his pistols. Then there came a crash at the door, but it yielded not.

Gaston knelt down and handled his weapons dexterously. One, two, three, four, five shots went crashing through the woodwork in rapid succession. The cellar was filled with smoke and the nauseating smell of gunpowder.

Crash! The door quivered, one of the heavy beams fell in and almost struck the kneeling soldier. Crash! but each crash was followed by the report of one of Gaston's firearms. Crash! A panel fell in and a gaunt, hairy man came through the aperture.

Gaston arose and went over to the kneeling girl.

"Mlle. Louvet," he said, "you are not afraid to die!"

She looked at him, but could not speak. He leaned down and lifted her to his feet.

"Mlle. Louvet," he said, "we are to die. I will take your hand, I will kiss it, for it is glorious to die in such company!"

He drew her gently across the cellar to where the lamp stood and he took the lamp in his hand and advanced to the barrel of gunpowder and held the flickering flame high above his head.

"Mlle. Louvet," said the soldier, "you are not afraid?"

She looked up at him, her eyes now lustrously bright.

"I am not afraid," she said, firmly, and before the next crash of the battering ram at the door Gaston had dropped the lamp.

Eyes 8000 Years Old.

Eight thousand years is a good age for a pair of human eyes to last. An Egyptologist claims to have discovered these ancient orbs in mummified remains at Girgeh, Upper Egypt. The professor found a series of graves which, he declares, extend over an interval of at least 8000 years, representing the most archaic of prehistoric periods. The bodies, owing to the dryness of the climate, and perhaps the excellence of the methods employed in embalming, are in a surprising state of preservation, and in two cases the eyes remain so perfect that the lenses are in good condition.

Fishermen on Horses.

Horses play an important part in shrimp fishing along the Belgian coast. A procession of weather-beaten fishermen starts from the shore, each man mounted on the back of a trained horse dragging the triangular purse-shaped net, which scoops in the shrimps as it passes over the sands. These fishermen on horseback frequently make hauls of several hundred weight in a single trip.

Started Something.

Referring to the fact that an American in England had said that for less than a penny a mile one may travel on an English railway in a compartment nearly equal to the American Pullman or parlor car, the London Globe says that a large force of private detectives has been set to work to try to discover which railroad the American was speaking of.

Especially If She Is Cross-Eyed.

Ever a woman's way of looking at a man is on the bias.—New York Press.

BALLADE OF THE "HOW TO" BOOKS

That time when Learning's path was steep,
And rocks and fissures marred the way,
The few who dared were forced to creep,
Their souls oft quaking with dismay—
The goal achieved, their hairs were gray,
Their bodies bent like shepherds' crooks;
How blest are we who run to-day,
The easy road of "How To" books!

The presses groan, and volumes heap,
Our dullness we no more betray—
To Know the Stars, or Shear a Sheep—
To Live on Air, or Pole Play—
The trick is ours—or we may stray
Beneath the seas, with science cooks,
And sprint by some reflected ray
The easy road of "How To" books!

Who craves the boon of dreamless sleep?
Who bricks would make, sans straw or clay?
"Call spirits from the vasty deep"—
Or weave a lofty, living lay?—
Let him be heartened, jocund, gay,
Nor hopeless writhe on tanter-hooks,
They meet no barriers who essay
The easy road of "How To" books!
—John James Davies, in the American Illustrated Magazine.

FLASHES OF FUN

She—"I am so fond of trees! The oak is my favorite, it is so strong, so noble! Which do you like the best?" He (promptly)—"Yew."—Judge.

"I have given up smoking." "Why, you tried before you were married to give it up and you couldn't." "I had no wife and mother-in-law to help me then."—Houston Post.

"I think of you full often, dear,"
She wrote—but he was vexed.
"I wonder, now," he muttered, "how
In thunder she got next!"
—Cleveland Leader.

"What do you think of this project of chloroforming all the useless members of society?" "Nothing, except that it will do away with an age limit."—Baltimore American.

Kitty had never seen a gas meter before. "How does it go, papa?" she asked. "By compressed air?" "I think not, dear," he said. "Probably expanded air."—Chicago Tribune.

Judge—"Were you present when the trouble started between the man and his wife?" Witness—"Yes, sir. I was at their wedding, if that's what you mean, sir."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

"What kind of a man is Dickers?" "Stingy. If he believed in the orthodox idea of future punishment he'd get some satisfaction out of the prospect of free fuel!"—Washington Star.

"Is that man a grafter?" "I wouldn't say he was fully worthy of the title," answered Senator Sorghum. "He has made a start, but he hasn't gotten away with the goods."—Washington Star.

"There's no use in my joining your sewing circle," said the new resident. "I really can't sew at all!" "Oh, yes, but you can talk!" persisted the caller, with the invitation.—Detroit Free Press.

The girl stood on the burning deck
Whence all but her had fled.
She wouldn't leave until she got Her hat on straight, she said.
—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Little Willie—"Papa, why does the railway company have those cases with the axe and saw in every car?" Father—"I presume they are put in to use in case any one wants to open a window."—Puck.

"Want any typewriter supplies?" asked the peddler, sticking his head in the office door. "No," replied the young business man, absent-mindedly, "I just got her a box of bonbons only an hour or so ago."—Philadelphia Press.

She—"Now wasn't it thoughtful of me to go out early and gather those flowers for the breakfast table?" "Fine!" (He kisses her.) "Where's the coffee?" "Oh, but I can't think of everything, darling, can I?"—Life.

"Please listen, madam," begged the hobo, "to the sad story of an unfortunate man. Seven years ago I was wrecked on a desert island in the Pacific. My mates were all drowned, but I was washed ashore——" "And you haven't been washed since—I see!" said the lady, flippantly. With a hopeless sigh he turned away.—Cleveland Leader.

America and Rome.

With idleness and luxury went the usual tendency to brutality and demoralization. The historical novel was not invented; so that Roman ladies and gentlemen could not sit by the fire of an evening and read highly-spiced narratives of murder and torture. But, after all, the incidents of the arena, though less varied, were perhaps even more piquant than Mr. Kipling or Mr. Jack London. Social morals, too, were of a quality which seems only too apt to accompany the highest civilization. Divorce was almost as easily obtained as in some of our Western States, and nearly as common. Cicero, for instance, was separated from two wives; yet he was universally regarded as of stainless character, and that he was wise is shown by his remarking, when urged to marry a third time, that "it is difficult for a man to devote himself at once to a wife and to philosophy."—Gamaliel Bradford, Jr., in the Atlantic.

Cat Had the Toothache.

N. C. Yost, cashier of the Markle Bank, Hazleton, is the owner of a handsome pet cat, which in the past few days gave indications of suffering intense pain.

Mr. Yost, who received the cat from a friend in the West, objected to having it killed, and summoned a veterinary surgeon. The veterinarian found that the cat was suffering from toothache. He extracted three bad teeth, and pussy is now purring in contentment.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

A French explorer has found in the interior of Borneo a singular and grewsome wedding gift. It was the skull of a Negrito-Papoa, carved by the Dayaks.

A GREAT COMBINATION OFFER

We Will Furnish the "TWICE-A-WEEK" Issue of the

St. Louis Globe-Democrat

—With—

THE UNION

—For—

$1.50 Both Papers, one year, only $1.50.

The St. Louis Globe Democrat should not be classed with the many cheap weekly papers. It is a high-grade Semi-Weekly, eight or more pages, every Tuesday and Friday. It is beyond all comparison the biggest, best and cheapest National News and Home Journal published in the United States. It is strictly Republican in Politics but is above all

A Great Modern Newspaper.

It is not made up indiscriminately from the Daily issue. It is carefully edited with special reference to the needs of the Farmer, the Merchant and the professional man who desires to keep thoroughly posted without sparing the time to read a large Daily Paper. It also contains a great variety of well selected reading matter, making it invaluable to every member of the family.

This Liberal Clubbing Offer

is open to all old or new subscribers, but may be withdrawn at any time, and we must receive the cash with order. Address

THE UNION,
Clanton, Ala.

Ben M. Jacobs & Bros.,

Furniture and Rugs.

—SOLE AGENTS—

Globe-Wernicke Elastic Book Cases and Filing Cabinets.

Catalogue for the asking.

2011 First Ave., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

DISPATCH PRINTING CO.,

Blank Book Makers and Lithographers.

County and Office Supplies a Specialty.

Ask for Estimates.

2113-2119 Morris Ave., BIRMINGHAM, ALA

Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association

OF ALABAMA.

CHARTERED BY SPECIAL ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE

By the People and for the People.

Chilton County Branch

Organized February 3, 1900.

W. M. WILSON, President. WALLACE C. EDLER, Sec'y.-Treas.

INSURES Farmers' dwellings, outbuildings and contents and live stock against loss by fire, wind and lightning. The cheapest, safest and most sensible method of insurance known to man

Average Yearly Cost for Five and a half Years 43-100 of 1 per cent.

Full particulars furnished upon application to WALLACE C. EDLER, Clanton, Ala.

PAUL CALAME,

205 21st Street
Birmingham, Ala.

Practical Watchmaker and Optician

Eyes Correctly Fitted

Mail orders promptly filled

DO YOU WANT

Letterheads, Noteheads, Billheads, Envelopes,

OR ANYTHING ELSE PRINTED?

Then Call at

THE UNION OFFICE

and See Fine Work at Low Prices.

500 Noteheads 500 Envelopes All For $2.00

Good Work on Good Material, done on Good Machines.
Don't forget! THE UNION, Clanton, Alabama.

ADVERTISE IN

Your Home Paper

FOR GOOD RESULTS.

THE UNION

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Wallace C. Edler, Ed. and Pub.

Subscription price, in advance, per year, $1.

For advertising rates, call at the office, Seventh street, between First and Second avenues.

Entered April 15, 1903, at Clanton, Ala., as second class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications to the Union must be signed by the writer's real name as well as that name which they wish to put in the paper. Letters must reach the editor Tuesday morning to get in the same week. While we will publish any and all communications complying with these requirements that do not contain any improper language, we are not responsible for the opinions expressed. tf.

CLANTON, ALA., Jan. 11, 1906.

Union Clubbing List

THE UNION And Yellow Jacket	$1.00
THE UNION And Southern Ruralist	1.00
THE UNION And Union Educator	1.00
THE UNION And Home and Farm	1.00
THE UNION And Weekly Age-Herald	1.25
THE UNION and Weekly Atlanta Constitution	1.25
THE UNION and Twice-a-Week Globe Democrat	1.50
THE UNION and Tri-W'kly Atlanta Constitution	1.50
THE UNION And Tom Watson's Magazine	1.50
THE UNION and Tri-Weekly N. Y. World	1.50
THE UNION And Rural South	1.50
THE UNION And Weekly Advertiser and Map of Alabama, U. S. and world	1.50

If there are any other papers you want call at THE UNION office, and we will get them for you at the lowest rates. tf

$10.00 REWARD

Will be paid to the three persons who secure for us the largest number of PAID subscribers between now and April 1st, 1906. No restrictions. Our clubbing prices go in this contest. $5.00 goes to the one with the largest list; $3.00 to the second largest list, and $2.00 to the third largest. Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds has kindly consented to be the judge in this contention, and he will make the awards. The names of the successful contestants will be published, also the names of all who tried for this reward. Now we have a thousand subscribers, help us to get a thousand additional, so as to fittingly celebrate the ending of our third year.

tf THE UNION.

NEW CITY OFFICERS.

On Monday was held the election for mayor and four councilmen for Clanton and resulted in the election of an entirely new set of men by a very decided majority. There was a great deal of talk indulged in by the opponents of the present administration which we think was without foundation, and in order to prove it so THE UNION offers to print and publish, WITHOUT COST to the town, of an ITEMIZED account of the receipts and expenditures for the year of service of the outgoing administration, made under oath by the proper official. We make this offer in order that the expense of such publication may not deter the city officials from doing what SHOULD be DONE EVERY year as a matter of justice, both to the people of Clanton and to its city officials.

SCHOOL TAX.

An election will be held on February 20, 1906, to determine whether Chilton county will join the ranks of progress in education and vote a special tax for the benefit of our public schools. Pay your poll tax and vote FOR the schools. Be men, not mice.

SOUND SENSE.

Everybody's for January came today, and I notice a scroll on the outside cover bearing three paragraphs, each beginning with "Resolved." I notice that the first one is headed "My Country." Why should not our country—the good of and service to our country, come first in peace, as well as in war? The next is "My Neighbors;" and last (properly) comes "Myself." As I read them I saw that they were intended as New Year's resolutions. They are different from the usual New Year's resolutions, which concern the quitting of smoking, or some other personal habit. In these resolutions there is not only a regeneration of the individual, but a consecration of the individual to the public good. This is as it should be, for no nation can be great without such consecration. Those who pile up private wealth mountain high for selfish gratification, make a great display, keep extensive establishments in city, mountain and at the seashore, sail private yachts, live abroad much of the time, and neglect voting and every other civic duty, don't do the country any good. For a people to be great, it must be great collectively as well as individually. These New Year's resolutions sound this note—that of public as well as private duty. I have not opened the magazine yet, but as I read the resolutions I resolved to give them to you, so I had a clerk to copy them carefully for the printer, and—here they are:

MY COUNTRY.

Resolved, to become a Soldier in the Army of the Common Good; never to suffer graft in silence, nor endure the acquaintance of grafters; to enforce the Square Deal, and in all my relations with politics and government to remember that I am first of all an American Citizen.

MY NEIGHBORS.

Resolved, to lend my Neighbor in need a helping hand; to be kind; to judge tolerantly; to be patient with affliction or misunderstanding; to extend to others the degree of courtesy and consideration I require them to accord me.

MYSELF.

Resolved, to play fair; to speak true; to hold sacred my pledge, my friendships and my obligations; not to ask another to do aught I dare not or would not do myself—above all, ever to keep well in mind that wealth is no corollary of worth and success, no evidence of character.

Witness my hand and seal.

(Signed)

How do you like them? Can you sign them? Can you write a better set of resolutions? If so, let us have them. —"Our Monthly Talk" in Medical World.

REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE.

The Republican Executive Committee of Chilton county held a meeting in Clanton Saturday, the 6th inst. A large majority of the members were on hand, also a number of Republicans who were interested spectators. Busines was transacted and some resolutions passed, among which was the following, carried by a unanimous vote: "Resolved, That every Republican official in this county, federal appointees included, is hereby requested to appoint their assistants from among members of their own party." After much congratulations among those present on the bright prospects for the party this year the meeting adjourned.

ALABAMA STATE HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

January 30 and 31, 1906.

The third annual meeting will be held at Thorsby, Ala. on the above dates. Please notice, the citizens of Thorsby offer free entertainment to all members of the society. The railroads offer a rate of a fare and one-third, plus 25 cents, if fifty members present standard form certificates. Be sure to get a standard form certificate when you buy ticket. An interesting program is being arranged. We need the help of all persons interested in fruits, vegetables or flowers. You need our help. Annual membership fee, $1. Thorsby is midway between Montgomery and Birmingham. All the people are interested in fruit growing and will give our members a royal welcome. Come.

W. F. HEIKES, President,
Huntsville, Ala.
R. S. MACKINTOSH, Sec'y,
tf Auburn, Ala.

COUNTY COURT.

A special session of the county court was held Monday, Judge L. H. Reynolds presiding, H. I. Honeycutt, clerk. Among the cases disposed of were: Ellie Hiller, violating Sunday law, $20 and costs; Joe Brown, concealed weapon, $50 and costs; Andrew Pedo, train riding, $10 and costs. The case of Hiller threatened to assume a national phase, as the man talked of appealing to the United States court, but thought better of it when he heard from his employers in Mobile. He ran a "Banana Car" and claimed the mayor of Clanton gave him permission to sell, but some one complained of him for violation of the state law, and pulled him before the county court, where it was held that the state law was above the town authorities.

NOTICE OF SPECIAL ELECTION.

State of Alabama, Chilton County.

Notice is hereby given that the Commissioners' Court of said County have ordered a special election to be held in said county, at the various voting places, on the 20th day of February, 1906, to determine whether or not there shall be levied and collected a special tax for the support of the public schools of said county. The rate of said special tax, as fixed by said court, shall be ten cents on each one hundred dollars of taxable property in said county, and shall continue six years.

L. H. REYNOLDS,
Judge of Probate.

1-11-05-4t

POLL TAX.

I've received a number of letters from our people asking if they could send me the money for their poll tax, and would I attend to the paying of the tax for them and send them the receipt. Any one who will send me the money, and write what year or years he wants to pay for, the number of his school district and his beat, and his name as he gave it to the registrars, will have the same promptly attended to by me. Now, let's all pay up our poll tax, and thereby do a man's duty and help our individual schools. Respectfully,

tf L. H. REYNOLDS.

COTTON ASSOCIATION.

Clanton, Ala., Jan. 6, 1906.

The association was called to order by President F. A. Gulledge, who proceeded to take up the business in regular order as per the by-laws of the association.

First—The roll was called for, but by motion the roll call was omitted.

Second—The secretary read an abbreviated minute of the last meeting, which was adopted.

Third—Called for reports of standing committees. None.

Fourth—Called for unfinished business of previous session. None.

Fifth—Motion prevailed that the regular order of business be dispensed with and that the association take up business as it sees fit.

Sixth—By request of President F. A. Gulledge, Judge Reynolds gave an account of the meeting of the S. C. A. at Montgomery on the 3rd inst. The judge feels very much encouraged over the work of the association.

W. H. Killingsworth made a strong plea for us to work more earnestly in the future than in the past.

Hon. Tipton Mullins, J. W. Sorrells and others made short, but very instructive, talks, urging diversified and intensified farming.

The folowing delegates agreed to go to the New Orleans meeting of the Southern Cotton Association, to be held on the 11th inst.: F. A. Gulledge, L. H. Reynolds, W. H. Killingsworth, T. J. Jackson, R. A. Rascoe, W. I. Mullins, W. A. Reynolds and B. N. Martin.

Motion prevailed that the secretary secure necessary stationery for officers of the association and make quarterly reports of cost of same, together with all necessary postage, to the association, and that said amount should be paid for from the funds of the association.

Motion prevailed that the assessment on cotton be raised from 3 cents to 10 cents per bale for the year 1906.

President F. A. Gulledge advised the election of a county organizer and the securing of beat or district organizers, but the matters were not acted upon. He also very forcibly emphasized the importance of each farmer raising his own corn, etc.

Adjourned to meet the first Saturday in February, 1906, at 10 a. m. sharp.

J. N. DENNIS, Sec'y.

LIBERTY HILL.

Everything is quiet around here at present. Marriage is the topic of the day. We think Judge Reynolds will be called on about the 20th inst. Holidays have gone; also many bright smiles have vanished. Robert Littlejohn is looking very happy these days. The Misses Lillie Riggins and Lizzie Sims, of Talladega, who spent Christmas with relatives in this vicinity, have returned to their homes. We all regretted to see them leave; good luck to you, girls. Misses Perdita and Jennie Eiland spent Christmas near Cooper, and both say that they enjoyed their visit. Miss Eula Littlejohn is spending a few days with relatives near Pleasant Grove. Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Littlejohn visited her parents last week. Misses Eula and Annabel Willoughby and our up-to-date teacher, Prof. Sessions, visited near Cooper recently. An enjoyable entertainment was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Minor Littlejohn last Saturday night. Sydney Weldon was present, and we think he left an aching void in one young lady's heart. Ye writer had the pleasure of attending a nice party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Littlejohn Christmas. Miss Callie Eiland, Miss Lowery and several others from here were present at Mount Pleasant Sunday. Garnet Giles goes farther over the hills now on Sunday. Oh! what has happened? Don't get wearied. There is yet fish in the sea. Among our many visitors around Liberty Hill we notice Willie Mims, smiling as usual. With many good wishes for our kind editor and the readers of our best county paper, I'll step back, but if I see this in print I may come again.

"ONE FORSAKEN."

COLLINS' CHAPEL.

Mr. Editor:

I will drop you a few lines from our place. What I have to say, I intend for the good of the people, and especially for the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America. We have a union at our place, but not as good as it should be, still we expect to do our best to "stand pat" to everything that comes before the UNION. I would be glad to know that every union in the county was just as firm as ours. Look at the fertilizer business. Did you ever see it so low before? You can get good guano for $20 per ton. Who caused that? It is not the good, generous-hearted manufacturers nor merchants. It is the unions, both farmers' and cotton association. It is not because we can figure them down, but it is to try to tear us down. The Union is young and they are trying to nip it in the bud with all their might and main. Now, boys, is the time to do the work, and the only way is to stand right up to our union, and do just what they say do, so far as it is right. Look how the guano trust is trying to knock out private individuals? Take, for instance, Mr. McElderry, who is a member of our union, and who also is opposed to the Trust; boys, I'd rather pay him more for his goods than to buy from the COMBINE. So, boys, don't be wavery, just stand right up to the rack, fodder or no fodder. I hope to meet all of the business agents of the union in Clanton on January 20, "ready to do business." Yours for the right,

J. D. COLLINS.

A NEW DISCOVERY.

A great improvement, the Dixie Liver Regulator, does not gripe nor sicken, and cures Constipation, Heartburn, Vertigo, Dyspepsia, Kidney troubles and Lasy Liver. For sale by all Dealers and by Shelby Drug Co., Calera, Ala. tf

DR. C. L. WOODFIN, the Botanic Specialist, will be in Clanton every Saturday until March 1st, 1906, for the purpose of treating Cancer, Catarrh, Wens, Tumors, Goiters and all other cutaneous trouble. Also the Eye and Throat. Can furnish references here in Chilton County. Office at J. W. Smith's store. tf

FOR SALE!

One Poland China Boar, littered July 15, 1904, weight about 350 lbs. Price $20.00.

WANTED—Some one to get out stumps. Will let the contract by the stump or job. Come and figure on it, if you have a stump puller nine-tenths of them could be pulled with ease.

WANTED—A farm hand for the year 1906.

WALTED—Fresh milch cows, the same not to give less than 3 gallons of milk per day. M. J. Barrett,
tf. Thorsby, Ala.

FOR SALE OR RENT!

Land for sale, or to rent. One, two, three and four horse farms; two miles north of Jemison. Call on or address,

J. C. DUBOSE,
tf. Jemison, Ala.

Watson's Magazine
Increase in Price

Beginning with the February (1906) Number, our Magazine will be called WATSON'S MAGAZINE. It will have a handsomer cover. Several new features will be added. The price at bookstores and newsstands will be 15 cents.

To be just to our present subscribers, we have decided to receive renewals and new subscriptions at $1.00 a year up to March 31st, 1906. After that the subscription price will be $1.50 per year.

This is a golden opportunity for those who are not within easy reach of newsstands. If you have never seen the magazine, ask for sample copy, mentioning this paper and address,

TOM WATSON'S MAGAZINE,
tf. 121 West 42d St., New York City.

60 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

We Club With
The New York World
THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION.

Read Wherever the English Language is Spoken

For the autumn season now at hand the most valuable paper to you will be the New York Thrice-a-week world, because it offers you more at the price than any other paper published anywhere in the world.

This is a time of great events. We are having great wars and other changes of a stirring kind are occurring both at home and abroad. The Thrice-a-Week World comes to you every other day, except Sunday, with all the news, fully, accurately and promptly told.

The Thrice-a-Week World is fair in its political reports. You can get the truth from its columns, whether you are Republican or Democrat, and that is what you want.

The Thrice-a-Week World always has a serial story running, and it is always a first-class story by a first-class author. The Thrice-a-Week World publishes better fiction than any other newspaper in the United States. Special attention is also given to markets, and there are many other valuable features.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequaled newspaper and THE UNION together one year for $1.50.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.00. tf.

Store Your Cotton
WITH
MULLINS & DOWNS
Planters Warehouse
Clanton, - Alabama
Robidoux Scales. Best in the World.

Wouldn't You Like
BETTER WHISKIES FOR LESS MONEY?

than the kind youvl been getting? Then send your orders to us

THE BIG MAIL ORDER HOUSE

The house that sells nothing but the purest goods and guarantees every article it sells. If it's drugs or whiskies you want

WE CUT THE PRICE,

	Our Price.	Regular Price
Shehan's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Weifer's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50	75
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60	1 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65	1 00
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75	1 00
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75	1 00
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	1 25
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00	1 50
Stewart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	2 00
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84	1 50
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1 50
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1 50
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1 50
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00	1 50
Wilson Whiskey	85	1 50
J. M. Atherton bottled in bond	1 00	1 50
Mammoth Cave bottled in bond	1 25	1 75
Old Jordon bottled in bond	1 50	2 00
Green River, the whiskey without a headache	1 00	1 25
Old Shades Mountain Corn	50	75
Old Mountain Due Corn	75	1 00
Old Lincoln County	65	1 00
Old Holland Gin	50	75
Old Crown Gin	75	1 00
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	75
California Sherry or Port	50	75

Mellow Old Liquors and Wines by the Gallon in Jugs.

Per Gallon		Per Gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye $2.00
Old Mountain Due	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye 2.50
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye 3.00
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club 3.40
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County 2.50
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye 4.00
Old California Port or Sherry	1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye 5.00

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY,
The Big Cut Rate Drug Store
2012 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St. THE BIG STORE, Cor. 1st Ave and 7th St.

—Is at The Head of The Procession.—

Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Shoes
FURNITURE,
COFFINS AND BURIAL NECESSITIES.
W. I. MULLINS,
Clanton. - - Alabama

The Bank Saloon
Calera, Alabama.

Has the finest stock of Whiskies, Wines and Cigars in Central Alabama. Rye Whiskey, by the gallon, from $2.25 to $3.75. All good, but some better than others. Corn Whiskey $2.25 to $3.50 per gallon. Express charges prepaid on all orders of one gallon and upward, where cash accompanies the order, as these prices are absolutely "rock bottom."

XX Rye, pure, ... $2.25 per gallon
AAAA Rye, good, ... 3.75 per gallon
Frisco Rye, fine, ... 3.75 per gallon
Jack Daniel No. 6 finest, 3.75 per gallon

A. Stein, Proprietor

Downs & Littlejohn
Clanton, Alabama.
General Merchandise, Corn, Hay, etc.
SHOES
The most for the money in town. Come and see and we will do you good. :-: :-: :-: :-:

CITY AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

Circuit Court.
... Third Monday in ...
... Fourth Monday in ...
... L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
...—W. B. Bowling, Daleville.
...—Sam W. Collins.

Chancery Court.
... Term—Second Monday in ...
... Term—Second Monday in Sep...
...ellor—Hon. W. W. Whitenden.
...ster—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan...

County Court.
... Monday in each month.

Commissioners' Court.
...ond Monday February, first Mon...
...pril, first Monday June, second ...y July, second Monday August, ...Monday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.
...ge of Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
...asurer—W. T. Callen.
...eriff—J. M. Morgan.
...ditor—W. M. Adams.
... Assessor—L. B. Pounds.
... Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.
...st District—W. H. Conway.
...cond District—Alex Glasscock.
...ird District—R. P. Kendrick.
...urth District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.
...of. J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyer.
...F. R. Dahl, Calera.

State Senator.
...on. W. R. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.
...stors and clerks are cordially ask... to send the editor any news regard... their churches which they would ... published. Also if there are any ...rs in these notices please send cor...tions.

MISSIONARY BAPTISTS.
...eth-Salem—Rev. J. E. Moore, 3rd ...day. E. B. Popwell, clerk, Billings... R. F. D. No. 1.

...lanton—Rev. A. C. Swindall, 1st ... 3rd Sundays. W. I. Mullins, clerk.

...hestnut Creek—Rev. T. J. Deason, ... Sunday. H. A. Harris, clerk.

...Liberty Hill—Rev. S. Smitherman, ... Sunday. W. M. Wood, clerk.

...Macedonia—Rev. G. W. Freeman, ... Sunday. H. H. Armstrong, clerk.

...New Salem—Rev. S. Smitherman, ... Sunday. W. M. Pierce, clerk.

...Poplar Springs—Rev. A. L. Foshee, ... Sunday. J. J. McDowell, clerk.

...Union Point—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 2nd ...nday. J. N. Miner, clerk, Clanton.

...Collins Chapel—Rev. J. H. Thomas, ... Sunday. J. W. Littleton, clerk.

...Union Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas, ... Sunday. R. S. Chandler, clerk.

...Pleasant Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas, ... Sunday. T. J. Headley, clerk.

...Mars Hill—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 1st ...nday. G. W. Gothard, clerk.

...Rocky Mount M. E. Church—Rev. ...r. Carroll, pastor, 2nd Sunday. Song ...rvice every 2nd and 4th Sunday af...rnoons. Prayer meeting every Wed...sday night.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.
Masonic.
Clanton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—...ird Saturday, Clanton.

...Amanda Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...0—Fourth Saturday, Cooper.

...Clanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...3—First Saturday, Clanton.

...Century Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...7—First Saturday, Billingsley.

...Bozeman Lodge, A. F. and A. M., ...o. 534—Saturday on or before full ...oon, Marbury.

...Jemison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...1—Saturday on or before full moon, ...emison.

...Stanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...3—Tuesday on or before full moon, ...tanton.

I. O. O. F.
Jemison Lodge—First and third Sat... ...rdays.

...Clanton Lodge, No. 304—Second and ...urth Saturdays.

Woodmen of the World.
Black Jack Camp, No. 190—First and ...ird Mondays.

I. C. R. M.
...Geronermo Tribe, No. 90—First and ...ird Mondays sleep. Visiting chiefs ...rdially invited. E. B. Langston, C. ... R.; J. H. Patton, Sachem.

L. M. P. A.
Eureka Lodge, of Thorsby—Second ...d fourth Saturdays.

ur Cotton

TH

& DOWNS

Warehouse

Alabama

Best in the World.

You Like

FOR LESS MONEY?

ng? Then send your orders

ORDER HOUSE

t the purest goods and guarit's drugs or whiskies you

HE PRICE,

	Our Price.	Regular Price
	75	1 00
	75	1 00
	75	1 00
	50	75
	60	1 00
	65	1 00
	75	1 00
	75	1 00
	85	1 25
	1 00	1 50
	1 25	2 00
	84	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	85	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 25	1 75
	1 50	2 00
adache	1 00	1 25
	50	75
	75	1 00
	65	1 00
	50	75
	75	1 00
	50	75
	50	75

es by the Gallon in Jugs.

	Per Gallon
Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.50
J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.00
Old Style Country Club	3.40
Old Lincoln County	3.50
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.00
R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.00

G COMPANY,

e Drug Store

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

STORE, Cor. 2d Ave and 7th St.

his Procession.—

ng, Hats, Shoes

TURE,

AL NECESSITIES.

LLINS,

Alabama

Saloon

abama.

Whiskies, Wines
Alabama. Rye
n, from $2.25 to
some better than $2.25 to $3.50 per es prepaid on all
d upward, where der, as these prices
ttom."

$2.25 per gallon
3.75 per gallon
3.75 per gallon
3.75 per gallon

, Proprietor

Littlejohn

Abama.

Corn, Hay, etc.

ES

town. Come and see

TS AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

Circuit Court.

ng Term—Third Monday in May.
l Term—Fourth Monday in Nov.

ge—S. L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
citor—W. B. Bowling, Daderille.
rk—Sam W. Collins.

Chancery Court.

ng Term—Second Monday in

Term—Second Monday in Sept

cellor—Hon. W. W. Whitesides.
gister—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clanton.

County Court.

t Monday in each month.

Commissioners' Court.

cond Monday February, first Mon-
April, first Monday June, second
day July, second Monday August,
Monday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

dge of Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
easurer—W. T. Callen.
eriff—J. M. Morgan.
ditor—W. M. Adams.
x Assessor—L. B. Pounds.
x Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.

rst District—W. H. Conway.
cond District—Alex Glasscock.
hird District—R. P. Kendrick.
ourth District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.

rof. J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor.

. P. R. Dahl, Calera.

State Senator.

Hon. W. R. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.

Pastors and clerks are cordially ask-to send the editor any news regard-
their churches which they would h published. Also if there are any ors in these notices please send cor-
tions.

MISSIONARY BAPTISTS.

Beth-Salem—Rev. J. E. Moore, 3rd
nday. E. B. Popwell, clerk, Billings-
R. F. D. No. 1.

Clanton—Rev. A. C. Swindall, 1st
d 3rd Sundays. W. I. Mullins, clerk.

Chestnut Creek—Rev. T. J. Deason,
d Sunday. H. A. Harris, clerk.

Liberty Hill—Rev. S. Smitherman,
d Sunday. W. M. Wood, clerk.

Macedonia—Rev. G. W. Freeman,
d Sunday. H. H. Armstrong, clerk.

New Salem—Rev. S. Smitherman,
d Sunday. W. M. Pierce, clerk.

Poplar Springs—Rev. A. L. Foshee,
h Sunday. J. J. McDowell, clerk.

Union Point—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 2nd
nday. J. N. Miner, clerk, Clanton.

Collins Chapel—Rev. J. H. Thomas,
d Sunday. J. W. Littleton, clerk.

Union Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas,
d Sunday. R. S. Chandler, clerk.

Pleasant Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas,
h Sunday. T. J. Headley, clerk.

Mars Hill—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 1st
nday. G. W. Gothard, clerk.

Rocky Mount M. E. Church—Rev.
r. Carroll, pastor, 2nd Sunday. Song
rvice every 2nd and 4th Sunday af-rnoons. Prayer meeting every Wed-
sday night.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

Masonic.

Clanton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—
hird Saturday, Clanton.

Amande Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
60—Fourth Saturday, Cooper.

Clanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
122—First Saturday, Clanton.

Century Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
647—First Saturday, Billingsley.

Bozeman Lodge, A. F. and A. M.,
No. 534—Saturday on or before full moon, Marbury.

Jemison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
311—Saturday on or before full moon,
Jemison.

Stanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
243—Tuesday on or before full moon,
Stanton.

I. O. O. F.

Jemison Lodge—First and third Saturdays.

Clanton Lodge, No. 304—Second and fourth Saturdays.

Woodmen of the World.

Black Jack Camp, No. 190—First and third Mondays.

I. C. R. M.

Geronermo Tribe, No. 90—First and third Mondays sleep. Visiting chiefs cordially invited. E. B. Langston, C. of R.; J. H. Patton, Sachem.

L. M. P. A.

Eureka Lodge, of Thorsby—Second and fourth Saturdays.

CLANTON COTTON MARKET.

Total receipts to Jan. 10, '06, 5,962.
Price same date, '11 1-4c.
Receipts same period, 1904, 6,162.
Price same date, 6 1-2c.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Secretaries of local lodges in the F. E. and C. O. U. of A. will please take note of the fact that J. M. Dennis, Clanton, R. F. D. No. 6, is now the county secretary; former County Secretary J. W. Sorrells having turned over all records to him.

R. E. Charlestrom and J. Ekblad, of Thorsby, were in Clanton Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. James M. Moore and Mrs. Martha Dunlap (Mrs. Morris' mother) of Selma, were visitors to W. H. Dunlap's family a couple of weeks since. Mr. Moore had a good time while here and killed many birds, and goes back to his painting business, which is very large and still growing, with renewed vigor.

W. H. Dunlap has moved from Mulberry to the Bud Baker place. Good luck, Billy.

W. N. Thomas was a pleasant visitor Saturday.

Charles L. Glasscock was a welcome caller Saturday.

J. W. Kicker has returned from Tuscaloosa county, where he has been visiting his son, J. M., who lives near Holt. He says he had a fine time.

D. S. Robinson was in Clanton Saturday.

J. W. G. Kicker has moved into his new residence in Clanton, which he bought from Toni Tyus. We're glad to have such a good addition to Clanton.

Commissioners' Court was in session Saturday, being an adjournment of the November term, made necessary by the work now going on at the court house and jail.

Mrs. M. E. Smith, of Sylacauga, is here visiting her son, Col. A. C. Smith, who is Chilton's popular attorney.

Lee Hayes was a welcome caller Monday.

W. A. Riggins was a pleasant visitor Monday and paid for some good UNION reading for the year.

W. H. Gillespie was a welcome caller Saturday.

J. W. Abbott paid us a call Monday. Come again, J. W.; we're glad to see the folks any time.

P. C. Smith, station agent at Thorsby, was a welcome visitor Tuesday. He says it's mighty hard to cast a vote in Thorsby.

Judge Reynolds killed two hogs about a year old Tuesday, which weighed, dressed, about 500 pounds. The Judge has a pair of bay ponies which he bought in Montgomery, that look like dandies.

Mrs. Robert Popwell, who has been very ill with pneumonia, is convalescing, we are glad to say.

Dr. J. P. Crumpton left for Atlanta Sunday to resume his studies at the college there. Pink will soon be pulling our teeth (and legs).

A. F. Collins, W. A. and J. W. Riggins, of Thorsby, and "Buck" Arledge, of Jemison, went to Birmingham on business Wednesday.

Monday night was the coldest yet this year. The thermometer went down to 20 degrees above zero, a drop of 37 degrees in 24 hours.

C. C. Crumpton, of Jemison, was in Clanton Sunday.

Most anybody could vote in the city election. It made no difference whether they had paid their poll tax or registered or any other old thing that the law of Alabama provided should be done.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

J. R. Busbey and Mrs. Ellen Melton. H. T. Keener and Miss Dennie Latham.

NOTICE!

All who are owing me, by note or account, will please call and settle at once. I am needing the money and hope all will make prompt settlement.

Respectfully
A. A. JACKSON,
tf. Lomax, Ala.

NOTICE.

Cooper, Ala., Dec. 30, 1905.

The books and accounts of A. G. Clark & Son are in my hands for collection. All parties interested will please come at once and settle and save time and trouble.

J. J. M'DOWELL,
tf Justice Peace, Beat 10.

Father of Girl Victim Killed.

Houston, Tex.—A special from Beaumont says Constable J. H. Holder, father of 7-year-old Ruby Holder, who was criminally assaulted by a Swede named William Fregorson Christmas, was fatally shot by his brother officers in the jail yard while he was trying to get at Gregorson in his cell to slay him.

Gregorson was sentenced to fifty years' imprisonment yesterday and Holder was not satisfied with the verdict. His brother officers tried to persuade him to leave the premises and Holder is alleged to have opened fire. The officers responded and Holder fell with a bullet through his body.

Among western people the English are the greatest tea drinkers and the Americans the greatest coffee drinkers.

LIFE'S LITTLE PLEASANTRIES

NATURAL SUPPOSITION.

"My daughter recites 'Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight' in three languages."

"Have you no authority over your daughter?"—Houston Post.

HEAVY ALIMONY.

Mrs. Highflyer says she didn't get any further than a tin wedding anniversary."

"No, but she got a golden divorce!"—Detroit Free Press.

IN NEW YORK.

"That was a terrible crime committed yesterday."

"It was so. Have the police made any progress apprehending the guilty parties?"

"Oh, yes. They've persuaded the newspapers to take the matter up."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

THE OLD PROVERB AGAIN.

Mrs. Downhill—Aren't you ashamed of yourself? Out till midnight, and I sitting here darning your stockings for you!

Mr. Downhill—Well, my dear, you know "it is never too late to mend."

ALL ATTENTION.

"Now, the trouble with Jigsby," said the man who knew him, "is just that he does not pay any attention to details——"

"Don't you believe it," interrupted Newitt, "he was the only man at a certain summer resort last month, and he was kept busy paying attention to detail after details of girls.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

MEAN CLERK.

"I want ten two-cent postage stamps," said Mrs. Youngwed, "and please charge them, because I have no change—"

"We don't do that, madam," replied the clerk in the post office.

"The idea! Why not? We always get our letters from you."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

GETTING TOO PERSONAL.

"Let's go out in your back yard," said Tommy Tucker, "and play in the woodshed."

"We haven't got any woodshed," said the other boy. "Have you got one in your back yard?"

"Yep."

"Keep wood in it?"

"Nope."

"What's it used for?"

"None of your business."

HE GOT IT.

Tough Timmins—Gimmie somethin' to eat?

Mrs. Farmer—A big, strong man like you has no right to be idle. Why don't you go to work?

Tough Timmins—I won't go ter work till I git w'at I want. I'm looking fur a snap.

Mrs. Farmer—For a snap, eh? Here, Rover, sic him!—Philadelphia Press.

IN 1492.

Sudddenly, while peering through his glasses, Columbus caught sight of land.

"That," said he, turning to the man at the wheel, "is America."

"Which is it—North, Central or South America?" asked the boat chauffeur.

"Hanged if I know," replied Chris. "I'll get my geography and look it up."—Columbus Dispatch.

A SURE THING.

"I think I've got a remedy for this corpulency," said the fat Mr. Green, as he met an acquaintance the other day.

"So? Been sending for for something?"

"Yes."

"I'll wager you got bunkoed."

"I don't think so. The advice sounds very reasonable. Its to discharge the hired girl and let my wife do the cooking for two or three weeks."—Columbus Dispatch.

TIME TO DISARM.

First Western Citizen—Are you armed?

Second Western Citizen—Sure. Are you?

"Of course. Let's match guns."

"All right."

"Say, you've got the advantage of me in size an' caliber."

"Well?"

"What do you say to universal disarmament?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

UP TO SNUFF.

"Say, you waiter," said the loud man who had unexpectedly inherited money, "nothin' but the best's good enough fur me. Gimmie a Welsh rabbit."

"Yes sir," said the waiter.

"And, mind ye, waiter! See that it's alive when it's put in the pot."—Philadelphia Press.

MONEY IN IT.

"Yes," said the American traveler, "I'm delighted with your city. I wish we had your climate."

"But the fog, you know," said the Londoner, in surprise; "here's it noon by the clock at this minute, yet it's dark as night."

"Yes. Splendid! Splendid! I'm president of an electric lighting company at home, you know."

The systematic housewife makes a duplicate list of the clothes sent to the laundress and discloses one with the clothing.

NOTICE.

I hereby appoint the 4th Saturday in each month as my regular day for hearing civil causes at my residence in beat 3. Chilton Co. Deeds, mortgages and papers of all kinds carefully and legibly made out.

J. A. CADDELL,
Notary Public & Ex-off. J. P.
tf

SPECIAL OFFER! !

The Union, Weekly Montgomery Advertiser, and a great white and black map of Alabama, United States and world, three in one, with a picture of every president from Washington to Roosevelt, all for $1.50.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County.
Probate Court, December 22, 1905.
In the Matter of the Estate of E. A. Knight, Deceased.

Letters of administration on the estate of E. A. Knight, deceased, having been granted to the undersigned on the 12th day of December, 1905, by the Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate of said county, notice is hereby given that all persons having claims against said estate are hereby required to present the same within the time alowed by law, or the same will be barred. W. C. JONES.
12-28-05-3t Administrator.

NOTICE NO. 26308.

Department of the Interior,
Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
December 18, 1905.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Clerk of the Circuit Court at Clanton, Ala., on February 3, 1906, viz: Andrew J. Johnson, homestead entry No. 37392, for the N. 1-2 of N. E. 1-4, N. E. 1-4 of N. W. 1-4, section 27, township 22, range 15 east.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:

Wash Parrish, Monroe Parrish, William Easterling, Benit Easterling, all of Clanton, Ala.

ROBERT BARBER,
12-21-05-6t Register.

COUNTY COURT.

Hold first Monday in each month. All interested will pleased take notice that the court will open at 9:30 a. m. sharp. L. H. REYNOLDS,
Judge of County Court,
tf Chilton County, Ala.

ABOUT CANDIDATES.

All letters praising any particular candidate by name will have to be paid for at the rate of 1-2 cent per word. The UNION will publish free all matter relating to the general welfare and prospects of the party of the People. tf

FOR SALE!

80 acres, 1 1-4 miles east of Cane Creek church, very strong land, lies well, about 20 acres cleared, fair tenant house and fine well of water. Price $600.00, terms easy.

ALSO

66 acres, with water power grist mill in running order, good custom, house and fine well of water, 3 miles east of Clanton—about 20 acres cleared, lies well. Price $700.00. Terms easy. Apply to office of
tf. THE UNION.

FOR SALE!

Full bred Holstein Milch Cow (6 years old), will come in fresh in November. Her milk record is 3 1-2 to 4 gallons per day. Address,
W. L. McDowell,
tf. Clanton, Route 2.

COTTON SEED

I am now ready to buy cotton seed at my new office just east of Johnson's Drug Store. Also cotton seed meal and hulls and feed stuffs for sale. Come and see me and I will do you good.

FRANK GOODGAME
tf Clanton, Ala.

NOTICE.

Blank Deeds, Mortgages, and all official forms for Justices of the Peace, etc., for sale at The Union Office. Only best approved forms are used. Come in and give us your order tf.

Come and Be Pleased.

PRICES AND TERMS upon which we are selling the most beautiful and attractive goods of the season will certainly please and surprise you.

The styles on which fashion has stamped her approval for the coming season are now shown with newest materials.

A Full line of Star Brand Shoes.

Men's and boys' Clothing.

Full line of Gents' Furnishing Goods.

Ladies' and children's Jackets, Skirts and Ready-to-Wear Hats.

Anything you want in Dress Goods, Hardware, Saddlery and Florence Wagons.

J. C. JONES,

Clanton, Alabama.

Pure Water Prevents Fevers.

DRILLED WELLS FURNISH PURE WATER

We guarantee water or no charge made. Estimates given. Address

I. E. SARBER CO.

Thorsby, Alabama.

LOVEMAN, JOSEPH & LOEB. BIRMINGHAM. LOVEMAN, JOSEPH & LOEB.

The Greatest January Silk Sale

EVER HELD IN THE SOUTHERN STATES.

50,000 yards of the finest black and colored silks to be offered at one-half and less than one-half of regular prices.

Sale Starts Tuesday, Jan. 2nd.

The January silk sale has always been a great event in this store—but this year we have planned to make it the greatest and most successful silk sale we have ever conducted. Circumstances lent themselves fortunately to our plans. The manufacturers co-operated as never before—our importations are larger, the goods of better quality and the prices more favorable.

And after months of the most careful preparation we are ready to launch on next Tuesday the biggest event in silk selling which the people of the South have ever known.

Make your plans at once—make up your minds to come early—People from every county in Alabama will be here, and their fares will be paid by the liberal shopping inducement offered during this sale.

Come the first day. If you can't do so be sure and come before the end of the first week.

SPECIAL TABLES AND SPECIAL PRICES:

Table No. 1—39c silks at 19c	Table No. 6—$1.00 silks at 69c
Table No. 2—50c silks at 29c	Table No. 7—$1.25 silks at 79c
Table No. 3—59c silks at 39c	Table No. 8—$1.50 silks at 89c
Table No. 4—75c silks at 49c	Table No. 9—$1.75 silks at 98c
Table No. 5—89c silks at 59c	Table No. 10—$2.00 silks at $1.19

No discounts. No goods returned after once sold. No C. O. D.'s except on deposit. No goods sent on approval. The reductions in this sale are so thorough and genuine that our friends cannot expect us to extend the privileges allowed on regular goods.

Loveman, Joseph & Loeb.

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Subscribe for this Paper.

ORCHARD and GARDEN

MARKETING HOGS.

It depends on the circumstances and conditions of the man who markets them. Where the farmer feeds his hogs with a scoop shovel, in other words, feeds them on corn, the cream of the farm, with grass during the summer, we think the most profitable age and weight to sell hogs is from seven to eight months old and weighing from a hundred and seventy-five to two hundred pounds. Inasmuch as the smaller the animal, the less the feed of support and the greater the gain from a bushel of corn, the hog should be sent to market as soon as he meets market conditions. Hogs of this weight are perferred for the production of bacon, and ordinarily bring almost as high a price as the heavy hogs, and sometimes command a premium.

Therefore the farmer who is growing hogs on skim milk, corn and grass should not under ordinary conditions carry his hogs to over two hundred pounds weight. There are, however, conditions in which it pays to carry them farther, for example, when corn is relatively cheap and pork commands a good price. However, when hogs are four cents or under on the farm, we would not carry them to over a hundred and seventy-five pounds. We have visited auctions in a number of sections in the old country, and found that the perferred hog there is from a hundred and seventy-five pounds in weight, about eight months old and just in the condition that the ordinary western farmer would like to have his hogs previous to a six weeks' finish.

Where the farm is large, however, and is given over to cattle feeding, or where there is a large amount of clover or rape grown in the corn, or mast—in other words, where the hogs are used as scavengers and are fed corn only as a finish—it is quite profitable to carry them up to two hundred and fifty or even three hundred and fifty pounds weight. There is, of course, a great waste of feed in this method, but it is waste of food that has comparatively little value, and on salable value. Therefore, it can be wasted with profit. Hogs grown in this way can make splendid use of corn, and can be finished at a profit at these heavy weights, and meet the demand for the lard hog.

It will be noticed that the weight of hogs in the Chicago market varies from about two hundred and ten to two hundred and forty pounds, according to the season. Inasmuch as there are a great many brood sows and hogs from large farms marketed, as well as in some instances considerable numbers of pigs weighing a hundred or twenty-five pounds, it will appear that a very large per cent. must be marketed at about the weights we suggest where farmers are feeding hogs on the cream of the farm.—Wallace's Farmer.

FUTURE OF THE SHEEP.

Sooner or later, says the Journal of Agriculture sheep are destined to become more or less popular in the corn field. Already they have firmly established themselves in some adjacent sections, but as yet the great States of Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri Illinois and sections of Indiana have not come to the point of regarding the flock as one of the farm's necessary emoluments. It is the firm conviction of the Prairie Farmer that sooner or later the farmers of these sections, in spite of the high prices that land commands, are going to turn to the sheep and consider it as much a feature of the farm as the steer or the hog. Western ranges are growing smaller and extensive sheep production is becoming restricted, but the demand for mutton is rapidly increasing. In his annual report General Manager Leonard of the Union Stock Yard, in commenting upon the sheep situation covers the matter in the following language:

"During the last decade a most remarkable growth in the demand for mutton has taken place in the United States and England. The demand for wool is also increasing and values rising. On the other hand, the world's supply of sheep is decreasing. Owing to long drouths, both in Australia and South America the range territory is being rapidly restricted and its ability to supply mutton and wool is unequaled to the demand.

"Henceforth America must depend more and more upon its farming sections for sheep, which, if well bred and well cared for, will prove especially profitable to the small farmer as a means of increased income and soil fertility."

At the present time sheep and lambs are very high, so that the purchaser seeking stock ewes finds difficulty in securing any at prices he can afford to pay. In view of this fact we do not advise farmers to immediately rush into the sheep business. As reaction is coming when values will decline. At present the wise course seems to favor timely preparation with the ultimate intention of buying a flock when prices are such that there is no question of wisdom of the investment.

FEEDING FOR MILK AND BUTTER.

Large amounts of timothy hay are often fed to dairy cows because it is thought to be very rich and nourishing foodstuff, but in experiments made with 24 cows at the Station last winter, it would seem tha shredded cover when used to replace the timothy hay to advantage. As timothy hay brings from $10.00 to $15.00 a ton on the market, and shredded stover is practically a waste product on the farm, the economy in utilizing the latter is apparent to all.

There is another question of more than passing interest to the dairyman, and that is the balancing up of his ration with some concentrate rich in protein. Gluten meal and cotton seedmeal were fed on the basis of the content of digestible protein for this purpose, and provided the market price is the same per pound of digestible protein, there is little to choose between the two, except that the gluten meal was not as readily eaten by the cows, and it made the butterfat soft, whereas, cotton seed meal was readily eaten and increases the melting of butter, which gives it a decided advantage for feeding in summer.

These results show that the proper basis of comparing foodstuffs is according to the amount of digestible protein they contain. It is thus apparent that farmers often make the mistake of feeding wheat bran, which contains only 12 per cent. of digestible protein, as compared with cotton seed meal, which when pure contains 37.2 per cent. of digestible protein. As cotton seed meal and wheat bran can often be bought at practically the same price, the farmer who buys wheat bran pays three times as much for the digestible protein contained as the farmer who utilises cotton seed meal.—Andrew M. Soule, Dean and Director Virginia Experiment Station.

FEEDING KITCHEN SLOP.

Most feeders of swine are too careless about the slops used from the kitchen and do not hesitate to use any sort of dish water in which to mix the grains used in feeding. If one has a lot of greasy dish water in which soap powders or soap of any kind has not been too freely used it is excellent stuff in which to mix the bran and other ground food for swine.

If soap powders are used then the slop ought not to be used, for it will make trouble for the swine, and particularly for the sloats. An excellent plan is to drop a few pieces of charcoal in the dishwater before using it for mixing the ground food. In this way one furnishes a little medicine in advance for the dyspepsia that may ensue. Unless the kitchen slop is quite rich it is of little use in mixing skim milk will be much better, and even clear warm water will be quite as good as dish water, consisting mainly of slopy water and little grease from the dishes or kettles.—Indianapolis News.

FOR TENDER FEET IN HORSES.

If you have a horse with tender feet, that become sore and lame from traveling on hard roads, try placing a layer of thin and soft leather, "I prefer calfskin" between hoof and shoo before nailing it on. And if his feet have already become sore before being shod, heat some pure pine tar and pour some of it between sole of hoof and leather, and press the leather up against heel to retain tar so as to soak well into sole of foot, we have found this the most effective method we ever tried in overcoming sore feet in horses, writes in Epitomist.

A Great Schoolmaster.

"He managed to make the boys feel that it was a terrible thing to lose his respect," writes a former pupil of Dr. George Moberly, for many years head master of the Winchester School, England. His personality was inspiring and impressive. In "Six Great Schoolmasters" the author says that Doctor Moberly would occasionally use his powers of ridicule and sarcasm to an extent that seems scarcely fair.

He had been much annoyed by letters from the mother of one of the boys, begging him to see personally to all sorts of small matters connected with her son's health. Doctor Moberly determined to put a stop to this, so one day in public, before a whole class, he said to the boy:

"B., I have heard from your mother, saying that you are to wear flannel and to masticate your food. See that you do it."

It is possible to imagine the agonized letter which went home by the next post, begging that no more such letters should reach the doctor.

A boy once brought to Doctor Moberly a letter from his mother, asking for leave out. The boy had been smoking, and the letter smelled strongly of the forbidden weed.

"Johnson," said Doctor Moberly, "does your mother smoke? Don't let me catch you doing it!"—Youth's Companion.

Traveling Schools.

Farmer's daughters are educated in many parts of Germany in traveling schools, which go from village to village, to give girls over sixteen years of age practical lessons in housekeeping, cooking, the selection of food, care of poultry and cattle, the cultivation of vegetables and butter and cheese making. The results have been so satisfactory that it is now proposed to add instructions in nursing, cooking for the sick, mending and sewing. The teachers, who are graduates of the schools of housework, and have passed Government examinations, carry with them an outfit of a cooking stove and the various utensils for cooking and ironing. The classes are held in the schoolhouses, the term lasts six weeks, and the cost of tuition is put so low as practically to exclude no one.

THE PULPIT.

AN ELOQUENT SUNDAY SERMON BY THE REV. W. J. THOMPSON.

Subject: Warp and Woof.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Sunday Simpson M. E. Church celebrated its sixty-first anniversary. The subject of Pastor W. J. Thompson's morning sermon was "Faith and Love in the Warp, Pastors and Members in the Woof." The text was from I. Thessalonians 1:3. Mr. Thompson said:

The warp consists of the threads running lengthwise through the entire fabric. The woof consists of the threads crosswise, and prompted by the weaver's fancy, may vary with each shot of the shuttle.

The warp of Simpson Church is that which through these sixty-one years has remained unchanged and is unchangeable. The woof, comprising pastors and members, by inexorable necessity and purposeful design changes and evermore must change.

Faith is a prominent thread in the warp. Conscious of our spiritual growth we reach out after God if happily we may find and be filled by Him. God is not found out by searching. The futility of the quest adds welcome to Jesus who reveals the sought-for God as the Father. We hold forth Jesus the authoritative revealer of God and our relation to Him as the light of the world.

Absorbed in His talks and walks, we are caught up in His life, and by that life conformed to his likeness. Thus Jesus saves men by His life. Also by His death. The obstructions to the tunnel-boring under Manhattan and the rivers, overcome by the engineers' sacrifice, measure their devotion to their ideal—rapid transit.

Christ's sacrifice of His life revealed His complete love for His ideal, the salvation of man, and makes that salvation complete. We preach Christ and Him crucified as the all-sufficient saviour of men who receive Him. Philosophers reason men into discipleship. Without violence to reason, and invoking it only so far as it is a part of conscience, we command men everywhere to repent and believe. Repent by ceasing to do evil; believe by the trustful appropriation of the Christ life and death. Our forerunners in this are John the Baptist, Peter and flaming evangels on to Whitfield and Moody. Our justification is the witness of sins forgiven, and lives bringing forth the fruits of righteousness.

Fear is in the warp. It is ours by generous hereditary legacy, and compasses things, beasts, men and devils. When fear is uppermost it dwarfs. Neither moral nor religious giants are the product of fear. What pygmies worriment, fear of disaster, makes. Intimidation from eclipses and comets science shows to be baseless. The fear of beasts, which vanishes before the prowess of the hunter. Fear of physical man departing with war. Fear to speak one's convictions and advocating measures he disbelieves, thus counting for less than nothing, and deserving expatriation from a democracy—these are all unwholesome fears. The sooner banished the better.

Moral fear. Wordsworth calls duty the "Stern Daughter of the Voice of God." She is a task mistress over us. Our superior therefore we fear. Her commands, like a chrysallis, metamorphoses into the pleasures of duty. Fear of the law drives the criminal to outward legal acts. The best citizens are moved without fear. William Lloyd Garrison, the great moral champion, the centennial of whose birth this day is, when dragged through the streets of Boston by a mob, said "his soul was devoid of fear."

Fear is the beginning and not the end of morality. Godly fear. Petronius argued fear made the gods. Some religions have their devils. We have ours who goeth about as a devouring lion. The Old and New Testaments have 518 references to fear.

It may be needful for the beginnings and salutary with certain temperaments, but fear is only the beginning of wisdom.

The almightiness of Jehovah makes us tremble. But He draws near to us in the flesh as we become one with Him. His power is for us. Fear from the least to the King of Terrors is abolished. All power is for our good and we can no longer fear. Fear gives place to love and sinks to the nether side of the warp in remembrance of the judgments of the lawgiver. The terrors of the law are replaced by the grace of the gospel. Fear is the beginning of wisdom, its end is love. In our necessitated helplessness in infancy and youth we depended upon our fathers. That dependence met, brought forth as the foremost filial feeling, love. All men have this tutelage, and to them Jesus reveals God as the Father who excels the most devoted father in giving good things.

The devotee of many gods may be sober until he is intoxicated at the feast of Dionysius and be righteous throughout all. To the same devotee wisdom is a virtue if he is a statesman and courage if he is a soldier. There are different virtues for different times and different people. Jesus revealed Diety as one God and Father, therefore virtue is one and love is the fulfilling of all virtue. To offend in one point of love is to be guilty of all, because righteousness is a unit.

The acknowledged master in my craft addresses my ambition with, "You can be an artisan equal to me and I will aid you." He has my heart's best love. The absolutely perfect God addresses my loftiest ambition with, "Be ye perfect as I am perfect and My proffered grace, all-sufficient, is yours for the asking." It follows my heart's supreme love wells up to God. The most prominent thread in the warp is, "Love God with all your heart, mind, soul and strength."

God the Father of all—then geography, national boundaries, is a matter of the head and not of the heart and merchandise a commodity in things and not in men. Accordingly, in the beginning of this era it was predestined a William Lloyd Garrison should toll the death knell of slavery. Buddhistic love is individualistic and does no mighty deeds; Christian love is social and does. It inculcates love to the neighbor and unites to the true religion the loftiest morals and inspires the mightiest deeds of man for man.

Thomas Hobbes set the English-thinking world agog with, "Self-love is the only love; we tolerate, but cannot love another." This cynic would view the Samaritan's succor of the wounded man not to mitigate his sufferings, but himself to exhilarate in power possessed. Adam Smith has shown with his pen what so many have with their lives that sympathy is an integral part of our nature. Sympathy, to feel with another, is a prerequisite of love. The tragic stimulates it. Accordingly, in the Christian religion the death of Jesus is most prominent. His betrayal, triple denial by Peter, stripped of His robe, mocked, scourged, carrying the cross, bound to it, nailed; His agonizing cries, death, burial—the whole is detailed with minutiae. Add to this the remembrance of a young man radiant with hopes that are stifled; the long-for Messiah, Son of God, founder of a religion, whose life was all for human weal, crucified in the populous capital of His nation as a malefactor, and the tragedy of Calvary becomes pathetic in the extreme. If the Oberammergau play is so heartrending, the loved disciples of Jesus must have had an experience in pathos rarely felt by mortal. It is a wonder some of them did not die from sheer pity.

To-day we observe Passion Week and the forty days of Lent. Art, literature and sermons picture the pathetic profile of Jesus and melt our hearts. The courageous man of Calvary is less viewed, and wisely so. We need to be infused with the passion of Jesus to give us the heart to feel. The melted heart first.

Darwin ruled sympathy out of order in this world of struggle. A recent reputable sociologist shows how sympathy evidenced in mutual aid has made possible the life of the animate world and the progress of man. In the highest form of life the offspring is fewest and weakest. Pity absent, and such would perish. God pitying perishing man brought redemption. Jesus magnified sympathy. It melts the heart to love. There is false sympathy. A sect, the Jainists, so pity venomous insects as not to kill them. The Doukhobors absurdly pity the puffing engine. Sentimentalists so pity the perpetrators of horrible murder as to foil justice; parents their disobedient child as to spare the rod and spoil. False philanthropists feed the lazy and pauperize those who ought not to eat because they do not work. We must sympathize aright.

The woman who cares for the orphan; the nurse who ceases not her vigils in the epidemic; the neighbor who grants a loan to a deserving man in a hard place; the friend with his fitly spoken word to lighten the weighted heart and gladden the recording angel—these are all illustrations of sympathizing aright. The highest form is the poor sympathizing with the rich in their loneliness, and the rich with the poor in their needs. When the highest and lowest feel as one, sympathy has its perfect work. The heart thus sympathetic will go down in pity, out in love to enemies and up in love to God, and throughout envieth not. Thus this most blessed faculty of the heart is pure. We preach "Love one another with a pure heart, fervently." Love, the most prominent thread warp, is more than "mere morality." Knowledge of the good does not overcome the inertia to its doing. The imperatives of duty must be divinely spoken and warmed. It's not the act, but the motive that gives quality. The love of God to us in Christ Jesus drawing us into fellowship with the Infinite heart imparts the highest quality to our deeds.

Hate is another thread in the warp. We have earned advanced university degrees in this accomplishment. Instance civil wars and religious inquisitions. There is an Orientalism in Thugism, whose votaries worship the sword as the Greek his Icon. Killing is worship wherein they do the will of their goddess. Asceticism could have a patent office all its own for instruments of flagellation devised to scourge monks into hatred of this beautiful world. Count the number of those you hate. We naturally love friends and hate enemies. From Christ we learn to hate aright.

The Pharisee's law was: "Be holy, as the Lord your God is holy." Jesus sat at meat in a Pharisee's house. There were good Pharisees. There were others whom the Master branded as "generation of vipers, straining at a gnat and swallowing a camel; without whited sepulchres, and full of dead men's bones within." Not the Pharisees, but their sins, Jesus hated. The cross shows God's immeasurable hatred of sin. Paul delivered the most drastic philippics against sin, the destroyer of soul. To describe sin as the glory of the imperfect is worse than criminal. We ought to hate sin with all passion.

Work is a prominent thread in the warp. Love, hate, fear are emotional. John Wesley, in his experience of saving faith, says the heart was strangely warmed. The Sermon on the Mount is a message to the heart. The feelings have reared the great faiths. "Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh." To nurse our feelings for themselves is irreligious. They must issue in acts. Hunger leads us to eat, not for the titillation of the palate, but to restore lost tissue and complete the body. The blessing of hungering and thirsting after righteousness is in leading to the activity that fills us with the fullness of God.

True character is within. But "no man liveth to himself." "Let your light shine" is the command to objectify that character. To be seen, it must be in good works, and those best seen are to men's bodily needs. Eleemosynary provisions must always characterize Christians.

Why He Studied the Bible.

The Rev. Russell Bigelow Pope, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, who recently died in his sixtieth year, accomplished that which seems almost to be beyond belief. He read the Bible through 150 times, thirty-eight times in one year, and once in one day. He made his own concordance, and could give almost any chapter and verse in any part of the Bible at call. For forty years he read the Greek Testament through carefully once a quarter. His reason for this close and accurate searching of the Scriptures is given by Dr. Pope in the Christian Advocate, as follows: "Once upon a time I called at a drug store and asked for a certain medicine. The clerk went to the back of the store and laid his hand on the unmarked vial. 'How do you know that this is the medicine I inquired for?' He replied, 'I know my store,' and then I made up my mind that I would know the entire Word like that."

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR JANUARY 14.

Subject: The Wise Men Find Jesus—Matt. ii., 1-12—Golden Text, Prov. xxiii., 26—Memory Verse, 11.—Topic: Men Seeking the Savior—Commentary.

I. The coming of the wise men (vs. 1, 2). 1. "When Jesus was born." While the exact date of Christ's birth is uncertain there is no reason why it may not have been on December 25, B. C. 5. But why do we say that Jesus was born "before Christ?" Simply because our calendar is incorrect. For some centuries after Christ's time there was no calendar in general use, but each nation dated from some event in its history. Finally, in the sixth century, a learned monk, Dionysius Exiguus, was appointed to ascertain the time of Christ's birth, and it was ordered that history should be dated from that time. But Dionysius, who first published his calculations in A. D. 526, put the birth of Jesus about four years too late. "In Bethlehem." "House of bread." A name properly applied to a place where the true bread was manifested for the life of the world. "Of Judea." To distinguish it from Bethlehem in Galilee, mentioned in Joshua 19:15. "Herod." Herod the Great. He was an Edomite, and, although a proselyte to the Jewish religion, was notorious for his wickedness and cruelty. "Wise men." Augustine and Chrysostom say there were twelve magi, but the common belief is that there were but three. "From the East." Perhaps from Media, or Persia, or possibly, from Arabia. "To Jerusalem." They seemed to suppose that when they reached the capital of the Jewish nation they would have no trouble in finding the object of their search.

2. "King of the Jews." This was a title unknown to the earlier history of Israel and applied to no one except the Messiah. It reappears in the inscription over the cross. "His star." The star which attracted the attention of the magi was provided for the occasion. "To worship Him." To do Him homage. They were bold to confess the object of their coming.

II. Light from the Scriptures (vs. 3-6). 3. "Had heard." The magi had created no small stir by their inquiries which immediately attracted the attention of the king. "Troubled." Herod, now sunk into the jealous decrepitude of his savage old age, was residing in his new palace on Zion, when, half maddened as he was already by the crimes of his past career, he was thrown into a fresh paroxysm of alarm and anxiety by the visit of these magi, bearing the strange intelligence that they had come to worship a new-born king. Herod feared a rival. "All Jerusalem with him." Fearing that he would make this an occasion of renewing his acts of bloodshed. 4. "Had gathered." He assembled the Sanhedrin. "Chief priests." This expression probably comprehends the acting high priest and his deputy, those who had been high priests. "Scribes." The learned interpreters of the Mosaic law, and the collectors of the traditions of the elders. Many of them were Pharisees. "Demanded of them." Because they would be most likely to know. "Where the Christ should be born" (R. V.) The wise men had said nothing about the Christ, or the Messiah, but only about the King of the Jews. But Herod saw that this king must be the expected Messiah.

5. "By the prophet." Micah 5:2. 6. "Art in no wise least" (R. V.) Although Bethlehem was little, yet it was exalted above all the other cities of Israel. "The princes." "The thousands" (Micah 5:2). The tribe had been subdivided into thousands, and over each subdivision there was a chieftain or prince. "A Governor." To control and rule. "Which shall be shepherd" (R. V.) To feed and care for, as a shepherd his flock. This governor who controls is also a tender shepherd. Christ is both Shepherd and King. "My people Israel." Israel was God's people in a peculiar sense.

III. The intrigue of Herod (vs. 7, 8). 7. "Privily called." Herod desired to keep the time of Christ's birth as secret as possible lest the Jews who hated him should take occasion to rebel. "Inquired of them diligently." "Learned of them carefully." R. V. He inquired of them the exact time and received positive information as to the time the star appeared. Assuming that the star appeared when the child was born he would thus have some idea of the age of the child. 8. "He sent them." He assumed control, but they followed the directions of the Lord. "Search diligently." Herod was honest in making this charge to them; he greatly desired to receive definite word concerning the new King. "And worship Him also." What hypocrisy! He only wished to find the child in order to murder Him (vs. 13, 16).

IV. Guided by the star (vs. 9, 10). 9. "The star—went before them." The same star which they had seen in their own country now again appears. "Stood over." The star pointed out the very house. 10. "They rejoiced." The Greek is very emphatic. They rejoiced exceedingly.

V. The child Jesus found (vs. 11, 12). 11. "Fell down." They prostrated themselves before Him according to the Eastern custom. "Gifts." The people of the East did not approach into the presence of kings without bringing them presents. "Gold," etc. Gold would always be useful, while frankincense and myrrh were prized for their fragrance. 12. "Warned of God in a dream." God communicated His purpose to them in a manner that they understood. "Another way." They could easily go East from Bethlehem and thus leave Jerusalem on the north.

Orders Odessans Indoors.

The Governor-General of Odessa has ordered the inhabitants of that city to keep inside their houses and to lock the doors, holding the householders responsible for any firing from their premises.

Boston's New Mayor.

Ex-Congressman Fitzgerald was seated as mayor of Boston, Mass., and put back the old Board of Schoolhouse Commissioners, who were ousted by his predecessor.

A large lump of butter has been found buried in an Irish bog. Nobody knows how old it is. It is supposed that it is at least 100 years old, possibly ten centuries. The butter is said to be in excellent condition.

Two offers of $2,500 are said to have been refused for a specimen of a new orchid, the odontoglossum Rossi-steke, shown at the fortnightly meeting of the Royal Horticultural Society in Westminster hall.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

With LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Props., Toledo, O.
Sold by druggists, price, 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Books for Invalids.

For reading during convalescence the British Medical Journal would prescribe literature that cheers, but does not inebriate, and would commend writers "whose style, like that of George Meredith, puts a certain strain on the understanding of the reader, or, like that of Mr. Anthony Hewlett, irritates by its artificiality, or, like that of Marie Corelli, annoys by its frothy impertinence." Dickens should go well during convalescence—except "Pickwick," at least in surgical cases, because of the many side-splitting episodes which would play havoc with the unhealed parts. And for the same reason, in order that healing granulations may not be interfered with, we would absolutely interdict Mark Twain. Similarly "Self Help" is quite innocuous, but we should be cautious in recommending it in order that the patient may not be led to meditate over a misspent career, and to have suggested to him all the opportunities in life he might have grasped, but did not. Despondency might thus be induced which would delay a restoration to health, and which might even prove fatal. Thackeray (except "Vanity Fair," which is a pessimistic novel) should go very well; "Pendennis" and "Barry Lyndon" will certainly not excite. The magazines of the day are certain. The magazines of the day are placid and cheering enough, and of them one will seldom come upon a story sufficiently original or vigorous to excite anybody. Punch will, of course, be always in order—for humor is of the soothing sort, which never arouses one's risibilities, but keeps him always within the decorous limits of a smile.

A novel and somewhat scientific method has recently been devised by the railways of Switzerland owning the government to determine the half-fare limit for children. Instead of an age limit, which has been the custom hitherto, a standard of height is to be employed, and gauges or scale will be placed at each ticket office, so that the agent can tell at a glance whether the child requires full fare. It is assumed that this is an equitable method of doing away with considerable imposition on the railroads, while at the same time children of small size who are above the legal age limit would be correspondingly benefited.

In Peru when a burglar desires to break into a house he often takes a sponge and a bucket of water and moistens the walls, which, being covered with only a thin coating of mud, are easily dissolved on the application of moisture.

A German statistician has been calculating what part of a woman's life is spent before the mirror. He begins with six years and ends with sixty, and makes the time consumed during the intervening years 7,000 hours, or about ten months of life.

The City of Mexico is to have a $200,000,000 legislative palace corresponding to the capitol at Washington.

INCIPIENT CONSUMPTION.
How Food Headed Off the Insidious Disease.

The happy wife of a good old-fashioned Mich. farmer says:

"In the spring of 1902, I was taken sick—a general breaking down. Nerves were. I was excessively nervous, could not sleep well at night, my food seemed to do me no good, and I was so weak I could scarcely walk across the room.

"The doctor said my condition was due to overwork and close confinement and that he very much feared that consumption would set in. For several months I took one kind of medicine after another, but with no good results; in fact, I seemed to grow worse.

"Then I determined to quit all medicines, give up coffee and see what Grape-Nuts food would do for me. I began to eat Grape-Nuts with cream and bread and butter three times a day.

"The effect was surprising! I began to gain flesh and strength for my nerves quieted down and grew really steady and sound, sweet sleep came back to me. In six weeks time I discharged the hired girl and commenced to do my own housework for a family of six. This was two years ago, and I am doing it still, and like it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville."

WHO SHI

TCH OF THE LIFE OF

a True Story of How the ...had Its Birth and How the ...t to be Offered for Public...

...remarkable woman, whose ...n name was Estes, was born in ...Mass., February 9th, 1819. com... ...om a good old Quaker family ...me years she taught school, and ...e known as a woman of an alert ...

...investigating mind, an earnest ...r after knowledge, and above ...ossessed of a wonderfully sympa... ...e nature.

...1843 she married Isaac Pinkham, ...lder and real estate operator, and ...early married life was marked by ...perity and happiness. They had ... children, three sons and a ...hter.

...those good old fashioned days it ...common for mothers to make ...own home medicines from roots ...herbs, nature's own remedies—...g in a physician only in specially ...nt cases. By tradition and ex...nce many of them gained a won...l knowledge of the curative prop...s of the various roots and herbs.

...s. Pinkham took a great interest ...e study of roots and herbs, their ...acteristics and power over disease. ...maintained that just as nature so ...tifully provides in the harvest...s and orchards vegetable foods of ...kinds; so, if we but take the pains ...nd them, in the roots and herbs ...he field there are remedies ex...ly designed to cure the various ...and weaknesses of the body, and ...her pleasure to search these out, ...prepare simple and effective medi... for her own family and friends.

...lief of these was a rare combina... of the choicest medicinal roots ... herbs found best adapted for the ... of the ills and weaknesses pecu... to the female sex, and Lydia E. Pink...'s friends and neighbors learned ... her compound relieved and cured ... it became quite popular among ...m.

...ll this so far was done freely, with... money and without price, as a ...r of love.

...ut in 1873 the financial crisis struck ...n. Its length and severity were too ...h for the large real estate interests ...he Pinkham family, as this class ... business suffered most from ...ful depression, so when the Centen... year dawned it found their prop... swept away. Some other source ...come had to be found.

...t this point Lydia E. Pinkham's ...etable Compound was made known ...he world.

...he three sons and the daughter, ...h their mother, combined forces to

GOING WEST?

...so, don't fail to write the under... ...ed for rates, routes, maps, etc. ...ive hours shortest line to Texas. ...B. Freeman, Trav. Pass. Agent ...n and Crescent Route, 1925 First ...ue, Birmingham, Ala.

...mong western people the English ...the greatest tea drinkers and the ...rleans the greatest coffee drink...

OF WATERS FREE—NO DRUGS —CURES BY ABSORPTION.

...e Belching of Gas—Bad Breath and Bad Stomach—Short Breath—Blasting—Sour Eructations—Irregular Heart, Etc.

...ke a Mull's Wafer any time ... ...ght, and note the immediate good ef... on your stomach. It absorbs the gas, ...fects the stomach, kills the poison ...e and cures the disease. Catarrh of ...head and throat, unwholesome food ... overeating make bad stomachs. ...ely any stomach is entirely free from ... of some kind. Mull's Anti-Belch ...rs will make your stomach healthy ...bsorbing foul gases which arise from ...undigested food and by re-enforcing ...ming of the stomach, enabling it to ...oughly mix the food with the gastric ...e. This cures stomach trouble, pro... digestion, sweetens the breath, stops ...ing and fermentation. Heart action ...es strong and regular through the ...ess.

...ard drugs, as you know from experi... they do not cure stomach trouble ... a common-sense (Nature's) method ... does cure. A soothing, healing sen... ... results instantly.

...know Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers will ...e, and we want you to know it. ...CIAL OFFER.—The regular price of ...e Anti-Belch Wafers is 50c. a box, but ...roduce it to thousands of sufferers ...ill send two (2) boxes upon receipt ...c. and this advertisement, or we will ...you a free sample for this coupon.

FREE COUPON. 129

...nd this coupon with your name ... address and name of a druggist ... does not sell it for a free sample ... of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers to

...'s GRAPE TONIC CO., 223 Third Ave., Rock Island, Ill.
...Full Address and Write Plainly.

...by all druggists, 50c. per box, or ... mail.

A large lump of butter has been found buried in an Irish bog. No one knows how old it is. It is supposed that it is at least 100 years old, possibly ten centuries. The butter is said to be in excellent condition.

Two offers of $2,500 are said to have been refused for a specimen of the new orchid, the odontoglossum crispum stake, shown at the fortnightly exhibition of the Royal Horticultural Society in Westminster hall.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

With LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Props., Toledo, O.
Sold by druggists, price, 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Books for Invalids.

For reading during convalescence the British Medical Journal would prescribe literature that cheers, but does not inebriate, and would condemn writers "whose style, like that of George Meredith, puts a severe strain on the understanding of the reader, or, like that of Mr. Hall Caine, or, like that of Marie Corelli, annoys by its frothy impertinence." Dickens should go well during convalescence—except "Pickwick"—at least in surgical cases, because although many side-splitting episodes in it would play havoc with the unhealed parts. And for the same reason in order that healing granulations may not be interfered with, we would absolutely interdict Mark Twain. But "Self Help" is quite innocuous, but should be cautious in recommending it in order that the patient may not be led by be led to meditate over a misspent career, and to have suggested to him all the opportunities in life he might have grasped, but did not. Despondency might thus be induced which would delay a restoration to health, and which might even prove fatal. Thackeray (except "Vanity Fair," which is a pessimistic book) should go very well; "Pendennis" and "Barry Lyndon" will certainly entertain. The magazines of the day are placid and cheering enough, and in them one will seldom come upon a story sufficiently original or vigorous to excite anybody. Punch will, of course, be always in order—for humor is of the soothing sort, which never arouses one's risibilities, but keeps him always within the decorous limits of a smile.

A novel and somewhat acute method has recently been devised by the railways of Switzerland owning the government to determine the half-fare limit for children. Hitherto of an age limit, which has been a custom hitherto, a standard of height is to be employed, and gauges or scale will be placed at each ticket office, so that the agent can tell at a glance whether the child requires full fare. It is assumed that this is an equitable method of doing away with considerable imposition on the railroads, while at the same time children of small size who are above the legal age limit would be correspondingly benefited.

In Peru when a burglar desires to break into a house he often takes a sponge and a bucket of water and moistens the walls, which, being covered with only a thin coating of paint are easily dissolved on the application of moisture.

A German statistician has been calculating what part of a woman's life is spent before the mirror. He begins with six years and ends with 40, and makes the time consumed during the intervening years 7,000 hours, or about ten months of life.

The City of Mexico is to have a $200,000,000 legislative palace corresponding to the capitol at Washington.

INCIPIENT CONSUMPTION.
How Food Healed Off the Fatal Disease.

The happy wife of a good old-fashioned Mich. farmer says:

"In the spring of 1902, I was taken sick—a general breaking down, nervous wreck. I was excessively nervous, could not sleep well at night, my food seemed to do me no good, and I was so weak I could scarcely walk across the room.

"The doctor said my condition was due to overwork and close confinement and that he very much feared that consumption would set in. For several months I took one kind of medicine after another, but with no good results. In fact, I seemed to grow worse.

"Then I determined to quit all medicines, give up coffee and see what Grape-Nuts food would do for me. I began to eat Grape-Nuts with cream and bread and butter three times a day.

"The effect was surprising! I began to gain flesh and strength from the first, my nerves quieted down and grew normally steady and sound, sweet sleep came back to me. In six weeks time I discharged the hired girl and commenced to do my own housework for a family of six. This was two years ago, and I am doing it still, and feel well." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville."

WHO SHE WAS

ETCH OF THE LIFE OF LYDIA E. PINKHAM

d a True Story of How the Vegetable Compound Had Its Birth and How the "Panic of '73" Caused It to be Offered for Public Sale in Drug Stores.

is remarkable woman, whose maiden name was Estes, was born in Mass., February 9th, 1819, coming from a good old Quaker family. Some years she taught school, and became known as a woman of an alert investigating mind, an earnest seeker after knowledge, and above all possessed of a wonderfully sympathetic nature.

In 1843 she married Isaac Pinkham, a builder and real estate operator, and their early married life was marked by prosperity and happiness. They had four children, three sons and a daughter.

In those good old fashioned days it was common for mothers to make their own home medicines from roots and herbs, nature's own remedies—relying in a physician only in specially urgent cases. By tradition and experience many of them gained a wonderful knowledge of the curative properties of the various roots and herbs.

Mrs. Pinkham took a great interest in the study of roots and herbs, their characteristics and power over disease. She maintained that just as natnre so bountifully provides in the harvest-fields and orchards vegetable foods of all kinds; so, if we but take the pains to find them, in the roots and herbs of the field there are remedies expressly designed to cure the various ills and weaknesses of the body, and it was her pleasure to search these out, and prepare simple and effective medicines for her own family and friends.

The chief of these was a rare combination of the choicest medicinal roots and herbs found best adapted for the cure of the ills and weaknesses peculiar to the female sex, and Lydia E. Pinkham's friends and neighbors learned that her compound relieved and cured and it became quite popular among them.

All this so far was done freely, without money and without price, as a labor of love.

But in 1873 the financial crisis struck the land. Its length and severity were too much for the large real estate interests of the Pinkham family, as this class of business suffered most from the fearful depression, so when the Centennial year dawned it found their property swept away. Some other source of income had to be found.

At this point Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was made known to the world.

The three sons and the daughter, with their mother, combined forces to restore the family fortune. They argued that the medicine which was so good for their woman friends and neighbors was equally good for the women of the whole world.

The Pinkhams had no money, and little credit. Their first laboratory was the kitchen, where roots and herbs were steeped on the stove, gradually filling a gross of bottles. Then came the question of selling it, for always before they had given it away freely. They hired a job printer to run off some pamphlets setting forth the merits of the medicine, now called Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and these were distributed by the Pinkham sons in Boston, New York, and Brooklyn.

The wonderful curative properties of the medicine were, to a great extent, self-advertising, for whoever used it recommended it to others, and the demand gradually increased.

In 1877, by combined efforts the family had saved enough money to commence newspaper advertising and from that time the growth and success of the enterprise were assured, until to-day Lydia E. Pinkham and her Vegetable Compound have become household words everywhere, and many tons of roots and herbs are used annually in its manufacture.

Lydia E. Pinkham herself did not live to see the great success of this work. She passed to her reward years ago, but not till she had provided means for continuing her work as effectively as she could have done it herself.

During her long and eventful experience she was ever methodical in her work and she was always careful to preserve a record of every case that came to her attention. The case of every sick woman who applied to her for advice—and there were thousands—received careful study, and the details, including symptoms, treatment and results were recorded for future reference, and to-day these records, together with hundreds of thousands made since, are available to sick women the world over, and represent a vast collaboration of information regarding the treatment of woman's ills, which for authenticity and accuracy can hardly be equaled in any library in the world.

With Lydia E. Pinkham worked her daughter-in-law, the present Mrs. Pinkham. She was carefully instructed in all her hard-won knowledge, and for years she assisted her in her vast correspondence.

To her hands naturally fell the direction of the work when its originator passed away. For nearly twenty-five years she has continued it, and nothing in the work shows when the first Lydia E. Pinkham dropped her pen, and the present Mrs. Pinkham, now the mother of a large family, took it up. With woman assistants, some as capable as herself, the present Mrs. Pinkham continues this great work, and probably from the office of no other person have so many women been advised how to regain health. Sick women, this advice is "Yours for Health" freely given if you only write to ask for it.

Such is the history of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; made from simple roots and herbs; the one great medicine for women's ailments, and the fitting monument to the noble woman whose name it bears.

GOING WEST?

If so, don't fail to write the undersigned for rates, routes, maps, etc. Twelve hours shortest line to Texas. H. Freeman, Trav. Pass. Agent Queen and Crescent Route, 1925 First Avenue, Birmingham, Ala.

Among western people the English are the greatest tea drinkers and the Americans the greatest coffee drinkers.

X OF WATERS FREE—NO DRUGS —CURES BY ABSORPTION.

Belching of Gas—Bad Breath and Bad Stomach—Short Breathe—Bloating—Sour Eructations—Irregular Heart, Etc.

Take a Mull's Wafer any time after meal, and note the immediate good effect on your stomach. It absorbs the gas, disinfects the stomach, kills the poison germs and cures the disease. Catarrh of the head and throat, unwholesome food and overeating make bad stomachs. Rarely any stomach is entirely free from trouble of some kind. Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers will make your stomach healthy by absorbing foul gases which arise from undigested food and by re-enforcing the lining of the stomach, enabling it to thoroughly mix the food with the gastric juice. This cures stomach trouble, promotes digestion, sweetens the breath, stops belching and fermentation. Heart action becomes strong and regular through this cure.

Onward drugs, as you know from experience, they do not cure stomach trouble. Mull's is a common-sense (Nature's) method and does cure. A soothing, healing sensation results instantly.

We know Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers will do this, and we want you to know it.

SPECIAL OFFER.—The regular price of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers is 50c. a box, but to introduce it to thousands of sufferers we will send two (2) boxes upon receipt of 25c. and this advertisement, or we will send you a free sample for this coupon.

FREE COUPON. 129

Send this coupon with your name and address and name of a druggist who does not sell it for a free sample box of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers to

MULL'S GRAPE TONIC Co., 323 Third Ave., Rock Island, Ill.
Give Full Address and Write Plainly.

Sold by all druggists, 50c. per box, or sent by mail.

St. Deiniol.

St. Deiniol or Daniel, whose day is November 23, is a Welsh saint whose name has become familiar to many thousands of Englishmen and Scotsmen in connection with his church at Hawarden and the St. Deiniol's library established by Mr. Gladstone. The saint flourished early in the sixth century, but very little is known of his life except that he founded a college or monastery at the place now known as Bangor. That Bangor derives its name from this college of St. Deiniol's is agreed; but there is a difference of opinion as to whether Bangor stands for "Ban chor," high choir for the Latin "bonus chorus," blessed choir.

Women in Industrial Life.

The census returns show that 5,000,000 and more women are employed in the nation's industrial life. There are now three times as many women stenographers as there were ten years ago, while the number of women bookkeepers and accountants has doubled. The percentage of saleswomen also shows a corresponding increase. Women have risen to be treasurers of street railways, presidents of national and savings banks, secretaries of financiers on salaries of $10,000 and $12,500, executive heads of building and contracting firms, buyers for large stores, etc.

English Starlings a Pest.

The English starlings introduced into Australia from Europe have produced a much greater pest than the insects they were expected to exterminate. They destroy apples, cherries, figs, grapes, etc., and unless they are exterminated, fruit growing will have to be given up. They also drive out insect-eating birds like diamond birds, tree swallows and tree creepers.

It is lucky that sometimes we do not know how lucky we are.

BOY'S TERRIBLE ECZEMA

Mouth and Eyes Covered With Crusts—Hands Pinned Down—Miraculous Cure by Cuticura.

"When my little boy was six months old he had eczema. The sores extended so quickly over the whole body that we at once called in the doctor. We then went to another doctor, but he could not help him, and in our despair we went to a third one. Matters became so bad that he had regular holes in his cheeks, large enough to put a finger into. The food had to be given with a spoon, for his mouth was covered with crusts as thick as a finger, and whenever he opened the mouth they began to bleed and suppurate, as did also his eyes. Hands, arms, chest and back, in short, the whole body, was covered over and over. We had no rest by day or night. Whenever he was laid in his bed we had to pin his hands down, otherwise he would scratch his face, and make an open sore. I think his face must have itched most fearfully.

"We finally thought nothing could help, and I had made up my mind to send my wife with the child to Europe, hoping that the sea air might cure him, otherwise he was to be put under good medical care there. But, Lord be blessed, matters came different, and we soon saw a miracle. A friend of ours spoke about Cuticura. We made a trial with Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent, and within ten days or two weeks we noticed a decided improvement. Just as quickly as the sickness had appeared it also began to disappear, and within ten weeks the child was absolutely well, and his skin was smooth and white as never before. F. Hohrath, President of the C. L. Hohrath Company, Manufacturers of Silk Ribbons, 4 to 20 Rink Alley, South Bethlehem, Pa. June 5, 1905."

Biggest Farm in the World.

In a moment of vinous enthusiasm Daniel Webster put his hand in his pocket, asked how much the national debt was and offered to pay it himself. A Mexican farmer, Don Luis Terrazas, a great friend of President Diaz, once offered to assume the Mexican national debt, and it would not have kept him awake nights if his offer had been accepted. Don Luis has what you might call a tidy little farm at Chihuahua—about 8,000,000 acres. Takes the Mexican Central trains more than half a day to cross it. Whew! Don Luis is thought to own more than a million cattle, but a bagatelle of 100,000 or so more or less never bothers him. His stable consists of some 100,000 horses; his sheepfold of 700,000 sheep. From 200,000 to 300,000 calves are branded with his brand every spring. More than 1,000 cowboys and so on keep his cattle on a thousand hills. By the way, his farm includes a few mountains, for diversification. At his slaughter and packing houses near Chihuahua City 250,000 cattle, as many sheep and hogs innumerable are killed, and away they go in his own refrigerator cars. Some 40,000 persons dwell on his estate and are ruled by this Arabian Nights farmer, who lives in a $2,000,000 (silver dollar) castle and is a swell nabob such as these United States know not.

The oldest clergyman in England is Rev. John Edward Kempe, who has been in holy orders for seventy-two years, being now ninety-five years of age. He has been chaplain-in-ordinary to King Edward since 1901.

In color the squirrel fish is a brilliant red, which makes it a conspicuous inhabitant of the sea as it darts here and there with quick, alert movements. The body of the squirrel fish shows a few stripes and is well covered with sharp spines.

A Plymouth Rock hen belonging to a woman in Weston, W. Va., has produced a new monstrosity in the egg line by laying an egg which is of normal weight, but as round as a billiard ball.

FITS permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free. Dr. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

The Christian Endeavor has now 67,003 societies.

A Guaranteed Cure For Piles.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding, Protruding Piles. Druggists are authorized to refund money if Pazo Ointment fails to cure in 6 to 14 days. 50c.

Perspiring hands are almost always evidence of nervousness.

Robbed in Church.

Just think what an outrage it is to be robbed of all the benefits of the services by continuous coughing throughout the congregation, when Anti-Gripine is guaranteed to cure. Sold everywhere. 25 cts. F. W. Diemer, M. D., manufacturer, Springfield, Mo.

Even hunger isn't an infallible cure for laziness.

Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullen is Nature's great remedy—Cures Coughs, Colds, Croup and Consumption, and all throat and lung troubles. At druggists, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

A soldier in Morocco receives five cents a day.

Cures Cancer, Blood Poison and Scrofula.

If you have blood poison producing eruptions, pimples, ulcers, swollen glands, bumps and risings, burning, itching skin, copper-colored spots or rash on the skin, mucous patches in mouth or throat, falling hair, bone pains, old rheumatism or foul catarrh, take Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) It kills the poison in the blood; soon all sores, eruptions heal, hard swellings subside, aches and pains stop and a perfect cure is made of the worst cases of Blood Poison.

For cancers, tumors, swellings, eating sores, ugly ulcers, persistent pimples of all kinds, take B. B. B. It destroys the cancer poison in the blood, heals cancer of all kinds, cures the worst humors or suppurating swellings. Thousands cured by B. B. B. after all else fails. B. B. B. composed of pure botanic ingredients. Improves the digestion, makes the blood pure and rich, stops the awful itching and all aches, shooting pains. Thoroughly tested for thirty years. Druggists, $1 per bottle, with complete directions for home cure. Sample free and prepaid by writing Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga. Describe trouble and free medical advice also sent in sealed letter.

Insanity and Drunkenness.

There is no question of the fact that insane asylums all over the world are to a great extent recruited from the class of hard drinkers, and from their offspring and descendants. Twenty-one per cent of the asylums now under restraint in the United States have an "alcoholic history," liquor being either the sole or a contributing cause of their misfortune. Paresis, which of late years has become so much more common, is a typical alcoholic brain disease, though not always attributable to drink. It is noticeably frequently among brokers and actors, who as a class are much addicted to constant "nipping."

It is said that, to a skilled pathologist, the effects produced by alcohol upon the brain of a "moderate" drinker are plainly visible under the microscope. The drug acts directly as a stimulant upon the nerve and after a while, when taken in excessive quantities, injures the delicate structures of the mind organ, impairing its efficiency and eventually breaking it down. But the most unfortunate feature of the case is that the mischief is liable to be transmitted in one form or another to children, who become drunkards, show signs of mental weakness, or have a tendency to be epileptic or otherwise afflicted with nervous diseases.

Company I, of the 15th Minn., was the heaviest and tallest regiment ever mustered into the U. S. war.

DOES YOUR BACK ACHE?

Cure the Kidneys and the Pain Will Never Return.

Only one way to cure an aching back. Cure the cause, the kidneys. Thousands tell of cures made by Doan's Kidney Pills. John C. Coleman, a prominent merchant of Swainsboro, Ga., says: "For several years my kidneys were affected, and my back ached day and night. I was languid, nervous and lame in the morning. Doan's Kidney Pills helped me right away, and the great relief that followed has been permanent."

Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

The highest workmen's wages in Berlin are paid to masons—$1.90 to $2.15 a day for piece work.

Kentish (English) farmers say that the heads of young hopvine are a superior substitute for asparagus. In the country districts of Kent, hopheads are largely eaten, when in the early part of the season the superfluous shoots are cut away from the plants.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature on each box. 25c.

Sallow complexions are often caused by unwise eating and a torpid liver do not believe Piso's Cure for Consumption has equal for coughs and colds.—JOHN F. BOYER, Trinity Springs, Ind., Feb. 15, 1900.

More than 17,000,000 postage stamps are used in this country every day.

Itch cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion; never fails. Sold by Druggists. Mail orders promptly filled by Dr. Detchon, Crawfordsville, Ind. $1.

Beer drinking is increasing very rapidly in Switzerland.

EXAMINE EVERY INCH OF THE SHOE YOU ARE GOING TO BUY. TAKE NOTHING LESS THAN YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

WHEN YOU BUY A PAIR OF CLOVER BRAND SHOES WRITE THE DATE IN THE LINING, In ink.

CLOVER BRAND SHOES Are LEATHER—THE BEST of it, too. ALL THROUGH they are EVERYTHING that you demand. Good Shoes

THE DEALER WHO WON'T SELL 'EM TO YOU IS SIMPLY REFUSING TO GIVE YOU YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

Wertheimer-Swarts Shoe Co.
LARGEST FINE SHOE EXCLUSIVISTS
ST. LOUIS, U. S. A.

WINCHESTER
"NUBLACK" BLACK POWDER SHELLS

The "Nublack" is a grand good shell. It is good in construction, primed with a quick and sure primer, and carefully loaded with the best brands of powder and shot. It is a favorite among hunters and other users of black powder shells on account of its uniform shooting, evenness of pattern and strength to withstand reloading.

ALL DEALERS SELL THEM

PRICE, 25 Cts

TO CURE THE GRIP IN ONE DAY
ANTI-GRIPINE
HAS NO EQUAL FOR HEADACHE
CURES COUGHS & COLDS

ANTI-GRIPINE
IS GUARANTEED TO CURE
GRIP, BAD COLD, HEADACHE AND NEURALGIA.
I won't sell Anti-Gripine to a dealer who won't Guarantee It. Call for your MONEY BACK IF IT DOESN'T CURE.
F. W. Diemer, M.D., Manufacturer, Springfield, Mo.

$5.00
To be Given for Reliable Information
We have set aside
$1,000.00
to be spent for information and will give five dollars for a POSTAL CARD giving the first reliable news of a chance to sell a horizontal steam engine of our styles, within our range of sizes. We do not want inquiries at this time for vertical, traction or gas engines.

ATLAS
ENGINES AND BOILERS
Builders of the most complete line of engines and boilers made by any one manufacturing concern in the world
ATLAS ENGINE WORKS
Selling agencies in all cities INDIANAPOLIS
Corliss, Four Valve, Automatic, High-Speed, Compound and Throttling Engines. Water Tube, Tubular and Portable Boilers
Atlas Engines in service 2,000,000 H. P.
Atlas Boilers in service 4,000,000 H. P.

Am. 2, 1906.

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION
25 CTS

If afflicted with weak eyes use Thompson's Eye Water

Fertilizers
Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co.
COTTON

Increase Your COTTON Yields Per Acre — Values Above Par

It is a well known fact that cotton, or any other crop, produced with Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers will bring the highest possible price on the market. Make healthy, strong, well-developed, early cotton, with full grown bolls on the fruit limbs at the base as well as all the way up to the very top and tip ends of the branches of the cotton plants, by liberally using

Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers.

They contain all the materials necessary to supply to your land the elements which have been taken from it by repeated cultivation year after year. These fertilizers will greatly "increase your yields per acre." Accept no substitute from your dealer.

Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co.

Richmond, Va.	Atlanta, Ga.
Norfolk, Va.	Savannah, Ga.
Durham, N. C.	Montgomery, Ala.
Charleston, S. C.	Memphis, Tenn.
Baltimore, Md.	Shreveport, La.

THE ONLY ONE

There is only One Genuine—Syrup of Figs,

The Genuine is Manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co.

The full name of the company, California Fig Syrup Co., is printed on the front of every package of the genuine.

The Genuine—Syrup of Figs—is for Sale, in Original Packages Only, by Reliable Druggists Everywhere

Knowing the above will enable one to avoid the fraudulent imitations made by piratical concerns and sometimes offered by unreliable dealers. The imitations are known to act injuriously and should therefore be declined.

Buy the genuine always if you wish to get its beneficial effects. It cleanses the system gently yet effectually, dispels colds and headaches when bilious or constipated, prevents fevers and acts best on the kidneys, liver, stomach and bowels, when a laxative remedy is needed by men, women or children. Many millions know of its beneficial effects from actual use and of their own personal knowledge. It is the laxative remedy of the well-informed.

Always buy the Genuine—Syrup of Figs

MANUFACTURED BY THE
CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
San Francisco, Cal.
Louisville, Ky. New York, N.Y.
PRICE FIFTY CENTS PER BOTTLE

FOR YOUNG FOLKS

LANGUAGES.

I have a little neighbor whom I very often meet,
He wears a coat of reddish fur at home and on the street.
We often stop to have a chat on sunny winter days,
His manner's very pleasant—but I can't tell what he says.

I think he talks about the woods, and how the beechnuts taste,
And how he loves the bread-crusts that I'm rather apt to waste,
And how he wishes spring would come—but there! I must confess
I cannot understand a word, and so I have to guess.

My sister studies German and my brother studies Greek,
But those are not the languages that I should care to speak,
For none of all their lexicons can make it clear to me,
Just what that little squirrel means by "Chk!" and "Chir-r-r!" and "Chee!"—Hannah G. Fernald in the Youth's Companion.

HER FIRST PARTY.

"I almost know it is going to be pink silk!" cried Margery, bursting into her mother's room in great excitement. Margery usually began her stories in the middle, and with patience one must gather up the ends.

"There are going to be six—" she continued.

"Six pink silk dresses?" asked her mother. "Now, Margery, dear, this time I am not going to form any opinion until you tell me exactly what it is all about."

"Well, it is about Dorothy's uncle, and he is in Japan, and he is going to send her a box, and Dorothy isn't to open it until the party, and then we are all to stand round and help take out the things; and I almost know you will get my summer dress, and it will be pink silk. There!"

"And you don't know the day?"

"Well, she thinks it will be in two weeks, and she is ready to tell us at a minute's notice."

The story was out at last, and Margery sat in a dream for a moment. "I am sort of afraid," she said, at last.

"I never went to a party, and I am afraid I don't know the games."

"I think you will get on nicely—if you think of others more than yourself," her mother said, gently.

The family was destined to know all about the party in the next few weeks, for there was no other topic of conversation. The dress was bought and as it was a simple, washable silk, she was allowed to look forward to wearing it. She stood up patiently to be fitted—it is so much easier to be fitted for a pretty silk than for a plain gingham! The box seemed delayed, for days went on and there was no summons to her friend's house. Margery grew more nervous and surer still that she should be "afraid" to play the new games.

One day she thought she would go up and call on Dorothy, and as she came up the walk she was surprised to find three little girl friends on the piazza. She saw that they were in their best frocks, but that did not trouble her, as she had only come to call. They urged her to come and join a game they were about to play, and when they were planning it out several others came, and then the fun began.

It was nearly dark when Margery came home, running breathlessly into the kitchen and asking Kitty where the note was that had been left that morning.

"Sure, I forgot, and it's behind the clock." Margery took it and ran on to her mother and father in the library.

"Why are you so late?" asked her father, a little severely.

"Why, I didn't have my pink silk dress on, and it was the party, and I wasn't afraid!" panted Margery, holding up a bright little handkerchief.

"Party! Where?" asked her father.

"Why, it was behind the kitchen clock, and the box came and there were big fans and teeny-tiny fans, and vases, and a wee little clock and some lanterns and a flag and a kite —"

"Wait, wait!" said her mother. "Now start again. I know there was no party behind our kitchen clock."

"Nor any magician to bring all those things out of a box," added her father, laughing.

So Margery began at the beginning, which had to do with Kitty forgetting to deliver the note and the strange accident of her call, and her own surprise when she arrived, to find "the party" taking place. They gathered quite a connected story at last. When bedtime came and she was nicely tucked away, she called sleepily to her mother, "It was funny about the silk dress not going to the party, and there it was behind the kitchen clock all the time!"

"No, it was hanging in your closet," said mother. "I wouldn't keep it behind the clock." But Margery was too sleepy to straighten out the tangle.—Mary Wright Saunders, in the Youth's Companion.

THE RED JACKET.

Margery was fond of color, and so when Uncle Jack bought her a nice jacket it was natural that he should select a pretty red. Margery thought she had never seen anything so lovely, and on the very morning it came she longed to wear it over to grandma's.

"But it is not a pleasant day," urged mother, "and if it should rain you would spoil all the freshness of your pretty garment." But Margery could not bear this disappointment, and for once in her life she was, we are sorry to say, almost as cross as a little girl can be.

Mother was grieved, but as she sometimes allowed Margery to have her own way and suffer the consequences, she left it entirely to Margery to decide, and made it quite plain, too, that if any harm came to the jacket she would have to bear the misfortune without complaint.

Margery took an umbrella and started down the street. She did not feel exactly comfortable, for it was a rare thing to disagree with mother.

As she tripped gayly along she felt a drop of rain, and, opening her umbrella, she went bobbing along up the hill.

Now grandma owned a cow. She was not a very friendly cow at best, and she certainly was very curious. When she saw the bit of bright red coming across the field, and half-concealed by a huge black thing, she threw up her head and made her way toward the object.

Margery, unmindful of the excitement she was causing, came along, busy with her thoughts. Suddenly she heard a thud! thud! and, looking up, she saw the old red cow with head down, bearing toward her. Margery was used to cattle, and she did not wholly lose her presence of mind. She looked about for some shelter, and seeing the old pulpit rock, she ran with all her speed, and climbed it nimbly before the cow came round from the other side.

Margery had thrown her umbrella out of her hand when she climbed the rock. The wind bore it down the field, and the cow, attracted by this new wonder, moving away after it.

She did not dare to leave the rock, and the rain was now coming down heavily, and there were fine drops all over her new jacket. A more miserable little girl could hardly be found, and she began to cry. She took off her coat and rolled it, damp as it was, in a tight bundle, and looked away toward grandma's house to see if help were in sight.

It seemed years, and it was some time, before grandma, looking from her side door, saw the little huddled figure on the rock and the old cow running about the field, chasing some tumbling black object. She quickly called Uncle Jack, and he came down the field on the run. Seeing Margery was safe, he made after the umbrella, which he captured and closed to use as a goad to drive the old red cow back to her feeding, and then he came over to the rock.

"Well, chicken, what in the world are you doing down here?" he said, as he held up his arms to her.

"I wanted grandma to see my new jacket first of all," sobbed Margery, "and now the old cow has spoiled it all!" and little by little the story came out.

Of course grandma unrolled the poor little garment, and pressed it out nicely, not forgetting to marvel over its beauty; but some of the freshness was gone, and it always reminded Margery of the time she had her own way.—H. C. Hill in Christian Register.

A HAPPY FAMILY.

On the farm of Amos M. Collins, near Bainbridge, Ohio, dwells in undisturbed bliss a most curiously assorted family, presided over by a demure house cat. Several weeks ago Tabby gave birth to a pair of healthy kittens, which in the course of events, grew apace. When old enough to get about, they went on a foraging expedition in a wood near by, accompanied by the mother. In their peregrination they discovered a gray squirrel's nest in which two young squirrels lay sleeping. The curiosity of the kittens was aroused, and they soon made friends with the squirrels. Their overtures were received in the same spirit, and, while the mother-cat sat contentedly on a log, kittens and squirrels enjoyed a frolic. When it finally became dusk, the cat quickly took one of the squirrels in her mouth and carried it to the farm, returning for the other one in a few minutes. The squirrels are now safely housed with the kittens, and the cat watches over the children of her adoption as carefully as over her own offspring.—Cincinnati Inquirer.

His Happy Return.

It was Old Home Week, and the returned sons and grandsons had been telling with more or less pride of the changes time had wrought for them. At last Edward Jameson spoke:

"I went away from here twenty years ago a poor young man, with only one solitary dollar in my pocket. I walked the four miles from my father's farm to the station, and there I begged a ride to Boston on a freight car. Last night I drove into town behind a spirited pair of horses, and my purse—guess how much my purse holds in money today, besides a large check," and Mr. Jameson looked about him with a brilliant smile.

"Fifty dollars!"

"Seventy-five!"

"A hundred!" shouted the boys, filled with admiration.

"No," said Mr. Jameson, drawing a large flat purse from his pocket when the clamor had subsided, "none of you have guessed right. When I had paid the twenty-five cents to Ozzy Boggs for my refreshing drive in the coach I had, besides my trunk check (which I retained for financial reasons), exactly four cents. I have come back, my friends to stay. Any little jobs of sawing and splitting will be gratefully received."

WORTH QUOTING

Between 12 and 15 churches a day, or between 4,000 and 5,000 a year, are built in this country.

Ninety thousand dollars in gold disappeared in a railroad wreck in Wyoming. That's a mere bagatelle compared with amounts in gold that have disappeared in railroad wrecks in Wall street.

"Hope deferred maketh the heart sad," and the hope that we will ever be anything but a race of fools in process to make any one sad, asserts the Coast Seaman's Journal.

Vassar students invited a newsboy to a banquet. This, says the New York World, teaches us that even higher education cannot smother womankin's consideration for the infernal masculine.

The Atlanta Constitution says: Perhaps Russia is merely working herself up to a condition favorable to the introduction of football into the country.

It is taken for granted, since the new king of Norway has chosen the title of Haakon VII, that there have been six other Haakons, remarks the Kansas City Times.

Almost any fool can be eloquent when he has something to say, but it requires an adept in platitudes to launch into impassioned oratory when he has nothing to say. That's why our political spellbinders are so well paid.

The higher types of men are prompted to act together, because they believe in the same principle or love the same ideal. The inferior pull together from clannishness or allegience to a leader concluded Prof. E. A. Ross, Nebraska university.

Among the tremendous possibilities of future wars is that there is likely to be a regiment of rough riders composed exclusively of namesakes of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt predicts the Chicago Tribune.

One of the best purifiers is whitewash, avows the New York Press. It is good for anything from a damp cellar to a tainted politician or an insurance grafter.

The exifiencies of human existence sometimes make it necessary to destroy much that has been attained, that a little may be gained. Wars are mostly fought on that basis, and the French Revolution is the great historical demonstration of its truth.

The difference between a useful and a harmful education is merely the difference between the knowledge that makes men intelligently discontented with prventable evils and resigned to incurable evils, and the knowledge that makes men unreasonably discontented with all things.

Mr. Rockefeller has advised young men to turn their thoughts to higher things than money, which is not all there is in the world. If the young men will look after the higher things Mr. Rockefeller will look after the money, avers the London Punch.

After the college graduate has taken his doploma, cum laude, to the pawnshop and tried to borrow something on it, he begins to realize about what it is worth to him in the fierce struggle of the sordid business world, asserts the Somerville Journal.

It looks to us as though the life-insurance agent were the innocent bystander in this investigation, thinks the Chicago News. Soliciting business at this time must be about as pleasant a job as carrying an elephant up 16 flights of stairs.

The Indian of Today.

Something more than four centuries have gone by since Columbus dawned on the view of the American red man. The red man's horizon has broadened in that time. A young man who describes his adventures among the Sioux for the Booklovers Magazine found the warriors of the plains unimpressed by the noble paleface.

"Why do they call the Fourth of July 'Independence day'?" and old warrior asked, as they sat by the camp fire.

The explanation was somewhat incoherent, but included mention of a war with Great Britain.

"Oh, yes, I have been there," remarked the Indian, reminiscently. "London is a fine city."

Then up spoke another brave form from where he squatted, with dripping rain streaking his warpaint: "I like Paris better."

The white man gasped.

"Archibald was born in Berlin," said the female Sphinx at the lard-pails, turning to indicate the child who grinned toothlessly in the background.

"Which do you perfer?" they asked.

"It has stopped raining," said the white man, "and I must be going."

Later it transpired that one was a Carlisle graduate, and all had been abroad with Buffalo Bill.

TALKS

THE LAMP CHIMNEYS.

Lamp chimneys should not be washed as this makes the glass brittle; but if held for a moment over a steaming teakettle and then polished with a soft, dry cloth, the result will be all that could be desired.

STAINS.

Every housekeeper should remember that soap is an alkali and sets vegetables and other stains. Therefore all stains should be removed before the articles are put in a washtub. The sooner the stain is treated the more readily it will yield to the treatment. Pour boiling water through fruit stains. Where obstinate soak in a solution of oxalic acid.

TO BLEACH LINEN.

We all have yellow handkerchiefs and dollies that are the bane of our lives because of that dingy, ugly hue caused by an injudicious use of soap or from age perhaps. Wash in the usual way with clean soft water and any good soap and then soak all night in clean water in which you have put cream of tartar (a teaspoon to every quart of water). Rinse out next day, and when these articles are dried and ironed you will not recognize them as the dirty, ugly things you began work on.

CLEANING MARBLE.

When marble basins and other marble-lined articles are neglected until yellow stains have been allowed to appear on them, muriatic acid has to be used in order to remove them. Shut the water off from the basin and dry the marble well. Tie a rag to the end of a small stick dip it into the acid, and with it touch the stain and immediately the spot will disappear. Put water into the basin at once upon the disappearance of the stain, and then scrub the basin with soap and water. When applying the acid be careful not to get it on the metal about the basin, as it will destroy the plating. Do not get the hands, nor drops of it on your shoes, nor get it on your clothing, as it will destroy them.

CARE OF OLD CLOTHES.

An old vest, coat or pair of trousers or woolen skirt that needs to be cleaned should first be carefully and thoroughly brushed; then plunged into strong warm scapsuds, and scused up and down thoroughly and vigorously. If there are any especially soiled spots, they should be rubbed with the hands. If once putting into the suds is insufficient, the garment can be put through a second tub of suds. Then it is to be rinsed through several waters and hung up on the line to dry. When nearly dry take it down, roll it up and leave it lying for an hour before pressing it. An old cotton cloth is laid on the outside of the parment before it is ironed and the iron passed over that until the wrinkles disappear. One must be careful to stop pressing before the steam ceases to rise, else the garment will present a shink appearance, for while the steam rises it brings up the nap with it. If there are any obstinate wrinkles or shiny places, lay a wet cloth over them and press the hot iron over those especial spots until they are perfectly smooth.

RECIPES.

Round Scones—One pound of flour, two ounces of butter, one ounce of a rounding tablespoonful of sugar, a quarter of an ounce of bicarbonate of soda, half an ounce of cream of tartar and half a paint of sweet milk. Mix the dry ingredients on a sheet of paper and pass through a sieve into a basin. Rub in the butter smoothly. Divide this dough into three pieces, making each piece very smooth on top and the size of a dinner plate. Glaze with the yolk of an egg mixed with a spoonful of milk and a very little sugar. Cook in a quick oven for ten minutes.

Gypsy Pudding—Spread with apple jelly some thin slices of stale sponge cake. Put them together like a sandwich and place them in a deep dish. Cover with a boiled custard and serve very cold.

Banana Sauce—Boil one-half cupful of sugar and a cupful of water until it starts to thread. Pour it over the well beaten yolk of one egg, the pulp of four very ripe bananas and add a dash of orange or lemon juice, beat until well mixed. Serve hot when used with puddings or cold with vanilla ice cream.

Danish Waffles—Cream one half pound of butter with one quarter pound sugar; add the yolks of three eggs and beat; sift one-half pound of flour and add alternately with two cupfuls of scalded, lukewarm milk; last, add the whites, beaten stiff. Waffle irons come especially for the range, and, in order to keep the range clean, have a little rim at the bottom catching all the fat that drips from them and which otherwise would soil the range.

Lambs' Kidneys—Cut the kidneys into halves, without really separating them, and remove the white tubes. Place one on a skewer. Then a slice of bacon, and then another kidney. Baste with butter and broil for five minutes on a clear fire. Put over a little more butter and send to the table on a hot dish. Pass toast or brown bread. These may be served for breakfast, lunch or supper.

Thorsby, Alaban

Business Directory.

Commercial Club
OF THORSBY
DEFINITE and RELIABLE information furnished to parties who desire to locate in the South.

A. M. Johnson
Groceries and Delicatessen

J. J. STANLEY
GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

MRS. MARY R. RASBERRY
General Merchandise.

E. H. Adams
General Merchandise.

J. R. PARNELL
General Merchandise.

"MOLINE" Farming Implements and "FLORENCE" Wagons in stock at all times.
J. K. ORR SHOES.

J. L. FOSS
Meat Market.

The Thorsby Inn
G. C. Michelson, Prop.
Good Beds and Meals.

OLAF SCHI
Watchmake
And Jewele
Horn's Drug S
Full assortment of Watch
elry, etc. All repair wo
anteed.

Thorsby Wi
—Co.—
Lofthus & Bromberg,

A. HORN
Drugs, Stationery and Articles.
LICENSED PHARMA

City Bake
BREAD, CAKES
PIES
of all kinds, fresh every
K. A. EKBL

A Langville &
BLACKSMITHS
and
HORSESHOERS
Dealers in WAGONS and BUG

C. L. Forsm
Brick Yard.

J. BICE
Charcoal Oven

Harkness Pays Fortune For Home.

Los Angeles, Cal.—The announcement has been made of the sale of the beautiful home site in Pasadena, known as "Carmelita," to L. V. Harkness, the Standard oil magnate. The consideration was $180,000.

What Business Men Demand of Boys

By William Hosea Ballou, Author and Sociologist.

BOYS need, most of all, to be taught how to observe study, to study things themselves, rather than the things; to acquire correct habits of thought, to invent and discover for themselves what they wish to know this end it seems to me our schools are doing excellent work. But in what, if any, respects do they fail to meet demands of business men? In conversation with many men of large experience in my office, and as I have them in bank, counting room, at lunch and elsewhere, I put the question, "In your experience as a business man what sort of training does a boy need?"

The question applies, of course, only to boys untrammeled by requirements for admission to college. All were agreed that boys should leave school with a more thorough training in the rudiments of education, particularly what used to be known as mental arithmetic.

If I may generalize, let me say, to sum up, that business men ask:

That our schools give boys a more practical training; that they inoculate against mental indigestion as we would against physical indigestion.

That such training be more thorough, particularly in arithmetic. Mental accounts.

That more attention be given to English composition, spelling and penmanship.

That the school (and perhaps the home) teach the gospel of WORK, WORK! This lesson well learned will surely win promotion. Character, studying quality, persistence, stick-to-a-tiveness and, coupled with thrift, will enable any bright boy to grapple with the problems of life and climb ambition's ladder.—New England Grocer.

THERE is an expression in the face of a good married man who has a good wife that a bachelor's cannot have. It is indescribable. He is a little nearer the angels and a sweetest cotillon leader living.

How often, or, how often, in looking o'er the features of my dearest friend I have envied that look of expression and wished I could change faces with him! I say, not places.

For the variations of the intensity of magnetism either from time to time, or as we proceed from place to place, are the most interesting of all the phenomena of terrestrial magnetism.

No one ever mistakes the good married man. It is only the one who leaves you in doubt. The good one can protect all the unmarried females, and make himself generally agreeable to the ladies, and yet never leave a doubt on any mind that there is a precious little woman at home worth all the world to him.

For we have seen already that from hour to hour, and from day to day there are changes in the extent of the minute oscillations of the needle of the magnet, and that these changes indicate variations in the intensity of the magnetic force under diurnal and annual solar influences.

Roof garden students and astronomers, scientists and waiters, all these variations a change which has a period corresponding to the phases of the moon, and it becomes evident that it is to an influence as real as pervading in its character as gravitation itself that the terrestrial magnet owes its powers.

Yes, there is an expression in the face of a good married man "that can't come off."

VOL. III.

GENERAL ST

Current News Garnered the Plant o

Cut by Saw.

Gadsden, Ala.—News of a horrible accident, which may result in death, occurring near Hokes' Bluff a few days ago has reached Gadsden. The news received in this city is that J. R. Sims, a well-known and popular citizen of that settlement, was at work in the saw mill and was sharpening a saw. He called to some one to turn the saw a little. By some unknown means the saw was started and the saw began to revolve. The long teeth of the saw caught in Mr. Sims' trousers and carried him over the saw as it revolved, and threw him off on the other side, cutting him most horribly in the stomach. The workmen ran to his assistance as soon as they could, and a physician was summoned, who did all he could for him, but he is fatally injured and there are no hopes for his recovery. Mr. Sims has a large number of friends, who will regret to hear of the accident.

Christopher Injured.

Gadsden, Ala.—Obal Christopher, one of the oldest and best known citizens of Etowah county, happened to a serious accident about 2 o'clock Friday while opening an ore mine in Tumlin Gap, on the property of Capt. J. M. Elliott, Jr., in which his right thigh was crushed and broken and his left leg broken.

Mr. Christopher has mining property with Captain Elliott in charge, and for months has been engaged in opening and developing the property. Last Friday Mr. Christopher and Mont Devine went into an opening to look after some slight trouble, and while at work there a slide in of the mine caught both men and crushed them to the ground with tons of dirt and rock. The men were rescued from their perilous position as soon as possible by the workmen.

It was found that Mr. Christopher's right thigh and his life leg were broken. Physicians were sent for, but it was after dark before he received medical attention. He was brought to Gadsden Saturday afternoon. He is 66 years old. Mont Devine, who was in the mine with Mr. Christopher, had a narrow escape. A pick was driven through his hand and the under edge of his chin, both wounds being painful and dangerous. He is resting as easy as could be expected.

Cotton Growers to Meet.

Huntsville, Ala.—President John M. Hampton has called a meeting of the Madison county division of the Southern Cotton Growers' Association for January 29 in the city hall for the purpose of hearing reports of delegates that attended the convention in New Orleans and for formulating plans for better beat organizations and more effective work. In his call Mr. Hampton advises the cotton planters to hold their cotton at least ninety days longer. He says: "If you stand by the Southern Cotton Association you will certainly get your price for the balance of this crop, and you have it in your hands to control the price in future."

Comer Talks.

Birmingham, Ala.—B. B. Comer, president of the Alabama state railroad commission and candidate for the democratic nomination for governor, has returned to Birmingham from Montgomery.

"I am a democrat," said Mr. Comer, in commenting on the primary election plan. "I have always been a democrat, and I expect to be a democrat so long as I live.

"I shall abide by and endorse the action of the democratic state committee in adopting the primary election plan. Without commenting on certain details of the plan, I accept it as the expression of the will of the committee properly authorized to adopt such plans governing party action and party procedure. I repeat that I shall abide by the action of the committee."

Drug Company Incorporated.

Florence, Ala.—Papers of incorporation have been filed in the office of the probate judge by the J. W. Stutts Drug company. The capital stock is $15,000, of which $6,500 is paid up. J. W. Stutts is president and R. N. Wilcoxon secretary. The directors are J. M. Wilcoxon, C. P. Anderson, H. E. Rogers and R. M. Roberts.

Folk May Visit Birmingham.

Birmingham, Ala.—Joseph W. Folk, governor of Missouri, has been invited to visit Birmingham on or about February 19 by the Vanderbilt University Alumni Association of this city. His reply to the invitation is expected daily, and there is a strong probability that he will accept.

Alabam
Directory.
OLAF SCHI
Watchmaker
And Jewele
Horn's Drug S
Full assortment of Watch
elry, etc. All repair wor
anteed.
Thorsby Wi
—Co.—
Lofthus & Bromberg, M
A. HORN
Drugs, Stationery and
Articles.
LICENSED PHARMA
City Bake
BREAD, CAKES
PIES
of all kinds, fresh every
K. A. EKBLA
A Langville &
BLACKSMITHS
and
HORSESHOERS
Dealers in
WAGONS and BUGG
C. L. Forsm
Brick Yard.
J. BICE
Charcoal Oven
ess Men and of Boys allou, Author and ogist.
to be taught how to observ themselves, rather than the m rect habits of thought, to inv selves what they wish to kn me our schools are doing e any respects do they fail to m men? In conversation with nce in my office, and as I hav room, at lunch and elsewhere, s a business man what sort of ly to boys untrammeled by e agreed that boys should leave adiments of education, particu
netic.
um up, that business men ask:
practical training; that the against physical indigestion.
gh, particularly in arithmetic nglish composition, spelling home) teach the gospel of ned will surely win promotio stick-to-a-tiveness and, coupl pple with the problems of life Grocer.
in the face of a good marri that a bachelor's cannot have a little nearer the angels
r living.
w often, in looking o'er the friend I have envied that could change faces with him!
of the intensity of magnetic ceed from place to place, are ena of terrestrial magnetism arried man. It is only the d one can protect all the un greeable to the ladies, and is a precious little woman hour to hour, and from day minute oscillations of the te variations in the intensity al solar influences.
ners, scientists and waiters period corresponding to the at it is to an influence on ation itself that the ter
ce of a good married man

THE UNION.

EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL, SPECIAL FAVORS TO NONE.

VOL. III. CLANTON, ALA., JANUARY 18 1906 NO. 43

GENERAL STATE NEWS.

Current News Garnered as It Falls From the Plant of Report.

Cut by Saw.

Gadsden, Ala.—News of a horrible accident, which may result in death, occurring near Hokes' Bluff a few days ago, has reached Gadsden. The news received in this city is that J. R. Sims, a well-known and popular citizen of that settlement, was at work in the saw mill and was sharpening a saw. He called to some one to turn the saw a little. By some unknown means the engine was started and the saw began to revolve. The long teeth of the saw caught in Mr. Sims' trousers and carried him over the saw as it revolved, and threw him off on the other side, cutting him most horribly in the stomach. The workmen ran to his assistance as soon as they could, and a physician was summoned, who did all he could for him, but he is fatally injured and there are no hopes for his recovery. Mr. Sims has a large number of friends, who will regret to hear of the accident.

Christopher Injured.

Gadsden, Ala.—Obal Christopher, one of the oldest and best known citizens of Etowah county, happened to a serious accident about 2 o'clock Friday while opening an ore mine in Tumlin Gap, on the property of Capt. J. M. Elliott, Jr., in which his right thigh was crushed and broken and his left leg broken.

Mr. Christopher has mining property of Captain Elliott in charge, and for months has been engaged in opening and developing the property. Last Friday Mr. Christopher and Mont Devine went into an opening to look after some slight trouble, and while at work there a slide in of the mine caught both men and crushed them to the ground with tons of dirt and rock. The men were rescued from their perilous position as soon as possible by the workmen.

It was found that Mr. Christopher's right thigh and his life leg were broken. Physicians were sent for, but it was after dark before he received medical attention. He was brought to Gadsden Saturday afternoon. He is 66 years old. Mont Devine, who was in the mine with Mr. Christopher, had a narrow escape. A pick was driven through his hand and the under edge of his chin, both wounds being painful and dangerous. He is resting as easy as could be expected.

Cotton Growers to Meet.

Huntsville, Ala.—President John M. Hampton has called a meeting of the Madison county division of the Southern Cotton Growers' Association for January 29 in the city hall for the purpose of hearing reports of delegates that attended the convention in New Orleans and for formulating plans for better beat organizations and more effective work. In his call Mr. Hampton advises the cotton planters to hold their cotton at least ninety days longer. He says: "If you stand by the Southern Cotton Association you will certainly get your price for the balance of this crop, and you have it in your hands to control the price in future."

Comer Talks.

Birmingham, Ala.—B. B. Comer, president of the Alabama state railroad commission and candidate for the democratic nomination for governor, has returned to Birmingham from Montgomery.

"I am a democrat," said Mr. Comer, in commenting on the primary election plan. "I have always been a democrat, and I expect to be a democrat so long as I live.

"I shall abide by and endorse the action of the democratic state committee in adopting the primary election plan. Without commenting on certain details of the plan, I accept it as the expression of the will of the committee properly authorized to adopt such plans governing party action and party procedure. I repeat that I shall abide by the action of the committee."

Drug Company Incorporated.

Florence, Ala.—Papers of incorporation have been filed in the office of the probate judge by the J. W. Stutts Drug Company. The capital stock is $15,000, of which $6,500 is paid up. J. W. Stutts is president and R. N. Wilcoxon secretary. The directors are J. M. Wilcoxon, C. P. Anderson, H. E. Moores and R. M. Roberts.

Folk May Visit Birmingham.

Birmingham, Ala.—Joseph W. Folk, governor of Missouri, has been invited to visit Birmingham on or about February 19 by the Vanderbilt University Alumni Association of this city. His reply to the invitation is expected daily, and there is a strong probability that he will accept.

Robberies Reported.

Bessemer, Ala.—The People's restaurant, run by George Pappas, was robbed Wednesday night, the cash drawer being forced open and $11 stolen. The police have a clue to the thief, and they hope to place a party under arrest. Another robbery is also reported from Fourth avenue, the house of Charles Willoughby, colored, being broken open through the ceiling and a new suit of clothes and other articles stolen. The husband and wife had gone to their work at 7 o'clock in the morning, and when they returned at noon the robbery had been committed.

Infant Seriously Burned.

Butler, Ala.—The infant of Judge and Mrs. C. E. McCall was seriously burned Friday afternoon. The mother, leaving her baby with a servant, went to call upon some of her neighbors. While she was gone the child was left near the fire, which rolled down and burned the little body from the chest downward. One of the infant's arms was also badly burned. The child is only seven months old, is in a very serious condition, and there is but little hope for its recovery.

Day Named for Adams' Execution.

Montgomery, Ala.—The supreme court has sealed the doom of Frank Adams, convicted of the murder of Dave Lee in the mines at Pratt City, and set February 13 as his day of execution in the jail yard at Birmingham. His only chance now is for the governor to interfere. Adams and Lee were convicts and fell out down in the mines. Adams drove his coal pick into the head of Lee, killing him instantly.

Miss Thompson Still Missing.

Decatur, Ala.—Relatives of Miss Martha Thompson, who so mysteriously disappeared on Christmas day, have offered a reward of $50 for the recovery of her body dead or alive. Nothing whatever has been heard of Miss Thompson since the day she disappeared, and the mystery is as deep as ever.

Mrs. Summerall Burned to Death.

Mobile, Ala.—Mrs. Ida Summerall, wife of James Summerall, was burned to death at Whistler, twelve miles from here, in flames which consumed her home and contents. The unfortunate woman was almost completely incinerated.

Safe Looted by Robbers.

Selma, Ala.—The iron safe of the Thomaston postoffice was cracked by unknown parties, and was looted of some $200 and other valuables. An old man who has been doing blacksmith work in Marengo county has been arrested charged with the crime.

Skeggs Will Run.

Montgomery, Ala.—H. A. Skeggs, of Decatur, has announced his candidacy for associate railroad commissioner, and he is now in the race. Mr. Skeggs has been mayor of Decatur for seven years and is chairman of the Eighth congressional district committee.

Horse and Burned Are Burned Up.

Bessemer, Ala.—The stable of James B. Morton was totally destroyed by fire, the valuable dray horse of the Morton Hardware Company being burned to death. The fire coming as it did, at such a late hour, gives strength to the belief on the part of some that the fire was of incendiary origin.

James McMurray Killed.

Ensley, Ala.—James McMurray, a young white man employed at the steel plant in this city, was instantly killed in the plant Thursday at noon. He was caught between a large column in the plant and a heavily loaded crane and was horribly crushed before he could be extricated. He died almost instantly.

Dies From Injury.

Birmingham, Ala.—S. J. Jones, a carpenter residing on Twelfth avenue, near Sixth street, died at St. Vincent's Hospital from injuries received Thursday afternoon.

Greenville, Pa.—Fire starting from an explosion destroyed the works of the Carnegie Steel Company Thursday night, entailing a loss of between $400,000 and $600,000. A flue in the boiler of a heating furnace blew out, deluging the furnace below, which in turn exploded, scattering fire in all directions. Four hundred men are thrown out of employment. The mill, which was originally built in 1871, was operated by the late Peter L. Kimberly for years, and passed into the Carnegie Company's hands a few years ago.

LONGWORTH AGAIN HEARD

Speaks on the Filipino, Declaring Him To Be Shiftless.

BELIEVES ISLANDS WORTHLESS

Advocates Our Getting Rid of Them As Soon As Feasible—His Third Speech As a Member of the House of Representatives Well Received by Both Republican and Democratic Members.

Washington, D. C.—Representative "Nick" Longworth, of Ohio, told the House of his trip to the Philippines as a member of Secretary Taft's party. It was on this trip that Mr. Longworth wooed Miss Alice Roosevelt.

Mr. Longworth plainly does not like his "little brown brother" of the Philippines, for he denounced him as dishonest, untrustworthy and lazy, and denied emphatically that there was any brilliant future for the islands.

"With the sole exception of the love of family and home that the average Filipino possesses, I can see nothing bright in the Filipino character," he declared.

Mr. Longworth was giving his own views, not the reflected views of the President or any one else. This speech was his third since he became a member of the House, two years ago. His first speech was in defense of "Boss" Cox, of Cincinnati; his second was on the needs of the diplomatic service.

When Mr. Longworth rose to speak there was a craning of necks to see whether Miss Roosevelt was present. The executive gallery was vacant except for the grizzled old doorkeeper.

At the beginning of his speech Mr. Longworth appeared much embarrassed. He said this was because so much had been said already on the question; he feared he would have nothing new to add.

"At the beginning I wish to say that I differ very much with my colleague, General Grosvenor," said Mr. Longworth, "as to the brilliant future and the high and noble character of the Filipinos."

Having gotten this off his mind Mr. Longworth seemed easier. He jammed his left hand into his trousers pocket, rested first on one foot and then on the other, and either grasped the back of a chair with his right hand or permitted his finger tips to touch the top of the desk in front of him. His hands seemed to bother him at first, but toward the end he was going along as smoothly as Colonel Hepburn, John Sharp Williams or any other veteran.

The young Congressman said he was going to vote for the pending Philippine tariff bill because he was confident it would not harm a single American industry and might help the people of the Philippines. No one, after smoking one native cigar, he said, would want another.

"I am not in favor of holding the Philippines as a part of the United States a moment longer than can be helped," he declared. "How soon we can release these islands to the Filipinos providence alone knows, but the sooner the better. Two things will operate against the Filipinos for all time: First, the Filipino has no idea of the relation between public office and the people, and secondly, every Filipino believes it to be dishonorable to work. All labor must be imported."

Mr. Longworth's speech was given close attention. The Democrats had planned to "haze" him a little, but he appeared so seriously absorbed in his speech that the jokers did not have the heart to interrupt him. He was vigorously applauded by both sides when he concluded.

WOULD LIKE TO CORNER AIR.

Bishop-Elect Williams, Hanna's Former Pastor, Scores Oil King.

Cleveland, Ohio.—Dr. Charles D. Williams, Bishop-elect of the Detroit Diocese of the Episcopal Church, declared in a speech before the Social Reform Club that John D. Rockefeller and a few of his associates believed that they had a lien on the earth.

"The greed of such men and their corporations is such that the very blessings of God are not free from their speculative manipulation," he said. "They would corner the air if they could. They would dole out every natural resource through the channels of their corporations and would tax the public for the right to live."

Bishop-elect Williams is dean of Trinity Cathedral here, where the late Senator Hanna worshiped.

COTTON FIXED AT 15 CENTS.

Convention at New Orleans Hastens Action Amid Cheers.

New Orleans, La.—A declaration for fifteen cent cotton, with reduction of acreage, was practically settled by the Southern Cotton Association at the afternoon's session of the convention. Chairman Dancey, of the committee on holding, announced that the committee had unanimously decided in favor of that proposition. The announcement, which was made in advance of the presentation of the report, evoked a whirlwind of cheers.

Fight at Guayubin.

A hard fight has occurred at Guayubin between the troops of President Caceres and the insurgents. The rebels were defeated, and it is believed that fighting is over.

Nogi Receives Welcome.

General Nogi received a welcome at Tokio, Japan, similar to that given to Admiral Togo.

RECORD MARCH IS MADE

U. S. Field Battery Covers 893 Miles Through a Blizzard.

Arrives at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, From Fort Riley, Kansas, in Fine Condition—Incidents on the Way.

San Antonio, Texas.—After a march of 893 miles from Fort Riley, Kan., to Fort Sam Houston, Texas, the officers and men of the Sixth Battery of United States Field Artillery are in Fort Sam Houston looking like veterans of many battles. But they are in good health and feel that the trip was worth the trouble.

It was a hard trip. The winter roads in Texas and Oklahoma are the worst in the world, and many times the officers of the battery almost concluded to give it up and report that the march was impossible. But their pluck and the encouragement given by the people along the way helped them along. With weather-stained guidons fluttering in the breeze and the Twenty-sixth Infantry band at their head playing "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," the men of the Sixth Battery finished the longest march during peace times in the history of the United States Army at 11.30 o'clock in the morning at Fort Sam Houston.

The arrival of the battery was made the occasion of a celebration among the soldiers. A squadron of the First Cavalry and the Fifteenth Battery of Field Artillery, commanded by Major Lotus Niles, met the incoming battery four miles outside of the city limits and escorted them to the post. Near Brackenridge Park the band and a company of the West Texas Military Academy Cadets joined the column. Captain George W. Gatchell, commander of the battery, was surrounded by the officers of the post and congratulated on the successful termination of the long march. His wife and children were waiting at the post to receive him.

"The men and horses stood the march remarkably well," said Captain Gatchell. "Since entering Texas our days have been spent in one long fight with the mud. The country roads through the black lands of this State were in a frightful condition, and the men had hard work making their way. In spite of the hard work, however, the horses are in fine condition, and with a few days' rest could start back again if required. We lost but one horse, and it died of old age. I have been expecting it to die for a couple of years. One man died of fever at Austin, but the health of the command has been remarkably good—in fact, better than is usually the case in barracks."

At many farmhouses the battery was halted and a feast of pies and milk enjoyed by the men and officers. Captain Gatchell says that he did not know that there were so many flags in the country until he made this march. At almost every farmhouse flags were displayed. At several places the school children were lined up at sides of the road and sang patriotic songs as the battery passed. Captain Gatchell relates that one enthusiastic farmer in Texas welcomed the battery with a salute from his shotgun. He fired the double barrel at the same time as each section of the battery passed and cheered the men until they were out of hearing.

The worst experience that the men had was when they were forced to travel in a blizzard which swept down on them just after the battery left Austin. The blizzard continued nearly all of the remainder of the march to San Antonio, about ninety miles. In order to keep warm, the men walked almost the entire distance.

MRS. CHADWICK IN PRISON.

Famous Confidence Woman Begins Her Term in Ohio Penitentiary.

Cleveland, Ohio.—Cassie L. Chadwick left for the Ohio Penitentiary at Columbus under the guard of United States Marshal Chandler.

Mrs. Chadwick's last night in the county jail was sleepless. She was up all night, packing her effects and arranging her toilet. Early in the evening she sent word that she would like to say good-by to the jail attaches. One by one they went to her to exchange farewells.

The last person to call was Emil Hoover, her son. He stayed only a short time.

Her breakfast was sent to her early, but she ate little.

Promptly at 7 o'clock she was delivered to Marshal Chandler. She was gowned in a heavy brown dress, severely plain except for a gayly colored collar. A long, heavy black veil completely hid her features.

Inside the carriage Mrs. Chadwick raised her veil and sat with gaze fixed on the carriage windows. At Union Station she was helped out by Chandler and led through the train shed.

In the dim light of the smoky station her face looked white and haggard and deep lines were apparent. Her white hair was combed low on her forehead.

Mrs. Chadwick has gained weight while in the jail. Jail attaches say she has been well to outward appearances, though her doctor came to see her frequently.

One of Mrs. Chadwick's last acts here was to purchase a rug for her cell in the penitentiary.

Funeral of President Harper.

The public funeral of Dr. William R. Harper was held at the University of Chicago, Chicago, Ill. Addresses were made by President Faunce, of Brown; Chancellor Andrews, of the University, of Nebraska, and Dr. Lyman Abbott.

News of the Week

WASHINGTON

Representative Longworth addressed the House in depreciation of the Filipinos.

The program for railroad rate legislation was settled by the House leaders, it being decided to report the Hepburn measure.

The appeal of Senator Joseph Ralph Burton, of Kansas, from the sentence of a fine of $2000 imposed by the Federal Court at St. Louis, Mo., for accepting compensation from the Rialto Grain and Securities Company for services in connection with proceedings before the Postoffice Department, was filed in the Supreme Court.

OUR ADOPTED ISLANDS.

Cane is ripening well in the northern division of Porto Rico, but is not yet fully matured. One mill that had been grinding shut down because of the poor grade of juice obtained.

A report from Manila is to the effect that a French firm is selling a considerable number of French-built motor cars in the Philippines.

The contract for building the new water system at Manila, which will cost $1,000,000, was awarded in equal parts to Matson, Lord, Borser & Co. and the Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific Co. There were six competitors, and the bidding was very close.

W. J. Bryan was made a datto, a Moro chieftain.

The Hawaiian Islands' crop averages about 375,000 long tons of sugar per annum.

Simeon Wharton, the three-year-old son of Henry Wharton, of Honolulu, who had been missing, has been found murdered in a cane field at Waiaula, on Oahu Island. The child had been dismembered and horribly mutilated.

DOMESTIC.

Fire did $100,000 damage to property of the New York Lubricating Oil Company, in Water street.

Expert accountants declared that the forged municipal bonds which caused the suspension of the firm of Denison, Prior & Co., of Cleveland, Ohio, after Mr. Prior's suicide, may exceed $100,000.

New York State enumeration gives six new Supreme Court judges for Manhattan and seventeen for the Brooklyn district of New York City.

E. H. Harriman and two others bought a tract of 20,000 acres in Orange County, N. Y. It is supposed they plan to develop a new colony on the lines of Tuxedo.

Dr. Harry T. McGronen, of Brooklyn, N. Y., was crushed to death by an elevator in a factory.

District Attorney Jerome, of New York County, N. Y., is preparing to prosecute guilty insurance officials.

Protests against the seating of McGowan and five Aldermen were made before the Aldermen's Committee on Privileges and Elections in New York City.

The Clyde Line steamer Cherokee went ashore in a fog near Atlantic City, N. J. The vessel was in little danger, and the passengers and crew remained aboard.

The 545-foot steamer Joseph Sellwood was launched at Lorain, Ohio.

Deputy Commissioner O'Keefe, of New York City, ordered that hazing of new policemen be stopped.

The Federal Grand Jury, at Butte, Mont., has indicted Daniel B. Jacobs for running a lottery.

Nothing has been learned regarding the $18,000 express package lost between Augusta, Ga., and New York City.

John M. Pattison, of Cincinnati, Ohio, who defeated Governor Myron T. Herrick by 61,000 plurality, was inaugurated Governor at Columbus.

Making a short cut to his home, Dr. Harrison S. Hathaway was struck by a train on a trestle at Toledo, Ohio, and killed.

William M. Ivins, addressing a Brooklyn, N. Y., congregation on dishonest upbuilding of wealth, criticised Rockefeller.

A motion for a rehearing of the case of "Bluebeard" Johann Hoch, under death sentence for wife murder, has been filed at Springfield, Ill.

Two railroad men were killed and three hurt in a head-on collision of freight trains on the Burlington road near Woods Station, Mo.

The Newfoundland west coast fishing season has practically been ended by ice and American vessels are leaving with about half cargoes.

The Commercial Savings and Trust Company, at Memphis, Tenn., will liquidate the affairs of the defunct American Savings Bank and Trust Company.

Shot through the body, O. W. Meadows, a farmer, was found dead in his buggy at Milledgeville, Ga., probably a victim of robbers.

An eighteen-ton flywheel at the Morgan Engineering Works, Alliance, O., burst, without killing any of the many men working around it.

FOREIGN.

Infanta Maria Teresa of Spain was married to Prince Ferdinand, of Bavaria, in Madrid.

President Palma, of Cuba, issued a decree empowering the Sanitary Department to enforce penalties for failure to improve conditions.

General Morales, wounded, sought the protection of the United States Legation at Santo Domingo. His resignation as President was accepted.

Professional Cards.

Attorneys.

William M. Adams,
Attorney-at-Law,
CLANTON.
Office, Adams Place. Practices in all Courts. Long time loans negotiated on improved Farm Lands.

N. S. JOHNSON, M. D.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
Office at
Clanton Drug Store CLANTON

L. V. STABLER, M. D
Physician & Surgeon
Office Over Horn's Drug Store
Thorsby, Alabama

DR. E. G. HYMAN
DENTIST
Office in Tipton Mullins' Building
Office Hours: 9 a. m. to 1 p. m., 2 to 5 p. m.
CLANTON

A. C. SMITH J. OSMOND MIDDLETON
Smith & Middleton
Attorneys-at-Law
Practice in all Courts.
Office 6th St., Opp. Court House
CLANTON.

H. C. Junkerman
DENTIST
OFFICE: Franzen Building
Thorsby, Alabama.

G. H. GERALD,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Office at Thorsby Inn.
Deeds, Mortgages, Affidavits and other papers carefully made out.

I. S. Gerald, Notary Public
AT THORSBY SAVINGS BANK.

In addition to our Complete Stock of DRUGS Etc.
You will find a full line of
SCHOOL BOOKS, STATIONERY, ETC. SEEDS. | PAINTS OILS and GLASS.
CLANTON DRUG COMPANY

FREE
to Readers of
THE UNION

To everyone who sends us $1.00 for a year's subscription to THE UNION, new subscriber or renewal, we will give as a premium absolutely FREE,

A Year's Subscription
TO
The Southern Ruralist

We have examined the Southern Ruralist and consider it to be the best and most practical farm paper published in the South, and it just suits this locality. Drop by The Union Office when you are in town and see a copy of the Ruralist. It will mean dollars in your pocket to read this paper with The Union for a year. tf.

TIMBER FOR SALE!
Over a hundred acres of Virgin Swamp timber for sale. Apply to T. J. Billingsley, Clanton, Ala. Route 3. tf.

NOTICE!
All who are owing me, by note or account, will please call and settle at once. I am needing the money and hope all will make prompt settlement.
Respectfully
A. A. JACKSON,
tf. Lomax, Ala.

Finger marks on woodwork can easily be removed by rubbing them with a cloth dipped in paraffin oil. Wipe off with a cloth wrung out of hot water and rub dry with another cloth.

Serviceable pudding bags are made of heavy jean. Grease the bag well and dredge with flour before putting the pudding in it, allowing space one-third that occupied by the pudding to give it room to rise.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucuous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price, 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Tea at a cent a pound is used by the poorer classes in Japan.

A British explorer recently returned from Abyssinia says that he was for four months in a region hitherto unknown to white men. Along the tributaries of the Blue Nile he found a mining population engaged in washing gold. He reports that there is an enormous quantity of gold in this region, in which thousands of natives work.

UNABLE TO WALK.

Terrible Sore on Ankle Caused Awful Suffering—Could Not Sleep—Cured by Cuticura in Six Weeks.

"I had a terrible sore on my ankle, and had not walked any for eleven months. I tried nearly everything without any benefit and had a doctor, but he didn't seem to do any good. He said I would have to have my limb taken off, and that I would never walk again. I suffered awful, and at night I could not sleep at all. I thought there was no rest for me, but as soon as I began to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment it commenced healing nicely. I bathed the ankle with warm water and Cuticura Soap, and then applied Cuticura Ointment to the affected part, and laid a cloth over the sore to hold it in place. After two weeks I could walk around in my room real good, and in six weeks' time my ankle was entirely cured, and I was walking around out of doors. Mrs. Mary Dickerson, Louisa C. H., Va., April 22, 1905."

Bachelors in Korea cannot vote or buy liquor.

Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullen is Nature's great remedy—Cures Coughs, Colds, Croup and Consumption, and all throat and lung troubles. At druggists, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

Long Lost Will Found.

At a book sale in a Paris auction room the other day a gentleman turning over the leaves of one of the books, saw a time worn piece of paper which he had the curiosity to open. This proved to be a will executed in proper order about ninety years ago, but never proved. It was that of a woman whose death as subsequently inquiry has shown, took place eighty-five years ago. As no will could be found, intestacy was assumed, and a personality of 16,000 pounds was divided among relatives. In fact, the will bequeathed everything to a niece long since dead, and the question now arises as to the claims of her descendants against those of the other participants.

Some striking figures are published by the Novoe Vremya, as to the forces at the disposal of the Russian commander-in-chief in Manchuria at the close of the late war. When peace was concluded General Linevitch had at his disposal 12,500 officers, 917,000 men and 270,000 horses. But from the beginning to the end of the war there had been carried to the front 20,000 officers, 1,270,000 men, 230,000 horses and more than 1,600 guns. Substracting these figures and making allowance for the 80,000 men already on the spot when war broke out, the Russian losses appear roughly 7,500 officers and 433,000 men.

UNSCONCIOUS POISONING.

How It Often Happens From Coffee.

"I had no idea," writes a Duluth man, "that it was the coffee I had been drinking all my life that was responsible for the headaches which were growing upon me, for the dyspepsia that no medicines would relieve, and for the acute nervousness which unfitted me not only for work but also for the most ordinary social functions.

"But at last the truth dawned upon me, I forthwith bade the harmful beverage a prompt farewell, ordered in some Postum and began to use it. The good effects of the new food drink were apparent within a very few days. My headaches grew less frequent, and decreased in violence, my stomach grew strong and able to digest my food without distress of any kind, my nervousness has gone and I am able to enjoy life with my neighbors and sleep soundly o'nights. My physical strength and nerve power have increased so much that I can do double the work I used to do, and I feel no undue fatigue afterwards.

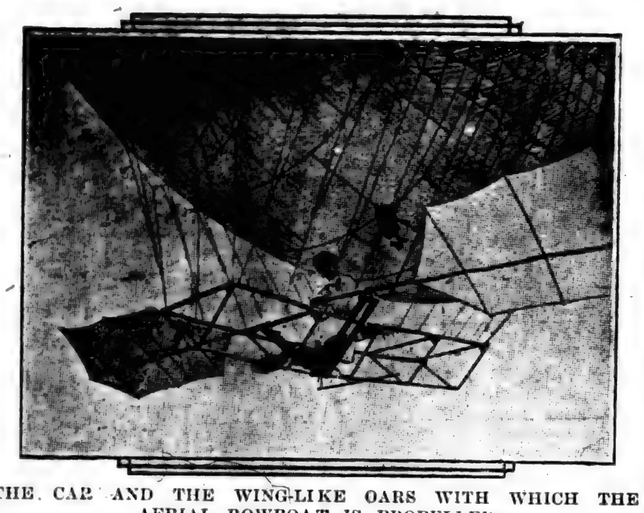
"This improvement set in just as soon as the old coffee poison had so worked out of my system as to allow the food elements in the Postum to get a hold to build me up again. I cheerfully testify that it was Postum and Postum alone that did all this, for when I began to drink it I 'threw physic to the dogs.'" Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason. Read the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

AN AERIAL ROWBOAT.

BY R. C. SAWYER.

A late feature of the attempts to navigate the air is an aerial rowboat which has been constructed by Alva L. Reynolds, of Los Angeles, Cal. It is composed of a gas bag whose equator is much nearer the front of the bag than usual, and a light framework which supports the occupant. It is raised and lowered, propelled forward and backward by the use of a pair of wing-like oars.



THE CAR AND THE WING-LIKE OARS WITH WHICH THE AERIAL ROWBOAT IS PROPELLED.

By the use of weights the bag can be made to raise just a half pound less than the weight of the occupant. Then gravity is overcome by the use of the oars. Any one who understands how to row can operate the aerial rowboat. So far no experienced aeronaut has ridden in the machine, although several hundred people have tried their hand at rowing up and down the park where the machine is being tested.

The bag is thirty-seven feet long and fifteen feet in diameter at the equator. To raise the car and an occupant weighing 150 pounds, 2500 cubic feet of gas is sufficient.

One of the features of the new airboat is that the cost of building a car and bag sufficient to carry one person is but a trifle over one hundred dollars. A speed of from four to six miles an hour has been attained by good oarsmen. There is always the drawback, characteristic also of the ordinary rowboat, that it is difficult to row against the current, or rather against the wind in this case.—Scientific American.

BORES A SQUARE HOLE.

Everybody has heard of the auger which bores a square hole; there is one of these in nearly every railroad woodworking shop in the country. The usual way in which these augers make square holes, says Railway and Locomotive Engineering, is that the bit bores the circular hole and a square chisel surrounding the auger cuts out the corners. In one sense it does not "bore" a square hole at all.

There is a new tool now on the market which actually bores a square hole, and the proof of this is that the square hole can be driven through iron as well as wood. It can make a circular hole, a square hole and a combination of the two, which is a hole like the opening of a tunnel, flat on the bottom, with two square corners and an arched top.

AUGER WHICH BORES SQUARE HOLES.

MODERN WHALING.

New Bedford Has Season Which Recalls Old Times.

New Bedford, Mass., has experienced something very like a revival in the whaling industry this year. The ships this season have been more fortunate than usual, although the wiseacres say that the best catches of to-day would have been considered slim in days gone by.

Be this as it may, there is an activity about New Bedford which is unusual.

MODERN WHALING IMPLEMENTS.

Actually only forty-three American vessels, with a tonnage of 9378, are now engaged in whaling, as against 655 vessels, with a tonnage of 204,209 in 1857; and of these New Bedford's fleet numbers only twenty-five, with a tonnage of 5205. Every one of the Atlantic vessels, furthermore, with the exception of the schooner John R. Manto, of Provincetown, now four months at sea on her maiden voyage, is at least twenty-two years old.

It is thought that the importations of oil and whalebone will be considerably larger in 1905 than in 1904, when the pounds of bone brought in amounted to 123,000; barrels of sperm oil, 17,005, and barrels of whale oil, 2750.—Philadelphia Record.

In New Guinea the ladies wear nose rings, piercing the nose in the same fiendish way that civilized women pierce the ears.

The bit itself has cutters suitable for wood and iron, but the principle upon which it operates is the same, no matter what kind of material it is going through. There is the ordinary auger bit, the face of which is set at right angles to the centre line of the spindle, just like any other boring bit, but the square hole is formed by two milling cutters, which revolve parallel to each other just back of the principal cutter and in a plane at right angles to it. Our illustration shows the arrangement. The milling cutters have faces broad enough to take out the corners cleanly. A sharp square hole is the result. Taking off both milling cutters will give a round hole, and taking off one will make the funnel-shaped hole. A spiral or twist of metal on the outside of the spindle conveys the chips out of the mortise.

The jury that recently tried State Senator Emmons for bribery, at Sacramento, Cal., sat twenty-six days.

She Was an Old Friend.

"Yes, of course, we have all kinds of experiences with shoplifters and kleptomaniacs," said the saleswoman. "A few days ago one of our detectives caught a woman stealing an umbrella. When she saw that she was discovered she threw the umbrella on the floor and ran out of the building. Owing to some technicalities, we could not then arrest her, and she made her escape.

"The scene appeared to be of special interest to a handsomely dressed woman who was buying an umbrella at the time, and she spoke to our head detective about it. He had a long conversation with her, and I thought she was an acquaintance of his. When she left the store, I said something to him about her and he said:

"Yes, I know her. I had her sent to the Island last year for shoplifting."—New York Press.

The Baptist women of the world are supporting 300 missionaries.

INTERESTING TO WOMEN

GOOD STYLE SKIRT.

A good style and economical skirt can be made of black percaline, fitted over the hips and flaring below. On this can be sewed a flounce of silk of two-thirds length, measuring from the hem of the percaline skirt to the belt line. This silk flounce may have a tiny ruffle or two at the hem. The effect is very satisfactory and the percaline underneath protects the silk above from dust and wear and two greatest foes of the silk petticoat. These silk skirts are now used for evening dress, with, of course, the dainty white cambric and lace beneath. They are made but an inch or two shorter than the ball gown and elaborately trimmed with Valenciennes and ruffles.

About the hips these petticoats fit even closer than the gown above, but must be extra full about the knees and feet to avoid clinging or tangling to impede graceful movements. If but one of these petticoats can be owned let it be white silk taffeta, with a flounce or flounces of silk and lace and to blend with the gown worn. Knots of pink or blue or mauve ribbon in bows or rosettes can be added.

There is still another way to economize on the silk petticoat and make many of one. Have the foundation of silk as described above for the percaline skirt. Then flounces (deep ones, of course) can be buttoned on two-thirds up of any color desired. For instance, a pink silk gown can have a pink and white striped silk flounce beneath or a black silk gown a black and white stripe, and so an as taste dictates.

ROSETTE RECIPE.

Speaking of rosettes brings one to this very fashionable trimming. Here are the directions for making a rosette as given by a maker of the article: "Take a bit of glossy taffeta and spread it upon your cutting table. Lay a saucer face down upon it. Mark around the saucer. Cut out. Run a shir string around the edge of your silk. Pull up gently. Sew a button in such a way as to cover the shir string. For another rosette, take a circle of silk the size of a tea saucer, shir arcund the edge. Now take another circle two sizes smaller. Shir around the edge. Pull the shir strings and sew the little rosette on top of the big one. You will have a beautiful silk ornament for the front of your gown, for the crossing your surplice waist, for your yoke or for buttoning your bodice. Make as many as you may require and remember that they must be full and round. Use velvet, chiffon, crepe de chine, taffeta, satin and wool. Any glossy material is good. And there is yet another rosette. This begins like the others with a circle. But, after the silk is pulled up, you finish it by making a hole through the top. A big mock jewel is now sewed on the upper side. Or you can finish it with a stiff lace medalion. Rosettes are made all sorts of ways.—Washington Times.

FOR CHAMIRADE LOVERS.

Madame Cecile Charminade, the French music writer, whose compositions are so popular today, gives a little instruction in the Ladies' Home Journal on practicing her compositions. She says:

First of all, practice slowly, with a deep, strong touch, but never a hard one.

In taking up a piece study it through from beginning to end, selecting measures that are difficult for slow but not to constant repetition, for in that is the danger of growing mechanical or inattentive.

Practice all runs, scales and arpeggios slowly and with a deep touch.

Do not study a thing that is too hard for you; it will bring no progress.

While you are at work think only of the piano. If one practices in this way with genuine earnestness it is not well to study too long—one hour at a time is enough. But one hour studied in this way is worth a month of sitting at the piano.

PRESENTATION AT COURT.

A crowd had assembled to see us start. I fondly imagined it was an admiring crowd; but I soon knew better. Eventually we entered St. James's Park and fell into line among the miles of carriages that stretched along the broad street known as the Mall, which leads up to the Palace. Here, too, crowds were assembled, and for over an hour we were entirely at the mercy of the people who gazed in at the windows and criticised us most cruelly, considering our entire helplessness. Indeed, we were not sorry when our carriage dashed through the gates of the Palace and drew up before the main entrance.

To my terror, we were invited into a side room where the royal dressers inspected us as a last precaution. We passed muster, fortunately, and then trooped with the crowd up the grand staircase. Half-way up we passed one of the Queen's pages, who took from me one of my junk cards, at the same time shooting a keen glance at me to see if I were dressed "according to regulations."—Harper's Bazar.

ECONOMY IN GOWNS.

There is always the danger, when materials are so cheap and attractive as they are at the present moment, of spending more money than is either necessary or wise. To accumulate too many gowns, no matter how little each may cost, is the greatest mistake, for the sum total will be found to be considerable, not to mention the amount of time and labor that has been spent in their manufacture. A good plan is to buy one entire good gown every spring and autumn, and then have the other gowns that are absolutely necessary made at home and on simple lines, always fighting against the tendency to accumulate more than are needed. Rather a few satisfactory gowns than many half-way ones. It is no small task to keep a lot of clothes in perfect order and in these days the finish and detail are of major consideration.—Harper's Bazar.

POPULARITY OF LACE.

Never has lace been more popular than it is at present. Old lace and new lace, real lace and imitation, hold sway. The woman with lace heirlooms is the envied creature of the hour. No frock is complete without its touch of lace. Even the severe tailor made gown must have at least its little turn over collar of delicate lawn with lace insertions, and its cuffs of the same, says Woman's Life. Valenciennes is seen trimming broad-cloth, in the shape of deep rows of insertions sewn together in a bread shouldered piece. Evening gowns are one mass of lace frills and the lace hat is the correct thing for fashionable afternoon functions.—New York Evening Telegram.

WILHELMINA AND THE FACTORY GIRLS.

The chief honors of the recent international drill displays before the Queen of the Netherlands were carried off by twenty-two members of the St. Winifred's Factory Girls' Club, says Home Notes.

Her Majesty was greatly delighted at the smartness and precision shown by the girls, congratulated them on their performance through their instructress and presented each of them with a little silver brooch, stamped with the Queen's head on one side, and on the other with the inscription, "Apeldoorn, 1905."

FASHION NOTES.

Radium silks are immensely popular and are displayed in a large assortment of dainty hues.

Fancy belts are mostly of broad white or black elastic, embroidered in steel or silver beads or spangles and with very deep buckles.

Velvet is in the lead as a trimming in all lines of women's wear, and velvet ribbons are in marked favor.

Ostrich tips, willow plumes, wings, breasts and manufactured birds of species unknown to ornithologists, come in marvelous color schemes. Plumes are richer, heavier and of more exquisite shading than ever before.

Pretty clothes are of more import than ever at this time of the year and children's holiday parties and small dances demand many especially dainty frocks and accessories.

A pretty costume is one made from the dainty lingerie dress worn during the summer altered and freshened and worn during the summer and worn over a thin silk slip of some dainty color such as pink or blue.

Dresden silks are particularly appropriate for frocks for the young girl who wears her dresses to her shoe tops.

Cashmere and henrietta are again popular and are much improved in texture.

A new lace showing applique designs in taffeta upon a net has been taken up by the blouse makers. The applique designs are of a delicate and feathery sort and distinctly effective. For example an ocher lace blouse which our artist has sketched was of ocher net on which was a wheat design the heads in leaves in applied silk—both embroidery and silk matching the ocher net in tint.

The New Anaesthetic.

Those who have experimented with scopolamine claim that it has none of the disadvantages of the older anaesthetics and has good points which repeated tests in the operating rooms will bring to knowledge. While it has been used alone for simple operations and to a considerable degree in connection with other anaesthetics, it has not yet won the confidence of conservative surgeons to the extent that they feel justified in asserting it to be of a merit that will drive ether and chloroform from the operating room. The use of scopolamine is, however, in its earliest stage, and the scientific men will not rest until its value has been tested most thoroughly. One of the most important advantages cited is that this new anaesthetic may be administered hypodermically, and the patient sinks into an apparently natural slumber. Repeated injections cause a complete anaesthesia, and after the operation the patient awakens as if from a natural sleep. It is stated that he feels no sense of discomfort and is without the distressing nausea which follows recovery from the anaesthesia of ether and chloroform.—Chicago

Dried orange peel allowed to burn in a room will leave a pleasant, fresh odor.

FITS permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free. Dr. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

The world's production of coal in 1904 was 370,000,000 tons.

A Guaranteed Cure For Piles.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding, Protruding Piles. Druggists are authorized to refund money if Paso Ointment fails to cure in 6 to 14 days.

The telephone system of the Illinois Central Railroad is to be extended.

I am sure Piso's Cure for Consumption saved my life three years ago.—Mrs. THOMAS ROGERS, Maple St., Norwich, N.Y., Feb. 17, '95.

The German city of Pforzheim has a population of 65,000.

STOPS BELCHING.

Cures Bad Breath—Positive and Instant Cure Free—No Drugs—Cures by Absorption.

A sweet breath is priceless.

Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers will cure bad breath and bad taste instantly. Belching and bad taste indicate offensive breath which is due to stomach trouble.

Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers purify the stomach and stop belching, by absorbing foul gases that arise from undigested food and by supplying the digestive organs with natural solvents for food.

They relieve sea or car sickness and nausea of any kind.

They quickly cure headache, correct the ill effect of excessive eating or drinking. They will destroy a tobacco, whisky or onion breath instantly.

They stop fermentation in the stomach, acute indigestion, cramps, colic, gas in the stomach and intestines, distended abdomen, heartburn, bad complexion, dizzy spells or any other affliction arising from a diseased stomach.

We know Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers will do this, and we want you to know it. This offer may not appear again.

GOOD FOR 25c. 1d

Send this coupon with your name and address and your druggist's name and 10c. in stamps or silver, and we will supply you a sample free—if you have never used Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers, and will also send you a certificate good for 25c. toward the purchase of more Belch Wafers. You will find them invaluable for stomach trouble; cures by absorption. Address MULL'S GRAPE TONIC CO., 328 3d Ave., Rock Island, Ill.

Give Full Address and Write Plainly.

All druggists, 50c. per box, or by mail upon receipt of price. Stamps accepted.

Precious Swords.

Perhaps the most precious sword in existence is that of the Gaekwar of Baroda. Its hilt and belt are encrusted with diamonds, rubies and emeralds and it is valued at $010,000. The Shah of Persia possesses a sword valued at $150,000. His father wore it on a first visit to Europe. There are some costly swords in India, and both the czar and the sultan possess jeweled sabres of great price.

Diamonds may be black as well as white, and some are blue, red, brown, yellow, green, pink and orange; but there is no violet diamond, although in addition to amethysts there are sapphires, rubies and garnets of that color.

Probably the largest log ever skidded in Potter county, Pa., was the one skidded by W. O. and E. R. Duell recently at the head of Lyman run. The circumference of the log at the butt was 12 feet 3 inches, at the top end 11 feet 10 inches, and in length it measured 40 feet. It scaled 4,300 feet. The tree was the largest ever heard of in that section, and besides the log described the following logs were taken from it: One 16 feet long, two 12 feet long, and one 8 feet long.

AN EVERY-DAY STRUGGLE.

Too Many Women Carry the Heavy Load of Kidney Sickness.

Mrs. E. W. Wright, of 172 Main Street, Haverhill, Mass., says: "In 1869 I was suffering so with sharp pains in the small of the back and had such frequent dizzy spells I could scarcely get about the house. The urinary passages were also quite irregular. Monthly periods were so distressing I dreaded their approach. This was my condition for four years. Doan's Kidney Pills helped me right away when I began with them, and three boxes cured me permanently."

Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

The Indians of Elko, Nev., have abandoned the dances of their forefathers, have built a dance hall, and recently gave a ball at which they and their squaws and many invited palefaces waltzed in the most modern fashion.

Henry Holmes, formerly musical instructor to Queen Alexandra, of England, and for the last 17 years a resident of San Francisco, is dead. He was born in London in 1839 and was creator of the celebrated orchestra of the Royal College of Music.

Workingmen who watch the clock are not at all likely to ever have anything else worth watching.

The latest alleged prevention of sea sickness is to inhale deeply when the ship rises and exhale when it sinks.

Though an American citizen now Colonel John Sobieski, once prohibition candidate for governor of Missouri, indisputably is rightful king of Poland. He lives at present in California. He was born in Poland in 1842, and he and his daughter are the only known direct descendants of the warrior king of Poland, John Sobieski.

ITS permanently cured. No fits or ner... ess after first day's use of Dr. Kline's G... erve Restorer. Trial bottle and treatise ... r. R. H. Kline, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila.

The world's production of coal in ... as 370,000,000 tons.

A Guaranteed Cure For Piles.

...ching, Blind, Bleeding, Protruding ... ruggists are authorized to refund money ... azo Ointment fails to cure in 6 to 14 days.

The telephone system of the Illi... entral Railroad is to be extended.

...mmure Piso's Cure for Consumption ... y life three years ago.—Mrs. THOMAS ... rs, Maple St., Norwich, N.Y., Feb. 17, ...

The German city of Pforzheim has ... population of 65,000.

STOPS BELCHING.

...res Bad Breath—Positive and Tru... Cure Free—No Drugs—Cures by Absorption.

A sweet breath is priceless. ... Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers will cure ... eath and bad taste instantly. Belch... d bad taste indicate offensive bro... ich is due to stomach trouble. ... Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers purify ... omach and stop belching, by absorb... l gases that arise from undigested f... d by supplying the digestive organs w... tural solvents for food. ... They relieve sea or car sickness a... ness of any kind. ... They quickly cure headache, correct ... effect of excessive eating or drinki... ey will destroy a tobacco, whisky ... breath instantly. ... They stop fermentation in the stomach ... te indigestion, cramps, colic, gas in t... omach and intestines, distended ... en, heartburn, bad complexion, di... ess or any other affliction arising fr... ressed stomach. ... We know Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers w... this and we want you to know it. T... t was not appear again.

GOOD FOR 25c. 1...

Send this coupon with your name ... ost address and your druggist's name ... and 10c. in stamps or silver, and we ... will supply you a sample free if you ... have never used Mull's Anti-Belch ... Wafers, and will also send you a ... ificate good for 25c toward the pur... hase of more Belch Wafers. You will ... nd them invaluable for stomach trou... le, cures by absorption. Address ... MULL'S GRAPE TONIC CO., 328 M... Ave., Rock Island, Ill.

Give Full Address and Write Plainly.

All druggists, 50c. per box, or by ma... on receipt of price. Stamps accepted.

Precious Swords.

Perhaps the most precious sword ... existence is that of the Gaekwar ... roda. Its hilt and belt are encrus... with diamonds, rubies and emeralds ... It is valued at $010,000. The Shah ... Persia possesses a sword valued a... 0,000. His father wore it on his ... visit to Europe. There are some ... ly swords in India, and both the ... and the sultan possess jewele... ers of great price.

Diamonds may be black as well a... te, and some are blue, red, brown ... ow, green, pink and orange; bu... re is no violet diamond, although ... addition to amethysts there are sap... res, rubies and garnets of that ... r.

Probably the largest log ever ski... in Potter county, Pa., was the on... ded by W. O. and E. R. Duell ... ly at the head of Lyman run. Th... unference of the log at the but... 12 feet 3 inches, at the top en... feet 10 inches, and in length ... sured 40 feet. It scaled 4,20... The tree was the largest on... heard of in that section, and be... s the log described the following ... were taken from it: One ... long, two 12 feet long, and one 1... long.

AN EVERY-DAY STRUGGLE.

Many Women Carry the Heavy Load of Kidney Sickness.

...rs. E. W. Wright, of 172 Main ... et, Haverhill, Mass., says: "In ... 1899 I was suffer... ing so with sharp ... pains in the small ... of the back and had ... such frequent dizzy ... spells I could scarce... ly get about the ... house. The urinary ... passages were also ... quite irregular. ... Monthly periods ... e so distressing I dreaded their ... roach. This was my condition for ... years. Doan's Kidney Pills ... ed me right away when I began ... them, and three boxes cured ... permanently."

...ld by all dealers. 50 cents a box. ...er Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

The Indians of Elko, Nev., have ... doned the dances of their fore... rs, have built a dance hall, and ... ntly gave a ball at which they ... their squaws and many invited ... aces waltzed in the most modern ... on.

...ry Holmes, formerly musical ... ctor to Queen Alexandra, of ... and, and for the last 17 years a ... ent of San Francisco, is dead. He ... born in London in 1839 and was ... or of the celebrated orchestra of ... Royal College of Music.

...rkingmen who watch the clock ... not at all likely to ever have ... ing else worth watching.

The latest alleged prevention of sea... ess is to inhale deeply when the ... rises and exhale when it sinks.

...ough an American citizen now ... el John Sobieski, once prohibi... candidate for governor of Mi... , indisputably is rightful king ... nd. He lives at present in Ca... a. He was born in Poland ... and he and his daughter are the ... known direct descendants of the ...lor king of Poland, John Sobieski.

DELUSION.

A fisher lad stooped from his skiff-side,
To dim his net in the sea,
When up from the deep, deep water,
A face looked smilingly.
A face in a frame of sunlight,
With a smile like a rippling wave,
With lips that would tempt and trouble,
And eyes that would calm and save.

He gazed too long for his future,
Too long for his peace of mind,
He poured his soul in his worship,
Devoted, ceaseless, blind.
He swept his net through the water,
But the vision passed away;
The wave grew calm, but it came not,
Though he watched through many a day.

He never knew 'twas a maiden,
That leaned from the rock above,
Whose face had looked from the sea depth,
With eyes like a dream of love.
He never knew, though he passed her,
Each day, as to and fro,
Weary and sick with longing,
To his task he'd sadly go.

So we gaze in the future's waters,
For the visions they portray,
So we long for the unreturning,
Nor heed the blest to-day.
So we cast our nets for the shadows,
Fleet phantoms of the tide,
Nor dream in our blind delusion,
That the real is at our side.

—Hattie Horner Loutham, in Thoughts Adrift.

THE MOONLIGHT TRAILERS.

BY FRANK LILLIE POLLOCK.

On the north shore of Lake Superior, where the Canadian Pacific Railway draws a frail line of settlement through that rugged country of granite and forest, lived Peter Shanley. In the summer he was a section man on the road, but usually went north into the woods with the first snow, and spent the winter in trapping.

He had discovered an excellent trapping location on the upper Nipigon, and had gone there for the last four winters with his hunting partner, a French-Canadian named Chouteau. There they had built a log cabin, and there they returned early in the winter of last year with two toboggan-loads of supplies, and at once proceeded to lay out their lines of traps.

There were marten-traps in the swamps, mink-traps along the frozen streams, and a few fox and lynx-traps; but one of their great hopes of profit was from the timber-wolves. There is a Government bounty of $10 on the pelts of these animals; but for them they set no traps.

It is next to impossible to capture a gray timber-wolf by any of the ordinary devices. He knows the most cunningly disposed trap as far as he can see it, and he can smell poison through any disguise. But for circumventing those too sagacious animals, Shanley had invented a method of his own, which had already proved highly successful.

On a moonlight night he would go in the swamps and shoot a couple of rabbits, which he would drag in the snow so as to leave a blood trail. Such a scent is irresistible to any predatory animal, and after an hour's tramping Shanley would hear the hunting cry of the—the curious, moaning yelp through the dark woods. He would then make a small semi-circle back, and climb a tree close to his own trail. When the pack came past on the scent he usually managed to get at least three shots with his repeater before they scattered.

They rarely showed spirit enough to attack him; the sudden fright of the shots sent them scampering. He would only have had them besiege him in a tree, for with a belt full of cartridges he could have killed the whole pack, which seldom numbered more than eight or ten. But he never had any such fortune.

Winter set in hard and early, with unusually deep snow, and near the end of December Shanley went out on his first wolf-hunt of the season. It was just after moonrise, and the night air was so still as to appear milder than it really was. There had been recent heavy storms, and the hemlocks were deeply laden with fresh snow, dry as powder. The woods were very still, and in the strange, bluish northern moonlight the silence seemed mysterious and sinister.

Shanley was not much impressed by these effects, however. He merely observed that it was intensely cold, and that perching in a tree would be frigid work that night, in spite of his double clothing and gloves.

Half a mile from the shanty he shot a hare that was nibbling a spruce trunk, and a little way farther he secured another. The carcasses he tied with a deerskin thong, and trailed them in the wake of his snow-shoes.

He dragged his bait across a hardwood ridge and down into another cedar swamp on the other side. In cold weather all the wild life of the woods resorts to such places for shelter, and here the wolves would be hunting if there was a pack in the neighborhood. But he found few tracks and no sign at all of wolves.

After traveling slowly for two or three miles, Shanley sat down on a log to rest, and as the warmth of exercise died out, the cold nipped him to the bone through the "four-point" blanket coat. He got up and moved on, intending to return in a long curve to the cabin. He did not much care at all whether he started any wolves or not. It was too cold for hunting.

The dry snow swished round his feet, full of the long rackets. He had dressed the dead hares, which had been frozen almost as hard as wood, too hard to leave a scent. The cold grew steadily colder. The thermometers at Sault Sainte Marie that evening registered three below zero that night.

He had reached the other side of the swamp when his ears caught suddenly a high-pitched, mournful howl, ending in a sort of yelp, sounding indefinitely far away, yet clearly heard through the tense air. He knew well what it meant. The pack had struck a trail—probably his own, possibly that of a deer. He would very soon learn which. Shanley was just then in the midst of a tangled stretch or second growth, where the view was too obstructed for shooting, and he hurried on to reach more open woods. After ten minutes of pushing through the snowy thickets, he came unexpectedly upon the shore of a good-sized river, covered deep with snow, a white avenue winding away into the midnight forest.

As he came out upon this convenient road he caught again the hunting chorus of the wolf pack, far away, but still appreciably nearer. He started up the river at a swinging trot, looking about for a good place to ambush himself, when the ice suddenly gave way under his feet, and he went down with so swift a plunge that he had only time for a shuddering gasp!

The trapper had stepped on an air-hole lightly crusted over with snow. He went down to his neck without touching bottom, and the black water surged up into his face. It was his rifle that saved him from going under; it caught across the hole, and he clung to it fiercely. As the current was fortunately not rapid, he managed to draw himself up.

But he found himself unable to extricate his feet. The long-tailed snow-shoes had gone down point foremost, and now were crossed under the ice, and refused to come up. He dared not cut them loose, for in the deep snow he would have been helpless. Growing fainter at every moment, he struggled in the deadly chill of the water for four or five minutes before he at last succeeded in bringing them up end first, as they had gone down.

When he staggered back stiffly upon the snow the very life seemed withdrawn from his bones. His beard was a cake of ice, and his heavy clothing had frozen into a coat of mail almost as hard as iron plate. There was no sensation left in his limbs, and he trembled with a numb shuddering.

Long forest training told him what must be done. He must have a fire at once. He would have to find a dry birch tree or a splintered pine that would light easily.

His benumber brain clung to this idea, and he began to stumble toward shore, his snow-shoes sheets of ice, and his clothes rattling as he went. But with a hunter's instinct he stuck to his rifle, tucking it under his icy arm.

He could see no birch tree, and the bank was bordered with an impenetrable growth of alders. He dragged himself up the river, and each step seemed to require a more and more intolerable exertion.

He could not feel his feet as he lifted and put them down; when he saw them moving they looked like things independent of himself. He had ceased to feel cold. He no longer felt anything, except a deadly weariness that was crushing him into the snow.

He went on, however, driven by the fighting instinct, till of a sudden he saw it—the birch tree he was seeking, shining spectrally among the black spruces by the river.

It was an old, half-dead tree, covered with great curls of bark that would flare up at the touch of a match. He had matches in a waterproof box, and he contrived to get them out of his frozen pocket. He dropped the box half a dozen times in trying to open it, opened it at last with his teeth, and dropped it again, spilling the matches into the snow.

Snow is as dry as sand at that temperature, and he scraped them up, and tried to strike one on the rifle-barrel. But he was unable to hold the bit of wood in his numbed fingers; there was absolutely no feeling in his hands, and the match fell from his grasp at every attempt. This is a familiar peril in the north woods, where dozens of men have frozen to death with firewood and matches beside them, from sheer inability to strike a light.

Shanley beat his hands together without effect. He began to grow indifferent; and as he fumbled again for the dropped match he fell at full length into the snow.

A sense of pleasant relief overcame him, and he decided to rest there for a few minutes. The snow was soft, and he had never before realized how warm it was. His shoulders were propped against the roots of the birch, and with a hazy consciousness that game might be expected, he dragged his rifle across his knees and cocked it. Then, with a comfortable sense of duty done, he closed his eyes.

Curious and delightful fancies began at once to flood his brain, fancies so vivid that he seemed not to lose consciousness at all. How long he lay there he never knew. But he grew alive at last to a vise-like pressure on his left arm that seemed to have lasted for years, and which was growing to excruciating pain.

He opened his eyes with a great effort. There were savage, hairy faces close to his own, pouring out clouds of steaming breath into the frosty air. Something had him by the arm with such force that he almost felt the bones cracking, and something was tugging at his leg.

The nervous shock aroused him as nothing else on earth could have done. A tingle of horrified animation rushed through every muscle of his body. He was on the point of being devoured alive by the wolf pack that had trailed him, and the powerful stimulus of the new peril called out the last reserves of life.

He made a convulsive start. The rifle upon his knees went off, and at the sudden flash and report the half-dozen wolves bolted incontinently.

They all fled but the big brute that was wrenching at his arm, and it only snarled through its nostrils and tugged the harder.

Shanley tried to raise himself. His limbs felt wooden and dead. But he fumbled for the skinning-knife at his belt, broke it from its cake of ice, and struck out stiffly. A stream of blood followed the blow.

The wolf let go, and darted at the attacking arm. Shanley lunged again and again, trying vainly to get to his knees. He was upset at every attempt, and the wolf and the man rolled over each other, struggling with tooth and knife, till the long blade touched the life, and the great gray brute stretched itself out in the bloody snow, kicking. With its last effort it seized the hunter's blanket coat, and Shanley had to cut the cloth to release that death-grip.

Meanwhile the rest of the pack were skulking at the edge of the cover, not quite daring to take part in the combat. Shanley sent another shot after them, and they vanished like shadows.

The violent exertion of the fight had started his circulation again, but he was filled with terrible cramps and agonizing pains in every muscle. He found a match, and after many unsuccessful attempts, he managed this time to strike fire. The birch bark caught and flamed crackling up the trunk. The dry trunk caught fire itself, and the tree burned like a torch.

Shanley rubbed his face, hands and feet savagely with snow, and then took off his iced outer garments and stood in the heat of the fire, steaming. He had a few lacerations on his face, but found that the teeth of the wolves had in no case penetrated through his clothing to the skin. The thick, ice-caked cloth had been an efficient armor, and the mass of ice on his beard had protected his neck. On the other hand, it is beyond doubt that the arrival of the pack had saved him from death by freezing.

Shanley spent that night beside a great bonfire, and all night long the gray wolves skulked about in the shadows. He reached camp again a little after sunrise, where he found Chouteau in a state of great perturbation, and on the point of setting out to look for him.

Shanley's feet had been badly frozen, and he came near losing three of his toes. He was unable to go the rounds of the traps for two weeks, but that the adventure did not discourage him is shown by the fact that when the trappers came out of the woods in March they brought eighteen wolf-pelts with them.—Youth's Companion.

RATS IN THE UNDERGROUND

One Place Where the London Rodents Are Really Useful.

In the course of a lengthy article denouncing the rat, the London Spectator remarks:

Almost the only places in which they do no harm, and are even useful, are the tunnels of the underground railways of London, and near the platforms of the great London termini. Passengers throw quantities of surplus food out of the windows, and the railway rats come out by night and devour it. The electrification of the District and "Circle" lines has greatly diminished the rats in those parts of underground London. They are not only very inquisitive, but naturally and habitually touch every object they come near, first with their whiskers, and then with their noses. They are not still for a moment, but always kept in motion like a fly-fisher's rod. With "live" rails down in the tunnels, which emit the peculiar smell accompanying highly charged conductors, this inquiring habit of the rats leads them to disaster. They smell that the "live" rail is not quite like an ordinary length of steel, put their whiskers against it, and finally lay their noses on it. This causes death in a moment, the rats falling backwards, and expiring after one or two kicks.

A Russian Chief of Police.

"The Night that Made Me a Revolutionist," in Everybody's, is the tale of a young Russian peasant. Speaking through the mouth of Ernest Poole, the writer, the young revolutionist tells the following incident:

"Toward evening both of us were called to the police station. We were taken in before the Chief of Police.

"He was a man of fifty. He was not at all like the priest, but short and burly, with a thick soft neck and a face all red and puffed out; his fingers trembled from vodka. He had been in the army, and had now been given this easy place; he had never learned to read or write till after he was thirty. He always had trouble to speak, for his breath came short, his brain was clouded, and you could see by his eyes that he was always trying to grab his thoughts and hold them together. He showed all the signs of a vodka drunkard. Every morning he was sad; every afternoon he was cross; every evening he got more and more stupid.

"We found him in a cross period. He lay on the sofa wrapped in a long gray cloak. The cloak was unbuttoned in front, and you could see his black, hairy chest. He held a cigar very tight in his teeth; a white cat lay in his lap, and his fat red hands kept trembling over the cat's back."

The vitality of the snail is remarkable. One that was glued to a card in a museum for four years came to life on being immersed in warm water.

WORTH QUOTING

There is usually law enough to punish any criminal if only it be enforced, says the New Orleans Picayune.

Nations, like individuals, are powerful in the degree that they command the sympathies of their neighbors.

The New York Press says it now looks as if the Japanese did not lose a cent by waiving the question of financial idemnity in the peace settlement with Russia.

American bridesmaids are reported to be very popular in England. Not half as popular as American brides, however.

In the last five and one-half years, Secretary Taft has travelled 100,000 miles, or four times around the globe, states the New York Evening Post.

A California physician declares that brain action in the creation of thought is electrical in its nature. That would account for a great many shocking ideas, comments the Baltimore American.

A dancing school is to be added to the University of Chicago. At last, says the Chicago Record Herald, the dancing teacher will be entitled to call himself "professor."

A Connecticut man fainted when he discovered that he had been given $40 too much by an express clerk and walked twenty miles to return the money. He is too good for this world.

New York's Four Hundred have been reduced to 81. But there is a large number of honorary members, remarks the Nashville American.

The army medical department announces that it has banished yellow fever and malaria from the isthmus. If so, observes the Philadelphia Inquirer, the Panama canal has accomplished no small good already.

London reports that many fake "antiquities" are being sold to American millionaires. Being new in the millionaire business, will be just as happy with the fakes as they would have been with the originals.

A doctor advises people to "give their stomachs a nice vacation." It is thought, however, that only the man who hasn't the price of a meal will take this advice.

Ikons are playing a small part in the disturbances in Russia. After the first reverses in Manchuria, the Baltimore Herald remarks, the czar had several carloads of ikons shipped to the east with the hope that the backs of his men would be stiffened up, but the Japs thrashed the Russians worse afterwards, and the ikon as an inspirer of courage failed miserably. The rioters are killing people all over Russia, religious and irreligious; burning churches with other property, and not even ikons are respected. The Russians are always referred to as a religious people, but they appear to be bloodthirsty as well. If the ikon has any power for good, there never was a better opportunity than now in Russia to put it to the test.

According to the statisticians, thinks the Philadelphia Record, there is unparalleled prosperity in the country, accompanied by a higher level is the cost of living than has at any time before been reached in the past twenty-two years. Everything except breadstuffs among foodstuffs has advanced in price. Clothing and structural material are considerably dearer. This exaltation in the prices of the things which men must have to live, is especially hard upon that portion of the community unable to exact a proportionate share in the general good fortune of the mass. In so far as the cost of living is unnecessarily advanced, especially in the cost of iron, lumber, fuel, and other necessaries that are made dearer by reason of taxation that brings no revenue to the Government, our prosperity is onesided, unfair and of evil foreboding.

Cynicisms.

Every member of a quartet can tell you three good reasons why the organization is not perfect.

Some folks contribute generously on missionary Sunday, and treat their poor neighbors in the back street like dirt.

When you see a man foaming at the mouth, his head in a noose and a razor at his throat, don't be alarmed, for perhaps he is only getting shaved.

If some people were anything like as big as they think they are, the world would have to be enlarged.

A Severe Test.

Don't ask a girl to marry you after dark when she is dressed fit to kill. Call on her, and when you leave inadvertently drop a glove on the piano. Return for it the next morning at 9 o'clock. If she comes to the door with one shoe and one slipper on, her hair done up in curl papers, dressed in an old Mother Hubbard, our advice is to take to the woods. But if she appears in a neat house dress, her hair done up and a rose in the top of her hair, grab her quickly.—Marionville (Mo.) Free

A GREAT COMBINATION OFFER

We Will Furnish the "TWICE-A-WEEK" Issue of the

St. Louis Globe-Democrat

With

THE UNION

For

$1.50 Both Papers, one year, only $1.50.

The St. Louis Globe Democrat should not be classed with the many cheap weekly papers. It is a high-grade Semi-Weekly, eight or more pages, every Tuesday and Friday. It is beyond all comparison the biggest, best and cheapest National News and Home Journal published in the United States. It is strictly Republican in Politics but is above all

A Great Modern Newspaper.

It is not made up indiscriminately from the Daily issue. It is carefully edited with special reference to the needs of the Farmer, the Merchant and the professional man who desires to keep thoroughly posted without sparing the time to read a large Daily Paper. It also contains a great variety of well selected reading matter, making it invaluable to every member of the family.

This Liberal Clubbing Offer

is open to all old or new subscribers, but may be withdrawn at any time, and we must receive the cash with order. Address

THE UNION,
Clanton, Ala.

Ben M. Jacobs & Bros.,

Furniture and Rugs.

—SOLE AGENTS—

Globe-Wernicke Elastic Book Cases and Filing Cabinets.

Catalogue for the asking.

1011 First Ave., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

DISPATCH PRINTING CO.,

Blank Book Makers and Lithographers.

County and Office Supplies a Specialty.

Ask for Estimates.

2113-2119 Morris Ave., BIRMINGHAM, ALA

Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association

OF ALABAMA.

CHARTERED BY SPECIAL ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE

By the People and for the People.

Chilton County Branch

Organized February 3, 1900.

W. M. WILSON, President. WALLACE C. EDLER, Sec'y.-Treas.

INSURES Farmers' dwellings, outbuildings and contents and live stock against loss by fire, wind and lightning. The cheapest, safest and most sensible method of insurance known to man

Average Yearly Cost for Five and a half Years 43-100 of 1 per cent.

Full particulars furnished upon application to

WALLACE C. EDLER, Clanton, Ala.

PAUL CALAME,

205 21st Street

Birmingham, Ala.

Practical Watchmaker and Optician

Eyes Correctly Fitted

Mail orders promptly filled

DO YOU WANT

Letterheads, Noteheads, Billheads, Envelopes,

OR ANYTHING ELSE PRINTED?

Then Call at

THE UNION OFFICE

and See Fine Work at Low Prices.

500 Noteheads 500 Envelopes All For $2.00

Good Work on Good Material, done on Good Machines. Don't forget! THE UNION, Clanton, Alabama.

We want your advertising.

THE UNION

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Wallace C. Edler, Ed. and Pub.

Subscription price, in advance, per year, $1.

For advertising rates, call at the office, Seventh street, between First and Second avenues.

Entered April 15, 1903, at Clanton, Ala., as second class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications to the Union must be signed by the writer's real name as well as that name which they wish to put in the paper. Letters must reach the editor Tuesday morning to get in the same week. While we will publish any and all communications complying with these requirements that do not contain any improper language, we are not responsible for the opinions expressed. tf.

CLANTON, ALA., Jan. 18, 1906.

Union Clubbing List

THE UNION And Yellow Jacket	$1.00
THE UNION And Southern Ruralist	1.00
THE UNION And Union Educator	1.00
THE UNION And Home and Farm	1.00
THE UNION And Weekly Age-Herald	1.25
THE UNION and Weekly Atlanta Constitution	1.25
THE UNION and Twice-a-Week Globe Democrat	1.50
THE UNION and Tri-W'kly Atlanta Constitution	1.50
THE UNION And Tom Watson's Magazine	1.50
THE UNION and Tri-Weekly N. Y. World	1.50
THE UNION And Rural South	1.50
THE UNION And Weekly Advertiser and Map of Alabama, U. S. and world	1.50

If there are any other papers you want call at THE UNION office, and we will get them for you at the lowest rates. tf

$10.00 REWARD

Will be paid to the three persons who secure for us the largest number of PAID subscribers between now and April 1st, 1906. No restrictions. Our clubbing prices go in this contest. $5.00 goes to the one with the largest list; $3.00 to the second largest list, and $2.00 to the third largest. Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds has kindly consented to be the judge in this contention, and he will make the awards. The names of the successful contestants will be published, also the names of all who tried for this reward. Now we have a thousand subscribers, help us to get a thousand additional, so as to fittingly celebrate the ending of our third year.

tf THE UNION.

POLL TAX.

On Thursday, February 1st, the time will expire in which you can pay your poll tax, and so qualify yourself that you can take a MAN'S PART in any question that will be decided at the ballot box. Many men have quit paying one year too soon, and thereby lay themselves open to have their vote challenged. The best authorities say that (in the absence of any specific date as to the assessment of this tax) it is determined on the same date as the property tax (Oct. 1st). For example: any man who was BETWEEN the ages of 21 and 45 on Oct. 1st, 1905, must pay the poll tax for 1906. Every one should look well to their record in this respect, and see that it is clear as to the years 1901-2-3-4-5, for if you have missed one year that you should have paid you are as "badly in the soup" as if you had missed all. Look it up, and if delinquent, PAY UP, the money goes direct to YOUR school in YOUR district, which is the one redeeming feature in a rotten piece of legislation. The election to decide on the special school tax for this county will be held on February 20, and you may BE SURE that every man who has shown himself to be so careless or indifferent to the welfare of his public school as to neglect his plain duty and has not paid his tax, WILL BE challenged. TOWNSHIP TRUSTEES are exempt, but only for that time that they serve as such. You will all remember that last year our state auditor, in answer to an inquiry from Tax Colector Hubbard, said "I know of no law which exempts DISTRICT trustees from paying poll tax." Don't haggle on a question like this. The more money that is paid in for poll taxes, the less supplementary money you have to get up for your school. Pay up! Pay up!! PAY UP!!!

tf

THE UNION EDUCATOR.

This organ of the F. E. and C. U. of A. in Alabama has consolidated with the Diversified Farmer of Anniston, and is now published at that city twice a month. Every member of the union should take this paper and so keep posted on what goes on in the state in the order. The price is 50 cents per year, but we will send it and THE UNION one year for $1.00 Subscribe now.

A NEW PAPER.

Thursday we received a copy of the Afro-American Journal, published here in Clanton by the Afro-American Publishing Co. It is a very newsy sheet and does the editor credit. We are obliged to him for his complimentary remarks about us, and what we try to do for this race in the way of counsel. We always tells them, and repeat it here, "to be sure of two things, do good work and keep a promise; be known for your reliability."

Clanton, January 15, 1906.

Well, here I am, but I'm all befuddled. I don't know "where I'm at" or where to start. I want to write on national politics, and also on home affairs, and I'd like to give our city election a round or two. Do you know we "blind tiger" people hardly know where we are at. It looks like our following has got unruly. It used to be that all we had to do was to call a meeting down stairs in the court house, or if there was a mass meeting, just get our crowd together and block out a ticket, and the boys would vote for it. Some how we've lost our grip and I expect we'll have to close our front doors for a while, as these new officers always want to show themselves and they might give us trouble. There was some funny things about this city election. Now, don't get scared, I'll not tell all I know about it; but these Sunday night caucuses are hard to beat and I on't think we fellows had a fair show. Oh, wouldn't it be a circus to see Judge Reynolds in a Sunday night caucus with Tipton and his crowd. Look out, Judge, you know how others have gone, and the same thing that killed them will kill you. If I ever hear of you being in a midnight caucus (and Sunday at that) I'll tell on you sure, but as this was only a city election without any politics in it, I won't tell on you this time. My stars, hasn't the state democratic executive committee done it this time? Fixed a plan to beat Comer and his crowd, and have taken the right from the people to vote for their Supreme Judges. Won't even let the people vote for the new executive committee. Mr. Whitson says the lawyers are better qualified than the people to nominate these officials; and really, some of these democrats are actually kicking at a little thing like that. Why, they hate to be disfranchised. Don't kick, stand up and take it like men, and when you common folks get kicked out again, like you did in 1892, we'll take you back. The Birmingham News says there was a caucus in Atlanta, Ga., the night before the committee met, composed of a few members and a lot of railroad lawyers, and the whole plan was arranged. Say, Mr. News, haven't you all been doing this all the time? Wasn't that the way you beat Kolb? I see, Mr. News, you want to go to the United States Senate, but you feel embarrassed to go out and ask the people to vote for you before Morgan or Pettus dies. But wouldn't the Democrats be in a fix if they elect some one to take Morgan's and Pettus' places, and the fellow they named should die before either of the old Senators; then Comer would have to make the appointment after all. Now, I'm hard run in the financial way, but I'm going to buy a ticket and hear the first fellow's speech that starts out after "dead men's shoes" while they are still living. I've heard of Democrats writing the Governor and asking to be appointed to fill a man's place before he was buried; but this is the first time I've ever known that office-hunters start out before a man dies. I think there ought to be some provision about pall-bearers and such, but I reckon the defeated candidates will do, as they already have the moan and long face. Where are the men that have been asking us people to come into the Democratic party, where we could vote for all the officers? How is it, Buddy, now? Have you got cheek enough to ask them to come in and for just enough offices to give them a taste? You know you railroad lawyers will nominate the judges and the Executive Committee, so you can be sure of getting railroad lawyers in both places. Boys, pay your poll tax before February 1, even if you do owe for five years. It will be worth $7.50 to vote this year. Respectfully yours, JUST A VOTER.

THORSBY.

Mrs. Mickelson entertained the Ladies' Auxiliary on Wednesday last. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. O. Schive surprised them at their home on Wednesday night. A splendid time is reported by all present. The Swedish Ladies' Aid Society met with Mrs. G. Berlin on Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson and daughter stepped off the fast mail last week and are registered at the Thorsby Inn. Miss Ida K. Denman has resigned her position as teacher here and has gone to accept a similar position near her home in Jacksonville. Misses Gallager and Fay spent Saturday in Birmingham. The Commercial Club gave an oyster supper in their club rooms on Saturday night. Everybody present seems to have had a most delightful time. The stockholders of the cotton gin held a meeting at the college hall on Saturday. Rev. Bates, of Birmingham, preached a splendid sermon to a large congregation on Sunday night. The lecture given by Prof. Von Felitz on Paganism was well attended on Sunday night. He will give two more lectures, the proceeds of which are to be used to decorate the interior of the Norwegian church. Friends of Mr. Paulson and family will regret to learn that the former's mother passed away in her home in North Dakota. Mr. Paulson was with the deceased when death claimed her. Our postmaster, who suffered from a severe attack of grip, is able to be up and about. The Sunshine Society met with Miss Tarina Paulson on Tuesday. Call on Mr. B. Anderson if you want pretty souvenir postals of Thorsby.

THORSBY.

Mr. A. Tornblom arrived with a land seeker from Joliet, Ill., on the last excursion. Mr. T. T. Thorson arrived with several gentlemen on the same excursion.

Mr. G. Johnson, of Rockford, Ill., is a guest at the Carlson home.

Lawyer Adams, of Clanton, was a three days' visitor here last week.

Several of our prominent citizens were in Clanton on Saturday.

Mr. Fred Johnson, a highly respected citizen of Thorsby, passed away at his home on Saturday morning. The funeral took place from the home on Sunday afternoon and was largely attended by sympathizing friends. Mrs. Johnson has the deepest sympathy of the entire community.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bosworth, of Birmingham, are visiting relatives in Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. Goss have moved into the Nelson home. R. Smith and family are again occupying the home just vacated by the former family.

Friends of Mrs. Swan will regret to hear that she is confined to her home on account of sickness.

Work has commenced on the new hardware store on Birmingham avenue. It will be the first brick building in Thorsby.

NEMO.

This letter came to hand last week one day too late for publication.

EDITOR UNION.

LIBERTY HILL.

Mr. Editor:

Please allow me space in your paper. The health in this vicinity is good as far as I hear. Am glad to say that little Esther Vickers is improving in health. Prof. J. B. Sessions' school is progressing nicely. Wiley Foshee visited home folks Sunday. N. G. Ward's brother paid him a visit Sunday. Next Sunday is Rev. A. L. Foshee's preaching day, and trust a large congregation will greet him. All come. It will do you good. With best wishes to the editor and the best paper in the county, I am

NOBODY'S SWEETHEART.

MARS HILL.

Editor Union:

Just a few lines to your and our most valuable paper. I've been absent for some time, not because I didn't want to be present, but I wasn't at home. I was sure glad o mommi at home. Our community is getting along fine. I was sure glad to see Mr. J. D. Collins' piece in THE UNION about the F. E. and C. U. of A. It caused me to think back several years, and not so long as that, either, to find fertilizer $25 to $35 per ton. Now Mr. Collins and I are standing on the same ground. I've been over in Bibb county organizing for the F. E. and C. U. of A., and it has not been very much trouble to get the people to join us in the good work. Bibb is coming to the front. We will have a county organization before very long. I hope to see more articles from the different places in THE UNION, and wish you all success.

DAD'S PLOW BOY.

LETTER FROM J. H. LUNDY.

Mangum, Okla.,
January 4, 1906.

Mr. Wallace C. Edler.

Dear Sir and Friend: As I am now located, I will write you. I found a fine looking country, level and smooth and seems to be fertile. People seem to be in good shape and to have plenty. I find them very kind and willing to accommodate and help. Please send THE UNION to Mangum, O. T. R. F. D. No. 2. I will write up this country for THE UNION soon.

Wishing you a happy new year, I will close. As ever yours,

J. H. LUNDY.

CLANTON ROUTE FOUR.

Editor Union:

Please allow me space in your dear paper to say a few words to my fellow farmers, and especially to the members of the F. E. and C. U. of A. Every member of the union ought to go prepared to say a cheering, encouraging word at every meeting of his local. This is what makes a meeting interesting and creates enthusiasm. Let every one consider that the success or failure of the union depends in a greater or less degree on each individual doing his share, and when this is done you will have a prosperous, growing and interesting local. We have a fair illustration of a farmers' union, in which the members staid loyal to t heir pledges, in the "Farmers' Tobacco Association of Tennessee and Kentucky." Only a short year ago a few over 3,000 tobacco growers of these two states met at Guthrie, Ky., and organized an association to protect themselves against the greed and rapacity of the tobacco trust, which was draining the life blood of the people in that section. Since that time tobacco that had been selling at 4 cents per pound now brings 14 and 16 cents and will continue to advance until it reaches a fair price for the farmers' labor. How was this done in so short a time? Simply by the members of that association standing loyal to their organization and to their officers who they had elected to lead them in this grand and glorious warfare of labor against capital and the tobacco trust. Brothers of the F. E. and C. U. of A., what this mere handful of farmers did, why can't the army of over 30,000 union men in Alabama do? We can do more if we will only be as loyal to our beloved union as these sturdy farmers of these two states were to theirs. They now only have to set the price of tobacco and they get it, as the power of the trust to decide prices is broken and the trust is now a supplicant at the feet of the farmers. These farmers have taught this lesson to all the farmers of the United States: "That in union there is strength." Loyalty to a common purpose, loyalty to the principle of a fair return for the products of labor, will make an association that no unholy combination of greedy and corrupt speculators can overthrow. Brothers, we have an organization that is strong enough to thwart any and all combinations that may spring up to grind us under their unholy iron heels. Let us be TRUE UNION MEN, stand up for our rights, and be loyal to our constitution and the officers that we have elected to lead us in the battle for the right, and the victory is surely ours. The union is not a "perpetual motion" order, no sir, but it takes work and a lot of it, my brother, if you wish to make your local a success. Be loyal, be earnest, attend every meeting, and always have a good word to say for YOUR UNION. Ours is a noble, grand and glorious cause; and for this reason every member should be anxious to see his neighbor a member. The uplifting of the farmer is a glorious mission, and we all ought to be proud that we have the privilege of being a member of THE UNION.

"UNION IKE."

SOUTH BESSSE.

1906! We welcome January with its life, bustle, good resolutions and a general hopeful tone of feeling that prevails all around.

South Bessie can boast of several things, but she can't boast of any democrats—not one. We may yet witness the rise and triumph of socialism and populism, but we don't think it probable that we will ever witness the rise of democracy. It seems to be a thing of the past, and doubtless all the people are pleased to have it so, with the exception of a few democratic office seekers.

Alfred Pate has moved into this community. We welcome him. L. G. Posey has moved to the H. L. Smith place.

Three rural routes pass through this community—Jemison route No. 1, carrier J. L. Thomas, a republican of the right ring; Jemison route No. 3, carrier A. W. Gentry, a nice young man. We love to see him succeed—reared by Christian parents and trained in the right way. Randolph route No. 1, carrier John Prim. Johnnie is a good young man, confidential, and we are pleased to see him succeed.

We are expecting a new saw mill to be built here at an early day.

As this is a good time for good resolutions, let us all carry out our good intentions. Let us resolve to grow in knowledge this year. We live in a time that is favorable for securing knowledge. Knowledge is on the increase, and whoever closes their eyes to the knowledge of the present is a pitiable object. Right in this community several years ago Mr. J. A. Logan in an address on the future outlook said to the young people that during the next twenty-five years they would witness more light and also more trouble than ever before. Subsequent events are proving the statement true. Just look last year at the Odessa massacre. Since that statement was made the three recent wars have come and gone, inventions and light have kept right on, while Gospel light at home and abroad has been shining in its purity, causing such a moving in religious circles as was never witnessed before at home and also abroad. Then how apropriate the language of D. S. Warner:

"Onward moves the great eternal
In the order of His plan.
Louder, nearer rolls the thunder
Of His awful word to man.

"Since by sin this earth was blighted,
God has whispered of His love.
Dreams and visions by His prophets Breathed of mercy from above."

"Louder speaks His love in Jesus,
Heaven sweetly chants his fame,
Earth receives its glorious Savior,
Hallelujah to His name."

Best wishes for THE UNION.

"ONE OF THE BOYS."

SURE CURE FOR SORE-HEADED CHICKENS.

Take 1 teaspoonful of kerosene, 1-2 teaspoonful of camphor, and a few drops of spirits turpentine. Mix well and apply freely on the head. When blistered, grease with camphor ice once a day. Give salts in dough.

L. C. HENLEY.

Nations, like individuals, are powerful in the degree that they command the sympathies of their neighbors.

Come and Be Pleased.

PRICES AND TERMS upon w... we are selling the most be... ful and attractive goods of ... season will certainly please ... surprise you.

The styles on which fashion ... stamped her approval for the co... season are now shown with ne... materials.

A Full line of Star Brand Shoes.

Men's and boys' Clothing.

Full line of Gents' Furnishing Goo...

Ladies' and children's Jackets, Skir...
Ready-to-Wear Hats.

Anything you want in Dress G...
Hardware, Saddlery and Florence Wa...

J. C. JONES,

Clanton, Alaba...

Pure Water Prevents Fevers.

DRILLED WELLS FURNISH PURE WAT...

We guarantee water or no charge made. Estimates given. Address

L. E. SARBER CO.

Thorsby, Al...

Subscribe for this pape...

LOVEMAN, JOSEPH & LOEB. BIRMINGHAM. LOVEMAN, JOSEPH & LOEB.

The Greatest January Silk Sale

EVER HELD IN THE SOUTHERN STATES.

50,000 yards of the finest black and colored silks to be offered at one-half and less than one-half of regular prices.

Sale Starts Tuesday, Jan. 2nd.

The January silk sale has always been a great event in this store—but this year we have planned to make it the greatest and most successful silk sale we have ever conducted. Circumstances lent themselves fortunately to our plans. The manufacturers co-operated as never before—our importations are larger, the goods of better quality and the prices more favorable.

And after months of the most careful preparation we are ready to launch on next Tuesday the biggest event in silk selling which the people of the South have ever known.

Make your plans at once—make up your minds to come early—People from every county in Alabama will be here, and their fares will be paid by the liberal shopping inducement offered during this sale.

Come the first day. If you can't do so be sure and come before the end of the first week.

SPECIAL TABLES AND SPECIAL PRICES:

Table No. 1—39c silks at 19c	Table No. 6—$1.00 silks at 69c
Table No. 2—50c silks at 29c	Table No. 7—$1.25 silks at 79c
Table No. 3—59c silks at 39c	Table No. 8—$1.50 silks at 89c
Table No. 4—75c silks at 49c	Table No. 9—$1.75 silks at 98c
Table No. 5—89c silks at 59c	Table No. 10—$2.00 silks at $1.19

No discounts. No goods returned after once sold. No C. O. D.'s except on deposit. No goods sent on approval. The reductions in this sale are so thorough and genuine that our friends cannot expect us to extend the privileges allowed on regular goods.

Loveman, Joseph & Loeb.

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

...TS AND COUNTY OFFICIALS.
...Circuit Court.
...g Term—Third Monday in May.
... Term—Fourth Monday in No...
...—S. L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
...ctor—W. B. Bowling, Dadeville.
...—Sam W. Collins.

...Chancery Court.
...g Term—Second Monday in ...
... Term—Second Monday in Sep...
...ncellor—Hon. W. W. Whitesides.
...ister—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan...

...County Court.
...t Monday in each month.

...Commissioners' Court.
...ond Monday February, first Mon...April, first Monday June, second ...day July, second Monday August, ...Monday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.
...ge of Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
...easurer—W. T. Callen.
...eriff—J. M. Morgan.
...llector—W. M. Adams.
...x Assessor—L. B. Pounds.
...x Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.
...st District—W. H. Conway.
...cond District—Alex Glasscock.
...ird District—R. P. Kendrick.
...urth District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.
...rof. J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor.
... P. R. Dahl, Calera.

State Senator.
...on. W. R. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.
...stors and clerks are cordially ask... to send the editor any news regard... their churches which they would ... published. Also if there are any ...rs in these notices please send cor... ...tions.

MISSIONARY BAPTISTS.
...eth-Salem—Rev. J. E. Moore, 3rd ...day. E. B. Popwell, clerk, Billings... R. F. D. No. 1.

...lanton—Rev. A. C. Swindall, 1st ... 3rd Sundays. W. I. Mullins, clerk.

...hestnut Creek—Rev. T. J. Denson, ... Sunday. H. A. Harris, clerk.

...berty Hill—Rev. S. Smitherman, ... Sunday. W. M. Wood, clerk.

...acedonia—Rev. G. W. Freeman, ... Sunday. H. H. Armstrong, clerk.

...ew Salem—Rev. S. Smitherman, ... Sunday. W. M. Pierce, clerk.

...oplar Springs—Rev. A. L. Foshee, ... Sunday. J. J. McDowell, clerk.

...Union Point—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 3r... ...day. J. N. Miner, clerk, Clanton.

...Collins Chapel—Rev. J. H. Thomas, ... Sunday. J. W. Littleton, clerk.

...Union Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas ... Sunday. R. S. Chandler, clerk.

...Pleasant Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas, ... Sunday. T. J. Headley, clerk.

...Mars Hill—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 1st ...nday. G. W. Gothard, clerk.

...Rocky Mount M. E. Church—Rev. ... Carroll, pastor, 2nd Sunday. Song ...rvice every 2nd and 4th Sunday af...noons. Prayer meeting every Wed...day night.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.
Masonic.

...Clanton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—...rd Saturday, Clanton.

...Amanda Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...—Fourth Saturday, Cooper.

...Clanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...—First Saturday, Clanton.

...Century Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...—First Saturday, Billingsley.

...Bozeman Lodge, A. F. and A. M., ... 534—Saturday on or before full ...on, Marbury.

...Jemison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...—Saturday on or before full moon, ...mison.

...Stanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...—Tuesday on or before full moon, ...anton.

I. O. O. F.

...Jemison Lodge—First and third Sat...days.

...Clanton Lodge, No. 304—Second and ...rth Saturdays.

Woodmen of the World.

...Black Jack Camp, No. 190—First and ...rd Mondays.

I. O. R. M.

...Geronemo Tribe, No. 90—First and ...rd Mondays sleep. Visiting chiefs ...rdially invited. E. B. Langston, C. ...; J. H. Patton, Sachem.

L. M. P. A.

...Eureka Lodge, of Thorsby—Second ... fourth Saturdays.

d.

ES AND TERMS upon w e are selling the most be l and attractive goods of ason will certainly please you.
tyles on which fashion
her approval for the co re now shown with ne
.
line of Star Brand Shoes.
nd boys' Clothing.
e of Gents' Furnishing Goo and children's Jackets, Skir Wear Hats.
ng you want in Dress G
, Saddlery and Florence Wa

ONES,
Alaba

revents Fevers.
RNISH PURE WAT
or no charge made.
dress
RBER CO.
Alab

r this pape

NGHAM. LOVEMAN, JOSEPH & LOEB.

test Jan-
ilk Sale
SOUTHERN STATES. of the finest lored silks to one-half and e-half of reg-
esday, Jan. 2nd.
le has always been a great this year we have planned and most successful silk
ted. Circumstances lent
o our plans. The manunever before—our impor-
ods of better quality and e.
f the most careful prep-launch on next Tuesday selling which the people
known,
at once—make up your eople from every county and their fares will be pping inducement offered
If you can't do so be e end of the first week.

ND SPECIAL PRICES:
Table No. 6—$1.00 silks at 69c
Table No. 7—$1.25 silks at 79c
Table No. 8—$1.50 silks at 89c
Table No. 9—$1.75 silks at 98c
Table No. 10—$2.00 silks at $1.
urned after once sold. No C. O.
is sent on approval. The reduc and genuine that our friend rivileges allowed on regular goo seph & Loeb
ALABAMA

...TS AND COUNTY OFFICIALS.

Circuit Court.

...ing Term—Third Monday in May.
... Term—Fourth Monday in No...

...—S. L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
...ttor—W. B. Bowling, Eufaula.
...—Sam W. Collins.

Chancery Court.

...ing Term—Second Monday in ...
... Term—Second Monday in Sep...
...cellor—Hon. W. W. Whitesides.
...gister—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan...

County Court.

...st Monday in each month.

Commissioners' Court.

...cond Monday February, first Mon... April, first Monday June, second ...day July, second Monday August, ... Monday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

...dge of Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
...reasurer—W. T. Callen.
...heriff—J. M. Morgan.
...olicitor—W. M. Adams.
...x Assessor—L. B. Pounds.
...x Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.

...rst District—W. H. Conway.
...econd District—Alex Glasscock.
...hird District—R. P. Kendrick.
...ourth District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.

...rof. J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor.

... P. R. Dahl, Calera.

State Senator.

...on. W. R. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.

...astors and clerks are cordially ask... to send the editor any news regard... their churches which they would ...h published. Also if there are any ...rs in these notices please send cor... ...ions.

MISSIONARY BAPTISTS.

...eth-Salem—Rev. J. E. Moore, 3rd ...day. E. B. Popwell, clerk, Billings... R. F. D. No. 1.

...lanton—Rev. A. C. Swindall, 1st ... 3rd Sundays. W. I. Mullins, clerk.

...hestnut Creek—Rev. T. J. Deason, ... Sunday. H. A. Harris, clerk.

...iberty Hill—Rev. S. Smitherman, ... Sunday. W. M. Wood, clerk.

...acedonia—Rev. G. W. Freeman, ... Sunday. H. H. Armstrong, clerk.

...ew Salem—Rev. S. Smitherman, ... Sunday. W. M. Pierce, clerk.

...oplar Springs—Rev. A. L. Foshee, ... Sunday. J. J. McDowell, clerk.

...nion Point—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 3rd ...day. J. N. Miner, clerk, Clanton.

...ollins Chapel—Rev. J. H. Thomas ... Sunday. J. W. Littleton, clerk.

...nion Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas ... Sunday. R. S. Chandler, clerk.

...leasant Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas, ... Sunday. T. J. Headley, clerk.

...ars Hill—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 1st ...day. G. W. Gothard, clerk.

...ocky Mount M. E. Church—Rev. ... Carroll, pastor, 2nd Sunday. Song ...vice every 2nd and 4th Sunday at ...roons. Prayer meeting every Wed... ...day night.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

Masonic.

Clanton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—... Saturday, Clanton.

...manda Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...—Fourth Saturday, Cooper.

Clanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...—First Saturday, Clanton.

Century Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...—First Saturday, Billingsley.

Bozeman Lodge, A. F. and A. M., ... 534—Saturday on or before full ...on, Marbury.

Jemison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...—Saturday on or before full moon, ...mison.

Stanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...—Tuesday on or before full moon, ...nton.

I. O. O. F.

Jemison Lodge—First and third Sat... ...days.

Clanton Lodge, No. 304—Second and ...rth Saturdays.

Woodmen of the World.

Black Jack Camp, No. 190—First and ...rd Mondays.

I. C. R. M.

Geronermo Tribe, No. 90—First and ...rd Mondays sleep. Visiting chiefs ...rdially invited. E. B. Langston, C. ...; J. H. Patton, Sachem.

L. M. P. A.

Eureka Lodge, of Thorsby—Second ...d fourth Saturdays.

MULES AND MARES.

I will have 10 good mules for sale at my store on January 20th. On January 20th a car load of fine breed mares, between 4 and 6 years old, and weighing from 800 to 1,000 pounds each, will be offered. Call early and take your choice.

W. A. REYNOLDS.
tf Jemison, Ala.

CLANTON COTTON MARKET.

Total receipts to Jan. 17, '06, 5,286
Price same date, 11 1-4c.
Receipts same date, 1905, 6,247.
Price same date, 6 3-4c.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

The new school house at Clanton was opened Monday with appropriate exercises, State Supt. Hill and Prof. J. H. Phillips, principal of Birmingham city schools, being present and making addresses to the pupils and patrons. We are glad that the children are decently housed at last, and hope the next thing will be a good school library.

ATTENTION, FARMERS' UNION—P. F. Parker, State Business Agent, will be in Clanton on Saturday, January 20th. He wants to meet all the brethren that can come, so be on hand, and let's do business and be loyal.

J. N. and D. W. Scott were in Clanton Friday.

J. P. Barrett was a pleasant visitor Friday.

Squire Childress and J. W. Hayes were in town Friday.

W. J. Bean was in Clanton Friday.

Prof. J. B. Sessions, the able principal of Liberty Hill school, was in Clanton Saturday. He hails from Chambers county, from which Chilton draws some good men.

J. O. Wesson was in town Monday.

J. W. Riggins was in Clanton Monday.

J. L. Neeley and B. G. Johnson were pleasant visitors Tuesday.

C. N. Cobb and Miss Mayme E. Branch were married at the bride's residence last Sunday. Rev. James E. Gothard performed the ceremony. Their many friends, also THE UNION, wish them a long and prosperous wedded life.

C. C. Bowles and wife were in Clanton Tuesday.

W. J. Motes was a pleasant visitor Tuesday.

J. A. Boockholdt was in Clanton Tuesday.

Judge Reynolds and wife went to Birmingham Wednesday.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

J. W. Gay and Miss Allie Barnes.
F. L. Johnson and Miss Pearl Alice Johnson. C. N. Cobb and Miss Mayme E. Branch. Thomas E. Christopher and Miss Margaret Abney.

COLORED.

Lu Baldwin and Isabel Goosby. Theophilus Johnson and Dora Bradford. Manser C. Rush and Nellie Bailey.

WANTED!

A good farm hand—will give $18.00 per month, and furnish a house. Call on or address,

JOHN L. WINSLOW,
Thorsby, Ala.

NEWSY GLEANINGS.

A race for cabs driven by cabmen has been organized in Paris.

Nice is to raise a monument to a cook—a Provencal chef, one Urbain Dubois.

An Arkansas City man who had twice been divorced took his third wife to the theatre recently.

In one of the Canadian military schools all the pupils have been ordered to grow mustaches.

Oregon refuses to maintain United States prisoners in her State prison for less than $8 per week.

The sale of typewriters has been forbidden by the police in Russia.

The better class of Japanese who have been living in California are going home in large numbers.

All the large German steamship companies are combining to establish a factory for chronometers.

The largest public elementary school in the world, it is said, is one recently opened in New York City, and serves 4250 children.

A pot-hunter has confessed to selling to San Francisco restaurant keepers as quail large numbers of ground (burrowing) owls.

Peter Bird Chief, a Comanche Indian, living near Clinton, has been very successful in farming this year.

King Alfonso's German professor has been dismissed from service for the alleged offense of spreading a rumor that the King was betrothed.

The German Admiralty has resolved on furnishing ships of war with means for recognizing each other's identity at distances too great for reading the name of the vessel.

Negro Killed at Frolic.

West Point, Ga.—At a negro frolic at the home of Sim Hogg, near here, Will Heard was killed by Jim Gray. Gray came to town and surrendered to the city marshal, J. T. Roberts.

W. H. Fisher Killed.

Chattanooga.—William H. Fisher, a prominent brick man of Chattanooga, was run over and instantly killed by a switch engine in the Cincinnati Southern railroad yards here.

NOTICE.

Cooper, Ala., Dec. 30, 1905.

The books and accounts of A. G. Clerk & Son are in my hands for collection. All parties interested will please come at once and settle and save time and trouble.

J. J. M'DOWELL,
tf Justice Peace, Beat 10.

NOTICE NO. 26908.

Department of the Interior,
Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
December 18, 1905.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Clerk of the Circuit Court at Clanton, Ala., on February 3, 1906, viz: Andrew J. Johnson, homestead entry No. 37392, for the N. 1-2 of N. E. 1-4, N. E. 1-4 of N. W. 1-4, section 27, township 22, range 15 east.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:

Wash Parrish, Monroe Parrish, William Easterling, Benjt Easterling, all of Clanton, Ala.

ROBERT BARBER,
12-21-05-6t Register.

COUNTY COURT.

Hold first Monday in each month. All interested will pleased take notice that the court will open at 9:30 a. m. sharp.

L. H. REYNOLDS,
Judge of County Court,
tf Chilton County, Ala.

ABOUT CANDIDATES.

All letters praising any particular candidate by name will have to be paid for at the rate of 1-2 cent per word. The UNION will publish free all matter relating to the general welfare and prospects of the party of the People. tf

POLL TAX.

I've received a number of letters from our people asking if they could send me the money for their poll tax, and would I attend to the paying of the tax for them and send them the receipt. Any one who will send me the money, and write what year or years he wants to pay for, the number of his school district and his beat, and his name as he gave it to the registrars, will have the same promptly attended to by me. Now, let's all pay up our poll tax, and thereby do a man's duty and help our individual schools. Respectfully,

tf L. H. REYNOLDS.
Judge of Probate.

1-11-05-4t

RAL SOCIETY.

January 30 and 31, 1906.

The third annual meeting will be held at Thorsby, Ala. on the above dates. Please notice, the citizens of Thorsby offer free entertainment to all members of the society. The railroads offer a rate of a fare and one-third, plus 25 cents, if fifty members present standard form certificates. Be sure to get a standard form certificate when you buy ticket. An interesting program is being arranged. We need the help of all persons interested in fruits, vegetables or flowers. You need our help. Annual membership fee, $1. Thorsby is midway between Montgomery and Birmingham. All the people are interested in fruit growing and will give our members a royal welcome. Come.

W. F. HEIKES, President,
Huntsville, Ala.
R. S. MACKINTOSH, Sec'y,
tf Auburn, Ala.

FOR SALE!

Full bred Holstein Milch Cow (6 years old), will come in fresh in November. Her milk record is 3 1-2 to 4 gallons per day. Address,

W. L. McDowell,
tf. Clanton, Route 2.

NOTICE.

Blank Deeds, Mortgages, and all official forms for Justices of the Peace, etc., for sale at The Union Office. Only best approved forms are used. Come in and give us your order tf.

FOR SALE!

80 acres, 1 1-4 miles east of Cane Creek church, very strong land, lies well, about 20 acres cleared, fair tenant house and fine well of water. Price $600.00, terms easy.

ALSO

66 acres, with water power grist mill in running order, good custom, house and fine well of water, 3 miles east of Clanton—about 20 acres cleared, lies well. Price $700.00. Terms easy. Apply to office of

tf. THE UNION.

NOTICE.

I hereby appoint the 4th Saturday in each month as my regular day for hearing civil causes at my residence in beat 3, Chilton Co. Deeds, mortgages and papers of all kinds carefully and legibly made out.

J. A. CADDELL,
Notary Public & Ex-off. J. P.
tf

SPECIAL OFFER!

The Union, Weekly Montgomery Advertiser, and a great white and black map of Alabama, United States and world, three in one, with a picture of every president from Washington to Roosevelt, all for $1.50.

A NEW DISCOVERY.

A great improvement, the Dixie Liver Regulator, does not gripe nor sicken, and cures Constipation, Heartburn, Vertigo, Dyspepsia, Kidney troubles and Lazy Liver. For sale by all Dealers and by Shelby Drug Co. Calera, Ala. tf

FOR SALE!

One Poland China Boar, littered July 15, 1904, weight about 350 lbs. Price $20.00.

WANTED—Some one to get out stumps. Will let the contract by the stump or job. Come and figure on it, if you have a stump puller nine-tenths of them could be pulled with ease.

WANTED—A farm hand for the year 1906.

WALTED—Fresh milch cows, the same not to give less than 3 gallons of milk per day. M. J. Barrett,
tf. Thorsby, Ala.

FOR SALE OR RENT!

Land for sale, or to rent. One, two, three and four horse farms; two miles north of Jemison. Call on or address,

J. C. DUBOSE,
tf. Jemison, Ala.

Watson's Magazine
Increase in Price

Beginning with the February (1906) Number, our Magazine will be called WATSON'S MAGAZINE. It will have a handsomer cover. Several new features will be added. The price at bookstores and newsstands will be 15 cents.

To be just to our present subscribers, we have decided to receive renewals and new subscriptions at $1.00 a year up to March 31st, 1906. After that the subscription price will be $1.50 per year.

This is a golden opportunity for those who are not within easy reach of newsstands. If you have never seen the magazine, ask for sample copy, mentioning this paper and address,

TOM WATSON'S MAGAZINE,
tf. 121 West 42d St., New York City.

60 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

We Club With
The New York World
THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION.

Read Wherever the English Language is Spoken

For the autumn season now at hand the most valuable paper to you will be the New York Thrice-a-week world, because it offers you more at the price than any other paper published anywhere in the world.

This is a time of great events. We are having great wars and other changes of a stirring kind are occurring both at home and abroad. The Thrice-a-Week World comes to you every other day, except Sunday, with all the news, fully, accurately and promptly told.

The Thrice-a-Week World is fair in its political reports. You can get the truth from its columns, whether you are Republican or Democrat, and that is what you want.

The Thrice-a-Week World always has a serial story running, and it is always a first-class story by a first-class author. The Thrice-a-Week World publishes better fiction than any other newspaper in the United States. Special attention is also given to markets, and there are many other valuable features.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequaled newspaper and THE UNION together one year for $1.50.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.00. tf.

Store Your Cotton
WITH
MULLINS & DOWNS
Planters Warehouse
Clanton, - Alabama.
Robidoux Scales. Best in the World.

Wouldn't You Like
BETTER WHISKIES FOR LESS MONEY?

than the kind youvl been getting? Then send your orders to us

THE BIG MAIL ORDER HOUSE

The house that sells nothing but the purest goods and guarantees every article it sells. If it's drugs or whiskies you want

WE CUT THE PRICE,

	Our Price.	Regular Price
Shehan's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50	75
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60	1 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65	1 00
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75	1 00
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75	1 00
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	1 25
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00	1 50
Stewart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	2 00
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84	1 50
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1 50
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1 50
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1 50
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00	1 50
Wilson Whiskey	85	1 50
J. M. Atherton bottled in bond	1 00	1 50
Mammoth Cave bottled in bond	1 25	1 75
Old Jordon bottled in bond	1 50	2 00
Green River, the whiskey without a headache	1 00	1 25
Old Shades Mountain Corn	50	75
Old Mountain Due Corn	75	1 00
Old Lincoln County	65	1 00
Old Holland Gin	50	75
Old Crown Gin	75	1 00
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	75
California Sherry or Port	50	75

Mellow Old Liquors and Wines by the Gallon in Jugs.

	Per Gallon		Per Gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.00
Old Mountain Due	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.50
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.00
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club	3.40
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County	2.50
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.00
Old California Port or Sherry	1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.00

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY,
The Big Cut Rate Drug Store
2012 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St. THE BIG STORE, Cor. 2d Ave. and 7th St.

—Is at The Head of The Procession.—

Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Shoes,
FURNITURE,
COFFINS AND BURIAL NECESSITIES.
W. I. MULLINS,
Clanton. Alabama

The Bank Saloon
Calera, Alabama.

Has the finest stock of Whiskies, Wines and Cigars in Central Alabama. Rye Whiskey, by the gallon, from $2.25 to $3.75. All good, but some better than others. Corn Whiskey $2.25 to $3.50 per gallon. Express charges prepaid on all orders of one gallon and upward, where cash accompanies the order, as these prices are absolutely "rock bottom."

XX Rye, pure,..... $2.25 per gallon
AAAA Rye, good,..... 3.75 per gallon
Frisco Rye, fine,..... 3.75 per gallon
Jack Daniel No. 6 finest, 3.75 per gallon

A. Stein, Proprietor.

Downs & Littlejohn,
Clanton, Alabama.
General Merchandise, Corn, Hay, etc.
SHOES
The most for the money in town. Come and see us and we will do you good.

THE BABY

Like a tiny gilnt of light piercing through the dusky gloom
Comes her little laughing face through the shadows of my room.

And my pen forgets its way as it hears her patt'ring tread,
While her prattling treble tones chase the throughts from out my head.

She is queen and I her slave—one who loves her and obeys;
For she rules her world of home with imperious baby ways.

In she dances, calls me "Dear!" turns the pages of my books;
Throws herself upon my knee, takes my pen with laughing looks.

Makes disorder reign supreme, turns my papers upside down;
Draws me cabalistic signs, safe from fear of any frown.

Crumbles all my verses up, pleased to hear the crackling sound;
Makes them into balls and then—flings them all upon the ground.

Suddenly she flits away, leaving me alone again,
With a warmth about my heart and a brighter, clearer brain.

And although the thoughts return that her coming drove away,
The remembrance of her laugh lingers with me through the day.

And as chances, as I write, I may take a crumpled sheet;
On the which, God knoweth why! I read my fancies twice as sweet.
—Victor Hugo.

HOPELESS ANNETTA.

By PAOLA HONVANI.

"TO what purpose, Luigi, should we bind ourselves," said Annetta Lanza, "since you leave here to-morrow with the owner of the ship, who may trade from port to port for years without trying to return to Leghorn?"

"Because I adore you, Annetta," replied the young sailor, "and I could not sleep if I thought there was a chance of your accepting another man as a lover."

"And suppose I promised to be your wife and married some one else, because you stayed away too long?" asked the girl.

"If you say you will let me become your husband when this voyage is over, I will trust you," he answered.

"I promise you, Luigi," she said. "Mind that you are as careful of this engagement as I shall be."

Annetta was not the only girl in Leghorn whom Luigi might have addressed in a similar strain, with the like result. The handsome young sailor, with his piercing black eyes, aquiline nose and delicately drawn mouth, whose smile displayed two rows of perfect teeth, was the idol of the peasant girls of Leghorn, and many a one gave Annetta an evil look as they saw her affectionate parting from Luigi the next day.

But it was not an engagement for which Annetta needed to be much envied. Trading from port to port, getting rid of one cargo to take in another, and shaping his course according to the information that he might glean as to probable markets, the skipper knew no better than his crew when his voyage would be ended, and his little vessel would anchor once more in Leghorn.

Annetta would not be able to write to her lover while he was away, for the ship's course would depend upon circumstances which could be learned only when they arose. But she had made up her mind and was determined to abide by the consequences. So Annetta gave her farewell kisses to Luigi and saw the Santa Teresa sail away with him, trusting that in time God would bring him back to her. She checked the tears which welled up to her eyes and went home to the little cottage rented by the old woman who had adopted her, for Annetta was an orphan, without a relative in all Italy.

Her life was a simple and easy one while her protectress lived, for the old lady had a small annuity, and in Italy a little money is enough to provide for two women. When it should please Heaven to take her second mother from her she would go back to Volterra, which was her native place, and work at the modeling of the alabaster that is found in the caverns, which had been her occupation before old Marta had come across her and had brought her to Leghorn.

But Annetta was not the girl to anticipate trouble, so she thought nothing of how long old Marta would live; besides, just then she had her mind full of Luigi and his indefinite return from his uncertain cruising. Grief, however, if it need not be forestalled by anticipation, cannot be postponed by indifference.

Six months after Luigi had sailed Annetta found herself without a friend at Leghorn, and compelled to return to Volterra, to earn her living. The little that Marta had left behind her only sufficed for her funeral and for the cost of Annetta's journey to Volterra.

"Giulia," she said to one of her girl acquaintances, "I am leaving Leghorn to-morrow, and I have no means of telling Luigi Filippo where he will find me when he comes back."

"Ah, then Luigi is to marry you after his voyage?" asked Giulia.

"I have promised him," replied Annetta. "Give him this letter; it will tell him that good Donna Marta is in Heaven, and that I have gone back to Volterra to get my living with the alabaster at modeling."

Then Annetta handed her letter to Giulia, who promised to give it to Luigi when he returned to Leghorn.

* * * * * * *

Annetta had been back in Volterra two years, working at her old art, waiting for Luigi to come to her and claim the performance of her promise. She waited and worked, but Luigi did not appear. Her earnings were not large, but she had aptitude for her work, and the dealer who exported the alabaster productions which were the staple of Volterra, gave her constant employment. Thus, with her Italian thrift and simple life, she was able to put away a lira or so every week, to help her lover when he should set up housekeeping.

Time passed, but it did not bring Luigi to her.

One Sunday the priest of the little church that she attended announced a pilgrimage to Pisa. All those whose prayers had not been answered were advised to seek the intercession of the Madonna, whose seven-veiled portrait, styled Santa Maria sotto gli organi because it was originally placed on a pillar under the organ when it was hung in Pisa Cathedral, was an object of great reverence. Annetta thought of her long absent lover, and told herself that all would be well if she knelt before the Madonna's portrait in Pisa Cathedral and prayed for the return of Luigi; so, with her hoarded lire in her pocket, she betook herself, in company with two score other pilgrims, to the city of the leaning tower.

In such expeditions faith is generally at fever heat, and there was hardly a member of the little band who did not believe that the Madonna would answer the prayers made to her.

It seemed as if she had shown her first favors to Annetta, for as she, with fervid thoughts, passed out through the cathedral doors, she came almost into the arms of Luigi Filippo. At least into one of the arms of the handsome young sailor; the other gave support to Annetta's former acquaintance, Giulia.

"Annetta!" he exclaimed, "they told me that you were dead."

"Who told you so?" she asked. "I have been working in Volterra for three years, and no one there could have told you that I had died."

Giulia's cheeks betrayed more than her treachery; the glance which she gave Luigi suggested the motive of it.

Like most Italians of the lower classes, Annetta's nature was both passionate and deceptive, and it was when her anger was most strongly stirred that her duplicity enabled her to control and conceal it.

"And if chance had not brought you—you and Giulia to Pisa—you might have continued to think me dead; that is, if you did not cease to remember me."

She made no reference to the letter she had left with Giulia.

But the latter had not been so false as Annetta supposed. A woman, also named Annetta, who had been employed at some alabaster works at Volterra, had died, and some one who had known her spoke of her death while he lounged about Leghorn, waiting for the steamer that should bear him thence.

So, when Luigi returned from his long voyage, people told him that Annetta was dead—he was already making love to Giulia, and the latter burned the letter of the supposed dead woman, that it might not revive a love which was also dead, and check the passion which the young sailor was just then expressing for herself.

Luigi had saved some money during his prolonged voyage, so when he found himself loving Giulia as he had formerly loved Annetta, he resolved to give up the sea and expend his little hoard upon a farm, cultivating the land as his father had taught him when he was a lad. Thus he had come to Pisa, where his father had lived.

Annetta learned where Luigi and his wife were lodging, and then she bade them good-morning, and turned back into the cathedral to kneel once more before the picture of the Madonna with its seven veils. But this time her prayer was not for love, but for hate.

"Grant me," she implored, "grant me a vengeance for my wrongs. Let me punish this false woman who tells my lover that I am dead, and who keeps back the letter that I had written to him."

* * * * * * *

A month had passed, and Annetta had had no answer to her last prayers. Luigi had taken a little farm, and would have possession in the autumn, after the vintage, and doubtless he and his young wife would be as happy as Annetta was wretched.

But early in August an epidemic raged in Tuscany, and Pisa had its share of the fever that attacked old and young, rich and poor, with grim equality. Not only was the disease virulent and deadly, but the want of nurses augmented the number of fatal cases. The doctors and priests alike appealed for help, and Annetta, whose little hoard was wasting during her life of idleness, volunteered to nurse the sick. "With such a good work," she thought, "I am bound to have my prayer granted to me."

She had no fear of catching the fever, for life was too bitter for her to give death any terrors. So she went from one patient to another, leaving them when they became convalescent, or when, alas! they died.

One morning, when she went for her orders, she received directions to go to Giulia Filippo, who was down with the fever. Luigi had been previously taken to the hospital, which was too full to receive his wife.

"Are my prayers to be answered?" thought Annetta. "Am I to see the death of the woman who has betrayed my life's happiness?"

She nursed her patient conscientiously, but every hour she was hoping to see signs of her dissolution.

At last the crisis came and passed. The doctor paid his morning's visit, and repeated it later in the day, bringing with him a bottle of medicine.

"All depends upon the patient's sleeping," he explained. "If she does not quiet down by 8 o'clock, give her a quarter of this opiate, and, if necessary, repeat the dose six hours afterward. Be careful not to give her more than the quantity I have named, or the effect will be fatal."

Then he went away and Annetta was alone with the sick woman.

"Then I have nursed her through her illness to restore her to Luigi," she thought. "The woman who has withheld my letter to my lover that she might herself supplant me in his heart."

She turned her back upon the sick woman, for she knew that her eyes would betray her anger.

Then she deliberately poured into a wineglass half the contents of the bottle which the doctor had given to her.

"Annetta," said the patient, "if I should die, will you forgive me for my unfaithfulness to you? Indeed, they said that you had died, and as Luigi seemed to have ceased to care for you, I destroyed your letter, that it should not revive his love."

"Ah, well, sleep, my dear, and all will be right," said Annetta, soothingly.

Giulia hardly needed her nurse's instruction, for nature was bringing the rest that was to accomplish her recovery.

Annetta looked at her patient as she sank to slumber. "She has acted as most girls would have done, perhaps as I should have acted in her place," she thought. "Luigi had forgotten me, and accepted willingly anyone's word that told him the welcome news that I was dead. It is such a good solution of a trouble, to kill the object of a passion already expired. Giulia will live; why should I not die? Santa Maria pity me: pray for me."

Then she swallowed the opiate which she had poured out for her patient, and sank upon the couch on which she was to pass from life to death. When the doctor made his early call the next morning, Annetta had gone to her long sleep.

"We have lost a good nurse," he said; "it is fortunate that she lived long enough to preserve her patient."
—New York Weekly.

Western Mining.

The cynic's argument that success in most cases is but due to a succession of fortunate blunders would seem to be more often exemplified in mining for the precious metals than in any other field of the world's work.

"Go and dig there!" advised a facetious miner, thinking to play a joke on the confiding tenderfoot who had asked where he would better begin his mining.

He pointed as he spoke to a crumbling prospect hole, long before abandoned as ground utterly barren. But to the eyes of inexperience one spot looked as promising as another, and the young fellow promptly lent himself to the unguessed humor of the situation, with the result that in less than a day's work he had uncovered one of the richest veins of tellurium ever opened in that camp.

He was still so ignorant of what he had found that when another practical joker offered to sink the shaft forty feet for a half interest in the claim the opportunity to relieve a pair of blistered palms was hailed at a godsend. Yet, that forty feet of sinking paid something like $50,000, while, first and last, the great Melvina mine of Boulder County, Col., has yielded close to $700,000.—Mary E. Stickney, in Sunset Magazine.

Presence of Mind.

Dr. Sophronia Fletcher, in a criticism of a somewhat emotional and bombastic character, said the other day:

"This gentleman reminds me of a friend of mine, a woman, now dead these many years.

"The woman, with a tragic air, rushed up stairs one day and cried to her maid:

"'Celeste, put my curling irons in the fire at once. James has been bitten by a mad dog.'

"'Ah, brave madame!' said Celeste. 'Madame is going to cauterize the wound.'

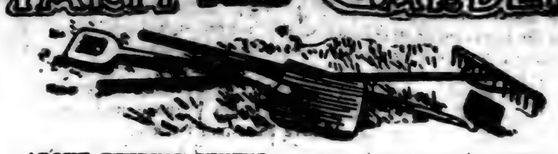
"'No,' said the lady. 'But I'm going to curl my hair so I can run for the doctor.'"—Kansas City Independent.

Paris Mortality.

Dr. Lowenthal, one of the highest scientific authorities in France, has presented to the Academy of Medicine a startling report on the sanitary condition of Paris.

Taking the figures for tuberculosis, he shows that the mortality from this cause is three times greater in Paris than in Berlin; the mortality from typhoid fever nearly eight times greater, and that from smallpox 350 times greater!

FARM AND GARDEN



ABOUT FEEDING STUFFS.

A certain part of every feeding stuff is indigestible and passes through the body into the dung without doing anything to sustain the animal, according to the Connecticut experiment station. The value of a commercial feed rests wholly in that portion of it which the animal can, under favorable conditions, digest or appropriate and make a part of itself. Some animals have greater power of digestion than others, and the amount of any ingredient, protein, fat or fiber, digested by a given animal depends much on the proportion of other ingredients which are fed along with it. Thus, if starchy matter is fed in too large proportion, a considerable part of it will pass into the dung and be wasted. But fed in proper fashion over 90 per cent. of it may be taken up by the body and nourish it.

A well-managed dairy farm should produce all the coarse fodder—in the form of corn fodder, or stover, hay and ensilage—which is needed for the stock, and, excepting under unusual conditions, should also supply an abundance of starchy food, such as corn meal and in some cases oats and barley, for feeding purposes.

These the farmer should be able to produce in abundance.

But in order to feed them without waste and also to supply a deficiency in them it is almost always advisable or necessary in the absence of clover, alfalfa or other leguminous crops, to buy feeds rich in digestible protein—considerably richer in it than cornmeal.

Ready mixed feeds, made of a number of by-products or factory wastes, may wisely be let alone, unless the buyer can see for himself out of just what raw material the mixture is being prepared. Low grade, damaged corn, shriveled wheat, peanut refuse and wheat screenings consisting largely of weed seeds are not infrequently found in such feeds by careful examination, but are not easy for the buyer himself to recognize.

LIVE STOCK NOTES.

Sheep are enemies to the Texas fever tick.

Bran and skim milk are hard to beat for making pigs grow.

It is most unwise to neglect young stock during bad weather.

Do not hope for a sow to raise well more pigs than she has milkgiving teats.

Sheep do not like a dark, warm barn and will not eat well or thrive in such a place.

For the development of strong lambs let ewes have an abundance of exercise daily.

Making pea hay on the farm will aid the soil and help make sheep raising a success.

Sheep do not need warm quarters, but should have plenty of light and a lack of moisture.

Supply all live stock with an abundance of shade. Be especially careful of this when hogs are concerned.

For pigs, as for other young stock, sufficient exercise to produce good digestion will favor rapid development.

Wood ashes with a little salt in them will be helpful to hogs and may be placed where hogs can help themselves.

Live stock is more cheaply produced in the proportion that it is grown on grass. Aim to use grain only for finishing off.

In feeding pigs have the troughs large enough to let all get to the feed at the same time. This will prevent the weaker ones being shoved aside and deprived of food.

Those who desire to get into stock raising and have little money to work with may well start with hogs, since they will produce returns more quickly than other kinds of stock.

Prevent the sows from eating their pigs by beginning two or three months before the pigs are born; and have the sows in a perfectly healthy condition when the pigs come. Aim at prevention, rather than cure.

HOG ROOTINGS.

The season of short ribs and fresh sausage is again with us, the genuine and not the "embalmed" kind.

It is too early for the general killing, but fresh pork tastes fine when the "frost is on the punkin."

A timber lot is a good place for hogs at this season when the nuts are falling.

Hogs must not be too fat to make the best meat or bring the best price. Lean meat is in the greatest demand, and that means more protein food and less corn. It also means longer time on pasture and shorter in the feeding pen.

The hams from hogs fattened on nuts have a delicious flavor that cannot be equaled by any grain fed hogs.

Pigs that have been kept thrifty and growing on nutritious and cooling grasses are in such a healthy condition that they are able to digest large quantities of feed and utilize it to the greatest extent.

A pig, out of a pig, the sire of both being pigs, is much weaker in vitality and the constitutional vigor to withstand disease or hardship than the product of mature parentage, hence the advisability of always selecting the gilts that are desired for brood sows from the litters of mature sires and dams.

Swine, and particularly pigs, will generally manage some way to spill the slop in their haste to get the feed. To prevent this utilize a milk can (an old one answers the purpose), turn it upside down, remove the bottom, and fasten the neck of can to the pig's trough. By pouring the liquid in the reverse opening none will be lost by slopping over on the ground and the pigs cannot reach it.

POINTERS ON CHURNING.

In the separating of cream from milk a vessel of sufficient size should be provided to hold all the cream desired for one churning, says the butter maker at Cornell. By this method a uniform development of acid will take place through the whole mass and will also lessen the loss in the buttermilk which usually follows the mixture of several lots of cream of different degrees of acidity. Upon the addition of any cream to the vessel, it should be thoroughly mixed with that already present.

Usually the addition of from 2 to 5 per cent. of good flavored sour milk, thoroughly mixed with the cream, at least twenty-four hours before it is desired to churn, and the temperature brought up to as near 75 degrees as possible, allowing it to remain at this temperature until a slight coagulation takes place and a silky or mirror-like appearance is present, will usually increase the ease of churning. The temperature should then be lowered to that point where butter will gather in from three-quarters to one and one-quarter hours. The churning temperature may in extreme cases be as high as 68 to 70 degrees.—National Fruit Grower.

THE FIRE ENGINE DRIVER.

There May be Better Drivers on Earth, but if There Are, Where Are They?

Is there a better driver in the world than the man who drives the fire engine? If there is, he is yet to be discovered.

Here was an engine coming along a cross street, to turn up an intersecting avenue. Under the edge of the rounded off corner that the machine was to turn, there was a sewer opening, with the street pavement sloping down smoothly toward it all around from the high level of the street.

If the driver, coming as he was, at a dead gallop, should make a broad turn around this corner out where the street was level, the engine would swing more or less, nothing could prevent that, and check the horses' speed, and there would be a second or two lost before they could get the load straightened again and get under full headway with it once more, up the avenue. But if the driver could make that corner with the two wheels on the inner side of the curve down in that sloping depression leading to the sewer opening close by the curb, and the two outside wheels on the higher level nearer the middle of the street, why, the higher level here would be for the engine what the banked up outer rail is for the locomotive rounding a curve, and making it so he wouldn't lose an inch. And that's the way he did make it.

And before he knew it a man who had been standing at the edge of this corner waiting to see the engine go by saw it so near to him and leaning in so close to him that he could have touched it, while the driver, aloft on his high seat and leaning inward as he was, too, was actually leaning over him as the engine passed, with whistle screaming, and steam hissing, and that driver, as he flung 'em in this fashion round this curve, talking low to his horses and calling on 'em each by name—a man absorbed if there ever was one.

Thinking of nothing else in the world, that driver at this minute, but getting to the fire. The allied Powers might threaten Turkey, Russia might burst at any moment into revolution, it might not yet be settled whether it should be the Straits of Panama or a lock canal—all such questions had no interest for him now, nor was he interested in anything else; what absorbed him now to the exclusion of all else on earth, was the hiking of the old machine from fire house to box 4-11-44 in the shortest possible time, and hadn't he just saved two seconds by the fine work he had done in rounding this corner? And when—it seemed but an instant later that you heard it—you heard the scream of the engine, now far up the avenue, you knew he was getting there. It was great.

There may be somewhere in the world better drivers than the driver of the steam fire engine; but, if there are such, New Yorkers don't know where they can be found.—New York Sun.

It has been suggested in England that motor cars should be provided with cow catchers, and the suggestion is favorably received outside of automobile circles.

Don't ask a girl to marry you after dark when she is dressed fit to kill.

RUSSIAN LOVERS IN TRAG

Pathetic Case of Self-Sacrifice Death of Young Girl.

A striking story of love and sacrifice comes from Krasnoiarsk, Russia. Sergei Palkin, a well-k... post had for several years corresp... ed with an unknown girl, who had ... written to him to express her ad... tion for one of his poems, publish... the Oskolki. This correspond... continued, and so sympathetic and ... telligent were the girl's letters ... in course of time, Palkin felt that ... and none other must be his wife. ... had never seen her, and the dist... between St. Petersburg, where ... lived, and Krasnoiarsk was so g... that over a year elapsed before ... meeting could be arragned. ... month Palkin paid a visit to ... home of his beloved. He set out ... Krasnoiarsk full of hope and expe... tions and, reaching the house of ... unknown bride, he was told that ... ad died but an hour ago. Filled ... anguish, he made his way to ... death-chamber, where, instead of ... blooming girl, he found the corpse ... a diminutive cripple, hunch-back... and malformed. Her face, howe... still wore a strange loveliness, and ... beautiful hair was an ornament ... hich any woman might have ... proud. A letter was waiting for ... He opened it. It was from his br... "Dearest Sergei," it began, "for ov... year I have deceived you. ... thought I was a young and beau... girl, and all might have been well ... you not declared your love for me ... one of your dear letters. Had ... seen me as I am, without loving ... neither of us, perhaps, would ... minded; but when you told me ... you loved me I had not the courag... the heart to tell you of the misha... creature to whom you were writ... To know that I was loved by you ... been everything to me this last g... ious year. I die happy, knowing ... for many months, at least, I was ... chosen bride."—Montreal Herald.

Umbrella Put to Double Use.

A Parisian conceit popular just n... is an umbrella handle having a rou... knob top, which opens, displayi... many aids to the toilet. The kn... opening in the top conceals on t... upper side a tiny mirror. A pow... puff fills the lower hollow of the kn... The whole knob also lifts up and sho... in the handle a receptacle for oran... stick and nail file.

Daisies Follow Railways.

"Buttercups and daisies follow r... roads the world over," said an eng... neer. "In India, in Central Asia, ... Brazil, the parallel rails run conti... ally between meadows white and y... low with home flowers.

"In the construction of all foreig... railways American or English eng... neers have a hand. These men kno... that good home grass is the best thi... for holding together the earth on e... bankments. Grass is tough and la... ing; it strikes root so easily that ... practically cements the most flim... earthworks.

"So grass seed from home is sow... on railway embankments all over t... world by the home engineers helpi... to build them, and thus, in the mo... tropical places, among gorgeous ... chids and palms and giant cacti, y... will see mile after mile of wholeso... clean home grass, studded with wh... daisies and yellow buttercups."

Deep Hole in the Earth.

It took fourteen months to drill ... hole 5,560 feet deep at Doornlo... South Africa, and three eight-ho... shifts were worked daily. At t... depth of 5,000 feet, or nearly a m... it required from three and a half ... four hours to raise the rods from t... deep hole, and almost as long to lo... them after the diamond drill point w... put in order.

Novel Electric Light Shade.

New shades for the electric w... light are made in glass to imitate v... rious kinds of grapes, some in t... greenish-white of the Niagara gra...

...and others in imitation of the redd... variety. The illustration is reproduc... from Interior Decorating Magazi... Each grape consists of hollow gl... with the surface dulled by a sa... blast in imitation of the natu... "bloom" of the fruit. The vario... bulbs are strung on wire, and group... naturally in the shape of a clus... while the leaves are carried out ... verdi bronze.

CUT OUT THIS CAN AND SAVE IT. TH... BOOK FOR VALUABLE ARTICLES. SE... EACH CAN. Address: THE DEPARTMENT ... THE SOUTHERN MFG. CO. Richmond, Va.

This is the "can" coupon found on back of each can of genuine Good Luck Baking Powder. Each coupon counts for a fine premium.

...ere is room in Western Canada ...0,000 miles of railway.

...Cancer, Blood Poison and Scrofula. ...you have blood poison producing ...ions, pimples, ulcers, swollen glands, ...s and risings, burning, itching skin, ...-colored spots or rash on the skin, ...ous patches in mouth or throat, fall... hair, bone pains, old rheumatism or ...atarrh, take Botanic Blood Balm (B. ...) It kills the poison in the blood; ...all sores, eruptions heal, hard swell... subside, aches and pains stop and a ...ct cure is made of the worst cases of ...d Poison. ...cancers, tumors, swellings, eating ..., ugly ulcers, persistent pimples of all ..., take B. B. B. It destroys the can... poison in the blood, heals cancer of all ..., cures the worst humors or sup... ting swellings. Thousands cured by ... B. after all else fails. B. B. B. ...osed of pure botanic ingredients. Im... es the digestion, makes the blood pure ...rich, stops the awful itching and all ..., shooting pains. Thoroughly tested ...irty years. Druggists, $1 per bottle, ... complete directions for home cure ...le free and prepaid by writing Blood ... Co., Atlanta, Ga. Describe trouble ...ree medical advice also sent in sealed ...

Highest Railway Bridge.

...notable engineering work is now ...g executed in France, and involves ...construction of a viaduct crossing ...Sioule valley near Vauriat. This ...ture, known as the Fades viaduct ...n completed will be the highest ...ay bridge in the world, the level ...he rails being 434 feet 7 inches ...e the bed of the stream. There ...two granite masonry tower piers ...h are founded on solid rock and ...to a height of 303 feet. These ... standing alone have the appear... of large chimneys, but their func... is to support the three steel spans, ...h have the unusual lengths of ...feet 5 inches for the center span ...378 feet for each of the flanking ...s. The latter connect with ma... y approach spans formed by circu... arches. This bridge differs from ...r structures in the use of masonry ...ead of steel for the center towers, ...the use of lattice girder-deck spans ...ead of the arch construction of ...r masonry or steel, a favorite ...od of crossing such a valley.

...hat becomes of the 390,000,000 ... of coal a year now produced in ... United States? Railroads, iron ... steel mills and manufactories are ...largest consumers. The annual ...bill of the Pennsylvania railroad ...m in $18,000,000. The domestic ...and increases every year. Coke ... for 40,000,000 tons of coal this

LOST
Through

...he people question the statement ...coffee hurts the delicate nerves of ...body. Personal experience will ...ands prove the general statemen... and physicians have records of ...numbers of cases that add to the ...mony.

...following is from the Rockford ...Register-Gazette:

William Langhorst, of Aurora ...een treating one of the queerest ... of lost eyesight ever in history. ...patient is O. A. Leach, of Bench ...y, and in the last four months he ...sulted with all of the specialists ... the country, and has at last re... d home with the fact impressed ... mind that his case is incurable. ...portion of the optic nerve has bec... d, rendering his sight so limited ...he is unable to see anything be... him, but he can see plainly any... at the side of him. There hav

RUSSIAN LOVERS IN TRAC

Pathetic Case of Self-Sacrific Death of Young Girl.

A striking story of love and sacrifice comes from Krasnoiarsk, Russia. Sergei Palkin, a well-k post had for several years corresp ed with an unknown girl, who had written to him to express her ad tion for one of his poems, publish the Oskolki. This correspond continued, and so sympathetic and telligent were the girl's letters th in course of time, Palkin felt that and none other must be his wife. had never seen her, and the dist between St. Petersburg, where lived, and Krasnoiarsk was so gr that over a year elapsed before meeting could be arragned. month Palkin paid a visit to home of his beloved. He set out Krasnoiarsk full of hope and expe tions and, reaching the house of unknown bride, he was told that ad died but an hour ago. Filled w anguish, he made his way to death-chamber, where, instead of blooming girl, he found the corpse a diminutive cripple, hunch-back and malformed. Her face, howev still wore a strange loveliness, and beautiful hair was an ornament which any woman might have be proud. A letter was waiting for h He opened it. It was from his bri "Dearest Sergei," it began, "for over year I have deceived you. Y thought I was a young and beauti girl, and all might have been well you not declared your love for me one of your dear letters. Had y seen me as I am, without loving neither of us, perhaps, would ha minded; but when you told me th you loved me I had not the courage the heart to tell you of the mishap creature to whom you were writi To know that I was loved by you h been everything to me this last gl lous year. I die happy, knowing th for many months, at least, I was yo chosen bride."—Montreal Herald.

Umbrella Put to Double Use.

A Parisian conceit popular just no is an umbrella handle having a roun knob top which opens, displayin many aids to the toilet. The kno opening in the top conceals on th upper side a tiny mirror. A powde puff fills the lower hollow of the kno The whole knob also lifts up and show in the handle a receptacle for orang stick and nail file.

Daisies Follow Railways.

"Buttercups and daisies follow rai roads the world over," said an eng neer. "In India, in Central Asia, Brazil, the parallel rails run contin ally between meadows white and yel low with home flowers.

"In the construction of all foreig railways American or English eng neers have a hand. These men know that good home grass is the best thi for holding together the earth on em bankments. Grass is tough and last ing; it strikes root so easily that practically cements the most flimsy earthworks.

"So grass seed from home is sow on railway embankments all over th world by the home engineers helpin to build them, and thus, in the mos tropical places, among gorgeous or chids and palms and giant cacti, yo will see mile after mile of wholesom clean home grass, studded with whit daisies and yellow buttercups."

Deep Hole in the Earth.

It took fourteen months to drill hole 5,560 feet deep at Doornloo South Africa, and three eight-hou shifts were worked daily. At th depth of 5,000 feet, or nearly a mil it required from three and a half four hours to raise the rods from th deep hole, and almost as long to low them after the diamond drill point w put in order.

Novel Electric Light Shade.

New shades for the electric wa light are made in glass to imitate v rious kinds of grapes, some in th greenish-white of the Niagara grap and others in imitation of the reddi variety. The illustration is reproduce from Interior Decorating Magazin Each grape consists of hollow gla with the surface dulled by a sa blast in imitation of the natu "bloom" of the fruit. The vari bulbs are strung on wire, and grou naturally in the shape of a clus while the leaves are carried out verdi bronze.

This is the "car" coupon found on back of each can of genuine Good Luck Baking Powder. Each coupon counts for a fine premium.

Good Luck Premiums for You

Good Luck Baking Powder is such a great favorite with good cooks that we are shipping it to grocers in car load lots. This means a big saving to us. Now, to show our appreciation and still further increase the sales, we are dividing this car-load saving with you in the form of desirable premiums, all absolutely free if you use

GOOD LUCK
Baking Powder

These articles are carefully selected, and you are sure to find something to please you. All are illustrated in the Gift Book, found inside each can. It also tells you how many coupons it will take to get the premium you choose.

Good Luck Baking Powder is the best obtainable at any price, because strictly pure and always reliable.

The low price, 10 cents for a pound can, is made possible by the enormous sales, and the premiums are offered merely as an inducement to new purchasers, the cost of same being covered by lower cost of shipment in car lots.

If your grocer hasn't Good Luck, please send us his name.

THE SOUTHERN MFG. CO.,
Richmond, Va.

WIFE CUTS HIS HAIR

Aged Millionaire Keeps to the Custom of His Poverty Days.

Over in Brooklyn there lives a millionaire well along in years, with a wife from whom also youth has long since fled. From the old days before wealth came to them the couple retain one custom which has passed, as the years have flown, into a sort of sacred rite. The old lady cuts the old gentleman's hair. Once a year the millionaire goes to a barber shop and has his scanty locks trimmed. That sets the style for the ensuing year. When he comes home the wife carefully studies the cut, and after that it is her work of love to reproduce it until another year rolls around and the annual visit to the barber takes place. The old gentleman also shaves himself.

Economy in the matter of barbering, which was first a matter of stern necessity, is now the one little thing that the couple refuse to give up out of the days of poverty. As they are a childless couple, there is nobody to hector the old man into engaging a valet. Really the old man has his hair cut more often than is necessary, for sometimes when the worries of wealth and social duties are more than ordinarily oppressive the good wife will say: "Come, dear—come up to my room. I want to cut your hair." And while the scissors snip the old couple laughingly go back to the old happy days of youth and struggle once more.—New York Press.

WISE WORDS.

Count your mercies and you discount your miseries.

Little kindnesses come back to us full grown.

It's never hard to believe in the gratitude that gives.

The healthy heart can always find some happiness.

The review of the past often gives a new view of the present.

He who finds no cause for gratitude probably causes none.

The best appreciation of God's bounty is seen in our liberality.

The wisest man is he who knows how big a fool he can be without trying.

It is the man who fears to soil his hands who will worry least about his heart.

Friendship.

"When acquaintanceship ripens into friendship, something serious has come into one's life," writes Mrs. Henry Graham in the Onlooker. "I don't think that anyone can or ought to afford to have more than one or two really intimate friends. If love has gone with friendship—that is, if the gates of paradise have been opened to you, and the guardian angel has sheathed his flaming sword and admitted you through the portals—then you must have given everything, and you have very little left to give. A man can have a man friend and a woman a woman, because there are places where men meet men and women meet women alone, neutral ground where the other sex cannot enter because of its limitations, and there real friendship may live and thrive on the crumbs which fall from the rich man's table.

"For friendship implies something serious. You must give of yourself, your real self, and once given it cannot be taken back. One has no right to give up a friendship unless the other person agrees or unless it has become an absolute impossibility, and even then all the obligations of it may survive, while the delights of it die."

A Wreck Expert.

"I have taken part as a representative of the insurance underwriters in the investigation of 400 shipwrecks. Most of these wrecks are due to running aground. The causes of wrecks are drink, fogs, neglect to use the sounding-lead and unknown currents."

The speaker was a bronzed ex-skipper. He went on:

"The most dangerous waters lie off the east coast of England, Cape Ushant and Cape Finistere.

"In the past the shifting of the cargo caused a good many wrecks, but the adoption of feed-pipes has changed all that. Cargoes liable to shift consist of wheat, iron ore, coal and so on. Great feed-pipes, filled part of each cargoes, now rundown into the hold, and if the cargo shifts at all the pipes automatically pour more cargo into the space that has been made vacant.

"Off a wild part of the South American coast a four-master loaded with high-heeled French shoes was once wrecked. The native Indians stole the shoes, but couldn't wear them. They used them instead for boxing-gloves, giving each other terrific taps with the French heels."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Washing Linens.

A firm of linen manufacturers gives some useful hints for washing table and other linens. They advise the best of washing soaps, to begin with. Soaps full of alkali discolor linen. It is better to wring linen by hand, or at least have the rollers of the wringer fairly loose. Be sure that the rinsing process is thorough. A great improvement in doing up linen is this stock: Dissolve one ounce of gum arabic in half a pint of warm water. Add one tablespoonful of the solution to a quart of water and wring out the linens in the mixture. A point in the care of towels—admonish the masculine members of the family never to wipe a razor on a towel. The damage done often does not show at the time, but is apparent after the towel is washed.

Rhodes scholars at Oxford University, England, have come to be known there as "Rhodesters."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a positive cure for all those painful ailments of women. It will entirely cure the worst forms of Female Complaints, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements and consequent Spinal Weakness, and is peculiarly adapted to the Change of Life. It will surely cure.

Backache.

It has cured more cases of Female Weakness than any other remedy the world has ever known. It is almost infallible in such cases. It dissolves and expels Tumors in an early stage of development. That

Bearing-down Feeling, causing pain, weight and headache, is instantly relieved and permanently cured by its use. Under all circumstances it acts in harmony with the female system. It corrects Irregularity,

Suppressed or Painful Periods, Weakness of the Stomach, Indigestion, Bloating, Nervous Prostration, Headache, General Debility. Also

Dizziness, Faintness,

Extreme Lassitude, "don't-care" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feeling, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, flatulency, melancholy or the "blues," and backache. These are sure indications of Female Weakness, some derangement of the organs. For

Kidney Complaints

and Backache of either sex the Vegetable Compound is unequalled.

You can write Mrs. Pinkham about yourself in strictest confidence.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM MED. CO., Lynn, Mass.

Two-thirds of Jerusalem's inhabitants are Jews.

BACK OF THE ATKINS SAW

Two centuries of patient and conscientious effort to produce the best Saws in the world.

Ten generations of blood and brains.

The largest plant in the world exclusively devoted to saw-making, employing many hundreds of high-class, high-priced craftsmen and equipped with costly special machinery.

A world-wide business aggregating many millions of dollars every year.

A reputation built up through two centuries of steady growth, valued more highly than any other asset of this great institution.

The guaranty of this Company, which is respected the world over.

We make all types and sizes of saws, but only one grade—the best.

Atkins Saws, Corn Knives, Perfection Floor Scrapers, etc., are sold by all good hardware dealers. Catalogue on request.

E. C. ATKINS & CO., Inc.

Largest Saw Manufacturers in the World.

Factory and Executive Offices, Indianapolis, Indiana.
BRANCHES: New York, Chicago, Minneapolis, Portland, (Oregon), Seattle, San Francisco, Memphis, Atlanta and Toronto, (Canada).

Accept no Substitute—insist on the Atkins Brand

SOLD BY GOOD DEALERS EVERYWHERE

Am. 3, 1906.

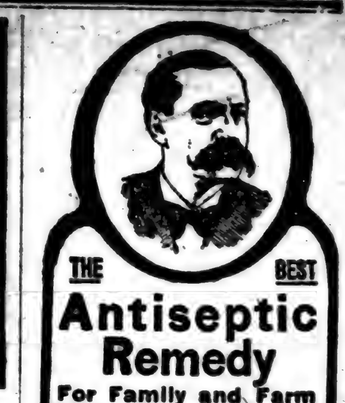
Avery & Company

SUCCESSORS TO
AVERY & McMILLAN,
51-53 South Forsyth St., Atlanta, Ga.
—ALL KINDS OF—
MACHINERY

Reliable Frick Engines, Boilers, all Sizes. Wheat Separators.

BEST IMPROVED SAW MILL ON EARTH.

Large Engines and Boilers supplied promptly. Shingle Mills, Corn Mills, Circular Saws, Saw Teeth, Patent Dogs, Steam Governors, Full line Engines & Mill Supplies. Send for free Catalogue.



Paxtine

THE BEST
Antiseptic Remedy
For Family and Farm
SLOAN'S LINIMENT
KILLS PAIN.
Dr. EARL S. SLOAN,
615 Albany Street, Boston, Mass.

That Delightful Aid to Health

Paxtine
Toilet Antiseptic

Whitens the teeth—purifies mouth and breath—cures nasal catarrh, sore throat, sore eyes, and by direct application cures all inflamed, ulcerated and catarrhal conditions caused by feminine ills.

Paxtine possesses extraordinary cleansing, healing and germicidal qualities unlike anything else. At all druggists. 50 cents

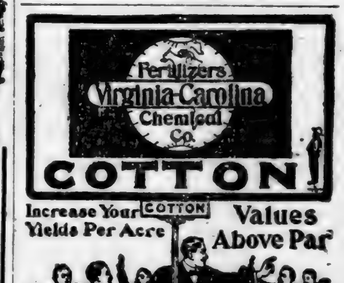
LARGE TRIAL PACKAGE FREE

The R. Paxton Co., Boston, Mass.

COTTON AGENTS WANTED

We desire correspondents in all the smaller towns and villages of the South. Men who can control spot and option business will receive a liberal salary and commission. Established 1870.

Frederick K. Fish, Jr. & Co.,
44 & 46 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.



It is a well known fact that cotton, or any other crop, produced with Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers will bring the highest possible price on the market. Make healthy, strong, well-developed, early cotton, with full grown bolls on the fruit limbs at the base as well as all the way up to the very top and tip ends of the branches of the cotton plants, by liberally using

Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers.

They contain all the materials necessary to supply to your land the elements which have been taken from it by repeated cultivation year after year. These fertilizers will greatly "increase your yields per acre." Accept no substitute from your dealer.

Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co.

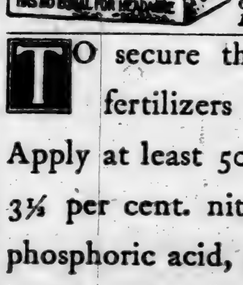
Richmond, Va.	Atlanta, Ga.
Norfolk, Va.	Savannah, Ga.
Durham, N. C.	Montgomery, Ala.
Charleston, S. C.	Memphis, Tenn.
Baltimore, Md.	Shreveport, La.

Dropsy CURED Gives Quick Relief.

Removes all swelling in 8 to 20 days; effects a permanent cure in 30 to 60 days. Trial treatment given free. Nothing can be fairer. Write Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Box B Atlanta, Ga.

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION

PRICE, 25 Cts



ANTI-GRIPINE

IS GUARANTEED TO CURE
GRIP, BAD COLD, HEADACHE AND NEURALGIA.
I won't sell Anti-Gripine to a dealer who won't Guarantee It. Call for your MONEY BACK IF IT DOESN'T CURE.
F. W. Diemer, M.D., Manufacturer, Springfield, Mo.

TO secure the biggest crops of corn, fertilizers must be used liberally. Apply at least 500 pounds to the acre—with 3½ per cent. nitrogen, 8 per cent. available phosphoric acid, and 9 per cent. POTASH.

POTASH is a most important factor in corn culture. Our practical books for farmers are yours for the asking—no cost or obligation of any sort, and a vast fund of invaluable information in them.

Address, GERMAN KALI WORKS,
New York—53 Nassau Street, or Atlanta, Ga.—224½ So. Broad Street.

here is room in Western Canada 50,000 miles of railway.

Cancer, Blood Poison and Scrofula.

you have blood poison producing tions, pimples, ulcers, swollen glands, ps and risings, burning, itching skin, per-colored spots or rash on the skin, ous patches in mouth or throat, fall-hair, bone pains, old rheumatism or catarrh, take Botanic Blood Balm (B. .) It kills the poison in the blood: all sores, eruptions heal, hard swell-subside, aches and pains stop and a fect cure is made of the worst cases of d Poison.

r cancers, tumors, swellings, eating s, ugly ulcers, persistent pimples of all ds, take B. B. B. It destroys the can-poison in the blood, heals cancer of all s, cures the worst humors or sup-ating swellings. Thousands cured by B. B. after all else fails. B. B. B. posed of pure botanic ingredients. Im-es the digestion, makes the blood pure rich, stops the awful itching and all p, shooting pains. Thoroughly tested thirty years. Druggists, $1 per bottle. complete directions for home cure, ple free and prepaid by writing Blood Co., Atlanta, Ga. Describe trouble free medical advice also sent in sealed r.

Highest Railway Bridge.

notable engineering work is now g executed in France, and involves construction of a viaduct crossing Sioule valley near Vauriat. This ucture, known as the Fades viaduct n completed will be the highest way bridge in the world, the level the rails being 434 feet 7 inches ve the bed of the stream. There two granite masonry tower piers ch are founded on solid rock and to a height of 303 feet. These s standing alone have the appear-e of large chimneys, but their func-is to support the three steel spans, ch have the unusual lengths of feet 5 inches for the center span 378 feet for each of the flanking ns. The latter connect with ma-y approach spans formed by circu-arches. This bridge differs from r structures in the use of masonry ead of steel for the center towers, the use of lattice girder-deck spans ead of the arch construction of er masonry or steel, a favorite hod of crossing such a valley.

hat becomes of the 390,000,000 of coal a year now produced in United States? Railroads, iron steel mills and manufactories are largest consumers. The annual bill of the Pennsylvania railroad em is $18,000,000. The domestic and increases every year. Coke for 40,000,000 tons of coal this

Useless 'Varsity Men?

A remarkable appeal for reform of the system of university education is made by the "Granta," the "Punch" of the Cambridge world, which declares that the existing training provided for students fits them for scarcely any useful calling in life.

"Turn to the first Cambridge man you meet," the "Granta" says, "and ask him what he intends to do with himself when he 'goes down,' and he will unhesitatingly reply: 'I haven't the faintest notion.'

"Let us answer the question for him. He will depart from the university, in nine out of ten cases, having gleaned nothing but a most comprehensive knowledge of good and evil.

"He may try several professions, but they are overcrowded, and for any business post his training has eminently unfitted him, so in despair he will accept the position of assistant mathematical master in some private school at a salary of $400 a year, including board and lodging!

"Or, if he be lucky enough to scrape through his 'theological special,' he may in time attain to the eminence of a country parson, with a wife and six children, whom he must feed, clothe and keep on the princely sum of $1,500 per annum.

"The percentage of university men who ever 'do any good in life' is infinitismal. Go to Australia, Africa, China and to the uttermost parts of the earth, and there you will find men of gentle breeding, who have taken their degrees at Oxford and Cambridge, living the lives of laborers, beggars and outcasts.

"Our life up here, at any rate to most of us, gives no time for thought.

"It should be remembered that we are not speaking of the comparatively few men who will plod on steadily to their goal, nor yet of the brilliant butterflies who dazzle our sight for a moment and then disappear from human sight forever, but of the vast majority of men up here who take a third-class in their tripos, and with this cardboard sword in their hands go forth to battle with the stern realities of life."—London Express.

To keep the channels and the bar of the River Mersey at Liverpool at a depth of twenty-seven feet at low water, 9,000,000 tons of sand were dredged from the estuary last year. Since 1890 about 88,000,000 tons have been removed in this way.

The average man's religion unfortunately fits so loosely that it seldom interferes with business.

Itch cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion; never fails. Sold by Druggists. Mail orders promptly filled by Dr. Detchon, Crawfordsville, Ind. $1.

Secretary Taft has traveled 100,000 miles since May 24, 1904.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature on each box. 25c.

Glasgow, Scotland, spends on drink $16,000,000 a year.

Robbed in Church.

Just think what an outrage it is to be robbed of all the benefits of the services by continuous coughing throughout the congregation, when Anti-Gripine is guaranteed to cure. Sold everywhere. 25 cts. F. W. Diemer, M. D., manufacturer, Springfield, Mo.

Chinese students in Japan now number more than 3000.

Old Inn's Secret Chamber.

A secret chamber, furnished in old oak, was unexpectedly discovered during the demolition of the Plough inn, Little Eggland, England. The inn was 500 years old. The grandmother of Dick Turpin, the highwayman, once kept it.

Unlike some round fishes, the flat species keep to the bottom of the sea and move along it, traveling great distances. Records have been obtained showing that plaice have traveled eighty-eight miles in twenty-eight days, or an average of not less than three miles a day.

The Hindoos are boycotting foreign sugar. A leaflet declaring that the sugar is refined with bone dust and ox blood has been distributed broadcast by agitators.

Shooting for five hours at Schloss Moschen lately the kaiser's bag amounted to 1,136 pheasants and hares, representing one killing every 17 seconds.

Chicago shipped the largest single cargo of grain, consisting of 235,000 bushels of corn and 58,000 bushels of barley, aggregating 7,972 tons.

Life may be a burden to most men, but few of us stand ready to cast it off at the call of despair.

There are 12,651,944 Catholics in the United States.

LOST EYESIGHT
Through Coffee Drinking.

ome people question the statements coffee hurts the delicate nerves of body. Personal experience with sands prove the general statement , and physicians have records of t numbers of cases that add to the imony.

e following is from the Rockford, Register-Gazette:

. William Langhorst, of Aurora, been treating one of the queerest e of lost eyesight ever in history. patient is O. A. Leach, of Beach nty, and in the last four months he doctored with all of the specialists t the country, and has at last re-ed home with the fact impressed his mind that his case is incurable. portion of the optic nerve has been ed, rendering his sight so limited he is unable to see anything be-him, but he can see plainly any g at the side of him. There have been but few cases of its kind before, and they have been caused by whisky or tobacco. Leach has never used either, but has been a great coffee drinker, and the specialists have decided that the case has been caused by this. Leach stated himself that for several years he had drank three cups of coffee for breakfast, two at noon and one at night. According to the records of the specialists of this country this is the first case ever caused by the use of coffee.

The nerve is ruined beyond aid and his case is incurable. The fact that makes the case a queer one is that the sight forward has been lost and the side sight has been retained. According to the doctor's statement the young man will have to give up coffee or the rest of his sight will follow and the entire nerve be ruined.—Register Gazette.

Let it be remembered that the eyes may be attacked in one case and the stomach in another, while in others it may be kidneys, heart, bowels or general nervous prostration. The remedy is obvious and should be adopted before too late.

Quit coffee if you know incipient disease.

It is easy if one can have well-boiled Postum Food Coffee to serve for the hot morning beverage. The withdrawal of the old kind of coffee that is doing the harm and the supply of the elements in the Postum, which Nature uses to rebuild the broken down nerve cells, insures a quick return to the old joy of strength and health, and it's well worth while to be able again to "do things" and feel well. There's a reason for

POSTUM

THE PULPIT.

A BRILLIANT SUNDAY SERMON BY THE REV. LUTHER R. DYOTT.

Subject: Sure Foundations.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—The Rev. Luther R. Dyott, pastor of the United Congregational Church, preached Sunday morning on "The Indestructible Foundations." He took his texts from Psalms xi.:3: "If the foundations be destroyed, what can the righteous do?" Hebrews xi:1 (revised version): "Faith is the assurance of things hoped for, the proving of things not seen;" II. Timothy 1:11 (revised version): "I know whom I have believed, and am persuaded that He is able to guard that which I have committed unto Him against that day." Mr. Dyott said:

We seek the solid and safe in the things of the unseen world. This is of supreme importance. Other things in this connection are relatively important. They are to be thought of, and appreciated, and even sought, found and kept. We must have them. Room for the active life of a growing belief is indispensable. A place for the sweet and sustaining comforts of the larger hope of humanity is desirable. The garniture of refined and immortal love is ever to be regarded as more than a mere luxury of the inner life. Other work is important; but only so to a comparative degree.

Tedious and temporary is the task of the theologian. Unsatisfactory is the task of the creed-maker. Small is the task where "jarring sectaries" learn their selfish interest to discern, and, not unfrequently, to become irreligious in the name of religion. Spasmodic the task, and thankless the effort of the iconoclast. Feverish and fitful, though somewhat sensational and imperious, is the task of the scientist. But all who are concerned about building character upon indestructible foundations and are actively engaged in this work, are realizing that which is of supreme importance, as day by day, hour by hour, moment by moment, rises that "house not made with hands." Here we must toil with clear understanding, magnificent courage and untiring patience. Here we must be serious and certain.

It is a fine intimation and a hopeful indication that, in some respects, at least, we are equal to the demands. We do desire foundations which cannot be destroyed. Here we are serious enough when we are serious at all. We do not wish to be deceived with reference to these things. We deliberately prefer not to have our fountains of life poisoned. We object to the destruction of the foundations of belief. Error, falsehood, deceit are bad enough anywhere, but they do the most harm if admitted into the affairs of religion. He who poisons my body may only affect the place where my real life sojourns for a little while, but he who poisons my mind and my soul does me untold harm for eternity. He and I may never be able to make satisfactory repairs of some kinds of destructive work. Most of us think so. We do desire the solid and safe things of the immutable verities of truth which will stand the tests. "If the foundations be destroyed what can the righteous do?"

The strongest emphasis of our times, especially in matters of religion, is being placed upon the demand for the real. Notwithstanding the prevalent superficiality of our age, the quick sales of birth-rights for pottage, the heated passion for pleasure, the gaudy show of those who "glory in appearance and not in heart;" notwithstanding the fact that we are living in "grievous times" when so many are "lovers of self, lovers of money, boastful, haughty, railers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy, without natural affections, implacable, slanderers, without self-control, fierce, no lovers of good, traitors, headstrong, puffed up, lovers of pleasure rather than lovers of God, holding a form of godliness but denying the power thereof;" notwithstanding the fact that in the very church itself, there are certain oscillatory movements calculated to perturb the life of some believers; notwithstanding all these things, and many more, still the underlying current is toward the fuller and freer life, and the immediate and increasing demand in the religious life is of the "assurance of things hoped for, the proving of things not seen," and for that certitude of knowledge which enables the individual believer to stand upon some indestructible foundation and say, "I know whom I have believed, and am persuaded that He is able to guard that which I have committed unto Him against that day."

Good is deeper than evil even in persons who do not profess to be good. The oscillations of belief may be permitted of God Himself, and end in doing much good for the common faith of Christendom. The unsettled condition of certain moods of faith may only reveal at last that there are some things which can not be shaken and must remain. God may be permitting the shaking up in order that we may have the removing of those things that are shaken, as of things that are made, that those things which can not be shaken may remain. Ours has been called an "age of doubt," but the evidence and proof of the claim are not altogether satisfactory. Professor James says: "Our religious life lies more, and our practical life less, than it used to on the perilous edge." But does not the professor attempt to draw a distinction where no distinction belongs?

Is not our religious life, in fact and in fine, a practical life? Are not the most practical deeds in the world born of religion? Good life, good thoughts, good words, good deeds belong to religion whether they be done in this or that church, or bear no ecclesiastical stamp at all. Reality is at a premium in the religion of to-day. Let us believe that the demand for the real, the desire to investigate, the new statements of old truths, the rewriting of some theology, the revising of some creed, the call for a new adjustment of things, do not invariably imply the existence of doubt and the destruction of the foundations of belief. If, indeed, this be doubt, then it is not the kind of doubt that we need to fear. If these things destroy our foundations, it will prove nothing more than that we were on temporary and destructible foundations, when we should have had something better.

King calls our attention to the fact that "just as the acceptance of the principle of the correlation of forces called for a rewriting of physics—a new physics, or the theory of evolution for the rewriting of biology—a new biology, so, in the same sense, the acceptance of certain great convictions of our day calls for a rewriting of theology—a new theology." Call it a new theology if you will, but do not let prejudice blind you to truth, no matter from which direction truth may come. A thing is true not because its statement is old, nor yet because that statement is new, but because it conforms to the great fact, or facts, for which that truth stands. The great fact, or facts, back of the truth and its statements, do not change. Theological statements and systems may change. Some persons may become angry, others frightened, and still others foolishly and flippantly declare that they have no theology; but, in the meantime, theology remains the greatest science in the universe, even the science of God and divine things, based upon a revelation made of God, through Jesus Christ; and that science, itself as such, does not change.

God's foundations are firm amid all the mutations which mark the history of the human race; amid all the storms and shocks; amid all the disintegrating agencies; amid the rise and fall of empires; amid the birth, the growth, maturity, the old age and death of nations; amid things present and things to come, life and death, in spite of everything that may oppose, or assail, belief, character, hope, love, incorruptible life all may have perfectly indestructible foundations. What are some of these foundations? Religious experience; that is an experience of God in the soul of man is an indestructible foundation. Such experience is knowledge derived from fact and abiding in spiritual consciousness. "God is a spirit." Man is a spirit. There is possible contact and communion here. There is the possibility of the best knowledge in the world right here. Fact, evidence, proofs, knowledge, they are all here. Knowledge has found the proof; proof implies the existence of the evidence, evidence implies the existence and reality of the fact, while the primary datum abides in experience.

When a man has a religious experience then he has an indestructible foundation. He cannot then be morally ignorant. He knows something. That which a man sees may deceive him. That which he hears may not always be so, but that which he knows, he knows, and no man can take it from him. He is upon a foundation which cannot be destroyed. Then faith finds her best function in establishing the fact, in dealing in the great unseen realities which are always more than the seen, in giving the "assurance of things hoped for, in proving things not seen." A man cannot subject such an experience to the test of the natural senses. It is too large for such a test as that, but he knows he is right, and he knows he is upon an indestructible foundation. It is not only our knowledge of God. There is another indestructible foundation in His knowledge of us. It is written: "Howbeit the firm foundation of God standeth, having this seal, the Lord knoweth them that are His." He cannot mistake. We could not deceive Him, even though we might deceive others, or be deceived by what we might suppose to be experience, even religious experience, even though we might deceive ourselves, God knows. Of this we are certain. He knows us perfectly. If we are His, He knows it. If we are not His, by the regeneration of the Holy Spirit, we may become His. He will know. He will cause us to know it. "The secret of the Lord is with them that fear Him." He desires it to be there.

Every man has just as much right to know that he is alive spiritually as he does that he is alive physically. This knowledge is brought to us in the witness of God's spirit. Thus it is that we go deeper than religious experience and find another foundation in that firm foundation of God—His knowledge of us. Jesus Christ is another foundation. He is our chief cornerstone. The ideals He holds, His simplicity, His grandeur, His humanity, His Deity, His faith, His love, His life—all combine to make Him the perfectly incomparable one among all religious teachers; and while in a certain profound sense Christ and Christianity are one and inseparable, there is still another sense in which Christ, as our foundation, is more than Christianity, even as the sun is more than the multitudinous rays which fall upon our little portion of the earth; Christ is more than Christianity, as the thinker is more than his thought, as life is more than that which embodies life. We build, as Christians, not upon this or that creed about Christ, but upon Christ Himself. He is our indestructible foundation. Our faith rests at last, not in a creed, though we should all have a creed, and not in a book, though we can never do without the Bible, but in a person, and that person, Christ, places our lives upon God.

Let us resolve to go deeper, deeper. If we are at all unsettled in matters of religion, we should not despair. We can find the solid and the safe. Let us build there. Let us build according to the plans of the Supreme Architect of the universe. Let all build until humanity shall become a temple complete, filled with the light and music of Heaven, filled with the life of God; and then, even though storms may come and the last night fall about us, it will only be the servant of a new day, and we shall be able to say, "I know whom I have believed and am persuaded that He is able to guard that which I have committed unto Him against that day." Our foundations cannot be destroyed. Thank God!

The Talent That Multiplies.

God blesses you that you may be a blessing to others. Then He blesses you also a second time in being a blessing to others. It is the talent that is used that multiplies.

Receiving, unless one gives in turn, makes one full and proud and selfish. Give out the best of your life in the Master's name for the good of others. Lend a hand to every one who needs. Be ready to serve at any cost those who require your service. Seek to be a blessing to every one who comes for but a moment under your influence. This is to be angel-like. It is to be God-like. It is to be Christ-like. We are in this world to be useful. God wants to pass His gifts and blessings through us to others. When we fail as His messengers, we fail of our mission.—Scottish Reformer.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR JANUARY 21.

Subject: The Boy Jesus, Luke ii., 40-52—Golden Text, Luke ii., 52—Memory Verse, 51—Topic: The Boy Jesus a Pattern For Youth—Commentary.

I. The growth and advancement of Jesus (vs. 40, 52). 40. "The child grew." From this verse and verse 52 we learn that Jesus had a human body and soul. He was a genuine boy and grew like other boys, but He was sinless. Evil had no place in Him. "Waxed." An old English word for grew. "Strong in spirit." "In spirit" is omitted in the Revised Version, but spiritual strength is meant. He became strong in mind and understanding. "Filled with wisdom." He was eminent for wisdom even when a child. "Grace of God." Grace commonly means favor. God was pleased with Him and showed Him favor and blessed Him.

52. "Increased in wisdom." This refers to His spiritual and intellectual development. Some one has said that "wisdom is knowledge made our own and properly applied." "And stature." There could be no increase in the perfection of His divine nature, but this is spoken of His human nature. His body increased in stature and His soul developed in divine things. "Favor with God." Though His entire being was in the favor of God, yet as that being increased in amount, the amount of favor increased proportionately. "And man." His character and life were beautiful and the better He became known the more He was admired.

II. Jesus at the Passover (vs. 41, 42). 41. "Went—every year." The Passover was one of the three great Jewish feasts which all males over twelve years of age were required to attend.

42. "Twelve years old." To a boy who had never been outside the hills of Nazareth, the journey to Jerusalem, the appearance of the city at this time, a sight of the temple, the preparations for the feast and especially the feast itself, must have been an imposing sight.

III. Jesus lost and found (vs. 43-46). 43. "Fulfilled the days." The Passover week (Exod. 12:15). "Tarried behind." Jesus was so intensely interested in the teaching of the rabbis that He failed to start with the caravan on the homeward journey. "Knew not of it." This shows the perfect confidence they had in the boy.

44. "In the company." The people traveled in caravans. Jesus evidently had been allowed a more than usual amount of liberty of action, as a child, by parents who had never known Him to transgress their commandments or be guilty of a sinful or foolish deed. 45. "Found Him not." They had probably left in the night to avoid the heat of the day, and in the confusion Jesus was lost.

46. "After three days." An idiom for "on the third day;" one day for their departure, one for their return and one for the search. "They found Him." Jerusalem was overcrowded with millions of people packed into a small area, and they had none of the means to which we would at once look for assistance in searching for a lost child in a great city. "In the temple." Joseph and Mary evidently knew where they would be most likely to find Him. Jesus was probably in one of the porches of the court of the women, where the schools of the rabbis were held. "In the midst of the doctors." Teachers of the law, Jewish rabbis. "Hearing—asking." But it is not said teaching or disputing. He sat not as a doctor, but as an inquirer among the doctors.

IV. Jesus astonishes His hearers (vs. 47-50).

47. "Astonished." The Greek word is very forcible. The import is that they were in a transport of astonishment and struck with admiration. "At His understanding." He brought with Him a clear knowledge of God's word. 48. "Amazed." To see such honor given to their boy, and to see such boldness in holding a discussion with these learned men. "Why," etc. This was the mildest sort of a reproof and probably given privately. "Thy father." This form of speech was necessary, for how else could she speak? "Sought Thee sorrowing." The word here rendered sorrowing is expressive of great anguish.

49. "How is it that ye sought Me?" This is no reproachful question. It is asked in all the simplicity and boldness of holy childhood. He is apparently astonished that He should have been sought, or even thought of, anywhere else than in the only place which He felt to be properly His home. "Wist." Know. "About My Father's business." See R. V. "In My Father's house" unnecessarily narrows the fulness of the expression. Better; in the things or affairs of My Father, in that which belongs to His honor and glory. These bear with them the stamp of authenticity in their perfect mixture of dignity and humility. It is remarkable, too, that He does not accept the phrase "Thy Father" which Mary had employed. 50. "Understood not." They did not understand His mission.

V. Jesus subject to His parents (v. 51). 51. "Went down with them." If His heart drew Him to the temple, the voice of duty called Him back to Galilee; and, perfect, even in childhood, He yielded implicit obedience to this voice. "To Nazareth." Here He remained eighteen years longer. These were years of growth and preparation for His great life work. "Was subject unto them." There is something wonderful beyond measure in the thought of Him unto whom all things are subject submitting to earthly parents. "In her heart." Expecting that hereafter they would be explained to her and she would understand them fully.

The Trouble With France.

Advices from Berlin, Germany, say that in both Government and business circles the danger of serious trouble with France is considered impossible.

Moscow Laid Waste.

Moscow was damaged $7,500,000 by the uprising, a square mile being laid in ruins.

New York's Improvements.

New York City will make improvements this year to cost $50,000,000.

KILLED IN A LANDSLIDE

Over a Score of People at Haverstraw, N. Y., Perish.

ENGULFED IN GREAT BRICK PIT

Brickmakers Are Held Responsible Because of Their Encroachments—Fire and Water Added to the Horrors of the Awful Night of Terror—Fire Department Helpless.

Haverstraw, N. Y.—The bodies of twenty-two persons were buried under thousands of tons of clay and quicksand as a result of a disaster which overwhelmed the northeastern part of this village at night.

Rockland street, for a distance of five city blocks, was swept into an abyss caused by the settling of the clay bank upon which it stood. This for years had been steadily undermined by the brickmakers, whose yards are down the valley. The brickmakers, however, are expected to profit from the slide, as $200,000 worth of clay was dumped into their pits.

The whole town is built on a huge clay-bank, and the principal industry of the place is brickmaking. The top layer of ground is sand about thirty feet deep. Then comes a stratum of fairly soft clay, such as is used for brickmaking. This is about forty feet thick. Beneath this is a soft, blue sand mixed with clay, of the consistency of mortar and about thirty feet thick.

For years the brickmakers had been digging away at the clay bank below Rockland street in such a manner that they had practically undermined that part of the village above.

The lowest stratum of soft clay and sand slid out, and the tons of clay and sand above settled straight down. At the same time the soft mass of clay and sand lowest down rose up like a great geyser, and, falling, settled over the entombed part of the village.

A great fissure was seen in the ground at the end of Rockland street at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Warning was quickly sent around that the clay bank was settling. Some persons left their houses and went to another part of the village. Cave-ins had occurred before, but never so close to the residential section.

Into the chasm were swept thirteen houses, only one of which stands today, 200 feet away and 150 feet down into the pit. This was the only one of the thirteen that was vacant. That the landslide occurred in three distinct parts, about fifteen minutes apart, accounts for the fact that the lives lost are not counted in hundreds.

Now a dozen houses, from which the tenants have fled, are standing on the brink of the abrupt declivity into which they will sink with other slides which are bound to come. For three blocks around the danger zone houses have been deserted. The ground is honeycombed with great fissures, and bits of the bank break away every few minutes.

There was a consultation among the people living at the edge of the bank. They agreed that there could be no danger while the mass below was frozen, but that it would be a dangerous section should a thaw occur.

Most of the people in the neighborhood were awakened at 10.50 o'clock by a loud rushing sound like the incoming of a huge wave as the soft clay slid out.

Three houses began to settle. The first to go was a boarding house run by Mrs. Foley. John Burke awoke to see the sky through a great rent in the roof above him. He ran to a window and jumped, almost into the arms of Mrs. Foley, who had run out the front door. They raced away just as the house, turning completely over, went crashing into the pit. With this house were engulfed two Hungarians and a Swede. The experiences of others was similar.

Directly after the first crash the alarm bell on the Town Hall was rung and this brought Mayor Wilson P. Foss and the Fire Department to the scene. By the time the department arrived the wreckage was a mass of flames.

The overturned stoves in the houses set fire to them, and flames shot out from broken gas pipes. Sparks and burning brands were carried on the stiff breeze that blew from the river directly over the village. But for the snow that lay deep on the roofs of the frame houses the whole village might have been burned.

The firemen stood aghast when they discovered that in the landslide the water main supplying that part of the town had been carried away, and from its broken edges tons of water were pouring down over the clay pits. It was manifestly impossible to use the apparatus under the conditions, and after some delay the water was turned off in that main and a line of hose laid up to Broadway. Soon the Garnersville department from five miles away reached the scene, and, taking the affair out of the hands of the local department, saved the city.

Among the dead are: Joseph Albert, Mrs. Joseph Daley, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Manion, Mr. and Mrs. William Cohen, Michael Barry, H. Nelson, Benjamin Nelson, his son; Mrs. Silverman and her baby, Rabbi Aligen, an unknown Jewish man, the Protich family of three, Bartley McGovern, Abraham Dias, William Hughes and John Bonnet.

War Risks on Grain.

War risks are being placed on grain contracts in Berlin, Germany, owing to alarm over the Moroccan situation.

New York.—A Pittsburg dispatch says that the Pittsburg Leader has been bought by H. C. Frick and Andrew W. Mellon. The price is said to have been $1,250,000.

During the month of September only one American was naturalized in Great Britain.

Thorsby, Alabam

Business Directory.

Commercial Club
OF THORSBY
DEFINITE and RELIABLE information furnished to parties who desire to locate in the South.

A. M. Johnson
Groceries and Delicatessen

J. J. STANLEY
GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

MRS. MARY R. RASBERRY
General Merchandise.

E. H. Adams
General Merchandise.

J. R. PARNELL
General Merchandise.

"MOLINE" Farming Implements and "FLORENCE" Wagons in stock at all times.
J. K. ORR SHOES.

J. L. FOSS
Meat Market.

The Thorsby Inn
G. C. Michelson, Prop.
Good Beds and Meals.

Harkness Pays Fortune For Home.

Los Angeles, Cal.—The announcement has been made of the sale of the beautiful home site in Pasadena, known as "Carmelita," to L. V. Harkness, the Standard oil magnate. The consideration was $180,000.

OLAF SCHI
Watchmaker
And Jeweler
Horn's Drug St
Full assortment of Watches elry, etc. All repair work anteed.

Thorsby Wine
—Co.—
Lofthus & Bromberg, P

A. HORN
Drugs, Stationery and Articles.
LICENSED PHARMAC

City Bake
BREAD, CAKES
PIES
of all kinds, fresh every
K. A. EKBLA

A Langville & S
BLACKSMITHS
and
HORSESHOERS
Dealers in
WAGONS and BUGG

C. L. Forsma
Brick Yard.

J. BICE
Charcoal Ovens.

Hebrews Held Responsible.

According to special cable dispatches from Riga, Russia, the young Hebrews are held responsible for the revolutions which have devastated the Province of Courland.

New Plans of the P. R. R.

Plans of the Pennsylvania Railroad provide for a terminal in Harrison, N. J., and electric transportation to Herald Square, New York City, in fifteen minutes.

GIRLS FIGHT FATAL DU

Rivals in Mexico City Use Kn
One Dying, Other Arrested.

Mexico City, Mexico. — Two Nicholasa Elizalde and Fra Fuente, rivals in love, decided to their differences by a duel. They in a field in the suburbs of the and fought with knives.

The Elizalde girl was stabbed times and fatally injured. The duelist has been arrested.

Average Humanity.

By Augustine Birrell.

WHAT do we mean by a good man or a bad one, a good woman bad one? Most people, like the young man in the song, are very good, nor yet very bad." We move about the pastur life in huge herds, and all do the same things at the same and for the same reason. "Forty feeding like one." Are we Well, we have done some mean things in our time. Are we ous? Occasionally we are. Were we good sons or daughters? We have both honored and dishonored our parents, who in turn had done the same by theirs. Do we melt at the sight of misery deed we do. Do we forget all about it when we have turned the corner quently that is so. Do we expect to be put to open shame at the great judgment? We should be terribly frightened of this did we not cling hope that amid the shocking revelations then for the first time made publ little affairs may fail to attract much attention.

Judged by the standards of humanity, few people are either good or have not been a great sinner," said the dying Nelson; nor had he—he has been made a great fool of by a woman. Mankind is all tarred with the brush, though some who chance to be operated upon when the brush is from the barrel get more than their share of the tar. The biography of brated man usually reminds me of the outside of a coastguardsman's co all tar and whitewash.

Love on Earth and in Heav

By Julian Hawthorne.

THE difference between love on earth and love in heaven is be conveyed in words; but in tranquil and pure moods even on earth, be apprehended by the sight of the spirit. heaven has realized all that earthly love aspires to; and fro goal its progress begins, never to cease. The sky toward it yearned in the world has become the ground on wh stands here; but now another sky is above it. We heaven as repose and peace, the fulfilling of the heart's desire. the presence with us of beauty and happiness. But man is not so poorly We leave behind us on earth the obstacles of the body, and in heaven bor not for bread, raiment, and shelter; hearts are not parted by space we deceive not, strive not one against the other, scheme not to outdo for the gain of our own name and fame. Yet in heaven are labor, ambition, love's holy fear, and humility deeper than hell is deep beloh heavens. Tears we have also, and awe of that want which only the div ness can supply.—The Century.

VOL III.

RVARD DROPS FOOTBALL

rseers Put Stop to Intercolle giate Contests.

E, IT IS SAID, WILL FOLLOW

e Must Be Reformed Acceptably Be ard Crimson Players Will Be Allowe Participate—Statements by Pres at Eliot, of Harvard, and Presider utler, of Columbia.

mbridge, Mass.—Football has bee lished at Harvard, pending a refor the game that will be acceptab he Board of Overseers, according official announcement at the un ity. The discontinuance of th e is a result of a vote taken la k at a secret meeting of the ove s, when it was decided that inte giate football at Harvard woul be permitted until the rules an ulations had been so changed an nded as to remove what the ove s regard as the evils of the presen e.

he overseers accepted unanimousl opinions of a special committe t the game as at present played entially bad in every respect, tha methods of formation encourag kery and foul play and that th ult is bad for the morals of th yers as well as for the body. Th mittee declared that if change e to be made no man now a men of the so-called Intercollegiat es Committee should have a han it, the committee believing tha e persons are so far committed present system that they could no e to such changes as are absolutel essary to produce a decent, clea anureable contest, "instead of th ent apology for a rough and tumb t."

resident Eliot, in an interview, sai I for one shall never consent to l collegiate football being resumed rvard until it has been demonstrate actual play that the objectionab tures of the game have been rule . A mere paper reform will no ure my sanction.

Let the game under the new rul played by teams made up entirel our own students, as for instanc two class teams. Then if we fin t the reform is actual and not re paper reform, we will invi er colleges to play with us."

hat Yale is to follow Harvard ted by a representative of Presider holas Murray Butler, of Columbi o said:

You will see Yale taking a simila n in a very short time. The autho s here have information which lead m to believe that Yale is only wai for an opportunity to follow th d of Harvard and Columbia."

he Harvard varsity eleven electe therly Foster, '07, captain of th m for 1906. Foster played left hal k on last year's eleven. His hom n Brookline, Mass.

MARSHALL FIELD DEAD.

h Chicago Merchant Succumbs Pneumonia in New York City.

ew York City.—Marshall Field, icago, the richest merchant in th rld, the largest individual taxpay the United States, and, perhaps, th rd wealthiest citizen in the country d at 4 o'clock in the afternoon Holland House of exhaustion fo ing pneumonia. Nearly all of th nt merchant's relatives and friend re with or near him when the en e. Not long before his death h ed into a state of coma, and r ined unconscious to the end.

r. Field had been ill about seve s. He had caught cold playing go Chicago week before last, and th e added to by the draughts incide to his trip to this city.

hough the fact that he started journey while not in the best lth, despite his seventy years, ga to the belief that something ver ssing had summoned him to Ne k, close questioning of his friend ealed nothing more important as t ect of his journey than the desire the automobile shows.

PHILIPPINE BILL PASSES.

e 258 to 72—Republican Insurgen Number 57.

ashington, D. C.—The House pass Philippine Tariff bill by a vote to 72, after a long day of roug -tumble argument over amen nts.

he insurrection of the beet sug tobacco Republicans resulted 57 votes against it, the Democra plying the other 15. On the vo upset the ruling of the Chair insurgents hurried back to the re ation. The Statehood insurgen not singing so loudly now, b declare that they will have a d nt showing on their vote, becau that they can count on Democrat port all the way.

ONTE CRISTI CAPITULATES.

ales' Gunboat Also Surrenders a the Revolt is Ended.

anto Domingo.—The port of Mon ti, on the north coast, which h ently been in the hands of the re onists, capitulated to the Gover t forces, the latter guaranteeing ect the lives and property of t ple.

he gunboat Independencia, whi ported General Morales, also su dered after her commander h ht refuge on one of the Americ ships.

he revolution is ended and all

, Alabam
Directory.

OLAF SCHIV
Watchmaker
And Jeweler
Horn's Drug St
Full assortment of Watches,
elry, etc. All repair work
anteed. . . .

Thorsby Wine
—Co.—
Lofthus & Bromberg, Pr

A. HORN
Drugs, Stationery and
Articles.
LICENSED PHARMAC

City Baker
BREAD, CAKES
PIES
of all kinds, fresh every
K. A. EKBLA

A Langville &
BLACKSMITHS
and
HORSESHOERS
Dealers in WAGONS and BUGGI

C. L. Forsma
Brick Yard.

J. BICE
Charcoal Ovens.

GIRLS FIGHT FATAL DU

Rivals in Mexico City Use Kni
One Dying, Other Arrested.

Mexico City, Mexico. — Two Nicholasa Elizalde, and Fran Fuente, rivals in love, decided to their differences by a duel. They in a field in the suburbs of the and fought with knives.

The Elizalde girl was stabbed times and fatally injured. The duelist has been arrested.

manity.
Birrell.
ood man be a bad one, a good woman
, like the young man in the song, are ry bad." We move about the pastur all do the same things at the same t son "Forty feeding like one." Are we me mean things in our time. Are we 're. Were we good sons or d and dishonored our parents, who in
Do we melt at the sight of misery?
t it when we have turned the corner?
o be put to open shame at the great d frightened of this did we not cling ions then for the first time made publi h attention.
anity, few people are either good or b he dying Nelson; nor had he—he had nau. Mankind is all tarred with the be operated upon when the brush is share of the tar. The biography of a he outside of a coastguardsman's cot

rth and in Heave orne.
love on earth and love in heaven is
; but in tranquil and pure moods it ehended by the sight of the spirit. I that earthly love aspires to; and fre s, never to cease. The sky toward rid has become the ground on wh another sky is above it. We lfilling of the heart's desire, the in piness. But man is not so poorly bstacles of the body, and in heaven er; hearts are not parted by space and ust the other, scheme not to outdo fame. Yet in heaven are labor, ena tility deeper than hell is deep beto
we of that want which only the div

THE UNION.

EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL; SPECIAL FAVORS TO NONE.

VOL III. CLANTON, ALA., JANUARY 25 1906 NO. 44

ARVARD DROPS FOOTBALL

erseers Put Stop to Intercollegiate Contests.

LE, IT IS SAID, WILL FOLLOW

e Must Be Reformed Acceptably Before Crimson Players Will Be Allowed to Participate—Statements by President Eliot, of Harvard, and President
Butler, of Columbia.

Cambridge, Mass.—Football has been olished at Harvard, pending a reform the game that will be acceptable the Board of Overseers, according to official announcement at the uni-rsity. The discontinuance of the me is a result of a vote taken last ek at a secret meeting of the over-rs, when it was decided that interlegiate football at Harvard would t be permitted until the rules and gulations had been so changed and ended as to remove what the over-rs regard as the evils of the present me.

The overseers accepted unanimously
e opinions of a special committee at the game as at present played is sentially bad in every respect, that e methods of formation encourage ckery and foul play and that the sult is bad for the morals of the yers as well as for the body. The mmittee declared that if changes re to be made no man now a mem-r of the so-called Intercollegiate les Committee should have a hand it, the committee believing that ese persons are so far committed to present system that they could not ree to such changes as are absolutely cessary to produce a decent, clean, easureable contest, "instead of the sent apology for a rough and tumble ht."

President Eliot, in an interview, said:
"I for one shall never consent to in-rcollegiate football being resumed at rvard until it has been demonstrated actual play that the objectionable atures of the game have been ruled
t. A mere paper reform will not cure my sanction.

"Let the game under the new rules played by teams made up entirely our own students, as for instance two class teams. Then if we find at the reform is actual and not a ere paper reform, we will invite her colleges to play with us."

That Yale is to follow Harvard is ated by a representative of President holas Murray Butler, of Columbia,
o said:

"You will see Yale taking a similar p in a very short time. The author-es here have information which leads em to believe that Yale is only wait-g for an opportunity to follow the d of Harvard and Columbia."

The Harvard varsity eleven elected atherly Foster, '07, captain of the am for 1906. Foster played left halfck on last year's eleven. His home in Brookline, Mass.

MARSHALL FIELD DEAD.

ich Chicago Merchant Succumbs to Pneumonia in New York City.

New York City.—Marshall Field, of hicago, the richest merchant in the orld; the largest individual taxpayer the United States, and, perhaps, the ird wealthiest citizen in the country, ed at 4 o'clock in the afternoon at e Holland House of exhaustion folwing pneumonia. Nearly all of the eat merchant's relatives and friends ere with or near him when the end me. Not long before his death he ssed into a state of coma, and reained unconscious to the end.

Mr. Field had been ill about seven ys. He had caught cold playing golf Chicago week before last, and this as added to by the draughts incidenl to his trip to this city.

Though the fact that he started on e journey while not in the best of alth, despite his seventy years, gave se to the belief that something very essing had summoned him to New rk, close questioning of his friends vealed nothing more important as the ject of his journey than the desire to e the automobile shows.

PHILIPPINE BILL PASSES.

te 258 to 72—Republican Insurgents
Number 57.

Washington, D. C.—The House passed e Philippine Tariff bill by a vote of 8 to 72, after a long day of rough-d-tumble argument over amend-nts.

The insurrection of the beet sugar
d tobacco Republicans resulted in ly 57 votes against it, the Democrats pplying the other 15. On the vote upset the ruling of the Chair all e insurgents hurried back to the resvation. The Statehood insurgents e not singing so loudly now, but ll declare that they will have a difrent showing on their vote, because that they can count on Democratic pport all the way.

MONTE CRISTI CAPITULATES.

rales' Gunboat Also Surrenders and the Revolt is Ended.

Santo Domingo.—The port of Monte risti, on the north coast, which has ently been in the hands of the revo-lionists, capitulated to the Govern-nt forces, the latter guaranteeing to otect the lives and property of the els.

The gunboat Independencia, which pported General Morales, also sur-ndered after her commander had ught refuge on one of the American rships.

The revolution is ended and all is et.

MURDER RIFE IN CHICAGO

Seventeen Women Killed in the Past
Twelve Months.

Warning by Chief of Police Collins—
More Men Needed on the Force to Drive Toughs From Streets.

Chicago, Ill.—Seventeen women have been murdered in Chicago in the last twelve months.

In consequence of the warning of Chief of Police Collins, women in all parts of the city now have escorts after dark.

The Chief says:

"I would warn women not to make any display of jewelry or of purses in crowds. The habit of some women of showing their gems and opening their pocketbooks in crowds leads young hoodlums to follow them. The young degenerate finds it easy to snatch a woman's pocketbook or follow a woman who is wearing diamond earrings or a diamond sunburst.

"If we had enough policemen on beat we could drive all the gangs of young fellows off the streets.

"The meagre police force of the present day is doing excellent work. We have had fewer cases of dereliction of duty before the police trial board than ever before. The population of Chicago has increased and the police force has decreased. The City Council should allow me 1000 more men; then the hoodlums would be driven off the streets."

Here is a list of woman vicitms in the last twelve months:

Mrs. Bessie Hollister, slain January 12 by Richard G. Ivens; murderer confessed.

Mrs. Arthur W. Gentry, killed in her flat January 6 by Frank J. Constantino, Jr., who escaped.

Mrs. Carl O. Almberg, shot to death January 5 by J. E. Moeller, who then committed suicide.

Mrs. Maude Reese, slain November 21 by a burglar whom she surprised in her flat; murderer escaped.

Mrs. Clara McCluskey, shot to death October 20 in a saloon at No. 666 West Madison street by May Buckley, a jealous rival; murderess in jail.

Mrs. Florence Poores, murdered October 10 by Robert Newcomb, who is now under sentence of death.

Mrs. F. A. Mize, killed by a hold-up man August 23; many suspects arrested, but murderer never found.

Mrs. James E. Daly, shot to death August 13 by her husband; slayer arrested.

Amelia Walder, murdered August 2 by William Demilow, because she refused to marry him; suicide followed the murder.

Mrs. Katherine Gurk, stabbed to death by a thief the night of April 20; murderer escaped with his victim's purse.

Mrs. Alfred Oldfield, slain by a jealous husband March 26; murderer then killed himself.

Mrs. Delia Tracy, slain by a young negro who held her up; murderer sentenced to life imprisonment.

Miss Mary C. Mulvell, shot and killed February 27 by Detective D. J. Herman, who killed himself a few hours later.

Mary Goldberg, murdered February 26 by James McDonald; slayer committed suicide.

Mrs. Charles Sotala, shot by her husband; slayer arrested.

Mrs. Ellen Johnson, found dead January 16, 1905; husband arrested and released and mystery unsolved.

Mrs. John Mueller and her two baby girls, murdered by her husband January 11, 1905; slayer attempted suicide, but recovered, and is now under sentence of death.

Quinn O'Brien, a North Side lawyer, and several members of the Marquette and North Shore Clubs, have issued a call for a mass-meeting to devise some way to protect the women of Chicago. The nucleus of the movement for protection of helpless women is in the Lake View and Buena Clubs, organizations composed of the most influential citizens of the North Side.

ROOSEVELT TO SHOOT TIGERS.

Wants to Kill Elephants, Too, After He Retires From Office.

Washington, D. C.—The first intimation that President Roosevelt has given of any plans which he may have formed for his time after he retires from the Presidency was afforded two or three days ago in a conversation with a friend at the White House. The President said that it was his present intention to visit Central Africa as soon as possible after his retirement from office on March 4, 1909, to hunt tigers and elephants.

Mr. Roosevelt has hunted every kind of big game in this country, and has expressed a desire to try his hand at the larger and fiercer animals which abound in Africa and India.

HUNGARIAN ELECTION FIGHT.

Six Peasants and Two Gendarmes Killed in Village of Bilke.

Budapest, Hungary.—A sanguinary fight between peasants and gendarmerie took place in connection with the election of a judge at the village of Bilke, in the Berg district. Six peasants and two gendarmes were killed, and numbers were wounded.

For Collector of Customs.

Robert Carson was nominated by the President as Collector of Customs for the district of Perth Amboy, N. J.

Caucasian Mountaineers Rise.

Caucasian mountaineers have taken up arms against the Czar.

WORLD WIDE PROSPERITY

Good Times Throughout England, France, Germany and Russia.

SOME INTERESTING FIGURES

The Past Year as Prosperous For Europe as For Ourselves, in Proportion—Records Broken in England, France and Germany—Causes and Effects of These Trade Conditions.

New York City.—Messages from London, England; Paris, France, and Berlin, Germany, put a new and attractive appearance upon the face of international finance. This most clearly shows in foreign bank clearings, a commercial factor less liable than almost any other to mislead. Records were broken in England, Germany and France. In London each month's clearings were a record. In January for the first time the total exceeded $5,000,000,000, and since then six monthly totals did so. And the increase extended throughout the United Kingdom, the country clearings as well as the capital's exceeding every record. English commentators are puzzled to account for the year's increase of $8,000,000,000 to a total of $61,000,000,000, as the year included no very striking single cause. A generally dispersed and well-sustained activity would seem to be itself a good enough explanation. The German Clearing House report a turn-over of $9,900,000,000, an increase of $249,000,000 above the record which was made in 1904. If the totals are less impressive than England's, the proportion of gain leaves nothing to be desired. Industrial activity, rather than financial exhilaration, explains Germany's prosperity, as appears from the flotation of new commercial securities to a total of $770,000,000, an increase of $320,000,000 above the flotations of 1904. Doubtless it would have been better if Germany had sold Russia less upon credit, difficulty of liquidating Russian accommodation paper accounting for much of Germany's stringency.

Conditions in France are sufficiently indicated by the approach of the Bank of France to the limit of its authorized note issue. This is far from being the calamity exhaustion of our note-issuing capacity to us, for there are two solutions. The limit of issue may be enlarged. Adding to these facts the relaxation in our own monetary situation and outlook, it is difficult to resist the conclusion that we are enjoying an era of international financial good feeling.

NOT TO PRESS SUITS.

Attorney-General Expects Insurance Officials to Restore Diverted Funds.

New York City.—The unofficial but positive announcement was made that Attorney-General Mayer had decided to give the directors of the Mutual Life, the New York Life and several other companies whose scandals were aired by the Armstrong Committee a chance to cleanse themselves and to obtain the restitution of wasted and misappropriated funds by business methods. If this housecleaning is neglected, or if it does not come up to the standard which the Attorney-General thinks the public good demands, suits will be instituted.

In this proposition the Equitable Life seems to fare badly, as it is not the intention of the Attorney-General to drop the suits against that company which were commenced last summer, when that company was the only one in relation to which an investigation had been begun.

CHOOSES HUSBAND BY LOT.

Village Belle Courted by Three Brothers Decides by Ballot.

Asheville, N. C.—The marriage of Miss Irene Depew and James William Mock, of Mocksville, N. C., is announced.

Mrs. Mock, a well-known beauty and social favorite, is reported to have determined the choice of three brothers, all of whom had been paying marked attention to her for years, by ballot. She allowed all three to draw lots and the youngest Mock won.

The bride's lottery consisted of three small pasteboards on one of which was inscribed her name. The other two were blanks.

COREY GIVES $10,000.

Steel Trust President Helps Out Braddock Hospital Fund.

Braddock, Pa.—It is announced here that Braddock will have a new hospital through the generosity of W. Ellis Corey, President of the United States Steel Corporation.

A committee of business men who went to New York City some days ago to confer with Mr. Corey came back with the announcement that their former townsman had contributed $10,000 to the hospital fund. About $20,000 had already been raised, and this addition will enable the hospital to be established.

RISING NEAR CZAR'S PALACE.

Peasants Sacking Estates—A Royal Duke's Property Attacked.

St. Petersburg, Russia.—The agrarian disorders which have broken out in the outskirts of St. Petersburg have assumed an ugly phase.

The peasants have sacked the estates of the Duke of Mecklenburg-Strelitz and Prince Korsikoff, and have burned the buildings on an estate in the district of Tsarskoe-Selo, almost in sight of the Emperor's Palace.

NEW FRENCH PRESIDENT

M. Fallieres Elected by the Chamber of Deputies and Senate.

Was Chosen on the First Ballot—Receives 449 Votes—Paul Doumer Gets 371—Sketch of Fallieres' Life.

Paris, France.—Clement Armand Fallieres was elected President of the French Republic to succeed Emile Loubet. He was chosen on the first ballot of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies, assembled in joint session in the Salle du Congres at Versailles. M. Fallieres received 449 votes to 371 cast for Paul Doumer, President of the Chamber of Deputies. The number of votes necessary to a choice was 446.

The Presidential Congress assembled at Versailles under drenching skies, and the attendance of the general public was confined to those who possessed tickets of admission to the Salle du Congres, where the election is held. The old palace at Versailles was thronged, nevertheless, with politicians and others.

The only new feature was that the great yard of the palace had been transformed into a huge garage, and was occupied by hundreds of motors.

The hall of the Congress was packed before 1 o'clock. The small galleries contained many women, whose brilliant toilets relieved the rather gloomy setting of the National Assembly.

No vacant seat was visible on the floor of the House when M. Fallieres, as President of the Senate, took the chair, soon after 1 o'clock. He was greeted with a great ovation by his followers, who hailed him as the next President of the Republic.

The Constitution fortunately forbids all debate, and as soon as the article convening the Congress had been read and tellers had been appointed the calling of the roll and depositing of votes began without confusion.

M. Dubost, Vice-President of the Senate, announced amid enthusiastic cheers that M. Fallieres had been elected.

The total number of votes was 849, of which twenty-nine were scattering. The weather was atrocious, yet Versailles was crowded with Parisians, although there was little excitement on the streets, probably owing to the rain.

M. Fallieres returned to Paris from Versailles escorted by a military guard of honor. He will take over his new duties on February 18.

A. Clement Armand Fallieres was President of the Senate. He was the choice of the Progressive Republicans for the head of the Republic. He was born in 1841, the son of a magistrate's clerk and the grandson of a blacksmith. Early in life he chose to better his condition by studying law, and for a number of years pursued his profession as a country barrister. Branching out into politics, he was elected to the Chamber of Deputies in 1876 and soon distinguished himself. When the Duclerc Cabinet was formed he received the appointment to the Ministry of the Interior, later succeeding Duclerc as Premier.

Fallieres' ministry didn't last a month. In 1890 he became a Senator and in 1899 the President of the Senate. It is said that his political views are in many points similar to those entertained by the extremist, M. Combes. A man of simple habits and tastes, he somewhat resembles the retiring President of France.

CHOKED OUT A PANIC.

Policeman Grabbed a Man Who Cried "Fire!" in a Theatre.

Lincoln, Neb.—Fire in the basement of the Oliver Theatre nearly interrupted a performance of "Ben Hur," but a strenuous policeman who choked a spectator as he faintly cried "Fire!" and a thrilling scene that held attention prevented a panic. The fire was soon put out and the play proceeded.

A man seated near the door smelled smoke and heard the fire engines. He left his seat and hurried for the doorway with a cry that the building was on fire, but so indistinctly did he shout that only a dozen persons heard him. Before he could repeat the cry a policeman grabbed him by the throat and dragged him into the lobby.

A woman who followed the alarmed man fainted as she reached the door and was carried out. Not over half a dozen others left the theatre.

IN HONOR OF FRANKLIN.

Boston and Philadelphia Do Honor to Celebrated Statesman.

Boston, Mass.—The State of Massachusetts and the city of Boston united in celebrating the 200th anniversary of the birth of Benjamin Franklin. Public exercises were held in Symphony Hall in the presence of a large company.

Philadelphia, Pa.—In this city, in which Benjamin Franklin spent most of his life, all the public schools, many churches, societies and institutions united in observing the 200th anniversary of his birth, and at night the city officially entered into the commemoration with an illumination of the municipal buildings.

TWO DIE TOGETHER.

Man and Woman Found Dead in a Chicago Hotel.

Chicago, Ill.—A double death mystery was revealed when the bodies of a man and woman were found in the St. James Hotel, Halsted and Washington streets. The two had been shot to death.

BITS OF NEWS

WASHINGTON.

Senator Cullom, chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, has been forced to go to Florida for his health.

Five special agency districts, with headquarters at London, Paris, St. Gall, Cologne and Berlin, have been established by Secretary Shaw to prevent under-valuation of imports to America.

Representative Longworth addressed the House in depreciation of the Filipinos.

The program for railroad rate legislation was settled by the House leaders, it being decided to report the Hepburn measure.

OUR ADOPTED ISLANDS.

Enlisted men of the American fleet at Manila entertained the men of the visiting British squadron.

Cane is ripening well in the northern division of Porto Rico, but is not yet fully matured. One mill that had been grinding shut down because of the poor grade of juice obtained.

A report from Manila is to the effect that a French firm is selling a considerable number of French-built motor cars in the Philippines.

The contract for building the new water system at Manila, which will cost $1,000,000, was awarded in equal parts to Matson, Lord, Borser & Co. and the Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific Co. There were six competitors, and the bidding was very close.

W. J. Bryan was made a datto, a Moro chieftain.

DOMESTIC.

Denton Hopkins was placed on trial in Brooklyn, N. Y., on a charge of wife murder.

Captain Archibald and his officers left the Cherokee, which was stranded on Brigantine Shoals, N. J.

The Southern Cotton Association has re-elected Harvie Jordan as president.

In the Carnegie Library, at Guthrie, Frank Frantz was inaugurated Governor of Oklahoma.

Cashier E. L. Humphrey, of the bank at Wadley, Ga., killed himself by shooting.

Governor Pattison, of Ohio, has cancelled all social engagements, but is fast recovering his usual health.

The army transport Sherman landed 560 officers and enlisted men from the Philippines at San Francisco, Cal.

Shot through the head and slashed with a razor, the body of George Hopper, colored, was found in Currituck Sound, near Coinjock, N. C., and three negroes are charged with the murder.

The gunboat Topeka, now out of commission at Portsmouth, N. H., will be changed by the Navy Department into a station ship at a cost of $90,000.

Every man of the Sixth Battery which made the long march from Fort Riley to Fort Sam Houston in Texas is declared to be in good condition, as are also the horses.

Suits for $100,000 each were brought against McClure's Magazine by the Union Refrigerator Transit Company and its president, who allege that articles on rebates were libelous.

A Congressional medal has been sent Charles K. Fife, fourteen years old, at Cleveland, Ohio, for saving the life of a companion who was drowning in Lake Erie.

The entrance of Colonel John Holbrook Estill, of Savannah, into the race makes five Democratic candidates for the Governorship of Georgia.

The Arkansas Supreme Court has affirmed the conviction of Representative G. F. Chaplin for bribery, and he must pay a fine and costs of over $1000.

After spending more than $1,000,000 developing the Copper Field mine at Vershire, Vt., it is to be abandoned by George Westinghouse.

E. H. Harriman and two others bought a tract of 20,000 acres in Orange County, N. Y. It is supposed they plan to develop a new colony on the lines of Tuxedo.

Dr. Harry T. McGronen, of Brooklyn, N. Y., was crushed to death by an elevator in a factory.

Protests against the seating of McGowan and five Aldermen were made before the Aldermen's Committee on Privileges and Elections in New York City.

The Clyde Line steamer Cherokee went ashore in a fog near Atlantic City, N. J. The vessel was in little danger, and the passengers and crew remained aboard.

FOREIGN.

General von Einem read in the German Reichstag a statement by Chancellor von Bulow, saying that officers must in certain cases fight to defend their honor or leave the corps.

Prosecution of Toronto plumbers individually for conspiracy and combination in restraint of trade resulted in 134 men pleading guilty. The fines amounted to $10,000.

Prince Philip of Saxe-Coburg obtained a divorce from Princess Louise, eldest daughter of the King of the Belgians.

There is an anti-Semitic agitation at Chernigoff, Russia, and a massacre is feared.

A special cable dispatch from Gibraltar gives details of the damage to the United States cruiser Brooklyn, which suffered severely in the gale which she encountered on her voyage to Gibraltar.

The Liberals of England have won the first of the contests for Parliament, two of their candidates having been returned at Ipswich, where the fight was most severe.

Professional Cards.

Attorneys.

William M. Adams,
Attorney-at-Law,
CLANTON.
Office, Adams Place. Practices in all Courts. Long time loans negotiated on Improved Farm Lands.

N. S. JOHNSON, M. D.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
Office at
Clanton Drug Store CLANTON

L. V. STABLER, M. D
Physician & Surgeon
Office Over Horn's Drug Store
Thorsby, Alabama

DR. E. G. HYMAN
DENTIST
Office in Tipton Mullins' Building
CLANTON

A. C. SMITH J. OSMOND MIDDLETON
Smith & Middleton
Attorneys-at-Law
Practice in all Courts.
Office 6th St., Opp. Court House
CLANTON.

H. C. Junkerman
DENTIST
OFFICE: Franzen Building
Thorsby, Alabama.

G. H. GERALD,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Office at Thorsby Inn.
Deeds, Mortgages, Affidavits and other papers carefully made out.

I. S. Gerald, Notary Public
AT THORSBY SAVINGS BANK.

In addition to our Complete Stock of DRUGS Etc.
You will find a full line of
SCHOOL BOOKS, STATIONERY, ETC. SEEDS. PAINTS OILS and GLASS.
CLANTON DRUG COMPANY

FREE
to Readers of
THE UNION

To everyone who sends us $1.00 for a year's subscription to THE UNION, new subscriber or renewal, we will give as a premium absolutely FREE,

A Year's Subscription
to
The Southern Ruralist

We have examined the Southern Ruralist and consider it to be the best and most practical farm paper published in the South, and it just suits this locality. Drop by The Union Office when you are in town and see a copy of the Ruralist. It will mean dollars in your pocket to read this paper with The Union for a year. tf.

TIMBER FOR SALE!
Over a hundred acres of Virgin Swamp timber for sale. Apply to T. J. Billingsley, Clanton, Ala, Route 3. tf.

NOTICE!
All who are owing me, by note or account, will please call and settle at once. I am needing the money and hope all will make prompt settlement.
Respectfully
A. A. JACKSON,
tf. Lomax, Ala.

The Old Year

The white dawn shimmered and he said,
"'Tis day!"
The east was reddening and he sighed,
"Farewell."
The herald sun came forth and he was dead.

Life was all in his veins but yestermorn,
And ruddy health seemed laughing on his lips;
Now he is dust, and will not breathe again!

Give him a place to lay his regal head,
Give him a tomb beside his brothers gone,
Give him a tablet for his deeds and name.

Hear the new voice that claims the vacant throne,
Take the new hand outstretched to meet thy kiss,
But give the past—'tis all thou canst—thy tears! —James T. Fields.

The WAY FITZMORRIS DID IT

BY GEORGE SHEDD

(Copyright, 1905, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

The boy was showing the girl an old revolver he had acquired in a swap and had repaired so it would shoot, and he was telling her of his plans to go out west and be a cowboy or a desperado—he had not decided which. He spoke with all the insufferable condescension and bravado of the masculine early teens and she listened with the reverence which became her sex and three years juniority. It pleased his self-esteem to have so worshipful a listener as the sunny-haired little fairy, and it swelled her budding feminine heart to be the confidant of so sturdy and valiant a hero.

They were behind the old arbor, whither Ted had summoned Bessie with great mystery, to announce his great design. Presently they were interrupted by two young people who strolled into the arbor.

"S'h," whispered the boy, placing his fingers on his lips. "It's your sister Emma and that Wilkins fellow."

The two sat quietly awaiting an opportunity to slip away unnoticed It pleased the spirit of the boy to surround his actions with deep secrecy, and the girl was satisfied to obey implicitly.

Inside the arbor the old, old story was being enacted.

"Miss Roberts," said the young man in a strained voice, clearing his throat, "I have been wanting to speak to you—that is, I have been intending—that is, I have been trying to get an opportunity to be alone with you for a long time."

There was a pause, and the voice went on: "I mean, to have an opportunity to speak to you, to tell you—to—to—that is, you must have known, you know—that is, you certainly have seen that I—that I—"

There was another awkward pause, and the young woman said softly:

"That you what, Mr. Wilkins?"

There was a note of desperation in the lover's voice when he answered, and the words were broken by his nervous breathing.

"That I—you see that, that—that is, that—oh, heavens, I—don't you know?"

Apparently she did know, because the voice ceased and there were sounds inside of a much pleasanter nature.

After awhile the lover said in perfectly normal tones:

"May I put the ring on your finger?"

After which there were more osculatory sounds, and presently they went away.

The two children had sat staring at each other with open eyes and mouths during the proceedings inside.

"Oh, wasn't it splendid?" exclaimed the little girl when the lovers were out of hearing.

"Splendid!" snorted the boy in accents of disgust. "I call it a flunk. Why, the lobster never said it at all. Anybody'd a'thought he saw a bear.

"Splendid!" snorted the boy. "I call it a flunk!"

he was so frightened. How'd she know what he was a-tryin' to say?"

"Oh, she knew all right," replied the girl with intuitive feminine wisdom. "She's probably known it a long time, and was 'spectin' it."

"Why'n thunder didn't he say it?" persisted the young Comanche.

"Probably he was frightened," replied the girl.

"What'n thunder's he frightened at?" asked the boy. "Nothin' but a girl. I'd like to see the girl I'd be frightened at."

"I 'spect he loves her so much that he's sort of frightened at that, and maybe he was afraid she'd say no," ventured the girl.

"Say no when he ast her!" exclaimed the boy scornfully. "Catch a girl doin' that. Anyway, what if she did? Ain't there plenty of other girls?"

The girl was silent, and the boy went on:

"And he's a lawyer and makes speeches in court nearly every day. I heard pa say so. And I saw his name in the paper about making a political speech at the opery house—an eloquent and convincing address—that's what the paper said. I don't believe he can talk for sour beans. When I get ready to get married, you bet I'll

"But, as I was about to say—that is, I—at least you—" do it different than that. Here's the way I'll do it:"

The boy pulled a thumbed and folded paper novel from a mysterious pocket somewhere in the recesses of his clothes and, turning the pages rapidly over, exclaimed:

"Here it is. Wait a minute."

He read rapidly for a moment, then dropped the book and, jumping to his feet, grabbed his cap with both hands and pressed it to his right breast.

"Fair maiden," he said in the tones of the ten-twenty-thirty stage villain "thou art my heart's desire. Long years have I loved you with all the passionate ardor of me race. Come, fly with me to yonder—yonder what-do-ye-call-it—I forget the rest, but, anyway, that's the way Percy Fitzmorris does it in 'The Stolen Bride,' and that's the way I'll do it—only I'll improve it, and you bet I'll have it down pat before I get it off to any girl."

"My, that's splendid," said the girl with shining eyes. "I wish I could hear you say it."

"Oh, pshaw; you'll be married and know all about it long before I do it I ain't got no time to think about marryin' for a long time. I've got to go out and—and—and do things, and fight and get a reputation."

* * *

The old arbor had seen the sun and rain of many seasons since the boy and girl sat open-mouthed behind it and heard the proposal, when one bright day a tall and stately maiden with hair like burnished gold and eyes like sapphires entered hastily and sank onto the old seat in the corner, carved with many initials and designs. A slight flush was on her rounded cheek and her breath came rather quicker than usual. She glanced expectantly toward the door, then hastily pulled some crochet work from the pocket of her white apron and began to ply her fingers.

Presently a young man appeared at the door. He was a stalwart, handsome fellow, withal, and was faultlessly attired from the crown of his derby hat to the soles of his patent leather shoes. He removed his hat and said:

"I thought I should find you here. May I come in?"

And without awaiting a reply he entered and stood before her.

"I have been trying to get a few words with you, Miss Roberts, for the past two months," he began bravely. "But it has seemed impossible to find you alone of late. In fact, I have scarcely seen you alone since I returned from the South."

He paused a moment and went on with a little catch in his voice:

"You see, I've been wanting to see you alone—as I said—for some time, because, you see, I wanted to—that is, —er, I— that is—"

"I haven't been doing anything naughty, I hope," ventured the girl.

"Oh, dear no," replied the man, shifting his position onto the other foot. "You couldn't if you tried, you know. But, as I was about to say, I—I—that is, I—at least you—that is to say, I wanted to see you alone for a moment, because I had something to say to you—you know."

"Yes," replied the girl softly.

The young man mopped his face desperately with his handkerchief, although the day was not warm, and resumed:

"Well, it's this way—you see er—er—er, I—that is——"

"Why don't you do it the way Percy Fitzmorris did it?" asked the girl demurely.

"Bess," he shouted, dropping onto the seat beside her. And I fear if any young boys and girls were listening behind the arbor they heard sounds much similar to those which reached the ears of certain young friends of ours some years before. After the first spasm of osculation was over the man duly presented the ring which was duly installed on the proper finger—the third finger of the left hand, I am told. After which the girl looked at the man and said, with a mischievous sparkle in her eyes:

"Why'n thunder didn't he say it, Ted; how'd she know what he was a-tryin' to say?"

The answer was another demonstration, which left the girl's hair in a sadly tumbled state, after which the man remarked:

"Of all the insufferable fools on earth, commend me to a half-baked, unlicked boy."

THOUGHT WAGNER WAS FUNNY

Peculiar Compliment Paid Composer by Unmusical Englishman.

A story which Alfred Reisenauer, the pianist, tells of Richard Wagner relates to a London dinner at which the great composer was requested to be especially amiable to Lord Pitkin, a most unmusical man but high in social councils. In due season the two were presented.

"Where is your entertainment to be?" asked his lordship after the introduction, when Wagner's forthcoming concert was mentioned.

"At St. James' hall," replied the composer. "I trust your lordship will be able to come."

"I may, I may," replied the great personage.

The concert took place as scheduled and a week or more later a patron of Wagner gave a soiree in honor of the composer. Lord Pitkin was prominent among the guests and he seized the first opportunity to walk over to Wagner and congratulate him.

"I was at your entertainment," said the polite nobleman, "and I don't know when I've enjoyed anything more. I laughed till I cried. You are very funny, Herr Wagner."

The company stopped talking and an amazed look spread over Wagner's face.

"But you know," continued the affable lord, "it was almost half an hour before I recognized you with your black face and crinkly hair."

When Lord Pitkin stopped laughing he saw that he was alone in his merriment.

"Why—what—I hope I haven't—it was St. James' hall, wasn't it—I—er——"

Some one then explained that St. James' hall consisted of an upper and a lower auditorium and that his lordship evidently had wandered into the one where the Burgess & Moore minstrels were giving a jubilee entertainment.

"Wagner's expression," says Reisenauer in concluding the anecdote, "was a study, but Lord Pitkin's—well, his was an entire course of instruction."

Cutting In.

A telegraph operator went with a friend to lunch in one of the uptown restaurants. After they had been there a few minutes the telegraph operator called his friend's attention to a pretty young woman seated at a table on the side of the room, who was toying with her spoon occasionally tapping gently with it on the side of her plate. A well-dressed man seated at a table some distance away was going through a similar performance. The telegraph operator informed his friend that the couple were carrying on a flirtation by the Morse alphabet.

Then he tapped a few times with his fork. The young man and woman turned very red in the face and suddenly departed. This is what the telegraph operator had signaled:

"Oh, quit your spooning and get married!"

Juryman with Mind Made Up.

The late Judge Charles Doe was engaged as an attorney previous to the time he became a justice of the New Hampshire supreme court. The case was all in, the arguments heard, and the judge had instructed the jury to retire and bring in a verdict.

When the sheriff reached the jury room he discovered that he had but eleven jurymen. Returning he found the twelfth man complacently occupying a seat in the jury box. He explained to the juryman that he should retire with his associates and bring in a verdict.

"Hain't got to retire," said the juryman. "Squire Hoar says it's so, and it must be so."

Her Birthday.

Oh, little girl, but still not so,
So very, very wee,
Fourteen's a right smart bunch of years;
But, dear, if I could be Fourteen I'd be as glad again
As you are glad, my ween,
For I'm a long and tollsome way
The wrong side of fourteen.

You do not know, you can not know,
How a man's heart careens,
When he is old, to see a girl,
A sweet girl in her teens,
Glad for the adding of a year
To her short life; the less
Of life are hidden, hidden deep,
When one's fourteen. Louise. —Lewis, Houston Post.

STILL TRIMS HUSBAND'S HAIR.

Aged Millionaire Keeps to the Custom of His Poverty Days.

In Brooklyn there lives a millionaire well along in years, with a wife from whom also youth has long since fled. From the old days before wealth came to them the couple retain one custom which has passed, as the years have flown, into a sort of sacred rite. The old lady cuts the old gentleman's hair. Once a year the millionaire goes to a barber shop and has his scanty locks trimmed. That sets the style for the ensuing year. When he comes home the wife carefully studies the cut, and after that it is her work of love to reproduce it until another year rolls around and the annual visit to the barber takes place. The old gentleman also shaves himself.

Economy in the matter of barbering, which was first a matter of stern necessity, is now the one little thing that the couple refuse to give up out of the days of poverty. As they are a childless couple, there is nobody to hector the old man into engaging a valet. Really the old man has his hair cut more often than is necessary, for sometimes when the worries of wealth and social duties are more than ordinarily oppressive the good wife will say: "Come dear—come up to my room. I want to cut your hair." And while the scissors snip the old couple laughingly go back to the old happy days of youth and struggle once more.

Shy On Table Etiquette.

"Table etiquette in country hotels is a study in itself," remarked the traveling man. "Every town seems to have its own code of ethics and it's a difficult matter to keep up with the various forms and observances. I had to stop over in a little Connecticut town on my last trip and put up at the only hotel in the place.

"There was no fault to find with the dinner. There was an abundance of well-cooked food and I reveled in dishes so dear to my infantile days, reserving a gap for a slice of the real, old-fashioned pumpkin pie, which was made a feature of the bill of fare.

"The waitress passed and repassed me, but made no motion to remove my plate and trot out the luscious pie. My patience gave out at last, and I almost grabbed her as she flew by and haughtily demanded my portion.

"'Y'all through?' she snapped.

"'Yes.'

"'Then why didn't ye stack up yer dishes so'd I know?'

"And as a rebuke for my lack of table manners she brought me a stingy slice."

Stories Told of Prof. Park.

Prof. Park, so long the especial light at Andover Theological Seminary, when a young man studied in Germany. His acute mind made him the terror of the professors. The eminent Dr. Tholuck, after being driven into a corner in an argument with the young American, exclaimed, "Now I am sorry that Columbus discovered America."

When Prof. Park, at Andover, was asked by a student the reason for the tower of Pisa, he quickly answered: "No doubt the contractor did not pay his men promptly, so that they were compelled to put a lean on the tower."

Prof. Park was very particular to call his students by name. One day he met a man by the name of Jones. Not wishing to betray the fact that he could not recall his name, he said: "By the way, how do you spell your name?" The student with some surprise, exclaimed: "J-o-n-e-s. Is there any other way of spelling it?"

Pathos Between Lines.

John Mitchell, in a description of one of the historic coal strikes of the last century, said:

"There is a story of the privations of these poor people that has a grim pathos in it. Its pathetic rather than its humorous side makes the story worth repeating.

"A child, during the strike, goes to Mrs. Simpkins on Monday morning and says:

"'Please, ma'am, my mother sent me for the loan of your marrow bones to make soup with.'

"'Tell your mother,' Mrs. Simpkins replies, 'that Mrs. Murphy has them to-day, and Mrs. McDevitt is promised them for to-morrow, but she can have them on Wednesday if she'll return them promptly, bein' as I want to make soup myself on Thursday.'"

Haggard Reads Obituary.

Rider Haggard tells a good story about the premature publication of an obituary notice of himself. Hearing that a ballet based on "She" was to be produced in Hungary, he wrote asking for programmes and photographs. A reply came that the manager was shocked at the request, for he had believed the illustrious Herr Author to be dead. Long obituaries had appeared in the Hungarian journals. Mr. Haggard then wrote and asked that a contradiction might be circulated, but the manager reported that the editors refused to insert it, as they believed it to be an unscrupulous attempt to obtain a free advertisement for the ballet.

Fixing a Funeral Date.

To show how implicitly people of a generation ago trusted in the "Farmers' Almanac," the following story was told by old Dr. Hunt, who for many years faithfully served the townspeople of Weston, Mass.

One of his patients had departed this life, leaving a sorrowing spouse, whom Dr. Hunt tried to comfort. In the course of making the burial arrangements, he asked when she desired to have the funeral.

"Wait, doctor," said she; "we must have it on a pleasant day." She hurriedly searched the almanac, and the day was set.

HOW CLIMATE AFFECTS BLONDES

Did the ancient highly civilized nations of the past die out because they were blonde and therefore unfitted for the regions in which they flourished? Dr. Charles E. Woodruff, a surgeon in the United States army, who has written a book on the subject, believes that this was the case. He maintains that too much light is injurious to white races through its actinic or chemical effects, from which the dark skin pigments of swarthy races protect them. Thus he explains why, by survival of the fittest, dark races are found in tropical lands, why Europeans have always failed to colonize the tropics and why blondes disappear when they migrate southward. Says a reviewer in the Edinburgh Medical Journal: "The blonde and intelligent rulers of regions suited better for more swarthy inhabitants have regularly in the course of ages died out, while their subjects, thoroughly acclimatized to their domicile, remain. Egypt has been the theater of immigration of intellectual races over and over again; in each case these disappeared and civilization decayed, though the native fellah survived and survives. 'There will,' the author predicts, 'never be another dark age, for the present Aryan conquerors rule it from London and are not colonizers.' While the blonde type of mankind requires for its evolution a cold, dark, northern country, the brunette of various degrees of intensity up to absolute blackness is alone adapted for lasting existence in most regions of the world."

There is too much sunshine in the United States and none of the races that have come to this country until recently is adapted to the climate, Dr. Woodruff thinks, except the Jews. All the rest are degenerating from excessive light. The lower Mediterranean races, however, are now flocking over, and if the blonde types die out as they did in Greece and Italy during the decadence of these two countries United States history may repeat theirs, though Dr. Woodruff believes that the northern types may survive in sufficient numbers to prevent the destruction of the republic provided it takes warning and limits the franchise to the races represented by these types.

About seven centuries were required, according to Dr. Woodruff, for the climate of Greece to destroy its blondes. In 500 B. C., the period of its greatest literary glory, the decadence of the Greeks was already evident and shows itself to-day in their literature and art. Dr. Woodruff points out how ancient Greek statues exhibit many of the stigmata of degeneracy; even a famous head of Juno has arrested development of the jaw and is "the head of a dying race."—Chicago News.

SLAVERY IN OLD ILLINOIS

Some of the early laws for the regulation of slavery in what is now Illinois were curious and interesting. In Prof. N. Dwight Harris' book on the subject the author says that in 1803 it was found necessary to provide some legal status for the numerous indentured negroes. "Under the provisions of this code all male negroes under 15 years of age, either owned or acquired, must serve till the age of 35; women till 32. Children born to persons of color during the period of service could also be bound out—the boys for thirty years and the girls for twenty-eight. All slaves brought into the territory were obliged to serve the full term of their contracts."

Slaves were easily imposed upon. "Most of the settlers owned slaves and were anxious to get as much service out of them as possible. They registered them for periods of servitude far in excess of the legal limit, many being booked to serve from forty to sixty and even ninety-nine years. Ninian Edwards, the first governor of the territory, registered his slaves as follows: Rose, 23 years of age, for thirty-five years; Antony, 40 years old, for fifteen years; Maria, 15, for forty-five years; Jesse, 23, for thirty-five years. The ignorant negroes were deceived into believing that it was right to bind themselves for such long periods.

"Even at this early day kidnaping had begun. Negroes whose terms of service were about to expire were seized and carried off to the south and sold into servitude more wretched than before. The hiring of negroes to work in salt mines, legalized by statute in 1814, served as a pretext for holding slaves in other parts of the state. 'To roll a barrel of salt once a year or to put salt into a salt cellar was sufficient excuse,' says Gov. Flower, 'for any man to hire a slave and to raise a field of corn.'"

Wholesome food, sufficient clothing and lodgings were to be provided for each slave. The outfit for a servant was enumerated as follows: "A coat, waistcoat, a pair of breeches, one pair of shoes, two pairs of stockings, a hat and a blanket." No provision was made for a future increase and there was no penalty for failure to provide the original outfit. Lazy or indifferent servants might, on an order from the justice of the county be punished by whipping.

EASED MISS SOPHRONIA'S MIND

The Misses Malcolm were known to the little world of which Greenby was the center as "the two Malcolm girls," in spite of their gray hairs and sixty odd years. They were also known as the best housekeepers in all the region, and any lapse from the exquisite neatness of their domain seeming to the Misses Malcolm a terrible thing.

When cousin Palmer Malcolm, a reckless western relative, died, the Malcolm girls started for the Missouri town on four hours' notice, although they had entertained thirty-two "Harvest Gleaners" the night before, too.

To Miss Sophronia, the elder, was allotted by mutual consent the task of putting the lower rooms in order, so far as possible, while Miss Eudora attended to their bedrooms and their simple packing.

When they were at last seated in the train, after a two miles' jolting ride in the old coach, Miss Eudora noticed that Miss Sophronia's face wore a troubled and anxious look. As cousin Palmer Malcolm had been a great trial to the family, Miss Eudora felt that his death could not be the cause of her sister's worry, and after a few moments of silence she decided to probe the matter. At that very moment Miss Sophronia spoke.

"Eudora," and her tone was one of distress, "I let Mrs. Goodwin go up to the spare room just before supper last night to get the measures of our quilt and bolster-spread, and the bell rang while she was measuring, and she hurried down, leaving the quilt on one of the chairs and two of the curtain shades up to the top. She told me, and I forgot it. Suppose the house caught on fire while we're gone, and the neighbors went in and saw that quilt on a chair, and all, what would they think of us?"

"Now, Sophronia, you ought to have trusted me, and not worried," said Miss Eudora, calmly. "Something led me to open that spare room door the last thing, and when I saw what a fix 'twas in, and knew I hadn't another minute, I just locked the door and put the key in my pocket, for the thought of fire came to me just as it did to you."

Miss Sophronia's face cleared.

"I'm so thankful," she said simply. "I shouldn't have had one mite of pleasure or comfort in the journey or the funeral if that door had been left unlocked."—Youth's Companion.

STURDY MINERS OF BUTTE

Probably nowhere in the world is there such a forceful, virile body of workers as are the miners of Butte. There are no graybeards. They are social rebels; not that they chant the Carmagnole to the waving of the black flag of anarchy, but in the sense that back in the well-ordered civilization of the east they rebelled against poverty and pushed on to the frontier, big-muscled, red-blooded, determined to sail the ship of their destiny into pleasanter places than their boyhood knew. From the copper mines of Berehaven, in the County Cork, from the coal mines of Tipperary, from the tin mines of Cornwall and from wherever in Western Europe men go down into the bowels of the earth for treasure, the sturdy young men of the mines came to America, says Tom Watson's Magazine. At the Atlantic seaboard they heard the story of Mr. Baer and his partnership with God in the anthracite coal fields of Pennsylvania, of the company store and the company shack, with its yellow fever paint by way of decoration.

In company with their American brothers they started across the continent to the Hocking Valley of Ohio, thence to the copper peninsula of Michigan, to the coal mines of Illinois, Missouri and Kansas, on to the gold and silver lodes of Colorado and Utah, and finally to the miner's paradise of Butte, where eight hours is the day's work and $105 the monthly wage.

Beyond, the Butte miner has his eyes fixed on Alaska. Butte is but a way station on the road to Cape Nome.

Butte has a public library and churches that rank well with similar institutions in any American city. They are well patronized by the miners. It has beautiful and costly public building, hotels, business blocks and private residences.

Butte is rightly called the Gibraltar of trades unionism. Every conceivable occupation is organized, from the pin boys in the bowling alleys and the shoeblacks on the streets to the newspaper porters on the daily papers, all are organized. Wages are high. Plumbers get $8 a day and printers $6.50 for a seven and a half hour day.

It is the proud boast of Butte that the greatest mining camp on earth has never had a boom.

Nucleus of Masonic Home.

Willard A. Van Brunt of Horicon, grand chancellor of Wisconsin consistory Masons, has presented to the consistory the Egerton farm of 319 acres in Waukesha county. He designs it to serve as the "corner stone" of a Masonic home, which will be the first of the kind to be owned by consistory Masons. The gift is valued at $75,000 and came as a complete surprise to the rank and file of the order, even the officers having known of Mr. Van Brunt's intention. Dr. Miller, head of the Wisconsin consistory, has appointed a committee to formulate plans for the institution.

FARM AND

HANDLING OF CORNSTALK

Where soils have been cropped a number of years in succession vegetable matter supplied by cornstalks may be of considerable value, says a writer in Homestead. It is safe to say that the number who burn their stalks are in the majority, so that the question of greatest importance is how to handle them so they do the least harm and do the most good. In many sections where corn is made to follow corn the plows are put into the field and the stalks turned under without any previous preparation. Then, there are those who use the disk cutter so that the old cornstalks are cut to pieces, and, in turn, are more completely buried by the plow. This is an important step in advance over the original method of turning them under whole. The objection to plowing the stalks under without first breaking them is due to the fact that planting and cultivating afterwards interfered with to a considerable extent.

To go one step further, we find those who adopt the practice of disking their corn land before plowing it. This method, we believe, is entitled to first place among those mentioned. This not only cuts the stalks into comparatively small lengths, but in addition it produces a mulch on the surface so that the furrow slice when inverted brings about immediate capillary connection. Practical experience demonstrates that this practice, during dry years, especially, often results in making the difference between failure and success in the crop. When heavy cornstalks are turned under in their original form they tend to cut off the upward movement of water, while plowing under a stiff surface crust also tends to act in the same manner.

We realize that it takes time to disk the surface before putting in the plow, nevertheless it is time well spent. Some of the best corn growers of the Central West disk the entire area before plowing a single furrow because they claim that in addition to the advantages we have enumerated there is also the additional advantage that the disking produces a mulch and thus preserves the moisture until such time as the plowing is done. We have no hesitation in advising the more general introduction of this practice, and we believe that it would materially increase the corn yield of the great Central West if every corn grower would disk the stalk ground with the disk before plowing it.

STARTING LAMBS ON FEED

I do not believe any other one feature of lamb-feeding contributes more toward failure than careless feeding when the lambs are first put on full feed, says the American Agriculturist. Toward the end of the feeding season careless beginners wonder why their lambs have not done better, when the amount of feed supplied them is nearly every case it is because the lambs were not started in the right way to begin with.

When I first began feeding lambs for market I was inexperienced in the business, but several of my neighbors had been feeding lambs for a number of years. To start with I purchased a few Western lambs out of a car load shipped in by one of my neighbors. These lambs were put on to feed as soon as they arrived at the barn. Clover hay and bean pods were fed for roughage, and corn and oats made the grain ration. Both of these were fed in amounts that the lambs would clean up nicely. These lambs were well fed during the winter and the early spring marketed, but to my surprise, they had hardly made a normal gain of fifteen pounds each.

This illustrates the importance of starting lambs right. While I had supplied the proper amount of feed they were not prepared the lambs to consume it profitably. Since then I have become more acquainted with the art of feeding lambs and am now able to put lambs that when marketed bring the top prices.

For the first two or three days after the lambs are put on to feed they should be fed very carefully. Because they are inclined to overeat, unless the feed is supplied in moderate amounts serious trouble results which in many instance terminates the feeding season. It is advisable for the first three days after the lambs are put in the barn to feed bright clover hay twice daily, at morning and noon, with a light feed of clover hay at noon. With this kind of roughage there is not the danger of the lambs overeating. The aim in feeding any kind of food is to give the animal a chance to rest up physically by unloading the stomach. After the first two or three days the arrangement can be turned around and the hay fed twice daily and the oat straw at noon.

MARKETING LIGHT HORSES

Action is extremely important in light horses. It should be high and true. At the trot it should be what is known as the straight trot, no wabbling from one side to the other, or swinging the feet in action from behind should be noticed, the feet picked up smartly and well flexed, and the feet of the

FFECTS BLONDES

of various degrees of intensity up to absolute blackness is alone adapted for lasting existence in most regions of the world."

There is too much sunshine in the United States and none of the races that have come to this country until recently is adapted to the climate, Dr. Woodruff thinks, except the Jews. All the rest are degenerating from excessive light. The lower Mediterranean races, however, are now flocking over, and if the blonde types die out as they did in Greece and Italy during the decadence of these two countries, United States history may repeat theirs, though Dr. Woodruff believes that the northern types may survive in sufficient numbers to prevent the destruction of the republic provided it takes warning and limits the franchise to the races represented by those types.

About seven centuries were required, according to Dr. Woodruff, for the climate of Greece to destroy its blondes. In 500 B. C., the period of its greatest literary glory, the decadence of the Greeks was already evident and shows itself to-day in their literature and art. Dr. Woodruff points out how ancient Greek statues exhibit many of the stigmata of degeneracy; even a famous head of Juno has arrested development of the jaw and is "the head of a dying race."—Chicago News.

OLD ILLINOIS

for forty five years; Jesse, 23, for thirty-five years. The ignorant negroes were deceived into believing that it was right to bind themselves for such long periods.

"Even at this early day kidnaping had begun. Negroes whose terms of service were about to expire were seized and carried off to the south and sold into servitude more wretched than before. The hiring of negroes to work in salt mines, legalized by statute in 1814, served as a pretext for holding slaves in other parts of the state. 'To roll a barrel of salt once a year or to put salt into a salt cellar was sufficient excuse,' says Gov. Flower, 'for any man to hire a slave and to raise a field of corn.'"

Wholesome food, sufficient clothing and lodgings were to be provided for each slave. The outfit for a servant was enumerated as follows: "A coat, waistcoat, a pair of breeches, one pair of shoes, two pairs of stockings, a hat and a blanket." No provision was made for a future increase and there was no penalty for failure to provide the original outfit. Lazy or indifferent servants might, on an order from the justice of the county be punished by whipping.

HRONIA'S MIND

to probe the matter. At that very moment Miss Sophronia spoke.

"Eudora," and her tone was one of distress, "I let Mrs. Goodwin go up to the spare room just before supper last night to get the measures of our quilt and bolster-spread, and the bell rang while she was measuring, and she hurried down, leaving the quilt on one of the chairs and two of the curtain shades up to the top. She told me, and I forgot it. Suppose the house caught on fire while we're gone, and the neighbors went in and saw that quilt on a chair, and all, what would they think of us?"

"Now, Sophronia, you ought to have trusted me, and not worried," said Miss Eudora, calmly. "Something led me to open that spare room door the last thing, and when I saw what a fix 'twas in, and knew I hadn't another minute, I just locked the door and put the key in my pocket, for the thought of fire came to me just as it did to you."

Miss Sophronia's face cleared.

"I'm so thankful," she said simply. "I shouldn't have had one mite of pleasure or comfort in the journey or the funeral if that door had been left unlocked."—Youth's Companion.

RS OF BUTTE

hence to the copper peninsula of Michigan, to the coal mines of Illinois, Missouri and Kansas, on to the gold and silver lodes of Colorado and Utah, and finally to the miner's paradise of Butte, where eight hours is the day's work and $105 the monthly wage.

Beyond, the Butte miner has his eyes fixed on Alaska. Butte is but a way station on the road to Cape Nome.

Butte has a public library and churches that rank well with similar institutions in any American city. They are well patronized by the miners. It has beautiful and costly public building, hotels, business blocks and private residences.

Butte is rightly called the Gibraltar of trades unionism. Every conceivable occupation is organized, from the grin boys in the bowling alleys and the shoeblacks on the streets to the reporters on the daily papers, all are organized. Wages are high. Plumbers get $8 a day and painters $6.50 for a seven and a half hour day.

It is the proud boast of Butte that the greatest mining camp on earth has never had a boom.

owned by consistory. Mason's Tem... gift is valued at $75,000 and ...came as a complete surprise ... the rank and file of the order, ... the officers having known of Mr. ... Brunt's intention. Dr. Miller, head ... the Wisconsin consistory, has appointed a committee to formulate plans ... the institution

FARM AND GARDEN

HANDLING OF CORNSTALKS.

Where soils have been cropped for a number of years in succession the vegetable matter supplied by dead cornstalks may be of considerable value, says a writer in Homestead.

It is safe to say that the number who burn their stalks are in the minority, so that the question of greatest importance is how to handle them so they do the least harm and do the most good. In many cases where corn is made to follow corn the plows are put into the fields and the stalks turned under without any previous preparation. Then, again, there are those who use the stalk cutter so that the old cornstalks are cut to pieces, and, in turn, are much more completely buried by the plows. This is an important step in advance over the original method of turning them under whole. The objection to plowing the stalks under without first breaking them is due to the fact that planting and cultivating are afterwards interfered with to considerable extent.

To go one step further, we find those who adopt the practice of disking their corn land before plowing it. This method, we believe, is entitled to first place among those mentioned. This not only cuts the stalks into comparatively small lenghts, but in addition it produces a mulch on the surface so that the furrow slice, when inverted brings about immediate capillary connection. Past experience demonstrates that this practice, during dry years, especially, often results in making the difference between failure and success of the crop. When heavy cornstalks are turned under in their original form they tend to cut off the upward movement of water, while plowing under a stiff surface crust also tends to act in the same manner.

We realize that it takes time to disk the surface before putting in the plow, nevertheless it is time well spent. Some of the best corn growers of the Central West disk their entire area before plowing a furrow, because they claim that in addition to the advantages we have enumerated there is also the additional advantage that the disking produces a mulch and thus preserves the moisture until such time as the plowing is done. We have no hesitation in advising the more general introduction of this practice, and we believe that it would materially increase the corn yield of the great Central West if every corn grower would go after the stalk ground with the disk before plowing it.

STARTING LAMBS ON FEED.

I do not believe any other one phase of lamb-feeding contributes more toward failure than careless feeding when the lambs are first put on to feed, says the American Agriculturist. Toward the end of the feeding season careless beginners wonder why their lambs have not done better on the amount of feed supplied them. In nearly every case it is because they were not started in the right manner to begin with.

When I first began feeding lambs for market I was inexperienced in the business, but several of my neighbors had been feeding lambs for several years. To start with I purchased 100 Western lambs out of a car lot shipped in by one of my neighbors. The lambs were put on to feed as soon as they arrived at the barn. Clover hay and bean pods were fed for roughage, and corn and oats as a grain ration. Both of these were fed in amounts that the lambs would clean up nicely. These lambs were fed during the winter and the following spring marketed, but to my surprise, they had hardly made an average gain of fifteen pounds each.

This illustrates the importance of starting lambs right. While I had supplied the proper amount of feed, I had not prepared the lambs to consume it profitably. Since then I have become more acquainted with the art of feeding lambs and am now able to fit lambs that when marketed bring the top prices.

For the first two or three weeks after the lambs are put on to feed they should be fed very carefully. At first they are inclined to overeat, and unless the feed is supplied in moderate amounts serious trouble results that in many instance terminates the feeding season. It is advisable for two or three days after the lambs are put in the barn to feed bright oat straw twice daily, at morning and evening, with a light feed of clover hay at noon. With this kind of roughage there is not the danger of the lambs overeating. The aim in feeding this kind of food is to give the lambs a chance to rest up physically before loading the stomach. After the first two or three days the arrangement can be turned around and the hay fed twice daily and the oat straw once at noon.

MARKETING LIGHT HORSES.

Action is extremely important in light horses. It should be straight and true. At the trot it should be what is known as the straight line trot, no wabbling from one side to the other, or swinging the feet. The action from behind should be straight, the feet picked up smartly, hocks well flexed, and the feet of both fore and hind legs at each step placed immediately in front of the former position.

Style is of the highest importance, and this is generally indicated by the way in which he carries his head, the general appearances of smartness, of good disposition, and nerve.

Then we have the point of manners. No horse is going to sell well in any of these classes that is not well mannered or shows that he has had no education. I do not mean by that that he should lack spirit, because he must have spirit, but he should have been taught how to behave himself in the case of emergency. This is especially true in the case of horses that are sold for city use. A great many horses are very sharply discriminated against on this point.

The last point is that of condition. You know, of couse, that if you send a steer to market that is not fat, you are not going to get as much for him as you would if he were fat. To a certain extent, the same thing is true of horses. It is not true of light horses as much as with drafters, but a horse out of condition will not sell within twenty-five per cent. of what he might sell for if he were in good condition. He should not be over-fed or over-fat, but he should have meat enough to cover his bones and make him look well fed and smooth.—Dr. G. M. Rommel, in The American Cultivator.

USE OF SPRAYING COMPOUNDS.

Every year shows progress in the discovery of methods to free trees from insect pests. It is a pleasure to find so much attention given to the subject. It demands it, for the fruit industry of the country is too important a one to be neglected. There have been many fruit growers thoroughly discouraged because of the loss of their trees by scale, and this calls for the more praise to those who continue experimenting, declining to give up.

At a recent meeting of fruit growers the question of spraying against the codlin moth and fungi came up and Mr. Dunlap, the well known fruit grower of Illinois, had this to say of spraying mixtures:

"There is no question that the experiments conducted in Illinois this year, taken with the experiments that have been made heretofor, will lead us to change the proportion of the so-called Bordeaux mixture. We have been using too much copper sulphate and too little Paris green. The proportion of two pounds of copper sulphate, five or six pounds of lime and six ounces of Paris green is the most effective remedy that we can apply to our orchard and will do the least harm. The most important point is to have the solution thoroughly applied, so as to cover all the leaves and all the fruit.

"There is only one thing more important than that, and that is the time of application. After the original blossom bud opens up so that the pin of the bloom just shows, we apply our first spray, and continue until the tree is in bloom; then we cease until the petals are practically all fallen, when we commence with our second spray, and from that time until about seven days after the bloom falls is the very important and critical time to spray for the codling moth, as well as fungous growth. The third application is not material as to the time."—Indianapolis News.

IMPROVED HIS WOODLOT.

If a little care and forethought is taken when cutting the year's supply of fuel to thin out in the thicker places, saving the young and thrifty trees, letting in the sunshine occasionally to start a vigorous growth, and perhaps trimming the trunks to get smoother growth for timber, it will be surprising to see how much the stump value is increased.

The writer had occasion to cut over a piece of woodland about thirty-five years ago, getting perhaps forty cords to the acre. The same land has been cleared again within the last three years, the yield being about the same. The second crop is mixed with a certain amount of valuable kinds of timber, among which are white ash, hickory, black cherry, etc., straight, thrifty young trees, which, if left to grow to the size necessary for lumbering, will benefit some one to the amount of many dollars. There is a growing scarcity of the first mentioned variety; it is used for the woodwork for nearly all kinds of farm-tools and wagons. The writer has lately seen some very beautiful house finishing lumber prepared from this kind of wood.

As every one knows the price of lumber is high and advancing, and even the middleaged man may see a future profit within his lifetime if his timber is given a little more care; this with the means at hand and without outlay of capital.—J. H. Clark, in The American Cultivator.

The New York grand opera chorus has formed a union. Suppose they should draw the line at a non-union audience? suggests the Pittsburg Dispatch.

This country ranks first in the papermaking industry.

NEWS AND NOTES FOR WOMEN

ARRANGEMENT OF FURNITURE.

One of the perplexing questions of house furnishing is the arrangement of the furniture; how to place the various pieces in order to obtain the best results.

If the room under consideration is the library where shall the bookcases stand? where place the reading table? how locate the chairs? If the room is the dining room, how arrange sideboard and serving table and other pieces so that comfort for the family and convenience for the servants are obtained? If the room is a sleeping apartment how dispose the furniture so that light, air and privacy are secured?

Oftentimes when the library, living room and dining room are faultless, the bedrooms of the house are lacking in any plan or forethought in the arrangement of the furniture, says the Washington Times. The bed faces a window, making sleep impossible after sunrise, or the dressing table is in a dark corner where little light is obtained. Guest rooms are usually the greatest offenders against comfort, for they are seldom occupied by the members of the family, and thus their various shortcomings are unnoticed. A polite guest does not care to draw attention to the negligence of his hostess or the oversight of the architect. The latter is, of course, not responsible for the location of the furniture, unless he has provided insufficient wall space which is an occasional architectural sin. Where a room is so cut up by doors and windows that the only available space for the bed is opposite a window, the architect is largely to blame. If the exposure be an eastern one the annoyance is deepseated. Heavy shades are seldom sufficient to shut out the early morning sun. Again, in shutting out the sun, the direct means of air may be cut off also.

Another fault, common to many bedrooms, lies in the senseless placing of the fixtures. Possibly the room is lighted by a small chandelier with four burners. In addition, there are doubtless side lights. It is in the placing of the latter that comfort is disregarded. Two lights are the common appropriation, and these usually decorate the side wall, which is least broken by openings. The sole purpose of these lights is, presumably, to give illumination for comfortable dressing. The dressing table is placed so as to get the best light by day. The fixtures are as far as possible from this point. A little forethought might have located the two together.

Another serious fault in bedrooms is the lack of privacy in the placing of the furniture. The open door reveals the whole arrangement. The bed and the dressing table, if possible, should be so located that they are invisible from the hall.

In the other rooms of the house, good taste and common sense go hand in hand. It is less easy to go astray in the dining room, for pieces are often built in, or, lacking this scheme, plain spaces are left for sideboard and serving table.

In the living room, book and magazine tables should be placed so as to receive light; chairs for reading should be near at hand, and bookcases, not too high for easy access, should line the walls.

Comfort and convenience are the hand-maidens of a well furnished house—both of far greater importance than expense and luxury.

HOME LIFE OF THE CHINESE.

The home life of the Chinese is less familiar to Americans than that of any other foreign nation represented in this country. After the manner of their forefathers, the Chinese hold to conservative ideas for their women, and with few exceptions, where the feminine members of the fa... have taken to attending meetings and clubs in public. Americans do not get so much as a peep at the dainty little women upon whom we bestow so much sympathy, but who, if the truth be known, are far happier than the majority of those who pity them. The keynote of Chinese home life as it is lived in this country is contentment. The wife and mother is happy with her husband, who, despite his scattered business interests, be he even a highbinder or a professional fan-tan man, is devotion itself to his family. She thoroughly enjoys her children, her cozy home with its musical instruments, its flowers, and the domestic pets. All Chinese women are taught to play the young cum, a zither-like instrument, and the majority of them sing the queer oriental songs, which are verses of the classics set to music. Without exception, there are flowers in almost every window of a Chinese home, though the home consists of only two rooms, as many of them in New York do. These women know nothing of the opera, the horse shows, dinners, and grand cotillons; among the Chinese women there are no passee maidens who after three or four seasons are still unsought in marriage, and there are no divorces. Their very ignorance of the world is the safeguard of their contentment, and why any one who is content and happy should be the object of pity and sympathy from worldlings is a problem for Confucius-like wisdom to solve.—Harriet Quimby in Leslie's Weekly.

WASH DRESSES FOR WINTER.

Wash dresses for house wear are one of the innovations this fall, and they will be worn all winter. Gradually women have been working up to it by discarding flannel waists for cotton waists, and now the cotton, linen or gingham skirt has followed.

Women say there are three common sense reasons why the winter wash dresses should be popular. In the first place, they can be kept cleaner. Even if a house is heated by steam or hot water there is always a great deal of dust circulating in the heated rooms, and this soon means a soiled gown.

If a woolen gown is worn the dust and dirt keeps on grinding in until the dress becomes almost gritty, for it cannot be cleansed save at the cleaner's, and this is expensive. But the wash dress can be put into the tub every week, to be made fresh, crisp and attractive.

In the second place, when a woman has been accustomed all spring and summer to light weight clothing she finds the heavier winter apparel a decided drag on her. So she impatiently pulls off the heavy woolen gown and slips into a comfortable linen or gingham one.

For a third reason, she says hygiene teaches that light clothing for house wear and heavier clothing for street wear means better health.

Of course, there is always the excellent reason of economy for five wash dresses may be purchased where only one woolen gown is possible, and then a woman may use in winter the gingham dresses of the past summer, which will be a little out of fashion the following summer, but are all right for house wear.—American Cultivator.

HAIR ORNAMENTS.

Rich design and much ornamentation is the order of things with hair onaments. The empire style seems to take precedence over others, though there is always the conservative comb, which, with its plain gold rim, if of unquestionably good taste. Speaking of back combs, the new idea is a high back—at least an inch wide. Usually this is elaborately decorated with carving, filigree, gold and jewels.

There are shell combs with gold and silver inlaid, and set with rhinestones or diamonds. There are those with simple designs of inlaid gold, and others with clusters of rhinestones set in silver in the form of wreaths and bows, placed on the broad, plain shell band. The rhinestones in the silver imitate diamonds in platinum, says the Philadelphia North American.

The three kinds of gold finish most used in this elaborate decoration are antique, Roman and rose. Stones are set therein to harmonize—olivines, aquamarines, amethysts, sapphires, rubies, baroque pearls, and so on.

A style that will be exceedingly prominent is a direct copy of the old fashioned ball-top combs. Balls carved from the shell and ranging in size from a quarter inch to three-quarters, are arrayed across the top of a somewhat narrow, long-toothed comb, looking for all the world like grandmother's relic of fashionable times in the 50's.

There is something decidedly new in barettes. They are being designed to correspond with the gold and jewel designs of the combs.

FASHIONS IN FEATHERS.

Flaunting plumage of most vivid colorings deck the winter hat of the woman of fashion, and, curiously enough, not even the most brilliant to suit the millinery freak of the moment.

Peacock tail plumage is used in its metallic blue-green shade, while the tall feathers of the same bird are dyed a rich brick red.

A London milliner tempted her customers with a purple hat of the Gainsborough type, which was one glorious mass of that magnificent color known as eminence. The feathers on the hat repeated the dye.

A single ostrich feather perched upright, with the tip dropping over a diamond diadem, is a form of adornment that is very extraordinary, but truly piquant when worn by a handsome woman in her hair as the coiffure ornament that accompanies an empire evening robe. The color must match the gown.

Brilliant, indeed, are the orange and amber marabou feathers, which are as fluffy as a duckling's coat, and like a rosy cloud is the same plumage when dyed a bright cerise.

Startling as these colors are, they look refined, because the mellow pigments of the paintings of the great French artist, Nattier, and those of his contemporary, De Largilliere, are closely copied. Nattier blue is at present a most fashionable dye for millinery plumage.—New Haven Register.

FASHION NOTES.

It is difficult to find in the shops a simple crepe or chiffon waist which an elderly woman or one of quiet tastes might wear.

The craze for lace is at its height at the present time. Waists, gowns, coats, hats of rich lace are being acquired by every woman who can afford them, and it is bad news to learn that the prices are higher than ever.

A GREAT COMBINATION OFFER

We Will Furnish the "TWICE-A-WEEK" Issue of the

St. Louis Globe-Democrat

With

THE UNION

For

$1.50 Both Papers, one year, only $1.50.

The St. Louis Globe Democrat should not be classed with the many cheap weekly papers. It is a high-grade Semi-Weekly, eight or more pages, every Tuesday and Friday. It is beyond all comparison the biggest, best and cheapest National News and Home Journal published in the United States. It is strictly Republican in Politics but is above all

A Great Modern Newspaper.

It is not made up indiscriminately from the Daily issue. It is carefully edited with special reference to the needs of the Farmer, the Merchant and the professional man who desires to keep thoroughly posted without sparing the time to read a large Daily Paper. It also contains a great variety of well selected reading matter, making it invaluable to every member of the family.

This Liberal Clubbing Offer

is open to all old or new subscribers, but may be withdrawn at any time, and we must receive the cash with order. Address

THE UNION,
Clanton, Ala.

Ben M. Jacobs & Bros.,
Furniture and Rugs.
—SOLE AGENTS—
Globe-Wernicke Elastic Book Cases and Filing Cabinets.
Catalogue for the asking.
1011 First Ave., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

DISPATCH PRINTING CO.,
Blank Book Makers and Lithographers.
County and Office Supplies a Specialty.
Ask for Estimates.
2113-2119 Morris Ave., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association
OF ALABAMA.
CHARTERED BY SPECIAL ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE
By the People and for the People.
Chilton County Branch
Organized February 3, 1900.
W. M. WILSON, President. WALLACE C. EDLER, Sec'y.-Treas.
INSURES Farmers' dwellings, outbuildings and contents and live stock against loss by fire, wind and lightning. The cheapest, safest and most sensible method of insurance known to man
Average Yearly Cost for Five and a half Years 43-100 of 1 per cent.
Full particulars furnished upon application to WALLACE C. EDLER, Clanton, Ala.

PAUL CALAME,
205 21st Street
Birmingham, Ala.
Practical Watchmaker and Optician
Eyes Correctly Fitted
Mail orders promptly filled

DO YOU WANT
Letterheads, Noteheads, Billheads, Envelopes,
OR ANYTHING ELSE PRINTED?
Then Call at
THE UNION OFFICE
and See Fine Work at Low Prices.
500 Noteheads 500 Envelopes All For $2.00
Good Work on Good Material, done on Good Machines.
Don't forget! THE UNION, Clanton, Alabama.

CHAFFEE RESIGNS AS CHIEF.

Will Retire on February 1—General Bates Chief of Staff.

Washington, D. C.—Lieutenant-General Chaffee tendered his resignation as Chief of Staff, United States Army, to take effect at once, and it was accepted by the President. General Chaffee does not go on the retired list until February 1, but he desired to relinquish the duties of Chief of Staff that he might have a fortnight's leave of absence.

Patrick Gets Reprieve.

Governor Higgins, at Albany, N. Y., granted a stay of execution to Albert T. Patrick, who was convicted of murdering J. Marsh Rice in New York City in 1900, until March 19 for presentation of new evidence and a motion for a new trial.

Elected Head of Education Board.

Edgerton Leigh Winthrop, Jr., was elected President of the Board of Education, of New York City, to succeed Henry N. Tiff.

THE UNION

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Wallace C. Edler, Ed. and Pub.

Subscription price, in advance, per year, $1.

For advertising rates, call at the office, Seventh street, between First and Second avenues.

Entered April 15, 1903, at Clanton, Ala., as second class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications to the Union must be signed by the writer's real name as well as that name which they wish to put in the paper. Letters must reach the editor Tuesday morning to get in the same week. While we will publish any and all communications complying with these requirements that do not contain any improper language, we are not responsible for the opinions expressed. tf.

CLANTON, ALA., January 25, 1906.

Union Clubbing List

THE UNION And Yellow Jacket	$1.00
THE UNION And Southern Ruralist	1.00
THE UNION And Union Educator	1.00
THE UNION And Home and Farm	1.00
THE UNION And Weekly Age-Herald	1.25
THE UNION and Weekly Atlanta Constitution	1.25
THE UNION and Twice-a-Week Globe Democrat	1.50
THE UNION and Tri-W'kly Atlanta Constitution	1.50
THE UNION And Tom Watson's Magazine	1.50
THE UNION and Tri-Weekly N. Y. World	1.50
THE UNION And Rural South	1.50
THE UNION And Weekly Advertiser and Map of Alabama, U. S. and world	1.50

If there are any other papers you want call at THE UNION office, and we will get them for you at the lowest rates. tf

$10.00 REWARD

Will be paid to the three persons who secure for us the largest number of PAID subscribers between now and April 1st, 1906. No restrictions. Our clubbing prices go in this contest. $5.00 goes to the one with the largest list; $3.00 to the second largest list, and $2.00 to the third largest. Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds has kindly consented to be the judge in this contention, and he will make the awards. The names of the successful contestants will be published, also the names of all who tried for this reward. Now we have a thousand subscribers, help us to get a thousand additional, so as to fittingly celebrate the ending of our third year.

tf THE UNION.

"THE HIT DOG HOLLERS."

The Banner man must sure be hit hard, for he is commencing to yelp again about "the paper that is printed in Birmingham." Now, the Banner is gotten up in this way: One-third of it is printed in Birmingham, one-third in Atlanta, Ga., and one-third is printed here in Clanton on the press that he bought with part of the "thirty pieces of silver" that he got for betraying the people that took him by the hand (a tramp printer) and set him up in business, providing money and work for him. Of course it is galling to him to see The Union grow, but it will all tend to make him realize that "honesty is the best policy" in politics, as well as all other things in this life. "It is never too late to mend," and "while the lamp holds out to burn the vilest sinner may return." Two sayings that should afford him hope.

As to the 1-3 of the paper printed in Atlanta the following editorial will explain:

Some of our exchanges have been carrying "magazine sections" for several weeks past, and here comes to the surface an instance of monumental newspaper graft. These magazine sections do not cost the newspapers that run them one cent. A South Carolina contemporary, The Chesterfield Advertiser, says: "We wonder how the editors of the different papers of the state are feeling about the distribution of free supplements in connection with their regular papers. Some of them wonder how the supplements could be furnished free and now the 'negro in the woodpile' is making his appearance in the matter inserted in these supplements and we don't know what will appear in them later on. It turns out that these supplements are to be thrown broadcast over the country to work up a sentiment in favor of the United States government furnishing money in great quantities to certain individuals to irrigate certain lands in the far west." But that is not all. The publishers of these free magazine sections are reaching out for advertisers. One firm in Charlotte that we know of (perhaps there are others) received specimen copies of the "magazine section," which guaranteed a million copies and solicited his advertisement. This is the gold brick in a new form. The publishers who are enclosing this "magazine section" in their sheets are simply aiding a game. The wonder is that there is an editor in North Carolina so simple as to have been caught by it.—From the Charlotte, N. C., Chronicle January 2, 1906.

WHEN?

Dedicated to the remnant of the Democratic party of Chilton county. When will the Democrats control this county? When the lion eats grass like an ox, and the fish worm swallows the whale; when terrapins knit woolen socks, and the hare is outrun by the snail; when serpents walk upright like men, and doodle bugs travel like frogs; when grasshoppers feed on the hen, and feathers are found upon hogs; when Thomas cats swing in the air, and elephants roost upon trees; when insects in summer are rare, and snuff never makes people sneeze; when fish creep over dry land, and Democrats get honest, and money no longer needed; when Dutchmen no lager beer drink, and Democrats don't want any liquor; when billy goats butt from the rear, and treason no longer is crime; when humming birds advocate Democratic doctrine, and old cheese smells like cologne; when plough shares are made out of glass; when ideas grow in Democratic heads, and wool on the snakes. Then the Democratic party will control this county, and the county won't be worth a—but little.

A REPUBLICAN.

OUR BUSINESS AGENT.

We were all glad to greet Bro. P. F. Parker, our State business agent for the F. E. & C. U. of A. in Alabama, on Saturday last. The local county business agents were here, as well as a large number of the prominent farmers of our county. Mr. Parker's visit has done much good; it cleared away the clouds that the enemies of our organization had raised in their efforts to cripple and destroy it. Brethren, there is only one right way, and that is: Do business through the Union's agents, and be loyal to the promises you made when you joined the order. Get ready for the State Union to be held at Clanton March 7, 8 and 9. Stand fast.

DEMOCRATIC BUNCO GAME.

Read the following from the Montgomery Journal of the 12th inst. What Mr. Brooke says about Crenshaw county applies also to Chilton. For example, Dallas county has 2,000 registered white voters; Chilton county has 3,000, half as many more, yet in this Democratic convention scheme to nominate officers that the Democratic committee say the people are not capable of selecting Dallas county has thirteen votes, but Chilton county only five. Iniquitous indeed:

To the Editor of the Journal:

The people asked for bread and the State Democratic Executive Committee gave them a stone.

Just how they reasoned that the whole people should vote for Senatorial appointees and not for Senatorial "electees" is beyond comprehension.

Mr. Whitson's reputation, established in the last convention, when he ravished all known rules of parliamentary law, pales into insignificance compared with the adroitness which he has parted with a gold brick to the dear people at a better price perhaps than Zimmerman mulcted J. P. Morgan.

The committee has not given authority that county committees have not possessed. There is no justice or fairness in making five white men in Crenshaw county count as much as one white man in other counties.

If the Senatorial vote was to be cast as a whole then Crenshaw voters would have a show; as it is they are in a worse fix than before.

The scheme proposed will likely cause a deadlock, by which no Senator could be elected, and then it would be up to the Governor to appoint those who were nominated for successors. The whole plan is iniquitous in inception and will be infamous in execution

(Signed) H. Y. BROOKE

Chairman Democratic Executive Committee Crenshaw County.

FONVILLE ON THE STATE COMMITTEE.

To the Editor of the Journal:

I was in Montgomery during the session of the State Committee, but I thought the committee would get along without me for once.

I was mistaken.

It turns out that my counsel and advice were more needed than usual.

Oh, yes. I should have been sitting right at Bro. Mallory's elbow so as to be "a touchin' ov him now and then."

The good man actually forgot to have prayer! I can't understand it, how so good a man, clean shaved now, could neglect so important a means of drawing to his poor distressed party the favorable consideration of the Anti-Salooners. They are excellent men, if not mistaken in themselves, and usually pay as they vote when there's an object to be gained. Bro. Mallory ought to be "all things to all men, to gain some."

He is a wise man and can very easily persuade the Anti-Salooners that the whisky party is the one for them to tie to.

But he should have had prayer, for he needed something to "open 'em and guide 'em" in this, their time of trouble.

My opinion is that when such a crowd is met for devilment all their invitations to the Lord to be "one in their midst" are vain, but for decency's sake they ought to go through the motions.

So, if I had been sitting by the chairman, I would have whispered to him to call on some of the brethren to pray.

But that's a hard-hearted committee and indifferent to the plaintive appeals of sorrowful and distressed supplicants. Why, the members took no notice whatever of poor Hobson's piteous prayer for a "square deal" in his district.

True, the fellow had prematurely announced himself with Mr. Comer against the part, but that may have come of the indiscretion of a man not qualified to vote. He is young, and there seem to be thousands of young fellows who perhaps have no more discretion than Hobson. If the primary is postponed out of a tender consideration of the young, it does look like the committee should have arranged specially that if Hobson is to be "counted out" the margin shall be small.

Oh, if I had been sitting up by Bro. Mallory as "big as Ike" I would have suggested kindness to the lad. I imagine, however, that Bro. Mallory has forgotten that the party once found it necessary to do the young man's father a kindness. Well, it did. The old gentleman took to the people against the party and learned a lesson—than the man or party who injures never forgives, even to the third or fourth generation. The young fellow will learn by degrees—but Bankhead will go to Congress. A "square deal" will knock the Congressional life out of the "dry bones."

But, for all that, I would have pretended that we were going to give the young man a "fair count." It would look better and we would feel better—till the returns are in.

Oh, you don't know how it pesters me that such a distinction is made between the candidate and the voter in the matter of qualification.

No colored fellow citizen can vote in the primary, but so far as the rule is concerned he can be a candidate. That is making too great a difference among niggers.

Lots of niggers are Democrats—or used to be. They are thought to be biding their time if they shall be needed by the party against the people.

There should have been a rule against his candidacy in the primary.

WASN'T IT IN 1878 THAT THE COUNTY CONVENTION (DEMOCRATIC) OF MONTGOMERY COUNTY SENT TWO NIGGER DELEGATES TO THE STATE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION?

If so, history may repeat itself some time, and there should have been a specific definition of what a Democrat is.

There are so many kinds of Democrats, some of 'em smarter, some of 'em darker, some of 'em "slicker" than the other, that the wayfaring man is at a loss to tell "tother from which," unless he's tagged or marked or branded with the party approval.

The poor, unthinking Democrats have the same privilege of voting in the primary, but any man with money can be a candidate!

I don't think it's right.

That mention of money brings on more talk.

If I had been sitting with Brother Mallory I never would have let it gone out to the world, as the opinion of the committee, that only the rich man can be a candidate in the Democratic primary!

He needed me then worst of all.

Mind you, I gather this from the beautiful and eloquent remarks of Mr. Whitson.

He said it—it was unchallenged by the committee, and is therefore the utterance of the committee that "a poor man can't run for nomination in a Democratic primary."

The poor devils can "lick their shops" and choose among the rich for State officers!!

That's Democracy!

Oh, how the committee needed me then!

And this is the Democratic dictum—"For a State office let no poor man apply. He can vote!"

J. C. FONVILLE.

—Montgomery Journal, January 12.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

Editor Union:

We are all here and more a-coming. This place is all right. Mrs. J. J. Culp, who has been confined to her bed with illness for some time, is still poorly, we are sorry to say, but hope she will soon get better. J. Wiley Foshee's little son, who got so badly burned some time ago, is improving. Except the above, the health of our community is good. Our Sunday school is progressing nicely under the efficient management of our superintendent, Rev. W. P. Lowery. The F. E. & C. U. of A. is proving a success. We are sure glad to see the farmer so much interested in his own welfare. The literary school is moving along nicely under the able management of Miss Neoma Williams. J. H. Duncan's new residence is nearly completed. Miss Minnie Kittrell, of Tallassee, is visiting relatives and friends in this vicinity. Best wishes to The Union and its many readers. JUST A SUBSCRIBER.

THORSBY.

Dr. Stabler was called to his parents' home last week, where he attended the funeral of his brother, who died very suddenly. We sympathize with Dr. Stabler in the loss of a dear brother. Wallace Hand was a Thorsby visitor last week. Several parties from Clanton were seen in town on last Wednesday. Mr. T. Bosworth took a trip to Birmingham on the 17th. A social gathering for young people was largely attended in the dormitory building on the night of the 17th. Miss Rollins, of Clanton, is visiting with her sister, Mrs. Goss. T. I. Thorson arrived with a number of excursionists on last week's excursion. Two Thorsby visitors stepped off train No. 1 on Thursday morning. Messrs. M. and A. Speer, of Michigan, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. Anderson. Charlie Peterson is in Anniston. Rev. Beal spent several days in Thorsby last week visiting the people here. He spoke at the Baptist church on Sunday. The friends of Harold Ellifson and sister surprised them at their home on the night of the 19th. Prof. Von Felitz delivered a lecture on Catholicism in the Norwegian church on Sunday night. Mr. and Mrs. N. Turner left for Ridgeville, Ind., on the 22nd. Both parties were highly respected in Thorsby and their many friends regretted bidding them good by. May success follow them through life. Miss Gesner, of Montgomery, has returned to her home after spending a three days' visit with her friend, Miss M. Gallager. Several large real estate transactions took place here last week.

NEMO.

MAPLESVILLE MELANE.

"Oh, such miserable weather," is what we hear, though the thermometer is ranging between 60 and 70 with almost continuous rainfall. Many have suffered with "grippe," but not seriously. On the 14th our town was honored by the presence of at the Martin Hotel of Hon. R. P. Hobson and wife. We regret that Mrs. C. H. Parnell has been seriously ill. J. S. Plant, a kinsman of our excellent citizen, Charley Plant, has enjoyed a bird hunt here. Frank Kelley, of Selma, and brother, Dr. W. D. Kelley, of Oklahoma, with their wives, are visiting Mrs. R. D. Martin. They treated some friends to a phonograph serenade. Henry Blalock is convalescent from a serious attack of pneumonia. Miss Della Blalock has been called to Selma by the illness of her little nephew, Clay Garner.

Jemison, Ala., Jan. 18, 1906.

Editor Union:

Dear Sir and Bro.—Please publish this for me. To the people of the F. E. & C. U. of A., I want to say a few words to you through our paper. First, I am glad to see our Union progressing so nice, and I'm proud to see our people standing together as well as they are. Yet I see just a little mistake being made by some of our people in the guano question. Brothers, you know that this is the first time that you've ever known the merchant to offer to sell fertilizer at cost. Do you know why this is? You take the business agents of our Unions out of this county, and 10.2.2 goods would sell at $22.50 to $25 per ton before this season is over. Now, brother, this is the time of all times for you to stand together, and stand by the manufacturer that has been the great means of bringing guano to the margin of today. Let the agent of each local correspond with J. W. Sorrell, of Jemison, and get his prices, and then buy of him. Let us remember that this is a co-operative business; therefore let us help the weak brother lest he fall, and in his fall we be made weak. Think of the good that we've already done by co-operation. The Union and the S. C. A. have brought about some of the best prices that we've ever had, both on what we have to sell and what we have to buy, in favor of the farmer. Now, I'm sure that every farmer should be interested in these co-operations, for the prices of today are due to this work; otherwise cotton would be selling today for less than 8 cents. Hurrah for Chilton. The State Union will be held at Clanton on March 7, 8 and 9, 1906. Let us make it the best meeting of the kind ever held in the State. Yours in all co-operative work and agricultural lines,

JOSEPH H. THOMAS.

LIBERTY HILL.

Mr. Editor:

Here I come again just as gay as ever, looking for a seat. Rev. A. L. Foshee filled his regular appointment here Saturday to a large and attentive congregation, but on Sunday the attendance was small, owing to rain and sickness. We are glad to note that Aunt Polly Foshee is improving. Mrs. Quitman Childress has been quite sick, but she is up again now. John Littlejohn has also been sick. Miss Neoma Williams was a welcome visitor at W. D. Z. Foshee's Sunday. Marion Mims was with friends here Saturday night. Oliver Smith and his charming bride visited T. P. Smith's Sunday. J. D. Littlejohn was a visitor at the Eiland residence on Sunday afternoon. We notice Sydney Weldon going up the road on Sunday. There must be something attractive up north. Well, as ye scribe had the pleasure of riding in the rain Sunday and catching a sack full of cold, I'll ring off. Success to The Union. ONE FORSAKEN.

NOTICE.

Cooper, Ala., Dec. 30, 1905.

The books and accounts of A. G. Clark & Son are in my hands for collection. All parties interested will please come at once and settle and save time and trouble.

J. J. M'DOWELL,

tf Justice Peace, Beat 10.

Come and Be Pleased.

PRICES AND TERMS upon w we are selling the most be ful and attractive goods of season will certainly please surprise you.

The styles on which fashion stamped her approval for the co season are now shown with ne materials.

A Full line of Star Brand Shoes.

Men's and boys' Clothing.

Full line of Gents' Furnishing Goods

Ladies' and children's Jackets, Skirts Ready-to-Wear Hats.

Anything you want in Dress G Hardware, Saddlery and Florence Wa

J. C. JONES,

Clanton, Alaba

Pure Water Prevents Fevers.

DRILLED WELLS FURNISH PURE WAT

We guarantee water or no charge made. Estimates given. Address

I. E. SARBER CO.

Thorsby, Alaba

Subscribe for this pape

LOVEMAN, JOSEPH & LOEB. BIRMINGHAM. LOVEMAN, JOSEPH & LOEB.

The Greatest January Silk Sale

EVER HELD IN THE SOUTHERN STATES.

50,000 yards of the finest black and colored silks to be offered at one-half and less than one-half of regular prices. :-: :-: :-:

Sale Starts Tuesday, Jan. 2nd.

The January silk sale has always been a great event in this store—but this year we have planned to make it the greatest and most successful silk sale we have ever conducted. Circumstances lent themselves fortunately to our plans. The manufacturers co-operated as never before—our importations are larger, the goods of better quality and the prices more favorable.

And after months of the most careful preparation we are ready to launch on next Tuesday the biggest event in silk selling which the people of the South have ever known.

Make your plans at once—make up your minds to come early—People from every county in Alabama will be here, and their fares will be paid by the liberal shopping inducement offered during this sale.

Come the first day. If you can't do so be sure and come before the end of the first week.

SPECIAL TABLES AND SPECIAL PRICES:

Table No. 1—39c silks at 19c
Table No. 2—50c silks at 29c
Table No. 3—59c silks at 39c
Table No. 4—75c silks at 49c
Table No. 5—89c silks at 59c
Table No. 6—$1.00 silks at 69c
Table No. 7—$1.25 silks at 79c
Table No. 8—$1.50 silks at 89c
Table No. 9—$1.75 silks at 99c
Table No. 10—$2.00 silks at $1.19

No discounts. No goods returned after once sold. No C. O. D.'s except on deposit. No goods sent on approval. The reductions in this sale are so thorough and genuine that our friends cannot expect us to extend the privileges allowed on regular goods.

Loveman, Joseph & Loeb.

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

CITY AND COUNTY OFFICIALS.

Circuit Court.

...ing Term—Third Monday in May.
...l Term—Fourth Monday in No...
...—S. L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
...ttor—W. B. Bowling, Dadeville.
...k—Sam W. Collins.

Chancery Court.

...rting Term—Second Monday in ...
...ll Term—Second Monday in Sep...
...ncellor—Hon. W. W. Whitesides.
...gister—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan...

County Court.

...st Monday in each month.

Commissioners' Court.

...cond Monday February, first Mon... April, first Monday June, second ...day July, second Monday August, ... Monday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

...dge of Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
...reasurer—W. T. Cullen.
...heriff—J. M. Morgan.
...olicitor—W. M. Adams.
...ax Assessor—L. B. Pounds.
...ax Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.

...irst District—W. H. Conway.
...econd District—Alex Glasscock.
...hird District—R. P. Kendrick.
...ourth District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.

...rof. J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor.

...P. R. Dahl, Calera.

State Senator.

...on. W. R. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.

...astors and clerks are cordially ask... to send the editor any news regard... their churches which they would ...e published. Also if there are any ...rs in these notices please send cor... ...ions.

MISSIONARY BAPTISTS.

...eth-Salem—Rev. J. E. Moore, 3rd ...nday. E. B. Popwell, clerk, Billings... R. F. D. No. 1.

...lanton—Rev. A. C. Swindall, 1st ... 3rd Sundays. W. I. Mullins, clerk.

...hestnut Creek—Rev. T. J. Deason, ... Sunday. H. A. Harris, clerk.

...iberty Hill—Rev. S. Smitherman, ... Sunday. W. M. Wood, clerk.

...acedonia—Rev. G. W. Freeman, ... Sunday. H. H. Armstrong, clerk.

...ew Salem—Rev. S. Smitherman, ... Sunday. W. M. Pierce, clerk.

...oplar Springs—Rev. A. L. Foshee, ... Sunday. J. J. McDowell, clerk.

...nion Point—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 2n... ...nday. J. N. Miner, clerk, Clanto...

...ollins Chapel—Rev. J. H. Thomas ... Sunday. J. W. Littleton, clerk.

...nion Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas ... Sunday. R. S. Chandler, clerk.

...leasant Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas ... Sunday. T. J. Headley, clerk.

...ars Hill—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 1st ...nday. G. W. Gothard, clerk.

...ocky Mount M. E. Church—Rev ... Carroll, pastor, 2nd Sunday. Serv... ...rvice every 2nd and 4th Sunday a... ...noons. Prayer meeting every Wed... ...day night.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

Masonic.

...lanton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—... ...ird Saturday, Clanton.

...manda Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...—Fourth Saturday, Cooper.

...lanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...—First Saturday, Clanton.

...entury Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...—First Saturday, Billingsley.

...oseman Lodge, A. F. and A. M. ... 534—Saturday on or before fu... ...on, Marbury.

...emison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...—Saturday on or before full moo... ...mison.

...tanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...—Tuesday on or before full moo... ...anton.

I. O. O. F.

...emison Lodge—First and third Sa... ...days.

...lanton Lodge, No. 304—Second a... ...urth Saturdays.

Woodmen of the World.

...lack Jack Camp, No. 190—First a... ...ird Mondays.

I. C. R. M.

...oronerma Tribe, No. 90—First a... ...ird Mondays sleep. Visiting chie... ...rdially invited. E. B. Langston, ... R.; J. H. Patton, Sachem.

L. M. P. A.

...arsha Lodge, of Thorsby—Seco... ...d fourth Saturdays.

d ed.

RICES AND TERMS upon w
we are selling the most be ful and attractive goods of season will certainly please ise you.
e styles on which fashion
ved her approval for the co n are now shown with ne rials.

ull line of Star Brand Shoes.
's and boys' Clothing.
l line of Gents' Furnishing Goods ies' and children's Jackets, Skirts
-to-Wear Hats. thing you want in Dress Go ace, Sudbery and Florence Wag

JONES,
Alabam

Prevents Fevers.

URNISH PURE WAT er or no charge made.
Address
ARBER CO.
Alaba

or this pape

RMINGHAM. LOVEMAN, JOSEPH & LOEB.

atest Jan-
Silk Sale
E SOUTHERN STATES.

ls of the finest colored silks to
at one-half and ne-half of reg-

uesday, Jan. 2nd.

sale has always been a great
t this year we have planned
t and most successful silk ucted. Circumstances lent to our plans. The manus never before—our impor-oods of better quality and ble.
of the most careful prep-to launch on next Tuesday k selling which the people
r known.
s at once—make up your People from every county
e, and their fares will be opping inducement offered

. If you can't do so be
be end of the first week.

AND SPECIAL PRICES:

Table No. 6—$1.00 silks at 69c
Table No. 7—$1.25 silks at 79c
Table No. 8—$1.50 silks at 89c
Table No. 9—$1.75 silks at 98c
Table No. 10—$2.00 silks at $1.39
returned after once sold. No C. O.
oods sent on approval. The reduc-gh and genuine that our friends privileges allowed on regular goods.

oseph & Loeb.
ALABAMA.

...NTS AND COUNTY OFFICIALS.

Circuit Court.

...ring Term—Third Monday in May.
...ll Term—Fourth Monday in No...
...ber.
...dge—S. L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
...licitor—W. B. Bowling, Dadeville.
...rk—Sam W. Collins.

Chancery Court.

...ring Term—Second Monday in ...ch.
...ll Term—Second Monday in Sep...
...ber.
...ancellor—Hon. W. W. Whitesides.
...gister—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan...

County Court.

First Monday in each month.

Commissioners' Court.

...cond Monday February, first Mon...
... April, first Monday June, second
...day July, second Monday August,
... Monday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

...dge of Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
...easurer—W. T. Callen.
...eriff—J. M. Morgan.
...olicitor—W. M. Adams.
...ax Assessor—L. B. Pounds.
...ax Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.

First District—W. H. Conway.
Second District—Alex Glasscock.
Third District—R. P. Kendrick.
Fourth District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.

Prof. J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor.

A. P. R. Dahl, Calera.

State Senator.

Hon. W. R. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.

Pastors and clerks are cordially ask... to send the editor any news regard... their churches which they would ...h published. Also if there are any ...rors in these notices please send cor...ctions.

MISSIONARY BAPTISTS.

Beth-Salem—Rev. J. E. Moore, 3rd ...nday. E. B. Popwell, clerk, Billings... R. F. D. No. 1.

Clanton—Rev. A. C. Swindall, 1st ...d 3rd Sundays. W. I. Mullins, clerk.

Chestnut Creek—Rev. T. J. Deason, ...d Sunday. H. A. Harris, clerk.

Liberty Hill—Rev. S. Smitherman, ...d Sunday. W. M. Wood, clerk.

Macedonia—Rev. G. W. Freeman, ...d Sunday. H. H. Armstrong, clerk.

New Salem—Rev. S. Smitherman, ...d Sunday. W. M. Pierce, clerk.

Poplar Springs—Rev. A. L. Foshee, ...h Sunday. J. J. McDowell, clerk.

Union Point—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 3rd ...nday. J. N. Miner, clerk, Clanton.

Collins Chapel—Rev. J. H. Thomas ...d Sunday. J. W. Littleton, clerk.

Union Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas, ...d Sunday. R. S. Chandler, clerk.

Pleasant Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas, ...h Sunday. T. J. Headley, clerk.

Mars Hill—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 1st ...nday. G. W. Gothard, clerk.

Rocky Mount M. E. Church—Rev. ...r. Carroll, pastor, 2nd Sunday. Song ...rvice every 2nd and 4th Sunday af...rnoons. Prayer meeting every Wed...sday night.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

Masonic.

Clanton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—...hird Saturday, Clanton.

Amanda Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...—Fourth Saturday, Cooper.

Clanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...—First Saturday, Clanton.

Century Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...—First Saturday, Billingsley.

Boreman Lodge, A. F. and A. M., ...o. 534—Saturday on or before full ...oon, Marbury.

Jemison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...1—Saturday on or before full moon, ...emison.

Stanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...—Tuesday on or before full moon, ...tanton.

I. O. O. F.

Jemison Lodge—First and third Sat...rdays.

Clanton Lodge, No. 304—Second and ...urth Saturdays.

Woodmen of the World.

Black Jack Camp, No. 190—First and ...ird Mondays.

I. O. R. M.

Geronermo Tribe, No. 90—First and ...ird Mondays sleep. Visiting chiefs ...rdially invited. E. B. Langston, C. ... R.; J. H. Patton, Sachem.

L. M. P. A.

Eureka Lodge, of Thorsby—Second ...d fourth Saturdays.

MULES AND MARES.

I will have 10 good mules for sale at my store on January 20th. On January 20th a car load of fine brood mares, between 4 and 6 years old, and weighing from 800 to 1,000 pounds each, will be offered. Call early and take your choice.

W. A. REYNOLDS,
tf Jemison, Ala.

CLANTON COTTON MARKET.

Total receipts to Jan. 24, '06, 6,015.
Price same date, 11 1-8c.
Receipts same time, 1905, 5,350.
Price same date, 6 5-8c.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Don't forget the Horticultural meeting at Thorsby, Tuesday, Jan. 30th. Everybody go.

D. C. Honeycutt was a pleasant visitor Thursday.

S. M. Edwards was in Clanton Friday. He says that Aunt Eliza Sharp, of Mississippi, is a visitor in his neighborhood. She has been away from Chilton 35 years.

J. W. Kicker was in town Friday. His daughter, Miss Loyce, who has been visiting Jim Popwell's family, accompanied him home.

F. A. Bates was a pleasant visitor Friday.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Headley Tuesday (16th). Mother and child doing well.

P. R. Devaughan and sons, E. H. and Ocie, were welcome callers Friday. E. H. says married life is all right.

W. R. Baker and sons, Robert and Lucian, were pleasant visitors Saturday.

R. A. Hancock was in Clanton Saturday.

S. H. Riggins was a welcome caller Saturday.

D. H. Gentry, of Thorsby, was in town Saturday. He looks like life is going well with him.

Col. A. C. Smith went to Montgomery Monday with the necessary papers to lay before the supreme court in the appeal of our county commissioners against Judge Alston's ruling in the mandamus case of the M. and O. and Southern railways against the commissioners' court. These cases are a legacy from Sam Adams' administration in the Probate office.

J. W. Abbott and D. W. Scott were welcome callers Monday.

The Methodist church of Clanton had a busy time Saturday and Sunday. Quarterly conference and the new presiding elder drew good congregations.

W. D. Smith was a pleasant visitor Monday. He was accompanied by his son, W. O. Smith, with his bride; also his granddaughter, Miss Laura Hayes.

T. L. Dennis was a welcome caller on Monday. He's a good union man, though young.

Charles C. Swint has been appointed carrier and Lee T. Vickers substituted on Clanton R. F. D. No. 3. Both are A1 men.

J. E. Littlejohn has bought J. B. Downs' interest in the firm of Downs & Littlejohn. Hereafter "Elbert" will run it alone, and as he tends strictly to business, we predict success for him. Go and see him if you want good value for your money. Besides he is one of "our people."

Judge Reynolds went to Montgomery Tuesday on business.

P. W. Peterson, of Thorsby, spent Tuesday visiting Clanton.

A. Stein, the popular saloon man of Calera, was in Birmingham Wednesday on business.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

C. M. Davenport and Miss Emma Carwile. L. A. Wilson and Miss Ida Popwell. A. L. Roberts and Miss L. T. Sayers.

COLORED.

Levi Peoples and Bessie Williams.

WANTED!

A good farm hand—will give $18.00 per month, and furnish a house. Call on or address,

JOHN L. WINSLOW,
Thorsby, Ala.

BURNED TO DEATH.

Mrs. Ada Jones, wife of J. W. Jones, while toying with her baby, her dress caught fire and she was fatally burned. The accident occurred on January 1, and she died January 16. But the great and supreme Ruler of the universe has, in His infinite wisdom, removed from among us one of our worthy and esteemed laborers, and the long and intimate relation held with her in the faithful discharge of her duties in the community makes it eminently befitting to show our appreciation of her. Therefore we say that the wisdom and ability which she has exercised in our community by service and counsel will be gratefully remembered by us. The sudden removal of such a life from our midst leaves a vacancy and a shadow that will be deeply realized by all the members of the community and will prove a serious loss to the public. And we feel deep sympathy with the bereaved relatives of the deceased. We express our hope that even so great a loss to us all may be overruled for good by Him who doeth all things well. Yours truly,

J. A. JONES,
Verbena, Route 2.

More than five billion gallons of petroleum are produced annually.

ALABAMA STATE HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

January 30 and 31, 1906.

The third annual meeting will be held at Thorsby, Ala. on the above dates. Please notice, the citizens of Thorsby offer free entertainment to all members of the society. The railroads offer a rate of a fare and one-third, plus 25 cents, if fifty members present standard form certificates. Be sure to get a standard form certificate when you buy ticket. An interesting program is being arranged. We need the help of all persons interested in fruits, vegetables or flowers. You need our help. Annual membership fee, $1. Thorsby is midway between Montgomery and Birmingham. All the people are interested in fruit growing and will give our members a royal welcome. Come.

W. F. HEIKES, President,
Huntsville, Ala.
R. S. MACKINTOSH, Sec'y,
tf Auburn, Ala.

PROGRAM.

Tuesday Morning at 9:30.

(Note—Program will not be followed as given below.)

Invocation; address of welcome, Mayor of Thorsby; response, Dr. C. C. Thach, Auburn; annual address of president, Mr. W. F. Heikes, Huntsville; report of secretary and treasurer, Prof. R. S. Mackintosh, Auburn; "Our Roads," Col. J. M. Thornton, Talladega; "Cost of Spraying With Lime Sulphur Wash," Mr. M. J. Soberg, Thorsby; "Where Does Birmingham Get Fresh Fruits and Vegetables?" Mr. J. H. McCary, Birmingham; "Sweet Potatoes and How Stored," Mr. John Winslow, Thorsby; "Irrigation," Prof. J. F. Duggar, Auburn; "Packing Fruit," Mr. G. L. Stewart, Atlanta; "Fruit in Bullock County," Dr. C. H. Franklin, Union Springs; "Fruit Diseases," Dr. E. Mead Wilcox, Auburn; reports from vice-president; "Notes," Dr. C. A. Cary, Auburn; "Fruit Growing in Baldwin County," Mr. P. W. Paulson, Silver Hill; "Terracing," Col. J. M. Thornton, Talladega; "Local Horticultural Societies," Dr. C. H. Franklin, Union Springs; "The Value of Agricultural High Schools," Prof. H. O. Sargent, Hamilton; "United States Soil Surveys," Mr. W. G. Smith, Washington, D. C.; "Experience of a 'Hoosier' in Horticultural Work in Alabama," Mr. H. B. Wood, Vinemont; "The Six P.'s," Mr. D. C. Turnipseed, Flora; "The State Fairs," Hon. R. R. Poole, Montgomery; "The Nut Growers' Association," Mr. J. F. Wilson, Poulan, Ga.; "Planting an Orchard Among the Stumps," Mr. A. J. Miller, Evergreen; "Nurseries of Alabama in 1905," Mr. C. F. Kinman, Auburn; "Fruit Exhibitions," Mr. J. E. Woolsey, Vinemont; "Auburn Summer School," Mr. J. N. Dennis, Clanton; report of State Horticulturist, Prof. R. S. Mackintosh, Auburn; "Making Lime-Sulphur Wash," practical demonstration; visit to sweet potato storage cellars of Mr. John Winslow. Reception Committee—Officers of the Thorsby Fruit and Truck Growers' Association: Mr. M. A. Magnuson, president; Mr. S. E. Norton, vice-president; Mr. P. C. Simth, secretary; Mr. G. H. Gerald, treasurer.

CALERA.

After an absence of two weeks I come to the readers of The Union with a short letter from Calera. Since my last Mr. Charles Johnson has moved from the L. E. Reynolds place in Chilton county to Calera and located on the W. R. Oliver farm and entered his children in the Calera High School, and he (Charlie) will teach the farmers of this community how to make a "big crop of cotton on a small spot of land." By the way, Charlie has a son 19 years old that has never tasted intoxicating liquor of any kind, never smoked or chewed tobacco or used a profane or indecent oath. Several real estate transfers in Calera since the new year set in. James Collins has bought from W. C. Wade the new brick store near the railroad crossing and opened up a first-class saloon, with a restaurant in the basement. Mr. Wade moving into the middle room of his new frame block just west. Mr. Dave Mullins has bought the Swan place, on the edge of the city. Mr. Mullins now has three small farms close to Calera. The anniversary of Gen. Robert E. Lee's birth was celebrated by the camp of U. C. V. on the 19th inst., and a very nice and appropriate program was rendered. The camp in a body was present. Dr. C. C. Oliver was made chairman. Rev. J. W. Cary conducted the devotional exercises, and Prof. Skinner, principal of the High School, delivered an appropriate and able address, eulogizing General Lee in high terms. As the exercises were interspersed with music—Mrs. Bassett at the organ, with Dr. Oliver, Miss Mae McKibbon and Miss Celeste Brinkerhoff as vocalists—it was truly a beautiful memorial service. The camp adjourned to meet again on Saturday, April 7, when annual election of officers and selection of delegates to reunion of U. C. V. at New Orleans will be attended to. All members of the camp are earnestly requested to be in attendance. VETERAN.

January 22, 1905.

BEAT ONE.

Remove the old, hang up the new. Another year has flown; its joys and sorrows now are past, while we have older grown. Farewell old year, a last farewell; we have been friends together; no more we'll meet upon this earth, in storm or sunny weather. Oh, bright new year, how do you do? A promise we have given—to train our lives, our hearts, our hands, to meet you in heaven. Oh, may our nation prosperous be; our hearts ne'er feel a pang. All hail to thee sweet, glad new year, while our calendar new we hang. H. M. Northcutt is making great improvement in his dwelling. I'm always glad to see my friends prosper. Mr. Northcutt is one among the many Northcutts that spend half their time in attending to their own business and the other half in letting other people's alone. I like that sort of a man. Don't you, Mr. Editor.

A LINER OF BEAT 1.

MULES FOR SALE.

Here I am, all right, with a pair of good mules that will weigh about 600 pounds each; age, 8 years. They are straight and all right. Why don't you buy from me or some other good Republican who will treat you right? My price is $185.00 for the pair. Come and look at them before you buy.

W. L. McDOWELL,
One Mile South of Clanton.
tf R. F. D. No. 2.

NOTICE.

I hereby appoint the 4th Saturday in each month as my regular day for hearing civil causes at my residence in beat 3. Chilton Co. Deeds, mortgages and papers of all kinds carefully and legibly made out.

J. A. CADDELL,
Notary Public & Ex-off. J. P.
tf

WANTED—A farm hand for the year 1906.

WALTED—Fresh milch cows, the same not to give less than 3 gallons of milk per day. M. J. Barrett,
tf. Thorsby, Ala.

FOR SALE OR RENT!

Land for sale, or to rent. One, two, three and four horse farms; two miles north of Jemison. Call on or address,

J. C. DUBOSE,
tf. Jemison, Ala.

FOR SALE!

Full bred Holstein Milch Cow (6 years old), will come in fresh in November. Her milk record is 3 1-2 to 4 gallons per day. Address,

W. L. McDowell,
tf. Clanton, Route 2.

NOTICE.

Blank Deeds, Mortgages, and all official forms for Justices of the Peace, etc., for sale at The Union Office. Only best approved forms are used. Come in and give us your order tf.

FOR SALE!

One Poland China Boar, littered July 15, 1904, weight about 350 lbs. Price $20.00.

WANTED—Some one to get out stumps. Will let the contract by the stump or job. Come and figure on it, if you have a stump puller nine-tenths of them could be pulled with ease.

COTTON SEED

I am now ready to buy cotton seed at my new office just east of Johnson's Drug Store. Also cotton seed meal and hulls and feed stuffs for sale. Come and see me and I will do you good.

FRANK GOODGAME
tf Clanton, Ala.

SPECIAL OFFER! !

The Union, Weekly Montgomery Advertiser, and a great white and black map of Alabama, United States and world, three in one, with a picture of every president from Washington to Roosevelt, all for $1.50.

A NEW DISCOVERY.

A great improvement, the Dixie Liver Regulator, does not gripe nor sicken, and cures Constipation, Heart burn, Vertigo, Dyspepsia, Kidney troubles and Lazy Liver. For sale by all Dealers and by Shelby Drug Co., Calera, Ala. tf

Store Your Cotton
WITH
MULLINS & DOWNS
Planters Warehouse
Clanton, - Alabama.
Robidoux Scales. Best in the World.

Wouldn't You Like
BETTER WHISKIES FOR LESS MONEY?

than the kind youvl been getting? Then send your orders to us

THE BIG MAIL ORDER HOUSE

The house that sells nothing but the purest goods and guarantees every article it sells. If it's drugs or whiskies you want

WE CUT THE PRICE.

	Our Price.	Regular Price
Shehan's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50	75
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60	1 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65	1 00
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75	1 00
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75	1 00
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	1 25
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00	1 50
Stewart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	2 00
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84	1 50
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1 50
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1 50
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1 50
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00	1 50
Wilson Whiskey	85	1 50
J. M. Atherton bottled in bond	1 00	1 50
Mammoth Cave bottled in bond	1 25	1 75
Old Jordon bottled in bond	1 50	2 00
Green River, the whiskey without a headache	1 00	1 25
Old Shades Mountain Corn	50	75
Old Mountain Due Corn	75	1 00
Old Lincoln County	65	1 00
Old Holland Gin	50	75
Old Crown Gin	75	1 00
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	75
California Sherry or Port	50	75

Mellow Old Liquors and Wines by the Gallon in Jugs.

	Per Gallon		Per Gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.00
Old Mountain Due	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.50
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.00
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club	3.00
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County	2.50
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.00
Old California Port or Sherry	1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.00

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY,
The Big Cut Rate Drug Store
2012 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St. THE BIG STORE, Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St.

—Is at The Head of The Procession.—

Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Shoes,
FURNITURE,
COFFINS AND BURIAL NECESSITIES.

W. I. MULLINS,
Clanton. Alabama

The Bank Saloon
Calera, Alabama.

Has the finest stock of Whiskies, Wines and Cigars in Central Alabama. Rye Whiskey, by the gallon, from $2.25 to $3.75. All good, but some better than others. Corn Whiskey $2.25 to $3.50 per gallon. Express charges prepaid on all orders of one gallon and upward, where cash accompanies the order, as these prices are absolutely "rock bottom."

XX Rye, pure,..... $2.25 per gallon
AAAA Rye, good,..... 3.75 per gallon
Frisco Rye, fine,..... 3.75 per gallon
Jack Daniel No. 6 finest. 3.75 per gallon

A. Stein, Proprietor.

J. E. Littlejohn
Clanton, Alabama.
General Merchandise, Corn, Hay, etc.

SHOES

The most for the money in town. Come and see us and we will do you good.

PINE TREE PERFUME CURE.

SWEET SCENTS A RESTORER OF TIRED NERVES.

The Odor of the Pines the Perfume That Women Rely on Most Just Now t oDrive Away the Blues—Perfumed Sea Salt for Bath—Scented Moth Barriers.

Pine needle and sweet perfumes are used to soothe the nerves of the New York woman. It has been discovered that you need not be out of sorts unless you want to be, and in addition that you can cure your troublesome nerves with nice sweet odors instead of resorting to unpleasant drugs.

The first and most particular rule is that the sweet odors must be natural ones. There must be no made-up perfumes. The scents must be those that grow in the parks and spring up in the woods, that come to life with the budding of the flowers and die down when the flowers fade.

Those who are trying the perfume cure are giving their attention just now to pine scents mostly. If you want to get the genuine pine odor, take a pine pillow, no matter how old and lay it near the fire.

In a little while it will begin to warm up and to give out sweet scents. You will be treated to the original odor of the pine.

There is a very nervous and very sensitive woman in New York who treats herself every day to the pine needle cure. When she was away last summer she gathered material for many pillows of pine needles.

When she is tired she takes a pillow and warms it and presently it begins to give out a sweet smell of pines. Then she puts the pillow behind her head and in a little while she feels refreshed.

On days when she is very tired indeed and needs a quick freshing she takes a dozen pillows and heats them very quickly. With these she furnishes her couch. She heaps it high with pillows and then she lies down and breathes the sweet scent. In 15 minutes she feels all right again.

There is an extra nervous woman in town who has a comfortable stuffed with pine needles. She gathered the needles this fall, and then she put them in the comfortable and quilted it just as though she were quilting feathers.

Pretty soon she had a thick, sweet, beautiful covering. It was heavy, but so delicious that she did not mind the weight.

Some nights when she is very weary she sleeps with this heavy pine comfortable over her. Again she heats it and puts it underneath her. It is refreshing, no matter how she uses it.

If you like sweet scents and want to try the perfume cure you can get them by utilizing odds and ends about the house. You will be surprised to find how many you can turn into perfume.

Take apple peelings and dry them and some day when the house seems muggy take a handful and throw them on the stove. Take off the peelings before they begin to burn, but leave them on just long enough to get the delicious fumes they will give out, the fumes that are so delightful when they come out of the oven as baked apples are cooking.

Some women keep a chafing dish always handy for the making of sweet scents. Into the chafing dish they can put a little cologne, which when heated will send its fragrance through the room, or they can add a pinch of cinnamon or half a drop of oil of cloves, or even a tiny bit of apple peeling. It takes very little to make a pleasant smell in the room.

The influence of odors upon the spirits can hardly be overestimated. If you will go in a pine forest you are greeted with a smell which is invigorating, in its curious buoyancy.

If you go into a clover field you get an odor which is just as pleasant but altogether different, and this odor can be brought into the house in winter by taking clover heads, drying them and stuffing pillows with them. On some muggy, gloomy day the pillow can be warmed up and you have a perfume which is delightful.

If you want something particularly pleasant take some sea salt and put it in a wide mouthed bottle and pour in a few drops of violet perfume. Close the bottle tight, let it stand a while, then open, and you get the curious smell of salt sea, with a slight tinge of violet, which is always found in salt air.

If you want to take a bath in something that is very sweet smelling perpare some sea salt after this fashion: Buy the salt at the drug store; take a big handful of it, lay it in a bottle and and some violet perfume. Let it stand three days and it is ready for the bath.

Another plan is to add to the sea salt a grain of musk, a little essence of violet and finally about a teaspoonful of alcohol. Set the bottle away for three days, turning it twice a day.

When you are ready to take your bath, throw a handful of the sea salt into the water. It will perfume the water without making it too salty.

Take a jug of salt, and into a gallon jug pour half an ounce of rose geranium oil and a cup of alcohol. Turn your jug upside down. Let it stand a day or so, and so on until you have worked with it three weeks. The result will be a very nice jug of sweet smells.

There come squares of a preparation of ammonia which can be made into very nice bath vinegar. Take a dozen or more of these solid pieces and add just enough violet perfume to cover them.

Then add spirits of cologne until you have a pint bottle nicely filled. This makes a delicious bath vinegar, which can be used every day for two weeks, for it takes very little to perfume the water.

If you like your hands to smell sweet, and to some people there is something positively intoxicating about a pair of sweet hands, you can make a hand wash by taking a quart of spirits of cologne, put it in a half gallon jug, add an ounce of oil of rose geranium and two grains of musk.

Let it stand a week; then fill up with spirits of cologne. At the end of another week you will have as fine a gallon of perfume as you will want.

When you are ready to wash your hands, with this sweet mixture take a bowl of warm water and add to it a pinch of powdered borax. Into this put half a wine glass of perfume.

Use no soap, but keep this water for rinsing. It will impart a lasting fragrance which will remain upon your hands from morning until night.

Have you ever tried putting up your winter furs in perfumery?

Make some sachets and scatter them through the storage chest, thus using sachet powders instead of camphor. You will find that the moths stay away just as well and the furs come out in the fall smelling sweet.

And the same thing with clothes—those which you are putting away until spring. Many of them are of cashmere and light wool and you don't want the moths to get into them. Put them away between layers of sachets and you will find that you will have never a moth.

There is a story told of a woman who spent the summer upon the Jersey coast where mosquitoes are thick. Not wanting to be eaten alive she sprinkled her bedroom with sachet powder until the whole room was filled with the perfume. All night long she slept in peace.

Animals do not as a rule like strong odors, and disease germs are particularly averse to them. A strong odor of rose will drive away many of the contagious diseases, so some scientisits affirm, and you can actually keep yourself well by having nice smells around you.

Attar of rose is very effective, but unfortunately it is expensive. Oil of rose geranium is very effective and there are other extracts which can be bought and used to good advantage.

In old fashioned German households the custom prevails of buying a certain amount of good perfume every year. This perfume is bought not to be bottled and preserved, but to be used, and when it disappears more is purchased.

The fad for a distinctive odor is dying away, and women are inclined to scent themselves like an English garden. An English garden is one in which all the common flowers grow, and when you take a sniff of it you do not know whether you are smelling violets or mignonette, geraniums or roses, delicate pansies or strong heliotrope. Thus it is fashionable to mingle your perfumes.

The pine tree scent is the odor of the moment, and wise women are making little bags of pine and heaping them up, so that they and their apartments may smell like a pine tree. —New York Sun.

An Artist at Work.

A man with shrewd gray eyes walked along the busy down-town street, carefully observing everything. Suddenly he paused, then rushed toward a rain-pipe attached to a building and rammed his cane into it. The familiar squealing of a rat pierced the air.

All daughters of Eve within hearing lifted their skirts and fled the place. Men and boys began to crowd round. People came from across the streets. Carts and cabs halted.

"Say, mister, that stick ain't long enough!" shouted a newsboy.

"Somebody go and get a terrier," suggested another.

Evidently the owner of the shrewd gray eyes did not desire advice, but intended to deal with that rat according to his own fancy. He paid not the slightest attention to the remaks, but continued vigorously to ply his cane.

"Let him come out and then set the dogs on!"

"Put your hand in and grab him by the tail!"

"Say, why don't you use the big end of that cane?"

"Blow smoke up the pipe!"

At last the star performer glanced over his shoulder—the crowd was packed and jammed behind him, and two policemen on the outskirts were struggling to make an opening,—the "psychological moment" was come.

"Here you are, gentlemen!" he cried. "The cleverest invention yet made—Wilkinson's Weird and Wonderful Patent Whistle. Imitates anything from a rat to a rhinoceros! Embrace your opportunity, entertain your friends, make the children happy. Only a few left, and those going like wild-fire, at ten cents apiece!"—Youth's Companion.

Easy Titles.

Military titles are handled in reckless way in Indian territory. Any man with a stiff backbone and a bold, bad look can scarcely escape being designated as "Colonel," and a man with an unusually pugnacious air is addressed as "General." An Indian agent of the union agency at Muskogee is certain to come into the title of colonel within a few weeks after assuming office. It is difficult to distinguish the sheep from the goats in a military way in this country.—Kansas City Journal.

THE PULPIT.

A SCHOLARLY SUNDAY SERMON BY THE REV. DR. R. F. ALSOP.

Subject: Graft, Ancient and Modern.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Dr. Reese F. Alsop, rector of St. Ann's P. E. Church, preached Sunday morning on "Graft, Ancient and Modern." His text was from Luke xix:8: "Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor, and if I have taken anything from any man by false accusation, I restore him fourfold." Dr. Alsop said:

We have in these days a curious use of the word graft. Probably the gardener would find it a little hard to understand how it came to have the meaning that it has, yet it ought not to be difficult to explain. He sets into some plant a bud or a twig, and by and by it grows into the plant. Then it lives to a certain extent its own life, bears its own fruit, drawing the while sap, nourishment, vitality, from the plant into which it has been grafted. It becomes, therefore, the figure of a thing that draws that something else with which it is connected, that which it uses for its own purpose. So the habit of drawing off for private uses something that really belongs to some one else, whether it be a government, a department, or an individual, has come to be called graft. The use of the word is peculiar to our own times. The thing which the word indicates is, alas! as old as history. Something like it we find in the story of him who claims our attention this morning.

Two or three things come out in our study of Zacchaeus.

First—He was in a dangerous employment. It surrounded him with temptations. Its usual standard of action was low. Its prevailing habit was one of wrong doing. It was a course of life in which every day one could see opportunities of getting gain and take them. Both insiders and outsiders took for granted a certain measure of pilfering.

Mr. Jerome has lately been holding up to the ridicule of the public the claim that there is such a thing as honest graft, by which is meant opportunities which come to insiders to take advantage of their knowledge and of others' ignorance to make great profits. The employment of Zacchaeus gave such opportunities, and men like him were expected to gather in constantly what was called perquisites of their position. Just as a customs inspector is supposed to look for and to wait for a fee, or as a policeman who has a district like the Tenderloin, is supposed to be waiting and ready for bribes. We have men who have shown a good deal of this spirit. We have had those who call themselves statesmen in New York who were in politics by their own confession not for their health, but for their pocket all the time. Zacchaeus, we are told, was chief of the publicans, and he seems to have illustrated the spirit which is apt to prevail in a hated and proscribed business, namely, that of avenging itself upon the public by making the public pay.

Secondly—It would appear that he had used the opportunities which his position gave him. Tax collecting proper does not bring a man a large fortune. The income is usually graded to give him merely a moderate living. But Zacchaeus had not been content with that. There are thousands of people all through our land who have the rare faculty of growing rich in a few years on a very small salary. Men like Beavers, senators who have been indicted and convicted of land frauds, judges who have used appointments for personal reasons. These things which we know of in our day should give some insight into the methods in Jericho of old. It was a case of "high finance," of a constant "rake off" in the year of our Lord 29. It was graft nearly twenty centuries before the word came to have its present connotation. And so Zecchaeus became rich—notoriously rich. He was probably like some of our high financiers of to-day. He had a fine house and garden and establishment, so that as men passed it they pointed to it and said, "There lives the richest man in the city."

Third—Still, in spite of his prosperity, he was in bad odor. The community will stand a good deal, but there comes a time when even the glamour of wealth cannot hide a man's true character—when his success can no longer blind men's eyes, when his splendor becomes an offense that cries to high heaven. There are houses and establishments in our day that make men gnash their teeth, that stand in the community as an exhibition of what fraud and trickery and legal stealing and breach of trust can do. With wealth honestly earned and nobly used, the legitimate reward of real service to the community, there is and should be no quarrel; but with ill gotten gains, gains got at the expense of the community, gains which are not the pay of honest work, of brain, of body, but the loot of cunning, of fraud, the booty filched by the strong or the clever, or the high placed from the weak, or foolish, or lowly; with such wealth there is and ought to be a quarrel eternal. And so it was with Zacchaeus. As the people of Jericho passed his gates it was with a sneer, perhaps a curse. He is rich; yes, but he is a sinner; his glory is his shame. His splendor is the measure of his turpitude, he has made his pile, but it is the result of extortion and false accusations. He is not only a renegade, in that he is a publican, and the chief of them, but he is a standing, living monument of what conscienceless greed can make of a man.

Fourth—Now, with this judgment of his fellow citizens, Jesus seems to agree, for when the people protest against His being this man's guest Jesus says: "The Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost." That word "lost" seems to concede the justice of the people's judgment. Zacchaeus is a son of Abraham, indeed; that is, one of the chosen people. But he is none the less a lost man needing to be sought and saved.

Now, if that was his true character; if the Jerichoan estimate of him was correct, how are we to understand the words: "Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor; and if I have taken anything from any man by false accusation, I restore him fourfold." How can a man who shows such generosity to the poor; who restores fourfold to all whom he has injured, be so bad? Have the people, and has Jesus mistaken his character? Is he a misjudged and unappreciated man?

Not so do I read the story. The words which we are thinking of are not meant to describe his past, but his future. They do not set forth what has been his habit, his manner of living; they are the announcement of a suddenly formed purpose. And that purpose, as we shall see presently, is the natural reaction from what have been up to this time the motive and method of his life.

Though he has done all these bad things, justly won the odium that he enjoys, none the less Jesus sees in him possibilities of amendment and nobility and calls him down from the tree on which he has perched himself to become his guest. This condescention involves an interview and an influx of the personality of Jesus upon his soul. This brings about a tremendous revulsion. The revulsion may perhaps be the end of a long, slow process. Has he not found that his riches after all did not pay him for the loss of his own peace of mind and for the hate of the community in which he lives, for the scorn of a whole city? Has he not found that after all his wealth did not satisfy or make him happy? That the sin of its acquisition was like a canker at its heart?

More than this, when the light comes it brings out the dark lines. Like a flash of lightning, the presence of Christ illuminates his past; and just as Peter, when he realized the divinity of his Lord, cried: "Depart from me, for I am sinful man, O Lord," so Zacchaeus feels all at once the enormity of his sin. It stands up in strong relief against what has been his master passion, his greed. In an instant he sees the turpitude, the ugliness of what he has been doing. What he has seen before dimly is now emphasized, stands before his mind in clear, strong lines. He is in the light and all at once a mighty resolve seizes him. He will break with his past, will give up his besetting sin; yea, will with all his might battle with it. Just as in Ephesus, among the converts of Paul, those who had been dabbling with magic brought their books to burn; just as a drunkard knows that if he is to follow Christ he must dash the cup forever from his lips, so Zacchaeus forms and announces his purpose to break with his greed.

This resolve includes two things.

First—Generosity. "Behold, Lord, the half of my goods, of my income, I give to the poor."

Notice the proportion. Moses asked at least one-tenth. Add to that demands for public requirements and a fifth was reached. This man says "half." Compare that with the gifts of some of our notoriously rich men to-day. Very few attain to the mark of this converted publican. A man who died the other day left an estate of some $7,500,0000, of which $100,000 was bequeathed to charity, and the newspaper spoke of a large amount being bequeathed for charitable bequests. One hundred thousand dollars out of $7,500,000 is a very small proportion. Let us hope that during his life time the man did better than that. There was something extraordinary in the bigness of this purpose of Zacchaeus. Our multi-millionaires, most of them, even those who at times startle us by their gifts, have still something to learn from Jericho's publican.

Secondly—Restitution. "If I have taken any thing from any man by false accusation, I restore him fourfold."

What a vista these words open back into his life. They show how a part at least of his wealth had been won. They show also how the methods of the past look now to his awakening conscience. He proposes to deal with his habit by a heroic treatment. "I will restore fourfold." As he carries out that purpose, imagine, if you can, the effect upon those, who in the past, had had bitter and exasperating experiences with him. Should the like be done to-day, what a stirring up there would be. What a change of places between the rich and the poor. What vast swellings of the conscience fund of the government! What thousands, perhaps millions of acres of public land would be returned to government control. What a disgorging there would be of exhorbitant freights. How many policy holders would be made glad. How many crushed out firms would be resuscitated. Imagine, if you can, the restitution of all wrongly gotten wealth. Why it would be like streams of water flowing through dry places. It would be like a transformation scene in a pantomime.

It is almost inconceivable, and yet that is what Christianity meant to Zacchaeus. It was a salvation not from death eternal, it was primarily a salvation from his greed, from his selfishness, from his isolation, from his fellows. And notice that Jesus accepts his purpose as a perfectly proper thing. He has the true spirit of a converted life—large-hearted liberality, restitution of all wrongly taken property. Given these two things everywhere and religion becomes real and vital. Deny them and there is only a name to live. It is idle to talk about being Christians, unless our religion means open-heartedness and righteousness.

Christ Anchors the Soul.

Rev. Theodore L. Cuyler, speaking of Christ as an anchor to the soul, says significantly: "You are certain to be assailed with troubles. No hurricane can strike a full rigged ship more suddenly than storms of adversity may burst upon you. But if Jesus Christ is in your soul you cannot suffer wreck. The anchor sure and steady will hold you. People do not see what holds a vessel when the gale is sending the billows over her bow. The anchor is invisible, as it lies full many a fathom deep on the solid ground beneath the waves. So, when we see a good man beaten upon with heavy adversities and yet preserving a cheerful spirit, we do not discover the secret of his serenity. 'But the eye of God sees that there is an interior life hid with Christ in that soul which no storm can touch.' There is many a bereavement, many a trouble that may strip a man of canvas or cordage, but never touch the solid strength of his godly character."

The nearer you are to the Saviour the farther are you from sin.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR JANUARY 28.

Subject: The Baptism of Jesus, Mark. 1, 1-11.—Golden Text, I Sam. vii., 3.—Memory Verses, 10, 11.—Topic: Christ's Preparation For His Life Work.

I. Preparing the way (vs. 1-3). 1. "The beginning." Matthew begins with a genealogy of our Lord and Luke with the history of His infancy, but Mark commences in the midst of gospel events. He seems anxious to come at once to Christ's public life and ministry. "Gospel." The gospel of Jesus Christ denotes the "glad tidings" or "good news," concerning Jesus Christ. "Jesus." Jesus means "Saviour." This name shows His human nature. "Christ." This name means "anointed," and is the Greek equivalent of the Hebrew "Messiah." "Son of God." This shows His divine nature. See John 1: 1-3, 14. He was very God, the second person in the Trinity. 2. "Is written." See Mal. 3:1; Isa. 40:3. "I send." This "I" in the prophet is spoken by Jehovah. But this Jehovah is the Messiah. So that we have here a true Jehovah-Jesus. "My messenger." John the Baptist, Christ's herald.

3. "The voice." Attention is called to the message rather than to the messenger. John was weak and insignificant, but he was delivering God's message, and his words produced a mighty effect. "Crying." Heralding, proclaiming. "Wilderness." John preached in the wild, thinly inhabited region lying west of the Jordan and the Dead Sea as far north as Enon, two-thirds of the way to the Sea of Galilee, and on both sides of the lower Jordan. "Prepare—paths straight." This is figurative language. The words illustrate the straightening force of the gospel. There must be a thorough preparation before God, our King, will come to us. The self-life must be "brought low;" the crooked life must be "straightened;" the obstructions of unbelief and carnal desires must be removed.

II. John baptizing (vs. 4, 5). 4. "Preach." Herald; a word suggesting the proclamation of a king. John was a great reformer. "Baptism of repentance." John was a repentance preacher. This was a baptism required and representing an inward spiritual change; the pledge of remission of sins to those who were truly penitent. "For the remission." The remission was to be received of Christ, the repentance was preparatory to Christ's coming and work, and John's baptism was a sign of true repentance.

5. "All the land." A figure representing the sweeping influence of John's preaching. "Confessing." Confession of sin is one of the elements in true repentance. Repentance includes (1) conviction, (2) contrition, (3) confession, (4) reformation, and leads to conversion.

III. John's testimony (vs. 6-8). "Camel's hair." In appearance John resembled Elijah, the prophet. He was clothed in the coarse, rough cloth called sackcloth in the Scriptures. It was cheap, but admirable for keeping out the heat, cold and rain. "Girdle." The Orientals delight in costly, ornamental girdles, but poor people must content themselves with a strip of hide. "Locusts." The law of Moses gave permission to eat locusts (Lev. 11:21). The common locust is about three inches long and closely resembles our grasshopper. Locusts are abundant and cheap and are still used as food by the poorer classes. "Wild honey." Honey stored by bees in hollow trees or in the clefts of the rocks. John's habits were in keeping with his wilderness life. 7. "There cometh." The preaching of John was preparing the minds of the people for the coming of the Messiah, and they began to ask themselves whether he were the Christ. But John was not slow to undeceive them regarding himself. "Mightier." John clearly outlined the work of the coming Messiah. His baptism will effect what mine is powerless to do. "Latchet." The latchet, a word now obsolete, was the thong or lace with which the shoes or sandals were fastened. "Shoes." Or sandals. "Not worthy." John shows his greatness by his self-abasement.

8. "With water—Holy Ghost." John had administered the outward rite, but could not renew their hearts.

IV. Jesus baptized (vs. 9-11). 9. "In those days." While John was preaching and baptizing. "Jesus came." Jesus was about thirty years old. This was the age when priests entered upon their ministry (Num. 4: 3), and when the rabbis began to teach. "From Nazareth." Where He had lived in seclusion all these years. So far as we know this was His first public act since He was twelve years of age. "Was baptized." Any confession of sin was of course out of the question. There was only a profession on the part of Jesus that as an Israelite He became subject to the law, and that He was connected with humanity by the ties of blood, of suffering and of love. "Of John." At first John hesitated about baptizing Jesus (Matt. 3: 14, 15). 10. "He saw." Christ saw it, and John saw it (John 1:33, 34), and it is probable that all who were present saw it; for this was intended to be His public inauguration. "The heavens opened." Luke says that Jesus prayed as soon as He was baptized (Luke 3:21). Here is the first recorded prayer of Christ and its answer. "Like a dove." A symbol this of perfect gentleness, purity, fulness of life, and of the power of communicating it.

11. "Voice from heaven." At two other times during our Lord's earthly ministry was a voice heard from heaven: At the transfiguration (Mark 9:7), and in the courts of the temple during passion week (John 12:28). The Father indorsed Christ's earthly mission. "My beloved Son." Jesus Christ is the Son of God from eternity.

Notes of Royalty.

King Haakon of Norway is gradually becoming used to his new surroundings and people.

The present Pope is the first Pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church to indulge in cigars.

Shooting for five hours at Schloss Moschen recently the Kaiser's bag amounted to 1136 pheasants and hares.

The Czar of Russia, who is considerably below the average height of men, is fully a head shorter than the Czarina.

King Alphonse XIII. of Spain is preparing for his forthcoming wedding.

The 1906 holidays started o
the 1st of January, which Monday. The anniversary of tle of New Orleans, January
on Monday. Washington's comes on a Thursday, Memo
on Wednesday, Independence
Wednesday and Labor Day
day. Other special days are tine's day on Wednesday, Ha
on Wednesday, Thanksgiving,
ber 29th, and Christmas on T
None of the holidays fall on

DON'T MISS THIS.

A Cure For Stomach Trouble... Method, by Absorption—No D...

Do You Belch?

It means a diseased Stomach. ... afflicted with Short Breath, G... Eructations, Heart Pains, Indigest... pepsia, Burning Pains and Lead ... in Pit of Stomach, Acid Stom... tended Abdomen, Dizziness, Colic...

Bad Breath or Any Other Stom... ture?

Let us send you a box of Mull... Belch Wafers free to convince you ... cures.

Nothing else like it known. I... and very pleasant. Cures by ab... Harmless. No drugs. Stomach ... can't be cured otherwise—so say ... Science. Drugs won't do—they ca... Stomach and make you worse.

We know Mull's Anti-Belch Wa... and we want you to know it, ... offer.

SPECIAL OFFER.—The regular ... Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers is 50c. a ... to introduce it to thousands of ... we will send two (2) boxes upon ... of 75c. and this advertisement, or ... send you a free sample for this co...

1206 A FREE BOX.
Send this coupon with your ... and address and druggist's name ... does not sell it for a free box of ... Anti-Belch Wafers to MULL'S GRAPE TONIC CO., 328 ... Ave., Rock Island, Ill.
Give Full Address and Write Pl...

Sold at all druggists, 50c. per b...

Food for Great Men.

When J. Pierpont Morgan ... home he has corn beef and ... John D. Rockefeller likes ho... and toast. Uncle Russell Sage ... of thin soups. Thomas Fortune ... would give an insurance comp... an elevated railroad for a Sm... ham twenty-five years cured, w... fashioned corn dumplings as a g... ment. Mark Hanna was a big ... rivaling Pouyer Quertier. He ... so much of his corned beef ha... half the members of the rep... party got to eating that luxury.

Speaking of Hanna's hash: ... Spencer, of the American Pal... Company, one of the salt, ... Springfield, Mass., every Christ... make hash for the family ... Hanna's hash was not a ma... the Spencerian brand, if we ca... low the testimony of those wh... had the happiness to taste bo... one ever grows old who eat... cerian hash. Before starting for ... field Mr. Spencer gave me his ... with consent to publish it to the ... It is as follows:

Take two-thirds of either ... boiled corned beef or canned ... beef, chop it reasonably fine ... one-third Irish potatoes, choppe... sonably fine. To this add ... turnip chopped the same size ... potatoes—the good, old-fashione... bagas preferred. Place all in ... fashioned, thick iron skillet, ... thoroughly. Put a few pieces ... ter here and there; then sift ... little flour—not enough to m... gummy, but enough to give t... ture the proper consistency. ... very liberal sprinkling of re... black pepper (not that white ... about twice as much as woul... narily be used for seasoning. ... Add enough water to keep th... from sticking to the skillet, co... a slow fire from fifteen to ... minutes, not simply "warm it ... hash is usually cooked; coo... the black pepper is thoroughly ... into the hash, mixing with ... as the process advances. Ad... water, so that when ready to ... will not be too moist or too ... just right.

San Diego, Cal., has arrang... a company for a supply of 8,000 ... lons of mountain water a d... cents per 1,000 gallons.

THE LITTLE WIDOW'...
A Mighty Good Sort of a Neighb...

"A little widow, a neighbor ... persuaded me to try Grape-N... my stomach was so weak that ... not retain food of any othe... writes a grateful woman, f... Bernardino Co., Cal.

"I had been ill and confine... bed with fever and nervous pr... for three long months after ... of my second boy. We were ... until the little widow's advice ... relief.

"I liked Grape-Nuts food ... beginning, and in an incredi... time it gave me such streng... was able to leave my bed and ... three good meals a day. In t... my weight increased from ... to 113 pounds, my nerves ha... down and I felt ready for ... My neighbors were amazed ... gain so rapidly and still more ... they heard that Grape-Nuts ... brought the change.

"My four-year-old boy ha... very bad, last spring and lo... petite entirely, which made ... and peevish. I put him on ... Grape-Nuts, which he relish... He improved from the beg... eczema disappeared and now ... and rosy, with a delightfully ... skin. The Grape-Nuts diet ... will willingly answer all ... Name given by Postum ... Creek, Mich.

There's a reason. Read ... book, "The Road to Wellvill...

SICK WOMEN
READ MRS. FOX'S LETTER

...ves of the United States Lydia ...kham's Vegetable Compound ...ected Similar Cures.

...wonderful cures of female ills ...ntinually coming to light which ...en brought about by Lydia E. ...m's Vegetable Compound, and

Mrs. Fannie D. Fox

...h the advice of Mrs. Pinkham, ...n, Mass., which is given to sick ...n absolutely free of charge ...present Mrs. Pinkham has for ...-five years made a study of the ...her sex; she has consulted with ...dvised thousands of suffering ...n, who to-day owe not only their ... but even life to her helpful

Fannie D. Fox, of 7 Chestnut ... Bradford, Pa., writes:

"Mrs. Pinkham ...suffered for a long time with female ..., and finally was told by my physician ...had a tumor. I did not want to ...to an operation, so wrote you for ... I received your letter and did as ...told me, and to-day I am completely ... My doctor says the tumor has disap... and I am once more a well woman. ...ve Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Com... is the best medicine in the world."

...testimonials which we are con...ly publishing from grateful women ...lish beyond a doubt the power of ... E. Pinkham's Vegetable Com... to conquer female diseases.

...men suffering from any form of ...e weakness are invited to ...ptly communicate with Mrs. ...ham, at Lynn, Mass. She asks ...ing in return for her advice. It is ...utely free, and to thousands of ...en has proved to be more precious ... gold.

...ase Your ...s Per Acre

One Of The Results

...of liberally using our fertilizers, is to pay off a mortgage on the old farm. Read the following from Messrs. Wherry & Son, owners of the Magnolia Fruit Farm, Durant, Miss.: "We made $900 from one acre strawberries, on which your fertilizers were used. Eight years ago we bought this place at $20 per acre. It was then considered to have been worn out twenty years before, but by liberally using under peas and velvet beans, we can now grow almost anything, and have been offered $250 per acre for the place. We experimented with a great many brands of fertilizers, but find the highest per-cent. cheaper." Now don't you think Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers would enable you to pay off a mortgage if you had one? Well, don't use any other.

Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers

Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co.
Richmond, Va.
Norfolk, Va.
Durham, N. C.
Charleston, S. C.
Baltimore, Md.
Atlanta, Ga.
Savannah, Ga.
Montgomery, Ala.
Memphis, Tenn.
Shreveport, La.

COTTON AGENTS WANTED

...desire correspondents in all the smaller tow... ...ffices of the South. Men who can com... ...nd option business will receive a liberal sala... ...commission. Established 1870.

...derick K. Fish, Jr. & Co.
...4 & 46 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION

Am. 4, 1906.

...lected weak ...ses Thompson's Eye Wate...

FOR MEN
RIGEL

A Man W...
In this SHOE Get...
Only the Dealer ... a Big Profit Will ...
You. It is One of ...
"ALWAYS JU...
Clover Br...
Hertheimer-...
LARGEST ...
ST. L...

The 1906 holidays started ... the 1st of January, which ... Monday. The anniversary of ... tle of New Orleans, January ... on Monday. Washington's ... comes on a Thursday, Memor... on Wednesday, Independence ... Wednesday and Labor Day ... day. Other special days are ... tine's day on Wednesday, Ha... on Wednesday, Thanksgiving, ... ber 29th, and Christmas on T... None of the holidays fall on ...

DON'T MISS THIS.

A Cure For Stomach Trouble... Method, by Absorption—No D...

Do You Belch?

It means a diseased Stomach. ... afflicted with Short Breath, Gas, Eructations, Heart Pains, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Burning Pains and Lead ... in Pit of Stomach, Acid Stomach, Distended Abdomen, Dizziness, Colic? Bad Breath or Any Other Stomach ... ture?

Let us send you a box of Mull's Belch Wafers free to convince you ... cures.

Nothing else like it known. It ... and very pleasant. Cures by ab... Harmless. No drugs. Stomach ... can't be cured otherwise—so says ... Science. Drugs won't do—they eat ... Stomach and make you worse.

We know Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers ... and we want you to know it, hence ... offer.

SPECIAL OFFER.—The regular ... Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers is 50c, a ... to introduce it to thousands of ... we will send two (2) boxes upon ... of 25c. and this advertisement, or ... send you a free sample for this coupon.

1206 A FREE BOX.

Send this coupon with your ... and address and druggist's name ... does not sell it for a free box of ... Anti-Belch Wafers to MULL'S GRAPE TONIC CO., 328 ... Ave., Rock Island, Ill.

Give Full Address and Write Plainly

Sold at all druggists, 50c. per box.

Food for Great Men.

When J. Pierpont Morgan ... home he has corn beef and ... John D. Rockefeller likes hot ... and toast. Uncle Russell Sage ... of thin soups. Thomas Fortune ... would give an insurance company ... an elevated railroad for a Smithfield ham twenty-five years cured, with fashioned corn dumplings as a ... ment. Mark Hanna was a big ... rivaling Pouyer Quertier. He ... so much of his corned beef ... half the members of the ... party got to eating that luxury.

Speaking of Hanna's hash: ... Spencer, of the American Palace ... Company, one of the salt, ... Springfield, Mass., every Christmas ... make hash for the family. ... Hanna's hash was not a mark ... the Spencerian brand, if we can ... low the testimony of those who ... had the happiness to taste both. ... one ever grows old who eats ... cerian hash. Before starting for ... field Mr. Spencer gave me his ... with consent to publish it to the ... It is as follows:

Take two-thirds of either ... boiled corned beef or canned ... beef, chop it reasonably fine ... one-third Irish potatoes, chopped ... somably fine. To this add ... turnip chopped the same size ... potatoes—the good, old-fashioned ... bagas preferred. Place all in ... fashioned, thick iron skillet, ... thoroughly. Put a few pieces ... ter here and there; then sift ... little flour—not enough to make ... gummy, but enough to give the ... ture the proper consistency. ... very liberal sprinkling of red ... black pepper (not that white ... about twice as much as would ... narily be used for seasoning). ... Add enough water to keep the ... from sticking to the skillet, cook ... a slow fire from fifteen to ... minutes, not simply "warm it ... hash is usually cooked; cook ... the black pepper is thoroughly ... into the hash, mixing with ... as the process advances. Add ... water, so that when ready to ... will not be too moist or too ... just right.

San Diego, Cal., has arranged ... a company for a supply of 8,000,000 ... lons of mountain water a day ... cents per 1,000 gallons.

THE LITTLE WIDOW

A Mighty Good Sort of a Neighbor

"A little widow, a neighbor ... persuaded me to try Grape-Nuts. ... my stomach was so weak that it ... not retain food of any other ... writes a grateful woman, from ... Bernardino Co., Cal.

"I had been ill and confined ... bed with fever and nervous pros... for three long months after the ... of my second boy. We were in ... until the little widow's advice ... relief.

"I liked Grape-Nuts food ... beginning, and in an incredible ... time it gave me such strength ... was able to leave my bed and ... three good meals a day. In two ... my weight increased from 98 ... to 113 pounds, my nerves had ... down and I felt ready for ... My neighbors were amazed ... gain so rapidly and still more ... they heard that Grape-Nuts ... brought the change.

"My four-year-old boy had ... very bad, last spring and lost ... petite entirely, which made him ... and peevish. I put him on ... Grape-Nuts, which he relished. ... He improved from the begin... eczema disappeared and now ... and rosy, with a delightfully ... skin. The Grape-Nuts diet ... will willingly answer all ... Name given by Postum ... Creek, Mich.

There's a reason. Read ... book, "The Road to Wellville."

SICK WOMEN

... READ MRS. FOX'S LETTER

... Parts of the United States Lydia ... Pinkham's Vegetable Compound ... Effected Similar Cures.

... wonderful cures of female ills ... continually coming to light which ... been brought about by Lydia E. ... Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and

Mrs. Fannie D. Fox

... gh the advice of Mrs. Pinkham, ... Mass., which is given to sick ... absolutely free of charge. ... present Mrs. Pinkham has for ... ty-five years made a study of the ... of her sex; she has consulted with ... advised thousands of suffering ... en, who to-day owe not only their ... th but even life to her helpful ...

... Fannie D. Fox, of 7 Chestnut ... t, Bradford, Pa., writes:

"Mrs. Pinkham

suffered for a long time with female ... le, and finally was told by my physician ... I had a tumor. I did not want to ... it to an operation, so wrote you for ... e. I received your letter and did as ... told me, and to-day I am completely ... well. My doctor says the tumor has disappeared, and I am once more a well woman. ... ve Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound ... d is the best medicine in the world."

... e testimonials which we are continually publishing from grateful women ... blish beyond a doubt the power of ... ia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound ... d to conquer female diseases.

... omen suffering from any form of ... ale weakness are invited to ... ptly communicate with Mrs. ... kham, at Lynn, Mass. She asks ... ing in return for her advice. It is ... olutely free, and to thousands of ... en has proved to be more precious ... gold.

... ease Your ... lds Per ... Acre

One Of The Results

of liberally using our fertilizers, is to pay off a mortgage on the old farm. Read the following from Messrs. Wherry & Son, owners of the Magnolia Fruit Farm, Durant, Miss.: "We made $900 from one acre strawberries, on which your fertilizers were used. Eight years ago we bought this place at $20 per acre. It was then considered to have been worn out twenty years before, but by liberally using under peas and velvet beans, we can now grow almost anything, and have been offered $250 per acre for the place. We experimented with a great many brands of fertilizers, but find the highest per-cent. cheaper." Now don't you think Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers would enable you to pay off a mortgage if you had one? Well, don't use any other.

Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers

Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co.

Richmond, Va.
Norfolk, Va.
Durham, N. C.
Charleston, S. C.
Baltimore, Md.
Atlanta, Ga.
Savannah, Ga.
Montgomery, Ala.
Memphis, Tenn.
Shreveport, La.

COTTON AGENTS WANTED

... desire correspondents in all the smaller towns ... villages of the South. Men who can control ... and their business will receive a liberal salary ... commission. Established 1865.

Frederick K. Fish, Jr. & Co.,

44 & 46 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

Am. 4, 1906.

Thompson's Eye Water

Afflicted ... weak ... use

FITS permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer, $2 trial bottle and treatise free. Dr. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

Pagout of bear has become a popular dish

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature on each box. 25c.

Mahomet's tomb is covered with jewels worth $12,500,000.

Robbed in Church.

Just think what an outrage it is to be robbed of all the benefits of the services by continuous coughing throughout the congregation, when Anti-Gripine is guaranteed to cure. Sold everywhere. 25 cts. F. W. Diemer, M. D., manufacturer, Springfield, Mo.

A company has been formed in Greece for buying up unsold currants.

Cures Blood, Skin Troubles, Cancer, Blood Poison. Greatest Blood Purifier Free.

If your blood is impure, thin, diseased, hot or full of humors, if you have blood poison, cancer, carbuncles, eating sores, scrofula, eczema, itching, risings and lumps, scabby, pimply skin, bone pains, catarrh, rheumatism, or any blood or skin disease, take Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) according to directions. Soon all sores heal, aches and pains stop, the blood is made pure and rich, leaving the skin free from every eruption, and giving the rich glow of perfect health to the skin. At the same time B. B. B. improves the digestion, cures dyspepsia, strengthens weak kidneys. Just the medicine for old people, as it gives them new, vigorous blood. Druggists, $1 per large bottle, with directions for home cure. Sample free and prepaid by writing Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga. Describe trouble and special free medical advice also sent in sealed letter. B. B. B. is especially advised for chronic, deep-seated cases of impure blood and skin disease, and cures after all else fails.

False teeth for horses are made in Paris.

FOUR YEARS OF AGONY.

Whole Foot Nothing But Proud Flesh—Had to Use Crutches — "Cuticura Remedies Best on Earth."

"In the year 1895 the side of my right foot was cut off from the little toe down to the heel, and the physician who had charge of me was trying to sew up the side of my foot, but with no success. At last my whole foot and way up above my calf was nothing but proud flesh. I suffered untold agonies for four years, and tried different physicians and all kinds of ointments. I could walk only with crutches. In two weeks afterwards I saw a change in my limb. Then I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment often during the day, and kept it up for seven months, when my limb was healed up just the same as if I never had trouble. It is eight months now since I stopped using Cuticura Remedies, the best on God's earth. I am working at the present day, after five years of suffering. The cost of Cuticura Ointment and Soap was only $5, but the doctors' bills were more like $600. John M. Lloyd, 718 S. Arch Ave., Alliance, Ohio, June 27, 1905."

One microbe breeds 140,000,000,000 a day.

The fashionable Siamese goes to bed at 4 in the morning and gets up at 3 in the afternoon.

$100 Reward. $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Men of genius are very often unmarried.

In the year 1904 coroners' jurors in London passed on forty-two cases of starvation.

A Guaranteed Cure For Piles.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding, Protruding Piles. Druggists are authorized to refund money if Pazo Ointment fails to cure in 6 to 14 days. 50c.

Salt has had much influence in shaping civilization.

Piso's Cure for Consumption is an infallible medicine for coughs and colds.—N. W. SAMUEL, Oakland Grove, N. J., Feb. 17, 1905.

The Hindoos are boycotting foreign sugar.

Itch cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion; never fails. Sold by Druggists. Mail orders promptly filled by Dr. Detchon, Crawfordsville, Ind. $1.

The new Italian postage stamps will not bear the monarch's head.

Wanted.

Old defaulted or unsaleable stocks and bonds. Remainders of estates bought. All unquoted or unlisted securities dealt in. No charge for valuing old securities. Valuable book on old securities presented to holder of any extinct stock not mentioned therein. H. M. SMYTHE Room 452, Produce Exchange, New York.

SHARK FISHING

A "Sport" That is Both Dangerous and Exhilarating.

With a splash sufficiently vigorous to scare a sleeping whale, over goes the hook—half a hundredweight of ironware, fastened by a steel chain to a rope cable, capable of standing a tested strain of five tons. One does not fish for the tiger of the seas with silk lines and drawn-gut casts. The hook is baited with a four-pound lump of fat, bilious-looking salt pork; or, better still, with a piece of porpoise blubber to which a small square of tough hide is still attached—a bait which no shark that ever swam could resist.

Our quarry is, not unnaturally, somewhat frightened by the splash—made purposely, by the way, with the idea of attracting his attention—with which this delicate lure is thrown to him, and sheers off doubtfully. His hesitation, however, does not last long. He remembers the delightful flavor of the delicacy he has already had, and comes up with a rush to enjoy the second course.

There is a slight oily swirl, a flash of white from his belly as he turns over, two double rows of sharp, murderous-looking teeth come together with a snap, and bait, hook and a foot or two of the rusty chain are swallowed without a gulp. Then, as the point of the hood bites into the cartilaginous framework of his head, he becomes alarmed, and tries to break away. No use; that five-ton cable will hold him. Hand-over-fist he is hauled in to the side; a running noose is dropped down the line and around his body, and a dozen eager anglers haul him unceremoniously up on deck. And then the cream of the fun begins.

He looks bigger now than he did when he was in the water. His lashing tail and viciously snapping jaws are not to be approached without due caution. A slip might mean the loss of an arm, bitten off clean by one of those convulsive snaps. He squirms about, mixing up into a general hotchpotch everything moveable which comes within his reach; and it is not until his power of attack has been most strictly limited by the tangle of ropes of all kinds which have been jerked and twisted around him by the more daring of his captors, that the majority care to come within reach of his jaws or tail.

A plank is now slipped cautiously under his tail, and, with one short, crisp chop of the cook's big chopper, it is severed from the rest of him at the thinnest part, and carried off to be nailed to the jibboom "for luck." Deprived of his tail, the shark is considered to be practically harmless; and now it is that Jack whips out his sheath-knife, and becomes for the time a cruel, vindictive fiend. Every sailor considers that he has a grudge to pay off against that quivering, defenceless mass of fish, and there and then he proceeds to pay it, revelling in the torments he inflicts, and warmly applauding any device of torture which strikes him as being peculiarly fiendish.—Pearson's Magazine.

The Interview That Failed.

Following the somewhat indistinct directions of a small and impertinent errand boy, we sought out the Great Man's chambers, and knocked at the Great Man's door. Receiving no answer or assistance from within, we admitted ourselves, and beheld the Great Man seated at his desk, with his back towards us. For a while we stood unobserved, till at last, by coughing for a third time with offensive noisiness, we attracted his attention.

Without turning around, he addressed us in the following gracious and outspoken manner . . . . "I have paid my Income Tax, I cannot give you bread, money or hospital tickets, nor do I stand in need of anybody's backache pills. You need not, therefore, stay."

"Excuse us," we replied, "we are not tax collectors, beggars or touts."

"In any case," he said, "you will find the door behind you."

Encouraged by this genial welcome, we proceeded to the object of our visit, and arranging in our minds a series of questions as to the Great Man's past, present and probable future, his own, his wife's, his children's, and his servants' domestic pets, we opened with the usual question: "You are, we believe, the renowned Mr. Ettseterer?"

"I am," he replied, "not."

Feeling that further interrogation was as unnecessary as it would be impolite, we wished our host a cordial "Good-night," and, whistling merrily, took our leave.—Punch.

Castro Very Short of Money.

I am informed by diplomatists who keep in touch with Venezuelan affairs that President Castro is very short of money, owing to a serious dimunition in the customs, due no doubt, to his provocative policy abroad. All public works have been stopped, and Government contracts are being annulled. As for the French Cable Company dispute, President Castro has tried to induce an English firm to provide a telegraphic service with the United States by laying a cable via Trinidad. But Trinidad refused permission, and the English firm declined the proposal. In the meantime the quarrel with France is as far from settlement as ever, but there is no truth in the rumors industriously invented that the French Government is about to use force. I learn unofficially, but on very good evidence, that the difficulty is likely to be settled in quite another way. If France will only wait patiently and give President Castro a little more rope, he will hang himself. There is little doubt that a revolution is in prospect, which would probably end his perverse career.—London Standard.

In Paris the average price of pure milk is 35.8 cents a gallon.

Birth Rate Follows Trade.

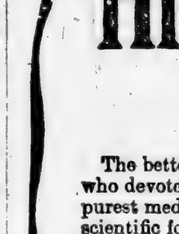
At a meeting of the Royal Statistical Society, held recently in London, at the society's rooms, a paper was read on 'The Changes in the Marriage and Birth Rates in England and Wales During the Last Half Century, With an Inquiry as to Their Causes," by G. Udny Yule. A careful examination of the fluctuations in the birth rate showed, declared Mr. Yule, that it appeared to respond, like the marriage rate to the cycle of trade and industry, though the movement is curiously irregular as compared with that of the latter rate. The fall of the birth rate or a marked increase in the rate of fall, commenced, in many European countries just about 1875-6—that is, when the effect of the fall of prices from 1873 was just beginning to make itself felt. The turning point was too well marked not to be due to some very definite cause and too widespread to be ascribed to any cause of at all a local character. The greatest intercensal increase rates in England and Wales occurred, it was pointed out, after periods of high prices.

Don Louis Terrazas, a great friend of President Diaz, has a farm at Chihuahua of about 8,000,000 acres. Don Louis is thought to own more than 1,000,000 cattle. His stable consists of some 100,000 horses; his sheepfold of 700,000 sheep. From 200,000 to 300,000 calves are branded with his brand every spring. More than 1,000 cowboys keep his cattle. At his slaughter and packing houses near Chihuahua City, 250,000 cattle, as many sheep and hogs innumerable are killed and away they go in his own refrigerator cars. Some 40,000 persons dwell on his estate.

TWENTY YEARS OF IT.

Emaciated by Diabetes; Tortured With Gravel and Kidney Pains.

Henry Soule, cobbler, of Hammondsport, N. Y., says: "Since Doan's Kidney Pills cured me eight years ago, I've reached 70 and hope to live many years longer. But twenty years ago I had kidney trouble so bad I could not work. Backache was persistent and it was agony to lift anything. Gravel, whirling headaches, dizziness and terrible urinary disorders ran me down from 168 to 100 pounds. Doctors told me I had diabetes and could not live. I was wretched and hopeless when I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, but they cured me eight years ago, and I've been well ever since."



Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Concerning Seasickness.

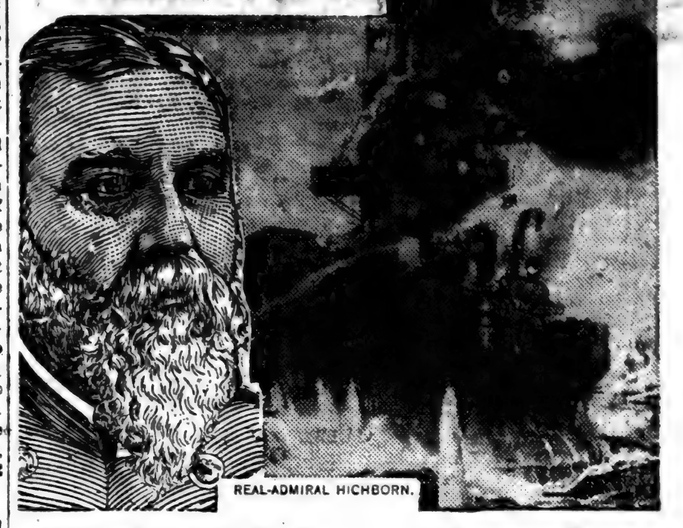
Two congressmen, discussing the discomforts of travel, happened to branch off on to the subject of seasickness. One of them said:

"Talk about seasickness; the fellow that traveled with me on my last European trip beat anything I ever met in all my experiences before. I tried all sorts of remedies on him, but without avail. He kept repeating, 'Oh, I am so sick—I am so sick.'

"Finally I cried out, 'Can't you keep anything on your stomach?'

"'Only my hands, Tom; only my hands.'"—Harper's Weekly.

Admiral Hichborn Praises Pe-ru-na



REAL-ADMIRAL HICHBORN.

Admiral's Words Carry Weight.

Rear-Admiral Hichborn is one of the best known officers of our navy. His statements concerning Peruna will have much weight as they go out in the world. What he says is echoed by many other officers of high standing.

What the Admiral Says.

Philip Hichborn, Rear-Admiral of the U. S. Navy, Washington, D. C., writes:

"After the use of Peruna for a short period, I can now cheerfully recommend your valuable remedy to any one who is in need of an invigorating tonic."—Philip Hichborn.

An Ever-Present Foe.

The soldier and the sailor are especially subject to catarrh. In the barracks and on the field Peruna is found equally efficacious to overcome this physical enemy. If taken in time it will prevent colds from developing into catarrh. Even after a cold has settled in some organ of the body Peruna can be relied upon as an efficacious remedy to promptly overcome it.

Peruna will relieve catarrh, whether acute or chronic, but a few doses of it taken in the first stages of the disease will be more effective than when the disease has become established.

PRICE, 25 Cts

ANTI-GRIPINE

IS GUARANTEED TO CURE GRIP, BAD COLD, HEADACHE AND NEURALGIA.

I won't sell Anti-Gripine to a dealer who won't Guarantee It. Call for your MONEY BACK IF IT DOESN'T CURE.

F. W. Diemer, M.D., Manufacturer. Springfield, Mo.

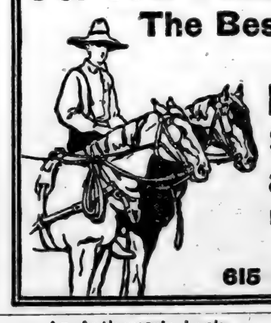
SLOAN'S LINIMENT

For Your Family and Your Horse

The Best Antiseptic Known.

TRY IT FOR

Rheumatism, Strains, Sprains, Swellings and Enlargements.



Price, 25c., 50c. and $1.00.

Dr. EARL S. SLOAN, 615 Albany St., Boston, Mass.

An Authoress's Luck.

There occurred not long ago the fiftieth aniversary of the death of Mary Russell Mitford, dear to readers for the sake of "Our Village." In her childhood lotteries were still popular, and Mary in 1797 became a ticket holder in one. She insisted on choosing the number 2,224 because the digits made up the sum of her age. That ticket won her $100,000. Like the $250,000 which her father had had in addition, this sum was wasted by him, and the daughter had at the age of three and twenty years to settle down to keep him for the rest of his life out of the money she earned with her pep.

Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullen is Nature's great remedy—Cures Coughs, Colds, Croup and Consumption, and all throat and lung troubles. At druggists, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

There are several birds than can do 270 miles an hour. With them to breakfast in New York and dine in Paris would be an easy matter.

HIGH CLASS DRUGGISTS

AND — OTHERS.

The better class of druggists, everywhere, are men of scientific attainments and high integrity, who devote their lives to the welfare of their fellow men in supplying the best of remedies and purest medicinal agents of known value, in accordance with physicians' prescriptions and scientific formula. Druggists of the better class manufacture many excellent remedies, but always under original or officinal names and they never sell false brands, or imitation medicines. They are the men to deal with when in need of anything in their line, which usually includes all standard remedies and corresponding adjuncts of a first-class pharmacy and the finest and best of toilet articles and preparations and many useful accessories and remedial appliances. The earning of a fair living, with the satisfaction which arises from a knowledge of the benefits conferred upon their patrons and assistance to the medical profession, is usually their greatest reward for long years of study and many hours of daily toil. They all know that Syrup of Figs is an excellent laxative remedy and that it gives universal satisfaction, and therefore they are selling many millions of bottles annually to the well informed purchasers of the choicest remedies, and they always take pleasure in handing out the genuine article bearing the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package. They know that in cases of colds and headaches attended by biliousness and constipation and of weakness or torpidity of the liver and bowels, arising from irregular habits, indigestion, or over-eating, that there is no other remedy so pleasant, prompt and beneficial in its effects as Syrup of Figs, and they are glad to sell it because it gives universal satisfaction.

Owing to the excellence of Syrup of Figs, the universal satisfaction which it gives and the immense demand for it, imitations have been made, tried and condemned, but there are individual druggists to be found, here and there, who do not maintain the dignity and principles of the profession and whose greed gets the better of their judgment, and who do not hesitate to recommend and try to sell the imitations in order to make a larger profit. Such preparations sometimes have the name—"Syrup of Figs"—or "Fig Syrup" and of some piratical concern, or fictitious fig syrup company, printed on the package, but they never have the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of the package. The imitations should be rejected because they are injurious to the system. In order to sell the imitations they find it necessary to resort to misrepresentation or deception, and whenever a dealer passes off on a customer a preparation under the name of "Syrup of Figs" or "Fig Syrup," which does not bear the full name of the California Fig Syrup Co. printed on the front of the package, he is attempting to deceive and mislead the patron who has been so unfortunate as to enter his establishment, whether it be large or small, for if the dealer resorts to misrepresentation and and deception in one case he will do so with other medicinal agents, and in the filling of physicians' prescriptions, and should be avoided by every one who values health and happiness. Knowing that the great majority of druggists are reliable, we supply the immense demand for our excellent remedy entirely through the druggists, of whom it may be purchased everywhere, in original packages only, at the regular price of fifty cents per bottle, but as exceptions exist it is necessary to inform the public of the facts, in order that all may decline or return any imitation which may be sold to them. If it does not bear the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package, do not hesitate to return the article and to demand the return of your money, and in future go to one of the better class of druggists who will sell you what you wish and the best of everything in his line at reasonable prices.

The 1906 holiday's started o
the 1st of January, which Monday. The anniversary of
tle of New Orleans, January
on Monday. Washington's comes on a Thursday, Memor
on Wednesday, Independence
Wednesday and Labor Day
day. Other special days are thie's day on Wednesday, Ha
on Wednesday, Thanksgiving,
ber 29th, and Christmas on
None of the holidays fall on

DON'T MISS THIS.

A Cure For Stomach Trouble... Method, by Absorption—No

Do You Belch?

It means a diseased Stomach. A afflicted with Short Breath, G Eructations, Heart Pains, Indiges
pepsia, Burning Pains and Lead in Pit of Stomach, Acid Stom tended Abdomen, Dizziness, Colic Bad Breath or Any Other Stom
ture?

Let us send you a box of Mull
Belch Wafers free to convince you cures.

Nothing else like it known. T and very pleasant. Cures by ab Harmless. No drugs. Stomach can't be cured otherwise—so says
Science. Drugs won't do—they ea
Stomach and make you worse.

We know Mull's Anti-Belch Wa and we want you to know it, h offer.

SPECIAL OFFER.—The regular Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers is 50c. a to introduce it to thousands of we will send two (2) boxes upon of 75c. and this advertisement, or send you a free sample for this c

1906 A FREE BOX.

Send this coupon with your
and address and druggist's name does not sell it for a free box of Anti Belch Wafers to MULL'S GRAPE TONIC CO., 323
Ave., Rock Island, Ill.
Give Full Address and Write P

Sold at all druggists, 50c. per b

Food for Great Men.

When J. Pierpont Morgan home he has corn beef and John D. Rockefeller likes hot and toast. Uncle Russell Sage of thin soups. Thomas Fortune would give an insurance comp an elevated railroad for a S ham twenty five years cured, w fashioned corn dumplings as a ment. Mark Hanna was a bi rivaling Pouyer Quertier. He so much of his corned beef he half the members of the ro party got to eating that luxury.

Speaking of Hanna's hash:
Spencer, of the American Pal
Company, one of the salt,
Springfield, Mass., every Christ make hash for the family
Hanna's hash was not a mar
the Spencerian brand, if we ca low the testimony of those w had the happiness to taste bo one never grows old who eat cerian hash. Before starting for field Mr. Spencer gave me his with consent to publish it to the
it is as follows:

Take two-thirds of either boiled corned beef or canned beef, chop it reasonably fine one-third Irish potatoes, chopp sonably fine. To this add turnip chopped the same size potatoes—the good, old-fashione bagas preferred. Place all in fashioned, thick iron skillet, thoroughly. Put a few pieces ter here and there; then sift little flour—not enough to m gummy, but enough to give th ture the proper consistency.
very liberal sprinkling of re black pepper (not that white about twice as much as wou narily be used for seasoning
Add enough water to keep th from sticking to the skillet, co a slow fire from fifteen to minutes, not simply "warm it hash is usually cooked; coo the black pepper is thoroughly into the hash, mixing with as the process advances. Ad water, so that when ready to will not be too moist or too just right.

San Diego, Cal., has arrang
a company for a supply of 8,00 lons of mountain water a cents per 1,000 gallons.

THE LITTLE WIDOW

A Mighty Good Sort of a Neighb

"A little widow, a neighbor persuaded me to try Grape-N my stomach was so weak that not retain food of any othe writes a grateful woman, f
Bernardino Co., Cal.

"I had been ill and confin bed with fever and nervous p for three long months after of my second boy. We were until the little widow's advice relief.

"I liked Grape-Nuts food beginning, and in an incredi time it gave me such streng was able to leave my bed and three good meals a day. In t my weight increased from to 113 pounds, my nerves be down and I felt ready for My neighbors were amazed gain so rapidly and still mo they heard that Grape-Nuts brought the change.

"My four-year-old boy ha very bad, last spring and petite entirely, which made and peevish. I put him on Grape-Nuts, which he relish
He improved from the beg eczema disappeared and no and rosy, with a delightfully skin. The Grape-Nuts diet will willingly answer all
Name given by Postum
Creek, Mich.

There's a reason. Read book, "The Road to Wellvi

SICK WOMEN

READ MRS. FOX'S LETTER

Parts of the United States Lydia nkham's Vegetable Compound ffected Similar Cures.

y wonderful cures of female ills ntinually coming to light which en brought about by Lydia E.
m's Vegetable Compound, and

Mrs. Fannie D. Fox

ch the advice of Mrs. Pinkham, n, Mass., which is given to sick
n absolutely free of charge.

present Mrs. Pinkham has for y-five years made a study of the her sex; she has consulted with advised thousands of suffering
, who to-day owe not only their but even life to her helpful
e.

. Fannie D. Fox, of 7 Chestnut
t, Bradford, Pa., writes:

Mrs. Pinkham
suffered for a long time with female e, and finally was told by my physician had a tumor. I did not want to t to an operation, so wrote you for I received your letter and did as told me, and to-day I am completely
My doctor says the tumor has disapd, and I am once more a well woman.
ve Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Comd is the best medicine in the world."

e testimonials which we are conly publishing from grateful women blish beyond a doubt the power of a E. Pinkham's Vegetable Comd to conquer female diseases.

omen suffering from any form of le weakness are invited to ptly communicate with Mrs nham, at Lynn, Mass. She asks ing in return for her advice. It is lutely free, and to thousands of en has proved to be more precious gold.

One Of The Results

of liberally using our fertilizers, is to pay off a mortgage on the old farm. Read the following from Messrs. Wherry & Son, owners of the Magnolia Fruit Farm, Durant, Miss.: "We made $800 from one acre strawberries, on which your fertilizers were used. Eight years ago we bought this place at $30 per acre. It was then considered to have been worn out twenty years before, but by liberally using under peas and velvet beans, we can now grow almost anything, and have been offered $300 per acre for the place. We experimented with a great many brands of fertilizers, but find the highest per-cent. cheaper." Now don't you think Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers would enable you to pay off a mortgage if you had one? Well, don't use any other.

Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers

Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co.

Richmond, Va.
Norfolk, Va.
Durham, N. C.
Charleston, S. C.
Baltimore, Md.
Atlanta, Ga.
Savannah, Ga.
Montgomery, Ala.
Memphis, Tenn.
Shreveport, La.

COTTON AGENTS WANTED

desire correspondents in all the smaller towns villages of the South. Men who can control subscription business will receive a liberal salary commission. Established 1866.

Frederick K. Fish, Jr. & Co.,
44 & 46 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use
in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION
25 CTS.

Am. 4, 1906.

Elicted Thompson's Eye Water

FOR MEN
RIGEUR
$3.50

A Man Who Invests

In this SHOE Gets Most for His Money. Only the Dealer Who Wants to Make a Big Profit Will Say He Can't Supply You. It is One of the Leaders of the "ALWAYS JUST CORRECT"

Clover Brand Shoes

Wertheimer-Swartz Shoe Co.

LARGEST FINE SHOE EXCLUSIVISTS
ST. LOUIS, U. S. A.

PILES permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer, $2 trial bottle and treatise free. Dr. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

Ragout of bear has become a popular dish

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature on each box. 25c.

Mahomet's tomb is covered with jewels worth $12,500,000.

Robbed in Church.

Just think what an outrage it is to be robbed of all the benefits of the services by continuous coughing throughout the congregation, when Anti-Gripine is guaranteed to cure. Sold everywhere. 25 cts. F. W. Diemer, M. D., manufacturer, Springfield, Mo.

A company has been formed in Greece for buying up unsold currants.

Cures Blood, Skin Troubles, Cancer, Blood Poison. Greatest Blood Purifier Free.

If your blood is impure, thin, diseased, hot or full of humors, if you have blood poison, cancer, carbuncles, eating sores, scrofula, eczema, itching, risings and lumps, scaldy, pimply skin, bone pains, catarrh, rheumatism, or any blood or skin disease, take Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) according to directions. Soon all sores heal, aches and pains stop, the blood is made pure and rich, leaving the skin free from every eruption, and giving the rich glow of perfect health to the skin. At the same time B. B. B. improves the digestion, cures dyspepsia, strengthens weak kidneys. Just the medicine for old people, as it gives them new, vigorous blood. Druggists, $1 per large bottle, with directions for home cure. Sample free and prepaid by writing Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga. Describe trouble and special free medical advice also sent in sealed letter. B. B. B. is especially advised for chronic, deep-seated cases of impure blood and skin disease, and cures after all else fails.

False teeth for horses are made in Paris.

FOUR YEARS OF AGONY.

Whole Foot Nothing But Proud Flesh—Had to Use Crutches — "Cuticura Remedies Best on Earth."

"In the year 1895 the side of my right foot was cut off from the little toe down to the heel, and the physician who had charge of me was trying to sew up the side of my foot, but with no success. At last my whole foot and way up above my calf was nothing but proud flesh. I suffered untold agonies for four years, and tried different physicians and all kinds of ointments. I could walk only with crutches. In two weeks afterwards I saw a change in my limb. Then I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment often during the day; and kept it up for seven months, when my limb was healed up just the same as if I never had trouble. It is eight months now since I stopped using Cuticura Remedies, the best on God's earth. I am working at the present day, after five years of suffering. The cost of Cuticura Ointment and Soap was only $6, but the doctors' bills were more like $800. John M. Lloyd, 718 S. Arch Ave., Alliance, Ohio, June 27, 1905."

One microbe breeds 140,000,000,000 a day.

The fashionable Siamese goes to bed at 4 in the morning and gets up at 3 in the afternoon.

$100 Reward. $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Men of genius are very often unmarried.

In the year 1904 coroners' jurors in London passed on forty-two cases of starvation.

A Guaranteed Cure For Piles.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding, Protruding Piles. Druggists are authorized to refund money if Pazo Ointment fails to cure in 6 to 14 days. 50c.

Salt has had much influence in shaping civilization.

Piso's Cure for Consumption is an infallible medicine for coughs and colds.—N. W. SAMUEL, Oceangrove, N. J., Feb. 17, 1905.

The Hindoos are boycotting foreign sugar.

Itch cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion; never fails. Sold by Druggists. Mail orders promptly filled by Dr. Detchon, Crawfordsville, Ind. $1.

The new Italian postage stamps will not bear the monarch's head.

Wanted.

Old defaulted or unsaleable stocks and bonds. Remainders of estates bought. All unquoted or unlisted securities dealt in. No charge for valuing old securities. Valuable book on old securities presented to holder of any extinct stock not mentioned therein. H. M. SMYTHE (room 402, Produce Exchange, New York.

SHARK FISHING

A "Sport" That is Both Dangerous and Exhilarating.

With a splash sufficiently vigorous to scare a sleeping whale, over goes the hook—half a hundredweight of ironware, fastened by a steel chain to a rope cable, capable of standing a tested strain of five tons. One does not fish for the tiger of the seas with silk lines and drawn-gut casts. The hook is baited with a four-pound lump of fat, bilious-looking salt pork; or, better still, with a piece of porpoise blubber to which a small square of tough hide is still attached—a bait which no shark that ever swam could resist.

Our quarry is, not unnaturally, somewhat frightened by the splash—made purposely, by the way, with the idea of attracting his attention—with which this delicate lure is thrown to him, and sheers off doubtfully. His hesitation, however, does not last long. He remembers the delightful flavor of the delicacy he has already had, and comes up with a rush to enjoy the second course.

There is a slight oily swirl, a flash of white from his belly as he turns over, two double rows of sharp, murderous-looking teeth come together with a snap, and bait, hook and a foot or two of the rusty chain are swallowed without a gulp. Then, as the point of the hook bites into the cartilaginous framework of his head, he becomes alarmed, and tries to break away. No use; that five-ton cable will hold him. Hand-over-fist he is hauled in to the side; a running noose is dropped down the line and around his body, and a dozen eager anglers haul him unceremoniously up on deck. And then the cream of the fun begins.

He looks bigger now than he did when he was in the water. His lashing tail and viciously snapping jaws are not to be approached without due caution. A slip might mean the loss of an arm, bitten off clean by one of those convulsive snaps. He squirms about, mixing up into a general hotchpotch everything moveable which comes within his reach; and it is not until his power of attack has been most strictly limited by the tangle of ropes of all kinds which have been jerked and twisted around him by the more daring of his captors, that the majority care to come within reach of his jaws or tail.

A plank is now slipped cautiously under his tail, and, with one short, crisp chop of the cook's big chopper, it is severed from the rest of him at the thinnest part, and carried off to be nailed to the jibboom "for luck." Deprived of his tail, the shark is considered to be practically harmless; and now it is that Jack whips out his sheath-knife, and becomes for the time a cruel, vindictive fiend. Every sailor considers that he has a grudge to pay off against that quivering, defenceless mass of fish, and there and then he proceeds to pay it, revelling in the torments he inflicts, and warmly applauding any device of torture which strikes him as being peculiarly fiendish.—Pearson's Magazine.

The Interview That Failed.

Following the somewhat indistinct directions of a small and impertinent errand boy, we sought out the Great Man's chambers, and knocked at the Great Man's door. Receiving no answer or assistance from within, we admitted ourselves, and beheld the Great Man seated at his desk, with his back towards us. For a while we stood unobserved, till at last, by coughing for a third time with offensive noisiness, we attracted his attention.

Without turning around, he addressed us in the following gracious and outspoken manner . . . . "I have paid my Income Tax, I cannot give you bread, money or hospital tickets, nor do I stand in need of anybody's backache pills. You need not, therefore, stay."

"Excuse us," we replied, "we are not tax collectors, beggars or touts."

"In any case," he said, "you will find the door behind you."

Encouraged by this genial welcome, we proceeded to the object of our visit, and arranging in our minds a series of questions as to the Great Man's past, present and probable future, his own, his wife's, his children's, and his servants' domestic pets, we opened with the usual question: "You are, we believe, the renowned Mr. Ettiseterer?"

"I am," he replied, "not."

Feeling that further interrogation was as unnecessary as it would be impolite, we wished our host a cordial "Good-night," and, whistling merrily, took our leave.—Punch.

Castro Very Short of Money.

I am informed by diplomatists who keep in touch with Venezuelan affairs that President Castro is very short of money, owing to a serious dimunition in the customs, due no doubt, to his provocative policy abroad. All public works have been stopped, and Government contracts are being annulled. As for the French Cable Company dispute, President Castro has tried to induce an English firm to provide a telegraphic service with the United States by laying a cable via Trinidad. But Trinidad refused permission, and the English firm declined the proposal. In the meantime the quarrel with France is as far from settlement as ever, but there is no truth in the rumors industriously invented that the French Government is about to use force. I learn unofficially, but on very good evidence, that the difficulty is likely to be settled in quite another way. If France will only wait patiently and give President Castro a little more rope, he will hang himself. There is little doubt that a revolution is in prospect, which would probably end his perverse career.—London Standard.

In Paris the average price of pure milk is 33.8 cents a gallon.

Birth Rate Follows Trade.

At a meeting of the Royal Statistical Society, held recently in London, at the society's rooms, a paper was read on "The Changes in the Marriage and Birth Rates in England and Wales During the Last Half Century, With an Inquiry as to Their Causes," by G. Udny Yule. A careful examination of the fluctuations in the birth rate showed, declared Mr. Yule, that it appeared to respond, like the marriage rate to the cycle of trade and industry, though the movement is curiously irregular as compared with that of the latter rate. The fall of the birth rate or a marked increase in the rate of fall, commenced in many European countries just about 1875-6—that is, when the effect of the fall of prices from 1873 was just beginning to make itself felt. The turning point was too well marked not to be due to some very definite cause, and too widespread to be ascribed to any cause of at all a local character. The greatest intercensal increase rates in England and Wales occurred, it was pointed out, after periods of high prices.

Don Louis Terrazas, a great friend of President Diaz, has a farm at Chihuahua of about 8,000,000 acres. Don Louis is thought to own more than 1,000,000 cattle. His stable consists of some 100,000 horses; his sheepfold of 700,000 sheep. From 200,000 to 300,000 calves are branded with his brand every spring. More than 1,000 cowboys keep his cattle. At his slaughter and packing houses near Chihuahua City, 250,000 cattle, as many sheep and hogs innumerable are killed and away they go in his own refrigerator cars. Some 40,000 persons dwell on his estate.

TWENTY YEARS OF IT.

Emaciated by Diabetes; Tortured With Gravel and Kidney Pains.

Henry Soule, cobbler, of Hammondsport, N. Y., says: "Since Doan's Kidney Pills cured me eight years ago, I've reached 70 and hope to live many years longer. But twenty years ago I had kidney trouble so bad I could not work. Backache was persistent and it was agony to lift anything. Gravel, whirling headaches, dizziness and terrible urinary disorders ran me down from 168 to 100 pounds. Doctors told me I had diabetes and could not live. I was wretched and hopeless when I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, but they cured me eight years ago, and I've been well ever since."

Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Concerning Seasickness.

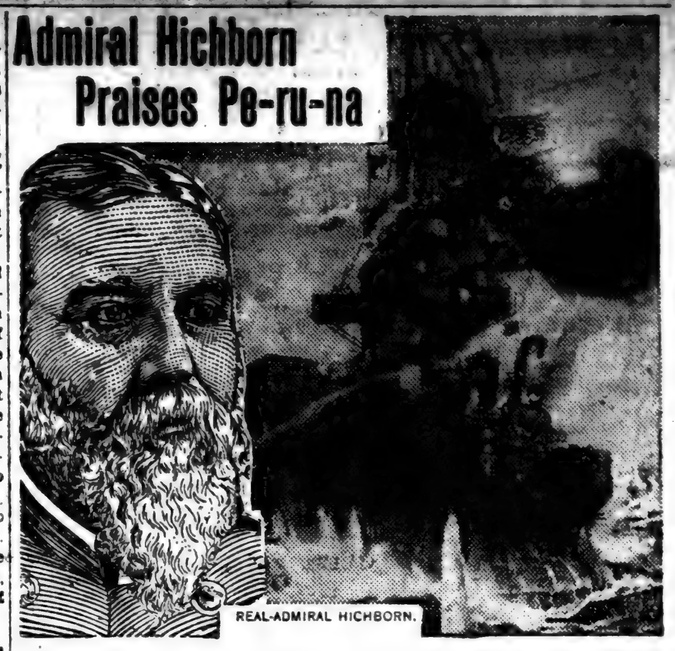
Two congressmen, discussing the discomforts of travel, happened to branch off on to the subject of seasickness. One of them said:

"Talk about seasickness; the fellow that traveled with me on my last European trip beat anything I ever met in all my experiences before. I tried all sorts of remedies on him, but without avail. He kept repeating, 'Oh, I am so sick—I am so sick.'

"Finally I cried out, 'Can't you keep anything on your stomach?'

"'Only my hands, Tom; only my hands."—Harper's Weekly.

Admiral Hichborn Praises Pe-ru-na



REAL-ADMIRAL HICHBORN.

Admiral's Words Carry Weight.

Rear-Admiral Hichborn is one of the best known officers of our navy. His statements concerning Peruna will have much weight as they go out in the world. What he says is echoed by many other officers of high standing.

What the Admiral Says.

Philip Hichborn, Rear-Admiral of the U. S. Navy, Washington, D. C., writes:

"After the use of Peruna for a short period, I can now cheerfully recommend your valuable remedy to any one who is in need of an invigorating tonic."—Philip Hichborn.

An Ever-Present Foe.

The soldier and the sailor are especially subject to catarrh. In the barracks and on the field Peruna is found equally efficacious to overcome this physical enemy. If taken in time it will prevent colds from developing into catarrh. Even after a cold has settled in some organ of the body Peruna can be relied upon as an efficacious remedy to promptly overcome it.

Peruna will relieve catarrh, whether acute or chronic, but a few doses of it taken in the first stages of the disease will be more effective than when the disease has become established.

PRICE, 25 Cts

ANTI-GRIPINE

IS GUARANTEED TO CURE
GRIP, BAD COLD, HEADACHE AND NEURALGIA.
I won't sell Anti-Gripine to a dealer who won't Guarantee It. Call for your MONEY BACK IF IT DOESN'T CURE.
F. W. Diemer, M.D., Manufacturer. Springfield, Mo.

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

For Your Family and Your Horse

The Best Antiseptic Known.

TRY IT FOR

Rheumatism, Strains, Sprains, Swellings and Enlargements.

Price, 25c., 50c. and $1.00.

Dr. EARL S. SLOAN,
615 Albany St., Boston, Mass.

An Authoress's Luck.

There occurred not long ago the fiftieth anniversary of the death of Mary Russell Mitford, dear to readers for the sake of "Our Village." In her childhood lotteries were still popular, and Mary in 1797 became a ticket holder in one. She insisted on choosing the number 2,224 because the digits made up the sum of her age. That ticket won her $100,000. Like the $250,000 which her father had had in addition, this sum was wasted by him, and the daughter had at the age of three and twenty years to settle down to keep him for the rest of his life out of the money she earned with her pen.

Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullen is Nature's great remedy—Cures Coughs, Colds, Croup and Consumption, and all throat and lung troubles. At druggists, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

There are several birds than can do 270 miles an hour. With them to breakfast in New York and dine in Paris would be an easy matter.

HIGH CLASS DRUGGISTS
AND — OTHERS.

The better class of druggists, everywhere, are men of scientific attainments and high integrity, who devote their lives to the welfare of their fellow men in supplying the best of remedies and purest medicinal agents of known value, in accordance with physicians' prescriptions and scientific formula. Druggists of the better class manufacture many excellent remedies, but always under original or officinal names and they never sell false brands, or imitation medicines. They are the men to deal with when in need of anything in their line, which usually includes all standard remedies and corresponding adjuncts of a first-class pharmacy and the finest and best of toilet articles and preparations and many useful accessories and remedial appliances. The earning of a fair living, with the satisfaction which arises from a knowledge of the benefits conferred upon their patrons and assistance to the medical profession, is usually their greatest reward for long years of study and many hours of daily toil. They all know that Syrup of Figs is an excellent laxative remedy and that it gives universal satisfaction, and therefore they are selling many millions of bottles annually to the well informed purchasers of the choicest remedies, and they always take pleasure in handing out the genuine article bearing the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package. They know that in cases of colds and headaches attended by biliousness and constipation and of weakness or torpidity of the liver and bowels, arising from irregular habits, indigestion, or over-eating, that there is no other remedy so pleasant, prompt and beneficial in its effects as Syrup of Figs, and they are glad to sell it because it gives universal satisfaction.

Owing to the excellence of Syrup of Figs, the universal satisfaction which it gives and the immense demand for it, imitations have been made, tried and condemned, but there are individual druggists to be found, here and there, who do not maintain the dignity and principles of the profession and whose greed gets the better of their judgment, and who do not hesitate to recommend and try to sell the imitations in order to make a larger profit. Such preparations sometimes have the name—"Syrup of Figs"—or "Fig Syrup" and of some piratical concern, or fictitious fig syrup company, printed on the package, but they never have the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of the package. The imitations should be rejected because they are injurious to the system. In order to sell the imitations they find it necessary to resort to misrepresentation or deception, and whenever a dealer passes off on a customer a preparation under the name of "Syrup of Figs" or "Fig Syrup," which does not bear the full name of the California Fig Syrup Co. printed on the front of the package, he is attempting to deceive and mislead the patron who has been so unfortunate as to enter his establishment, whether it be large or small, for if the dealer resorts to misrepresentation and and deception in one case he will do so with other medicinal agents, and in the filling of physicians' prescriptions, and should be avoided by every one who values health and happiness. Knowing that the great majority of druggists are reliable, we supply the immense demand for our excellent remedy entirely through the druggists, of whom it may be purchased everywhere, in original packages only, at the regular price of fifty cents per bottle, but as exceptions exist it is necessary to inform the public of the facts, in order that all may decline or return any imitation which may be sold to them. If it does not bear the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package, do not hesitate to return the article and to demand the return of your money, and in future go to one of the better class of druggists who will sell you what you wish and the best of everything in his line at reasonable prices.

ALABAMA STATE EVENTS.

Items of Interest Gathered as They Transpire Over the Entire State.

Library Is Burned.

Huntsville, Ala.—The Carnegie library at the Agricultural and Mechanical College at Normal was destroyed by fire Saturday morning, the loss being estimated at from $20,000 to $25,000; insurance, $6,000. The fire started in the basement, and the well-drilled bucket brigade of the college was unable to check the flames before they had wreaked total destruction to the library building. The loss falls heavily upon the college, of which Prof. W. H. Council is president, the original cost being $12,000, and it contained nearly all the books of the institution. The library will be rebuilt.

Dies From Injuries.

Birmingham, Ala.—A special from Greenwood, Miss., says that S. Griscom, of Birmingham, while superintending the erection of roof tresses for the new court house at Greenwood, fell a distance of twenty-five feet and died from his injuries. The body reached this city Sunday from Mississippi.

New Bank.

Montgomery, Ala.—Within the next thirty or sixty days it is practically certain that Montgomery will have a new banking house with a capital stock of from $200,000 to $300,000. The institution is in process of organization, and a number of citizens, both in and out of Montgomery, have signified their intention of subscribing to the stock. The new bank, promoted by W. M. Holloway and his associates, will be known as the Montgomery Bank and Trust Company.

Florence to Have Opera House.

Florence, Ala.—An opera house to cost when completed $35,000 is being planned by the local Knights of Pythias, and the funds for the project are being rapidly collected. The lodge has subscribed liberally to the undertaking and heretofore subscriptions have been confined within the lodge, but the plan has now been adopted of throwing a certain amount of stock on the market, and this will greatly facilitate the collection of the desired amount. An option has been secured on the northeast corner of Court and Mobile streets, one of the best building lots in the up-town section.

Bib Committee Meets.

Centreville, Ala.—The county executive committee of Bibb county met here Saturday at noon. J. G. Oakley, chairman, resigned on acount of being a candidate, and D. G. McSpadden, of Belle Ellen, was elected chairman of the committee. L. P. Nunnellee was elected permanent secretary. W. W. Lavender was elected committeeman for beat 5. The committee ordered a primary for the nomination of county officers to take place on Saturday, April 14. A sub-committee was appointed to arrange the details of the primary election. The meeting was a most harmonious one. The sentiment of the committee endorsed the action of the state executive committee. The committee adopted the rule laid down by the state executive committee as to qualification of voters. Quite a number of candidates appeared before the committee.

Comer at Athens.

Athens, Ala.—B. B. Comer, candidate for governor, spoke at the court house in this place to a large and representative audience of nearly 200 men, mostly farmers. He was given fine attention and some applause during the speech, which lasted for two hours, and which was confined for the most part to the question of railroad legislation and foreign rates. He made some sweeping charges, which he said had never been denied. He was outspoken in his remarks about the election of the legislature. He compared the farmers and business men of the state as a six-mule team and called it the ship of state, and said when ever a mule in the team failed to pull to unhitch and leave the animal out and put in another: that whenever a man representing railroads in any capacity aspired to represent the people in their lawmaking bodies to leave him at home.

Militia Inspection.

Birmingham, Ala.—An inspection of the brigade headquarters of the state of Alabama, comprising the First, Second and Third regiments, Alabama National Guard, was made, Major H. J. Goldman, Twelfth Cavalry, U. S. A., being the inspecting officer. The brigade officers were in full attendance. Major Goldman expressed himself as greatly pleased with the high standard of proficiency found in the various regiments in Alabama. Particular stress was laid on the personnel of the men.

Doctors Elect Officers.

Union Springs, Ala.—The Bullock County Medical Association met in the office of Dr. C. H. Franklin on the 17th and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Dr. J. L. Bowman; vice-president, Dr. R. H. Hayes; secertary, Dr. C. M. Franklin; treasurer, Dr. T. J. Dean. Dr. Bowman and Dr. F. P. Hixon were added to the board of census.

Knox Announces for the Senate.

Anniston, Ala.—John B. Knox, of this city, late president of the constitutional convention, announces for United States senator. Mr. Knox, when asked whether he would be a candidate in the approaching primary for the United States senatorship, said in substance: "If our present senators, John T. Morgan and E. W. Pettus, offer for re-election, I will not oppose them. I have not heard any announcement from either of them as to their intentions in this respect. If both of them, or if either of them, does not offer for re-election, I will be a candidate to succeed the one or the other, as the case may be."

County Primary August 27.

Birmingham, Ala.—B. A. Thompson, chairman of the county democratic executive committee, is of the opinion that Jefferson county's primary to nominate county officers will not be held until August 27, the date on which the state primary will be held. So far no sentiment for an early primary has developed, and from all indications the proposed plan to only hold one election will meet with the approval of the voters. When asked when he would call the county committee together to fix the date of the primary Chairman Thompson replied: "Well, I hardly think there will be any necessity to call a meeting of the committee until the latter part of March."

Electric Railway to Tidewater.

Birmingham, Ala.—The Tidewater Development Company is to be chartered within the next thirty days. This new corporation will practically be the merger of the franchises and assets now held by the organization known as J. M. Dewberry and associates, prominent promoters, and will continue to exploit the projects of these gentlemen. The immediate object of the new corporation is to construct a line of transportation, both for passengers and freight, from Gadsden through the Birmingham district to Tuscaloosa, operated by electricity, and from Tuscaloosa to the gulf by water route over the Warrior river.

Race Warm in Walker.

Jasper, Ala.—Things politically have been very quiet in Walker county since the holidays, but with the approach of spring it is expected that new life will be infused into the situation. The race for sheriff of the county is perhaps the most interesting contest which is likely to come up. At present, there are only two candidates for this office—J. A. Huggins and J. O. Long, and both of these gentlemen have a very strong following. Ernest R. Lacy, a prominent young attorney of Jasper, has announced that he will be a candidate to represent Walker county in the next legislature of Alabama. Mr. Lacy is a young man eminently fitted for the place, and his friends feel confident of his election. So far only two other candidates have announced—J. M. Sherer, of the Jasper bar, and J. L. Davis, of Mary Lee beat.

Elevated Coach Plunged to Ground.

New York.—The middle coach of a three-car elevated train on the Cypress Hill branch of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company was derailed Friday at an "uncontrolled" switch, and plunged thirty feet from the overhead structure to a vacant lot. The forward end of the car struck a heavy boulder and was split from end to end, collapsing into a mass of wreckage.

Of the twelve passengers who went down with the car one was killed and the others seriously injured. A guard standing on the front platform was so badly injured by being hurled to the ground that he is not expected to live.

Negro Homicide.

Birmingham, Ala.—Tom Eddings, a negro, was arrested by Policemen Stokes and Whitney and locked up on two charges. One of assault and battery and another of murder. He became involved in a fight with another negro and stabbed him to death. The name of the dead man has not yet been ascertained by the police.

Crushed by Tree.

Anniston, Ala.—While cutting down a tree Tom White, a wood cutter of this county, was instantly crushed to death. The tree seems to have fallen in an opposite direction from what he had expected, catching him beneath the trunk.

Prattville, Ala.—Will Stoudemire, the negro who was convicted of murder and sentenced to hang for killing Sim McBride, his father-in-law, will be hanged on the 9th of March next. The supreme court has affirmed the decision of the lower court.

Knife Applied to Brain.

Philadelphia, Pa.—A splinter of steel three inches in length has been removed from the brain of John Nail, of Winston, N. C., at the Jefferson Hospital here. An effort was made to draw out the splinter by means of a powerful magnet, but the steel was so firmly imbedded that the surgeons were compelled to resort to the knife. The patient is reported to be doing well.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the payment of the debt secured by a certain mortgage executed to the undersigned on the 9th day of February, 1900, by William L. Parnell and wife, Eliza J. Parnell, and recorded in the Probate office of Chilton county, Alabama, in Mortgage Record 53, on page 217 et seq., and said default still continuing, I, the said Alexander W. Jones, will sell, under the power in said mortgage contained, on Tuesday, the 27th day of February, 1906, in front of the court house door of Chilton county, in the city of Clanton, county of Chilton and State of Alabama, during the legal hours of sale, at public outcry to the highest and best bidder for cash, the following described real estate situated, lying and being in said county and State, to-wit: The south half of the northwest quarter, the southwest quarter, the south half of the northeast quarter and the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter, the west half of the southeast quarter and the north half of the northwest quarter of section one (1), township twenty (20) and range eleven (11); the south half of the northeast quarter and the north half of the southeast quarter, southwest quarter of the southeast quarter, and the southwest quarter, the west half of the northwest quarter of section thirty-six (36), township twenty-one (21) and range eleven (11); the north half of the northeast quarter, southwest quarter of the northeast quarter, the east half of the east half of the southwest quarter, the southwest quarter of the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter and the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section two (2), township twenty (20) and range eleven (11); also the timber right on the following lands situated in the county of Chilton and State of Alabama, to-wit: The south half of the northeast quarter, north half of the southeast quarter and the north half of the southwest quarter of section sixteen (16), township twenty (20) and range twelve (12). This sale will be made to satisfy the debt secured by said mortgage, including a reasonable attorney's fee for the foreclosure of this mortgage and the collection of the debt and the cost of advertising.

ALEXANDER W. JONES,
Mortgagee.
E. CARLISLE JONES, Attorney.
1-25-06-4w

NOTICE NO. 26308.

Department of the Interior,
Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
December 18, 1905.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Clerk of the Circuit Court at Clanton, Ala., on February 3, 1906, viz: Andrew J. Johnson, homestead entry No. 37392, for the N. 1-2 of N. E. 1-4, N. E. 1-4 of N. W. 1-4, section 27, township 22, range 15 east.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:

Wash Parrish, Monroe Parrish, William Easterling, Beait Easterling, all of Clanton, Ala.

ROBERT BARBER,
12-21-05-6t Register.

COUNTY COURT.

Hold first Monday in each month. All interested will pleased take notice that the court will open at 9:30 a. m. sharp.

L. H. REYNOLDS,
Judge of County Court,
tf Chilton County, Ala.

ABOUT CANDIDATES.

All letters praising any particular candidate by name will have to be paid for at the rate of 1-2 cent per word. The UNION will publish free all matter relating to the general welfare and prospects of the party of the People. tf

POLL TAX.

I've received a number of letters from our people asking if they could send me the money for their poll tax, and would I attend to the paying of the tax for them and send them the receipt. Any one who will send me the money, and write what year or years he wants to pay for, the number of his school district and his beat, and his name as he gave it to the registrars, will have the same promptly attended to by me. Now, let's all pay up our poll tax, and thereby do a man's duty and help out individual schools. Respectfully,

tf L. H. REYNOLDS.
Judge of Probate.

1-11-05-4t

60 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

WOOD FOR SPOOLS.

Europe Gets Six Cargoes from Maine State.

The British tramp steamship Louisiana will probably clear from Bangor on Wednesday with the last cargo of spool bars to be shipped from this port this season. The Louisiana is now taking her third cargo of the season, having made the rather unusual record of making three trips between Bangor and Scotland during one season.

The Louisiana's cargo is the sixth to leave Bangor this season, and others having been taken by the steamship Dorset in two voyages, the two previous cargoes taken by the Louisiana and the cargo by the steamship Araucania, which came here from Portland with a partial cargo and had the remainder put in here.

The sailing of the Louisiana closes a big season for the spool wood shippers on the Penobscot. With the departure of the Louisiana the total of the season's shipments will foot up about 7,000,000 feet. This is an increase of nearly 1,000,000 feet over last season's shipments. Practically all of the spool wood was shipped by one firm which has large mills at West Sebois, Katahdin Iron Works and other points in that region. All of this spool wood has gone to England or Scotland, where the great thread factories of those countries and their products furnish an ever increasing demand for the spools.

Though this season's shipments have been large, the spool wood manufacturers think there will be a big dropping off in the shipments next year. The white birch forests of Finland are now coming to the fore in the spool wood industry, and their product is encroaching on the market, which has heretofore been held almost exclusively by the American product. Then the manufacturers of spools in England and Scotland have been taking the spool wood as it came along until they are overstocked with the raw product, and consequently are not making contracts for a further supply.

Practically all of the spool wood shipped from Maine comes from the country along the Bangor & Aroostook railroad, and most of it from that section about Schoodic, West Sebois, and the Katahdin Iron Works branch. Some spool wood is sawed in Washington county, but the manufacture of the white birch there is almost wholly for box shooks, which are shipped from Eastport in large quantity. For manufacturing both spool wood and box shooks the white birch trees are used. The wood of the yellow birch does not meet the demands of the spool manufacturers and will not stand the shipment as the white birch does.

There are thousands of acres of birch growth in Maine, with the yellow birch predominating. The yellow birch is used for making hubs, but but there are few hub mills in Maine, and the yellow birch is consequently almost a drug on the market and can be had for almost nothing. The spool wood industry gives employment to a large number of men during the year. Two or three mills will give employment to 300 or 400 men cutting white birch during the winter, and these same mills during the summer will give work to fifty or seventy-five men in sawing and handling the spool wood.—Bangor Commercial.

Dregs of Crime.

"They say as how Jebez Walton's boy is up in Noo York leadin' a life of crime."

"Dew tell! Fer the land's sake! I wanter know! Hez he gone into anything he could be jailed fer, or jest something like life insurance?"

Good Prescription.

Askitt—I say, doctor, do you know of anything that will prevent seasickness?

Dr. Quackem—Yes. Stay on land. Two dollars, please.—Chicago News.

The small island of Poros is a favorite summer resort of the Athenians.

A commission of Belgian artillerists, appointed to report on the best quick-firing field guns, reports that the Krupp stands campaign usage best, while the Saint Chamould is superior in fire. So now it is for the war minister to make up his mind as between the German and French weapons.

We Club With

The New York World

THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION.

Read Wherever the English Language Is Spoken

For the autumn season now at hand the most valuable paper to you will be the New York Thrice-a-week world, because it offers you more at the price than any other paper published anywhere in the world.

This is a time of great events. We are having great wars and other changes of a stirring kind are occurring both at home and abroad. The Thrice-a-Week World comes to you every other day, except Sunday, with all the news, fully, accurately and promptly told.

The Thrice-a-Week World is fair in its political reports. You can get the truth from its columns, whether you are Republican or Democrat, and that is what you want.

The Thrice-a-Week World always has a serial story running, and it is always a first-class story by a first-class author. The Thrice-a-Week World publishes better fiction than any other newspaper in the United States. Special attention is also given to markets, and there are many other valuable features.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequaled newspaper and THE UNION together one year for $1.50.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.00. tf.

Thorsby, Alabam

Business Directory.

Commercial Club
OF THORSBY
DEFINITE and RELIABLE information furnished to parties who desire to locate in the South.

A. M. Johnson
Groceries and Delicatessen

J. J. STANLEY
GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

MRS. MARY R. RASBERRY
General Merchandise.

E. H. Adams
General Merchandise.

J. R. PARNELL
General Merchandise.

"MOLINE" Farming Implements and "FLORENCE" Wagons in stock at all times.
J. K. ORR SHOES.

J. L. FOSS
Meat Market.

The Thorsby Inn
G. C. Michelson, Prop.
Good Beds and Meals.

OLAF SCHI
Watchmaker
And Jeweler
Horn's Drug St
Full assortment of Watches, elry, etc. All repair work anteed.

Thorsby Wine
—Co.—
Lofthus & Bromberg, P

A. HORN
Drugs, Stationery and Articles.
LICENSED PHARMAC

City Bake
BREAD, CAKES
PIES
of all kinds, fresh every
K. A. EKBLA

A. Langville &
BLACKSMITHS
and
HORSESHOERS
Dealers in
WAGONS and BUGG

C. L. Forsma
Brick Yard.

J. BICE
Charcoal Ovens.

While in a state of melancholia, Ernest J. Norton, one of the richest young men of Louisville, Ky., shot himself.

Lewis Nixon arrived in New York City, having completed his shipbuilding contracts in Russia.

Both Were Reminded.

They had quarreled on the way home from the ball, and after walking silently for a time she said, "Tom, what ails you tonight?"

"Nothing," was the curt reply.

"But why don't you talk?"

"I have nothing to talk about."

"But you usually have plenty of subjects."

"Possibly I had; have none now."

"Nonsense! Do you see that star over there?"

"I have eyes."

"That is the North Star."

"So I have heard."

"And you remind me of it very much."

"I do? Why?"

"Because you are so cold and distant."

"Thanks."

Another long silence followed and then Tom produced a red rose, saying, "Do you see this rose?"

"I have eyes," was the mocking reply.

"How fortunate! Isn't it pretty?"

"Beautiful!"

"Each petal is perfect."

"So I see."

"It is as sweet as you are."

"Oh, thank you."

"It's color is the same as your cheeks when you blush."

"How poetic!"

"It's heart among those soft petals is like your heart."

"You enrapture me!"

"But there is something else that causes it to still more resemble you."

"What?"

For answer he placed the rose in her hand.

"Oh, you wretch; it's artificial!"—Pick-Me-Up.

The Elk and the Deer.

John McCrady, a local oil driller, was injured this morning slightly, after a fight with a vicious buck deer at the Dr. Kennedy farm, which lasted for some minutes and required three men to assist in ending. When the rescue party arrived Mr. McCrady was nearly "down and out." The deer had pawed him and was using its horns rather effectively when Jack Turner, Mr. McCrady's brother, and another man rushed to the rescue.

The deer belongs to Dr. Kennedy, and is allowed to run wild. It has always been perfectly tame, and sons passing along the road h Osage have stopped and petted animal. Mr. McCrady, being a of considerable standing, though ought not to pass one of his without some little salutation. went toward the deer, proffered hand, with the grip of the El working order, but the deer re to recognize the hailing sign, a the time the oil man was sho "cervus alces," which is Lati "deer, elk." The beast wouldn't hitched and commenced to in the driller into the mysteries o deers and had him on the gr pawing him when the rescuers

Mr. McCrady, while injured e to know he had been in the ga not seriously hurt. He is recov and proposes that the local Elk enlist the services of Dr. Ken deer for initiation purposes.—Democrat.

A Short Story.

She was 4 years old, says Ha Monthly, and all alive—a da laughing, brown-eyed elf. She to go to Sabbath school, but all impressions she received for time were musical ones, so t was a great comfort when sh nounced one Sunday upon he turn:

"I've learned sumfing."

"What was it, dear?" responde delighted mother.

"Names," she replied briefly can't fink of 'em."

"Sit right down here, darling think hard."

So she wrinkled her little brow strove strenuously to recall. "I know," she shouted, jumping up all came back to her.

"What? What?" shouted the ed parents.

"Matthew!" Then they slipped away for a moment, b seemed to catch them on the fly eyes gleamed. "Matthew! April! May!"

The last vessel to bring a of African slaves to this countr cording to Col. William Young of Alabama, reached the co Georgia in 1860.

It is a common thing in to find a high-grade piano.

VOL. III.

GENERAL S

Current News Garner the Plant

Found Near Cairo.

Birmingham, Ala.—The decomposed of a woman, supposed to be that Mrs. J. O. Mangrum, of Nashville, er of Mrs. Logan Tronsdale, of this has been discovered near Cairo in the Mississippi river. On ac nt of the body being under the er for a great length of time post identification has not yet been ched, but, as stated above, it i ught they are the remains of Mrs ngrum. The only mode of identifi ion appears to be from the make o shoes worn by the woman at the e of death. A description of th es and make were forwarded b fectives of Cairo, Ill., to the Nash le detective department, and hav en identified as the same make a me sold to Mrs. Mangrum by a Nash lle firm just before she left that city me three weeks ago the unfortunat oman, who is only 30 years of ag t her home in Nashville to make ilt in St. Louis. When she left sh d $2,500 in money on her perso d wore diamonds valued at $2,00 om the time she left nothing wa eard from her, and her husband b n to grow uneasy. Investigatio as started and all police departmen ntified to be on the lookout for he othing was learned, however, of th oman's whereabouts until the bo as discovered in the river.

Safe Blown Open.

Gordo, Ala.—The postoffice here w broken open Friday night. The sa as blown to pieces and the conten aken by the robbers. About $100 money and $200 in stamps were take nd one registered letter from Egy Miss., addressed to J. D. Corr, w tolen. This letter was No. 22.

At 10:30 p. m. E. T. Wallingto cashier of the Merchants' and Far ers' Bank, left the bank for home. passing the postoffice he saw a lig but thought nothing of the matt supposing the postmaster was in office. After passing the office a m followed him to his boarding pla Mr. Wallington paid no further att tion to the matter. There is no c to the identity of the robbers. loss is quite heavy on Postmaster W liams. An inspector was at once t graphed for and the department formed of the matter. Just one y and twenty-two days ago two safes merchants were blown open in Gor David A. Jones, an old resident dead. He recently visited his son Searles, Ala., and became sick th He returned home and seemed to much better, but Friday night he denly grew worse, and died about o'clock Saturday morning. He ser in both the Mexican and civil w Mr. Jones had been a prosperous zen of this county, but for sev years has been almost totally bl He leaves a widow and several dren.

Little Girl Burned.

Birmingham, Ala.—Catherine B the 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and A. S. Boyd, of 1208 Twelfth ave Fountain Heights, who was seri burned Saturday afternoon while ing with other children, is rep out of danger. The child was pla with a little boy about her own who was chasing her with a lig stick. In some way the little dress caught fire and she was soo veloped in flames. I. R. Davis, ductor on a passing Fountain He car, noticed her plight and jumpe and caught the child as she was to enter her home. Her clothing almost entirely burned from her before the fire was extinguished. was immediately carried to her and the physicians who were moned at first despaired of her l

Jack Thompson in Montgome

Montgomery, Ala.—Jack Thom the white man convicted in Ever for the murder of his wife and f in-law, and who was given a li tence, was brought to Montgome Deputy Sheriff Leigh, of Conecuh ty, and is now locked up in the jail. Thompson will remain h jail until the state convict bure ders him sent to the state penite When Thompson arrived he w mediately carried to the jail. he was locked up and where he located. From all outward a ances Thompson is a man of u mind, but whether or not it is is not known.

Negroes Held to Bail.

Birmingham, Ala.—Sherman and Felix Wright, both colored Held to bail in the police court charge of assault with intent der. Bond was fixed at $200 each.

, Alabam
Directory.

OLAF SCHIV
Watchmaker
And Jeweler
Horn's Drug St
Full assortment of Watches,
elry, etc. All repair work
anteed.

Thorsby Wine
—Co.—
Lofthus & Bromberg, Pr

A. HORN
Drugs, Stationery and
Articles.
LICENSED PHARMAC

City Baker
BREAD, CAKES
PIES
of all kinds, fresh every
K. A. EKBLA

A Langville &
BLACKSMITHS
and
HORSESHOERS
Dealers in
WAGONS and BUGG

C. L. Forsma
Brick Yard.

J. BICE
Charcoal Ovens.

always been perfectly tame, and sons passing along the road in Osage have stopped and petted animal. Mr. McCrady, being an of considerable standing, though ought not to pass one of his "
without some little salutation.
went toward the deer, proffered hand, with the grip of the Elk working order, but the deer re to recognize the hailing sign, and the time the oil man was shou
"cervus alces," which is Latin
"deer, elk." The beast wouldn't hitched and commenced to in the driller into the mysteries of deers and had him on the gr pawing him when the rescuers c
Mr. McCrady, while injured en to know he had been in the gra not seriously hurt. He is recove and proposes that the local Elk l enlist the services of Dr. Kenne deer for initiation purposes.—T Democrat.

A Short Story.

She was 4 years old, says Harp
Monthly, and all alive—a dan laughing, brown-eyed elf. She k to go to Sabbath school, but all o impressions she received for time were musical ones, so th was a great comfort when she nounced one Sunday upon her turn:

"I've learned sumfing."

"What was it, dear?" responded delighted mother.

"Names," she replied briefly.
can't fink of 'em."

"Sit right down here, darling, think hard."

So she wrinkled her little brow, strove strenuously to recall.
know," she shouted, jumping up all came back to her.

"What? What?" shouted the ed parents.

"Matthew!" Then they slipped away for a moment, but seemed to catch them on the fly eyes gleamed. "Matthew! M April! May!"

The last vessel to bring a of African slaves to this country cording to Col. William Young of Alabama, reached the coast
Georgia in 1860.

It is a common thing in to find a high-grade piano.

THE UNION.

EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL, SPECIAL FAVORS TO NONE.

VOL. III. CLANTON, ALA., FEBRUARY 1 1906 NO. 45

GENERAL STATE NEWS.

Current News Garnered as It Falls From the Plant of Report.

Found Near Cairo.

Birmingham, Ala.—The decomposed dy of a woman, supposed to be that Mrs. J. O. Mangrum, of Nashville, a ter of Mrs. Logan Tronsdale, of this y, has been discovered near Cairo, , in the Mississippi river. On ac-un of the body being under the ter for a great length of time posive identification has not yet been ached, but, as stated above, it is ought they are the remains of Mrs.
angrum. The only mode of identifition appears to be from the make of e shoes worn by the woman at the me of death. A description of the oes and make were forwarded by tectives of Cairo, Ill., to the Nash-lle detective department, and have en identified as the same make as me sold to Mrs. Mangrum by a Nash-lle firm just before she left that city.
me three weeks ago the unfortunate oman, who is only 30 years of age, ft her home in Nashville to make a sit in St. Louis. When she left she ad $2,500 in money on her person nd wore diamonds valued at $2,000.
rom the time she left nothing was eard from her, and her husband bean to grow uneasy. Investigation as s rted and all police departments notified to be on the lookout for her.
Nothing was learned, however, of the woman's whereabouts until the body was discovered in the river.

Safe Blown Open.

Cairo, Ala.—The postoffice here was broken open Friday night. The safe was blown to pieces and the contents taken by the robbers. About $100 in money and $200 in stamps were taken, and one registered letter from Egypt, Miss., addressed to J. D. Corr, was stolen. This letter was No. 22.

At 10:30 p. m. E. T. Wallington, cashier of the Merchants' and Farmers' Bank, left the bank for home. In passing the postoffice he saw a light, but thought nothing of the matter, supposing the postmaster was in the office. After passing the office a man followed him to his boarding place.
Mr. Wallington paid no further attention to the matter. There is no clue to the identity of the robbers. The loss is quite heavy on Postmaster Williams. An inspector was at once telegraphed for and the department informed of the matter. Just one year and twenty-two days ago two safes of merchants were blown open in Gordo.

David A. Jones, an old resident, is dead. He recently visited his son at Selma, Ala., and became sick there.
He returned home and seemed to be much better, but Friday night he suddenly grew worse, and died about 8:30 o'clock Saturday morning. He served in both the Mexican and civil wars.
Mr. Jones had been a prosperous citizen of this county, but for several years has been almost totally blind.
He leaves a widow and several children.

Little Girl Burned.

Birmingham, Ala.—Catherine Boyd,
the 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
A. S. Boyd, of 1208 Twelfth avenue,
Fountain Heights, who was seriously burned Saturday afternoon while playing with other children, is reported out of danger. The child was playing with a little boy about her own age, who was chasing her with a lighted stick. In some way the little girl's dress caught fire and she was soon enveloped in flames. I. R. Davis, conductor on a passing Fountain Heights car, noticed her plight and jumped off and caught the child as she was about to enter her home. Her clothing was almost entirely burned from her body before the fire was extinguished. She was immediately carried to her home, and the physicians who were summoned at first despaired of her life.

Jack Thompson in Montgomery.

Montgomery, Ala.—Jack Thompson,
the white man convicted in Evergreen for the murder of his wife and father-in-law, and who was given a life sentence, was brought to Montgomery by Deputy Sheriff Leigh, of Conecuh county, and is now locked up in the county jail. Thompson will remain in this jail until the state convict bureau orders him sent to the state penitentiary.
When Thompson arrived he was immediately carried to the jail, where he was locked up and where he is now located. From all outward appearances Thompson is a man of unsound mind, but whether or not it is acting is not known.

Negroes Held to Bail.

Birmingham, Ala.—Sherman Beard and Felix Wright, both colored, were held to bail in the police court on the charge of assault with intent to murder. Bond was fixed at $200 in each case.

Farmer Hangs Himself.

Florence, Ala.—Meagre details were brought to Florence Saturday morning of the suicide of Thomas McClanahan at his home near Pleasant Weather, north of Florence, just across the Tennessee state line. McClanahan was alone on the place, his young daughter having gone on an errand to the home of her brother, a quarter of a mile away. She had noticed nothing unusual in her father's manner, and he had said nothing to indicate the desperate resolve which he had formed.
After a brief absence the girl returned to find her father had hanged himself, and was dangling from the end of a rope, quite dead. He leaves a large family of grown children, several of whom are teachers in this state and Tennessee. His health was good and his finances were in good condition, and so far as his family and friends are aware there was no cause for his self-destruction. The dead man was 55 years old.

Killed in Gas Explosion.

Bessemer, Ala.—Through an explosion of gas in the Blue Creek mines
Joe Thomas, Will Stephens and Will Hinds were badly burned, and after suffering for several hours Thomas died. The body was brought to this city and prepared for burial. All the men were negroes. It is thought the two still living will recover from the burns.

Robbed Store.

Union Springs, Ala.—The store of C.
C. Bates was burglarized at Inverness a few night ago. Entrance was made by boring auger holes in the door and inserting a prize in these holes and breaking the lock. Only a few things were missed, and it is thought that money was what they were after. An attempt to enter C. W. Sellers' store was made the same night.

Tuscaloosa Primary.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—The democratic county executive committee has decided that the primaries in the county shall be held at the same time of the state primary, which is on the 27th day of August. This date seems to please most of the candidates, although it was expected by some that the county primary would be earlier than the state primary.

Whisky Fight at Leighton.

Leighton, Ala.—The anti-whisky men of Leighton are quietly gathering strength for another blow at the saloons in the city election in March. It is proposed to elect a new board of councilmen to take the places of those who refused to raise the license as requested by a petition signed by 150 persons. Four anti-whisky men have already announced themselves as candidates for the offices of councilmen.
The saloon men, it is thought, will support the old board.

Boy Killed at Florala.

Florala, Ala.—Earnest, the 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Lasiter, was knocked from the stacker at the dry kiln of the Jackson Lumber Company at Lockhart and instantly killed.
The lumber had jammed in the carrier and he was breaking the jam. A piece of lumber caught in the machinery and knocked him off. He fell thirty-five feet and was dead when one of his fellows reached him.

Successor to Moore.

Huntsville, Ala.—The directors of the Huntsville Cotton Mill held a special meeting Friday afternoon and elected Robert E. Spragins as president, vice Gen. Samuel H. Moore, deceased, and A. S. Fletcher vice-president, succeeding Mr. Spragins. Resolutions of respect to the memory of General Moore, who had for many years been the president of the corporation, were adopted.

School Teacher Fined.

Birmingham, Ala.—Mrs. V. P. Copeland, a prominent Birmingham woman, has been fined $5 each in two cases in the police court following a plea of guilty. She horsewhipped two children, Morris Bethea and Robert Beasley while they were at school. She claims that the boys showed an objectionable picture to her daughter, also a pupil at the school.

Negro Shoots His Wife.

Maplesville, Ala.—John Wilson, a negro, who works at the Twin Tree company mills, at an early hour Saturday morning shot his wife and beat her over the head with a pistol on account of her allowing Jack Bush to trespass on his premises. Her wounds are serious, but not fatal. Wilson was acquitted.

Finland Is Free.

Helsingfors, Finland.—All traces of the regime of terrorism and repression which prevailed during the administration of former Governor-General Bobrikoff, the hated governor, whose cruelties were responsible for his assassination, are disappearing and Finland is rapidly becoming free. New regulations are being put into effect almost daily, by which the old liberties of the Finns are being restored and new right granted. The Czar has consented to the removal of all reactionary officials, most of whom were Russians, and has agreed that in future only Finns will be eligible to hold public office. The Czar has also sanctioned the law which authorizes all Finns who hitherto belonged to the Russian Orthodox church to change their religion without losing their civil rights.

Cotton Oil Mill for Sulligent.

Sulligent, Ala.—The building of a cotton seed oil mill seems now to be assured. Another meeting of the citizens of the town and community has been held and steps taken to effect an organization. A committee was appointed for this purpose, consisting of
J. C. Milner, of Vernon, W. W. Ogdon,
R. J. Redden and Clyde Matthews, of Sulligent, and Mr. Thom, of Columbus,
Miss. Another meeting will be held next Friday night. Forty thousand dollars has been subscribed.

Will Send Wedding Gift.

Havana.—The Cuban senate has passed a resolution authorizing the appropriation of $25,000 for a wedding gift to Miss Alice Roosevelt. President Palma is directed to select the gift. Before the vote was taken General Cisneros, who had been called the most anti-American man in congress, voiced his approval of the bill and moved that it be passed by acclamation. It was so passed. Assurances are given that the house will take similar action.

Jack Thompson Here.

London.—Thomas Higgins, Irish nationalist, who successfully contested
North Galway against Col. John Philip Nolan, Irish nationalist, was found dead in bed at his hotel at Tuam. The tragic occurrence is attributed to the excitement of the polling on a weak heart. Mr. Higgins was one of the most militant nationalists in the west of Ireland and had many conflicts with the police. He was imprisoned under the Grimes act during Arthur J. Bal-four's tenure of the chief secretaryship of Ireland.

Gomel in Flames.

St. Petersburg.—A dispatch from Gomel says that half the town has been consumed by fire and that much fighting has taken place between the troops and revolutionists. The disorder extends to five counties around Gomel. The peasantry, as in the Baltic provinces, have deposed the old authorities and elected revolutionists to fill their places.

Commits Suicide.

St. Louis, Mo.—Policeman John A.
Scollard, who shot himself Friday rather than go before the police board and answer to charges of immorality, is dead. Before his death he dictated a statement, in which he declared he had been hounded to death through false reports concerning him.

Cotton Belt Changes Hands.

Houston, Tex.—A special from Galveston says: The Cotton Belt is now in charge of the Gulf and Interstate railroad, the short line between Galveston and Beaumont, and arrangements are being perfected to place the road in a first-class condition and operate both, at least for some time, as a terminal line for any and all roads that may want to use it.

Work of Grand Jury.

Birmingham, Ala.—The grand jury returned 104 indictments Saturday against almost as many persons for various offenses. No report was made, as it was impossible to conclude all the business before it. The sessions were continued therefore for several days in this week.

Tucker Sentenced to Chair.

Cambridge, Mass.—Chas. L. Tucker, convicted of the murder of Mabel Page in March, 1904, was sentenced to death by electricity during the week of June 10. When asked if he had anything to say Tucker said: "Your honor, all I have to say is that I am absolutely innocent of this crime."

Tulsa, I. T.—Robbers wrecked the safe of the Bank of Owasso, in the Cherokee nation, and escaped with several thousand dollars.

Bank Safe Wrecked.

Montgomery, Ala.—The state treasurer has issued a call for the condition of the state banks at the close of business on January 25.

INDUSTRY

May Be Tied Up By Great Strike. 150,000 May Be Called Out.

STEEL WORKERS THE TROUBLE.

Central Federated Union Decides to Take Their Part by Calling Out 150,000 Men.

New York.—A strike embracing 150,000 men and involving the entire building industry of New York is now being eagerly aimed at by the structural steel workers of the city.

Such a desperate step is necessary, they say, in order to preserve their organization from complete ruin as a result of the strike in which they have been engaged for the past seven weeks. The delegates of the Housesmiths and Bridgemen's Union, which embraces the structural steel workers, prevailed on the Central Federated Union Sunday to order every labor organization still at peace with their employers to break these peaceful relations and ally themselves with the strikers. If they fail to do so they are to be suspended from the Central Federated Union.

Next Friday will decide the fate of the proposed great strike. On that day the organizations which are at work are to appear before the Central Federated Union and answer how they are standing—whether for or against the strike.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, is also to be appealed to by the structural steel workers.

The structural steel workers have been in hard luck ever since their leader, Sam Parks, died. In their present strike, which involves the sky-scrapers going up all over the city, they have been nearly overwhelmed, they say, by strike-breakers, by non-union men brought here from other cities.

Back of it all is the question of the "open shop." The delegates of the structural steel workers warned the Central Federated Union Sunday that if they were allowed to go down in ruin the employers in every other building trade would force the open shop on the men, thus involving all organized labor in one common ruin. It was in response to that threat that the Central Federated Union resolved to summon all its members to stand by the structural steel workers at all hazards.

King Christian Is Dead.

Copenhagen.—The king of Denmark died at 3:30 Monday afternoon. The king passed away quietly, surrounded by the crown princess and their children and the dowager empress of Russia. The news of his majesty's death spread with great rapidity and signs of the greatest grief were to be seen everywhere.

King Christian IX, of Denmark, was born April 8, 1818. He succeeded Frederick VII to the throne November 15, 1863. His children are Crown Prince Frederick; Alexandra, queen of England; George I, king of Greece. Dagmar, dowager empress of Russia. Thyra, Duchess of Cumberland, and Prince Waldemar.

Collision Between Fast Trains.

Louisville, Ky.—In a head-on collision between passenger trains on the Big Four railroad near Nabb, Ind., Monday morning three employes were severely injured and several passengers shaken up. The trains were the northbound local between Louisville and Benton Harbor, Mich., and the southbound train from Greensburg to Louisville, the latter carrying the Chicago sleeper. Both engines were wrecked and the front portion of the smoker on the southbound train was damaged. The collision occurred in a dense fog.

Noblemen Murdered.

Tucum, Courland.—Count Frederick Lamsdorf and Baron Roenne, two of the most prominent land owners of this district, were attacked while driving by a band of revolutionists and were pulled from their sleighs and murdered.

Nail Mill Destroyed.

Birmingham, Ala.—The nail mill in the extensive plant of the Southern Steel Company, formerly the Alabama Steel and Wire Company, at Ensley, was total destroyed by fire Sunday night. The loss is probably $100,000. The origin of the fire is unknown. It was discovered about 7:30 o'clock by a few employes who were in the nail mill at the time making some repairs.

THE COTTON CROP.

New Orleans Bulls Somewhat Anxious Over the Outlook for Larger Crop.

New Orleans.—There has been a rather marked change in sentiment here in regard to the future of cotton, and it is of little use disguising the fact that the figures for cotton ginned to January 16 have shaken confidence in quarters where the short-crop doctrine had been preached most vehemently, while even the more conservative operators acknowledge that the situation has changed from that apparently assured a week ago.

The question of whether the figures justified the drop, which has been marked, is hardly worth debating, although it must be said that the decline has established a much healthier condition as regards the parities between here and Liverpool. Thus the market will be likely to respond to any evidence of the wish of the spinner to get out of his hand-to-mouth groove; in fact, it may be said that this is about the only factor which will be likely to carry weight with either side of the ring.

Straddling operations have made themselves felt in the decline, and this fact may perhaps be traced in the course of events at Liverpool, where not only were there signs that the census figures had not received the credence accorded on this side, but the spot sales were large.

The figures of the report—9,998,000 bales—prove that ginning operations have been much more active than anticipated, and the knowledge that there is still part of the crop to pass through the gins, the amount of which as an uncertain quantity has been emphasized by the above figures, has called a halt on estimates with a maximum of 10,250,000 bales for the crop. There's practically no talk along this latter line, and there are not a few who were wedded thereto who are now willing to compromise a divorce on 250,000 extra.

UP AGAINST IT.

Standard Prevented From Continuing as Buyer and Transporter of Indian Territory Output.

Bartlettsville, I. T.—Orders have been received by the Standard Oil Company that hereafter only a third of the mid-continent field's output would be bought, owing to the fact that the Standard Company would be prevented from continuing as a buyer and transporter of petroleum through the proceedings instituted by Attorney-General Hadley, of Missouri.

There is a production of 50,000 barrels daily. The operators are organizing to send a delegation to see the Standard Company's agent in Kansas City, since the enforcement of such an order for long would mean the suspension of all activity here. Failing, they will go to Mr. Hadley to see if he intends to prevent the Standard from transporting oil across Missouri. The committee will tell him that if the Standard is ousted from Missouri it will shut off the market for petroleum products in this field, because the pipe line from the mid-continent field runs through a portion of Missouri.

Already the reduction by two-thirds of the amount formerly taken by the Standard Company has demoralized business, and there are fears that the Standard will cease entirely to take oil during the agitation.

Pretender Active.

Madrid.—According to a dispatch from Melila, the Spanish seaport on the north coast of Morocco, the troops of the pretender, Bu Hamara, have ravaged the Rif region, a coast range of heights and mountains in Northern Morocco, bordering on the Mediterranean, wild and difficult of access in parts, inhabited by the Rif Berbers. These was much fighting, in which the loyal Kybile tribesmen were invariably beaten.

Mohammed el Torres, minister of foreign affairs, who heads the Moroccan delegation at Algeciras, learning that a foundry at Marshacaisa is engaged principally in furnishing the pretender with arms and munitions of war, has sent a telegram to his son, ordering the dispatch of the warship Turki, with instructions that he bombard the factory.

Report Favorable.

Washington, D. C.—The senate committee on judiciary Monday by a vote of 7 to 5 decided favorably to report the nomination of Erastus J. Parsons, nominated for United States district attorney for the Middle district of Alabama. It is asserted that Parsons is not a resident of the district for which he is named, and this has figured largely in the opposition to him.

Huntsville, Ala.—The Huntsville Herald, a weekly paper, made its appearance here Saturday after a suspension of several months. The paper is published by the Herald Company, and J. W. Roberts is manager. The Herald will be democratic in politics.

Professional Cards.

Attorneys.

William M. Adams,
Attorney-at-Law,
CLANTON.
Office, Adams Place. Practices in all Courts. Long time loans negotiated on Improved Farm Lands.

N. S. JOHNSON, M. D.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
Office at
Clanton Drug Store CLANTON

L. V. STABLER, M. D
Physician & Surgeon
Office Over Horn's Drug Store
Thorsby, Alabama

DR. E. G. HYMAN
DENTIST
Office in Tipton Mullins' Building
CLANTON

A. C. Smith J. Osmond Middleton
Smith & Middleton
Attorneys-at-Law
Practice in all Courts.
Office 6th St., Opp. Court House
CLANTON.

H. C. Junkerman
DENTIST
OFFICE: Franzen Building
Thorsby, Alabama.

G. H. GERALD,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Office at Thorsby Inn.
Deeds, Mortgages, Affidavits and other papers carefully made out.

I. S. Gerald, Notary Public
AT THORSBY SAVINGS BANK.

In addition to our Complete Stock of DRUGS Etc.
You will find a full line of
SCHOOL BOOKS, STATIONERY, ETC. SEEDS.
PAINTS OILS and GLASS.
CLANTON DRUG COMPANY

FREE
to Readers of
THE UNION

To everyone who sends us $1.00 for a year's subscription to THE UNION, new subscriber or renewal, we will give as a premium absolutely FREE,

A Year's Subscription
To
The Southern Ruralist

We have examined the Southern Ruralist and consider it to be the best and most practical farm paper published in the South, and it just suits this locality. Drop by The Union Office when you are in town and see a copy of the Ruralist. It will mean dollars in your pocket to read this paper with The Union for a year. tf.

TIMBER FOR SALE!

Over a hundred acres of Virgin Swamp timber for sale. Apply to T. J. Billingsley, Clanton, Ala. Route 3. tf.

NOTICE!

All who are owing me, by note or account, will please call and settle at once. I am needing the money and hope all will make prompt settlement.

Respectfully
A. A. JACKSON,
tf. Lomax, Ala.

Frost Claims His Own

"This is mine," said the old frost king;
And he left his seal of white
On the flow'ring vine by the wayside spring—

The flowers died last night.

"This mine, too," and his breath so chill
As he touched the blades of grass
In the nook at the foot of the maple tree—
The blades are crisp, alas!

"This is mine, too," and his breath so chill
He breathed on the maple leaf;
This morn it fell to the window sill
Wrinkled and sere with grief.

"These are mine," and he chuckled gay
As he oped the chestnut burrs.
The nuts lie now where the squirrels play
And the partridge drums and whirrs.

—New York Sun.

THE HERB OF PEACE

BY J·C·PLUMMER

(Copyright, 1905, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

From the wooded banks of the river the country gradually became treeless, a great grassy plain stretching to the horizon and in all this wide expanse there was not a spring of mint. There were spots alongside the river and its tributary brooks which should have been the abiding place of the herb; marshy lowlands the true habitat of mint, but the four winds either refused to bear the seeds or they died of hopeless nostalgia when they fell, for mint had been neither tasted nor smelled in Barlow. Those native to the place did not repine, they had never had its scent permeate their nostrils nor had the delicate touch of the mint julep rested upon their palates. William Duncan, of Maryland, and Henry Fargis, of Virginia, however, missed it sadly. While they held the two states on either side of the Potomac to be a special work of the Creator and possessing perfections that no other region might aspire to, they could not imagine a beneficent Providence denying any part of the world such a pre-requisite of human happiness as mint. It was especially annoying since ice cold springs abounded, sugar was readily obtainable and whiskey, legal or illegal, was in plenteous supply. It was the play of Hamlet with the mise en scene and minor actors all present and Hamlet absent.

Fargis and Duncan had been planters in their respective states and their fortunes having been marred by the Civil War they had emigrated to the Southwest and bought contiguous farms. They hated each other. The feud began as sometimes a great war begins—from trivial happenings. Fargis' hogs broke into Duncan's enclosure and damaged a crop. They were ejected, but so strong was the memory of the Duncan turnip that they repeated the trespass and a hog was shot. Then Duncan's dog, oblivous of boundary lines trotted across a Fargis field and he was shot. The dog was valueless, indeed Mr. Duncan had sought to give him away a number of times, but violent hands laid upon his dog made his Maryland blood boil. A truculent message was sent to Fargis and one in the same tenor returned. Then the feud grew each day as a noxious weed does in height until the two farmers were bitter enemies.

Etiquette insisted that the feud should include the family and Mesdames Fargis and Duncan, loyal spouses, spoke not as they met but looked, the one at the other, out of the tail of their eyes as if they would have enjoyed a long chat especially in preserving season when the feminine mind sorely craves encouragement and counsel. Here the feud suddenly vanished for Tom Duncan, son of William, and Sallie Fargis, daughter of Henry, dearly loved each other. The method of love making they were obliged to pursue was rapidly making diplomatists of both, as neither dared allow the knowledge of their attachment to reach their respective parents and their meetings called for the skill and trail-hiding ability of an Indian scout. Nevertheless, they met at intervals but with a hopeless prospect of ever being more than lovers.

One soft April day when the trees

"I'd rather see my daughter sitting alongside a copperhead snake!"

had opened their buds to the caress of the warm south wind and the newly arrived birds were twittering of nest-making in their branches the two lovers, sitting on a recumbent tree in a copse, were alarmed by a heavy tread behind them, and turning looked into the angry eyes of Henry Fargis.

"I don't know as any of the Duncan family has ever been invited to my place," he said, drawlingly.

Tom Duncan was no coward, neither was he a fool. He gulped down his resentment at these inhospitable words. He did not care to burn all the bridges between himself and Sallie.

"I know, Mr. Fargis," he replied, "you and dad are not friends, but I've nothing against you and have never done you any harm."

"Yes, you have," retorted Fargis, "you are William Duncan's son and you exist. I'd rather see my daughter sitting alongside a copperhead snake than a man of the tribe of Duncan. You see that snake fence beyond the wheat field? That's the line fence between your father's ground and mine. You keep on his side of it.

Duncan's hand was at the throat of Fargus.

Come home, Sallie," and pointing with his cane to the fence he led his tearful daughter away.

In the ensuing three weeks the lovers managed to meet once and a sad meeting it was, for Sallie, amid tears, informed her lover that she was to be sent East—to Virginia, for an indefinite time. With that pessimism which is one of the extremes to which lovers are prone to fly they accepted it as a permanent separation and bemoaned accordingly.

Tom Duncan, mad with desire to confide in some one, told his trouble to his mother, and she retailed it to his father. Mr. Duncan fumed at white heat. With remarkable inconsistency he reviled Fargis for doing exactly what he would have done, for he would have most savagely refused his consent had his son sought permission to wed Fargis' daughter, and the fires of the feud were fanned to renewed brightness.

Back of the two farms was a stretch of woodland containing a depression through which ran a brook with marshy land on each side. As the most direct course to the village was through the wood a large tree hurled by the wind across this gully was utilized as a foot bridge. As William Duncan started across this bridge a few days after Tom's confidence to his mother, he beheld Henry Fargis place his foot on the other extremity. Courtesy and necessity both framed the law that the passenger on the bridge first had the right of way, as two could not pass, and Duncan strode forward. So did Fargis, until the two men stood midway glaring at each other.

"Go back," snarled Duncan.

Fargis smiled derisively.

Duncan raised his hand and in an instant the two men, clinched, were precipitated some four feet to the soft loam. Duncan's hand was at the throat of Fargis, while that gentleman twisted at his enemy's collar. They struggled, breathing short, for several moments then Fargis' hold relaxed.

"Mint," he gurgled, "I smell mint."

Duncan loosened his grip and sniffed the air.

"By the Lord, it is mint," he cried, "where is it?"

The two foes released each other and began crawling about in the marsh, sniffing like dogs seeking a trail.

"Here it is," shouted Fargis, "I was lying on it. A whole patch of it." Each man snatched a bunch and plunging his nose therein inhaled the perfume.

"Come," shouted Duncan, excitedly, "my house is nearer."

The spectacle of two mortal enemies hurrying towards the house, bespattered with mud and each bearing a green bunch of herbs aroused the curiousity of the Duncan homestead. Mrs. Duncan's wonder grew as evidences came from down stairs of the invasion of her pantry where the sugar and whiskey were kept and also at the sight of Henry Fargis making a spirited dash, pail in hand, for the spring behind the dairy. An incense was shortly wafted up the stairs which caused her to sniff approvingly and murmur "mint." Her eyes, involuntarily, wandered to the window as if expecting to see, instead of the muddy river, the wide expanse of the Chesapeake Bay.

At ten p. m. Tom Duncan assisted Mr. Fargis to his home. At the door the old gentleman remarked:

"Tom, my boy, you mush come over and shee Shallie."

PROSPECTOR LEADS THE WAY.

Bears Rightful Title as Pioneer of the West.

The prospector is the real pioneer of the West; he blazed the trail for the railroad, for the merchant, the capitalist and the professional man; to him belongs the honor of the present condition of the mining industry. The prospector has made it possible for the making of the great fortunes of Haggin, Fair, Flood, Hearst, Daly and Clark. Where would the Comstock, Butte, Coeur d'Alene and other notable camps be, had it not been for the prospector and his burro? The life of the prospector is not a round of pleasure; he sleeps in the snow and rain as often as not; his fare is bacon and beans; dollars are few with him, yet he may be hunting for a new location for you to go to. When he asks you for a grub stake, help him out; his burro found the Bunker Hill and Sullivan; his rifle killed the mountain sheep that found and exposed the rich ores of the Ram's Horn mine; Comstock, the man who found the vein named after him, died a poor man, but he did more for his country than President Roosevelt has. Marcus Daly came to Butte with his blankets on his back, but he did more for Montana than John D. Rockefeller; W. A. Clark drove a bull team into Montana, placer mined in Deer Lodge and made a fortune, which he earned by hardships endured which the average Butte citizen would not care to go through. When Stratton found Cripple Creek he was a poor carpenter, said to be too lazy to work, but he paved the way for thousands to earn a livelihood and himself a fortune.—Butte Mining Review.

Are You Left-Eyed?

"Left-eyed people simply own the town these days," said an oculist. "If the prominence and importance of that optic continues to increase we shall one day be a left-eyed race. In more than half the patients I treat the left eye is already considerable larger than the right, it is brighter and it lasts longer. If you want to find out which eye is stronger try to read first with one then with the other unassisted by its mate. Nine times out of ten that test shows how much more useful the left-eye is than the right.

"I devoutly hope that I shall never lose either of my eyes, but if one has to go I just as devoutly hope that it will be the right. There was a time when the superstitious, and even specialists on eyes believed that only left-handed people were also left-eyed. That theory is now exploded. Overdevelopment of the left eye is in danger of becoming a disease, the peculiar effects of which are already apparent in many faces."

Large Enough.

Senator Foraker was talking about a politician whose erratic conduct had estranged him from his party.

"This man," said the Senator, "was showing a visitor over his new house in Washington the other day.

"He exhibited the large drawing-room, in white and gold; the spacious dining-room, in mahogany; the vast ebony hall, with its onyx pillars, and then he led his visitor into the little bit of a room off the hall—a mere cubby hole, containing but a table and two chairs.

"'Not very large, eh?' he said. 'Small and cozy, isn't it? Here I entertain my political friends.'

"'Ah,' said the visitor, 'it will be large enough for that.'"

Modern Version.

The king had just opened his luscious pie and the birds began to sing.

"Ye crowns," spoke the king, smacking his lips, "but this is a dainty dish. I shall eat until I cannot eat more."

But just then the court physician arrived.

"Hold on, your majesty," called the medical adviser, lifting his hand in worning, "you know I forbid you eating pastry of all kinds and limited your diet to health food." With a sigh the king closed up the pie and told the slaves to hand it out to some passing tramp.

Furniture Used by Napoleon.

When he returned to Washington recently Ambassador Von Sternberg brought a complete suite of drawing-room furniture that had adorned the rooms occupied by Napoleon in Leipsic. These treasures were bequeathed to the ambassador by a relative whose grandfather had owned the place where the Corsican elected to abide. The furniture is ancient Flemish and in the tapestry are woven mytholigical designs. The frames bear a gold design. A desk at which Napoleon wrote vigorous messages is part of the legacy.

Do It.

If you have a thing to say,
Say it.
If you have a debt to pay,
Pay it.
If you're something less than men—
Say that you are just a hen,
With an egg to lay, why, then,
Lay it.

If you have a log to hew,
Hew it.
If there's something you should rue,
Rue it.
For all things beneath the sun
Teach us this as on we run;
If there's aught that should be done,
Do it.

—A. J. Waterhouse in Sunset Magazine.

MADE IT A DIFFERENT CASE.

Nuisance Turned Out Largely a Matter of Ownership.

Mrs. Russell Sage is one of the most active workers in the movement to abolish the docking of the tails of horses.

In a discussion of this movement she said recently:

"If the horses already docked were out of the way we should have no trouble in putting a stop to docking forever. But many persons, advocates of our movement in the past, no sooner buy a pair of showy carriage horses with docked tails than they desert us and go over to the enemy."

She smiled sadly.

"It is the old story," she said. "White owned a dog. Black, who lived next door, came to him and said:

"'Look here. That dog of yours howls so much at night that my wife and I are going mad for want of sleep.'

"'Is that so?' said White. 'I hadn't noticed his howling. I think you must be mistaken.'

"A week passed and Black came home one day with the objectionable dog on a string.

"'I have bought this cur,' he told his wife. 'I have bought it from White and I am going to chloroform it.'

"Another week and White, the dog's former owner, said to Black:

"'You haven't chloroformed that dog yet, have you?'

"'Why, no not yet, 'Black answered. 'The fact is we have grown rather fond of the critter, he is so playful and affectionate.'

"'But doesn't his barking annoy you?' White asked.

"'No, I haven't noticed it,' said Black.

"'Well,' White grumbled, 'I can't sleep for that brute's continual yowling.'

Mrs. Sage smiled again.

"In the case of ourselves it is one thing; in the case of others it is a different matter," she said.

Love for the Old Home.

Mankind is nomadic, and while the sweetest poetry in the language is inspired by the old home, the monumental work in the world has been accomplished in the main by those who left the parental roof to pursue elsewhere the quest for fortune, fame and high success. Nevertheless, the love for the old home abides. The reunion of those who remain and those who have departed is an occasion that will stir the pulse of any community in which such a soulful event takes place. The pretty announcement was made by a newspaper in a little New England town which was about to celebrate its old home week that "the Jones boys have arrived and Charles will preach in the Presbyterian church on Sunday." A little waif of news like that revives old times and pays for all the preparation of "old home week."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Surplusage.

Owen Wister, the novelist, was criticising the work of a literary beginner.

"Now, here," said Mr. Wister, slashing his blue pencil through an entire manuscript page, "here is arrant superfluity and surplusage. In what way do these 400 words help your story?

"In no way. On the contrary, they hinder, they impede it. These written words are mere surplusage, as so many of our spoken words are mere surplusage. They resemble the useless questions that we ask.

"A man stood before a mirror in his room, his face lathered, and an open razor in his hand.

"His wife came in. She looked at him and said:

"'Are you shaving?'

"The man, a foe to surplusage, replied fiercely:

"'No; I am blacking the kitchen range. Where are you—out driving or at a matinee?'"

Look for Action from Senator.

According to general belief Mr. Knox of Pennsylvania does not mean to be a silent member of the United States senate at the coming session. As a rule newcomers are rather expected to keep in the background for a time, but Senator Knox is tacitly booked to take a leading part in discussion of the railroad rate measure. For many years Pennsylvania senators have almost confined themselves to committee activity. The Camerons, father and son, were silent men, and so to a great extent was Mr. Quay. Mr. Penrose, too, rarely opens his lips, so the spectacle of a Pennsylvania senator active in debate will be somewhat of a novelty.

The Old-Time Fireplace.

The stoves an' the steam-heat "git" me
These wearisome wintry days!
Gimme the old-time chimbly
The back-log an' the blaze!
I want to sit where the oak-fire gleams,
An' tell old stories, an' dream old dreams!

The steam-heat—it says nuthin'
The stove hides dreams from sight;
But the flames of the open fire
Sing songs of a winter night!
Settin' there, where the bright light streams,
I tell old stories, an' dream old dreams!

Youth comes back with its roses
As I dream by the fireside late.
The face of the old-time sweetheart
In the starlight at the gate!—
Old-times—old loves, in the firelight's gleams—
The old, sweet story—the old sweet dreams!

—Frank L. Stanton in Atlanta Constitution.

Under Arrest, but Unguarded.

While Gen. Brugere, commander of the French army, was under fifteen days' arrest in Paris he was not permitted to leave his quarters on any pretext except to transact official business at the war office, might not wear his sword and could receive no visitors. But in consideration of his high rank no sentry was placed over him.

AN INCIDENT OF SEBASTOPOL

Sebastopol and its battle between mutinous and loyal forces recalls an imaginary incident of the Crimean war, found in Count Tolstoy's "Sebastopol": The bomb, coming faster and faster and nearer and nearer, so that the sparks of its fuse were already visible, descended. 'Lie down,' some one shouted. They lay flat on the ground. Praskouhin, closing his eyes, only heard how the bomb crashed down on the hard earth close by. A second passed which seemed an hour; the bomb had not exploded. He opened his eyes and at that moment caught sight of the glowing fuse of the bomb not a yard off. Terror—cold terror, excluding every other thought and feeling—seized his whole being. He covered his face with his hands.

"Then he remembered the twelve rubles he owed, a debt in St. Petersburg that should have been paid long ago, and the gypsy song he had sung that evening. The woman he loved rose in his imagination, wearing a cap with lilac ribbons; and yet, inseparable from all these and from thousands of other recollections, the present thought, the expectation of death, did not leave him for a moment. 'Perhaps it won't explode,' and with desperate final decision he wished to open his eyes. But at that instant a red flame pierced through the still closed lids and with a terrible crash something struck him in the ch

"He jumped up and began to but stumbling over the saber th between his legs fell on his 'Thank God I'm only bruised,' w first thought, and he wished to his chest with his hand, but h seemed tied to his sides and as if a vise were squeezing his Soldiers flitted past him and he ed them unconsciously. Th ning flashed before his eyes wondered whether the shot was from a mortar or a cannon. probably. And here are more five, six, seven soldiers; they by.' He was suddenly filled that they would crush him. to shout that he was hurt, mouth was so dry that h clove to the roof of his mou

"He felt wet about his cl this sensation of being wet m think of water. * * * F the soldiers might trample tried to shout, 'Take care but instead of that he utte terrible groan that he was to hear it. Then other re gan dancing before his e seemed to him that the stones on him. * * * He effort to push off the st ed himself—and saw and felt nothing more. He had b on the spot by a bomb splin middle of his chest."

THE ARABIAN HORSE'S TAIL

The way the Arabian horse holds his tail is looked upon as the finest point of breeding. The Arabs believe that the spirit of God is shown there. No man living can account for the way they do it. It equals the arch of the neck and balances the horse. Mr. Bailey of Barnum & Bailey's circus tells me that they have tried everything to get their horses to carry their tails that way. But the Arabian horse is the only one that does it.

Another thing about the Arabian horse is the tremendous width of the jowl. Nature didn't intend an ordinary horse to run far; his windpipe is too small. The blood runs cold in his veins and he quits. I noticed the other day in the paper of a great race horse that choked to death on the track and dropped dead trying to win. My horse Nejdran, standing 14½ hands high, is three times as broad across the throat as a wonder of a horse standing 19 hands high with which I compared him.

That is where the Arabian horse gets his endurance. He has the ability to run. He is the only horse which, looked at from behind, shows both barrels of the ribs; he has big lungs, meaning great staying

The Arabian horse is thoroughbred. You may tire that his legs would be run weariness, then apply whip and he will make a desperate to respond. You tire out thoroughbred and then whip he will fight you like a dog. shown in King Richard's Ar were brought to this country King Richard, who was a wealthy man, took an artist edge of the desert and captiva Arabs with pictures and brin he induced them to part with five horses. These were all Kentucky.

During the war two men who trying to escape from Kent Virginia were mounted, one of these Arabs and the other ran them until the Kentucky thoroughbred Kentucky horse stopped and refused to go. The two got on the Arab and made escape. From this strain de many of the Kentucky saddle which carry their tails in the p tious manner of the Arabs.—Fi Monthly.

NEW WORLD'S VAST TREASURES

It has never been told how vast was the treasure that was emptied from the new world into the old in those days—the glorious days of Spanish dominion. We can only judge of how great it was by collateral evidence. The booties of Cortez and of Pizarro are famous in annals of new world history. In them we have read how the soldiers of the former carried away only a small part of the treasures looted at Mexico, yet were so loaded down with stolen gold that when they fell from the causeway into the lake in the memorable retreat from Mexico they sank and drowned as weighted with plummets of lead. Also we read how Pizarro exacted as a tribute for the liberation of the Inca Atahulpa gold that filled to the depth of several feet a room seventeen feet wide by twenty-two feet long and which was valued at 1,300,000 pesos d'or—the equivalent of nearly $15,500,000 of our money.

When Drake sailed the South in the Golden Hind upon his pir voyage of circumnavigation in years 1577-79 and when he cap the Nuestra Senora della Conce —surnamed the Cacafuego, or fire—off Cape San Francisco. It three days to transfer the tre from the captured ship to his In that single haul there was re a "purchase," as it was called, of twenty-six tons of silver, be eighty pounds of virgin gold, thir chests of pieces of eight contai over $1,000,000 in money and an mous amount of jewels and plate.

Upon the evidence of John D we read that when the Golden laid her course for England, by of the Cape of Good Hope, she w heavily "ballasted" with pure that she "rode exceeding deep in water."—Howard Pyle in Har Magazine.

ABOUT THE LITERARY LADY

The Literary Lady, though she's clever,
none can doubt it,
Too often makes us wonder why she
worries so about it,
And why, when one picks up her book
and meekly looks upon it
Her attitude distinctly says, "Please look
at me—I done it!"

The Literary Lady, if her novel's a success,
Occasionally shows it in the manner of
her dress,
As if to ask, "How is it the Immortals
do their hair?
And when I reach the Hall of Fame pray
what am I to wear?"

The Literary Gentleman is otherwise, for
he
Is shrinking, shy and blushing to a marvelous degree.
He never talks about himself or writes
the kind of stuff
That gets into the papers for a literary puff.

And when a sordid Publisher would advertise his book
He shrinks from such publicity with
dumb, appealing look;
And every time a compliment comes
smilingly his way
He shrieks, "O please don't mention it!"
and sighs and faints away.

But the Literary Lady is alert, for
she knows
How one mistake of hers might
contemporary prose,
And as the laurel crown above her
like ear she sticks
She wears her honors lightly as a load of bricks.

There is some strange divinity
shapes her rides and walks,
As now she sits for photographs
terviews and talks,
And in her friendly sallies with the
yer and the parson
She swings the torch of knowledge
way suggesting arson.

The Literary Lady wracks her fa
ing head
To write her own biography before
really dead,
To tell about her Editors, her Letter
her Cats,
Her spring and summer poetry, he
and winter Hats.

For proudly she explains to us, as
her lip is curled,
"The hand that rocks the cradle
the (literary) world;
Therefore I firmly tread—though
kindliest intent—
Upon that drooping violet, the Gent."

—Wallace Irwin, in The

ELEVATOR FOR THE INVALID

Not all the elevators in use in the country are of the big and massive and quick moving type familiar in modern office buildings, or of the more ornate and perhaps luxurious kinds now to be found in many apartment houses and private dwellings. There are many other kinds of elevators in use, including, for example, the invalid elevator.

It is intended for people who are able to sit up, and so it is made only big enough to give room for a seat for the invalid, with space besides for the person operating it. Some invalid elevators are nowadays operated by electric motors; but the great majority are like the dumbwaiter, and propelled by means of similar appliances operated by hand.

Used in this way, it can be set up anywhere, and so an invalid elevator is as likely to be found installed house in the country as in the c

Sometimes an invalid elevator up with the car running into a in a room, in which case it wo entirely out of sight when not Occasionally where the space wi mit an invalid elevator is set up opening up through the hous which the stairs are built.

The number of such elevators is considerable; and so, while in cities many thousands of peop shooting up and shooting do quick moving elevators, in que business or pleasure, there are, tered about here and there the co over, some other people slowly up or going down in a leisurely ing invalid elevator for the c ing change to be found in movi one floor to another.

Frost Claims His Own

"This is mine," said the old frost king;
And he left his seal of white
On the flow'ring vine by the wayside spring—

The flowers died last night.

"This mine, too," and his breath so chill
As he touched the blades of grass
In the nook at the foot of the maple tree—
The blades are crisp, alas!

"This is mine, too," and his breath so cold
He breathed on the maple leaf;
This morn it fell to the window sill
Wrinkled and sere with grief.

"These are mine," and he chuckled gay
As he oped the chestnut burrs.
The nuts lie now where the squirrels play
And the partridge drums and whirrs.

—New York Sun.

THE HERB OF PEACE

BY J. C. PLUMMER

(Copyright, 1905, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

From the wooded banks of the river the country gradually became treeless, a great grassy plain stretching to the horizon and in all this wide expanse there was not a spring of mint. There were spots alongside the river and its tributary brooks which should have been the abiding place of the herb; marshy lowlands the true habitat of mint, but the four winds either refused to bear the seeds or they died of hopeless nostalgia when they fell, for mint had been neither tasted nor smelled in Barlow. Those native to the place did not repine, they had never had its scent permeate their nostrils nor had the delicate touch of the mint julep rested upon their palates. William Duncan, of Maryland, and Henry Fargis, of Virginia, however, missed it sadly. While they held the two states on either side of the Potomac to be a special work of the Creator and possessing perfections that no other region might aspire to, they could not imagine a beneficent Providence denying any part of the world such a pre-requisite of human happiness as mint. It was especially annoying since ice cold springs abounded, sugar was readily obtainable and whiskey, legal or illegal, was in plenteous supply. It was the play of Hamlet with the mise en scene and minor actors all present and Hamlet absent.

Fargis and Duncan had been planters in their respective states and their fortunes having been marred by the Civil War they had emigrated to the Southwest and bought contiguous farms. They hated each other. The feud began as sometimes a great war begins—from trivial happenings. Fargis' hogs broke into Duncan's enclosure and damaged a crop. They were ejected, but so strong was the memory of the Duncan turnip that they repeated the trespass and a hog was shot. Then Duncan's dog, oblivous of boundary lines trotted across a Fargis field and he was shot. The dog was valueless, indeed Mr. Duncan had sought to give him away a number of times, but violent hands laid upon his dog made his Maryland blood boil. A truculent message was sent to Fargis and one in the same tenor returned. Then the feud grew each day as a noxious weed does in height until the two farmers were bitter enemies.

Etiquette insisted that the feud should include the family and Mesdames Fargis and Duncan, loyal spouses, spoke not as they met but looked, the one at the other, out of the tail of their eyes as if they would have enjoyed a long chat especially in preserving season when the feminine mind sorely craves encouragement and counsel. Here the feud suddenly vanished for Tom Duncan, son of William, and Sallie Fargis, daughter of Henry, dearly loved each other. The method of love making they were obliged to pursue was rapidly making diplomatists of both, as neither dared allow the knowledge of their attachment to reach their respective parents and their meetings called for the skill and trail-hiding ability of an Indian scout. Nevertheless, they met at intervals but with a hopeless prospect of ever being more than lovers.

One soft April day when the trees

"I'd rather see my daughter sitting alongside a copperhead snake."

had opened their buds to the caress of the warm south wind and the newly arrived birds were twittering of nest-making in their branches the two lovers, sitting on a recumbent tree in a copse, were alarmed by a heavy tread behind them, and turning looked into the angry eyes of Henry Fargis.

"I don't know as any of the Duncan family has ever been invited to my place," he said, drawlingly.

Tom Duncan was no coward, neither was he a fool. He gulped down his resentment at these inhospitable words. He did not care to burn all the bridges between himself and Sallie.

"I know, Mr. Fargis," he replied, "you and dad are not friends, but I've nothing against you and have never done you any harm."

"Yes, you have," retorted Fargis, "you are William Duncan's son and you exist. I'd rather see my daughter sitting alongside a copperhead snake than a man of the tribe of Duncan. You see that snake fence beyond the wheat field? That's the line fence between your father's ground and mine. You keep on his side of it.

Duncan's hand was at the throat of Fargus.

Come home, Sallie," and pointing with his cane to the fence he led his tearful daughter away.

In the ensuing three weeks the lovers managed to meet once and a sad meeting it was, for Sallie, amid tears, informed her lover that she was to be sent East—to Virginia, for an indefinite time. With that pessimism which is one of the extremes to which lovers are prone to fly they accepted it as a permanent separation and bemoaned accordingly.

Tom Duncan, mad with desire to confide in some one, told his trouble to his mother, and she retailed it to his father. Mr. Duncan fumed at white heat. With remarkable inconsistency he reviled Fargis for doing exactly what he would have done, for he would have most savagely refused his consent had his son sought permission to wed Fargis' daughter, and the fires of the feud were fanned to renewed brightness.

Back of the two farms was a stretch of woodland containing a depression through which ran a brook with marshy land on each side. As the most direct course to the village was through the wood a large tree hurled by the wind across this gully was utilized as a foot bridge. As William Duncan started across this bridge a few days after Tom's confidence to his mother, he beheld Henry Fargis place his foot on the other extremity. Courtesy and necessity both framed the law that the passenger on the bridge first had the right of way, as two could not pass, and Duncan strode forward. So did Fargis, until the two men stood midway glaring at each other.

"Go back," snarled Duncan.

Fargis smiled derisively.

Duncan raised his hand and in an instant the two men, clinched, were precipitated some four feet to the soft loam. Duncan's hand was at the throat of Fargis, while that gentleman twisted at his enemy's collar. They struggled, breathing short, for several moments then Fargis' hold relaxed.

"Mint," he gurgled, "I smell mint."

Duncan loosened his grip and sniffed the air.

"By the Lord, it is mint," he cried, "where is it?"

The two foes released each other and began crawling about in the marsh, sniffing like dogs seeking a trail.

"Here it is," shouted Fargis, "I was lying on it. A whole patch of it." Each man snatched a bunch and plunging his nose therein inhaled the perfume.

"Come," shouted Duncan, excitedly, "my house is nearer."

The spectacle of two mortal enemies hurrying towards the house, bespattered with mud and each bearing a green bunch of herbs aroused the curiousity of the Duncan homestead. Mrs. Duncan's wonder grew as evidences came from down stairs of the invasion of her pantry where the sugar and whiskey were kept and also at the sight of Henry Fargis making a spirited dash, pail in hand, for the spring behind the dairy. An incense was shortly wafted up the stairs which caused her to sniff approvingly and murmur "mint." Her eyes, involuntarily, wandered to the window as if expecting to see, instead of the muddy river, the wide expanse of the Chesapeake Bay.

At ten p. m. Tom Duncan assisted Mr. Fargis to his home. At the door the old gentleman remarked:

"Tom, my boy, you mush come over and shee Shallie."

PROSPECTOR LEADS THE WAY.

Bears Rightful Title as Pioneer of the West.

The prospector is the real pioneer of the West; he blazed the trail for the railroad, for the merchant, the capitalist and the professional man; to him belongs the honor of the present condition of the mining industry. The prospector has made it possible for the making of the great fortunes of Haggin, Fair, Flood, Hearst, Daly and Clark. Where would the Comstock, Butte, Coeur d'Alene and other notable camps be, had it not been for the prospector and his burro? The life of the prospector is not a round of pleasure; he sleeps in the snow and rain as often as not; his fare is bacon and beans; dollars are few with him, yet he may be hunting for a new location for you to go to. When he asks you for a grub stake, help him out; his burro found the Bunker Hill and Sullivan; his rifle killed the mountain sheep that found and exposed the rich ores of the Ram's Horn mine; Comstock, the man who found the vein named after him, died a poor man, but he did more for his country than President Roosevelt has. Marcus Daly came to Butte with his blankets on his back, but he did more for Montana than John D. Rockefeller; W. A. Clark drove a bull team into Montana, placer mined in Deer Lodge and made a fortune, which he earned by hardships endured which the average Butte citizen would not care to go through. When Stratton found Cripple Creek he was a poor carpenter, said to be too lazy to work, but he payed the way for thousands to earn a livelihood and himself a fortune.—Butte Mining Review.

Are You Left-Eyed?

"Left-eyed people simply own the town these days," said an oculist. "If the prominence and importance of that optic continues to increase we shall one day be a left-eyed race. In more than half the patients I treat the left eye is already considerable larger than the right, it is brighter and it lasts longer. If you want to find out which eye is stronger try to read first with one then with the other unassisted by its mate. Nine times out of ten that test shows how much more useful the left-eye is than the right.

"I devoutly hope that I shall never lose either of my eyes, but if one has to go I just as devoutly hope that it will be the right. There was a time when the superstitious, and even specialists on eyes believed that only left-handed people were also left-eyed. That theory is now exploded. Overdevelopment of the left eye is in danger of becoming a disease, the peculiar effects of which are already apparent in many faces."

Large Enough.

Senator Foraker was talking about a politician whose erratic conduct had estranged him from his party.

"This man," said the Senator, "was showing a visitor over his new house in Washington the other day.

"He exhibited the large drawing-room, in white and gold; the spacious dining-room, in mahogany; the vast ebony hall, with its onyx pillars, and then he led his visitor into the little bit of a room off the hall—a mere cubby hole, containing but a table and two chairs.

"'Not very large, eh?' he said. 'Small and cozy, isn't it? Here I entertain my political friends.'

"'Ah,' said the visitor, 'it will be large enough for that.'"

Modern Version.

The king had just opened his luscious pie and the birds began to sing.

"Ye crowns," spoke the king, smacking his lips, "but this is a dainty dish. I shall eat until I cannot eat more."

But just then the court physician arrived.

"Hold on, your majesty," called the medical adviser, lifting his hand in worning, "you know I forbid you eating pastry of all kinds and limited your diet to health food." With a sigh the king closed up the pie and told the slaves to hand it out to some passing tramp.

Furniture Used by Napoleon.

When he returned to Washington recently Ambassador Von Sternberg brought a complete suite of drawing-room furniture that had adorned the rooms occupied by Napoleon in Leipsic. These treasures were bequeathed to the ambassador by a relative whose grandfather had owned the place where the Corsican elected to abide. The furniture is ancient Flemish and in the tapestry are woven mytholigical designs. The frames bear a gold design. A desk at which Napoleon wrote vigorous messages is part of the legacy.

Do It.

If you have a thing to say,
Say it.
If you have a debt to pay,
Pay it.
If you're something less than men—
Say that you are just a hen,
With an egg to lay, why, then,
Lay it.

If you have a log to hew,
Hew it.
If there's something you should rue,
Rue it.
For all things beneath the sun
Teach us this as on we run;
If there's aught that should be done,
Do it.

—A. J. Waterhouse in Sunset Magazine.

MADE IT A DIFFERENT CASE.

Nuisance Turned Out Largely a Matter of Ownership.

Mrs. Russell Sage is one of the most active workers in the movement to abolish the docking of the tails of horses.

In a discussion of this movement she said recently:

"If the horses already docked were out of the way we should have no trouble in putting a stop to docking forever. But many persons, advocates of our movement in the past, no sooner buy a pair of showy carriage horses with docked tails than they desert us and go over to the enemy."

She smiled sadly.

"It is the old story," she said. "White owned a dog. Black, who lived next door, came to him and said:

"'Look here. That dog of yours howls so much at night that my wife and I are going mad for want of sleep.'

"'Is that so?' said White. 'I hadn't noticed his howling. I think you must be mistaken.'

"A week passed and Black came home one day with the objectionable dog on a string.

"'I have bought this cur,' he told his wife. 'I have bought it from White and I am going to chloroform it.'

"Another week and White, the dog's former owner, said to Black:

"'You haven't chloroformed that dog yet, have you?'

"'Why, no not yet, 'Black answered. 'The fact is we have grown rather fond of the critter, he is so playful and affectionate.'

"'That doesn't his barking annoy you?' White asked.

"'No, I haven't noticed it,' said Black.

"'Well,' White grumbled, 'I can't sleep for that brute's continual yowling.'

Mrs. Sage smiled again.

"In the case of ourselves it is one thing; in the case of others it is a different matter," she said.

Love for the Old Home.

Mankind is nomadic, and while the sweetest poetry in the language is inspired by the old home, the monumental work in the world has been accomplished in the main by those who left the parental roof to pursue elsewhere the quest for fortune, fame and high success. Nevertheless, the love for the old home abides. The reunion of those who remain and those who have departed is an occasion that will stir the pulse of any community in which such a soulful event takes place. The pretty announcement was made by a newspaper in a little New England town which was about to celebrate its old home week that "the Jones boys have arrived and Charles will preach in the Presbyterian church on Sunday." A little waif of news like that revives old times and pays for all the preparation of "old home week."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Surplusage.

Owen Wister, the novelist, was criticising the work of a literary beginner.

"Now, here," said Mr. Wister, slashing his blue pencil through an entire manuscript page, "here is arrant superfluity and surplusage. In what way do these 400 words help your story?

"In no way. On the contrary, they hinder, they impede it. These written words are mere surplusage, as so many of our spoken words are mere surplusage. They resemble the useless questions that we ask.

"A man stood before a mirror in his room, his face lathered, and an open razor in his hand.

"His wife came in. She looked at him and said:

"'Are you shaving?'

"The man, a foe to surplusage, replied fiercely:

"'No; I am blacking the kitchen range. Where are you—out driving or at a matinee?'"

Look for Action from Senator.

According to general belief Mr. Knox of Pennsylvania does not mean to be a silent member of the United States senate at the coming session. As a rule newcomers are rather expected to keep in the background for a time, but Senator Knox is tacitly booked to take a leading part in discussion of the railroad rate measure. For many years Pennsylvania senators have almost confined themselves to committee activity. The Camerons, father and son, were silent men, and so to a great extent was Mr. Quay. Mr. Penrose, too, rarely opens his lips, so the spectacle of a Pennsylvania senator active in debate will be somewhat of a novelty.

The Old-Time Fireplace.

The stoves an' the steam-heat "git" me
These wearisome wintry days!
Gimme the old-time chimbly,
The back-log an' the blaze!
I want to sit where the oak-fire gleams,
An' tell old stories, an' dream old dreams!

The steam-heat—it says nuthin'
The stove hides dreams from sight;
But the flames of the open fire
Sing songs of a winter night!
Settin' there, where the bright light streams,
I tell old stories, an' dream old dreams!

Youth comes back with its roses
As I dream by the fireside late,
The face of the old-time sweetheart
In the starlight at the gate!—
Old-times—old loves, in the firelight's gleams—
The old, sweet story—the old sweet dreams!

—Frank L. Stanton in Atlanta Constitution.

Under Arrest, but Unguarded.

While Gen. Brugere, commander of the French army, was under fifteen days' arrest in Paris he was not permitted to leave his quarters on any pretext except to transact official business at the war office, might not wear his sword and could receive no visitors. But in consideration of his high rank no sentry was placed over him.

AN INCIDENT OF SEBASTOPOL

Sebastopol and its battle between mutinous and loyal forces recalls an imaginary incident of the Crimean war, found in Count Tolstoy's "Sebastopol": The bomb, coming faster and faster and nearer and nearer, so that the sparks of its fuse were already visible, descended. 'Lie down,' some one shouted. They lay flat on the ground. Praskouhin, closing his eyes, only heard how the bomb crashed down on the hard earth close by. A second passed which seemed an hour; the bomb had not exploded. He opened his eyes and at that moment caught sight of the glowing fuse of the bomb not a yard off. Terror—cold terror, excluding every other thought and feeling—seized his whole being. He covered his face with his hands.

"Then he remembered the twelve rubles he owed, a debt in St. Petersburg that should have been paid long ago, and the gypsy song he had sung that evening. The woman he loved rose in his imagination, wearing a cap with lilac ribbons; and yet, inseperable from all these and from thousands of other recollections, the present thought, the expectation of death, did not leave him for a moment. 'Perhaps it won't explode,' and with desperate final decision he wished to open his eyes. But at that instant a red flame pierced through the still closed lids and with a terrible crash something struck him in the ch

"He jumped up and began t but stumbling over the saber th between his legs fell on his 'Thank God I'm only bruised,' first thought, and he wished to his chest with his hand, but h seemed tied to his sides and as if a vise were squeezing hi Soldiers flitted past him and he ed them unconsciously. Th ning flashed before his eyes wondered whether the shot w from a mortar or a cannon. probably. And here are more five, six, seven soldiers; they by.' He was suddenly filled that they would crush him. to shout that he was hurt, mouth was so dry that his clove to the roof of his mou

"He felt wet about his ch this sensation of being wet m think of water. * * * Fear the soldiers might trample tried to shout, 'Take care wh but instead of that he utter terrible groan that he was to hear it. Then other red fi gan dancing before his eyes seemed to him that the sol stones on him. * * * He m effort to push off the stones ed himself—and saw and felt nothing more. He had b on the spot by a bomb splin middle of his chest."

THE ARABIAN HORSE'S TAIL

The way the Arabian horse holds his tail is looked upon as the finest point of breeding. The Arabs believe that the spirit of God is shown there. No man living can account for the way they do it. It equals the arch of the neck and balances the horse. Mr. Bailey of Barnum & Bailey's circus tells me that they have tried everything to get their horses to carry their tails that way. But the Arabian horse is the only one that does it.

Another thing about the Arabian horse is the tremendous width of the jowl. Nature didn't intend an ordinary horse to run far; his windpipe is too small. The blood runs cold in his veins and he quits. I noticed the other day in the paper of a great race horse that choked to death on the track and dropped dead trying to win. My horse Nojdran, standing 14½ hands high, is three times as broad across the throat as a wonder of a horse standing 19 hands high with which I compared him.

That is where the Arabian horse gets his endurance. He has the ability to run. He is the only horse which, looked at from behind, shows both barrels of the ribs; he has big lungs, meaning great staying

The Arabian horse is at thoroughbred. You may tire that his legs would be run weariness, then apply whip and he will make a desperate to respond. You tire out thoroughbred and then whip he will fight you like a dog. shown in King Richard's Ar were brought to this country King Richard, who was a wealthy man, took an artist edge of the desert and captiva Arabs with pictures and brib he induced them to part with five horses." These were ta Kentucky.

During the war two men who trying to escape from Kentuc Virginia were mounted, one of these Arabs and the other ran them until the Kentucky h thoroughbred Kentucky horse. stopped and refused to go. The two got on the Arab and made escape. From this strain des many of the Kentucky saddle h which carry their tails in the p tious manner of the Arabs.—F Monthly.

NEW WORLD'S VAST TREASURES

It has never been told how vast was the treasure that was emptied from the new world into the old in those days—the glorious days of Spanish dominion. We can only judge of how great it was by collateral evidence. The booties of Cortez and of Pizarro are famous in annals of new world history. In them we have read how the soldiers of the former carried away only a small part of the treasures looted at Mexico, yet were so loaded down with stolen gold that when they fell from the causeway into the lake in the memorable retreat from Mexico they sank and drowned as weighted with plummets of lead. Also we read how Pizarro exacted as a tribute for the liberation of the Inca Atahulpa gold that filled to the depth of several feet a room seventeen feet wide by twenty-two feet long and which was valued at 1,300,000 pesos d'or—the equivalent of nearly $15,500,000 of our money.

When Drake sailed the South in the Golden Hind upon his pir voyage of circumnavigation in years 1577-79 and when he cap the Nuestra Senora della Conce —surnamed the Cacafuego, or fire—off Cape San Francisco, it three days to transfer the tre from the captured ship to his In that single haul there was rea a "purchase," as it was called, of twenty-six tons of silver, be eighty pounds of virgin gold, thi chests of pieces of eight conta over $1,000,000 in money and an mous amount of jewels and plate.

Upon the evidence of John D we read that when the Golden laid her course for England, by of the Cape of Good Hope, she w heavily "ballasted" with pure s that she "rode exceeding deep in water."—Howard Pyle in Har Magazine.

ABOUT THE LITERARY LADY

The Literary Lady, though she's clever,
none can doubt it,
Too often makes us wonder why she
worries so about it,
And why, when one picks up her book
and meekly looks upon it
Her attitude distinctly says, "Please look
at me—I done it!"

The Literary Lady, if her novel's a success,
Occasionally shows it in the manner of
her dress,
As if to ask, "How is it the Immortals
do their hair?
And when I reach the Hall of Fame I'ay
what am I to wear?"

The Literary Gentleman is otherwise, for
he
Is shrinking, shy and blushing to a marvelous degree.
He never talks about himself or writes
the kind of stuff
That gets into the papers for a literary puff.

And when a sordid Publisher would advertise his book
He shrinks from such publicity with
dumb, appealing look;
And every time a compliment comes
smilingly his way
He shrieks, "O please don't mention it!"
and sighs and faints away.

But the Literary Lady is alert; for
she knows
How one mistake of hers might
contemporary prose.
And as the laurel crown above her
like ear she sticks
She wears her honors lightly as a
load of bricks.

There is some strange divinity
shapes her rides and walks.
As now she sits for photographs
terviews and talks.
And in her friendly sallies with the
yer and the parson
She swings the torch of knowledge
way suggesting arson.
The Literary Lady wracks her fa
ing head
To write her own biography before
really dead,
To tell about her Editors, her Lette
her Cats,
Her spring and summer poetry, h
and winter Hats.

For proudly she explains to us, as
her lip is curled,
"The hand that rocks the cradle
the (literary) world;
Therefore I firmly fread—though
kindliest intent—
Upon that drooping violet, the L
Gent."

—Wallace Irwin, in The Re

ELEVATOR FOR THE INVALID

Not all the elevators in use in the country are of the big and massive and quick moving type familiar in modern office buildings, or of the more ornate and perhaps luxurious kinds now to be found in many apartment houses and private dwellings. There are many other kinds of elevators in use, including, for example, the invalid elevator.

It is intended for people who are able to sit up, and so it is made only big enough to give room for a seat for the invalid, with space besides for the person operating it. Some invalid elevators are nowadays operated by electric motors; but the great majority are like the dumbwaiter, and propelled by means of similar appliances operated by hand.

Used in this way, it can be set up anywhere, and so an invalid elevator is as likely to be found installed house in the country as in the c

Sometimes an invalid elevator up with the car running into a in a room, in which case it wo entirely out of sight when not i Occasionally where the space wi mit an invalid elevator is set up opening up through the hous which the stairs are built.

The number of such elevators is considerable; and so, while in cities many thousands of peop shooting up and shooting do quick moving elevators, in qu business or pleasure, there are, tered about here and there the over, some other people slowly up or going down in a leisurely ing invalid elevator for the c ing change to be found in movi one floor to another.

OF SEBASTOPOL

something struck him in the ch
"He jumped up and began to but stumbling over the saber that between his legs fell on his
'Thank God I'm only bruised,' wa first thought, and he wished to his chest with his hand, but his seemed tied to his sides and it as if a vise were squeezing his Soldiers flitted past him and he ed them unconsciously. Then ning flashed before his eyes and wondered whether the shot were from a mortar or a cannon. 'Ca pose only.' And here are more sol five, six, seven soldiers; they all by. He was suddenly filled with that they won't crush him. He w to shout that he was hurt, but mouth was so dry that his to clove to the roof of his mouth.
He felt wet about his chest, this sensation of being wet made think of water. * * * Fearing the soldiers might trample on hi tried to shout, 'Take care with but instead of that he uttered terrible groan that he was fright to hear it. Then other red fire gan dancing before his eyes and seemed to him that the soldier stones on him. * * * He made effort to push off the stones—stre ed himself—and saw and heard felt nothing more. He had been k on the spot by a bomb splinter in middle of his chest."

HORSE'S TAIL

ing great staying po Arabian horse is absol thoroughbred. You may fire one would be run out f
then apply whip and will make a desperate e
You fire out and
bared and then whip him will fight you like a dog. This in King Richard's Arabs w ght to this country in
, who was a an artist to the coast and captivated Arabs with pictures and bribes
he induced them to part with fou five horses. These were taken Kentucky.
the war two men who w
to escape from Kentucky
Virginia were mounted, one on of those Arabs and the other o ran them until the Kentucky ho thoroughbred Kentucky horse. T tired and refused to go. Then two got on the Arab and made th escape. From this strain desc many of the Kentucky saddle ho which carry their tails in the pre tious manner of the Arabs.—Pac Monthly.

AST TREASURES

When Drake sailed the South
In the Golden Hind upon his pira voyage of circumnavigation in years, 1577-79 and when he capt
the Nuestra Senora della Concep surnamed the Cacafuego, or ire—off Cape San Francisco, it three days to transfer the trea from the captured ship to his
In that single haul there was rea a "purchase," as it was called, of twenty-six tons of silver, bes eighty pounds of virgin gold, thir chests of pieces of eight contai over $1,000,000 in money and an mous amount of jewels and plate.
Upon the evidence of John Dr
we read that when the Golden H laid her course for England, by of the Cape of Good Hope, she wa heavily "ballasted" with pure si that she "rode exceeding deep in water"—Howard Pyle in Harp Magazine.

TERARY LADY

But the Literary Lady is alert, for sh knows
How one mistake of hers might w
contemporary prose.
And as the laurel crown above her
like ear she sticks
She wears her honors lightly as a wa
load of bricks.

There is some strange divinity
shapes her rides and walks,
As now she sits for photographs and ferviews and talks.
And in her friendly sallies with the
ver and the parson
She swings the torch of knowledge
Way suggesting arson.
The Literary Lady wracks her fanc
ing head
To write her own biography before
really dead
To tell about her Editors, her Letters
her Cats,
Her spring and summer poetry, her
and winter Hats.

For proudly she explains to us, as
her lip is curled,
The hand that rocks the cradle
the (literary) world:
Therefore I firmly tread—though with
kindliest intent—
Upon that drooping violet, the Lit
Gent.

Wallace Irwin, in The Re

THE INVALID

is as likely to be found installed house in the country as in the cit Sometimes an invalid elevator is up with the car running into a in a room, in which case it wou entirely out of sight when not in Occasionally where the space will suit an invalid elevator is set up opening up through the house which the stairs are built.
The number of such elevators in is considerable; and so, while in cities many thousands of people shooting up and shooting dow quick moving elevators, in qu business or pleasure, there are,
tered about here and there the c over, some other people slowly up or going down in a leisurely ing invalid elevator for the co ing change to be found in moving one floor to another.

HOME.

little resting spots of men that creep along Time's wall, shadows in the noonday glare, kindest after all
warred by the morn of toil,
with ambition's flame,
to seek the humble spot
gnoring creature your name.
Smith, in Good House-

E SAVING OF THE SARAH BELL

By Albert W. Tolman.

captain of the fisher-
Sarah Bell, moored
to the ice-wharf,
alone with me in his cabin. The crew had for the evening.
out on the square dining the swinging lamp lay a North Atlantic fishing interesting sheet, that creased map, thumbed, greasy, with soundings, with thin, lines marking the boundaries fine-cut shoals. On Banquereau smudge attracted my at particular happen there?"
responded the captain, striking his gray, bushy eye-sailed the North Atlanand boy, for over thirty years, was in a harder, tighter than when lying at anchor in fathoms under that ink-spot.
the same voyage we shipped Heilmann. He was a big, young German, who had just over from the old country on a tramp steamer, and had left vessel in New York. Heaven only how he happened to drift down
But not half an hour
he turned up on the very minute when I was another man to take the
of my crew, who had gone
We didn't waste any time to take a trip to the Banks?"
he grinned, without having idea where the Banks were,
he would have to do when he shaped him at once, not knowing
'd drawn a prize or a blank, to get him tolerably broken
time we were on 'Quereau.
however, I made a big mis-

A fisherman Dutchy was of no
I've seen Joe Simms, who fished , pull in four cod while German was hauling up one, bait-his hook and getting it down to again. He reminded me of a lubberly schoolboy, with his round, face, blue eyes and fuzzy little mustache. From the day he shipped until he left the schooner at end of the trip he never went above the rail; and when some joker put his nose on the masthead one night, he down in his stocking feet half the forenoon, till one of the men took pity on him and brought them down.
As soon as we were fairly outside began to drill him in seamanship, but was long before I gave up the idea ever getting him anything. His mind was slow and dull, and though he tried hard enough, he couldn't seem to comprehend. So if any piece of work needed brains and quickness, I took care not to call on him; but whenever strength and faithfulness were wanted, I turned to him every time.
No matter how hard or dirty the job,
he never complained or shirked.
As for his appetite! I believe that after a meal he could have turned to and eaten another just as big. I guess that was why Obed Spiller, the cook, was down on him. If anybody had his work or his beef poor or the brei too "raw," it was always Dutchy. He never said a word, but ate more than ever just to show there was no hard feeling.

The first week on the grounds we had good luck. The cod bit well, and were big and fat. The second Wednesday dawned with a stiff gale from the nor'east. How it blew! All day we did not wet a hook. Toward night it grew worse, and a sleet storm set in.
The schooner pitched and rolled so that you could hardly keep your feet; but her cable was new, and I was sure she would ride it out. We turned in early, hoping the wind would go down before morning.

"But at 11 o'clock a cry from the man on watch brought us all tumbling out of our bunks. And there was reason enough. The shackle under the bow had parted, the jibstay slacked up, and the mass, freed from its tension, were quivering like willow rods. Unless the damage was repaired at once the swell would soon roll the sticks out of the schooner.

"In less than three minutes I had every man but the cook on deck. It took some time to secure the swinging end of the stay, splice it, and draw it through the hawse-pipe. We were all busy forward, Dutchy included, when somebody looked aft, and yelled:

"'Fire! Fire! The Bell's afire!'

"I turned around, and saw that the man was right. A dull red glare was dancing on the top of the skylight. Then the glass broke, and a tongue of flame shot out. The whole inside of the cabin seemed to be blazing.

"It was a sorry sight for us all. Every cent I had was in this schooner. Besides, it wasn't merely property, food and shelter that was at stake, but nineteen lives as well. I don't know that I ever saw a worse night on the Banks.
Even a dory couldn't have lived in such a sea. So there was just one ending to it for us, unless we put that fire out.

"I was aft in less than half a minute, and started down the companion ladder;
but a burst of flame and smoke drove me back. We hustled out the buckets, formed a double line from both rails, and passed water like mad;
but it didn't seem to have any more effect than if we had been using thim-bles instead of pails. The vessel was rocking so that the pails were half-empty by the time they got to the last man, and half the water that was left in them never reached a spot where it could do any good.

"It's pretty rough to fight sea and storm and fire at the same time, but that's what we had to do that night.
We were getting pretty well fagged,
when a voice shouted:

"'The cook's down there! He'll be burned to death!'

"In the excitement we'd forgotten all about Obed Spiller; but I saw in a second that somebody would have to go down in that cabin and rout him out.
It wasn't a job I hankered for, but I made a bolt for the companion ladder.
But that slow Dutchman was ahead of
me.

"'Go back, cap!' he said, giving me a shove that sent me staggering. 'I'll get him.'

"With that he threw his coat up over his head, and dove down the ladder into the fire and smoke below. I waited. It wasn't more than thirty seconds before he came staggering up, with his clothes on fire in half a dozen places, and the cook, almost smothered, flung over his shoulder like a bag of meal.

"Obed was a heavy sleeper, and he had a deep bunk off in one corner, so that the flames hadn't reached him;
but he'd breathed so much smoke before he was fully awake that he hadn't enough sense or strength left to get on deck. He'd have strangled in a few minutes more.

"Two or three of us put out the fire on Dutchy. Then we carried the cook forward, lashed him to the foremast, and left him to come to himself, for we didn't have any time to coddle him.
All this time the rest of the crew were busy with the buckets, but the blaze was more than holding its own. I began to think of the boats, though I knew a dory couldn't live five minutes in that sea.

"Just then the German touched me on the shoulder. He'd puffed his lungs clear of smoke, so that he could talk again.

"'Give me a fish-fork,' he said, 'and I'll put out the fire.'

"I stared at him, thinking he'd gone clean crazy, for how he could put out a blaze with a fish-fork was more than I could see. But I knew that he'd been down below, and got some idea of the situation, so I passed him what he wanted. He was down the ladder and in the cabin almost before I could turn round. He was the quickest slow man I ever saw.

"'Keep the water going!' he shouted; and we poured it down as fast as we could send it from the rail to the skylight.

"We could hear him stamping round below and coughing, but we couldn't see a thing for the thick smoke that was rolling up. It seemed almost wicked for him to be down there in the middle of the flames; but he was fighting for his own life, as well as the lives of all the rest, so I couldn't order him up.

"Well, sir, it seemed hours while we waited for him to come up. Just as I was beginning to fear the fire had been too much for him, a shout rose from below:

"'Stand clear!'

"A ball of fire shot up the ladder through the smoke. Behind it came Dutchy, all ablaze. On the end of the fish-fork he had a bundle of kerosene-soaked rags that the cook had used for cleaning his lamps.

"We found afterwards that the screw had pulled out of the gimbals in which the cabin light swung, and that a roll of the schooner had tossed the falling lamp into the box where the rags were kept. The oil-soaked cloth formed a heart of fire, which the water had been unable to quench. Five seconds after Dutchy reached the deck the flaming ball was drifting to leeward, and we were soaking him from head to foot to put him out. After that it was an easy matter to drown the blaze in the cabin.

"There was nothing too good for that lad during the rest of his cruise. When we struck Gloucester again I tried to persuade him to go on another trip, but it was no use. An hour after he got his pay he was off for New York, to ship again on some tramp for the old country. I've never seen him since."— Youth's Companion.

Unanimous.

The late Lord Leighton, President of the Royal Academy, once had a chance to learn something about himself that perhaps he had not suspected. His chance came to him at a picture gallery, where his painting, "Helen of Troy," was on exhibition.

He joined a group of ladies who were standing before it just in time to hear one of the number say:

"It is a horrid picture, simply horrid."

"I'm sorry; but it's mine!" Lord Leighton exclaimed, involuntarily.

"You don't mean to say you've bought the thing?" questioned the same lady.

"No, I—painted it," the artist humbly replied.

The critical lady was momentarily abashed; then she said, easily:

"Oh, you mustn't mind what I say."

"No, indeed, you mustn't," another began, earnestly. "She only said what everybody else is saying!"—Youth's Companion.

The most picturesque and ancient looking river is the Rhine. It has 729 venerable castles on its banks.

INTERESTING TO WOMEN

CORRESPONDING A PLEASURE.

No breakfast room is so cozy as the one which contains a well-appointed and well-stocked desk in the sunniest window ready to turn to for the immediate answering of the mail which has been perused at breakfast. Englishwomen, who understand the art of letter and note writing better than any women in the world, follow this plan, and have certain other customs which come under the class of letter writing made easy.

Letter paper is bought by the quantity, stamps are bought by the hundreds and pens by the gross, any of which outlay would be considered an unheard of extravagance by the ordinary American woman, who buys her writing materials in driblets that are small and stingy as compared with her lavish expenditures in other directions.

It is the wail of the drug clerk and the postoffice clerk that women buy their stamps one at a time and a letter with two cents lying on it, is the commonest sight possible on Black velvet ribbon is used effec- the same little desk, if it happens to be in the American breakfast room. So deep-fixed is the notion that stamps are a thing to be invested in economically as needed that ten cents' worth is said to be above the average outlay. The rare woman lays down a dollar or even a half dollar, and who would not command a glance from the crowd for any other reason is certain of at least one full square look from each of the feminine people near her.

It is not so with the Englishwoman who has facilities in the little breakfast room for posting her letter as soon as written. Another quality of this little desk which makes one look at it with a sense of an already lightened weight of correspondence, is its order. The maid replenishes it with paper, removes its ink spots, refills its ink well from a bottle which to the American would look big enough for a house, furnishes it with new blotters, and lays out fresh pens. Sane and beautiful is the life of the woman who has such perspective in buying and who can command such service. No wonder that notes from her are an every day courtesy sent with slight pretext to friends pleasantly thought of, and no wonder that the letters are prompt and beautifully written.

Apropos of this, or, perhaps, because of it, the strange fact exists that the woman who looks to furnish her desk from the standpoint of utility and convenience rather than of elegance and ornamentation, can not do so in her own shopping districts. Plain ebony, oak, or metal ink stands with tightly arranged tops, and thick, easy handling penholders to correspond, are simple little conveniences which women who have acquired or inherited the man's idea of what would be called "working" writing materials, must go elsewhere to procure them.—Indianapolis News.

SELF-GOVERNMENT AT VASSAR.

So far weakness in the student government has resulted in reform, not so much in this or that particular, but in general. The most notable case of this kind occured now some years ago, when a kind of slackness crept into the association and the elders began to wonder if student government was losing its grip. The answer to that question was the advent of a senior class persuaded in its own mind as to its destiny, and determined to impress its conviction upon the association. That year its house was swept and put into an order which has never since been seriously disturbed. The event not only inspired the association with fresh confidence in itself, and with higher ideals, but inspired the college with a confidence well deserved and of which the students are fully aware.

Of course one of the most obvious menaces to a good government by students is the fact that every year it loses a body of its best informed and best trained citizens, and has to accept in their place a still larger body of the unformed and uninformed coming from the comparative dependence of schools and families, and likely, like any other immigrants, to be either indifferent or overexecutive. It is hard to see how any executive body so constituted can keep to a steady policy. Yet the association does.—Harper's Bazar.

PHILADELPHIA CLUB POPULATION.

From the city of London within the past few days there came a proud boast that it has the largest club women popuation in the world—over 20,000. The information has set Philadelphia club women to thinking. The question is: Does this figure include religious, charitable and educational associations? If it does, Philadelphia can claim twenty thousand and over. Some of the figures of societies in Philadelpia that have been gathered off-hand are as follows: Girls' High and Normal School Alumnae, 1,500; Jewish Council of Women, from 800 to 1,000; Civic Betterment Association, 1,500; New Century Club, 600; W. T. C. U., 1,133; Teachers' Association, 2,500; New Century Guild, 200; Plastic Club, 200; Travelers' Aid Society, 200; Legislative League, 80; Suffrage Society, 300; Woman's Club, 80; Women's Press Association, 150. This brings the Philadelphia club members almost up to the ten thousand mark, and does not include any number of nurses' societies, the Young Women's Christian Association, with twelve hundred members; numerous college settlement associations, college clubs, hospital associations, the big kindergarten union and numberless other clubs, very large in numbers. Probably we can beat London in the matter of Women's clubs.—Philadelphia Record.

AN AMERICAN GIRL AT COURT.

The necessary wardrobe is no small matter. A simple court dress by Paquin will cost anything from $500 to $750—not including lace, which may be a family heirloom above price. The debutante's bouquet may include $100 worth of costly orchids and hothouse blooms. As to gloves the regulation 24 button court gloves will cost $5 or $10 a pair at least, in a Bond street store; and for shoes, the correct ones are to be bought at a little store high up on Bond street near the Oxford street end. These people make shoes for the queen and princesses, and the price is $25 a pair. It is embarrassing to find that almost every detail of one's attire is laid down by law and has endured for centuries.

Some points about the presentation at court are much changed since Queen Victoria's day. The "courts," as they are now called are held at 10 o'clock at night—an hour much more becoming than the erstwhile afternoon session. Also there are beautiful bands in attendance; a most excellent buffet supper, and last, but by no means least, the king and queen sit on gorgeous thrones at the end of a huge and sumptuous saloon, in all the glory of ermine and purple and jewels beyond price.—Harper's Bazar.

TAKES PLACE OF THEATRE HAT.

In regard to the removal of hats at the theatre, and everywhere of an evening where audiences gather, as well as at matinees, the custom now is so well accepted, all women are extremely amiable in the matter. Elderly ladies are equally so, and deserve all the more credit, for the reason that their hair is far more apt to be disarranged and embarrassing to them, than when in youth hair is abundant and strong. The coiffure for women of that age which would appeal to the majority, has been launched abroad. It consists of a low, cap-like crown of lace, often of gold and silver laces, as well as steel and jet. It suggests a ball coiffure with its small feather tips and its velvet bows at the side. The hair is dressed so as to show off to advantage, and with jeweled pins the coiffure is made permanently safe for the evening. No one can deny that this pretty head dress would beautify the effect of any assemblage, and in no way interfere with the comfort of others.—Indianapolis News.

REBELS TO THE GREAT COMMAND.

I hesitate to speak of one aspect of the life of old maids, and yet it is the aspect which is the ground of all our woes, all our disabilities. Here we are in the world, we women, designed by Nature for one great use, the peopling of the world. But something makes us—us unmarried women—rebels to the great command—unwilling rebels, perhaps, but none the less doomed to the punishment of rebellion. Because we were proud and silly; because we were vain and weak; because we were cold and shallow; because we were seers of visions and climbers after the impossible; because we wanted riches; because we dreamed of a black-haired suitor to the utter undoing of a red-haired one; because our parents dismissed our early wooers, and no others appeared; because sometimes, men were fickle—whatever the reason, we stand rebels to the great command. And we pay the price of that rebellion to Nature which civilization has imposed upon us. We miss the joy of love, and the nobility of a worthy motherhood. I have sometimes thought that there can be no bliss on earth greater than that of a loved and loving wife who folds her child in her arms, and feels her husband's arms infold them both. Here the human being touches divine heights, is creator and protector, "allied to that which doth provide and not partake." No unmarried woman ever walks quite so close with God as this, or has such rapture of harmony with the universal law of life. —Autobiography of an Old Maid, in Everybody's Magazine.

FASHION NOTES.

On the subject of feathers nothing could be more pleasing than the new feather stoles and boas.

The lace waist fills many needs, and is an altogether desirable addition to every wardrobe.

The most elaborate substitutes for hats are seen on many women. Little caps or coifs of lace, gold and silver tinsel, and flowers are worn, especially by elderly women. They are really very pretty, and, since many theatres are draughty very sensible.

A very luxurious blue ostrich feather stole had the flat ends inset with large losenges of heavy lace.

A GREAT COMBINATION OFFER

We Will Furnish the "TWICE-A-WEEK" Issue of the

St. Louis Globe-Democrat

With

THE UNION

For

$1.50 Both Papers, one year, only $1.50.

The St. Louis Globe Democrat should not be classed with the many cheap weekly papers. It is a high-grade Semi-Weekly, eight or more pages, every Tuesday and Friday. It is beyond all comparison the biggest, best and cheapest National News and Home Journal published in the United States. It is strictly Republican in Politics but is above all

A Great Modern Newspaper.

It is not made up indiscriminately from the Daily issue. It is carefully edited with special reference to the needs of the Farmer, the Merchant and the professional man who desires to keep thoroughly posted without sparing the time to read a large Daily Paper. It also contains a great variety of well selected reading matter, making it invaluable to every member of the family.

This Liberal Clubbing Offer

is open to all old or new subscribers, but may be withdrawn at any time, and we must receive the cash with order. Address

THE UNION,
Clanton, Ala.

Ben M. Jacobs & Bros.,

Furniture and Rugs.

—SOLE AGENTS—

Globe-Wernicke Elastic Book Cases and Filing Cabinets.

Catalogue for the asking.

2011 First Ave., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

DISPATCH PRINTING CO.,

Blank Book Makers and Lithographers.

County and Office Supplies a Specialty.

Ask for Estimates.

2113-2119 Morris Ave., BIRMINGHAM, ALA

Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association

OF ALABAMA.

CHARTERED BY SPECIAL ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE

By the People and for the People.

Chilton County Branch

Organized February 3, 1900.

W. M. WILSON, President. WALLACE C. EDLER, Sec'y.-Treas.

INSURES Farmers' dwellings, outbuildings and contents and live stock against loss by fire, wind and lightning. The cheapest, safest and most sensible method of insurance known to man

Average Yearly Cost for Five and a half Years 43-100 of 1 per cent.

Full particulars furnished upon application to WALLACE C. EDLER, Clanton, Ala.

PAUL CALAME,

205 21st Street
Birmingham, Ala.

Practical Watchmaker and Optician

Eyes Correctly Fitted

Mail orders promptly filled

Printer's Ink is a good investment

DO YOU WANT

Letterheads, Noteheads, Billheads, Envelopes,

OR ANYTHING ELSE PRINTED?

Then Call at

THE UNION OFFICE

and See Fine Work at Low Prices.

500 Noteheads 500 Envelopes All For $2.00

Good Work on Good Material, done on Good Machines.
Don't forget! THE UNION, Clanton, Alabama.

Subscribe for this paper.

THE UNION

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Wallace C. Edler, Ed. and Pub.

Subscription price, in advance, per year, $1.

For advertising rates, call at the office, Seventh street, between First and Second avenues.

Entered April 15, 1903, at Clanton, Ala., as second class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications to the Union must be signed by the writer's real name as well as that name which they wish to put in the paper. Letters must reach the editor Tuesday morning to get in the same week. While we will publish any and all communications complying with these requirements that do not contain any improper language, we are not responsible for the opinions expressed. tf.

CLANTON, ALA., February 1, 1906.

Union Clubbing List

THE UNION And Yellow Jacket	$1.00
THE UNION And Southern Ruralist	1.00
THE UNION And Union Educator	1.00
THE UNION And Home and Farm	1.00
THE UNION And Weekly Age-Herald	1.25
THE UNION and Weekly Atlanta Constitution	1.25
THE UNION and Twice-a-Week Globe Democrat	1.50
THE UNION and Tri-W'kly Atlanta Constitution	1.50
THE UNION And Tom Watson's Magazine	1.50
THE UNION and Tri-Weekly N. Y. World	1.50
THE UNION And Rural South	1.50
THE UNION And Weekly Advertiser and Map of Alabama, U. S. and world	1.50

If there are any other papers you want call at THE UNION office, and we will get them for you at the lowest rates. tf.

$10.00 REWARD

Will be paid to the three persons who secure for us the largest number of PAID subscribers between now and April 1st, 1906. No restrictions. Our clubbing prices go in this contest. $5.00 goes to the one with the largest list; $3.00 to the second largest list, and $2.00 to the third largest. Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds has kindly consented to be the judge in this contention, and he will make the awards. The names of the successful contestants will be published, also the names of all who tried for this reward. Now we have a thousand subscribers, help us to get a thousand additional, so as to fittingly celebrate the ending of our third year.

tf THE UNION.

"SHOW US."

There is a large and growing sentiment throughout our country in favor of publicity as to contributions to political campaigns. This is right and should be done. But publicity of the accounts of cities, counties, etc., is an absolute necessity to safeguard the public purse. What would be thought of a private business concern that was working with capital furnished by other men, who had put certain men in charge of their money, to be laid out to the best advantage in such business, if the working representatives would not render an account of their receipts and expenditures, so that those who furnished the money could judge for themselves whether it had been used to the best advantage? Well, the people of the city or county, etc., are the ones that furnish the money to pay the expenses of their government, and it is absolutely right that the people should "be shown" how their money was spent, and let them judge for themselves whether the men that they chose to safeguard the public interests have done their whole duty. The itemizing of an expense account has a wonderful effect in keeping down the figures of the total. Let us have the fullest publicity of the accounts of our city and county. An honest official welcomes the fullest publicity as to his public acts.

A REAL REPUBLICAN.

There is no doubt now but what the U. S. Senate will confirm the appointment of Erastus J. Parsons to be U. S. District Attorney for the Middle District of Alabama. It is very refreshing, in view of some of the appointments that have been made in the past, both for major and minor federal positions in this State, to have a genuine Republican put in a good place. Mr. Parsons is a "sure enough Republican" and comes from a republican family, which, by the way, is a remarkably able one; and he himself, from his record in college and since his graduation, promises to fully sustain the family reputation. Now, let him select good young able republicans to assist him, there are thousands of them in Alabama, that would honor any position.

COUNTY COURT.

An extra session of the county court was held on Tuesday, Judge L. H. Reynolds presiding. Cleve Watson, who was charged with assault and battery, etc., appeared and pleaded guilty. Fines and costs amounted to about $113. The case of Walter Ryan, charged with violating the Revenue Law in that he gave a magic lantern show in a church on the west side of our county, was found guilty and given a fine of $30 as prescribed by the statute. This case was hard fought, Smith & Middleton appearing for Ryan and Solicitor Adams for the State. An appeal to the Circuit Court was entered by Ryan's counsel, and the final decision will be of general interest to schools and churches. The revenue law is strict. W. A. Reynolds, of Jemison, got in a car load of horses and came to Clanton and paid there are parties in our county who have brought in many horses and mules and never taken out a license yet. The law is suposed to apply to all persons, without regard to "political pull."

NOTICE OF SPECIAL ELECTION.

State of Alabama, Chilton County.

Notice is hereby given that the Commissioners' Court of said County have ordered a special election to be held in said county, at the various voting places on the 20th day of February, 1906, to determine whether or not there shall be levied and collected a special tax for the support of the public schools of said county. The rate of said special tax, as fixed by said court, shall be ten cents on each one hundred dollars of taxable property in said county, and shall continue six years.

L. H. REYNOLDS,
Judge of Probate.

1-11-05-4t

THORSBY.

The Norwegian Ladies' Aid Society met with Mrs. Grotby on last Thursday. Mrs. T. T. Thorson, Mrs. J. F. Peterson, and Mrs. Turnquist, visited Mrs. S. A. Thorson in Calera last Friday. Misses Nellie and Selma Malmquist, and Miss Olson, are back from Clanton. Rev. George E. Bates, pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church of Birmingham, delivered two splendid sermons at the college hall on the nights of the 25th and 26th. Mr. and Mrs. Schaefer, of Indiana, are guests at the Sarber home. Miss Mary Gallager spent Saturday and Sunday with her parents in Montgomery. Mr. Paulson has returned from North Dakota. Many Clanton visitors have been noticed in Thorsby during the past week. The sheriff was amongst the number. Rev. Moses of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., is visiting in Thorsby. T. T. Thorson was a Birmingham visitor last week. He has now returned to the north. Messrs. Gerald and Caverno were in Clanton last week. Prof. Felitz's lecture on Spiritualism was well attended on Sunday night. Glover Collins fell from his horse last week and broke his arm. We wish him a speedy recovery. The Messrs. Speer, who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. Anderson, have returned to their homes in North Adams and Hillsdale, Mich. The Sunshine Society met with Miss Clemantine Hawthorne on Tuesday afternoon. The Horticultural Society has had a splendid meeting in Thorsby. There are many members present and the program is very in-Thorsby. There were many members present and the program was very interesting. The reception on Tuesday night was a success and at least 250 persons were in attendance.

NEMO.

PROVIDENCE, BEAT 10.

Editor Union:

Just a few words from this part of the woods in THE NION. Our S. S. is progressing with good attendance. We can be rained out some time, but it has to fall thick and heavy, and then some of us will go. Zero will have to be moved before we can be froze out. I wish I could say all of our older folks attend regular, but truth prevents me; but I tell you, Riley and Jim Robinson come pat. Our B. Y. P. U. is on its feet again and is coming, day or no day. Our Union is doing fine with a membership of about 40. We have about got all the best looking ones in our community, and of course in that number some of us don't look so fancy, but we are glad we escapen the "red corn" at the ballot box, and we are hauling guano. Say, boys of the Farmers' Union, how in the name of sense did we ever do anything without the Union and those hustling business agents and our Union paper? G. W. Thomas' son was out hunting Saturday, and in climbing over a fence his gun went off, the load entering his right arm, making such a wound that the arm had to be amputated. We are all mighty sorry for him. Prof. J. J. Mims is teaching a fine school, and so far has given perfect satisfaction. Success to THE UNION and its many readers.

"GUESS."

UNION NOTICE.

Any community wishing to form a Local Union of the F. E. and C. U. of A. that will write me, I will gladly come and organize them. I am authorized to organize in the counties of Chilton, Bibb and Perry. Yours in the work of Unionism,

G. W. SCOTT.
tf Jemison, Ala.

CALERA.

One more "fine large day" in the month of January. One by one the confederate veterans are passing out, general officers as well as privates. General Joe Wheeler died Friday and was buried in Arlington national cemetery on Monday. The whole nation will feel this loss. Mr. Robert C. Wilson, one of the charter members of Camp Sam H. Gist, U. C. V., at this place, died at his home in Birmingham the same day and was buried in Glenwood cemetery, Birmingham, on Saturday. Thus they go, one by one. Camp Sam H. Gist extends condolence and sympathy to the family of Comrade Wilson in their loss, and feels the vacancy caused by his departure. Messrs. Marcus and Littleton will very soon have their Grist Mill ready for grinding. Work is progressing finely on the depot, and with favorable weather it will soon be ready for the traveling public. We hear that another wedding will occur in our town within the next few days. John Sanders, an old citizen of Calera, was a visitor in town the past week, the guest of his father's family.

VETERAN.

SAYERS-ROBERTS.

A beautiful surprise too place at Cooper on Sunday morning, Jan. 21, at 11 o'clock, when the rite of holy matrimony was celebrated by Mr. A. L. Roberts and Miss L. T. Sayers at Chestnut Creek church, the Rev. Mr. Howell officiating. Miss Sayers was handsomely gowned in white and Mr. Roberts wore the conventional black. The bride is well known as a charming hostess and entertainer, as well as a most splendid young lady of many attainments. The groom is a successful business man of Ashland, Ala. Their many friends predict for them a happy life.

MACEDONIA.

Editor Union:

The farmers in this community are busy preparing for their new crop. Our S. S. is progressing nicely. The F. E. and C. U. of A. is growing fast here. Rev. J. H. Thomas filled his regular appointment here Sunday. Our literary school is doing well under the skillful management of Miss Dulcy Champion. B. L. Bearden is still going down the road, and the wedding bells are ringing all around us. Ovin Bearden is visiting friends and relatives in Shelby county this week. Love is a pretty thing, Love is a blossom; If you want your finger bit, Stick it to a 'possum.

"BIRD."

IN MEMORIAM.

Miss Susan Daniels passed away on January 5, 1906, aged 68 years. She was a devoted member of the Baptist church for 53 years, having been baptized by Rev. Newman at Cross Keys Ala. The writer has known her many years, even "before the war." She leaves a brother and sister and three nephews to mourn her loss. As a devoted Christian, her record was pure as gold. Miss Susan was born at Tuskegee, Macon county, Ala., in 1833. Though never married, she raised many children, as after the death of her mother she became the head of the family and brought up E. M. Daniel, her brother, and when he lost his wife Miss Susan tok charge of the three motherless boys, the youngest of whom is now 18 years old. May God bless the mourning relatives is the prayer of the writer.

(Rev.) JOB REYNOLDS.

CEDAR GROVE.

Rev. T. J. Ledbetter, our new pastor for this conference year, filled the pulpit here Sunday. G. D. Collins (the saw mill man) happened to a bad accident on the 23d by being thrown from his horse. His arm was broken, but his many friends hope he'll pull through all right. Prof. R. L. Hicks' school at the U. N. I. building is progressing nicely. We welcome Anderson Marcus in our community. He has moved to Mrs. F. R. Collins' place. W. A. Riggins has moved to Birmingham, where he intends staying for some time. His father, J. W. Riggins, made a trip there one day last week to visit "Arnold." Marion Hays, who has been at work in Birmingham for some time, is here visiting relatives and friends, but he keeps a steady eye on Lomax. Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Scott went to Clanton Friday. H. O. Bean and family spent Sunday with J. W. Hays' family. Mr. and Mrs. Alf Childress had so many visitors Sunday that we just won't try to name them. J. M. Pool has rented out most of his farm, and intends devoting his time to his shop, where he does good work. By the way, our union here is one of the best in the county, 30 members enrolled, and we are doing business in a business like way. Success to THE UNION and its readers.

"UNION READER."

The impression prevails that 1906 will be characterized by a keen search for water powers on the part of railroads that desire the electrification of their lines. The water powers of the country were neglected in the steam age, but the need of cheap electrical power by the railroads will soon set things even, continues the Birmingham (Ala.) Age-Herald. The electrification of railroad lines is already well begun, and the year just ahead will be one of electrical expansion.

DO WE REQUIRE TEETH?

A Theory of a Dentist That Appears Novel in the Extreme.

In a highly diverting discussion that followed the reading of a paper (published in full in a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association) on "To What Extent Are Teeth Necessary to Civilized Men?" Dr. Eugene L. Talbot made the startling assertion that dentistry, owing to uncleanliness in the insertion of bridges, etc., has as much to do with disease as any other one thing. He claims that the collection of germs about an ill-fitting crown is more detrimental to man than no teeth. For years Dr. Talbot has believed that man can get along without teeth. Men have lived to ninety to 100 years of age and have been without teeth for fifty or sixty years.

One assertion of the doctor is well calculated to arouse the apprehension of the reader. "Methods of preparing food to-day," says he, "do not require mastication and the jaws show in the evolution of man a shortening up, decay and loss of the teeth due to disease, and as evolution advances it will be seen that man can get along without teeth. Loss of the teeth due to interstitial gingivitis is a marked illustration of the fact that the teeth are passing."

"In regard to bacteria in the mouth," Dr. Talbot concluded, "there is no question that modern dentistry is doing more to injure the teeth and the alimentary canal than any one thing. The filthy condition of the mouth under bridges and crowns is certainly not conducive to health."

Dr. G. V. I. Brown said that the animal economy gets along better with a good, full complement of teeth than it does without them. He declared that the mere fact that the chemist has prepared artificial food that can be digested without mastication is no argument against the use of teeth for masticating purposes. "They have been obliged to do this to help out the people without teeth or the people who are too lazy to use their teeth." Dr. Brown expressed his opposition to the idea that we can get along without teeth. "We can do it, but only with the greatest of care in the preparation of food."

Dr. M. I. Schamberg supported Dr. Talbot in the view that the time may come when the people will be able to get along without teeth.

With a Motive.

Swiss guides have a way of flattering travelers, a beguiling habit much appreciated until one learns the motive of it. Mrs. E. T. Cook says, in her book of travels, called "From a Holiday Journal," that Simond, her guide, expressed great admiration for her powers of walking.

"Madame climbs like a chamois," said he.

She was delighted, until she remembered that this might be the custom of the profession. Like the children in Heine's ballad, guides had probably

Made the very same speeches
To many an old cat since.

One day Mrs. Cook and her husband started on another expedition, this time accompanied by two guides, Simond and Bertrand. The latter, a tall, silent young fellow, also pretended to be lost in amazement at madame's walking.

"Monsieur and madame ought certainly to ascend Mont Blanc," said Simond. "Madame would do it capitally."

"She would, indeed," said Bertrand. "Madame would be very proud of ascending Mont Blanc," continued Simond. "Would she not, Bertrand?"

Bertrand spoke gravely: "Two good guides can safely take any one—any old gentleman or lady—up Mont Blanc."

This was not so flattering, but Simond continued:

"It is a mere nothing of an expedition. It may affect madame unpleasantly at first: she may be a little sick with mountain sickness, that is all. She may turn a little black in the face. But we will get her to the top."

"Yes," Bertrand concluded, pensively. "two good guides could do it."—Youth's Companion.

The Dean's Accent.

There are no difficulties of language to a man as tactful as a certain Lord Mayor of London, of whom St. James' Budget tells.

The eminent Dean Pigou was once invited to conduct a service in French at the Chapel of the Hospital for Huguenots, South Hackney.

Previous to the day the dean wrote out in English a sermon on the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes. Then with the aid of Mrs. Pigou, a sound French scholar, he translated the whole into French, and preached on the day in that language.

Among the distinguished persons present was the Lord Mayor, who hastened ot thank the dean at the close of service, adding:

"Though, sir, I do not know one word of French, I understood you perfectly."

The Rural Telephone.

The country telephone is the greatest gossip stimulator and patent eavesdropper of the age. A youth may "call up" his "best girl" and find his conversation printed in the local paper next week. This is from a Missouri exchange: "They do say that John Piper would rather talk over the 'phone than eat. They say that he has worn the ringer off the 'phone and is thinking of getting just a plain gold ring. They also say that, while talk is cheap, it will soon take cash to buy groceries, and that, while one or two chairs may suffice now, he will soon be furnishing a house complete. Now, Johnnie, if you are going to need cards for the affair, we would 'be tickled to death' to print them. We don't mean telephone cards, either, Johnnie."—Kansas City Star.

J. E. Littlejoh

Clanton, Alabama.

General Merchandise, Corn, Hay, etc.

SHOES

The most for the money in town. Come and and we will do you good. :-: :-: :-: :-:

Pure Water Prevents Fevers.

DRILLED WELLS FURNISH PURE WA

We guarantee water or no charge made. Estimates given. Address

I. E. SARBER CO.

Thorsby, Al

UNPLEASANT ODORS.

Unpleasant odors in sick rooms can be entirely removed by burning a newspaper in the room. Twist the newspaper so that it can be carried around the room. Light and allow to burn moving it about the room. It does away with all odors.

CLOSING A LEAK.

A leak in a water or gas pipe may be temporarily stopped with a paste made of soap and whiting. This, of course, should not prevent one's sending immediately for the plumber, but it will make the waiting for him much less trying than it usually is.

SWEETENING THE FRIUT.

Some fruit never seems to get sweet when cooked with sugar. The trouble is that ordinary cane sugar, when heated with certain fruit acids, is converted into grape sugar. This sugar has only one-third the sweetening power of cane sugar, and so a good deal is required. This can be overcome by putting in a little baking powder with the sugar, and this will so neutralize the acids of the fruit as to prevent the conversion of cane sugar into grape sugar.

SLEEP OF THE INFANT.

A young infant ought to spend the greater part of its time asleep. In fact, the two great duties of its life are feeding and sleeping, and the second ought to occupy much more time than the first. Never allow a baby to be aroused from its sleep, even to see the most important of visitors. Remember that it is often politeness and not affection which makes people ask to see the baby, and do not let the little one be roused from its slumber. When it has rested long enough it will wake naturally, but to be suddenly roused often causes a considerable shock to its nerves and injury to its health.

MAKING A COZY CORNER.

A cozy corner is easily built. Make a seat of plain wood about twenty-two inches wide and not more than twelve inches from the ground. It can stand on fairly substantial legs, which need not be turned or beautiful. Fit the seat into its corner, make a cushion for the top, filling in with hay, excelsior or feathers, and cover with some pretty cretonne, or art fabric. Next make a valence which will extend from the seat and just clear the ground. Sew this around the cushion with a gimp heading. Next make a drapery about four feet long; place a heading at the top with a double row of stitching, and between the stitching slip a bamboo pole which can be fixed into two cup hooks on the wall about three and a half feet above the seat. Thus an exceedingly pretty corner seat is created at a very small cost.

RECIPES.

Chicken Terrapin—Cut into dice sufficient cold cooked chicken to measure one and one-half cupfuls. In a saucepan brown one heaping tablespoonful of butter; add one heaping tablespoonful of flour and brown again. Add one cupful of thin cream and stir until smooth and thick; add one-quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, a dash of cayenne, the prepared chicken and two hard boiled eggs, coarsely chopped. Simmer for 10 minutes.

Scalloped Onions—Peel one dozen white onions of moderate size and boil in water until tender, changing the water two or three times, according to the delicacy of flavor desired. Prepare one cupful of white sauce, using one tablespoonful of butter, one heaping tablespoonful of flour, one-half of a teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of white pepper and one cupful of milk. Drain the onions, turn them into a buttered baking-dish, pour over them the white sauce and cover the one-third of a cupful of fine bread crumbs mixed with spoonful of melted butter and of salt. Bake in a hot oven the crumbs are browned.

Osborne Pudding—Four freshly-grated bread-crumbs finely chopped suet, a flour, two ounces of halved or dried cherries, one gelica (if handy) and caster sugar, with a salt. Mix all these ingredients two whole eggs, pour the to a well-buttered mould for three hours. Turn with sauce. (This pudlent after a dinner of remains of crystallized be used for it, and the variety the nicer the pudding.

Angel Pudding—Mix two each of fresh butter and a pint of cream or lift it off the fire, and, when nearly cold, pour it slowly ounces of dried and sifted ing it all well together as it, to get the mixture smooth, and then stir into grated rind of half a lemon yolks of two eggs beaten and lastly, the white of one ped to the stiffest possible pour the mixture into 12 (only half filling each), and a sharp oven for 20 minutes. little puddings become of a golden brown. Turn out and serve at once, or they will

Southern Hospitality.

Some years ago one kuk county, Iowa, made a through the adjacent Southern On his return he recounted friends his impressions of his "Now, for instance," said went to a farmer to ask him to the nearest town. It was 11:30 a. m., and I wanted to but these here Southern fellers hospitable that he would not He says, 'Light, stranger, an to dinner.' So I 'lit.'

"They had a great big dish of potatoes in the middle of the The host pushed the dish towar an' says, 'Have some, strange took a spoonful an' pushed 'em He pushed 'em over again an' 'Have some more, stranger.' another spoonful an' pushed em He says, 'Take a whole lot, str So I took another spoonful an' 'em back. Then he pushed em again an' says, 'Take mighty n of 'em, stranger.'"—Harpers W

In the Good Old Days.

Mr. Holyoke, a British writ members a time when "only fou in Birmingham had the cour wear beards," and only militar cers were allowed to wear tache. In the good old days one in a yard had to serve workin families.

In Argentina beef is so che cattle are chiefly valued for hides. A beef trust appears wanted in that favored c thinks the Philadelphia Record

The year 1905, thinks a re weekly, may go down in hist the year of the awakened cons It is to be hoped, remarks the S field Republican, that 1906 w go down as the year of con gone to sleep again.

A clergyman remarks th "square deal" is a twentieth c flower with a first century r might have bloomed sooner, serves the Philadelphia North can, had it not been for expe in grafting.

A Kansas City burglar is o in a dress suit. But this is n startling than the disclosures lot of burglars have been ma ter dinner speeches in dress s serves the Commoner.

Subscribe for this pap

TOWN AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

Circuit Court.

...Term—Third Monday in ...
...Term—Fourth Monday in ...
...—S. L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
...ttor—W. B. Bowling, Daderville.
...rk—Sam W. Collins.

Chancery Court.

...ring Term—Second Monday in ...
...n.
...ll Term—Second Monday in Sep...
...er.
...ancellor—Hon. W. W. Whitesides
...egister—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan...

County Court.

...rst Monday in each month.

Commissioners' Court.

...cond Monday February, first Mon...
... April, first Monday June, second...
...day July, second Monday August...
... Monday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

...dge of Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
...reasurer—W. T. Callen.
...heriff—J. M. Morgan.
...olicitor—W. M. Adams.
...ax Assessor—L. B. Pounds.
...ax Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.

...rst District—W. H. Conway.
...cond District—Alex Glasscock.
...hird District—R. P. Kendrick.
...ourth District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.

...rof. J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor.

... P. R. Dabl, Calera.

State Senator.

...on. W. R. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.

...astors and clerks are cordially as... to send the editor any news regar... their churches which they wou... h published. Also if there are an... ors in these notices please send on... tions.

MISSIONARY BAPTISTS.

...eth-Salem—Rev. J. E. Moore, 3r...
...nday. E. B. Popwell, clerk, Billing... R. F. D. No. 1.

...Clanton—Rev. A. C. Swindall, 1... 3rd Sundays. W. I. Mullins, cler...

...Chestnut Creek—Rev. T. J. Deaso... Sunday. H. A. Harris, clerk.

...Liberty Hill—Rev. S. Smitherma... Sunday. W. M. Wood, clerk.

...Macedonia—Rev. G. W. Freema... Sunday. H. H. Armstrong, clerk

...New Salem—Rev. S. Smitherma... Sunday. W. M. Pierce, clerk.

...Poplar Springs—Rev. A. L. Foshe... Sunday. J. J. McDowell, clerk.

...Union Point—Rev. A. L. Foshee, P... nday. J. N. Miner, clerk, Clanto...

...Collins Chapel—Rev. J. H. Thom... Sunday. J. W. Littleton, clerk

...Union Grove—Rev. J. H. Thom... Sunday. R. S. Chandler, clerk

...Pleasant Grove—Rev. J. H. Thom... Sunday. T. J. Headley, clerk.

...Mars Hill—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 1... nday. G. W. Gothard, clerk.

...Rocky Mount M. E. Church—Re... r. Carroll, pastor, 2nd Sunday. Se... rvice every 2nd and 4th Sunday ... rnoons. Prayer meeting every We... sday night.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

Masonic.

...Clanton R. A. Chapter, No. 116... hird Saturday, Clanton.

...Amanda Lodge, A. F. and A. M., ... 50—Fourth Saturday, Cooper.

...Clanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., ... 23—First Saturday, Clanton.

...Century Lodge, A. F. and A. M., ... 67—First Saturday, Billingsley.

...Bozeman Lodge, A. F. and A. ...lo. 534—Saturday on or before ... hoon, Marbury.

...Jemison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., ... 11—Saturday on or before full mo... emison.

...Stanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., ... 73—Tuesday on or before full mo... tanton.

I. O. O. F.

...Jemison Lodge—First and third ... rdays.

...Clanton Lodge, No. 304—Second ... ourth Saturdays.

Woodmen of the World.

...Black Jack Camp, No. 190—First ... ird Mondays.

I. O. R. M.

...Geronermo Tribe, No. 90—First ... hird Mondays sleep. Visiting ch... rdially invited. E. B. Langston, ... R.; J. H. Patton, Sachem.

L. M. P. A.

...Eureka Lodge, of Thorsby—Sec... nd fourth Saturdays.

ittlejoh
, Alabama.
dise, Corn, Hay, etc.
OES
y in town. Come and s
:-: :-: :-: :-:

Prevents Fevers.
URNISH PURE WAT
r or no charge made.
ddress
ARBER CO.
Alab

white sauce and cover them one-third of a cupful of fine bread crumbs mixed with one spoonful of melted butter and a of salt. Bake in a quick oven the crumbs are browned.

Osborne Pudding—Four ounces freshly-grated bread-crumbs and finely chopped suet, a full ounce flour, two ounces of halved sul ounces of dried and sifted flour, ing it all well together as you it, to get the mixture per smooth, and then stir into it the grated rind of half a lemon, yolks of two eggs beaten till and lastly, the white of one egg ped to the stiffest possible pour the mixture into 12 small (only half filling each), and ba a sharp oven for 20 minutes, till little puddings become of a de golden brown. Turn out care and serve at once, or they will

Southern Hospitality.

Some years ago one B——, of Cook county, Iowa, made a wagon through the adjacent Southern
On his return he recounted friends his impressions of his jou
"Now, for instance," said h went to a farmer to ask him the
to the nearest town. It was 11.30 a. m., and I wanted to pus but these here Southern fellers hospitable that he would not le
He says, 'Light, stranger, an'
to dinner.' So I 'lit.'
They had a great big dish of potatoes in the middle of the t
The host pushed the dish toward an' says, 'Have some, stranger took a spoonful an' pushed 'em
He pushed 'em over again an'
'Have some more, stranger.' I another spoonful an' pushed 'em
He says, 'Take a whole lot, stra
So I took another spoonful an' pu 'em back. Then he pushed 'em again an' says, 'Take mighty ne of 'em, stranger.'"—Harpers We

In the Good Old Days.

Mr. Holyoke, a British write members a time when "only four in Birmingham had the "cour wear 'beards," and only military cers were allowed to wear a tache. In the good old days one in a yard had to serve working families.

In Argentina beef is so cheap cattle are chiefly valued for hides. A beef trust appears wanted in that favored co thinks the Philadelphia Record.

The year 1905, thinks a re weekly, may go down in hi
the year of the awakened con
It is to be hoped, remarks the field Republican, that 1906 wi go down as the year of con gone to sleep again.

A clergyman remarks that "square deal" is a twentieth c flower with a first century ro might have bloomed sooner, serves the Philadelphia North can, had it not been for expe in grafting.

A Kansas City burglar is op in a dress suit. But this is not startling than the disclosures lot of burglars have been ma ter dinner speeches in dress serves the Commoner.

r this pap

COUNTY AND COUNTY OFFICIALS
Circuit Court.
Spring Term—Third Monday in Fall Term—Fourth Monday in De
Judge—S. L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
Solicitor—W. B. Bowling, Dadeville
Clerk—Sam W. Collins.

Chancery Court.
Spring Term—Second Monday in March.
Fall Term—Second Monday in Sep tember.
Chancellor—Hon. W. W. Whitesides.
Register—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan

County Court.
First Monday in each month.

Commissioners' Court.
Second Monday February, first Mon day April, first Monday June, second Monday July, second Monday August, first Monday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.
Judge of Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
Treasurer—W. T. Callen.
Sheriff—J. M. Morgan.
Solicitor—W. M. Adams.
Tax Assessor—L. B. Pounds.
Tax Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.
First District—W. H. Conway.
Second District—Alex Glasscock.
Third District—R. P. Kendrick.
Fourth District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.
Prof. J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyer.
A. P. R. Dahl, Calera.

State Senator.
Hon. W. R. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.
Pastors and clerks are cordially asked to send the editor any news regarding their churches which they would like published. Also if there are any errors in these notices please send corrections.

MISSIONARY BAPTISTS.
Beth-Salem—Rev. J. E. Moore, 3rd Sunday. E. B. Popwell, clerk, Billingsley R. F. D. No. 1.

Clanton—Rev. A. C. Swindall, 1st and 3rd Sundays. W. I. Mullins, clerk.

Chestnut Creek—Rev. T. J. Deason, 3rd Sunday. H. A. Harris, clerk.

Liberty Hill—Rev. S. Smitherman, 3rd Sunday. W. M. Wood, clerk.

Macedonia—Rev. G. W. Freeman, 2nd Sunday. H. H. Armstrong, clerk.

New Salem—Rev. S. Smitherman, 2nd Sunday. W. M. Pierce, clerk.

Poplar Springs—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 5th Sunday. J. J. McDowell, clerk.

Union Point—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 3rd Sunday. J. N. Miner, clerk, Clanton.

Collins Chapel—Rev. J. H. Thomas 2nd Sunday. J. W. Littleton, clerk.

Union Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 2nd Sunday. R. S. Chandler, clerk.

Pleasant Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 4th Sunday. T. J. Headley, clerk.

Mars Hill—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 1st Sunday. G. W. Gothard, clerk.

Rocky Mount M. E. Church—Rev. Mr. Carroll, pastor, 2nd Sunday. Song service every 2nd and 4th Sunday afternoons. Prayer meeting every Wednesday night.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.
Masonic.
Clanton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—Third Saturday, Clanton.

Amanda Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 246—Fourth Saturday, Cooper.

Clanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 423—First Saturday, Clanton.

Century Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 647—First Saturday, Billingsley.

Bozeman Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 534—Saturday on or before full moon, Marbury.

Jemison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 411—Saturday on or before full moon, Jemison.

Stanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 473—Tuesday on or before full moon, Stanton.

I. O. O. F.
Jemison Lodge—First and third Saturdays.

Clanton Lodge, No. 304—Second and fourth Saturdays.

Woodmen of the World.
Black Jack Camp, No. 190—First and third Mondays.

I. O. R. M.
Geronermo Tribe, No. 90—First and third Mondays sleep. Visiting chiefs cordially invited. E. B. Langston, C. of R.; J. H. Patton, Sachem.

L. M. P. A.
Eureka Lodge, of Thorsby—Second and fourth Saturdays.

CLOSING A LEAK.

A leak in a water or gas pipe may be temporarily stopped with a paste made of soap and whiting. This, of course, should not prevent one's sending immediately for the plumber, but it will make the waiting for him much less trying than it usually is.

UNPLEASANT ODORS.

Unpleasant odors in sick rooms can be entirely removed by burning a newspaper in the room. Twist the newspaper so that it can be carried around the room. Light and allow to burn moving it about the room. It does away with all odors.

SWEETENING THE FRIUT.

Some fruit never seems to get sweet when cooked with sugar. The trouble is that ordinary cane sugar, when heated with certain fruit acids, is converted into grape sugar. This sugar has only one-third the sweetening power of cane sugar, and so a good deal is required. This can be overcome by putting in a little baking powder with the sugar, and this will so neutralize the acids of the fruit as to prevent the conversion of cane sugar into grape sugar.

SLEEP OF THE INFANT.

A young infant ought to spend the greater part of its time asleep. In fact, the two great duties of its life are feeding and sleeping, and the second ought to occupy much more time than the first. Never allow a baby to be aroused from its sleep, even to see the most important of visitors. Remember that it is often politeness and not affection which makes people ask to see the baby, and do not let the little one be roused from its slumber. When it has rested long enough it will wake naturally, but to be suddenly roused often causes a considerable shock to its nerves and injury to its health.

MAKING A COZY CORNER.

A cozy corner is easily built. Make a seat of plain wood about twenty-two inches wide and not more than twelve inches from the ground. It can stand on fairly substantial legs, which need not be turned or beautiful. Fit the seat into its corner, make a cushion for the top, filling in with hay, excelsior or feathers, and cover with some pretty cretonne, or art fabric. Next make a valence which will extend from the seat and just clear the ground. Sew this around the cushion with a gimp heading. Next make a drapery about four feet long; place a heading at the top with a double row of stitching, and between the stitching slip a bamboo pole which can be fixed into two cup hooks on the wall about three and a half feet above the seat. Thus an exceedingly pretty corner seat is created at a very small cost.

RECIPES.

Chicken Terrapin—Cut into dice sufficient cold cooked chicken to measure one and one-half cupfuls. In a saucepan brown one heaping tablespoonful of butter; add one heaping tablespoonful of flour and brown again. Add one cupful of thin cream and stir until smooth and thick; add one-quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, a dash of cayenne, the prepared chicken and two hard boiled eggs, coarsely chopped. Simmer for 10 minutes.

Scalloped Onions—Peel one dozen white onions of moderate size and boil in water until tender, changing the water two or three times, according to the delicacy of flavor desired. Prepare one cupful of white sauce, using one tablespoonful of butter, one heaping tablespoonful of flour, one-half of a teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of white pepper and one cupful of milk. Drain the onions, turn them into a buttered baking-dish, pour over them the white sauce and cover them with one-third of a cupful of fine dried bread crumbs mixed with one teaspoonful of melted butter and a dash of salt. Bake in a hot oven until the crumbs are browned.

Osborne Pudding—Four ounces of freshly-grated bread-crumbs and very finely chopped suet, a full ounce of flour, two ounces of halved sultanas or dried cherries, one ounce of angelica (if handy) and one ounce of caster sugar, with a tiny pinch of salt. Mix all these ingredients with two whole eggs, pour the mixture into a well-buttered mould and boil for three hours. Turn out and serve with sauce. (This pudding is excellent after a dinner party, as all sorts of remains of crystallized fruits can be used for it, and the greater the variety the nicer the pudding.)

Angel Pudding—Melt two ounces each of fresh butter and sugar in half a pint of cream or new milk, then lift it off the fire, and, when it is nearly cold, pour it slowly on to two ounces of dried and sifted flour, working it all well together as you pour it, to get the mixture perfectly smooth, and then stir into it the finely grated rind of half a lemon, the yolks of two eggs beaten till light, and lastly, the white of one egg whipped to the stiffest possible froth; pour the mixture into 12 small cups (only half filling each), and bake in a sharp oven for 20 minutes, till the little puddings become of a delicate golden brown. Turn out carefully and serve at once, or they will fall.

The Principality of Montenegro is the only country in Europe which possesses no railways whatsoever.

CLANTON COTTON MARKET.
Total receipts to Jan. 31, '06, 6,045.
Price same date, 10 7-8c.
Receipts same time, 1905, 6,125.
Price same date, 7c.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

J. D. Wyatt and family spent four days last week visiting relatives in Concord church neighborhood, among whom was J. A. Cleckler. The general cry is, come again, Bro. Wyatt.

As a result of the January examination for teachers, the following are reported as having passed: James T. Williams, Ed W. Miller, Howard L. Foshee, Rufus A. Smith, Mack C. Crumpton, Willie F. Webb, St. Clair Thornton, John H. Anderson and Miss Ada Rasco. The successful colored applicants were: Isaac A. Crawford, D. O. C. King and Annie C. Allison.

J. H. Edwards was in Clanton Thursday.

In proof of the fact that our people know a good thing when they see it, we cite the Studebaker wagon, which is sold by the "old reliable merchant," W. I. Mullins. Last week he received the third car load for this season. Don't be led astray by new brands which some merchants keep because there is a larger margin of profit in them.

J. W. Collins and son, Melvin, were in town Friday.

Joe Littleton and family, of Louisiana, have been visiting Collins Chapel folks, but have returned home, leaving "Young Joe" and his family in Chilton. One of the latter's twin boys, 5 weeks old, died the day after they got to Chilton. Everybody sympathizes with the bereaved parents.

Geo. Gore and Madison Bean were in Clanton Friday.

F. E. Hanibal and J. A. Ekblad were in town Friday on business.

R. E. L. Wald was in Clanton Saturday.

J. A., A. J. and W. J. Davis, of Jemison, were pleasant visitors Saturday.

J. R. Cost was a welcome caller Saturday.

Prof. L. D. Riggins was in Clanton Saturday.

Clerk H. I. Honeycutt was in Montgomery Friday, having his eyes treated.

H. O. Bean was in Clanton Saturday.

J. J. Maddox was in town Saturday.

Rev. Job Reynolds, of Dry Valley, and his son, W. A. Reynolds, the merchant of Jemison, spent Sunday here with Judge Reynolds.

J. C. Eiland was a pleasant visitor Monday.

J. A. Neely was in Clanton Sunday.

Rudolph Brandt, a prominent fruit and truck grower of Thorsby, was a welcome caller Monday.

W. O. Rich was a pleasant visitor Monday. He says he is having good success organizing Farmers' Unions, having instituted one last week in Elmore county with 18 members.

T. J. Hubbard and son, Monroe, were in town Monday on tax business.

R. M. Roebuck was in Clanton Tuesday.

R. F. D. No. 4, of Jemison, will soon be in working order, having been approved by the Inspector.

Judge L. H. Reynolds went to Jemison Monday on business.

"They say" that two lovers in beat 2 have eloped.

The Bynum Contracting Co., of which F. M. Dobson, our court house and jail contractor, is a member, has got the contract to repair the jail in Montgomery at a cost of $63,480. If they do as good for Montgomery as they are giving Chilton everybody will be satisfied.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

J. A. Hays and Miss Dora Milford. J. M. Rushing and Miss Dorothy Rushing. J. L. Lenois and Miss Ludie Malone.

COLORED.

F. D. Turrentine and Bessie Woodward.

FOR SALE!

Fine lot of barred Plymouth Rock cockerels and pullets, 75c and $1.00 each Brown Leghorn cockerels, $1.00 each. Brown Leghorn eggs, $1.00 per setting. All full blood. P. C. SMITH,
tf. Thorsby, Ala.

BUSINESS PROPOSITION

The best whiskey in the country is here. If you don't believe it, try me.
J. M. COLLINS,
Palace Saloon, Calera, Ala.
tf.

NOTICE.

Cooper, Ala., Dec. 30, 1905.

The books and accounts of A. G. Clark & Son are in my hands for collection. All parties interested will please come at once and settle and save time and trouble.

J. J. M'DOWELL,
tf Justice Peace, Beat 10.

One result of the increase of literary production in our time is that there is more misinformation current among intelligent people than ever before.

MULES AND MARES.

I will have 10 good mules for sale at my store on January 20th. On January 29th a car load of fine brood mares, between 4 and 6 years old, and weighing from 800 to 1,000 pounds each, will be offered. Call early and take your choice.

W. A. REYNOLDS,
tf Jemison, Ala.

MULES FOR SALE.

Here I am, all right, with a pair of good mules that will weigh about 600 pounds each; age, 8 years. They are straight and all right. Why don't you buy from me or some other good Republican who will treat you right? My price is $185.00 for the pair. Come and look at them before you buy.

W. L. McDOWELL,
One Mile South of Clanton.
tf R. F. D. No. 2.

NOTICE.

I hereby appoint the 4th Saturday in each month as my regular day for hearing civil causes at my residence in beat 3. Chilton Co. Deeds, mortgages and papers of all kinds carefully and legibly made out.

J. A. CADDELL,
Notary Public & Ex-off. J. P.
tf

FOR SALE!

One Poland China Boar, littered July 15, 1904, weight about 350 lbs. Price $20.00.

WANTED—Some one to get out stumps. Will let the contract by the stump or job. Come and figure on it, if you have a stump puller nine-tenths of them could be pulled with ease.

WANTED—A farm hand for the year 1906.

WALTED—Fresh milch cows, the same not to give less than 3 gallons of milk per day. M. J. Barrett,
tf. Thorsby, Ala.

FOR SALE OR RENT!

Land for sale, or to rent. One, two, three and four horse farms; two miles north of Jemison. Call on or address,
J. C. DUBOSE,
tf. Jemison, Ala.

NOTICE.

Blank Deeds, Mortgages, and all official forms for Justices of the Peace, etc., for sale at The Union Office. Only best approved forms are used. Come in and give us your order tf.

COTTON SEED

I am now ready to buy cotton seed at my new office just east of Johnson's Drug Store. Also cotton seed meal and hulls and feed stuffs for sale. Come and see me and I will do you good.
FRANK GOODGAME
tf Clanton, Ala.

SPECIAL OFFER! !

The Union, Weekly Montgomery Advertiser, and a great white and black map of Alabama, United States and world, three in one, with a picture of every president from Washington to Roosevelt, all for $1.50.

A NEW DISCOVERY.

A great improvement, the Dixie Liver Regulator, does not gripe nor sicken, and cures Constipation, Heartburn, Vertigo, Dyspepsia, Kidney troubles and Lazy Liver. For sale by all Dealers and by Shelby Drug Co., Calera, Ala. tf

WANTED!

A good farm hand—will give $18.00 per month, and furnish a house. Call on or address,
JOHN L. WINSLOW,
Thorsby, Ala.

FOR SALE!

Full bred Holstein Milch Cow (6 years old), will come in fresh in November. Her milk record is 3 1-2 to 4 gallons per day. Address,
W. L. McDowell,
tf. Clanton, Route 2.

Store Your Cotton
WITH
MULLINS & DOWNS
Planters Warehouse
Clanton, - Alabama.
Robidoux Scales. Best in the World.

Wouldn't You Like
BETTER WHISKIES FOR LESS MONEY?
than the kind youvl been getting? Then send your orders to us
THE BIG MAIL ORDER HOUSE
The house that sells nothing but the purest goods and guarantees every article it sells. If it's drugs or whiskies you want
WE CUT THE PRICE.

	Our Price.	Regular Price
Shehan's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50	75
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	80	1 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65	1 00
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75	1 00
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75	1 00
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	1 25
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00	1 50
Stewart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	2 00
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84	1 50
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1 50
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1 50
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1 50
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00	1 50
Wilson Whiskey	85	1 50
J. M. Atherton bottled in bond	1 00	1 50
Mammoth Cave bottled in bond	1 25	1 75
Old Jordon bottled in bond	1 50	2 00
Green River, the whiskey without a headache	1 00	1 25
Old Shades Mountain Corn	50	75
Old Mountain Due Corn	75	1 00
Old Lincoln County	65	1 00
Old Holland Gin	50	75
Old Crown Gin	75	1 00
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	75
California Sherry or Port	50	75

Mellow Old Liquors and Wines by the Gallon in Jugs.

	Per Gallon		Per Gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.00
Old Mountain Due	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.50
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.00
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club	3.40
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County	2.50
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.00
Old California Port or Sherry	1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.00

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY,
The Big Cut Rate Drug Store
2012 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Come and Be Pleased.

PRICES AND TERMS upon which we are selling the most beautiful and attractive goods of the season will certainly please and surprise you.

The styles on which fashion has stamped her approval for the coming season are now shown with newest materials.

A Full line of Star Brand Shoes.
Men's and boys' Clothing.
Full line of Gents' Furnishing Goods.
Ladies' and children's Jackets, Skirts and Ready-to-Wear Hats.
Anything you want in Dress Goods, Hardware, Saddlery and Florence Wagons.

J. C. JONES,
Clanton, Alabama.

Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St. THE BIG STORE, Cor. 1st Ave and 7th St.
—Is at The Head of The Procession.—
Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Shoes,
FURNITURE,
COFFINS AND BURIAL NECESSITIES.
W. I. MULLINS,
Clanton. Alabama.

Tumors Conquered Without Operations

Unqualified Success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in Cases of Mrs. Fox and Miss Adams.

One of the greatest triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the conquering of woman's dread enemy, Tumor.

So-called "wandering pains" may come from its early stages, or the presence of danger may be made manifest by excessive monthly periods accompanied by unusual pain extending from the abdomen through the groin and thighs.

If you have mysterious pains, if there are indications of inflammation, ulceration or displacement, don't wait for time to confirm your fears and go through the horrors of a hospital operation; secure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once and begin its use and write Mrs. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., for advice.

Read these strong letters from grateful women who have been cured:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— (First Letter.)

"In looking over your book I see that your medicine cures Tumors. I have been to a doctor and he tells me I have a tumor. I will be more than grateful if you can help me, as I do so dread an operation."—Fannie D. Fox, Bradford, Pa.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— (Second Letter.)

"I take the liberty to congratulate you on the success I have had with your wonderful medicine.

"Eighteen months ago my periods stopped. Shortly after I felt so badly I submitted to a thorough examination by a physician, and was told that I had a tumor and would have to undergo an operation.

"I soon after read one of your advertisements and decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. After taking five bottles as directed, the tumor is entirely gone. I have again been examined by the physician and he says I have no signs of a tumor now. It has also brought my periods around once more; and I am entirely well. I shall never be without a bottle of Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the house."—Fannie D. Fox, Bradford, Pa.

Another Case of Tumor Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"About three years ago I had intense pain in my stomach, with cramps and raging headaches. The doctor prescribed for me, but finding that I did not get any better he examined me and, to my surprise, declared I had a tumor.

"I felt sure that it meant my death warrant, and was very disheartened. I spent hundreds of dollars in doctoring, but the tumor kept growing, till the doctor said that nothing but an operation would save me. Fortunately I corresponded with my aunt in one of the New England States, who advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before submitting to an operation, and I at once started taking a regular treatment, finding to my great relief that my general health began to improve, and after three months I noticed that the tumor had reduced in size. I kept on taking the Compound, and in ten months it had entirely disappeared without an operation, and using no medicine but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and words fail to express how grateful I am for the good it has done me."—Miss Luella Adams, Colonnade Hotel, Seattle, Wash.

Such unquestionable testimony proves the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and should give confidence and hope to every sick woman.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all ailing women to write to her at Lynn, Mass., for advice.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; a Woman's Remedy for Women's Ills.

PRICE, 25 Cts

TO CURE THE GRIP IN ONE DAY
ANTI-GRIPINE
HAS NO EQUAL FOR HEADACHE
AS IT CURES COUGHS & COLDS

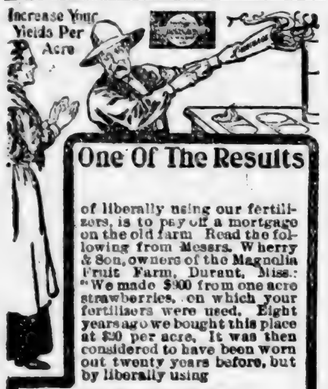
ANTI-GRIPINE

IS GUARANTEED TO CURE
GRIP, BAD COLD, HEADACHE AND NEURALGIA.
I won't sell Anti-Gripine to a dealer who won't Guarantee It.
Call for your MONEY BACK IF IT DOESN'T CURE.
F. W. Diemer, M.D., Manufacturer, Springfield, Mo.

Avery & Company

SUCCESSORS TO
AVERY & McMILLAN,
61-63 South Forsyth St., Atlanta, Ga.
—ALL KINDS OF—
MACHINERY
Reliable Frick Engines, Boilers, all Sizes. Wheat Separators.

BEST IMPROVED SAW MILL ON EARTH.
Large Engines and Boilers supplied promptly. Shingle Mills, Corn Mills, Circular Saws, Saw Teeth, Patent Dogs, Steam Governors, Full line Engines & Mill Supplies. Send for free Catalogue.



One Of The Results

of liberally using our fertilizers, is to pay off a mortgage on the old farm. Read the following from Messrs. Wherry & Son, owners of the Magnolia Fruit Farm, Durant, Miss.: "We made $900 from one acre strawberries, on which your fertilizers were used. Eight years ago we bought this place at $40 per acre. It was then considered to have been worn out twenty years before, but by liberally using under peas and velvet beans, we can now grow almost anything, and have been offered $350 per acre for the place. We experimented with a great many brands of fertilizers, but find the highest per-cent. cheaper." Now don't you think Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers would enable you to pay off a mortgage if you had one? Well, don't use any other.

Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers

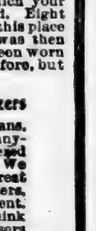
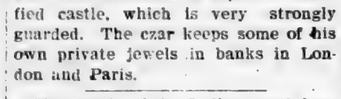
Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co.
Richmond, Va.
Norfolk, Va.
Durham, N. C.
Charleston, S. C.
Baltimore, Md.
Atlanta, Ga.
Savannah, Ga.
Montgomery, Ala.
Memphis, Tenn.
Shreveport, La.





Good Teeth & Good Temper

Are characteristic of the Atkins Saws always.

That is because they are made of the best steel in the world — Silver Steel — by men that know how.

Atkins Saws, Corn Knives, Perfection Floor Scrapers, etc., are sold by all good hardware dealers. Catalogue on request.

E. C. ATKINS & CO. Inc.
Largest Saw Manufacturers in the World
Factory and Executive Offices, Indianapolis
BRANCHES—New York, Chicago, Minneapolis, Portland (Oregon), Seattle, San Francisco, Memphis, Atlanta and Toronto (Canada)
Accept no substitute—Insist on the Atkins Brand
SOLD BY GOOD DEALERS EVERYWHERE

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION
25 CTS. 25 CTS.

Dropsy
CURED
Gives Quick Relief
Removes all swelling in 10 to 20 days; effects a permanent cure in 30 to 60 days. Trial treatment given free. Not one case in fifty incurable. Write Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Box B, Atlanta, Ga.

Am. 5. 1906.

10¢ for the worth of leading 1907 novelties in Choicest Garden Seeds; 25c worth of Universal Lawn Grass Seeds free with every order.
JOHNSON'S SEED STORE, BALTIMORE.

THE PULPIT.

AN ELOQUENT SUNDAY SERMON BY DR. OTHO F. BARTHOLOW.

Subject: The Limitations of Life.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Dr. Otho F. Bartholow, pastor of the James M. E. Church, preached Sunday on "The Limitations of Life." The text was chosen from Colossians iv:18: "Remember my bonds." Dr. Bartholow said:

It is hard to conceive how the glowing and comprehensive statements of the first three chapters of Paul's Epistle to the Colossians could be reinforced. Each sentence is so full of divine truth, it fairly overflows with its Christly abundance. Yet with the words of our text Paul did most positively and beautifully reinforce every other sentence of this intensely spiritual epistle. He did it in that charmingly inferential way that added the warmth of the heart to the purely logical statements of the mind. In writing to the Colossians of Christ's divinity and of the complete and joyous loyalty every soul should render to Him, Paul in the few words of our text delicately refers to the example found in his own experience. "Remember my bonds." This was an infusion of experience to all the preceding precepts that developed an incalculable force in that unlimited element of sympathy which were at once operative.

Paul had no intention of glorifying himself or his sufferings, neither did he sentimentally long for human comfort. This very brief allusion to himself in our text was but to strengthen and confirm that feeling which would exalt and glorify Christ Jesus the Lord.

What Christian in Colosse could have read or heard Paul's letter and not have felt when he came to the words, "Remember my bonds," this man writes out of life's experience and of what he knows—not like so many of the religionists and philosophers of that time out of his imaginations and dreams.

Yet another inference is contained in out text. It is that which emphasizes the fact of life's limitation. In writing his advices and directions to the Colossians Paul did the very best his position would allow him to do. He wished and prayed to do more. That more was to be with them in person, to give them all that he felt was in personal effort for Christ and His kingdom. Over against this wish, this desire, this prayer, was his physical imprisonment—a limitation. Paul was chained. The things he would do he could not do.

The fact of life's limitation, its recognition and resolution are suggestively presented in these words of the heart. The fact of limitation is apparent everywhere, in everything and everyperson. Go to the uttermost boundaries of space—to the sun and stars, limitations are there, their boundaries are fixed that they cannot pass. Gravitation, chemical affinity and other agents of law bind them with invisible chains to their limits. As with these mighty spheres, so with the tiniest atom; the plane of activity and expression is fixed. The reign of law marks insuperable barriers.

In persons as well as in things the fact of limitation is strikingly manifest. The body in which we live is clearly confined in bonds. Each body has an amount of nervous and muscular energy which limits all that may be received or given. The bonds of place and heredity bind each man to a very narrow zone of physical and mental activity. That a man is what he eats and where he lives is a certain degree manifestly true.

The spiritual in man is limited in all its expression and life by the presence of the carnal. Paul's pathetic cry: "O, wretched man that I am; who shall deliver me from the body of this death?" is applicable to all the children of Adam's race. These distinctions are the marks of a general limitation, the bonds that all men in their investigations and experience must remember because they are of themselves. Within the general limitations there are special and personal limitations. Mental endowments, disposition, health and grace are largely determinative in establishing the individual bonds that cannot be passed.

The nervous prostrations, the brain fag, the strokes of apoplexy, the creeping lassitudes that seize so many of our bright and energetic people are in a great majority of instances but evidences of failure to know or remember the physical and mental limitations to which life is conditioned.

Failure to record and recognize personal limitations and to be directed by them causes not only lapse and disaster in our service to Christ, but oftimes the essential breaking of the moral law. Our fathers were accustomed to keep the commandments, to worship God and reverence His day by preparing hours in advance for that most solemn and imperative duty. Saturday preparation of body and spirit was, in the thought of our Puritan ancestors, essential to the real keeping of those commandments that enforce our duty to God. They had a fine recognition of the limitations inherent in the body. Their preparation for the Lord's day was a "remembrance of bonds." It is only the fashion in these progressive days to ridicule the religious practices of these fathers of our country. With all of which ridicule we have no sympathy, continuing to believe that our grip on God, for loyalty to Christ and His law they continue to be the most inspiring and helpful examples. They certainly shed a helpful light concerning the meeting of limitations in the keeping of those commandments that refer to God and His day.

They made religion a life and found delight in it, largely because they remembered their limitations. They refused to rob God by allowing the world and its activities to so rush in upon them during six days that there was nothing for the Sabbath but physical weariness and dullness. In yet another relation it is imperative that we remember our own and others' limitations. In relation to others we should be quick to ask: Are we understood and do we understand?

Believing fully that every man is more than anything he does or says, we are led to believe that all avenues of expression and reception are to a degree limited and incomplete—"are in bonds." Every man has in him a best and a worst, neither of which fairly represents him. Many, however, are to them final from their experience of one or the other phase of life.

When I read Cardinal Newman's "Lead, Kindly Light," I think of a highly intellectual, devout and charitable character. On the other hand, when I read his bigoted and narrow estimate of Arius, especially his statement "that a publisher of heresy (meaning, of course, anything contrary to his religious denomination), should be treated as if he were embodied evil." I think naturally of a narrow, unsympathetic and bigoted man. It is very evident that any fair estimate of the cardinal as a character cannot be obtained from either or both of these writings. He had his limitations. They must be remembered. Not until they are estimated can there be a substantial understanding of the person back of the utterances.

But are we understood? We, too, commonly assume that we are. Thinking we fully understand what we say and mean, we naturally infer that others do. But do they? "Oh, the trouble, the heartaches, the disasters and the deaths to happiness and peace that have come to this old world simply because people have not understood one another," exclaims the writer of an hundred years ago. Human nature has naturally changed since that day. An appeal to experience must convince even the most superficial observer that this is deeply true, even in the everyday experience of life. Acknowledging the fact of limitation and realizing its force in life, we find the only sure approach to its resolution is in the Christ of Paul.

Our Saviour entered our limitations. He took upon Himself the form of a servant; He became obedient to death, even the death of the cross; He emptied Himself; He was in all points tempted as are we. He remembered our bonds. Limitation itself brought trophies to His feet. Christ made it minister to His eternal glory by living: (1) The simple life—a life of forethought and order. In Him there was no trespassing of body upon mind, or mind upon spirit. Each was kept to its sphere. There was in His soul no conflict in the duties owed God, man and self.

The temptation in the wilderness is a perfect presentation of His clear and simple recognition of these duties that leaves no confusion in the mind of the disciple. In Christ was no haste, no confusion whatever. He had for each and everything the full measure of its claim. In His speech He gave line upon line, precept upon precept. He did nothing in secret. (2) The charitable life. Christ ever made allowance in all human equations for the elements of ignorance, inheritance and condition. He remembered the bonds of men, their limitations. Thus we find Him dealing with the individual as the wise and loving parent does with the child, as the teacher with the pupil. He built on that best possible interpretation of each man's nature, which required ever and always a complete knowledge of limitations.

He healed some in public because their bonds would stand it; others He withdrew to the quiet place alone. He recognized conditions best for the individual. When two of His favored disciples desired to burn those men whom they judged heretics; when Peter followed afar off and at last altogether denied Him, with what divine consideration He remembered their limitations and forgave them! With Christ there was neither Greek nor Jew, circumcision or uncircumcision. Barbarian, Scythian, bond nor free, because His charity understood and eliminated all differences that such distinctions implied.

(3) The triumphant life. Christ saw the crown above the cross, life beyond death, and lived in them. Hope, with all its expectancies, was His. He saw the morning when it was midnight. He knew the Father knew. The triumphant life of Christ was lived for us, and so became vicarious. We could not live it ourselves, because of an unnatural bondage—the awful bondage of sin. Christ, however, lives it for us, and shares it with us, making it possible for us to have His simple, loving and triumphant life. "I live, yet not I but Christ liveth in me."

Oh, what comfort there is to the poor, wounded heart that is struggling to do its best against sin and trial in the narrow straits of life to say and realize, "He remembers my bonds." He took them upon Himself. Simple faith in this truth brings relief and ultimate triumph. This gracious truth sugests another limitation that we speak of with profoundest reverence, the limitation of God Himself in the matter of bestowing pardon, peace and love upon the heart of man. God has, according to the revelation He has given us, limits that He cannot pass in the salvation of man. The salvation in Christ marks the boundaries of God's ability to save the human soul.

God cannot force the soul's will to accept of His Son for salvation. He presents Him with all love and power, for He will have all men to be saved and to come unto the knowledge of the truth. Beyond this He cannot go. God is bound by His gift of free will. Christ the God cried: "I would but ye would not."

May God help all of us to recognize and act upon the limitations to which God has committed us.

Strength For To-Day.

God promises strength to enable us to do our present duty. If we believe that, and act accordingly, we shall never, never fail. "As thy days, so shall thy strength be." That is the promise—a promise that never fails. Yesterday has gone, not to return. To-morrow has not come to us, and it may never come. To-day is our day, and it is the only portion of time that is. Men who regret that they did not do their work of yesterday, lose their present time because they are not giving their whole strength to it. Men who fear that they will not be able to do to-morrow's work are losing to-day, and are not getting ready for to-morrow. God does not promise strength for yesterday which is gone, nor for to-morrow which may never come, but for to-day, which is here. Let us therefore, trust, and use, while we have it, God's promised strength for to-day. "Sufficient unto the day is the evil (and the good) thereof."—Sunday School Times.

The infidel howls at the Bible miracles, but he aims at its morals.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR FEBRUARY 4.

Subject: The Temptation of Jesus, Matt. iv., 1-11—Golden Text, Heb. iv., 15—Memory Verse, 4—Topic: A Study of Christ's Temptation—Commentary.

I. Jesus in the wilderness (vs. 1, 2). 1. "Then." Immediately after His baptism. Such are the violent alternations of human experience; baptized and tempted; approved of God and handed over to the devil. "Led up." Our lives are so ordered that we are carried into places where the metal of our religion is tried. Temptation is part of the divine scheme. The devil is under the control of God. Open the page of history where you will and you can hardly find the story of any great, noble soul, that has not had its hour of battle with the powers of darkness. "Of the spirit." Luke says He was "full of the Holy Ghost;" Mark says, "The spirit driveth Him." A divine influence led Him on. "Into the wilderness." Tradition has fixed upon a high ridge called Quarantania, near Jericho. "To be tempted." Christ begins His work with a personal encounter with Satan. To tempt is, literally, to stretch out, to try the strength of. Temptation is the testing of a person. The three temptations of Christ were typical ones, comprehending all the forms of temptation by which human nature can be assailed. They cover the same ground as "the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life" (1 John 2:16). "The Devil." "Diabolos," always in the singular and with the definite article.

2. "Forty days." Moses, Elijah and our Lord could fast forty days because they were in communion with God and living a heavenly life. Luke says He was tempted during the whole forty days. "Afterward an hungred." After the forty days were ended the reaction came with terrible force.

II. The first temptation (vs. 3, 4). 3. "The tempter came." How Satan appeared to Christ we do not know, but if he came in bodily form it must have been as an angel of light. "If Thou be." Beware of temptation that comes with an "if" in its mouth. "The Son of God." The consciousness of His divine Sonship may now in a measure have been withheld. Alone in the wilderness and weak and worn from fasting, Satan saw his chance. "Stones—bread." You are hungry; now if You are the Son of God use the power You have to supply Your necessities and thus prove Your divinity.

4. "It is written." See Deut. 8:3. In each case Jesus answered and defeated Satan by a proper use of the word of God. A man who has scripture-hid in his heart has a sharp sword to fight the devil with. "Not live by bread alone." Human support depends not on bread, but upon God's unfailing word of promise and pledge of all needful providential care.

III. The second temptation (vs. 5-7). The order of the temptations is different in Luke, but this is immaterial, as there is no statement that insists on any particular order. 5. "Taketh Him." So far as the necessities of the trial required, yet with no power of violence or contamination, our Lord's person was in his hand. How else did Satan take Him to the temple's summit or to the mountain top? "Into the holy city." Whedon believes that His person was transported "with the quickness of a thought, so that He is not to be conceived as on His way at any intermediate point." There seems little reason to doubt that Jesus actually went with Satan to the pinnacle of the temple. "Pinnacle." Probably the royal porch built by Herod, overlooking the Cedron.

6. "If Thou be," etc. Satan presses his point. In His first reply to the devil Jesus had shown His unbounded confidence in God. Now Satan takes Him at that very point and assumes that if He did not cast Himself down it would show that He lacked faith in God and that His claim to divine Sonship was unfounded. "Cast Thyself down." Show your faith in God. All the world will wonder at so grand an exploit. Prove at once that You are the Son of God. "It is written." In Psalm 91:11, 12. The devil has a Bible, but he misquotes and misapplies. This was a temptation to presumption. 7. "It is written again." In Deut. 6:16. There is always danger in using isolated texts. One text explains and modifies another. The Bible is often perverted by wicked men. "Not tempt." To tempt God is to put Him to the proof—to demand evidence of His power and of His will to fulfil His promises, instead of waiting patiently and trusting. This is manifestly wrong. The first temptation appealed to the animal appetites. This one rises to the higher sentiment, the love of show—the gratification of admiration.

IV. The third temptation (vs. 8-11). 8. "Exceeding high mountain." Some high mountain in Judea where a general view could be had of the country. "Sheweth — kingdoms of the world." The root of the third temptation lay in the supposition that the kingdoms of the world were the devil's kingdoms and that he could dispose of them. 9. "All—give Thee." By this Satan evidently meant that he would withdraw his opposition to Christ and make Him a great earthly ruler. "If — worship me." Here the devil appears in his true character. Christ was tempted to idolatry, which is the root of all evil. 10. "Get thee hence." Jesus parleys with him no longer, but with authority commands him to go to his own place.

11. "Devil leaveth Him." Satan had made the strongest effort of which he was capable and had been baffled at every point. "Angels." Heavenly messengers; spiritual beings of a higher order than man. "Ministered." Supplied Him with necessary food to support nature.

Seven Perish in Snowslide.

Salt Lake City.—Seven men were killed at the mining camp at Alta Saturday by a snowslide, according to the latest message received before the telephone wires broke. Efforts to gain further information have been fruitless, owing to the condition of the wires and the deep snow in the mountains. The nearest approach possible, even on snow shoes, is three miles. Alta is twenty miles from Salt Lake City.

THE ROCKEFELLER FORTU

The Enormous Sums of Money W For One Man.

John D. Rockefeller's Stand dividends for the year will a $20,000,000, and his income fr sources for 1905 is estimated a 000,000.

That sum is not the Rockefe tune, bear in mind, but the acc of a single year. "Frenzied f would capitalize such an income par value of a billion dollars.

Rockefeller might spend and away $40,000,000 in a single yea be no poorer at the end of t than at its beginning. He spend one per cent. of it, and i years of giving he has never rid of as much as he is tak year. The money is simply pi adding to the vast hoard and ing the enormous power of on Taxes levied in the State of sota for a year amount to $ This sum supports the St ment, all the State insti county government, all of with their special assessm ports all our schools, and pays penses of townships and road The Rockefeller income is income of this great State. M has the greatest permanent s of any State in the Union. $16,000,000. Rockefeller could two such endowments out of nual income, and still have for pin money.

Such figures are beyond the hension of ordinary mortals. them to lower terms will mak ier. Rockefeller's income for is very near $800,000. That money would establish a fam wealth and social position for to come, if conservatively in The income from that $800,000 keep its possessors in luxury no one dreamed of fifty years The income for a single day, ove 000, would be a welcome endow for many a small college.

Every hour adds to the Rock fortune a sum almost equal to gressman's annual salary. He in fifteen minutes from the mon is working for him as much as skilled mechanics earn in a year

Regardless of where and how it, the fact stands that he has that the increment from his ho large enough to be a menace to mate industry and commerce. great enough to threaten the sion of free institutions.—Minne Journal.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

The fountain of truth, "city of ourselves; let us keep it pure."

"The world is too small to place of safety to the man who obeys God."

Much good work has been h by such anxiety to do better as one from promptly doing one's b

Truisms, whether they lie in depths of thought or on the su are at any rate the pearls of ex ence.—George Meredith.

By all the ways by which would seek the love of any other whom he honored and revere should seek to know God, to come to Him and to love Him.—E. E. H

As you grow ready for it, some or other you will find what is n for you in a book or a friend, or of all, in your own thoughts—the nal Thought speaking to your th —George Macdonald.

Great and sacred is obedience who is not able, in the highest m of manhood, to obey with clear open brow, a law higher than hi is barren of all faith and love.—J Martineau.

Be Gentle.

Medical experts are calling t tention of the public to the impor of performing the nose blowing o tion in a scientific and hygienic ner. First one nostril and th other should be blown without violence.

Doctors state that the two nasa sages should never be closed a same time. If they are obstruct in the case of a cold, the back throat is filled with compresse and this, together with the dis and the microbes which it co may be driven through the eusta tube into the middle ear and s serious results.

A great authority on the s used to forbid his patients to blow noses when suffering from a col course is hardly one which will mend itself to those in the h catching colds. The best advice seem to be that when it is nec to blow the nose the blowing be done gently.—London Daily M

The Bullnglh Passion.

Representative James, of Ken gives a strong illustration of the passion, strong in death.

"Old man Billy Bascomb was and his neighbors and family fo his demise was only a questio few hours or days. As the mo running low a steer was butcher when his son came into the the old man asked:

"'What have you been John?'

"'Killing the steer,' was the

"'What did you do with the asked the old man faintly.

"'Put it in the barn; going to by and by.'

"'Oh, John?'

"'Yes, pap.'

"'Drag the hide around the couple of times, and it will heavier.'

"'Yes, pap.'

"And the good old man w ered unto his fathers."—Ch News and Courier.

...manently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise free. Dr. R. H. Kline, Ltd., 931 Arch st., Phila., Pa.

...don about 4000 persons regularly living by begging.

Guaranteed Cure For Piles.
Blind, Bleeding, Protruding Piles. We are authorized to refund money if Pyramid Pile Cure fails to cure in 6 to 14 days. 50c.

...annual coal bill of the Pennsylvania Railroad system is $18,000,000.

Robbed in Church.
...think what an outrage it is to be robbed of all the benefits of the services by continuous coughing throughout the whole duration, when Anti-Grippine is guaranteed to cure. Sold everywhere. 25 cts. Diemer, M. D., manufacturer, Springfield, Mo.

...has been a great demand for pure cattle in Argyll in recent years.

...cure is the best ... I have ever used. ... Va., Jan. 10, 1901.

...person troubled with kidney ailments in the Arctic.

...D COVERED WITH HUMOR.

...red with Itching Sores for a Long Time ...Kentucky Boy's Now Completely Well—Cured by Cuticura.

...ter using Cuticura Soap, Ointment, ...Pills, I am very glad to say I am entirely relieved of that terrible humor of mine. I had suffered so long and had used so much ... that I did not quite despair of ever ... the Cuticura Remedies more than ... times before I began to get better, but now I am completely well. I suffered with it from infancy on, and ... no relief until I took the Cuticura ...dies. I think I used several cakes of Cuticura Soap, three boxes of Ointment and two vials of Pills. I am doing all I can to publish the Cuticura Remedies for they have done me good, and I ... they will do others the same. Mrs. ... Jackson, Mercerdale, Ky., June ..., 1905."

...di, the first Japanese ambassador to Washington, will probably bring ... him to this country bride, wife, who ...rman. He was educated in Ger... and was sent to that country ...al times as interpreter.

...e pure food petition ... to contain ... weighs one tone.

...e of Ohio, City of Toledo, ... Lucas County. ... FRANK J. CHENEY makes oath that he is ... senior partner of the firm of F. J. CHENEY & CO., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of CATARRH that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CATARRH CURE. FRANK J. CHENEY. ... sworn to before me and subscribed in my ... presence, this 6th day of December, A.D., 1886. A. W. GLEASON, ... (SEAL.) Notary Public. ... Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O. ...ld by all Druggists, 75c. ...e Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

...ensuring twenty-two inches in a direct line and twenty-eight following the curve, the tooth of an extinct African quadruped has been brought from ...ssinia by Baron Maurice De Rothschild.

...ood paper can be made from the ... thrown out as refuse from the ...weries.

...e Blood, Skin Troubles, Cancer, Blood ...oison. Greatest Blood Purifier Free.
...your blood is impure, thin, diseased, ...or full of humors, if you have blood ...on, cancer, carbuncles, eating sores, ...fula, eczema, itching risings and lumps, ...oby, pimply skin, bone pains, catarrh, ...umatism, or any blood or skin disease, ...e Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) according to directions. Soon all sores heal, ...es and pains stop, the blood is made ...e and rich, leaving the skin free from ...ry eruption, and giving the rich glow of ...fect health to the skin. At the same ...e B. B. B. improves the digestion, cures ...pepsia, strengthens weak kidneys. Just ... medicine for old people, as it gives ...m new, vigorous blood. Druggists, $1 ... large bottle, with directions for home ...e. Sample free and prepaid by writing ...od Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga. Describe ...ble and special free medical advice ... sent in sealed letter. B. B. B. is especially advised for chronic, deep-seated ...e of impure blood and skin disease, ...cures after all else fails.

...hells filled with oil, intended to ...m a stormy sea when fired into it ...e been invented in France.

...OPS BELCHING BY ABSORPTION ...NO DRUGS—A NEW METHOD.

...ox of Wafers Free—Have You Acute ...Indigestion, Stomach Trouble, Irregular Heart, Dizzy Spells, Short Breath, Gas on the Stomach?
...itter Taste—Bad Breath—Impaired Appetite—A feeling of fullness, weight and ...e over the stomach and heart, sometimes nausea and vomiting, also fever and ... headache?
...What causes it? Any one or all of these: ...cessive eating and drinking—abuse of ...its—anxiety and depression—mental effort—mental worry and physical fatigue—... air—insufficient food—sedentary habits ...sence of teeth—bolting of food.
...you suffer from this slow death and ...erable existence, let us send you a sample box of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers absolutely free. No drugs. Drugs injure the ...mach.
...stops belching and cures a diseased ...mach by absorbing the foul odors from ...ested foods and by imparting activity ...the lining of the stomach, enabling it ...thoroughly mix the food with the gastric ...ce, which promotes digestion and cures ...e disease. This offer may not appear ...n.

GOOD FOR 25c. 145

Send this coupon with your name ...d address and your druggist's name ...d 10c. in stamps or silver, and we ...ll supply you a sample free if you ...ve never used Mull's Anti-Belch ...afers, and will also send you a certificate good for 25c. toward the purchase of more Belch Wafers. You will ...d them invaluable for stomach troubles; cures by absorption. Address MULL'S GRAPE TONIC CO., 328 3d ...Ave., Rock Island, Ill.

...se Full Address and Write Plainly.

...druggists, 50c. per box, or by mail ... receipt of price. Stamps accepted.

...ston pays $6,500,000 annually for ...e.

THE ROCKEFELLER FORTU

The Enormous Sums of Money W... For One Man.

John D. Rockefeller's Standa... dividends for the year will amo... $20,000,000, and his income fr... sources for 1905 is estimated at ... 000,000.

That sum is not the Rockefelle... tune, bear in mind, but the accr... of a single year. "Frenzied fi... would capitalize such an income ... par value of a billion dollars.

Rockefeller might spend and ... away $40,000,000 in a single year, ... be no poorer at the end of the ... than at its beginning. He ... spend one per cent. of it, and in ... years of giving he has never ... ted of as much as he is taking in ... year. The money is simply piling ... adding to the vast hoard and in... ing the enormous power of one m...

Taxes levied in the State of M... sess for a year amount to $20,0... This sum supports the State Go... ments, and the State institution... county government, all of our ... with their special assessments, ... ports all our schools, and pays th... salaries of townships and road ... The Rockefeller income is twic... income of this great State. Minn... has the greatest permanent school ... of any State in the Union, now ... $16,000,000. Rockefeller could s... two such endowments out of hi... nual income, and still have $8,0... for pin money.

Such figures are beyond the co... hension of ordinary mortals. Red... them to lower terms will make ... tier. Rockefeller's income for a ... is very near $800,000. That ... money would establish a famil... wealth and social position for all ... to come, if conservatively inv... The income from that $800,000 ... keep its possessors in luxury suc... no one dreamed of fifty years ... The income for a single day, over ... 000, would be a welcome endow... for many a small college.

Every hour adds to the Rocke... fortune a sum almost equal to a ... gressman's annual salary. He rec... in fifteen minutes from the money ... is working for him as much as ... skilled mechanics earn in a year of ...

Regardless of where and how h... it, the fact stands that he has it ... that the increment from his hos... large enough to be a menace to ... mate industry and commerce. ... great enough to threaten the sub... sist of free institutions.—Minnea... Journal.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

The fountain of trans... city is w... ourselves; let us keep it pure.—Plac...

"The world is too small to a... place of safety to the man who ... obeys God."

Much good work has been hind... by such anxiety to do better as d... one from promptly doing one's bes...

Truisms, whether they lie in ... depths of thought or on the surf... are at any rate the pearls of ex... ence.—George Meredith.

By all the ways by which a ... would seek the love of any other b... whom he honored and revered ... should seek to know God, to come ... to Him and to love Him.—E. E. Hi...

As you grow ready for it, somew... or other you will find what is ne... for you in a book or a friend, or, ... of all, in your own thoughts—the I... nal Thought speaking to your thou... —George Macdonald.

Great and sacred is obedience. ... who is not able, in the highest ma... of manhood, to obey, with clear ... open brow, a law higher than him... is barren of all faith and love.—Ja... Martineau.

Be Gentle.

Medical experts are calling the ... tention of the public to the import... of performing the nose blowing op... tion in a scientific and hygienic ... ner. First one nostril and then ... other should be blown without ... violence.

Doctors state that the two nasal ... sages should never be closed at ... same time. If they are obstructe... in the case of a cold, the back of ... throat is filled with ... compressed, ... and this, together with the disch... and the microbes which it con... may be driven through the eustac... tube into the middle ear and in... serious results.

A great authority on the su... used to forbid his patients to blow ... noses when suffering from a cold. ... course is hardly one which will ... mend itself to those in the ha... catching colds. The best advice ... seem to be that when it is nec... to blow the nose the blowing s... be done gently.—London Daily M...

The Rullagth Passion.

Representative Ja... mes, of Kent... gives a strong illustration of the ... passion, strong in death.

"Old man Billy Th... ascomb was ... and his neighbors and family fe... his demise was only a question ... few hours or days. As the me... running low a steer he was butcher... when his son came into the ... the old man asked:

"'What have... you been ... John?' de...

"'Killing the st... steer,' was the r...

"'What did yo... u do with the ... asked the old m... an faintly.

"'Put it in th... e barn; going to ... by and by.'

"'Oh, John?' ...

"'Yes, pap.' ...

"'Drag the h... hide around the ... couple of tim... es, and it will ... heavier.'

"'Yes, pap.'—

"And the g... od old man was ... ered unto his ... fathers."—Ch... News and Cou... rier.

...manently cured. No fits or nervous... ...first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great ...storer. Trial bottle and treatise free ...KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

...London about 4000 persons regularly ...a living by begging.

A Guaranteed Cure For Piles.

...Blind, Bleeding, Protruding Piles, ...druggists are authorized to refund money if ...Pyramid Pile Cure fails to cure in 6 to 14 days. 50c.

...annual cost bill of the Pennsylva... ...Railroad system is $18,633,000.

Robbed in Church.

...is often what an outrage it is to be ...ed of all the benefits of the services ...ations are now ringing throughout the ...nation when Anti-Grippine is guaran... ...to cure. Sold everywhere. 25 cts. ...Chemical Co., St. L., manufacturer. ...Chemical, Mo.

...is a great demand for pure ...cattle in Argentina recently.

...most no home would be over need... ...of Peruna and Pe-ru-na Pills.—Wm. ...Green, Ind., Feb. 10, 1905.

...Sweden tries to make scouts like ...

HEAD COVERED WITH HUMOR.

Suffered Without Nothing For a Long Time ...Hair Now Completely ...Cured by Cuticura.

...After using Cuticura Soap, Ointment, ...Pills I am very glad to say I am ...entirely free of that itching humor of ...head and body with which I was bothered ...for quite a length of time. I did not ...obtain relief from the Remedies more than ...a week, when I began to get better, ...and now I am completely well. I suf... ...from humor on my head, and ...after I took the Cuticura ...Remedies I used several cakes ...Cuticura Soap, three boxes of Oint... ...and two vials of Pills. I am doing ...all I can to publish the Cuticura Reme... ...for they have done me good, and I ...know they will do others the same. Mrs. ...Jackson, Morganville, Ky., June ...

...Japanese ambassador ...Washington, will probably bring ...him to this country his wife, who ...German. He was educated in Ger... ...and was sent to that country ...as minister.

...The pure food position sent to con... ...means one tone.

...FRANK J. CHENEY makes oath that he is ...senior partner of the firm of F. J. CHENEY & ...CO., doing business in the City of Toledo, ...County and State aforesaid, and that said ...firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOL... ...LARS for each and every case of CATARRH ...that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S ...CATARRH CURE. FRANK J. CHENEY.

...Sworn to before me and subscribed in my ...presence, this 6th day of Decem... ...A.D., 1886. A. W. GLEASON, ...Notary Public.

...Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and ...acts directly on the blood and mucous sur... ...faces of the system. Send for testimonials, ...free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

...Sold by all Druggists, 75c.

...Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

...Measuring twenty-two inches in a di... ...line and twenty-eight following ...the curve, the tooth of an extinct Afri... ...quadruped has been brought from ...Virginia by Baron Maurice De Roths...child.

...Good paper can be made from the ...rags thrown out as refuse from the ...breweries.

Sores Blood, Skin Troubles, Cancer, Blood ...Poison. Greatest Blood Purifier Free.

...If your blood is impure, thin, diseased, ...sour or full of humors, if you have blood ...poison, cancer, carbuncles, eating sores, ...scrofula, eczema, itching, risings and lumps, ...ugly, unsightly skin, bone pains, catarrh, ...rheumatism, or any blood or skin disease, ...S. S. S. (Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) accord... ...ing to directions. Soon all sores heal, ...aches and pains stop, the blood is made ...pure and rich, leaving the skin free from ...every eruption, and giving the rich glow of ...perfect health to the skin. At the same ...time B. B. B. improves the digestion, cures ...dyspepsia, strengthens weak kidneys. Just ...the medicine for old people, as it gives ...them new, vigorous blood. Druggists, $1 ...per large bottle, with directions for home ...cure. Sample free and prepaid by writing ...Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga. Describe ...trouble and special free medical advice ...is sent in sealed letter. B. B. B. is es... ...pecially advised for chronic, deep-seated ...cases of impure blood and skin disease, ...and cures after all else fails.

...Shells filled with oil, intended to ...calm a stormy sea when fired into it, ...have been invented in France.

STOPS BELCHING BY ABSORPTION ...—NO DRUGS—A NEW METHOD.

Box of Wafers Free—Have You Acute ...Indigestion, Stomach Trouble, Ir... regular Heart, Dizzy Spells, ...Short Breath, Gas on ...the Stomach?

...Bitter Taste—Bad Breath—Impaired Ap... ...petite—A feeling of fullness, weight and ...pain over the stomach and heart, some... ...times nausea and vomiting, also fever and ...sick headache.

...What causes it? Any one or all of these: ...excessive eating and drinking—abuse of ...nerves—anxiety and depression—mental ef... ...fort—mental worry and physical fatigue—...bad air—insufficient food—sedentary habits ...—absence of teeth—bolting of food.

...If you suffer from this slow death and ...miserable existence, let us send you a sam... ...ple box of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers abso... ...lutely free. No drugs. Drugs injure the ...stomach.

...It stops belching and cures a diseased ...stomach by absorbing the foul odors from ...decayed food and by imparting activity ...to the lining of the stomach, enabling it ...to thoroughly mix the food with the gastric ...juices, which promotes digestion and cures ...the disease. This offer may not appear ...again.

328 GOOD FOR 25c. 145

Send this coupon with your name ...and address and your druggist's name ...and 10c. in stamps or silver, and we ...will supply you a sample free if you ...have never used Mull's Anti-Belch ...Wafers, and will also send you a cer... ...tificate good for 25c. toward the pur... ...chase of more Belch Wafers. You will ...find them invaluable for stomach trou... ...bles; cures by absorption. Address ...MULL'S GRAPE TONIC CO., 328 3d ...Ave., Rock Island, Ill.

Give Full Address and Write Plainly.

...All druggists, 50c. per box, or by mail ...on receipt of price. Stamps accepted.

...Boston pays $6,500,000 annually for ...tea.

A MYSTERY.

I can't conceive how it was done;
Yet sweet Mae told me just this minute
That she had hung her stocking up,
And found an automobile in it!
—San Francisco Call.

IN THE DIME MUSEUM.

"Why has the contortionist tied himself up in a knot?"

"So as not to forget that his wife wants him to go shopping with her this afternoon."

A GOB OF THOUGHT.

"A lot of men attended the Boston tea party," observed the sage of Punkyville, "who couldn't get an invite today to a third-class Beacon street affair."

THE NEW DISEASE.

"And you can't recollect happenings?"

"Not the simplest things, doctor."

"Hum. You seem to have a pronounced case of what we call life insurance memory."

PRECEPT EASIER THAN PRACTICE.

Bibbs—Who was the man you gave half a crown to at the hotel this morning?

Gibbs—An old literary friend of mine; author of "How to Get Rich."—Royal Magazine.

IN 1950.

First Business Woman—Whew! Where did you get that skunk-cabbage cigar?

Second Business Woman—My husband gave me a box for a Christmas present. I have to smoke a few of them to keep from paining the poor dear.

NOT AN ARREST, BUT A RESCUE.

"You were arrested for striking your wife."

"No, Judge," answered the unworthy specimen of manhood who was on trial. "I had made a pass at her and she was just reachin' for the stove lid when the officers came and took me in charge. That wasn't an arrest. That was a rescue."—Washington Star.

WHAT HE WANTED.

"How shall I word this ad?" asked Mrs. Housekeep. "'Wanted: a cook who will stay nights?'"

"'Wanted: a cook who will stay nights,'" suggested Mr. Housekeep, "'and get up mornings.'"

AN EXPLANATION.

"I beg your pardon, waiter," said the tourist in the railway restaurant, "did you say that I had twenty minutes to wait or that it was twenty minutes to eight?" "I said nayther," answered the Hibernian attendant. "I said yez had twinty minutes to ate, an' that's all ye had. Yer thrain's gone now."—Cleveland Leader.

TURNED ABOUT.

Reid—How your friend Shipton has changed! He used to be so communicative, you know.

Greene—Isn't he yet?

"No, why he draws himself right into his shell now when you're trying to question him."

"He's turned turtle, has he"—Yonkers Statesman.

AT THE CAPITOL.

First Doorkeeper—Senator Doopoo tells me to instruct the boys not to send in any visitors' cards.

Second Doorkeeper—Wonder why?

First Doorkeeper—Maybe he's expecting a call from his rantankerous friend.

THEY SUTTENLY AIR.

"Women are certainly changeable creatures," said the weary-looking man.

"What's the explanation?" asked the friend of the family.

"During our honeymoon," answered the weary party, "my wife declared she could not live a day without me."

"Well?" queried the family friend.

"Only last week," continued the other, "she tried to get me to insure my life for $35,000 in her favor."—Kansas City Independent.

BUYING UP THE ENEMY.

Uncle (to nephew playing the game of war with a companion of his own age)—If you take the fortress within a quarter of an hour I'll give you sixpence.

Youngster (a minute later)—Uncle, the fortress is taken; now let me have the sixpence.

Uncle—How did you manage it so quickly?

Nephew—I offered the besieged threepence, and they capitulated—Judy.

Lyons, in the Valley of the Rhone in France, is the largest silk manufacturing centre in the world.

Humanitarianism.

Among the late events, showing the progress of humanitarian principles, may be mentioned:

The use of the check rein has been discontinued in the Royal Court equipages at Berlin.

The president of the police of the city of Berlin has forbidden the use of blinders on the horses of public conveyances.

The Lord Mayor of London adheres to the reform initiated by his predecessor, viz., the discontinuance of the check rein and the omission from the menu at the Lord Mayor's banquet of pate de foie gras, in the production of which geese are subjected to great suffering.

The Fashionable Hurlingham Club in London has given up live pigeon shooting.

The Pennsylvania legislature passed a bill to introduce humane education into all the schools of the state. A number of states have already such a law.

The military institutes of Berlin and the building contractors connected with them, have issued the regulation that "only healthy and strong animals can be used; all rough and cruel treatment is forbidden; for heavy pulls there must be extra horses. When the wheels are covered with sand or gravel, etc., they must be freed before the team is required to pull. The harness must have proper back straps, that the animals need not pull back by the neck. The use of the check rein is forbidden. In cold weather, the animals, while standing, must be blanketed. The places of exit and entrance to building places, to sand or gravel pits, etc., must have a suitable platform or planks for the wagon to run upon. The drivers are admonished that all cruelty will be reported to the police.

It's a mistake to swear before people who don't know enough about it to understand what you mean by it.

The most elevated river in the world is the Desaguadero, in Bolivia. The average elevation above the level of the sea is about 13,000 feet.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature on each box. 25c.

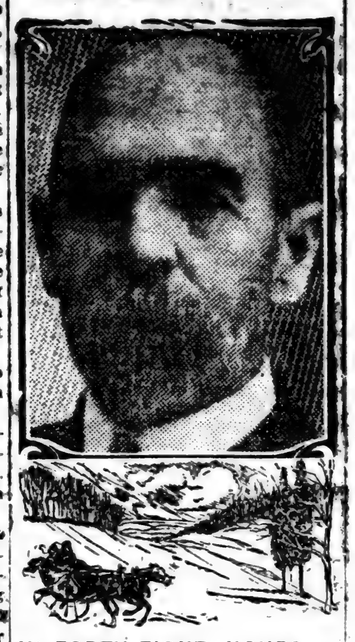
Dundee is the only port in the British isles that owns whaleships.

Itch cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion; never fails. Sold by Druggists. Mail orders promptly filled by Dr. Detchon, Crawfordsville, Ind. $1.

Coke calls for 40,000,000 tons of coal this year.

One microbe breeds 140,000,000,000 a day.

LIEUTENANT BOWMAN.



IN FORTY-EIGHT HOURS PE-RU-NA CURED HIM.

Cold Affected Head and Throat---Attack Was Severe.

Chas. W. Bowman, 1st Lieut. and Adj. 4th M. S. M. Cav. Vols., writes from Lanham, Md., as follows:

"Though somewhat averse to patent medicines, and still more averse to becoming a professional affidavit man, it seems only a plain duty in the present instance to add my experience to the columns already written concerning the curative powers of Peruna.

"I have been particularly benefited by its use for colds in the head and throat. I have been able to fully cure myself of a most severe attack in forty-eight hours by its use according to directions. I use it as a preventive whenever threatened with an attack.

"Members of my family also use it for like ailments. We are recommending it to our friends."

—Chas. W. Bowman.

Old Timer, Sure Enough.

Congressman J. Warren Keifer, the venerable Ohioan who has once more taken his seat in the house, has not kept posted on the up-to-date methods in vogue there. During the reading of the president's message last Tuesday he wanted a page, and in the style of long ago clapped his hands. The signal was repeated twice and his fellow members thought he was applauding the message. Finally the head page, who has been in the service of the house forty years, hurried up and explained to Mr. Keifer that there was a push button at every desk. "Well, I'm a has-been sure enough," said the ex-speaker, laughing.

Floating island, the largest being about three-quarters of a mile in area, form an interesting feature of a lake in Mindanao.

Farmers Say SLOAN'S LINIMENT

Is the Best Remedy on Earth. Kills a Spavin Curb or Splint. Very Penetrating. Kills Pain.

DR. EARL S. SLOAN, 615 ALBANY STREET, BOSTON, MASS.

GOOD, big "mealy" potatoes can not be produced without a liberal amount of POTASH in the fertilizer—not less than ten per cent. It must be in the form of Sulphate of POTASH of highest quality.

"Plant Food" and "Truck Farming" are two practical books which tell of the successful growing of potatoes and the other garden truck—sent free to those who write us for them.

Address, GERMAN KALI WORKS,
New York—93 Nassau Street, or Atlanta, Ga.—22½ So. Broad Street.

CABBAGE PLANTS, CELERY PLANTS, and all kinds of garden plants. Can now furnish all kinds of cabbage plants, grown in the open air and will stand great cold. Grown from seeds of the most reliable seedsmen. We use the same plants on our thousand acre truck farm. Plants carefully counted and properly packed. Celery ready last of Dec. Lettuce, Onion and Beet plants same time or earlier. Cabbage ready now. Reduced express rates promised, which, when effective, will give us 80 per cent. less than merchandise rates. Prices: Small lots $1.00 per thousand, large lots $1.00 to $1.25 per thousand. F. O. B. Meggetts, S. C. "Special Garden Fertilizer" $2.00 per sack of 200 pounds, F. O. B. Meggetts S. C. The United States Agricultural Department has established an Experimental Station on our farms, to test all kinds of vegetables, especially Cabbages. The results of these experiments we will be pleased to give you at any time. Yours respectfully,

N. H. BLITCH COMPANY, MEGGETTS, S. C.

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES

Color more goods brighter and faster colors than any other dye. One 10c package colors all fibers. They dye in cold water better than any other dye. You can dye any garment without ripping apart. Write for free booklet—How to Dye, Bleach and Mix Colors. MONROE DRUG CO., Quincy, Illinois.

In the French city of Beauvais a small vehicle, built with two wheels and drawn by a man or boy, is in common use. It is called a vinaigrette.

Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullen is Nature's great remedy. Cures Coughs, Colds, Croup and Consumption, and all throat and lung troubles. At druggists, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

A free bed for cats is maintained in an animal hospital in Philadelphia.

Swift & Company

Year 1905 Sales.

The total distributive sales for 1905 exceeded

$200,000,000.

This total is realized from the sale of fresh meats (beef, mutton and pork), provisions, produce (poultry, butter and eggs), soaps, glues, oils, bones, fertilizers, feathers, casings, hides, wools, pelts and other by-products derived from cattle, sheep, hogs and poultry.

Margin of Profit.

The industry is operated on a margin of less than 2 cents to each dollar of sales. Swift & Co. do not sell at retail. Their entire output is sold at wholesale to many thousands of dealers in various parts of the world. There are hundreds of local slaughterers throughout the United States, who buy their live stock in competition with the packer doing an interstate and international business. Likewise the packer must sell in competition with the local slaughterers. There are no secret processes in the industry, no complicated and expensive factories, and as live stock can be purchased in almost every hamlet and city, and the preparation of meats is simple in the extreme, local slaughtering will long remain a factor in the production of fresh meats and provisions.

Economic Advantages.

The large packing houses will, however, always have these advantages: Locations at the chief live stock centers, with the opportunity to buy the best live stock; manufacturing in large quantities, at the minimum of expense; utilization of all waste material; refrigeration; mechanical appliances; highly efficient business management. These advantages are reflected in the quality of the packer's output, a quality that has reached its highest development in the products bearing the name and brand of "Swift."

Purchasing Live Stock.

The principal live stock centers are Chicago, Kansas City, Omaha, St. Louis, St. Joseph, St. Paul and Fort Worth. The same methods of purchasing cattle, sheep and hogs prevail at all cities. At Chicago, which is the largest market, there are about two hundred and fifty buyers, representing packers, local slaughterers in various cities, and exporters. Of this number, less than a score are employed by Swift & Company.

The farmer ships his live stock to Chicago, consigns them to a commission firm at the Union Stock Yards, who sees that they are unloaded and put in pens. Then the buyers inspect them, make their offers to the commission dealer, who accepts or rejects as his judgment dictates. All buying must be finished at 3 o'clock each day, and the buyer must pay spot cash. If the commission man has no satisfactory offers, he can hold his stock over to the next day. He gets his commission from the farmer, and naturally strives to get the highest possible price for his client.

Wholesale Distributing Houses.

A wholesale distributing house is a giant refrigerator, but instead of shelves there are trolley rails, from which are suspended hooks to hang the carcasses. Some of the houses cost as much as a hundred thousand dollars to build and equip. As a rule they are of pressed brick, the insides being lined—floor, walls and ceiling—with highly polished hardwood. The floors are covered daily with fresh sawdust and all are kept spotlessly clean. There are over three hundred of these wholesale houses in various cities of the United States, and the public is always welcome to visit them.

Packing Plants.

All the Swift & Company plants are located at the great live stock markets, in the heart of the great agricultural sections, where can be purchased the finest grades of cattle, sheep and hogs. We have seven packing plants, employing at each from two to eight thousand persons.

The following gives the locations and sizes of the different plants:

Packing Plants.

	Buildings, Acres.	Floor Space, Acres.	Land, Acres.
Chicago	44½	87¾	47
Kansas City	7⅝	30	19½
Omaha	6	26	23
St. Louis	7¾	19⅞	31¾
St. Joseph	6½	25¼	19¼
St. Paul	5	12	16
Fort Worth	3	15	22

Employes.

The total number of persons employed in all the Swift packing plants and branch houses aggregate over 26,000 persons. Conditions for employes in the various manufacturing and operating departments is continually improving with the construction of new buildings and the installation of new and up-to-date equipment.

Sanitation and Hygiene.

The housewife makes no greater effort to keep her kitchen clean than we do to keep in sanitary and hygienic condition our abattoirs. They are thoroughly scrubbed at the close of each day's operations, and automatic appliances are used wherever possible in order to eliminate the personal handling of meats. Rigid rules governing these points are strictly enforced; laxity means dismissal.

Visitors Always Welcome.

No other industry in the world gives such a cordial welcome to visitors as Swift & Co. We keep open house the year around, and maintain a corps of specially trained guides, with special elevators and rest rooms. In one year we have entertained over a quarter of a million of men and women; in one day—Grand Army Day, 1901—we entertained 23,000. Among our visitors have been ambassadors from foreign governments, princes, noblemen and distinguished citizens from all lands and eminent folks from every State in the Union. We wish to familiarize the public with our methods, and the best way to do that is to let the public see for itself. We have no secret processes or methods in any department.

Swift's Premium Hams and Bacon.

Swift's Premium Hams and Bacon are more widely and favorably known than any other brand. Their popularity is due to the uniform quality and flavor of the meat, and to their fine appearance when received from the dealer. Each piece is branded on the rind, "Swift's Premium U. S. Inspected," and wrapped in cheesecloth and white parchment paper.

Look for the brand, "Swift's Premium," when buying hams and bacon.

Swift's Silver Leaf Lard

Is a strictly pure lard, kettle rendered, and put up in 3, 5, and 10-pound sealed pails. It is America's Standard Lard, and enjoys a high reputation and an enormous sale.

Swift's Soaps.

An interesting feature of a trip through the Chicago plant is a visit to the soap factory, one of the largest and most complete in this country. There we manufacture numerous toilet and laundry soaps, and washing powders.

Among which are:

Wool Soap, widely and favorably known; for toilet and bath, and washing fine fabrics.

Crown Princess Toilet Soap, highly perfumed.

Swift's Pride Soap, for laundry and household use.

Swift's Pride Washing Powder, unsurpassed for all cleaning purposes.

Swift's Specialties.

Swift's Premium Ham
Swift's Premium Bacon
Swift's Premium Sliced Bacon
Swift's Premium Lard
Swift's Winchester Ham
Swift's Winchester Bacon
Brookfield Farm Sausage
Swift's Silver Leaf Lard
Jewel Lard Compound
Swift's Cotosuet
Swift's Jersey Butterine
Swift's Beef Extract
Swift's Beef Fluid
Swift's Premium Milk-Fed Chickens

Swift's Soaps.

Wool Soap
Scented Toilet Soaps
Swift's Pride Soap
Swift's Pride Washing Powder.

ALLIANCE

Of Russia and Germany Now Probable—Cordial Relations of Czar and Kaiser.

NEW GROUPING OF THE POWERS.

Alliance Between France and Russia Is Crumbling, and German and Russ Will Unite.

St. Petersburg.—A new grouping of the powers of Europe, with Germany and Russia arrayed side by side in the closest friendship and the mismatched alliance of the empire with republican France lagging in the rear, was forecasted by the words of Emperor Nicholas at a gala luncheon of Emperor Nicholas in honor of Emperor William's birthday. Rising to his feet before a brilliant company of Russian and German representatives to propose a toast to the German emperor, Emperor Nicholas lifted his glass and said slowly and distinctly, as if weighing every word:

"I drink to the health of the emperor of Germany and the king of Prussia, my brother and very dear friend."

The phrases chosen were significant enough in themselves, the emperor in previous years having proposed the health of the emperor-king without the qualifying expression of brotherhood and friendship; but turning to Herr von Schoen, the German ambassador, who was standing at his right, the emperor grasped him by the hand and is reported to have said:

"Frere, est plus que allis," (Brother, that's more than ally).

The stage of the momentous utterance was the great dining hall of the Alexander or "Little Palace" at Tsarskoe-Selo, where the emperor has his winter residence. The empress and Grand Duke Michael were present at luncheon, to which were invited, besides all members of the German embassy staff, Count Minister Fredericks and many high dignitaries of the court. Russian knights of the German order of the Black Eagle, while the presence of Count Witte, the premier, and Count Lamsdorff, the foreign minister, gave ministerial sanction to the significant utterance. All wore full uniform. The emperor and Grand Duke Michael wore the uniforms of the Prussian regiments of which they are honorary commanders.

The emperor's choice of the word "ally" indicates that the defensive alliance with France is still considered binding, but undoubtedly, as has been the gossip in diplomatic circles here for some time, not a hair's breadth beyond the letter of the treaty providing for common action only in case France is not the aggressor, and there is no telling how soon it will be allowed to pass into desuetude.

The present relations between Germany and Russia have been a matter of slow but steady growth, and signs of the new alignment have long been in the air. Since the outcreak of the Russo-Japanese war the warm personal friendship always existing between the two monarchs has been knit closer, and the many material tokens of friendship manifested by Germany during the war, compared with the lukewarm support which France gave, and limited by her new-found entente with Great Britain, has combined to build up strong Germanophile sentiment in influential quarters in St. Petersburg. At the same time much of the necessity to France of the Franco-Russian alliance vanished when France clasped hands with Great Britain and practically assured herself of an ally in case of war.

The present relations between Germany and Russia were also the text of an address delivered by Ambassador von Schoen before the German residents of St. Petersburg who assembled in honor of Emperor William's anniversary.

Funeral of General Wheeler.

Washington, D. C.—Gen. Joseph Wheeler, whose death occurred in Brooklyn Thursday, was buried in the national cemetery at Arlington with the full milary honors due an officer of his rank—brigadier-general of the United States army.

The plot selected was on the slope to the right of the historic Arlington house, where his body finally was placed at rest. The funeral services were held at St. John church, in this city, Monday afternoon, and were conducted by the rector of the church, Rev. Cotton Smith. Chaplain Charles C. Pierce, stationed with the troops at Fort Micer, assisted in the service at the grave. The escort consisted of troops from all branches of the service.

Will Lose Their Jobs.

St. Petersburg.—In continuation of the policy of retrenchment by the weeding out of inactive members of the military organizations, the retirement on half pay of twenty-two generals and three admirals, who hold sinecures on the Alexander committee for the care of the wounded, will shortly be gazetted. The committee has fifty-one members, who are doing little except drawing their salaries.

CHINESE WANT A REPUBLIC.

Young Men Who Have Returned From Foreign Schools Plan to Overthrow the Dynasty.

San Francisco.—The Rev. S. H. Little, of the Episcopal mission at Hankow, China, who recently returned to the United States on the steamer Mongolia, said in an interview:

"The revolutionary party, agitated by young men who have been at the universities of Japan, wants a republic. They are determined to drive China into a conflict with the powers or secure the overthrow of the present dynasty. They are radical in the extreme, and want to accomplish in China in a few years all that Japan has accomplished in the last fifty years. Their motto is "China for the Chinese." They welcome foreign teachings, but oppose the exploitation of their country for the benefit of foreigners, including the Japanese. These agitators are well organized and are determined to accomplish their purpose. They are engineering the boycott. The Japanese are as much alarmed over the situation as are the Americans. During the recent outbreaks Japanese left the country in haste, fearing for their lives. That uprising was narrowly prevented from becoming general. The next time it may not be so. In any event the whole country is ripe for a change. Japan's success has set them thinking. Never was there a time when need of teachers was so great. China today is not only inviting, but demanding the instruction she needs in advanced thought."

HARSH MEASURES.

Revolutionists in Baltic Provinces Shown Little Mercy—Rounding Them Up by the Troops.

Wenden, Livonia.—The pacification of the Baltic provinces is reaching the final stage so far as the agrarian movement is concerned. Nearly 200 revolutionists have been shot, several thousand are under arrest and 5,000 rifles have been captured by the troops. Generals Orloff, Mainhardt and Wendt are now operating in the Wenden district with 10,000 troops, completing a circle, in which the revolutionists are being gathered. The generals have the names of the leaders of the revolutionists, who will be tried by court-martial when caught and either shot or imprisoned. The majority of those already executed were Lettish teachers or students.

The revolutionists have stopped burning buildings, but they occasionally fire on the troops. Among the burned castles is that of Baron Rosen Grossroop, about twenty miles northwest of Wenden, which was destroyed with all its contents, servants who had been in the service of the baron for twenty years assisting in the work of destruction.

Altogether the revolutionists in this district burned 200 castles, valued at $4,000,000, without including the articles of value which they contained.

To Remove Revenue.

Washington, D. C.—The ways and means committee of the house of representatives has concluded to investigate the advisability of allowing the use of free alcohol in the arts and manufactures. The tax on pure alcohol at present is $2.07 per gallon. The idea is to denaturize the alcohol so that it cannot be drank and then to exempt the tax on the denaturized alcohol. Mr. Underwood, of Alabama, a member of the ways and means committee, has been interesting himself in securing the consideration of this matter by the committee and in getting hearings on the matter, which will commence this week. In answer to a question as to his views on the matter, Mr. Underwood stated that all the European countries allowed the use of denaturized alcohol in the arts without taxation; that America was the only country which taxed the use of alcohol in the arts, and by that taxation had practically deprived the people of the United States of its use.

Abolishes Use of Bible.

New York.—Justice John M. Tirney, of a municipal court in the Bronx, has abolished the use of the Bible in his court. Explaining his action, he said: "I have removed the Bible from my court. It was a desecration to use it there. Lying words from the mouths of lying witnesses made it a mockery, a travesty. I was brought up to regard it with veneration and reverence as the word of God. It is shocking to find men calling upon the Deity to witness the truth of what they say—'so help me God'—with a lie in their hearts and upon the lips by which they profaned the Good Book."

Chattanooga Man Drops Dead.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—Ismar Noa, a prominent citizen and business man, dropped dead at his home Saturday. He was 68 years old, at one time an officer in the Prussian army, and had lived in the south since the war.

Examinations Troubled Him.

New York.—Will Van Rypen, Jr., a law student at Columbia University, a son of Rear Admiral Knickerbocker Van Rypen, of Washington, a retired surgeon in the navy, shot and killed himself in his room in an apartment house at No. 12 West Forty-fourth street. The young man was 23 years of age and was a student at Yale. It is understood he was greatly exercised over his coming examinations.

Burning Villages.

Tangier.—Fighting has begun in the environs of Tangier between the Anjera tribesmen and members of Raisuli's band. Tribesmen have burned three villages east of Tangier, and are now marching in force to attack Raisuli at his fortress in Zinat. A transport has left for Adjercud, where it will discharge artillery and gunners for Oujda. Raisuli's partisans infest the roads in the vicinity of Tangier and murder or maltreat travelers in open defiance of the authorities. The Moorish troops are powerless. Most of their horses have died for want of forage, and there have been numerous desertions owing to non-payment of arrearages in their salaries.

A convoy with $25,000 has arrived at Oujda to pay Mohalla's troops, who had threatened to leave unless arrers were paid. This seems to indicate that the sultan fears renewed activity on the part of the pretender, Oujda being the spot he is expected to attack first.

Plan Nine-Mile Tunnel.

New York.—A dispatch to the Times from Pittsburg, Pa., says the famous horseshoe curve on the Pennsylvania is to be eliminated. Two methods are proposed and four sets of plans have been prepared. Two plans are for tunnels through the Allegheny mountains, one nine miles and the other eleven miles long. Other plans are new routes across the mountains, one 90 and the other 105 miles long. The nine-mile tunnel plan probably will be adopted. The tunnel would enter the mountains at or near Kittaning Point and emerge between Cresson and Lilly. This would be the the second largest tunnel in the world. It will accommodate four tracks and will be ventilated with shafts reaching the crests of the mountains. All operations through it will be by electric power. The cost of the tunnel and making connections with the main line is estimated at more than $15,000,000.

Dying From Cold.

Mexico City.—The great cold wave which has caused so much suffering in Central Mexico and even on the gulf coast has abated after three days of clouds and north winds. The police report that twelve members of the lower class perished in one night on the streets from cold and exposure, being poorly clad, and most of them being victims of alcoholism. The cold produced congestion of the lungs, and the victims died sitting in the doorways of business buildings. Governor Landa had bonfires in the streets for people out at night. The poor have suffered greatly during this remarkable period of cold.

Van Schaick Given Ten Years.

New York.—Captain William H. Van Schaick Saturday was found guilty of criminal negligence in failing to have fire drills on the steamer General Slocum, which he commanded in June, 1904, when that steamer burned, with the loss of over 1,000 lives. He was immediately sentenced to ten years' imprisonment by Judge Thomas, of the United States district court.

The jury disagreed as to two other counts, in which he was charged with criminal negligence by the employment of life preservers of poor quality on the steamer.

Colonel Mann Is Now Up for Perjury.

New York.—Col. William D. Mann, editor of Town Topics, was arrested late Saturday on a charge of perjury growing out of his testimony in the recent criminal libel proceedings against Norman Hapgood, editor of Collier's Weekly. Colonel Mann was arrested in his offices at 452 Fifth avenue by a detective of District Attorney Jerome's staff. He ordered his automobile and with the officer drove down town to the criminal court building, where he was arraigned before a city magistrate and held in $10,000 bail for examination next Thursday.

Burn Postoffice After Robbery.

Meridian, Miss.—The postoffice at Lizella, several miles north of this city, and the general store of C. W. Fleming, in which it was located, were looted and burned last night by unknown parties. The building and its entire contents were destroyed, the finding of postoffice packages and papers several hundred yards away being the only clue to the manner of the fire.

Driven to Suicide by Wheeler's Death.

Chicago, Ill.—Brooding over the fatal illness of her old family friend, Gen. Joseph Wheeler, Mrs. Margaret Bailey ended her life with strychnine at the Sherman House. Twelve years ago Mrs. Bailey was prominent in Washington society, especially in army circles.

England Not Involved.

London.—The British admiralty says that the rumor that the British battleship Dominion is going to Venezuela is groundless. She has left Halifax, N. S., for home.

Washington, D. C.—It has been decided by the Keep commission, after a conference with the president, to make a careful investigation of the figures it used in its recent report on cotton statistics of the agricultural department. The accuracy of the figures is questioned by Secretary Wilson. They were prepared by the census bureau, and it is understood the Keep commission accepted them without question. An effort will now be made by the commission to verify the figures.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the payment of the debt secured by a certain mortgage executed to the undersigned on the 9th day of February, 1900, by William L. Parnell and wife, Eliza J. Parnell, and recorded in the Probate office of Chilton county, Alabama, in Mortgage Record 53, on page 217 et seq., and said default still continuing, I, the said Alexander W. Jones, will sell, under the power in said mortgage contained, on Tuesday, the 27th day of February, 1906, in front of the court house door of Chilton county, in the city of Clanton, county of Chilton and State of Alabama, during the legal hours of sale, at public outcry to the highest and best bidder for cash, the following described real estate situated, lying and being in said county and State, to-wit: The south half of the northwest quarter, the southwest quarter, the south half of the northeast quarter and the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter, the west half of the southeast quarter and the north half of the northwest quarter of section one (1), township twenty (20) and range eleven (11); the south half of the northeast quarter and the north half of the southeast quarter, southwest quarter of the southeast quarter, and the southwest quarter, the west half of the northwest quarter of section thirty-six (36), township twenty-one (21) and range eleven (11); the north half of the northeast quarter, southwest quarter of the northeast quarter, the east half of the east half of the southwest quarter, the southwest quarter of the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter and the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section two (2), township twenty (20) and range eleven (11); also the timber right on the following lands situated in the county of Chilton and State of Alabama, to-wit: The south half of the northeast quarter, north half of the southeast quarter and the north half of the southwest quarter of section sixteen (16), township twenty (20) and range twelve (12). This sale will be made to satisfy the debt secured by said mortgage, including a reasonable attorney's fee for the foreclosure of this mortgage and the collection of the debt and the cost of advertising.

ALEXANDER W. JONES,
Mortgagee.
E. CARLISLE JONES, Attorney.
1-25-06-4w

We Club With

The New York World

THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION.

Read Wherever the English Language is Spoken

For the autumn season now at hand the most valuable paper to you will be the New York Thrice-a-week world, because it offers you more at the price than any other paper published anywhere in the world.

This is a time of great events. We are having great wars and other changes of a stirring kind are occurring both at home and abroad. The Thrice-a-Week World comes to you every other day, except Sunday, with all the news, fully, accurately and promptly told.

The Thrice-a-Week World is fair in its political reports. You can get the truth from its columns, whether you are Republican or Democrat, and that is what you want.

The Thrice-a-Week World always has a serial story running, and it is always a first-class story by a first-class author. The Thrice-a-Week World publishes better fiction than any other newspaper in the United States. Special attention is also given to markets, and there are many other valuable features.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequaled newspaper and THE UNION together one year for $1.50. The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.00. tf.

NOTICE NO. 26308.

Department of the Interior,
Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
December 18, 1905.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Clerk of the Circuit Court at Clanton, Ala., on February 3, 1906, viz: Andrew J. Johnson, homestead entry No. 37392, for the N. 1-2 of N. E. 1-4, N. E. 1-4 of N. W. 1-4, section 27, township 22, range 15 east.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:

Wash Parrish, Monroe Parrish, William Easterling, Beait Easterling, all of Clanton, Ala.

ROBERT BARBER,
12-21-05-6t Register.

COUNTY COURT.

Hold first Monday in each month. All interested will pleased take notice that the court will open at 9:30 a. m. sharp.

L. H. REYNOLDS,
Judge of County Court,
tf Chilton County, Ala.

ABOUT CANDIDATES.

All letters praising any particular candidate by name will have to be paid for at the rate of 1-2 cent per word. The UNION will publish free all matter relating to the general welfare and prospects of the party of the People. tf

Clean brass fixtures with cut lemon, afterwards washing with warm water.

Thorsby, Alabam

Business Directory.

Commercial Club
OF THORSBY
DEFINITE and RELIABLE information furnished to parties who desire to locate in the South.

A. M. Johnson
Groceries and Delicatessen

J. J. STANLEY
GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

MRS. MARY R. RASBERRY
General Merchandise.

E. H. Adams
General Merchandise.

J. R. PARNELL
General Merchandise.

"MOLINE" Farming Implements and "FLORENCE" Wagons in stock at all times.
J. K. ORR SHOES.

J. L. FOSS
Meat Market.

The Thorsby Inn
G. C. Michelson, Prop.
Good Beds and Meals.

While in a state of melancholia, Ernest J. Norton, one of the richest young men of Louisville, Ky., shot himself.

Lewis Nixon arrived in New York City, having completed his shipbuilding contracts in Russia.

HALLS OF CONGRESS.

Representative Williams charged graft and incompetency in connection with the Panama Canal.

Senator Burton stood in the doorway of the Senate Chamber long enough to be identified for mileage.

Speaker Cannon has received from an admiring South Carolinian a pair of hand-knit, homemade "galluses."

A lively discussion of the railroad rate question was precipitated by a speech made by Mr. Clay, of Georgia.

Republicans and Democrats in the House of Representatives spoke in favor of digging the Panama Canal by contract.

Mr. Depew appeared in the Senate for the first time since the Christmas holidays, and was cordially welcomed by his colleagues.

The Secretary of War sent to Congress an estimate of $80,000 to enlarge the Army Building on Whitehall street, New York City, by the addition of two stories.

Senator Aldrich, the tactical leader of the Republican majority in the Senate, declared that either Mr. Hearst or Mr. Bryan will be the Democratic candidate for President in 1908.

It was announced in the House cloak room Colonel Cecil A. Lyon, who controls the Texas Republican machine, has pledged thirty-six votes in the next Republican National Convention for the renomination of Colonel Roosevelt.

There is much discussion in the House as to who the Representative was who "franked" a large bookcase through the mails. The case is said to have contained household goods. It was seised and $72 postage was collected.

The President sent a message to Congress urging an appropriation of $25,000 for the employment of experts to investigate the methods employed in the executive departments in connection with the work of the Keep Commission.

Baron Boris Korff, according to a special cable dispatch from St. Petersburg, Russia, committed suicide rather than carry out the relentless orders of General Orloff to shoot down the people of Livonia.

Insurgent forces have captured Quito, the capital of Ecuador, and Vice-President Moreno has assumed executive power.

Provincialism lies in the fact that, being of one province you pretend to belong to another—to the metropolitan province in particular, which is just like the other provinces except that it is bigger and more self-satisfied, asserts Ernest Crosby.

OLAF SCHI
Watchmaker
And Jeweler
Horn's Drug S
Full assortment of Watch... elry, etc. All repair wor... anteed.

Thorsby Win... —Co.—
Lofthus & Bromberg, P...

A. HORN
Drugs, Stationery and ... Articles.
LICENSED PHARMA...

City Bake...
BREAD, CAKES ... PIES
of all kinds, fresh every ...
K. A. EKBLA...

A Langville & ...
BLACKSMITHS
and HORSESHOER...
Dealers in
WAGONS and BUGG...

C. L. Forsm...
Brick Yard.

J. BICE
Charcoal Oven...

60 YEAR... EXPERIEN...
PATENT...
TRADE MA... DESIGN...
COPYRIGHTS...
Anyone sending a sketch and descripti... quickly ascertain our opinion free whet... invention is probably patentable. Comm... tions strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on ... sent free. Oldest agency for securing pa... Patents taken through Munn & Co. ... special notice, without charge, in the Scientific America...
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Lar... culation of any scientific journal. Term... year; four months, $1. Sold by all news...
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New ...
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, ...

Watson's Maga...
Increase in Price...
Beginning with the Februa... Number, our Magazine will ... WATSON'S MAGAZINE. It ... a handsomer cover. Several ... tures will be added. The price ... stores and newsstands will be ...
To be just to our present sub... we have decided to receive ... and new subscriptions at $1.00 ... to March 31st, 1906. After that ... scription price will be $1.50 per ...
This is a golden opportunity ... who are not within easy reach ... stands. If you have never ... magazine, ask for sample copy, ... ing this paper and address.
TOM WATSON'S MAGA...
tf. 121 West 42d St., New Y...

Harper's Weekly says ... world's cotton production for ... tering commercial channels, ... 041,839 bales, with a total co... of 15,474,980 bales. This in... surplus in the world's factory ... cotton amounting to 2,566,8... The total production and co... of cotton, however, commen... lanta Constitution, does not ... the full statistics for the wor... quantities of cotton are ... consumed in China, Japan, A... sia, and other Eastern coun... in South and Central Amer... do not enter into commercial ... and cannot be estimated wit... tainty.

One great advantage a ... believes in himself, and th... battle, avows the Duckto... Gazette.

VOL III.

ALABAMA ST...

Items of Interest Gath... Over the ...

FAMOUS TRIAL BEGUN.

Well Known Man Is Charged with Killing His Brother-in-Law Over a Year Ago.

Montgomery.—Dan Stallings went on trial Friday in Greenville for the killing of the husband of his sister, Buckhalts, Oct. 1, 1904, and the outlook is that it will be one of the hardest fought legal battles in the history of the state. Some of the best talent of the country is engaged to fight it out. For the defense are ... ars his cousin, former Congressman ... Stallings, former Circuit Judge ... rry Richardson of Montgomery, ... live Reed, C. C. Smith, R. B. Smyt... d I. Y. Trawick; for the state, So... citor Bricken, State Senator D. ... owell and Claude Hamilton. Th... life of the dead man was in th... court room. Thursday was taken wit... e assembling of a jury. The de... ndant has entered a plea of no... uilty by reason of self defense.

The story of the killing is one tha... sounded from one end of the stat... to the other. About a year prior t... he day of the tragedy, Oct. 1, 190... Buckhalts stole the sister of the d... endant and they were married ... Greenville. They went away to Ne... Orleans for a week and then retur... ed to live on their farm near tha... of Stallings. Though boyhood friend... the two men then became deadly en... mies and never spoke again save ... anger. On the day of the shooti... they were in Greenville. Both are r... orted to have said that the other wa... scoundrel. Buckhalts was gettin... ready to leave and was in the stre... in his buggy, to which was attache... a mule. Stallings went out and as... if he had said that he was a scou... drel.

Just here the shooting began. Bo... had their pistols out in a twinkli... and the air was at once filled wi... detonations. A cloud of smoke e... veloped them. At the rattle of fi... arms the mule picked up its ears a... ran away with the buggy several hu... dred yards before stopped. Buckha... lay over on the seat dead. Seven... bullets had gone into his body n... it had been short work with hi... Back in the road lay Stallings. H... body, too, had bullets stored away ... it. He was taken into the office ... a doctor and examined. The woun... were pronounced mortal. Howev... he won the fight over death by re... son of his great strength and is no... strong and well.

The trial is attracting great crow... and will likely run on for some tim... Judge B. M. Miller of Camden is p... siding, having exchanged places wi... Judge Richardson because the lat... is father to Judge Richardson of t... defense counsel.

Poll Taxes in Madison.

Huntsville.—The poll tax books ... Madison county were closed at m... night Thursday, according to law, a... up to the closing 1,564 voters h... paid their polls. Fifteen hundr... voters in this county disfranchis... themselves by failure to pay the ... and the voting strength of the coun... including those not subject to p... tax, will be only 3,100. An unusu... large number paid this year and ma... of them had to pay five years ba... tax. Thirty-one persons paid for t... years, seventy-six for four years, s... enty-one for three years and th... hundred and thirteen for two ye... This was occasioned by the fact t... there will probably be a warm fi... here this year over the dispens... question.

Boy Has Leg Cut Off.

Huntsville.—While stealing a ... on a passenger train of the N... ville, Chattanooga and St. Louis ... way, Willie Sorrel, a 7-year-old ... fell under the wheels and a leg ... mashed off. The boy was one o... crowd of young boys that have m... a practice of jumping on m... trains in Defiance of police and de... employes.

Poll Taxes in Lauderdale.

Florence.—The payment of poll ... in this county has been very li... only 974 receipts having been iss... by the tax collector when the bo... closed. Many white men have ... franchised themselves and the t... vote of this county will not be m... above 1,700.

Poll Taxes in Cherokee.

Centre.—Nine hundred and fo... seven poll taxes were paid in ... county for the year 1905, an incre... of 310 over the year 1904. There ... estimated to be 500 voters in ... county who have disfranchised th... selves by failing to pay the poll t...

Alabam
Directory.

OLAF SCHIV
Watchmaker
And Jeweler
Horn's Drug St
Full assortment of Watches, elry, etc. All repair work anteed.

Thorsby Wine
—Co.—
Lofthus & Bromberg, Pr

A. HORN
Drugs, Stationery and Articles.
LICENSED PHARMAC

City Baker
BREAD, CAKES
PIES
of all kinds, fresh every
K. A. EKBLA

A Langville &
BLACKSMITHS
and
HORSESHOERS
Dealers in
WAGONS and BUGG

C. L. Forsma
Brick Yard.

J. BICE
Charcoal Ovens

60 YEARS EXPERIENCE
PATENT
TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the
Scientific American
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Watson's Magaz
Increase in Price
Beginning with the February Number, our Magazine will be WATSON'S MAGAZINE. It will have a handsomer cover. Several new features will be added. The price at stores and newsstands will be 15 cents a copy.
To be just to our present subscribers we have decided to receive renewals and new subscriptions at $1.00 a year to March 31st, 1906. After that date the subscription price will be $1.50 per year.
This is a golden opportunity for those who are not within easy reach of newsstands. If you have never seen the magazine, ask for sample copy, mentioning this paper and address,
TOM WATSON'S MAGAZINE
tf. 121 West 42d St., New York

Harper's Weekly says the world's cotton production for the year, entering commercial channels, was 13,041,859 bales, with a total consumption of 15,474,980 bales. This leaves a surplus in the world's factories of cotton amounting to 2,566,8[illegible]. The total production and consumption of cotton, however, comments the Atlanta Constitution, does not include the full statistics for the world. Large quantities of cotton are grown and consumed in China, Japan, Asia, and other Eastern countries, and in South and Central America, who do not enter into commercial statistics and cannot be estimated with certainty.

One great advantage a man believed in himself, and that battle, avows the Ducktown Gazette.

THE UNION.

EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL, SPECIAL FAVORS TO NONE.

VOL. III. CLANTON, ALA., FEBRUARY 8 1906. NO. 46

ALABAMA STATE EVENTS.

Items of Interest Gathered as They Transpire Over the Entire State.

FAMOUS TRIAL BEGUN.

Well Known Man Is Charged with Killing His Brother-in-Law Over a Year Ago.

Montgomery.—Dan Stallings went on trial Friday in Greenville for the killing of the husband of his sister, Radford Buckhalts, Oct. 1, 1904, and the outlook is that it will be one of the hardest fought legal battles in the history of the state. Some of the best talent of the country is engaged to fight it out. For the defense appears his cousin, former Congressman Jesse Stallings, former Circuit Judge Terry Richardson of Montgomery, Olive Reed, C. C. Smith, R. B. Smyth and I. Y. Trawick; for the state, Solicitor Bricken, State Senator D. M. Powell and Claude Hamilton. The wife of the dead man was in the court room. Thursday was taken with the assembling of a jury. The defendant has entered a plea of not guilty by reason of self defense.

The story of the killing is one that resounded from one end of the state to the other. About a year prior to the day of the tragedy, Oct. 1, 1904, Buckhalts stole the sister of the defendant and they were married at Greenville. They went away to New Orleans for a week and then returned to live on their farm near that of Stallings. Though boyhood friends, the two men then became deadly enemies and never spoke again save in anger. On the day of the shooting they were in Greenville. Both are reported to have said that the other was a scoundrel. Buckhalts was getting ready to leave and was in the street in his buggy, to which was attached a mule. Stallings went out and asked if he had said that he was a scoundrel.

Just here the shooting began. Both had their pistols out in a twinkling and the air was at once filled with detonations. A cloud of smoke enveloped them. At the rattle of fire-arms the mule picked up its ears and ran away with the buggy several hundred yards before stopped. Buckhalts lay over on the seat dead. Several bullets had gone into his body and it had been short work with him. Back in the road lay Stallings. His body, too, had bullets stored away in it. He was taken into the office of a doctor and examined. The wounds were pronounced mortal. However, he won the fight over death by reason of his great strength and is now strong and well.

The trial is attracting great crowds and will likely run on for some time. Judge B. M. Miller of Camden is presiding, having exchanged places with Judge Richardson because the latter is father to Judge Richardson of the defense counsel.

Poll Taxes in Madison.

Huntsville. The poll tax books of Madison county were closed at midnight Thursday, according to law, and up to the closing 1,564 voters had paid their polls. Fifteen hundred voters in this county disfranchised themselves by failure to pay the tax and the voting strength of the county, including those not subject to poll tax, will be only 3,100. An unusually large number paid this year and many of them had to pay five years back tax. Thirty-one persons paid for five years, seventy-six for four years, seventy-one for three years and three hundred and thirteen for two years. This was occasioned by the fact that there will probably be a warm fight here this year over the dispensary question.

Boy Has Leg Cut Off.

Huntsville.—While stealing a ride on a passenger train of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway, Willie Sorrel, a 7-year-old boy, fell under the wheels and a leg was mashed off. The boy was one of a crowd of young boys that have made a practice of jumping on moving trains in defiance of police and depot employes.

Poll Taxes in Lauderdale.

Florence.—The payment of poll tax in this county has been very light, only 974 receipts having been issued by the tax collector when the books closed. Many white men have disfranchised themselves and the total vote of this county will not be much above 1,700.

Poll Taxes in Cherokee.

Centre.—Nine hundred and forty-seven poll taxes were paid in this county for the year 1905, an increase of 210 over the year 1904. There are estimated to be 500 voters in the county who have disfranchised themselves by failing to pay the poll tax.

FROM OPEN GRATE.

Woman's Clothing Catches and Death is Result.

Birmingham.—Mrs. Ella Russell, aged 30, living on Avenue E and Twenty-third street, was burned to death Saturday morning, she being a victim of the open grate. Mrs. Russell was combing her hair, using a small looking glass which stood on the mantel board over the open grate. The flames enveloped her dress and the woman ran out of the house into the yard screaming. She then returned to the kitchen. A physician who was passing rushed to the woman's aid and threw a blanket around her, but he arrived after the clothing had been burned off and the woman was suffering excruciating pains. The unfortunate woman pleaded with the physician to give her relief and it was evident that the sufferings were terrible. Death relieved the woman of hre pains in three hours. She kept house for her brother, who is employed at the Southern railway shops. The remains will be interred tomorrow afternoon.

Senator Morgan's Letter.

Selma.—A letter from Senator Morgan which was delayed in transmission, was received Saturday by Editor R. E. L. Niel of the Selma Journal and enclosed was a copy of the letter written to Mr. Mallory, chairman of the state committee, in which the Senator announced his candidacy. The letter reads as follows:

Washington, Jan. 26, 1906.

Hon. H. S. D. Mallory, Chairman Democratic Executive Committee.

Dear Sir—I desire to state to the executive committee of the democratic party of Alabama, that I will ask that my name may be placed on the ticket to be used in the Democratic primary election held in August, as a candidate for the seat in the Senate of the United States that will be vacant on March 5, 1907. On being advised by you, I will make this application in such form as the regulations of the committee require.

I take occasion to express my gratitude to the people of Alabama for the marks of confidence they have given me in my long service in the Senate of the United States. I have tried to thank them by a faithful and unremitting effort to do my duty to the state and the people of Alabama. If I should again be their choice for this responsible and honorable place, as their representative in the Senate of the United States, I will endeavor to express my gratitude for their confidence by serving them with continued fidelity, to the best of my ability.

It is very pleasing to me that I am permitted to announce my candidacy through your committee, whose chairman and many of its mebers I have known fro early childhooe.

Permit me to tender you my congratulations on your deserved honors as chairman of a committee that is charged by the people with the great duties that are so importaet to their welfare.

I have the honor to remain, Your sincere friend,

JOHN T. MORGAN.

New Publishing Company.

Gadsden.—The Gadsden Times-News Printing company have filed with the probate judge papers of incorporation with a capital stock of $25,000. The Times-News, owned and operated by W. M. Meeks and Son, has been formed into a stock company. They will install a daily and take the Associated Press reports from all parts of the world. New printing presses and another linotype machine will be added. The paper will continue as heretofore, but will be improved. The stockholders are W. M. Meeks, Charles E. Meeks, J. R. McMullen, O. R. Goldman, J. M. Elliott, Dr. H. L. Allison, H. Meeks, H. B. Myers, Annie L. Meeks, O. R. Hood, S. E. Rosenbaum, W. P. Lay. The officers are W. M. Meeks, president; O. R. Hood, vice-president; Charles E. Meeks, general manager and treasurer; J. R. McMullen, secretary. The daily will be issued as soon as the new machinery can be installed.

Good Showing in Anniston.

Anniston.—A steady stream of visitors besieged the office of the tax collector Friday for the purpose of securing the necessary receipt which will allow them to vote next November. The number of receipts issued this year was nearly 1,300. This, however, is quite a little short of last year. The tax collector's office was kept open until midnight and many took advantage of that accommodation.

PARIS CATHOLICS FIGHT

Fifty Badly Wounded in Storming of St. Pierre's Church.

FIREMEN FLOOD THE BUILDING

Doors Battered Down and Police Then Enter, Using Chairs as Shields—Defenders Arrested—Fierce Conflict Over the Taking of an Inventory in One Church.

Paris, France.—As a net result of a day's rioting, though the inventory was taken in but one church, that of St. Pierre-du-Gros-Caillou, over fifty persons were seriously injured and many others were slightly hurt. The latter included a number of police and firemen who were almost blinded with cayenne pepper. Fifty arrests were made.

The Rue St. Dominique, in which the Church of St. Pierre-du-Gros-Caillou is situated, had the appearance of a street in a besieged city, in consequence of the rigorous measures which the authorities had adopted in order to deal with clerical disturbances and a threatened counter-demonstration by Socialists against the militant Catholics.

All the shops in the neighborhood of the edifice were closed, cordons of armed Municipal Guards on foot were stationed at intervals along the street, and a squadron of mounted Municipal Guards with drawn swords patrolled the thoughfare and kept the crowds moving.

When the Prefect of Police, Louis Lepine, arrived the bells were tolled and the people inside the church, numbering about 3000, began singing psalms, while outside the rowdy element shouted revolutionary songs.

M. Lepine thrice summoned the congregation to open the inside gates, which the people refused to do, and then firemen were ordered to force an entrance, using their hatchets. As they mounted ladders in order to break in the windows of the Chapel of the Virgin, an annex of the church, revolver shots rang out and the firemen retired.

Later a fire engine arrived on the scene, and, amid a shower of missiles, the firemen scrambled up to the roof with a hose, the water was turned on, and the interior of the building was soon flooded. In the meantime the doors had been battered down, but the Municipal Guards found barricades inside and met with fierce resistance.

The storming of the building was greatly protracted owing to the use by the defenders of red pepper. After repeated efforts the policemen and firemen succeeded in entering the church by employing chairs as shields. The first two who got through the doors were knocked unconscious. Others emerged covered with blood, with their clothes torn, and soaked to the skin.

Finally the authorities obtained the mastery and the demonstrators were captured one by one and led to the nearest station house.

Eventually the Guards cleared the rioters away from the vicinity of the church.

Prefect Lepine and other high officials and the newspapers of all shades of opinion deprecate the violent incidents. It is said that the clergy have done their best by advice to their congregations to remain calm, but without avail, the militant Catholics being firmly resolved to resist what they term the spoilation of the many Paris churches, containing many millions of francs' worth of jewelry, military medals and decorations given by devotees as thank offerings.

It is charged that the blame for the conflicts attaches to the Minister of the Interior because of his order that the inventories of the churches should be made before the regulations under the Separation law are definitely drawn up. This leaves the Catholics uncertain regarding the eventual fate of church property, and their doubts on this subject have brought about their resistance to the order and its results.

The authorities are determined, however, that the law shall take its course, and the disorders are to be suppressed with the utmost vigor.

Twenty-two hundred inventories have already been made throughout France, many without incident.

TO ACCEPT CUBA'S GIFT.

The Present to Miss Alice Roosevelt Will Not Be Declined.

Havana. — The Mayor of Santiago telegraphed the suggestion that the plantation of which San Juan Hill is a part be purchased for Miss Alice Roosevelt's wedding present, but the matter has already been turned over to the Minister at Paris, who is to buy a present.

Secretary of State O'Farrell has received an assurrance from Washington that President Roosevelt will not decline Cuba's gift for his daughter.

CHILDREN VICTIMS IN PANIC.

Disregard For Little Ones Shown in a Rush of Their Elders For Safety.

Vienna, Austria.—The shrieks of a woman taken with an epileptic fit during a children's service at the Parish Church in Lerchenfeld caused a false alarm of fire, and terrible panic ensued, adults displaying a heartless disregard for the children in their efforts to escape. One child was killed, others were mortally, and about fifty less seriously, injured.

PROMOTIONS IN THE ARMY

Gen. J. F. Bell Will Become Chief of Staff to Succeed Gen. Bates.

LATTER NOW LIEUT.-GENERAL

Speculations of Army Officers Now at an End Regarding the Possible Promotion of Gen. Leonard Wood to the Highest Position in the Army—Gen. Corbin to Succeed Bates.

Washington, D. C.—Changes of great importance in the high places in the Army were announced at the War Department by Secretary Taft. The most interesting feature of the announcement, as well as the most surprising, was that Brigadier-General J. Franklin Bell, now President of the Infantry and Cavalry School, at Fort Leavenworth, will on April 14 next, the date of the retirement of General John C. Bates (nominated by the President to be Lieutenant-General and Chief of Staff, succeeding Lieutenant-General Chaffee, who just retired) be made Chief of Staff of the Army, to succeed General Bates. While it was known that General Bell's name had been considered for the place it was believed that there were other officers who had a better chance of being selected.

The question of filling the vacancy which will be created by General Bates' retirement has been under consideration for months. It was determined several weeks ago that Major-General Henry C. Corbin, recently relieved of command of the Philippine Division, should succeed General Bates as Lieutenant-General, and that Major-General Arthur MacArthur should succeed General Corbin upon the latter's retirement from active service next September. The question of who would be Lieutenant-General until June, 1909, was thus disposed of, but no decision was reached as to who should be Chief of Staff after the retirement of General Bates. It was not deemed necessary or wise to have the Lieutenant-General of the Army also the Chief of Staff.

The appointment of General Bell clears the military atmosphere considerably. General Bell will not retire until 1914 at the earliest, and so the office of Chief of Staff will not be again filled by the Roosevelt Administration. So it will be with the Lieutenant-Generalcy, for General MacArthur will retire soon after the retirement of Mr. Roosevelt from the Presidency.

The decision to appoint General MacArthur Lieutenant-General and General Bell Chief of Staff disposes of the question much discussed in Army circles for the past few years as to whether Major-General Leonard Wood was to be made Lieutenant-General and Chief of Staff, or either. On account of their old friendship and the fact that General Wood was Colonel of the Rough Riders when Mr. Roosevelt was Lieutenant-Colonel, many Army officers were led to suppose that the President would before leaving office appoint General Wood to the highest rank in the Army. The present selections apparently preclude any such action.

Simultaneously with the announcement that General Bell will be the next Chief of Staff and a Major-General, it was announced that the nomination of Brigadier-General Adolphus W. Greely, Chief Signal Officer of the Army, to be a Major-General, filling the vacancy caused by the promotion of Major-General Bates to the Lieutenant-Generalcy, had been sent to the Senate, together with the nomination of Colonel James Allen, senior Colonel of the Signal Corps, to be Brigadier-General and Chief Signal Officer, succeeding General Greely.

A general order for the retirement from active service of Lieutenant-General Chaffee was signed by Secretary Taft. The order was so purely formal in tone, differing in that respect from one or two others of a similar nature made recently, in which were included some reference to the efficient services of the retiring officers, that some comment was made. In explanation Secretary Taft issued a statement in which he said that while he believed that no officer was more entitled to commendation than was General Chaffee, the Army regulations prohibited any eulogistic remarks in general orders, and that the rule would be hereafter adhered to. In the statement, however, Mr. Taft was most free in his praise of the retiring Lieutenant-General.

General Chaffee called at the War Department and said good-by to his many friends and fellow officers there. He is going to West Point in a day or two to visit his son. Later he, Mrs. Chaffee and Miss Chaffee are going to Cuba for a brief tour, and then to Mexico. They will return to Washington in May, to depart soon thereafter for Los Angeles, where General Chaffee will make his future home.

VARDAMAN SAVES A NEGRO.

Foils Mob by Seizing Theatrical Co.'s Train and Taking Troops.

Jackson, Miss.—Governor Vardaman was in such a hurry to get to Dio and rescue a negro, George Fifer, from an approaching mob, that he seized a special train belonging to a company playing "The Little Duchess," and went to the rescue with State troops.

S. W. Combs, manager of the theatrical company, fearing that the Governor would not return to the city in time to get the company out of town for its next engagement, telegraphed for another train. The Governor returned, however, before the curtain went down and the company left on time.

LONG MYSTERY SOLVED

House in Brooklyn, N. Y., Opened After Years of Darkness.

Wealthy Insane Woman Had Made the Dwelling a Cache For $250,000 Worth of Valuables.

New York City.—The famous "House of Mystery," at No. 178 State street, Brooklyn, which for twelve years has puzzled the residents of the fashionable Heights section, has at last given up its secret.

Searchers, preparing an inventory of the estate of Mrs. Mary Cook King, who was buried from Flushing Sanitarium, completed their exploration of the gloomy old brownstone front dwelling, and their discoveries reveal an amazing story of the vagaries of a wealthy woman, whose insanity took the form of an uncontrollable passion for rare old laces, pottery and bric-a-brac and led to the dissipation of a great fortune.

Piled high in every apartment of the house, in closets, in the cellar and garret and in outhouses, and in every conceivable place where goods might be stored, the searchers uncovered bales and bundles of silks and laces, the most delicate potteries, elaborate sets of solid silver, handsome dresses of a period dating back ten or fifteen years, and a heterogeneous collection of magnificent textures of princely value, amounting altogether in value to more than $250,000.

Many of the bundles found never had been opened. Almost all the rich gowns had never been worn. All of the property, save the pottery and the silverware, had been ruined by the ravages of moths and rodents.

The story of the "House of Mystery" is oddly romantic. Mrs. King was a daughter of the late William C. Cook, prominent in official and social life of Brooklyn sixty years ago. Her husband, Dr. King, was a wealthy practitioner, and in the mystery house the couple lived for many years, leaders in a social set in which many of the most prominent Brooklyn families moved.

Dr. King died sixteen years ago, leaving a large fortune which, in addition to real estate holdings, included $500,000 of personal estate, mostly in negotiable securities.

Four years after her husband's death Mrs. King becoming mentally unbalanced, was placed in a sanitarium, and she remained there until 1900, when she escaped, and after being trailed all over Brooklyn and Manhattan finally was found in the house at No. 178 State street. She successfully resisted all efforts of her attendants to enter the place, and finally a locksmith was secured and he opened the door.

On the threshold the attendants found Mrs. King fully attired for the street. She refused to permit any one to enter the house, but consented to return to the sanitarium with the attendants, provided a new lock was placed on the door of her home and the key given to her. This arrangement was made, and Mrs. King left the "House of Mystery" forever.

Mrs. King's death made the opening of the house necessary. Her will, made before her failing mentality was shown, disposed of her estate to her brother, John Cook, and his family, and it was a representative of Mr. Cook and W. L. Norman, of No. 180 State street, and Charles Johnson, of No. 164 State street, who made the investigation which brought forth surprising discoveries at every turn.

ERIE TUNNEL COLLAPSES.

A Section of the Roof Caves In—Three Men Killed and Four Injured.

Middletown, N. Y.—The roof of a section of the new tunnel of the Erie Railroad at Otisville, near here, collapsed and three men were killed and four were injured. The men were Italians. The new tunnel is to be a mile and an eighth long and runs through the Shawangunk Mountains at Otisville. About 500 men are employed on the tunnel, working day and night shifts. There were two gangs of men working in the tunnel, one west and the other east of the main shaft.

At 3 o'clock in the morning a heavy blast was set off in the east heading, and at 7 o'clock the day gang went into the tunnel to clear away the debris. This gang consisted of twenty-four men, in charge of Foreman William Donnelly. The tunnel heading had been cleared out and the sides and top trimmed. The top of the tunnel showed solid rock.

At 7.10 a. m. a heavy blast was set off in the west heading, several hundred feet away, and a few minutes later there was a cracking sound at the east heading. One of the men who first noticed the sound looked up and then shouted to his companions to look out. The rock formed an arch when it struck the bottom of the tunnel, and this saved the lives of four of the men. The three killed were struck on the head by fragments of the great stone, their skulls being crushed.

A force of men was immediately put to work to rescue the dead and imprisoned men. A tunnel was run under the rock and in two hours the men were released.

Eliot Against Football.

President Eliot, of Harvard University, at Cambridge, Mass., declared that football is more brutalizing than prize fighting or bull fighting, and recommends that it be prohibited in college athletics.

Togo to Bring Warships Here.

It is announced in Tokio, Japan, upon reliable authority, that Admiral Togo will visit America in April with two armored cruisers.

Professional Cards.

Attorneys.

William M. Adams,
Attorney-at-Law.
CLANTON.
Office, Adams Place. Practices in all Courts. Long time loans negotiated on improved Farm Lands.

N. S. JOHNSON, M. D.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
Office at
Clanton Drug Store CLANTON

L. V. STABLER, M. D
Physician & Surgeon
Office Over Horn's Drug Store
Thorsby, Alabama

DR. E. G. HYMAN
DENTIST
Office in Tyson Middleton Building
CLANTON

A. C. SMITH J. OSMOND MIDDLETON
Smith & Middleton
Attorneys-at-Law
Practice in all Courts.
Office 6th St., Opp. Court House
CLANTON.

H. C. Junkerman
DENTIST
OFFICE: Franzen Building
Thorsby, Alabama.

G. H. GERALD,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Office at Thorsby Inn.
Deeds, Mortgages, Affidavits and other papers carefully made out.

I. S. Gerald, Notary Public
AT THORSBY SAVINGS BANK.

In addition to our Complete Stock of DRUGS Etc.
You will find a full line of
SCHOOL BOOKS, STATIONERY, ETC. SEEDS.
PAINTS OILS and GLASS.
CLANTON DRUG COMPANY

FREE
to Readers of
THE UNION

To everyone who sends us $1.00 for a year's subscription to THE UNION, new subscriber or renewal, we will give as a premium absolutely FREE,

A Year's Subscription
To
The Southern Ruralist

We have examined the Southern Ruralist and consider it to be the best and most practical farm paper published in the South, and it just suits this locality. Drop by The Union Office when you are in town and see a copy of the Ruralist. It will mean dollars in your pocket to read this paper with The Union for a year. tf.

TIMBER FOR SALE!
Over a hundred acres of Virgin Swamp timber for sale. Apply to T. J. Billingsley, Clanton, Ala. Route 3. tf.

NOTICE!
All who are owing me, by note or account, will please call and settle at once. I am needing the money and hope all will make prompt settlement.
Respectfully
A. A. JACKSON,
tf. Lomax, Ala.

Rainbowville

Started out one summer day
For Rainbowville not far away.
Fine location, we were told,
Where you just picked up your gold;
Never saying, "If you please!"
Always living at your ease,
Just beyond the maple hill,
Fortune smiled, in Rainbowville.

Past the fields, where ripening grain
Glistened with the recent rain;
Following still the prismed light
Till it faded from our sight;
Where the willow bough inclines,
Where the poison ivy twines;
Through the orchard, past the mill,
We kept on toward Rainbowville.

Weary, footsore, cold and wet,
Hunger mingling with regret,
Bade us turn to childish rest—
Next day we'd renew the quest.
And we did. Ambition fond Ever lures to the beyond.
Years have passed, and we are still
On our way to Rainbowville.

—Washington Star.

My Teacher's Lesson

BY ALLISON PEWELL

(Copyright 1905 by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

"Mrs. Millman, let me present Mr. Leonard to you."

I bowed over the white hand that was graciously extended and my hostess bustled daintily away, confident that she had brought together two people who wanted to be brought together—perhaps to stay together for a greater or less time.

So far as I was concerned, my hostess was both right and wrong. I was anxious to meet Mrs. Millman—possibly a little too anxious for my subsequent peace of mind. It had been long since we had last met and the old hurt was not yet gone out of my heart. How well I remembered the parting—that sad swirl in the current of life that had finally separated two people who had been drifting away from each other for a long time.

Was it my fault? Was it hers? Was it that of the man she had married and who, I had learned, had recently left her a widow? Was it my fault that I was not more ambitious? Was it hers that she was not patient enough? Was it his, that he had everything to offer her from a worldly point of view that I had not?

As I dropped the hand and uttered some commonplace I glanced at her face. She gave no sign of having recognized me and as I caught sight of the reflection of my own bearded face, bronzed with many wanderings, I was not surprised. I had been introduced to her under my pen name, by which I had been known for years.

"I have been wondering, Mr. Leonard," she said, "when I was going to meet you. You social lions are as hard to meet as though you were real czars, instead of the arbiters of the destiny of your characters."

"It is very kind of you to be interested in my poor literary efforts," I said, knowing of old the power of her flattery.

"I like to meet clever people," she replied, with an evident sincerity which robbed the remark of its boldness. "I have read all of your books and especially the last. I want to congratulate you on your success."

"Largely advertising, I assure you," I answered cynically. "We become famous like breakfast foods or automobiles."

"I wonder what was the secret of your success," she answered, with the old roguish twinkle in her eye. "I have found little evidence of a knowledge of women in your books, and yet your success rests largely upon what the world calls your insight into feminine character."

She could say this—when every character I had ever drawn had been drawn with her for its model; when for years her face had been before me.

Gave no sign of having recognized me.

Not understand women? I understood her, at any rate; at least I thought I did and by the process of induction I thought I knew all women.

Her remark nettled me.

"We are on profitless ground, I fear," I said, a bit stiffly. "I shan't ask for your opinion of my characters. They have all been drawn from life, I assure you—all the women, at least. I might confess that most of them have had one woman for their model."

A flush mounted into her face and her voice faltered when she tried to make it steady.

"Your women have not the true womanly instinct," she said. "They have beauty and intellect—everything womanly but a heart."

"I told you," I said, "that they were drawn from a woman I knew—believe me, they are true to life."

It was a cruel thing to say. Her hand trembled as it clasped her fan.

"You could not have understood women thoroughly," she persisted, recovering herself with an effort. "You make them act normally up to a certain point. Then they become mercenary. Love counts nothing with them. They all marry for money or position. Your last heroine, 'Muriel Vane,' she did that; and her lover—he shot himself, didn't he? I skipped the last chapters. You did not understand your heroine, Mr. Leonard. Believe me it broke her heart to part with her lover in that cold, bitter way. It shadowed her life and nothing mattered after that."

A little golden locket.

"Yet she married well," I said, scornfully. "It was all a story. Of course nothing like that ever happens in real life."

The brutality of my cynicism brought tears to her eyes and a sudden impulse came over me to take her in my arms and tell her that the lover's heart was broken, too; that his life was shadowed and that in reality, instead of shooting himself, he lived to write his heart into his books.

But I resisted the impulse and spoke more gently.

"Believe me, Mrs. Millman, the book is true. 'Muriel Vane' lived and loved my hero—that is, he thought she loved him. She sent him away in coldness and a shadow fell upon his life which can never be lifted."

"Never?" she asked, softly.

"I have no hope of it ever doing so," I replied. "I know my model too well."

"I am deeply interested in the story," she said in a low voice; "especially in the ending. The story is so like my own."

Her eyes never wavered as they met mine, but there was something in their depths that thrilled me with a vague hope.

"There was the lover, the heroine, the tragedy of the parting, in my own story," she went on dreamily. "But there the parallel ends. I was forced to marry, forced to sacrifice myself. The lover left me, I could do nothing else."

Her voice faltered pathetically, and again that rising hope mounted into my heart.

"You don't understand 'Muriel Vane' at all," she said passionately. "She wrote to her lover to come back—wrote many times. She told him that love was all in all; that she loved him better than everything else in the world. The letters were never answered. It was then that she married—for money, the world said; but the marriage was hateful to her and the money saved her father from commercial ruin. She gave her husband respect and honor, but her love she kept sacred in her own heart, dedicated to the memory of the old days. She kept it enshrined with a tendril of faded arbutus."

Arbutus! The dear sweet symbol of our love of long ago! An agony of pain went through me and then Claire Millman, the old Claire, the dear, loving, tender, suffering Claire, that I had known and lost, who was found and who knew me all the time—my Claire forever and forever, rose and held out to me a little golden locket. At a touch it opened and inside it I saw a few withered petals of arbutus.

"Your lover shot himself," she said, with a pathetic reproach in her voice. "If he had treasured his love as faithfully as these petals have been kept, he would have had his Muriel after all. You did not understand 'Muriel Vane'—Harold."

For the first time she had called me by my name. I opened a locket at the end of my watch chain and held it out to her. There were petals of withered arbutus inside it, too. They had all been gathered that night in June.

"Teach me to understand her, Claire," I said, humbly.

Since that hour I have been learning, learning a dear teacher's sweet, old lesson, ever new.

WASTE PLACES OF THE SOUTH

They Are Rapidly Increasing in Value Year by Year.

It is a matter of record that in 1895 in a certain rural community in the south six acres of land sold for $13.98 or $2.33 an acre, says the Southern Workman. Last year these same six acres sold for $1,660 or $276.66 an acre. Near this another tract which in 1892 sold for 70 cents an acre sold in 1904 for $150 an acre. All of this land in 1892 and 1895 was out in the country. It is out in the country now and it is used for farming purposes only. No speculators have run its price up; no "boomers" have laid off a city there and advertised "corner lots." There is no city there, and the people have no intention of building one. Neither is there even a cotton mill or other manufacturing concern there or anywhere in that vicinity. People have lived there for nearly 200 years and tilled the soil and that is what they are doing now. The difference is that for the first time they are learning how to farm, how to bring from land formerly considered waste crops which sell at a big profit. And along with this and in consequence of this they are learning how to live comfortably in the country, how to build themselves homes, how with others near them to build up a community life and enjoy those intellectual and social pleasures which they were wont to consider possible only in the town. Some "new blood" has been introduced into this community, people who come down from the northwest to engage in truck growing, or any other kind of growing the land was capable of, but the natives, too, have been stimulated and thus assisted have gone to work to better themselves and build up their community.

Four-Footed Police.

That dogs make excellent detectives is well known, but their use as actual members of a police force is an odd and interesting experiment which W. G. Fitzgerald describes in his story, "Dog Police on Guard," in the December Technical World Magazine.

"When the Ghent (Belgium), chief of police had got his pack of 'recruits' together, he began to train them to distinguish between skulking criminals and the ordinary, reputable citizen, who walks by day. Some very interesting demonstrations and experiments were tried by means of dummies; and it is a fact that within a few weeks the more intelligent dogs had learned how to spring upon and take hold of a man by his clothes without driving their teeth into him.

"Special kennels were then built in the police stations, with the name of its occupant over the door of each. Coats, collars and muzzles were provided by way of 'uniform,' and there were even little boots provided for snowy weather. A veterinary surgeon was appointed at police headquarters to care for the dog policemen when they were sick, and the matron at each station was charged with the duty of getting their meals ready when each dog came off duty with his two-legged fellow officer."

Awake, Awake.

Awake! Awake! the stars are pale; the east is russet gray;
They fade; behold the phantoms fade,
that kept the gates of day;
Throw wide the burning valves, and let the golden streets be free;
The morning watch is past—the watch of evening shall not be.

Put off, put off your mail, ye kings, and beat your brands to dust;
A surer grasp your hands must know,
your hearts a better trust;
Nay, lend attack the lance's point, and break the helmet bar—
A noise is on the morning winds, but not the noise of war!

Among the grassy mountain paths the glittering troops increase;
They come; they come!—how fair their feet—they come that publish peace!
Yea, victory! fair victory; our enemies and ours.
And all the clouds are clasped in light,
and all the earth with flowers.

Ah, still depressed and dim with dew, but yet a little while,
And radiant with the deathless rose the wilderness shall smile,
And every tender living thing shall feed
by streams of rest,
Nor lamb shall from the fold be lost,
nor nursling from the nest.

For aye the time of wrath is past, and near the time of rest,
And honor binds the brow of man and faithfulness his breast—
Behold, the time of wrath is past, and righteousness shall be,
And the wolf is dead in Arcedy and the dragon in the sea.

—John Ruskin, written at the age of 47.

Supt. Locke Sizes Up Saco.

Saco has the reputation of being one of the quietest, most conservative, law-abiding cities in Maine. A friend of John S. Locke, Saco's genial superintendent of schools, met him one day during the summer, and after a hearty exchange of greetings asked "What has been going on in Saco since I was here last?"

"Nothing, nothing," the superintendent replied, and then, with characteristic drollery added "There is in the Episcopal service a declaration which aptly describes Saco 'As it was in the beginning, is now and ever shall be, world without end.'"

Good Description.

"That girl has me where she wants me. She draws me out, and always sees right through me. And when she's had enough of me she shuts me up in a hurry."

"Say, what are you, a telescope?"

DECISION IN HANDS OF FATE.

How a Chicago Girl Settled the Momentous Question.

She was standing on a North Clark street corner waiting for a car when he stopped to chat with her. The subject of engagements came up. "A girl friend of mine once had an awful experience," she said. "Kate had been receiving the attentions of a young man, whom I'll call Tom, for several years. Two or three times he had asked her to marry him, but she had withheld her answer.

"One day he was appointed to a position in an Eastern city. That night he called on Kate and asked her again to marry him.

"'I need a little time to think it over,' she said.

"'I leave to-morrow,' said Tom.

"'Well, to-morrow night I'll mail you a letter giving you my answer,' said Kate. Tom went away and the next day left the city. Kate thought the matter over until late in the night. Then she decided upon a plan. She would write two letters to Tom, seal them, address and stamp them. They would look exactly alike.

"One would accept his proposal and the other would reject it. She would place them in the pocket of her coat, go to a train and, just as it started, she would throw one letter aboard the mail car without trying to see which it was.

"Kate carried out her plan. She went to the Union depot and just as an eastbound train started threw one letter aboard. Then she rushed back into the depot and opened the other letter to see how fate had decided it for her. With a scream she dropped into a seat and almost fainted."

At this point the car stopped and the girl stepped aboard. "Did she accept him?" asked the man on the corner as the car started.

The girl replied, but her words were drowned by the rumble of the car.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Tommy and Thanksgiving.

Gov. Folk, of Missouri, was talking about reform.

"We all believe in it," he said, "but we want to see it brought about at other folks' expense. We are like, too, a certain Kansas City boy.

"This boy's mother said to him, on her return from a long day's shopping in the Thanksgiving season:

"'Now I hope my little Tommy has taken to heart mamma's talk of last night about charity and usefulness. Since he has few troubles of his own, I hope he has thought of others' troubles all day long. Since he has many causes for thanksgiving himself, I hope he has tried to give causes for thanksgiving to others? What is my Tommy's report for the day? How many acts of kindness has he done? How much woe has he lightened. How many hearts has my Tommy made grateful and glad?'

"In this rather mushy way spoke the good young mother. And her Tommy replied:

"'I've done a whole lot of good, ma. I gave your new hat to a beggar woman, and I gave the cook's shoes to a little girl in busted rubbers what I seen on the street, and I gave a poor lame shoe string seller pa's black evening suit, the open front one that he hardly ever wears.'"

She Couldn't Be Fooled.

A tradesman wished to have a telephone put in his house, but his aged mother vigorously protested against it.

"Robert," she said, "if you bring one of those dreadful things in here I'll never close my eyes, for fear it may break out and sweep us all into eternity, and us not a bit the wiser."

He tried to persuade her it was a most harmless instrument; but she said:

"No, no; look at the thousands—aye, millions—of poor Hindoos it killed last autumn."

"Why," exclaimed he, "that wasn't a telephone, mother; that was a typhoon."

But the timid old lady lowered her spectacles, and, looking at him over the rims thereof, said:

"You need not try to make a fool of me, Robert. I perhaps don't know very much, but I do know that the typhoon is the emperor of Japan."

Her son gave it up as a hopeless task.

Invalid Ant and Athletic Cricket.

All summer long,
No time for song,
The Ant laid in its winter stores,
While the Cricket played
Around the glade,
Cavorting in the out-of-doors.

Came Winter bold,
The Ant took cold
And had to have the doctor in,
Who shook his head
And bluntly said,
"The way you've overworked's a sin—

"You'll have to go
To Mexico
To spend a year and all your saving (I'm glad to know
You have the dough)
To pay for this your misbehaving."

All winter long,
With siren song
The Healthy Cricket works the stores,
While the poor Ant plays
And roundly pays,
Recuperating out-of-doors.

—L. H. Robbins, in Newark News.

Good for a Year More.

"James," began the principal when that arch mischiefmaker of the high school entered his office in obedience to his request, "I hear too much regarding your class behavior. Miss Shaw says she finds it necessary to reprove you during the history period; the supervisor of music complains of your willfully poor singing; Mr. Cowles tells me your attention is usually wandering from class experiments to unscientific demonstrations of your own. Now, James, how long must this lecturing from your different teachers continue?" asked the principal severely. "I don't know," replied the truthful James; "but I suppose I have a season ticket."—Judge.

KING OF CARIBBEAN ISLAND

Capt. C. C. Rivers is now absolute ruler of the island of Orchilla, in the Carribean sea, says the Baltimore Sun. He threw out his lines and made fast there twelve years ago, and will probably make it his harbor the rest of his life—this though he is the only white man on the island, and though he has seen the members of his family, who live at 2103 Gough street, only twice in fifteen years.

Capt. Rivers is king and cabinet combined, and not one of his thirty West Indian negroes under his sway dares question his rule, but when he leaves Orchilla he leaves his royalty behind.

The captain is not a comic-opera king. He doesn't wear birds of paradise plumes when he's on the throne, but down there in that lonely little spot, with the blue Caribbean about him and the tropical nights above, he superintends the gathering of guano from the coral reefs, which the sea is eternally uncovering. Boston capitalists first bought the product of Orchilla. They secured Capt. Rivers' services fifteen years ago. The island is now owned by a company of Baltimore. Other islands are to be acquired by the company, and the captain is here loking for a viceroy to aid him in the management of his kingdom.

Do the cares of royalty weary ily upon him? No; he simply sees the men get out at their work at rise—there are no women on island—and that they keep at it sundown, save for the two at noon. Need an army or co justice? The captain smiles. course, there are times when line must be enforced, but then knows how to do that. The had not had twenty years of s for nothing before he took c the island.

"My greatest difficulty," he s the fact that the men will g How do they get it? Easy en chilla is surrounded by a n smaller islands. In the season birds are there there are m hunting their eggs. They carry rum. Suddenly you fi crew drunk on you, and you that somewhere out on the k the egg hunters. What amuse have they? Sleep. When been working from sunrise to they want that.

"Of course you can't keep th from their women and children time. They come from Bonaire, Dutch West Indies and once six months I take the old crew footsteps of the father and gr in the footsteps of the son. Th a quiet, easy lot."

OTHER TIMES, OTHER GIRLS

Oh, Time, from o'er thy hill of shades bring back the day I knew;
Bring back the little village church; bring back the "preacher," too.
There let me sit, as oft I did, and hear the parson drone
Of man's first fall, the judgment day, the lightnings round the throne.
The winter days were cold, I wot, but little was the harm.
For he could paint a hell so hot it served to keep us warm.
There let me yawn till "tenthly" past, we heard our final doom;
Then let me haste to join the boys out in the anteroom.
It was that anteroom, I fear, that led us church to try.
For there we stood in shuffling rows to see the girls go by.

Ah, Time, if you will be so kind, turn back unto that day,
And let me stand with shuffling boys, and wait for Millie Ray.
Her eyes were like the shining stars or gems that know no flaws,
Her lips were e'en the crimson bow that only Cupid draws;
And though a clumsy oaf was I, I'd registered a vow
That some night I would see her home, or ask her, anyhow.
And so I stood with shuffling boys within that anteroom,
And tried to screw my courage up to meet her spoken doom.
Alackaday! and woe is me! or woe, at least, was I!—
Some other chump would ask her first,
before the girls got by!

I think I stood thus in that room
seven times or more,
And each time saw some other
escort her from the door.
And every time that other chap was
that I could lick—
I tell you, men and brethren, it was mighty sick—
Yes, I could lick him, and I knew name was Willie Drew.
And I thrashed him once a week
a year or two.
And so I said: "Well, blame it,
has got a show.
I guess that I need only ask,
be a 'go.'
I'll ask her sure next Sunday night run our schemes awry."
I stood there like a leaden clump saw the girls go by.

Ah, Time, thou art a sullen wight
heed our worst mishap.
Yet bring me back those days again
"fire" that other chap.
Bring back sweet Millie; let her smile
oft she used to do—
But do not let her waste those
upon that Willie Drew.
Still as the weeks went drowsing
more in life to roam
I vowed, and vowed again, that I
ask to see her home.
I never did; I never dared—confess
the thing—
But, oh, the years, the fearish
some strange conditions bring
For Millie married Will, and when
church last week went I,
I saw the boys stand at the door
her girls go by.

—A. J. Waterhouse in San Francisco

TEACHING THE YOUNG CHINESE

Writing of schools for Chinese children a resident of China says: "Usually the father teaches his sons the first rules of arithmetic, reading and drawing. But when his son is 6 years old he sends him to school, so that the teacher can be tormented with him. The school is in most cases the private undertaking of some better situated Chinese or of a small community; the government has rarely anything to do with it. The teacher, a former disappointed expectant official, does his best to pour into his scholars his own scanty knowledge. The value of such a school education is of course very small. In spite of this, many well-established Chinese merchants in the treaty ports have had no other school education and have attained at most only to some pigeon English, and yet they are in active and successful dealings with the Europeans, knowing well how to count and to hold their own. We have to admire the gift of preception and the business capacity of the Chinese under such circumstances as these.

"School lasts usually from 8 in the morning till sunset, with hour's break for the midday Chinese boys have no Sunday, the way to and from school the as much rushing about and pl as with our schoolboys at home. the primer and the slate, wrapp a cloth, are quickly laid on ground when it is the time to cuff or a blow. We see boys ing the games of ball, blind buff, soldiers, robbers or h where the pigtail serves as rein ing kites and many other well-k games.

"Girls as a rule are not sen school; the mother superintends training in housework. As so tho girls are old enough they taught to cook, sew, make and clothes and indeed to do all dom work. But the enlightened Ch sends his daughter to school whe nearness of a mission or some school gives him an opportunity.

CALL FOR AN EXPLANATION

Now, what are you going to do with a story like this, when it comes from two dignified, veracious men, who solemnly declare it to be true?

David and Zebulon, bachelors, are old cronies—not so old that they have to tie their teeth in with brown yarn, you understand, but old enough to have settled down to the serious matters of life, such as hair invigorators and obesity belts. For a long time they have lived together, occupying adjoining rooms, between which the door is seldom closed. According to the testimony of both, neither of them is given to talking in his sleep.

The other night, however, Zebulon dreamed that he was telling a funny story to David. It seemed excruciatingly funny to Zebulon and he was annoyed at David's apparent inability to see the humor of it, so he told it again, emphasizing the point of the joke so energetically that he actually spoke aloud, thus waking himself. He was sure he had spoken, for when he was well awake the tone of his voice still lingered in his ears.

For a moment he lay, trying to call the story, which on the instant waking, had vanished from his when suddenly David, in the room, uttered a loud laugh, which turn, awoke him.

Zebulon hopped out of bed and to David's room.

"What are you laughing at?" he ed.

"Did I laugh aloud?" David w to know. "I thought I did."

"You certainly did. Were asleep?"

"Yes," said David; "I woke m laughing at a funny story you telling me." He then went ahea told the story, which Zebulon r nized as the one he had dream telling to David.

Now, then, ye psychologists an taphysicians, get to work on thi see what you can make of it.—B lyn Eagle.

NOVELIST AS A DETECTIVE

Scotland Yard would no doubt scorn to take Sir Conan Doyle into its counsels as an American detective consulted R. L. Stevenson. Arthur Johnstone, in his "Stevenson in the Pacific," tells the striking tale. As they sat together one evening in the veranda of an inn at Waikiki the detective confided to Stevenson a case of extreme difficulty he had in hand, and also his theory of its solution. As Stevenson hardly seemed to attend, for he sat looking dreamily at the sea, the detective left him to have a chat with the more responsive landlord. On his return to the veranda, however, Stevenson suddenly roused himself to say, "I think I have solved that riddle of yours. You see, it's just like writing a story. If you go at it right, it will work out right. Now, your theory does not do at all, be it will never work out. Let me you my theory of the case, and tell me what you think of it." T tective did not at first think an of Stevenson's theory of the ca was daring even for a theory dangerous to work if it did not to come off. But on thinking over, with Stevenson's shining fixed intently on his face, the sional began to believe there something in it. When Steven last asked, triumphantly, "Well replied, "Well, sir, I shall try theory; but if it don't win you will lose between us the $1,00 am to be paid for a conviction this Stevenson laughed and said if it doesn't win I will pay you $1,000 and thrown you the for nothing." But it won.

THE PULPIT.

BRILLIANT SUNDAY SERMON BY DR. SPENCER S. ROCHE.

Subject: Lessons of Elijah's Life.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—At St. Mark's P. E. church, the Rev. Dr. Spencer Summerville Roche, the rector, preached Sunday on "Lessons From Elijah's Life." The text was from I. Kings, xix:9: "And he came thither, unto a cave." Dr. Roche said:

"The lessons present quite fully the life of that grand old prophet Elijah the Tishbite. From a sublime scene in his life I shall attempt to draw such lessons as may fit the hour. Let us select the moment when his soul yearned to be on Horeb, the mount of God. Let your thoughts to this statement, 'And he came thither, unto a cave.' I shall speak of the coming and of the cavern; of the grief the journey brought to view, and the glory the cavern revealed. Throughout we must remember that we study a typical case of Almighty God's dealing with His consecrated servants. What the Lord said and did to Elijah. He would have us believe He says and does to ourselves.

"From one of the most striking situations in history we are to see Elijah raised in an instant. The occasion of Elijah's fall was one of the slightest of incidents, as when an avalanche which comes down the side of a mountain is moved by the waves of the air aroused by a tourist's halloo. Ahab talked with his wife. We have seen greatness of character in reticence, as when to the serious interrogatories of Pilate the Man of Man "answered him never a word." So meanness, cowardice are often in that easy flow of words which lets out everything. A wife will tell her husband what he has no business to know; a man may make a self contemptible blabbing everything to his wife. "Ahab told Jezebel that Elijah had done and withal how he had slain the prophets with the sword." I do not understand he spoke in wrath or malice; quite the contrary; he knew he had a tigress to deal with. He used all the tact his lean wit could muster men. He was afraid to tell her that he himself had abandoned the leading cause of the Baalites. He did it in his matters, putting the small things first; last of all—her beloved sisters of falsehood and fraud were slain. The tigress rolled her angry eyes and showed her cruel teeth. She sent this message to Elijah: "The gods do so to me and more also if I make thy life as the life of one of them by to-morrow about this time." Jezebel's blood was up. "He arose and fled for his life." The man who had confronted the king and his armed retainers fled terrified from a woman.

"There is a lesson here for all. Life's mysteries only lift us to new battlefields. One of Elijah's mistakes was his supposition that all would go well if one effort resulted favorably. He succeeded beyond his wildest dreams only to find his real troubles yet to begin.

"As we regard the office to which we are to be elected, the partnership we are anxious to form, the fifty or hundred thousand we are striving for, even in the great achievement is won we are simply like the army landed on the hostile shore under the guns of the fleet. Shut up for weeks in narrow quarters, tossed by the sea, fed on Uncle Sam's fare, the men long for the land with its fruit and forage. The joy of actual landing is quickly exchanged for a sense of insecurity and the fear of sudden attack.

"A day or so after Carmel, Elijah was in Beersheba. Even there he was full of alarm. He fled into deeper solitude. The farther he fled the lower sank his spirits. See his awful consternation and its inconsistency with regard to life. He had run away to save it. Under the juniper tree he begged it might be taken. So low is Elijah fallen! No wonder the second stage of the journey. The prophet is broken down. He asks the end has come. See how God answered His disconsolate servant. First He took care of Elijah's body. The prophet was fatigued, famished, faint. Natural law carrying out divine purpose caused the pining and sighing to bring slumber. How the discouraged Christian can often do worse than lie down and take a nap. When the world is too much for us, when the strain and worry seem as if it would never cease, when the disappointment is bitter, when the letters bring destroying our hopes, when bereavement leaves the heart desolate, then God guides the afflicted soul to calm and quiet, and the peace of submission. "He giveth His beloved sleep."

"Next God fed Elijah. "An angel touched him and said: 'Arise and eat.' And behold there was at his head a cake baken on the coals and a cruse of water." Our depression has at times an intensely physical basis. Our Lord knew the multitude before He instructed them. A full stomach is not always a sign of a pure heart, but who denies that if we could give one good meal to the wretched creatures infesting the streets of cities we might begin to see some of them the salvation from sin. Elijah slept and ate, and slept and ate again. The repose was natural, the meat supernatural, but the lessons are universally applicable. Calmed and strengthened, his holy spirit reasserted itself. He would see Horeb the Mount of God.

"And he came thither, unto a cave." Note the parallel with Moses. These two who were united in a post-mortem communion on the Mount of Transfiguration, were in life granted the most inspiring visions of Jehovah in person at the same identical spot. How often in the Old Testament and in the New, as well as in the later history of redemption, we are reminded that God blesses additional favors and mercies

THREE DEAD IN WRECK.

Oriental Limited, on the Great Northern, in Collision.

Spokane, Wash.—A collision on the Great Northern railway one mile west of Columbia Falls resulted in the death of three trainmen.

The Great Northern Oriental Limited No. 1, westbound, crashed into eastbound passenger train No. 2. A fireman on each train and an express messenger were killed.

BBEAN ISLAND

Do the cares of royalty wear ily upon him? No; he simply sees the men get out at their work at rise—there are no women on island—and that they keep at it sundown, save for the two-hour at noon. Need an army or cour justice? The captain smiles. No course, there are times when d line must be enforced, but then a knows how to do that. The cap had not had twenty years of scuf for nothing before he took cha the island.

"My greatest difficult," he said
the fact that the men will get dr
How do they get it? Easy enough chilla is surrounded by a numbe smaller islands. In the seasons w birds are there there are many hunting their eggs. They al carry rum. Suddenly you find crew drunk on you, and you k that somewhere out on the keys the egg hunters. What amuse have they? Sleep. When th been working from sunrise to s they want that.

"Of course you can't keep the
from their women and children a time. They come from Bonaire, h Dutch West Indies and once six months I take the old crew in footsteps of the father and gra in the footsteps of the son. They a quiet, easy lot."

OTHER GIRLS

I think I stood thus
seven times or more,
And each time saw some other
escort her from the door;
And every time that other chap was
that I could lick
I'tell you, men and brethren, it made mighty sick.
Yes I could lick him and I knew inside was Willie Drew.
And I the object of his love was for,
a year or two.
And so I said, "Well, all or lose not a straw.
I guess that I need only ask, and it
be a 'go.'
I'll call her sure next Sunday night," ran our schemes awry!
Instead there like a leaden clump,
saw the girls go by.

Ah, Time, thou art a sullen wight,
Even our worst mishaps
Yet bring me back those days again,
"fire" that other chap
Bring back sweet Mable let her smile off she used to do—
But do not let her waste those
upon that Willie Drew.
Still as the weeks went drowsing by,
more in life to roam
I vowed, and vowed again, that I
ask to see her home.
I never did; I never dared confess
the thing—
But, oh, the years the rankish'
some strange conditions bring.
For Millie married Will, and when
church last week went I.
I saw the boys stand in the door, to
her girls go by
A. J. Waterhouse in San Francisco

YOUNG CHINESE

such circumstances as these.

"School lasts usually from 8 o' in the morning till sunset, with hour's break for the midday
Chinese boys have no Sunday, bu the way to and from school ther as much rushing about and pla as with our schoolboys at home.
the primer and the slate, wrappe
a cloth, are quickly laid on ground when it is the time to g cuff or a blow. We see boys c ing the games of ball, blind-buff, soldiers, robbers or h where the pigtail serves as rein ing kites and many other well-k games.

"Girls as a rule are not sent school; the mother superintends t training in housework. As soo the girls are old enough they taught to cook, sew, make and m clothes and indeed to do all dome work. But the enlightened Chi sends his daughter to school when nearness of a mission or some o school gives him an opportunity.

EXPLANATION

was well awake the tone of his voice still lingered in his ears.

For a moment he lay, trying t recall the story, which on the insta waking, had vanished from his which suddenly David, in the room, uttered a loud laugh, whic also awoke him.

Zebulon hopped out of bed and to David's room.

"What are you laughing at?" he

"Did I laugh aloud?" David w to know. "I thought I did."

"You certainly did. Were asleep?"

"Yes," said David; "I woke m laughing at a funny story you telling me." He then went ahead told the story, which Zebulon r nized as the one he had dreame telling to David.

Now, then, ye psychologists and taphysicians, get to work on tha see what you can make of it.—B yn Eagle.

A DETECTIVE

your theory does not do at all, be it will never work out. Let me you my theory of the case, and tell me what you think of it." T tective did not at first think any of Stevenson's theory of the ca was daring even for a theory, dangerous to work if it did not h to come off. But on thinking it over with Stevenson's shining fixed intently on his face, the sional began to believe there something in it. When Steven last asked, triumphantly, "Well replied, "Well, sir, I shall try theory; but if it don't win you will lose between us the $1,00 am to be paid for a conviction his Stevenson laughed and said,
"If it doesn't win I will pay y
$1,000 and thrown you the for nothing." But it won.

THE PULPIT.

BRILLIANT SUNDAY SERMON BY DR. SPENCER S. ROCHE.

Subject: Lessons of Elijah's Life.

Brooklyn N. Y.—At St. Mark's P. E. church the Rev. Dr. Spencer Summerville Roche, the rector, preached Sunday on "Lessons From Elijah's Life." His text was from I. Kings, xix:9: "And he came thither, unto a cave." Dr. Roche said:

The lessons present quite fully the life of that grand old prophet Elijah the Tishbite. From a sublime scene in his life I shall attempt to draw such lessons as may fit the hour. Let us select the moment when his soul yearned to be on Horeb, the mount of God. Refer your thoughts to this statement, "And he came thither, unto a cave." I shall speak of the coming and of the cavern; of the grief the journey brought to view, and the glory the cavern revealed. Throughout we must remember that we study a typical case of Almighty God's dealing with His discouraged servants. What the Lord said and did to Elijah, He would have us believe He says and does to ourselves.

From one of the most striking situations in history we are to see Elijah recoiled in an instant. The occasion of his fall was one of the slightest of incidents, as when an avalanche which comes down the side of a mountain is stayed by the waves of the air aroused by a tourist's hallo. Ahab talked with his wife. We have seen greatness of character in reticence, as when to the numerous interrogatories of Pilate the Man of Man "answered him never a word." So meanness, cowardice are often in that easy flow of words which lets out everything. A wife will tell her husband what he has no business to know; a man may make himself contemptible blabbing everything to his wife. "Ahab told Jezebel all that Elijah had done and withal how he had slain the prophets with the sword." I do not understand he spoke wrath or malice; quite the contrary; he knew he had a tigress to deal with, and used all the fact his lean wit could frame. He was afraid to tell her when he himself had abandoned the worship of the Baalites. He did his matters, putting the small things first, last of all—her beloved gods of falsehood and fraud were left. The tigress rolled her angry eyes and showed her camel teeth. She sent a message to Elijah: "The gods do so to me and more also if I make thy life as the life of one of them by tomorrow about this time." Jezebel's blood was up. "He arose and went for his life." The man who had withstood the king and his armed retainers fled terrified from a woman.

There is a lesson here for all. Life's failures only lift us to new battlefields. One of Elijah's mistakes was his supposition that all would go well if one test resulted favorably. He succeeded beyond his wildest dreams only to find his real troubles yet to begin.

As we regard the office to which we are to be elected, the partnership we are about to form, the fifty or hundred thousand we are striving for, even the great achievement is won we simply like the army landed on hostile shore under the guns of the fleet. Shut up for weeks in narrow quarters tossed by the sea, fed on ship's fare, the men long for the land with its fruit and forage. The joy of landing is quickly exchanged for a sense of insecurity and the fear of an attack.

A day or so after Carmel, Elijah was in Beersheba. Even there he was full near Jezreel. He fled into deeper solitude. The farther he fled the lower sank his spirits. See his awful consternation and inconsistency with regard to life. He had run away to save it. Under the juniper tree he begged it might be taken. So low is Elijah fallen! No wonder the third stage of the journey. The prophet is broken down. He thinks the end has come. See how God loved His disconsolate servant. First He took care of Elijah's body. The prophet was fatigued, famished, exhausted. Natural law carrying out divine purpose caused the pining and fainting to bring slumber. The discouraged Christian can often do worse than lie down and take a nap. The world is too much for us. The strain and worry seem as if they would never cease, when the disappointment is bitter, when the letter comes destroying our hopes, when bereavement leaves the heart desolate, then the afflicted soul to calm and the peace of submission. "He giveth His beloved sleep."

The angel touched Elijah. "An angel touched him and said: 'Arise and eat.' And, behold, there was at his head a cake baken on the coals and a cruse of water." Our depression has at times a purely physical basis. Our Lord knew this full well before He instructed Elijah. A full stomach is not always the sign of a pure heart, but who knows what if we could give one good meal to some wretched creatures infesting the streets of cities we might begin to save them the salvation from sin. Elijah slept and ate, and slept and ate again. The repose was natural, the meal supernatural, but the lessons are universally applicable. Calmed and refreshed, his holy spirit reasserted itself. He would see Horeb the Mount of God.

"And he came thither, unto a cave." Here the parallel with Moses. Those two who were united in a post-mortem communion on the Mount of Transfiguration, were in life granted the most striking visions of Jehovah in person at the same identical spot. How often in the old Testament and in the new, as well as in the later history of the Church, we are reminded that God adds additional favors and mercies in the place where prayer is wont to be made. Places in the lapse of time acquire redoubled sanctity. This church was rebuilt over the spot where God had for many years listened to His people's prayers and praises. We see it again this morning after an interval of several months, changed, but the same: not yet in the final form of beauty which we shall see in a few weeks and which will justify unusual services and unusual gladness, but already brighter and fairer than we have ever seen it before.

We love to apply the term old to our churches, and the world has no more inspiring localities than those areas in some of the great cities of Europe where churches have stood since the days of Charlemagne, of Constantine, and possibly in some cases from the age of St. John. Where God had revealed Himself hundreds of years before to Moses He now shows His glory to Elijah. "What dost thou here, Elijah?" The answer illustrates mistaken, thoughtless zeal. The Tishbite is severe on Israel and careful for his own life, and betrays a wrong spirit. Very good people, even in their religious opinions, their most pious aspirations, err greatly. They show overwhelming conceit, or unworthy estimates of others, or the most wrongheaded choice of means, or a selfish regard for their own comfort, and even life. Among the mistakes of good men think of the miserable narrowness of those who talk against missions to the heathen and refuse to contribute; or the coldness of those who discourage under the term "slumming" efforts by Christian people to fight the devil in his own strongholds of the brothel and the rummery. Elijah, though a good man, made some mistakes. So far has he turned aside that we are tempted to think his estimate is just that he can henceforth be of no service to his Lord. But we shall see that heaven can make abundant use of even cross-grained energy, so only it have a good heart. See His method with this devout, heroic, but misguided saint.

God showed Elijah the impotence of the Carnal. There is no reproach. "Go forth and stand on the mount before the Lord." There came sweeping down the granite crags of Sinai a gust and then a blast and then a hurricane that uprooted the ancient trees, and rolled the loose fragments of rock against one another till they flew in pieces like millstones subjected to too swift revolution. The appalled saint knelt breathless, and as the tornado spent its force he lifted his eyes for a nearer view of God. "But the Lord was not in the wind." The earth rumbled, the crags were split, the mount itself rocked, the ground opened great fissures, the day of the dissolution of nature itself appeared to have come. He looked again. "But the Lord was not in the earthquake." The lightning darted out of the clouds, flash following flash in the terrible splendor of Oriental tempests till the atmosphere seemed charged with continuous flame, and Mount Sinai and the cave and the firmament itself seemed ablaze. Again he strained his vision to discern in the blinding glare One yet more glorious. "But the Lord was not in the fire."

As has been finely said Elijah had conceived God simply as power. His own achievements had been wrought by power. He is now made to recognize the futility of mere force. This is a needful discovery for us. Especially for the world's great ones. The man who in finance or industry has won the greatest success is speedily convinced of the impotency of that which men ordinarily consider victory. Whatever teaches us this is good. Failure, disappointment, sickness, each is a blessing in disguise if it lifts us out of ourselves and makes us feel that with all the world can give there is something else needed.

He showed Elijah the infinitude, the inexhaustible power and goodness and glory of the divine. The cyclone was stilled, the earthquake spent, the lightnings burned out and yet God came not. "Then on perturbed and tormented nature a silence rested as when the lashed galley slave is permitted to rest, as when the Atlantic roaring for days falls into a calm." The cave, in its deepest grotto, was penetrated with the spirit of stillness. No breath stirred. The seer felt an awe, not less, but greater than before, when there came a voice, mysterious, thrilling his heart and asking the old question. The old answer was given, we must believe, with a new meaning, for the great lesson of time and eternity had been taught.

In the cave of Horeb the fundamental truth of the Christian religion is revealed, a truth every mission, however humble; every church, however adorned; every cathedral, however magnificent, must illustrate. Not the earthquake, cyclone, hurly-burly, but the still small voice. Here is the secret of God. Not the startling, but the pleading; not the violent, but the tender; not force, but pity; not Sinatic fury, but gospel grace; "not by might nor by power, but by My spirit, saith the Lord." God is love. Not an unseen God, but a saving Christ. "He came to Horeb a voice, he left it an initiated man," says Maurice.

But from the living of the Christian turn to his dying. The close of every good life has dignity like unto "chariots of fire and horses of fire." But the likeness runs on immeasurably beyond death. St. James tells that Elijah was a man of like passions with us. Then our infirmities, thank God, allow us a life that does not end with earth. The thought of All Saints is of the steadily accumulating honors and joys of redeemed souls. We see Elijah go. But it is not the last of him. Malachi said he would come back on earth. Centuries later the world asked John the Baptist if he were Elijah. Some believed Jesus must be. On the day of Transfiguration, Elijah for a moment was with us, at once on earth and in glory.

We can trust those dear departed ones, when memorials cluster around us, with the Lord God of Elijah.

THIRTY DEAD IN WRECK.

Oriental Limited, on the Great Northern, in Collision.

Spokane, Wash.—A collision on the Great Northern railway one mile west of Columbia Falls resulted in the death of three trainmen.

The Great Northern Oriental Limited No. 1, westbound, crashed into eastbound passenger train No. 2. A fireman on each train and an express messenger were killed.

RUSSIANS SHOOT BRITAINS.

Sailors Told to Halt, But Did Not Understand Language.

London, England.—A dispatch to the Standard from Moscow says that two British seamen who were landing at Reval were shot and killed by sentries, who shouted from behind for them to stand.

The sailors did not heed the call, not knowing the language or that the sentries were shouting at them, whereupon the guards fired.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR FEBRUARY 11.

Subject: Jesus Calling Fishermen, Luke v., 1-11—Golden Text, Eph. v., 1—Memory Verses, 5, 6—Topic: Laws of Soul Winning—Commentary.

I. Jesus teaching the people (vs. 1-3). 1. "The people pressed." Leaving Nazareth our Lord went to Capernaum and perhaps abode in the house of Peter. The power of His preaching drew crowds, which pressed upon Him as He was walking along the white beach which forms the margin of Lake Genesaret. "To hear." There was a good prospect for a glorious revival of religion. There were times in the life of our Lord when thousands were anxious to hear Him, for the common people heard Him gladly. "Lake of Gennesaret." The most sacred sheet of water which this earth contains. Called also the Sea of Galilee. It is a clear lake about twelve miles long and five broad, with the Jordan River flowing through it. This was the region of the early labors of our Lord.

2. "Two ships." Fishing boats. They must have been small. This is clear from the accounts given of them. A few men could handle one, and a single large draught of fishes endangered them. "Standing by." Anchored, or drawn up upon the beach. "The fishermen." Peter, Andrew, James and John. "Washing their nets." They had spent the night in fruitless effort, and now they were cleaning the filth of the sea from the threads of the nets and mending any defective or broken parts. It is interesting to notice how often Christ appeared to men while they were busy with their temporal affairs. 3. "One of the ships." The ship of James and John appeared to be at some distance away; this one belonged to Simon Peter and to his brother Andrew. See Mark 1:16. "Prayed him." Asked him. Jesus in a familiar manner takes possession of Peter's boat and makes it His pulpit.

II. The draught of fishes (vs. 4-7). 4. "Launch out." Christ forgot His own weariness and only seemed to remember the disappointment of His followers in toiling all night in vain. This verse has often been used to illustrate the fact that Christ would have us leave the shore of selfishness, worldliness and sin and launch out into the depth of His love and fulness. "For a draught." Let down your nets for the taking of fish. 5. "Master." This is the first time that the word here translated master is used in the New Testament, and it is used only by Luke. The other evangelists called Him Rabbi or Lord. This is not the word usually rendered master, but is a title of respect. Note how familiarly Peter addresses Jesus. "Toiled all the night." Peter thus shows how unlikely it was that they would catch anything. The night was the best time for catching certain kinds of fish and if they had caught nothing then they could not expect to catch any in the daytime. This is no doubt reported by Luke to cause the miracle to appear all the more striking. "At Thy word." No doubt Peter was weary and somewhat discouraged, but he had faith enough in Christ to lead him to go at the direction of his divine Master. 6. "Their net brake." "Their nets were breaking." R. V. There was such a multitude of fishes that a snap in some weak part of the net warned them that they must have assistance or lose the entire "catch." The miracle was an acted parable, of which the significance is explained in Matthew 13:47.

7. "Beckoned." Made signals. The distance evidently being too great for the voice to reach. "They came." James and John with their ship. "Began to sink." The boats would hardly hold as much as the nets.

III. The disciples astonished (vs. 8, 9). 8. "Simon Peter." His full name is here given, for this is the turning-point in his life. Simon is destined to become Peter, a rock. "'Peter' expresses the possibilities Jesus saw in the nature of Simon." "Saw." It seems that it was not till Peter saw the boats beginning to sink that he realized the greatness of the miracle. "Fell down." The common posture of a suppliant. In amazement he fell at the feet of Jesus trembling and afraid. "Depart from me." Peter's feelings were not unnatural, but were an involuntary, sudden request, and arose from ignorance of the character of Jesus. We are not worthy to be with Him, but He came to seek the lost and to save the impure. The exclamation of Peter was wrung from a heart touched with a sense of humility, and his words did not express his thoughts. "A sinful man." Peter saw himself a very sinful creature. When we get near Christ we shall see that in our unregenerate state we are without moral beauty or holiness. 9. "Was astonished." "Was amazed." Humanity stands "amazed" before the power of God.

IV. Forsaking all for Christ (vs. 10, 11). 10. "Sons of Zebedee." The children and wife of Zebedee are often referred to, but in this transaction only do we meet with Zebedee himself (Matt. 4:21). "Fear not." He calmed their fears and stilled all their troubled feelings. "From henceforth." Hereafter. "Catch men." Literally, thou shalt be catching alive.

11. "Ships to land." They drew them up on the beach for a final abandonment. "Forsook all." Although it was not much which they had to leave, yet it was all they had, even all their living. The sacrifice was a willing one and showed their love for Christ and a readiness to obey Him. "Followed Him." They returned again to their occupation as fishermen after the crucifixion, and were again called to abandon it and devote themselves by a second miraculous draught of fishes and by the direct precept of Jesus.

Killed Two Women and Himself.

The bodies of Charles Winn, a freight handler; his wife and Mrs. Charles H. Riggs, of Portland, Me., sister of Mrs. Winn, discovered in the apartments in which the Winns lived, at Providence, R. I., revealed what the police believe a double murder and suicide. Winn apparently shot the two women and then killed himself.

Comet is Discovered.

A bright comet was discovered at Geneva, Switzerland.

LIFE'S LITTLE PLEASANTRIES

OBLIGING.

"Is there danger of contagion in a kiss?"
Asked a young and very charming Jackson Miss.
Said the Baltimore, Md.: "If you wish
we'll Troy N. C.,
If there's anything contagious in a kiss."
—William H. Frost, in Lippincott's.

PRECAUTIONARY.

Jigson—"I just joined the Don't Worry Club."

Higson—"Why?"

Jigson—"Going to be married next week."—Brooklyn Eagle.

CONSIDERATION.

Bishop (to little visitor, who had asked him to sign post-card portrait of himself)—"But—er—surely, I signed one for you the other day?" Little Visitor—"Yes; but I swapped you for two New Zealanders, you know;"—Punch.

AND THEN HE WENT.

Little brother—Do you know what I think?

Sister—No; what is it?

"I think if I were not in the room Mr. Jones would kiss you."

"You impudent boy! Leave the room instantly!" — Translated for Tales from "Megendorfer Blatter."

FAR WORSE.

"I think that the people who have taken this affair in hand have made you sincerely repent."

"Repent!" exclaimed the man who had been involved in questionable finance. "It's worse than that. They made me return some of the money." —Washington Star.

CIRCULATION.

"Who did you say that stranger was?" asked the country editor.

"Jonas Perkinbine," replied the loafer at the village store.

"Well, well! Why that's the name of one of our subscribers."

"Don't say? What's the name o' the other one?" —Philadelphia Press.

AN HONORED NAME.

McJigger—So Belle is married.

Thingumbob—Yes; with her beauty she captured an honored name—

McJigger—Huh! "Sniffkins?" You don't call that an honored name, do you?

Thingumbob—Well, you just ought to see how it's honored at the bank. —Philadelphia Press.

A SLIM CHANCE.

"I think I'll telegraph to my governor for some more money," said the college boy.

"Why don't you telephone? It's quicker," suggested his chum.

"I know, but I want to enjoy the pleasure of hope for a little while, at least."—Philadelphia Press.

HIS MOTHER.

"So his mother called on you after you became engaged? What did she say?"

"Oh, she told me I wasn't half good enough for him, but she would generously overlook that if pa would give him a place in the bank where he could draw a big salary and not have anything to do." — Chicago-Record Herald.

AN IMPORTANT AFFAIR.

"I don't suppose it's unnatural for me to be excited, now that the hour for my marriage to the Count approaches," said the bride. "I guess I'm the most excited person in town at this minute."

"Oh, I don't know," replied Mrs. Nuritch, her mother; "think how excited they must be over it in the newspaper offices."—Catholic Standard and Times.

LOOKED SUSPICIOUS.

Mrs. Jones—I had unexpectedly good luck yesterday in looking for a flat. I found an apartment house where the rooms were elegant, the rent reasonable and the agent doesn't object to children.

Mrs. Blykely—Mercy! I hope you didn't agree to take it. There must be something wrong with the neighborhood.—Chicago Tribune.

QUITE EXCITING.

"Did you play football while you were in college, Mr. Mushie?"

"Oh, yaas, indeed. Deah old football."

"What position, Mr. Mushie?"

"Any old position, don't you know. I stood at one side with the othah fellows and when the chappies made a touchdown we said 'rah—rah'. It's deuced exciting, yes, really."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

DIPLOMATIC.

"John Henry, as you go to the office, step around and ask my dressmaker when she can come."

"You mean that young woman with cheeks like peeches, teeth of pearl, a halo of golden hair and a laugh that makes you think of angels? Sure I'll step around and I'll wait there for her."

"Never mind! I'll be going out, and can attend to the dressmaker myself. And it won't be that one, either!"

The last remark was inaudible, but anyway John Henry was chuckling so hard he would not have heard it.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A GREAT COMBINATION OFFER

We Will Furnish the "TWICE-A-WEEK" Issue of the

St. Louis Globe-Democrat

With

THE UNION

For

$1.50 Both Papers, one year, only $1.50.

The St. Louis Globe Democrat should not be classed with the many cheap weekly papers. It is a high-grade Semi-Weekly, eight or more pages, every Tuesday and Friday. It is beyond all comparison the biggest, best and cheapest National News and Home Journal published in the United States. It is strictly Republican in Politics but is above all

A Great Modern Newspaper.

It is not made up indiscriminately from the Daily issue. It is carefully edited with special reference to the needs of the Farmer, the Merchant and the professional man who desires to keep thoroughly posted without sparing the time to read a large Daily Paper. It also contains a great variety of well selected reading matter, making it invaluable to every member of the family.

This Liberal Clubbing Offer

is open to all old or new subscribers, but may be withdrawn at any time, and we must receive the cash with order. Address

THE UNION,
Clanton, Ala.

Ben M. Jacobs & Bros.,

Furniture and Rugs.

—SOLE AGENTS—

Globe-Wernicke Elastic Book Cases and Filing Cabinets.

Catalogue for the asking.

1011 First Ave., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

DISPATCH PRINTING CO.,

Blank Book Makers and Lithographers.

County and Office Supplies a Specialty.

Ask for Estimates.

2113-2119 Morris Ave., BIRMINGHAM, ALA

Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association

OF ALABAMA.

CHARTERED BY SPECIAL ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE

By the People and for the People.

Chilton County Branch

Organized February 3, 1900.

W. M. WILSON, President. WALLACE C. EDLER, Sec'y.-Treas.

INSURES Farmers' dwellings, outbuildings and contents and live stock against loss by fire, wind and lightning. The cheapest, safest and most sensible method of insurance known to man

Average Yearly Cost for Five and a half Years 43-100 of 1 per cent.

Full particulars furnished upon application to

WALLACE C. EDLER, Clanton, Ala.

PAUL CALAME,

205 21st Street

Birmingham, Ala.

Practical Watchmaker and Optician

Eyes Correctly Fitted

Mail orders promptly filled

DO YOU WANT

Letterheads, Noteheads, Billheads, Envelopes,

OR ANYTHING ELSE PRINTED?

Then Call at

THE UNION OFFICE

and See Fine Work at Low Prices.

500 Noteheads 500 Envelopes All For $2.00

Good Work on Good Material, done on Good Machines. Don't forget! THE UNION, Clanton, Alabama.

ADVERTISE IN

Your Home Paper

FOR GOOD RESULTS.

THE UNION

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Wallace C. Edler, Ed. and Pub.

Subscription price, in advance, per year, $1.

For advertising rates, call at the office, Seventh street, between First and Second avenues.

Entered April 15, 1903, at Clanton, Ala., as second class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications to the Union must be signed by the writer's real name as well as that name which they wish to put in the paper. Letters must reach the editor Tuesday morning to get in the same week. While we will publish any and all communications complying with these requirements that do not contain any improper language, we are not responsible for the opinions expressed. tf.

CLANTON, ALA., February 8, 1906.

Union Clubbing List

THE UNION And Yellow Jacket	$1.06
THE UNION And Southern Ruralist	1.00
THE UNION And Union Educator	1.05
THE UNION And Home and Farm	1.00
THE UNION And Weekly Age-Herald	1.25
THE UNION and Weekly Atlanta Constitution	1.25
THE UNION and Twice-a-Week Globe Democrat	1.50
THE UNION and Tri-W'kly Atlanta Constitution	1.50
THE UNION And Tom Watson's Magazine	1.50
THE UNION and Tri-Weekly N. Y. World	1.50
THE UNION And Rural South	1.50
THE UNION And Weekly Advertiser and Map of Alabama, U. S. and world	1.50

If there are any other papers you want call at THE UNION office, and we will get them for you at the lowest rates. tf

$10.00 REWARD

Will be paid to the three persons who secure for us the largest number of PAID subscribers between now and April 1st, 1906. No restrictions. Our clubbing prices go in this contest. $5.00 goes to the one with the largest list; $3.00 to the second largest list, and $2.00 to the third largest. Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds has kindly consented to be the judge in this contention, and he will make the awards. The names of the successful contestants will be published, also the names of all who tried for this reward. Now we have a thousand subscribers, help us to get a thousand additional, so as to fittingly celebrate the ending of our third year.

tf THE UNION.

POLL TAXES PAID.

There was paid to the Tax Collector of Chilton county for poll tax in 1905 $2,229, which was contributed by 1,230 individuals, a number paying for several years back, some few as many as five years. In the census of 1900 Chilton had a white population of 13,258; in 1904 the list of registered voters numbered about 2,800. We doubt if there is another county in Alabama that can show so large a percentage of poll tax payers; but the answer is easy; the majority of our citizens are like "Collins' ram"—they sure have heads of their own. We vote as we say—right. And our schools get money that they are in sore need of. Now, vote for the special school tax for this reason, if no other. The different corporations that own property in our county pay about 70 per cent of the taxes collected. Let us pay 30 cents and so make "the other fellow" 70 cents. It's a good bargain. Let us educate the children that will run this country when we are dead and under the sod. Vote for the tax.

"STILL THEY COME."

Clanton, Ala., Feb. 6, 1906.

Editor Union:

Please allow me space to say a few words along political lines. I have voted the Democratic ticket ever since I was 21 years of age, and I am now past the meridian of life. I believe in the principles of Democracy as taught and practiced by our forefathers, who stood for the rule and rights of the people, free from the frauds, misrule and trickery of a few leaders who, in our day, defeat the wants and wishes of the masses.

Realizing, as I do, that the practice of the so-called Democracy of today is a radical departure from the original Democratic faith, I shall no longer cast my ballot for or give my support to such a party, but hereafter I shall cast my ballot and give my support in the interest and behalf of the rights of the people.

Thanking you in advance for the space here accorded me, I am,

Most respectfully,

J. W. SMITH.

BOWIE SHOWS STARTLING VIOLATION OF LIQUOR LAWS.

Representative Bowie, of Alabama, presented a startling array of figures before the Committee on Ways and Means yesterday, showing the illegal sale of liquor in different States and the number of "blind tigers" in operation in prohibition States and local option districts.

The committee had under consideration two bills introduced by Mr. Bowie. One of these requires federal authorities to furnish evidence, when and to whom they issue licenses, when they are requested to do so by State or municipal authorities to aid in the criminal prosecution under State statutes.

The other measure prohibits the issuance by federal authorities of special tax receipts from the federal government to those persons who have not complied with the State or municipal license requirements. Such a law, Mr. Bowie argued, would have a strong tendency to abolish the illegal sale of liquor.

Mr. Bowie's figures show that there are in the State of Alabama 1,592 federal licenses and only 762 State licenses, or 829 "blind tigers;" Colorado, 3,220 federal licenses, 2,600 State licenses, and 620 "blind tigers;" Georgia, 1,896 federal licenses, 930 State licenses, and 966 "blind tigers;" Delaware, 423 federal licenses, 290 State licenses, and 133 "blind tigers;" Kentucky, 4,052 federal licenses, 1,983 State licenses, and 2,070 with no license; Louisiana, 4,558 federal licenses, 1,752 State licenses, 2,806 "blind tigers;" Maine, 640 federal licenses, no State licenses, accordingly 640 known "blind tigers;" Michigan, 8,860 federal licenses, 5,554 State licenses, and 3,306 "blind tigers."

In the eight States cited Mr. Bowie showed that there are 11,370 "blind tigers." He expressed the belief that full reports would show that there are fully as many "blind tigers" throughout the country as there are legalized saloons, or that the federal government issues twice as many licenses as all the States combined.—Washington Post of February 4.

We favor the passage of the first bill, but don't see any necessity for the second, as it would be superfluous in case the first was passed. The record of licenses should be public, as no man should want a license to do something that he is ashamed to let his neighbors know about, and the possession of a license to sell liquor is "prima facie" evidence that a man is engaged in that business. Let us down the "blind tigers" with their vile concoctions that are a base libel on real whisky.

COUNTY COURT.

There was an extra session of the court on Saturday to try a half dozen colored men who were taken off the train at the request of the conductor and tried for "public drunkenness:" Frank Payne, not guilty; Paul Powell, $5 fine; John Bean, $5 fine; these two paid their fines and costs and were released. Plummer Harris, Lawyer Green and Will Holloway were fined $10 each, and not paying up, will work for the county eighty-one days each.

Regular term on Monday and Tuesday disposed of the following cases: Ann Speigner, trespass, verdict of "not guilty," and the costs were assessed against the complainant; Turner Campbell, Lillie Campbell and Leatha Campbell, charged with assault and battery, all acquitted; Maf. Campbell and Will Campbell, charged with assault and battery, waived to grand jury; Will Campbell, concealed weapon, $50 fine. Jeff Lykes, abusive language and assault and battery; Alex Lykes, assault and battery; Hugh Lockhart, selling liquor; Harmon Headley, selling liquor, two cases; Henry Larkin, selling liquor, two cases; John Parrish, assault and battery, three cases; Dan Kendrick, concealed weapon, etc., three cases; Bunk McKenzie, grand larceny; all waived to the grand jury; Gus Kennedy, public drunkenness, $5 fine; Ed Williams, failing to work public road, $3 fine.

The following cases were set for trial on February 15: Scott Caverno violating election law, three cases; P. W. Peterson, same charge, three cases; Chas. A. Peterson and L. Brunberg, same charge, one case each; A. Lofthus and L. Brunberg, violating revenue law, two cases; A. Lofthus, selling wine, etc.; L. Brunberg, same charge.

The County Court seems to be getting quite popular, as it is a sure thing that each case is tried on its merit.

S. C. A.

The Cotton Association met at Clanton Saturday and transacted considerable business, among which was the appointing of the following members to collect dues, etc, in their respective beats: Beat 1, J. W. Sorrell; 2, W. H. Killingsworth; 3, R. J. Williams; 4, N. J. Calloway; 5, S. S. Scott; 6, W. Y. Keel; 7, G. W. Keen; 8, W. Y. Nix; 9, T. J. Jackson; 10, D. S. Robinson; 11, W. S. Cox. Also unanimously adopted the following address of President Harvie Jordan:

Cotton Area for 1906.

What shall the cotton area of the South be in 1906? This question can be asked by any one. It can alone be definitely and correctly answered by that great army of cotton growers, who will solve the problem for themselves and the world within the next ninety days. The great cotton convention, which met at New Orleans, La., January 11-13, 1906, and the Executive Committee of the Southern Cotton Association, which convened at the same place on January 15, both, harmoniously and without a dissenting voice, passed and recommend the following resolution:

"Believing that the 25 per cent reduction in cotton acreage, recommended and insisted upon by the Southern Cotton Association at its meeting at New Orleans, La., a year ago was eminently wise and salutary, this committee suggests with all the insistence at its command that for the year 1906 the Cotton Association endeavor to continue that work, to the end that the original 25 per cent reduction from the acreage of 1904 may be accomplished in the year 1906."

It is generally admitted that the reduction in cotton acreage for 1905 amounted to an average of 15 per cent. The demand for a full reduction of 25 per cent from the enormous area planted in 1904 would mean that we must still further reduce the area planted in 1906 from that of 1905 at least 10 per cent. Those farmers who reduced their cotton acreage 25 per cent last year will not be asked to reduce again this year, but they will be expected to hold their acreage down to that planted last year. Those farmers who did not reduce last year are expected to cut their acreage 25 per cent this year. The man who reduced 15 per cent last year is expected to cut his acreage another 10 per cent this year. In other words, it is imperative that the cotton area planted on every farm in the South this year shall be at least 25 per cent less than that planted in the spring of 1904.

This is easily understood and should be strictly carried into practical operation if the advice of the best brains from leading Southern farmers, the Southern Cotton Association and the perils of overproduction are to be heeded. The farmers are generally getting into a position of thrift and independence. This is due to the fact that for the past few years, with but one exception, the crops of cotton grown have not materially exceeded the demands for consumption, and fairly good prices have prevailed.

Diversification the Watchword.

That the area planted in cotton last year was too large there can be no question of doubt. But for the bad climatic conditions prevailing in the Southwestern States we would have produced over 12,000,000 bales and suffered a tremendous depression in prices. With the area planted in 1905, which amounted to 27,000,000 acres, it is easily possible, with normal seasons, to produce a crop of over 13,000,000 bales. What is the sensible thing to do; cut the acreage and hold production within the limits of consumption at good prices, or plant largely, produce superabundantly and sell at ruinous prices? This is the question which now confronts every cotton grower in the South. Diversification is the keynote to the proper solution of the problem. Plant more land in food supply crops; less land in cotton; live at home, and sell your staple crops slowly and at prices showing a profit on the year's labor. Cotton is today the cheapest commodity on the market, figuring the true cost of its production.

The true doctrine of diversification and reduction in cotton acreage will be preached from every hill top and valley by the officers and members of the Southern Cotton Association during the next ninety days. The entire Southern press will be urged to lift its voice in behalf of these two fundamental propositions, upon which the South must stake her fortunes in 1906. The wise man will heed this advice and exercise every possible influence over any of his neighbors who are not disposed to exercise prudence before it is too late. Make your farms self-sustaining and grow happy and prosperous.

As the markets of the world are gradually broadened and the demand increases, then, and not till then, let the acreage planted in cotton be increased. Regulate the supply to meet the present existing demand for consumption, and thereby have a controlling voice in the prices of the raw product. No power on earth can control prices when the legitimate laws of supply and demand are recklessly disregarded. The farmers are the arbiters of their future fortunes. We will point the way to success. Pause and reflect before it is too late.

HARVIE JORDAN.
Pres. S. C. A.

F. E. & C. U. OF A.

Editor Union:

Allow me space in your columns to say a few words. It seems to me that the fight with the Farmers' Union is now on, and now is the time to make the right start to get the Union on the right footing, so as to make it a safe organization for the farmer to be in. To make it this kind of an organization we must stand by the Union and buy our fertilizers through the Union. Some disturbance is being raised in certain "locals" on account of the merchants underselling our business agents, and some persons are leaving the Union and going in with the local merchants to get their fertilizer. Some say, "We ought to get the fertilizer where we can get it the cheapest." Now, brethren, I don't think so. We have good reasons to believe that if the merchants could break up the Union by selling 10-2-2 goods at $10 per ton, they would do it. If they can sell it so low this year, why couldn't they do it last year? It is because they want to undersell the Union if possible and get the brethren drawn away from the organization and get them back into their hands, where they can force them to submit to any kind of price. The doctrine of these merchants is to "accept the lowest price we can get, and do our fighting when the prices begin to go up." Suppose that we were to all buy through the merchants and not buy through the Union, and as a result of our buying through the merchants, the manufacturer that we are now dealing with would lose confidence in us and not sell any more direct to us. He would then sell to the merchants, and they would sell to us at the same old price, and we would have to take it, because our organization was "busted" and discouraged. Brethren, just stop and think a moment. Who got the price of fertilizer down? Didn't the Union do it? If so, then why not stand by the Union and show it our respect for what it has done by buying through it, and thus show our hearty appreciation of what our business agents have done, and at the same time cleanse our order and preserve it, so as to have a future organization as well as a present one? It would be better to lose a few dollars this year and be assured of a permanent organization, than to lose our organization this year and go back in the same old rut, where we will be at the mercy of the local merchant. I hope every one will consider these things, and resolve within to be a Union man up and down. With best wishes to The Union and the F. E. & C. U. of A., I am, yours fraternally,

C. N. EILAND,
County Lecturer.

MAPLESVILLE MELALNGE.

We wish our Northern friends could realize our delightful weather, the thermometer ranging from 55 to 75 in the open hall, many early spring flowers in bloom, not a flake of snow and but little ice. Many "early bird" gardeners are at work, for every one knows "the early bird catches the worm." Misses Macie Adams and Fannie Bowline are visiting friends in Selma. Mrs. Deramus and her pretty little daughter, Bertha, have visited friends in Billingsley. Mrs. George Fox and Mrs. Walker are convalescing from serious illness. Mr. Damsky has taken charge of the Twin Tree Lumber Company's commissary, and Calhoun Merchant has taken Mr. Damsky's place. Our place has been greatly benefited by the families of Monuro Ramsey and George Foshee moving in. Miss Ida Jones is visiting Miss Ramsey. Mr. Causey's little girl was badly burned the other day by her clothes catching fire. "O."

SOUTH BESSIE.

Dear Union:

Everything is quiet in this part. People busy and well up with their usual work. Hurrah for the "Bird" of Macedonia that visited the Union last week. Hope we will have more visits from that aerial songster of the air. Come again.

Well, it seems that our popular mail carrier of R. F. D. No. 3 from Jemison, Mr. A. D. Gentry, loves to travel on route No. 1 on Sundays.

Mr. Jones and daughter visited the family of Assessor Pounds on the 28th Newman Crumpton's little child died last week. Funeral conducted by Mr. J. P. Gentry. We sympathise with the sorrowing parents.

J. L. Smith is adding some improvements to his home.

Z. J Jones visited Esq. J. A. Caddell Sunday.

Chilton seems to be firmly settled on one question—that is, to never have any other rule but that of the people, regardless of what colors they may sail under. So let union be the motto all the time, as it has been in the past, and success is sure. The opposition to the people's rule know this as well as you do. One thing that is indispensable in this great work of the people is the great search light of Chilton, The Union. Let it fearlessly flash its light in all our homes. It is your friend. Of course, as it grows older its importance grows also. Chilton is a good county. Let the people continue to rule it, and it will remain good. Let union be the motto.

"ONE OF THE BOYS."

CENTER POINT.

Editor Union:

Health of this community is pretty good now; all the sick people have got about well. Cold weather and log rollings are the thing just now. Our Sunday school is very good, and we are trying to make it even better. We are all glad to see the F. E. & C. U. of A. getting stronger and stronger; it is the greatest organization for the farmer that we've ever had, and we are glad that Chilton county is to have our State meeting, and will be on hand at Clanton with them. Well, Mr. Editor, as election time is coming, let us all put on our studying caps and vote for what is best for the people. We know that the people of Chilton have been getting along all right, and we think that they will continue in the same way. Yours truly, C. W. L.

MANGUM, O. T.

Editor Union:

Please allow me a little space in your much appreciated paper, The Union, and I'll try to give your readers a short sketch of Oklahoma Territory—a much talked of place, and suffice it to say, "great;" It is "great," too, with its immense plains of rich level land, this great Southwest, where cotton, corn, wheat, oats, Kaffir corn, sorghum, millet and a great variety of vegetables, stock raising in all its branches, go side by side, producing satisfactory returns. The land is all bald prairie, not a tree to be seen, except fruit trees and other shrubbery that have been set out; there is a small bush they call mesquite, but not many. The land is level and rich, so level that a house can be seen so far that it don't look larger than a cigar box. The country is settled up by a "hustling up" family on nearly every quarter section, with churches of different denominations and public schools in every district. Cotton picking is about finished; only small patches yet to pick. Picking on halves and $1.25 per 100 is the price paid for picking. Oat sowing and turning the land for a new crop is the order of the day among our farmers here. Well, I'll close for this time, but later will try and give a description of the farming ways here. I hope the scribes will brush up and do their best. I love to read their letters to The Union. Come on "Observer." With best wishes to The Union and its many readers. J. H. LUNDY.

CALERA.

Mr. Rufe Benson, a former citizen of Calera, but who lately moved to near Clanton, died in a Birmingham infirmary at 5 a. m. Sunday. The remains were taken to his old home for interment Sunday evening. Last Wednesday the sad news came to Calera of the burning to death of little Frances Bradley, a daughter of the late George Bradley. The sad accident occurred at Auburn, where her mother, Mrs. Bessie Bradley, had been residing for some months. The body was brought here and laid to rest by the side of her father at New Salem Cemetery. Mr. Bradley was killed by a train on the L. & N. some two years ago. The little girl was a granddaughter of the late J. D. Hardy. Messrs. Marcus and Littleton are ready to grind corn in their new mill. Tuesdays and Fridays of each week will be grinding days for the public. They solicit the patronage of the surrounding country. The repairs on the Presbyterian church are about completed, and the good people can now worship in their own house. Services at the Baptist church last Sunday. Next Sunday will be regular day at the Methodist churches—11 a. m. in the city and 3 p. m. in West Calera. J. M. Pilgreen has had his residence repaired and repainted, and it is now a handsome cottage. Bob Cargile has sold his house in Calera and intends moving to Talladega. W. H. Pilgreen is contemplating the beautifying of his house on Tenth street. Charles Porter, of Sylacauga, will move his family to Calera, he having bought the Cargile house. Our new depot is progressing. VETERAN.

THORSBY.

Dr. H. C. Junkerman was called home to Cincinnati last week on account of the serious illness of his father. Teddy Lefstad was in Montgomery on Friday. Mrs. Fannie Honeycutt has returned from a visit to her sister in north Alabama. Miss Della Blalock is here visiting Mrs. Rasberry. Mrs. James Bosworth paid a visit to her sister in Calera last week. Messrs. Turnquist and Lon Reggan went to Calera Sunday. Mr. Rufus Benson, who has been residing with his family in Thorsby for several months past, died at 5 a. m. Sunday and was buried at Collins chapel on Monday afternoon. Prof. Littlejohn delivered his final lecture on Monday night. The proceeds from the series of lectures, amounting to $20, will be applied to decorating the interior of the Norwegian Lutheran church. Miss Knapp, of Chicago, a Thorsby visitor Sunday. Messrs. J. Stanley and J. Parnell made a business trip to Birmingham last week. Scott Caverno was in the Magic City the past week. The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Union Prot. church met with Mrs. G. Michelson at the home by Inn on Tuesday afternoon. The State Horticultural Association had a good gathering with many visitors present, among whom were Dr. E. Wilcox, C. H. Cary and J. H. Dorman of Auburn. The visit to the celebrated potato cellars of John L. Wilson, about 2 miles north of Thorsby, was a revelation to many of the delegates. All the officers were re-elected. This continues P. C. Smith, of Thorsby, as one of the vice presidents. All the delegates expressed their satisfaction with the way they were entertained by Thorsby.

N

NOTICE.

I hereby appoint the 4th Saturday in each month as my regular day for hearing civil causes at my residence in beat 3, Chilton Co. Deeds, mortgages and papers of all kinds carefully and legibly made out.

J. A. CADDELL,
Notary Public & Ex-officio J. P.

tf

FOR SALE

At all times, high grade hogs and pigs, Berkshire and Poland China, crossed.

M. J. BARRETT,
tf Thorsby, Ala.

FOR SALE!

Fine lot of barred Plymouth Rock cockerels and pullets, 75c and $1.00 each. Brown Leghorn cockerels $1.00 each. Brown Leghorn eggs, $1.00 per setting. Also full blood.

P. C. SMITH,
tf. Thorsby, Ala.

BUSINESS PROPOSITION.

The best whiskey in the country is here. If you don't believe it, try me.

J. M. COLLINS,
Palace Saloon, Calera, Ala.

COTTON SEED MEAL

I am now ready to sell cotton seed at my new stand just east of Johnson's Livery Store. Also cotton seed meal and hulls and feed stuffs for sale. Come and see me and I will do you good.

FRANK GOODGAME,
tf Clanton, Ala.

Statement of the Condition of the THORSBY SAVINGS BANK, Located at Thorsby, Ala., at the Close of Business January 25, 1906.

RESOURCES		LIABILITIES
Loans and Discounts	$11,366 61	Capital Stock paid in
Furniture and Fixtures	600.00	Surplus fund
Other Real Estate	3,366.10	Undivided profits less current
Due from Banks and Bankers in this State	1,324.87	Expenses and Taxes paid
Due from Banks and Bankers in other States	2,894.70	Individual deposits subject to Check
Currency	1,944.00	Demand Certificates
Gold	302.50	Time Certificates
Silver, Nickels and Pennies	473.96	Cashiers Checks
TOTAL	$24,367.92	TOTAL

STATE of ALABAMA
Chilton County

Before me came I. S. Gerald, President of the Thorsby Savings Bank, who being duly says that the above and foregoing statement is a true condition of said Bank, as shown books on file in said Bank.

I. S. GERALD, President.

Sworn to and subscribed before me, this 2nd day of February, 1906.

G. H. GERALD, Notary Public.

J. E. Littlejohn

Clanton, Alabama.

General Merchandise, Corn, Hay, etc.

SHOES

The most for the money in town. Come and see us and we will do you good.

Pure Water Prevents Fevers.

DRILLED WELLS FURNISH PURE WATER

We guarantee water or no charge made. Estimates given. Address

L. E. SARBER CO.

Thorsby, Ala.

CLANTON AND CHILTON COUNTY OFFICIALS.

Circuit Court.

Term—Third Monday in May. Term—Fourth Monday in Nov.

Judge—S. L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
Solicitor—W. R. Bowling, Dadeville.
Clerk—Sam W. Collins.

Chancery Court.

Term—Second Monday in Jan. Term—Second Monday in Sept.

Register—Hon. W. W. Whitesides.
Solicitor—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clanton.

County Court.

Meets Monday in each month.

Commissioners' Court.

Second Monday February, first Monday April, first Monday June, second Monday July, second Monday August, first Monday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

Judge of Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
Treasurer—W. T. Callen.
Sheriff—J. M. Morgan.
Coroner—W. M. Adams.
Tax Assessor—L. B. Pounds.
Tax Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.

First District—W. H. Conway.
Second District—Alex Glasscock.
Third District—R. P. Kendrick.
Fourth District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.

Prof. J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor.

P. R. Dahl, Calera.

State Senator.

Hon. W. R. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.

Pastors and clerks are cordially asked to send the editor any news regarding their churches which they would like published. Also if there are any errors in these notices please send corrections.

MISSIONARY BAPTISTS.

Beth-Salem—Rev. J. E. Moore, 3rd Sunday. E. B. Popwell, clerk, Billingsley. R. F. D. No. 1.

Clanton—Rev. A. C. Swindall, 1st and 3rd Sundays. W. I. Mullins, clerk.

Chestnut Creek—Rev. T. J. Deason, 1st Sunday. H. A. Harris, clerk.

Liberty Hill—Rev. S. Smitherman, 2nd Sunday. W. M. Wood, clerk.

Macedonia—Rev. G. W. Freeman, 4th Sunday. H. H. Armstrong, clerk.

New Salem—Rev. S. Smitherman, 3rd Sunday. W. M. Pierce, clerk.

Poplar Springs—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 5th Sunday. J. J. McDowell, clerk.

Union Point—Rev. A. L. Foshee, 2nd Sunday. J. N. Miner, clerk, Clanton.

Collins Chapel—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 1st Sunday. J. W. Littleton, clerk.

Union Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 2nd Sunday. R. S. Chandler, clerk.

Pleasant Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 3rd Sunday. T. J. Headley, clerk.

Mars Hill—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 1st Sunday. G. W. Gothard, clerk.

Rocky Mount M. E. Church—Rev. C. Carroll, pastor, 2nd Sunday. Song service every 2nd and 4th Sunday afternoons. Prayer meeting every Wednesday night.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

Masonic.

Clanton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—Third Saturday, Clanton.

Amanda Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 90—Fourth Saturday, Cooper.

Clanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 482—First Saturday, Clanton.

Century Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 497—First Saturday, Billingsley.

Boseman Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 534—Saturday on or before full moon, Marbury.

Jemison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 611—Saturday on or before full moon, Jemison.

Stanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 673—Tuesday on or before full moon, Stanton.

I. O. O. F.

Jemison Lodge—First and third Saturdays.

Clanton Lodge, No. 304—Second and fourth Saturdays.

Woodmen of the World.

Black Jack Camp, No. 190—First and third Mondays.

I. C. R. M.

Carcerme Tribe, No. 90—First and third Mondays sleep. Visiting chiefs cordially invited. B. B. Langston, C. of R.; J. H. Patton, Sachem.

L. M. P. A.

Eureka Lodge, of Thorsby—Second and fourth Saturdays.

of the THORSBY SAVI rsby, Ala., at the Close nuary 25, 1906.

LIABILITIES

Capital Stock paid in Surplus fund
Undivided profits less current Expenses and Taxes paid
Individual deposits subject to Check
Demand Certificates
Time Certificates
Cashiers Checks

TOTAL

Thorsby Savings Bank, who being duly rue condition of said Bank, as shown by
I S GERALD, President.
day of February, 1906.
G. H. GERALD, Notary Public

ttlejohn

Alabama.

ise, Corn, Hay, etc.

OES

in town. Come and see

revents Fevers.

RNISH PURE WATE

or no charge made.
dress
RBER CO.
Alaba

on Monday afternoon. Prof. Vo lits delivered his final lecture on day night. The proceeds from th ries of lectures, amounting to $20, will be applied to decoratin interior of the Norwegian Lut church. Miss Knapp, of Chicago, a Thorsby visitor Sunday. Mr
J. Stanley and J. Parnell made a ness trip to Birmingham Mon Scott Caverno was in the Magic the past week. The Ladies' Aid ciety of the Union Prot. church with Mrs. G. Michelson at the T by Inn on Tuesday afternoon.
State Horticultural Association good gathering with many visito note, among whom were Dr. E.
Wilcox, C. H. Cary and J. H. Du of Auburn. The visit to the celeb potato cellars of John L. Wi about 2 miles north of Thorsby, a revelation to many of the dele
All the officers were re-elected, continues P. C. Smith, of Thorsb one of the vice presidents. A delegates expressed their satisfa with the way they were entert by Thorsby.

NO

NOTICE.

I hereby appoint the 4th Sat in each month as my regular d hearing civil causes at my resi in beat 3. Chilton Co. Deeds, gages and papers of all kinds c
ly and legibly made out.

J. A. CADDELL
Notary Public & Ex-off J
tf

FOR SALE

At all times, high g
hogs and pigs, Berkshire
Poland China, crossed.
M. J. BARRETT,
tf Thorsby, A

FOR SALE!

Fine lot of barred mouth Rock cockerels
pullets, 75c and $1.00
Brown Leghorn cocke
$1.00 each. Brown Leg
eggs, $1.00 per setting.
full blood. P. C. SMIT
tf. Thorsby,

BUSINESS PROPOSIT

The best whiskey in country is here. If don't believe it, try me.
J. M. COLLINS,
Palace Saloon, Calera,

COTTON SEED

I am now ready to cotton seed at my new just east of Johnson's Store. Also cotton meal and hulls and stuffs for sale. Com see me and I will d
good.
FRANK GOODGA
tf Clanton

...S AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

Circuit Court.
...g Term—Third Monday in May.
... Term—Fourth Monday in N
...
...ge—S. L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
...citor—W. B. Bowling, Dadeville.
...k—Sam W. Collins.

Chancery Court.
...ing Term—Second Monday in
...
... Term—Second Monday in Sep
...
...ancellor—Hon. W. W. Whitesides.
...gister—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan

County Court.
...st Monday in each month.

Commissioners' Court.
...cond Monday February, first Mon
...April, first Monday June, second
...day July, second Monday August,
Monday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.
...dge of Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
...easurer—W. T. Callen.
...eriff—J. M. Morgan.
...citor—W. M. Adams.
...x Assessor—L. B. Pounds.
...x Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.
...rst District—W. H. Conway.
...cond District—Alex Glasscock.
...ird District—R. P. Kendrick.
...urth District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.
...rof. J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor.
...P. R. Dahl, Calera.

State Senator.
...on. W. R. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.
...astors and clerks are cordially ask
...to send the editor any news regard
... their churches which they would
...h published. Also if there are any
...ors in these notices please send cor
...tions.

MISSIONARY BAPTISTS.
...eth-Salem—Rev. J. E. Moore, 3rd
...nday. E. B. Popwell, clerk, Billings
...R. F. D. No. 1.
...
...Clanton—Rev. A. C. Swindall, 1st
...d 3rd Sundays. W. I. Mullins, clerk.
...
...Chestnut Creek—Rev. T. J. Deason,
... Sunday. H. A. Harris, clerk.
...
...Liberty Hill—Rev. S. Smitherman
... Sunday. W. M. Wood, clerk.
...
...Macedonia—Rev. G. W. Freeman,
...d Sunday. H. H. Armstrong, clerk.
...
...New Salem—Rev. S. Smitherman,
...d Sunday. W. M. Pierce, clerk.
...
...Poplar Springs—Rev. A. L. Foshee,
...h Sunday. J. J. McDowell, clerk.
...
...Union Point—Rev. A. L. Foshee, Sr.
...nday. J. N. Miner, clerk, Clanton.
...
...Collins Chapel—Rev. J. H. Thomas
...d Sunday. J. W. Littleton, clerk.
...Union Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas,
...d Sunday. R. S. Chandler, clerk.
...Pleasant Grove—Rev. J. H. Thomas,
...h Sunday. T. J. Headley, clerk.
...Mars Hill—Rev. J. H. Thomas, 1st
...nday. G. W. Gothard, clerk.
...
...Rocky Mount M. E. Church—Rev
...r. Carroll, pastor, 2nd Sunday. Song
...ervice every 2nd and 4th Sunday af
...rnoons. Prayer meeting every Wed
...esday night.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.
Masonic.
Clanton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—Third Saturday, Clanton.

Amanda Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 550—Fourth Saturday, Cooper.

Clanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 333—First Saturday, Clanton.

Century Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 647—First Saturday, Billingsley.

Boseman Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 534—Saturday on or before full moon, Marbury.

Jemison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 611—Saturday on or before full moon, Jemison.

Stanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 673—Tuesday on or before full moon, Stanton.

I. O. O. F.
Jemison Lodge—First and third Saturdays.

Clanton Lodge, No. 304—Second and fourth Saturdays.

Woodmen of the World.
Black Jack Camp, No. 190—First and third Mondays.

I. C. R. M.
Geronemo Tribe, No. 96—First and third Mondays sleep. Visiting chiefs cordially invited. R. B. Langston, C. of R.; J. H. Patton, Sachem.

L. M. P. A.
Eureka Lodge, of Thorsby—Second and fourth Saturdays.

CLANTON COTTON MARKET.

Total receipts to Feb. 7, '06, 6,078.
Price same date, 10 3-4c.
Receipts same time, 1905, 6,130.
Price same date, 7 1-8c.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Matt. Davis was in Clanton Thursday.

J. P. Robinson and W. Q. Childress were pleasant visitors Thursday.

Attorney Gaston Scott, of Montgomery, was in Clanton Thursday on business. He dined with Judge Reynolds.

J. M. Grant was in town Saturday.

Ben Vines was a pleasant visitor Friday.

Elijah Headley was a welcome caller Friday.

'Squire J. J. McDowell was in Clanton Saturday.

J. W. Hays was in town Saturday.

'Squire W. H. Shaw was in Clanton Saturday.

J. C. Courtney was a pleasant caller Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Arledge were visitors to Clanton Friday.

S. S. Scott, W. Y. Keel and J. F. Williams were in town Saturday. Prof. W. T. Bean was also in the party.

F. B. Goodgame was a welcome visitor Saturday.

John Mims No. 1 was in Clanton Saturday.

J. H. Ray and son Horace were in town Monday.

C. J. Cobern and wife were Clanton visitors Monday.

J. T. Rich was in town Monday, carrying a badly smashed thumb to show Dr. Hayes.

T. J. Dominy was in Clanton Monday.

J. W. Hayes and Miss Katie Mae Parker were married in the Probate Office Monday. We congratulate the young people, who we understand are going to Birmingham to reside.

J. J. Grant was in Clanton Tuesday.

Waxahatchee Tribe I. O. R. M. was instituted in Clanton on January 30th by Dep. Great Sachem Henry Englehardt and Past Sachem Letcher, of Montgomery, with 22 members. The officers are J. P. Van Derveer, Sachem; E. C. Jones, Prophet; Dr. N. S. Johnson, Senior Sagamore; J. E. Robinson, Junior Sagamore; O. K. Wells, Chief of Records; L. H. Reynolds, Keeper of Wampum.

Attorney J. Osmond Middleton went to Birmingham on business Wednesday. Smith & Middleton represent many interests.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

J. M. Hayes and Miss Katie Mae Parker. J. O. Barrett and Miss Lula Moore.

COLORED.

Wiley Mitchell and Mary Davis.

List of election officers appointed to hold and conduct the special election at the several voting places in Chilton county, Alabama, on the 20th day of February, 1906, for the purpose of voting for and against the levying of a special school tax, in said county.

Beat One—W. L. Honeycutt, D. P. Martin and Mord Robinson, inspectors; T. J. Dorminey and H. C. Young, clerks; Green Retherford, returning officer.

Beat Two, Box 1—W. H. Shaw, Job Reynolds, E. M. Daniels, inspectors; W. G. Conway and J. B. Wiggins, clerks; James Cobb, returning officer.

Beat Two, Box 2—C. L. Langston, G. W. Shaw and A. J. Atkinson, inspectors; D. L. Langston and C. L. Glasscock, clerks; E. H. Lowe, returning officer.

Beat Three, Box 1—Y. O. Freeman, Monroe Nix and A. Patterson, inspectors; J. C. Veazey and Monroe Hubbard, clerks; W. D. Nix, returning officer.

Beat Three, Box 2—R. J. Williams, T. J. Lenoir and A. S. Jones, inspectors; W. F. Deshaze and S. K. Rasberry, clerks; Lee Hayes, returning officer.

Beat Four—E. H. Parish, J. Wiley Littlejohn and J. P. VanDerVeer, inspectors; N. A. Kicker, J. Watts Moore, clerks; J. M. Morgan, sheriff, returning officer.

Beat Five—W. H. Strock, J. T. Noris and J. A. Mitchell, inspectors; J. M. Calloway, C. A. Pyron, clerks; T. I. Traywick, returning officer.

Beat Six—W. L. Popwell, W. C. Dickinson and G. W. Edwards, inspectors; R. F. Atkinson, M. F. Lett, clerks; R. L. Williams, returning officer.

Beat Seven, Box 1—J. J. Letcher, W. Y. Nix and T. U. Crumpton, inspectors; S. B. McCary, W. J. Atchison, clerks; D. C. Cooley, returning officer.

Beat Seven, Box 2—Noah Latham, J. N. Gentry, J. J. Hicks, inspectors; J. H. Green, Arthur Latham, clerks; J. N. Moore, returning officer.

Beat Eight, Box 1—F. J. Fitts, W. C. Dyer, and L. L. Lester, inspectors; W. M. Price, T. G. Milling, clerks; P. D. Parnell, returning officer.

Beat Eight, Box 2—J. T. Chambers, W. T. Kemp and J. R. Rucker, inspectors; S. B. Ratliff, D. M. Apperson, clerks; M. F. Bridges, returning officer.

Beat Nine—T. G. Williams, J. W. Hayes and J. R. Billingsley, inspectors; J. D. Collins, A. Z. Bean, clerks; R. H. Bean, returning officer.

Beat Ten—J. M. Grant, J. W. Dennis and Riley Robinson, inspectors; J. N. Dennis and L. A. Calloway, clerks; J. M. Carlee, returning officer.

Beat Eleven—W. T. Mahan, W. S. Cox, John Gore, inspectors; M. A. Kilgore, G. W. Pate, clerks; J. H. Gore, returning officer.

Germany Stands Firm on Police Issue.

Berlin.—Germany's attitude towards the proposition to place the control of the Moroccan police in the hands of France and Spain is one of firm opposition, since the arrangement would, according to the German view, amount practically to giving France full authority over the police, which Germany hitherto has steadily resisted. The foreign office says that the delegates to the conference at Algeciras will devote the next few days, while the conference is not sitting, to an informal exchange of views on the subject of management of the police in an attempt to shape acceptable plans for adjusting this vexed question.

Salvation Army Robbed.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—Thieves broke into the Salvation Army hotel here and stole nearly $100 which had been placed for safe keeping in the office. Part of the money belonged to the hotel, while the remainder belonged to guests and was a private fund of the captain. Entrance was made through a rear window from the top of a second story building. This is the second robbery at Salvation headquarters. Captain Sayers was held up recently and his watch and money taken by two masked men.

Hunt Ends Seriously.

Phoenix City, Ala.—Gordon and Dalton Hood, aged 11 and 9 years respectively, sons of Joseph Hood, of Wacoochee Valley, Ala., went rabbit hunting a day or two ago, and their dog running a rabbit up a hollow tree, they cut a pole with which to twist bunny out. Both boys wanted to do the twisting act, and in the scuffle the younger brother cut the other in the side with a pocketknife. The wound is serious, but not fatal. A negro witness declares that the boys were fighting, but they claim that the cutting was entirely accidental.

Poll Taxes in Escambia.

Brewton, Ala.—Five hundred and thirty poll tax receipts were issued by Tax Collector Holland up to the time of closing the books on the night of February 1, which is about 50 per cent of the poll tax payers of the county. There are in the county about 1,600 registered voters, and about 1,000 of these are subject to poll tax. In the year 1902 there were 531 poll tax receipts issued.

Mules in Big Demand.

Huntsville, Ala.—The horse and mule market in this section is more lively than in several years past, and large numbers of animals are being sold. Most of the mules are brought in from other counties. The demand comes from the farmers. They claim that they have the money to pay for stock that they have needed all along and that the demand for mules is not a sign that the cotton acreage will be increased.

"Jack the Slasher" at Work.

Washington, D. C.—Mrs. William T. Barton, wife of a local physician, was the victim of a "Jack the Slaser" while walking through a department store here Saturday afternoon. The man followed Mrs. Barton for some time before slashing her black velvet dress. He inflicted a clean, even cut about two feet long, the blade of the weapon, which was evidently a long, sharp one, extending almost to the flesh.

Commits Suicide With Chloroform.

Selma, Ala.—The body of Bertha Marsden, a white servant in the family of O. M. Cawthon, was found dead in her bed Monday morning. In her hand she held a small mug, in the bottom of which the girl had stuffed some cotton, and on a small table near by there was an empty ounce bottle in which there had been chloroform. It is thought that before retiring the young woman stuffed the cotton in the mug and then poured the chloroform in it and had then laid down and held the mug to her nose, and in that manner breathed her last.

Dozen Killed by a Bomb.

Berlin.—The Lokal Anzeiger prints a dispatch from Kattowitz, Prussian Silesia, announcing that a private house at Silce, across the Russian frontier, has been destroyed by the explosion of a bomb. The bodies of twelve persons can be seen in the ruins, and it is believed that many others were killed.

Overcome Austria's Balkan Influence.

Vienna.—It is reported that a military convention has been concluded between Italy and Montenegro for the purpose of breaking down Austria's predominating influence in the Balkans, but neither confirmation nor denial of it can be obtained in official circles here.

Jump Price on Coal.

Chicago, Ill.—Because of the possibility of a strike of the coal miners a number of wholesalers in this city have advanced the price of soft coal 25 per cent.

Madame Humbert Not Yet Released.

Paris.—The correspondent of the Petit Journal says that Remain D'Aurignac arrived there Sunday morning, but that his sister, Mme. Humbert, the swindler, has not yet been released from prison.

Macon, Ga.—The plant of the Southern Oil Company at Cordele, Ga., was practically destroyed by fire Sunday morning. Loss, $50,000. The seed and boiler rooms were saved.

NOTICE.

Cooper, Ala., Dec. 20, 1905.

The books and accounts of A. G. Clark & Son are in my hands for collection. All parties interested will please come at once and settle and save time and trouble.

J. J. M'DOWELL,
tf Justice Peace, Beat 10.

COUNTY COURT.

Hold first Monday in each month. All interested will pleased take notice that the court will open at 9:30 a. m. sharp.

L. H. REYNOLDS,
Judge of County Court,
tf Chilton County, Ala.

ABOUT CANDIDATES.

All letters praising any particular candidate by name will have to be paid for at the rate of 1-2 cent per word. The UNION will publish free all matter relating to the general welfare and prospects of the party of the People. tf

NOTICE OF SPECIAL ELECTION.

State of Alabama, Chilton County.

Notice is hereby given that the Commissioners' Court of said County have ordered a special election to be held in said county, at the various voting places on the 20th day of February, 1906, to determine whether or not there shall be levied and collected a special tax for the support of the public schools of said county. The rate of said special tax, as fixed by said court, shall be ten cents on each one hundred dollars of taxable property in said county, and shall continue six years.

L. H. REYNOLDS,
Judge of Probate.

1-11-05-4t

UNION NOTICE.

Any community wishing to form a Local Union of the F. E. and C. U. of A. that will write me, I will gladly come and organize them. I am authorized to organize in the counties of Chilton, Bibb and Perry. Yours in the work of Unionism,

G. W. SCOTT,
tf Jemison, Ala.

SPECIAL OFFER! !

The Union, Weekly Montgomery Advertiser, and a great white and black map of Alabama, United States and world, three in one, with a picture of every president from Washington to Roosevelt, all for $1.50.

A NEW DISCOVERY.

A great improvement, the Dixie Liver Regulator, does not gripe nor sicken, and cures Constipation, Heartburn, Vertigo, Dyspepsia, Kidney troubles and Lazy Liver. For sale by all Dealers and by Shelby Drug Co. Calera, Ala. tf

MULES AND MARES.

I will have 10 good mules for sale at my store on January 20th. On January 29th a car load of fine brood mares, between 4 and 6 years old, and weighing from 800 to 1,000 pounds each, will be offered. Call early and take your choice.

W. A. REYNOLDS,
tf Jemison, Ala.

MULES FOR SALE.

Here I am, all right, with a pair of good mules that will weigh about 600 pounds each; age, 8 years. They are straight and all right. Why don't you buy from me or some other good Republican who will treat you right? My price is $185.00 for the pair. Come and look at them before you buy.

W. L. McDOWELL,
One Mile South of Clanton.
tf R. F. D. No. 2.

FOR SALE OR RENT!

Land for sale, or to rent. One, two, three and four horse farms; two miles north of Jemison. Call on or address,

J. C. DUBOSE,
tf. Jemison, Ala.

NOTICE.

Blank Deeds, Mortgages, and all official forms for Justices of the Peace, etc., for sale at The Union Office. Only best approved forms are used. Come in and give us your order tf.

Watson's Magazine
Increase in Price

Beginning with the February (1906) Number, our Magazine will be called WATSON'S MAGAZINE. It will have a handsomer cover. Several new features will be added. The price at bookstores and newsstands will be 15 cents.

To be just to our present subscribers, we have decided to receive renewals and new subscriptions at $1.00 a year up to March 31st, 1906. After that the subscription price will be $1.50 per year.

This is a golden opportunity for those who are not within easy reach of newsstands. If you have never seen the magazine, ask for sample copy, mentioning this paper and address,

TOM WATSON'S MAGAZINE.
tf. 121 West 42d St., New York City.

Store Your Cotton
WITH
MULLINS & DOWNS
Planters Warehouse
Clanton, - Alabama.

Robidoux Scales. Best in the World.

Wouldn't You Like
BETTER WHISKIES FOR LESS MONEY?

than the kind youvl been getting? Then send your orders to us

THE BIG MAIL ORDER HOUSE

The house that sells nothing but the purest goods and guarantees every article it sells. If it's drugs or whiskies you want

WE CUT THE PRICE,

	Our Price.	Regular Price
Shehan's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50	75
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60	1 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65	1 00
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75	1 00
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75	1 00
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	1 25
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00	1 50
Stewart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	2 00
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	34	1 50
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1 50
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1 50
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1 50
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00	1 50
Wilson Whiskey	85	1 50
J. M. Atherton bottled in bond	1 00	1 50
Mammoth Cave bottled in bond	1 25	1 75
Old Jordon bottled in bond	1 50	2 00
Green River, the whiskey without a headache	1 00	1 25
Old Shades Mountain Corn	50	75
Old Mountain Due Corn	75	1 00
Old Lincoln County	65	1 00
Old Holland Gin	50	75
Old Crown Gin	75	1 00
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	75
California Sherry or Port	50	75

Mellow Old Liquors and Wines by the Gallon in Jugs.

	Per Gallon		Per Gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.00
Old Mountain Due	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.50
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.00
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club	3.40
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County	2.50
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.00
Old California Port or Sherry	1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.00

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY,
The Big Cut Rate Drug Store
2012 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Come and Be Pleased.

PRICES AND TERMS upon which we are selling the most beautiful and attractive goods of the season will certainly please and surprise you.

The styles on which fashion has stamped her approval for the coming season are now shown with newest materials.

A Full line of Star Brand Shoes.

Men's and boys' Clothing.

Full line of Gents' Furnishing Goods.

Ladies' and children's Jackets, Skirts and Ready-to-Wear Hats.

Anything you want in Dress Goods, Hardware, Saddlery and Florence Wagons.

J. C. JONES,
Clanton, Alabama.

Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St. THE BIG STORE, Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St.

—Is at The Head of The Procession.—

Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Shoes,
FURNITURE,
COFFINS AND BURIAL NECESSITIES.

W. I. MULLINS,
Clanton, Alabama

CAUGHT BY THE GRIP—RELEASED BY PE-RU-NA.

Pneumonia Followed La Grippe—Pe-ru-na the Remedy That Brought Relief.

Mr. T. Barnecott, West Aylmer, Ontario, Can., writes:

"Last winter I was ill with pneumonia after having la grippe. I took Peruna for two months, when I became quite well, and I can say that any one can be cured by it in a reasonable time and at little expense."

Systemic Catarrh, the Result of La Grippe. Pe-ru-na Receives Credit For Present Good Health.

Mrs. Jennie W. Gilmore, Box 44, White Oak, Ind. Ter., writes:

"Six years ago I had la grippe, which was followed by systemic catarrh. The only thing I used was Peruna and Manalin, and I have been in better health the last three years than for years before. I give Peruna all the credit for my good health."

Pe-ru-na—A Tonic After La Grippe.

Mrs. Chas. E. Wells, Sr., Delaware, Ohio, writes: "After a severe attack of la grippe I took Peruna and found it a very good tonic."

"Most Effective Medicine Ever Tried For La Grippe.'

Robt. L. Madison, A. M., Principal of Cullowhee High School, Painter, N. C., is Chairman of the Jackson County Board of Education. Mr. Madison says: "I am hardly ever without Peruna in my home. It is the most effective medicine that I have ever tried for la grippe."

Mrs. Jane Gift, Athens, O., writes: "I had la grippe very bad. My husband bought Peruna for me. In a very short time I saw improvement and was soon able to do my work."

Suffered Twelve Years From After-Effects of La Grippe.

Mr. Victor Patneaude, 328 Madison St., Topeka, Kas., member of Knights and Ladies of Security, writes:

"Twelve years ago I had a severe attack of la grippe and I never really recovered my health and strength—but grew weaker every year until I was unable to work.

"Two years ago I began using Peruna and it built up my strength so that in a couple of months I was able to go to work again.

"This winter I had another attack of la grippe, but Peruna soon drove it out of my system.

"My wife and I consider Peruna a household remedy."

WINCHESTER

REPEATING SHOTGUNS

No matter how big the bird, no matter how heavy its plumage or swift its flight, you can bring it to bag with a long, strong, straight shooting Winchester Repeating Shotgun. Results are what count. They always give the best results in field, fowl or trap shooting, and are sold within reach of everybody's pocketbook.

FREE: Send name and address on a postal card for our large illustrated catalogue.

WINCHESTER REPEATING ARMS CO., NEW HAVEN, CONN.

Thirty-two thousand, five hundred and sixty-two experiments were made on living animals in this country during 1904-5.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature on each box. 25c.

The largest safe in the world will hold $10,000,000 in uncut stones.

Piso's Cure cannot be too highly spoken of for cough cure.—T. W. O'Brien, 322 Third Avenue, N., Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 6, 1900.

Germany leads European countries in the number of publications.

Itch cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion; never fails. Sold by Druggists. Mail orders promptly filled by Dr. Fetchon, Crawfordsville, Ind. $1.

The total number of men in the United States liable to military service is 11,125,750.

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

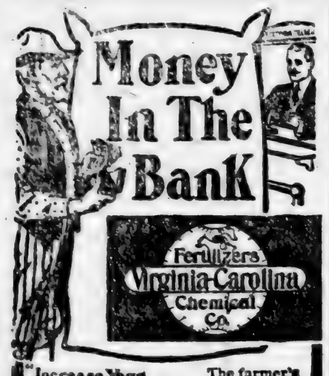
FOR MAN AND BEAST. KILLS PAIN AND DESTROYS ALL GERM LIFE.

CURES RHEUMATISM

WONDERFULLY PENETRATING. A COMPLETE MEDICINE CHEST.

Price, 25c., 50c., and $1.00.

Dr. EARL S. SLOAN, 615 Albany St., Boston, Mass.



Fertilizers Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co.

"Increase Your Yields Per Acre" The farmer's money-bag and bank account grow larger in proportion to the fertility of his farm. To supply to your farm the elements that have been taken from it by planting and harvesting season after season, use bountifully

Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers

(with a special formula for every crop). They lay at the root of thousands and thousands of prosperous farms. Use these fertilizers for all your crops, no matter what they may be. They will greatly "increase your yields per acre," and make your money-bag fuller. Ask your dealer for them, and if he can't supply you, write us direct. Don't pay your good money, nor give your note, for any inferior substitute.

VIRGINIA-CAROLINA CHEMICAL CO.,

Richmond, Va.	Atlanta, Ga.
Norfolk, Va.	Savannah, Ga.
Durham, N. C.	Montgomery, Ala.
Charleston, S. C.	Memphis, Tenn.
Baltimore, Md.	Shreveport, La.

If afflicted with weak eyes use Thompson's Eye Water

What John F. Stevens Did.

It was in 1890 that he began the most difficult, and as it proved, the most notably successful piece of engineering of his career, the building of the Rocky mountain division of the Great Northern.

He set out from Assinaboine, Mont., to make the preliminary reconnoissance with two Indian guides and a pack mule, and he carried it through, undeterred either by the desertion of both his guides or by the death of the mule. The cost of the complete survey was $900,000, and Mr. Jim Hill is said to have remarked with enthusiasm that the railroad got a dollar's worth for every one of them. At any rate, the road as it now runs is without doubt one of the finest pieces of mountain engineering in the world.

Indians and Tuberculosis.

It is true that 60 per cent of the deaths among the Sioux and Yankton Indians now are from tuberculosis, but it is also true that fifty years ago tuberculosis was unknown among the Indians, and has fastened upon them only since the coming of the white man to Dakota.

A TRULY IDEAL WIFE

HER HUSBAND'S BEST HELPER

Vigorous Health Is the Great Source of Power to Inspire and Encourage—All Women Should Seek It.

One of the most noted, successful and richest men of this century, in a recent article, has said, "Whatever I am and whatever success I have attained in this world I owe all to my wife. From the day I first knew her she has been an inspiration, and the greatest helpmate of my life."

Mrs. Bessie Ainsley

To be such a successful wife, to retain the love and admiration of her husband, to inspire him to make the most of himself, should be a woman's constant study.

If a woman finds that her energies are flagging, that she gets easily tired, dark shadows appear under her eyes, she has backache, headaches, bearing-down pains, nervousness, irregularities or the blues, she should start at once to build up her system by a tonic with specific powers, such as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Following we publish by request a letter from a young wife:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"Ever since my child was born I have suffered, as I hope few women ever have, with inflammation, female weakness, bearing-down pains, backache and wretched headaches. It affected my stomach so I could not enjoy my meals, and half my time was spent in bed.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman, and I feel so grateful that I am glad to write and tell you of my marvelous recovery. It brought me health, new life and vitality."—Mrs. Bessie Ainsley, 611 South 10th Street, Tacoma, Wash.

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Ainsley it will do for every sick and ailing woman.

If you have symptoms you don't understand write to Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free and always helpful.

THE CURRENT OF TRUE LOVE

HELEN FORREST GRAVES.

I DARE say he has forgotten all about Carrie Fairfield by this time!" said Genevieve Symons, holding her pretty head on one side, to adjust the scarlet rose among its silken black braids.

Alas, for the short memory of man! the brief hour in which gentle glances and words of silver sweet import live! Genevieve Symons was quite right. Mr. Alberti had very nearly "forgotten" pretty Carrie Fairfield's blue eyes, and soft, plaintive voice, much as he had at one time admired them. But actual presence has much influence in fanning the lambent flame of love, and Genevieve, with her dewy dark eyes, cream-tinted complexion, and arch Southern ways, was ever at his side, while if he chanced to ask a passing question in regard to the other fair young girl, Mrs. Symons answered:

"Well, now, that you mention it, it does seem to me that I heard that she was married, or something. Didn't I, Genny, darling? Or else they have moved away."

And Genevieve began to hope that the shy bird was snared at last. Mr. Alberti was certainly growing interested in her, after his languid, indifferent fashion—and the scheming girl, whose highest idea of human bliss was a rich husband, and plenty of money to spend, was already wondering how soon he would reach the much desired point of actual proposal.

"I do really think!" pondered Genevieve to herself, "he used to be fond of Carrie Fairfield, although I never saw anything to admire in her pale, oval face, and expressionless features. Tastes do differ so! And it is very fortunate that she should be out of the way just now, of all times—really quite providential, if one may use the expression."

And Genevieve went smiling downstairs to her worsted work.

On the stairway, however, she caught the sound of Mrs. Alberti's voice—her future mother-in-law—who had stopped in the nursery to see little Christine, the youngest hope of the Symons family, and Genevieve hastened down to join her, all gracious cordiality.

Christine, a plump little girl of five years old, sat on the floor in the middle of the room, playing with a huge gray-green parrot, who perched itself alternately on her shoulder and wrist, uttering hoarse sounds, as if in soliloquy.

"Isn't it pretty, Mrs. Alberti?" said the child, triumphantly holding it up.

Mrs. Alberti glanced more closely at the curious creature, which had a peculiarly shaped ring of white feathers about its neck.

"Why, surely," she exclaimed, "that is Carrie Fairfield's parrot. I never saw another one like it."

"Yes," said Christine, nodding her little curly head, "it's Carrie's parrot, Zulieka; Carrie gave it to Sister Genevieve last week."

"Last week!" and Mrs. Alberti, with whom Caroline Fairfield had ever been an especial favorite, turned with surprise to Miss Symons. "I did not know she was in town. You were aware of it? And you did not tell us!"

"I—that is—to tell you the truth, it never occurred to me," hesitated Genevieve, turning a ruddy crimson, and secretly wishing that her talkative little sister were in Jericho, or some equally distant place. "I only discovered it myself last week."

"She made Sister Genevieve's dress for her," said Christine, pulling the skirt of Genevieve's voluminous silken robe.

Miss Symons' eyelids drooped.

"She was in great want," said she, with skillful imitation of charming ingenuousness, "and it gave me pleasure to be able to assist her."

Warm-hearted Mrs. Alberti kissed Genevieve's cheek.

"You are a good girl, my dear," she said. "But pray favor me with her address at once! Carrie Fairfield in want! Why! it's dreadful, when one comes to consider how luxuriously she was brought up. Where does she live? I want to go there immediately."

Genevieve's placid smile did not fairly express the rage and discomfiture of her heart as she penciled down the desired address on a piece of lavender-colored paper with the monogram "G. S." at the top.

"I would accompany you," she said, sweetly, "only my music master comes at 12, and——"

"Oh, it isn't necessary, I assure you," said Mrs. Alberti; "although I am equally obliged for your kindness."

No sooner was Miss Genevieve Symons freed from the companionship of Mrs. Alberti, than she relieved her overcharged feelings by boxing Christine's ears, and frightened the parrot up to the very top of the rosewood secretary, where that sagacious bird wisely judged it best to remain. Little Christine began to sob and wail piteously.

"I haven't done anything," she whimpered. "You're a mean thing, and I'll tell Mr. Alberti—see if I don't."

"If you do, I'll shut you up in the dark closet under the stairs until the rats eat you up alive," retorted the amiable elder sister. "Now hold your tongue, will you? or I'll cut it out for good and all."

Christine was terrified into momentary silence, and Genevieve flounced upstairs.

"There's one consolation," she told herself, as she went; "the old ogress will have her trot for her pains. Carrie Fairfield will be at the ready-made-work warehouse at this time of day; I am sure of that, or I never would have allowed my lady to go off without me. I have one more day of safety; and if George Alberti doesn't propose to me during the next twenty-four hours, my powers of fascination are considerably less than I believe they are."

Mrs. Alberti returned in sore disappointment from her fruitless expedition in search of the fair young creature who had once blossomed so radiantly in the yellow glow of life's fairest sunshine.

"Is George in?" was the first question she asked of the servant who opened the door to her.

"No, ma'am; I believe he has just gone to Miss Symons'," was the answer.

Mrs. Alberti sat down and began to fan herself with the hat she had just taken off.

"I am sorry for that," she mused. "He used to admire Carrie, and although Miss Symons is very beautiful and charming——"

And Mrs. Alberti's meditations took no further or more definite shape than this.

Little Christine was sitting on the area steps, with a covered basket in her lap, that same afternoon, as Mr. Alberti approached the house. She started up.

"Why, Chrissy," he exclaimed, "what are you doing here?"

"I was waiting for you," answered Christine, slipping her hand confidentially into his.

"For me? And why?"

"I have got Zulieka here," nodded Christine, lifting up the basket, "and I want to take her home."

"And who is Zulieka?"

"Don't you know? Carrie Fairfield's parrot."

"Carrie Fairfield's parrot!"

Mr. Alberti stared at the little girl as if he thought she was dreaming.

"Yes—come quick before Genny sees; she said she'd wring its neck, and she struck me so hard right on the side of my head. I don't want Zulieka to have her neck wrung!"

"But where are you going?" demanded the young man, nevertheless allowing himself to be dragged along by the impetuous little girl.

"To Carrie's, of course."

"Where does she live?"

"Oh, I know—I've often been there with Genny. She sews for Genny, and makes all her dresses."

"But," interposed Mr. Alberti, more and more surprised, "it was only yesterday that Genevieve told me she did not know anything about Carrie Fairfield."

"Genevieve don't always tell the truth!" Christine answered, with a glance half shrewd, half timid.

Mr. Alberti smiled a little in the midst of his bewilderment.

Christine trotted along, turning corners, leading them to this side or that, with a sage wisdom beyond her years, until she reached a forlorn-looking brick house, with a flight of discolored stone steps leading up to it.

"This is the house," said the little girl.

She tapped at a side door, and it was opened by a slender, wearied young girl, with deep violet eyes, and hair like shadowy meshes of pale gold—Caroline Fairfield herself.

"Carrie!" cried Christine, eagerly greeting her. "I've brought back Zulieka!"

But Carrie had neither eyes nor ears for aught but her old lover.

"Carrie!" he exclaimed, "is it possible that it has come to this?"

"Yes," said Carrie, quietly. "I am very poor, and I work for my own living, and I have no friends left—not even you—for Genevieve told me that you cared no longer for me, now that I was poor, and an orphan."

"Carrie," burst out the young man, "it is false! I never even knew that you were in the city!"

"She has deceived me cruelly, then," Miss Fairfield answered, with a quiver to her lips. "How could she—oh, how could she be so heartless?"

And Carrie, weak, weary and worn with toil and privation, burst into tears.

"Don't cry, Carrie—dear Carrie, don't cry," soothed Christine, patting her cheek softly. "Here's Zulieka come back to you again. Genevieve shan't wring Zulieka's pretty feathery neck, shall she?"

"No, that she never shall," Mr. Alberti said, in the deep, low tone of suppressed emotion. "Henceforth Zulieka and her mistress shall both be the objects of my care through life. Carrie, my poor, broken-spirited lily, will you lean on me from this moment?"

And Carrie was but too glad to murmur "Yes."

It had been a very sudden courtship; not so much the flame of a new love as the old one blazing up from the long smoldering embers.

And little Christine went home triumphant, and told her mother and Genevieve the story she had just witnessed, taking care, however, to nestle close to the former's sheltering arm.

"He's going to marry her and Zulieka both," asserted the little damsel; "I heard him say so—and it's all your fault, for threatening to wring Zulieka's neck. Won't it be jolly for Carrie Fairfield to be married before you are, after all? I just hope you'll be an old maid always."

And so Miss Genevieve Symons' matrimonial plans were frustrated through such apparently slight agencies as her little sister and Zulieka, the gray-green parrot.—New York Weekly.

Athens, Greece, has many fine buildings, but the provisions for fighting fires are most inadequate.

A GOOD FAIRY.

Of all the good fairies round the house,
Good Nature is the sweetest;
And where she fans her airy wings
The moments fly the fleetest.

And other fairies, making cheer,
With her are gayly present;
They shine like sunbeams in the place
And make mere living pleasant.

The smiles she gives are rosy light
Shed softly on the wearer;
They make a plain face sometimes fair,
And make a fair face fairer.

Before them dark Suspicion flies,
And Envy follows after,
And Jealousy forgets itself,
And Gloom is lost in laughter.

Were there great genius or great power,
Great wealth, great beauty offered,
Let pass these fays, dear heart, but keep
All the Good Nature proffered!

—Harriet Prescott Spofford in St. Nicholas.

TOMMY'S ADVENTURE.

It was a hot day in August, the sun shone steadily down on the little village, the bees hummed loudly and Tommy discontentedly threw himself down on the lawn and began to chew the spears of grass. Passers-by would wonder why such a generally happy boy was so cross. After riding in turns on his pony and bicycle and tiring himself and every one else, he had wandered out on the grass, thinking thus to smooth his ruffled feelings. He yawned a little, for he was drowsy, and looked about for something to amuse him.

Right under him he saw a colony of ants that were busily preparing some breaches in their home, and the busy workers were trotting to and fro, carrying bits and sand. Tommy's bright eyes soon spied the little home and although he was not naturally a cruel boy, he was glad to have found this to amuse him. Taking up a small pebble, he placed it at the entrance and anxiously awaited for the result some of the little workers soon appeared, and great was their dismay at seeing the obstruction in their path. They ran this way and that, and finally they all disappeared, as if going for reinforcements.

Tommy was soon wearied of this play, and shut his eyes for a moment, when with a scream he opened them. In front of him stood an awful looking creature, larger than himself, and holding a pair of handcuffs. He was glaring at Tommy and the hair on the little boy's head stood up with fright and the cold chills played tag on his back.

"What do you want, sir?" faltered the boy.

"You!" growled the creature, shaking the chains. "Come along with me, young fellow, the king wishes to see you."

"Me? What for?" exclaimed the astonished Tommy. "What have I been doing?"

"Our king is the king of the ants, and I am the jailer, Ketchem, sent at His Majesty's command to imprison you in the royal prison for placing a large rock at the gate of the city when the workers were out, thus shutting out the light and making the palace very damp so that Princess Antamine has pneumonia. For this you are to appear before His Royal Highness and be judged according to his will. So come along," and the jailer clanked his chains and helped the terrified Tommy upon his trembling legs and fastened the chains securely on him.

They shortly arrived at the city gates, where Tommy saw a very excited group of Ants, surrounding an object which proved to be a large brown rock that they were trying to remove. Some of the more bloodthirsty of the crowd attempted to do violence to Tommy, but Ketchem protected him and hurried him to the Council Hall, on the way meeting parties of ants coming from the sick-room of the Princess. The hall was large and crowded with ants, but Tommy was dragged up to the throne, on which sat a big black king, who savagely asked him what he had to say. Tommy was too frightened to reply so Ketchem stated the facts of the case, calling up several witnesses to prove Tommy's deed. After a time the king wearied of this, and ordered Tommy sent to his cell to await the rest of the consultation of the court physicians.

Ketchem then took the prisoner through a long hall. At first he could not see, as his eyes were not used to the dim light, but presently he made out a tiny window high up in the wall.

His first thought was of escape, but how was he to do it? The door was bolted and the passages were guarded by sentinels. After a time he noticed that the walls of the cell were earthen, and the plan which came to our hero's mind was to dig his way out. A sharp stone was found in a distant corner, and with this in his hand he commenced operations. Not a moment must be lost if he intended to escape from the wrathful ants. The earth yielded after vigorous working, but he soon came to some rocks which retarded his progress considerably.

After much loss of time in trying to remove these, what was h[orror] to hear footsteps approachi[ng] cell. Yes, they were after hi[m] he heard the key in the door. [Now] or never! The great door [was] back, and he saw a group of [ants] standing in the doorway. [So] much perplexed that he had go[ne] ter a moment they seemed to [re]stand the direction he had [taken] and started after him. Tommy's [hair] almost stood on end. He thought [the] Princess must be dead, and the [ants] had dispatched them to bring [the] culprit forth to his doom. Recov[er]ly he set to work again, [and] ants gained steadily, and he was [al]most going to give himself up w[hen] in the dim light, he struck his [head] against a rock, and—Why!

Tommy sat bolt upright and [rubbed] his eyes. Where was the [marching] party? He was seated on [the] grass in front of his home and [what] he had in his troubled slumbers [taken] his head against the trunk of a [tree] great apple tree beneath which he was lying.

As he thought over this adventure—for he would never call it a dr[eam]—his first intention was to lea[ve the] stone where it was, but his [better] nature prevailed and he remov[ed it].

As a result of this "adventure" [Tommy] was cured of a desire to do [mischief] things just for fun, and he also [organiz]ed a natural history club among [his] boy friends for studying the lives [and] habits of the creatures about them.—Gertrude C. Valentine, in N. Y. Tribune-Farmer.

A JEALOUS BURRO.

At the Falls of the Seven Sis[ters] in the South Cheyenne Canon, in Colorado, there is a photographer who [is] the happy possessor of the now fa[mous] burro formerly owned by Helen H. Jackson. About six hundred feet above the highest of these falls is a charming spot which the [late] writer named Inspiration Point, where she spent much of her time when writing. She was accustomed to riding up there on a white burro named Dick. This little animal long outlived its mistress and its fulness; but he is still held in [high] honor, and tourists and children are permitted to have their pictures taken while sitting on his back.

At the photographer's gallery there was an insignificant little brown donkey tied to one arm of the settee, while historic old Dick was tied to the other. As soon as I had Dick's history, I sat down on the settee and tried to make friends with him; but he resented my advances, laid back his ears, bristled his mane and resisted with all his might my efforts to draw him to me. So I sat up and turned to the other one, who was all ready to be petted, laid his head on my shoulder, shut his eyes and looked a picture of contentment.

In a moment I felt a nudge at my arm, and, turning around, I saw Dick close beside me. I looked at him in astonishment, and he gave me another nudge with his nose. All the contrariness was gone from his face, and he had a most pleading expression. I glanced at the photographer and saw that he was laughing and laughing.

"What does it mean?" I asked.

"Oh," he said "Dick is jealous and wants you to get him, too."

"But I tried to do so first, and you would not let me," I replied.

"That is the way he does," said the photographer. "He won't allow me or one to make of him until he sees the other one getting attention, then he changes his mind and wants some of the petting also."

I immediately forgave the little fellow his former coldness, and he assumed the attitude of his rival. As I sat there with a burro's head on each shoulder, we were three happy comrades, and I shall always regret that I did not have a picture taken at the moment.—Abbie L. Weeks, in Our Dumb Animals.

A Pleasant Awakening.

The most curious story of misfortune is that which relates to the late Colonel Harry McCalmont. He was as poor as need be, though none the less happy for that. He was one day reading of his uncle's will, and that perhaps the departed gentleman might have remembered him to some extent, saw, of an old watch. Sure enough, the lawyer read out the words, "To my nephew Harry McCalmont I leave my watch and chain." The legatee was satisfied, and, leaning back, he drowsed, lulled by the monotonous tones of the lawyer as he read through the long instrument. At the close he rose to go. "I congratulate you," said the solicitor. "I don't know why you should," replied the other. "You are residuary legatee," remarked the lawyer. "You will have £4,000 annually for the first five years from this date, and afterwards you will inherit seven millions sterling." We are all awakened hearing the same kind of story. But ours have been dreams; this was real.—St. James Gazette.

Taking Time by the Forelock.

A lady, entertaining a guest of importance, was giving final instructions to her maid.

"Now, Polly," she said, "in the morning take a pitcher of hot water up to Mr. X.'s room. Be sure you don't forget this."

"No'rm," Polly answered. The lady thought no more of the matter until the next day, when at noon she remarked casually, "Of course, Polly, you carried that hot water to Mr. X.'s room this morning?"

Polly beamed. "D'law, Miss Mary, I was so feared I mought forget dat water dat I cy'ard it up las' night.

to remove these, what was h ror to hear footsteps approac cell. Yes, they were after h he heard the key in the door.
or never! The great door back, and he saw a group of standing in the doorway, much perplexed that he had ter a moment they seemed to stand the direction he had and started after him. Tommy's almost stood on end. He thought Princess must be dead, and the had dispatched them to bring culprit forth to his doom. Rec ly he set to work again, but ants gained steadily, and he w ment going to give himself up in the dim light, he struck his against a rock, and—Why!

Tommy sat bolt upright and bed his eyes. Where was the p ling party? He was seated on grass in front of his home and h
he had in his troubled slumbers his head against the trunk of great apple tree beneath which was lying.

As he thought over this adven
—for he would never call it a dr
—his first intention was to leave stone where it was, but his b nature prevailed and he removed

As a result of this "adventure" was cured of a desire to do things just for fun, and he also ed a natural history club among boy friends for studying the lives habits of the creatures about the Gertrude C. Valentine, in N. Y. bune-Farmer.

A JEALOUS BURRO.

At the Falls of the Seven Sis in the South Cheyenne Canon, in C rado, there is a photographer w
the happy possessor of the now burro formerly owned by Helen Jackson. About six hundred above the highest of these falls a charming spot which the writer named Inspiration Point, where she spent much of her when writing. She was accusto to riding up there on a white b named Dick. This little animal long outlived its mistress and its fulness; but he is still held in honor, and tourists and children permitted to have their pictures ken while sitting on his back.

At the photographer's galle
there was an insignificant little br donkey tied to one arm of the tee, while historic old Dick was to the other. As soon as I h Dick's history, I sat down on the tee and tried to make friends w him; but he resented my advan laid back his ears, bared his and resisted with all his might efforts to draw him to me. So I g up and turned to the other one,
was all ready to be petted, laid head on my shoulder, shut his e and looked a picture of contentm

In a moment I felt a nudge at arm, and, turning around, I saw Dick close beside me. I looked him in astonishment, and he g me another nudge with his nose.
the contrariness was gone from face, and he had a most plead expression. I glanced at the ph grapher and saw that he was wa
ing and laughing.

"What does it mean?" I asked.

"Oh," he said "Dick is jealous wants you to get him, too."

"But I tried to do so first, and would not let me," I replied.

"That is the way he does," said photographer. "He won't allow one to make of him until he sees other one getting attention, then changes his mind and wants some the petting also."

I immediately forgave the little low his former coldness, and he sumed the attitude of his rival.
sat there with a burro's head on shoulder, we were three happy rades, and I shall always regret did not have a picture taken at moment.—Abbie L. Weeks, in Dumb Animals.

A Pleasant Awakening.

The most curious story of mo fortune is that which relates to late Colonel Harry McCalmont. was as poor as need be, though the less happy for that. He wa the reading of his uncle's will bo that perhaps the departed gentle might have remembered him to extent, say, of an old watch.
enough, the lawyer read out words "To my nephew Harry Mc must leave my watch and cha
The legatee was satisfied, and,
ing back, he drowsed, lulled by monotonous tones of the lawye he read through the long instrum
At the close he rose to go. "I ratulate you," said the solicitor, don't know why you should,"
the other. "You are resid legatee," remarked the lawyer.
will have £4,000 annually for first five years from this date.
afterwards you will inherit seven millions sterling." We all awakened hearing the same of story. But ours have been dre this was real.—St. James Gazet

Taking Time by the Forelock.

A lady, entertaining a guest of orfance, was giving final in tions to her maid.

"Now, Polly," she said, "in morning take a pitcher of hot up to Mr. X's room. Be sure forget this."

"No'm," Polly answered. The thought no more of the matter the next day, when at noon she marked casually, "Of course, I you carried that hot water to Mr.
room this morning?"

Polly beamed. "D'law, Miss was so feared I mought forg water dat I cy'ard it up las' nig

...TOIST AND WIFE KILLED.

...to Cross Tracks in Fog and Train Hits Their Machine.

...isville, Ky.—Dr. and Mrs. J. H. ... of Louisville were struck and ...tally killed by a passenger train on ...Southern Railway at Buechel sta... ...ten miles from Louisville. ...e doctor and his wife were in an ...mobile, but owing to a heavy fog ...not see the train.

...Caucasus Official Slain.

...neral ...noff, Chief of Staff to ... of the Caucasus, was ...d by ...

...Mammoth Incubator.

...he largest incubator in the world, ...a capacity of 15,000 eggs, has ...been completed by W. P. Hall, of ...brooke, N. Y., says the Technical ...rld Magazine. It is 102 feet long ...4 feet 4 inches wide. Partitiones ...de it into 100 compartments, each ...mmodating two trays. The trays ...e wire bottoms and hold 75 eggs ...h. To fill this incubator a single ...e with common—not thoroughbred ...gs, would require an expenditure ...6,000, for eggs of the requisite ...hness would cost 40 cents a dozen. ...one hen covers fifteen eggs for ...thing, the incubator does the ...k of 1,000 fowls, or has a capacity ...ne hen sitting constantly for near... ...en years.

...e Blood, Skin Troubles, Cancer, Blood ...ison. Greatest Blood Purifier Free.

...your blood is impure, thin, diseased, ...or full of humors, if you have blood ...on, cancer, carbuncles, eating sores, ...ula, eczema, itching, risings and lumps, ...ly, pimply skin, bone pains, catarrh, ...matism, or any blood or skin disease, ...Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) accord... to directions. Soon all sores heal, ...s and pains stop, the blood is made ...and rich, leaving the skin free from ...y eruption, and giving the rich glow of ...ect health to the skin. At the same ...B. B. B. improves the digestion, cures ...pepsia, strengthens weak kidneys. Just ...medicine for old people, as it gives ...new vigorous blood. Druggists, $1 ...large bottle, with directions for home ...e sample free and prepaid by writing ...d Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga. Describe ...ble and special free medical advice ...sent in sealed letter. B. B. B. is es...ally advised for chronic, deep-seated ...s of impure blood and skin disease, ...cures after all else fails.

The Words a Man Uses.

...ow many words are possible? ...ting from the four-and-twenty al...betic sounds, Leibnitz calculated ...combinations at 620,448,701,733,... ...739,360,000. But many of these ...binations would be unpronounce..., even in Welsh. In Chinese every ...able is a separate word. ...es man's stock of words grow ...r or poorer with time? M. Mont... ...forecasts an even higher intellect... ...dition for the race in the future. ...thers," he says, "did not know ...thousandth part of our vocabu..., which is very copious." Certain... ...Dictionary is a much ...er work than Johnson's, and we ...bt not that Primitive Man talked ...than an M. P. Does—though even ...had his palavers and congresses. ...If any one were to take down the ...s of an average modern undergrad... ...e or society girl we doubt if it ...ld be found to contain more than ...vocables, where an educated Eliz...than would have employed several ...sand. Nothing is more striking ...the old prose writers than the rich ...ety and imaginative picturesque... ...of their language. Not only are ...lacking in concrete imagination, ...ashamed to go afield out of the ...ten track of speech, but phrases ...ch were when first devised forci... ...and strong have through long cur... ...ey lost their edge. Three-fourths ...the expressions we use have ceased ...be effective metaphors and become ...ventional and lifeless.

OVER SEA HABIT

...Difference on This Side the Water.

...The persistent effect upon the heart ...caffeine in coffee cannot but result ...the gravest conditions, in time. ...black of the drug (and that ...one cup of coffee) weakens the ...more and more, and the end is ...ruction of mathematical deni... ...A lady writes from a ...Salem, Mass.:

"I am of German descent and it was ...natural that I should learn at a very ...early age to drink coffee. Until I was ...forty years old I drank scarcely ...anything else at my meals.

"A few years ago I began to be af...flicted with a steadily increasing nervous... ...which eventually developed into ...distressing heart trouble that made ...me very weak and miserable. Then, ...about three years ago, was added ...asthma in its worst form. My suffer... ...from these things can be better ...imagined than described.

"During all this time my husband ...was more jolly than I did that ...was curious to me, and made ...me ask make me stop.

"It was decided a few months ...ago that the use of coffee absolute... ...Postum Food Coffee as ...a drink. I had but little ...faith it would help me, but con...sented to try it to please my husband. ...I prepared it very carefully, exactly ac...cording to directions, and was delight... ...with its delicious flavor and refresh... ...qualities.

"Just as soon as the poison from the ...coffee had time to get out of my system ...the nutritive properties of the Postum ...began to build me up and I am now ...entirely recovered from all my nervous... ...heart trouble and asthma. I glad... ...acknowledge that now, for the first ...time in years, I enjoy perfect health. ...I think I owe it all to Postum."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle ...Creek, Mich.

There's a reason. Read the little ...book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. ...Postum Food Coffee contains no ...drugs of any description whatsoever.

TO REMOVE PUTTY.

To remove old putty and paint, make a paste with soft soap and a solution of caustic soda, or with slaked lime and pearlash. Lay it on with a piece of rag or a brush, and leave it for several hours, when it will be found that the paint or putty may be easily removed.

TO ECONOMIZE IN EGGS.

Eggs at this season are a luxury, and should not be used too recklessly. For setting the coffee egg shells are quite as efficacious as the egg itself. Wash all eggs before breaking, then save the shells to crush and mix into the coffee. Many cooks think they have to use eggs in a rice pudding, but a delicate and palatable pudding may be made without any.

TWO USEFUL HINTS.

Cracks in a cooking stove can be satisfactorily filled by a paste made of six parts common wood ashes to one part of table salts, mixed with cold water. Properly mixed it will prove lasting and will take blacking.

To clean plaster of Paris ornaments, cover them with a thick coating of starch and allow it to become perfectly dry. Then it may be brushed off and the dirt with it.—Washington Star.

WASHING BLANKETS.

A housewife whose blankets always retain their softness without shrinking gives the secret. Make the suds in a tub with any good white soap, having the water hot. Dissolve in it a tablespoonful of borax. Run threads around soiled spots on the blanket so that they may be found after they are wet. Rinse the blankets up and down vigorously, rubbing only the marked spots. Never rub soap directly on them. Prepare another hot suds with borax and put the blankets in it. Rinse up and down for several minutes, then rinse in clear hot water, softened with borax. Rinse in as many hot waters as necessary, then run blankets through a wringer.—Housekeeper.

THE BATHROOM SPONGE.

Brushes and sponges that have been used in the bathroom and kitchen require cleaning to prevent them from having a musty, disagreeable smell. Wash them in a strong Pearline suds, rinse in clear water and put them up to dry. A rack made of wire, which allows the air to circulate through it, should be used to keep sponges in after they have been used, and they will dry quickly.

One can stain a kitchen floor walnut color with asphaltum in liquid form, thinned with turpentine. Apply with a large brush. Use it sparingly and scrub it in well. Two light coats are better than one heavy one. When drp apply a coat of linseed oil, boiling hot. It improves the looks of the floor and lessens the work of keeping it clean at least one-half.—Christian Work and Evangelist.

That last suggestion requires a word of caution. Boiling linseed oil is almost as dangerous as gunpowder. If it takes fire the only thing to do is smother it with an old blanket or carpet, which should be provided beforehand. Water wont put out oil.

RECIPES.

Roast Plover on Toast—Clean and truss neatly. Cover the breast with fat bacon, and roast in a hot oven twelve minutes. Set on slices of toast. Add a glass of white wine and a little rich, concentrated broth to the drippings, and strain this over the birds. Garnish the lower end with watercress and quartered lemon. Serve with chicory salad, on small cold plates.

Bigarade Sauce—Cook the trimmings of the duck (giblets, etc) (the carcass of a cooked duck may be added to advantage) in a pint of broth with part of a "soup bag." Stain and skim off the fat, and put in a saucepan with the juice of two sour oranges, a tablespoonful of sugar, a dash of red pepper, and a cup of Spanish sauce. Let simmer slowly, removing the fat as it rises, until all has been removed and the sauce is of good consistency, then add the rind of two oranges, cut in fine shreds, and it is ready to serve.—Boston Cooking School Magazine.

Hominy Waffles—Add one-half pint cooked hominy to a batter made of two cupfuls flour, one teaspoonful baking powder, one and one-fourth cupfuls milk, one tablespoonful melted butter, one-half teaspoonful salt, three eggs beaten separately; run through a coarse sieve and bake in hot, greased waffle iron.

Cream Cheese Salad—Form the cheese into balls about the size of a large nut and press nut meats on two sides of them, or, if preferred, the nuts may be chopped and mixed with the cheese; also some chopped olives will be very nice mixed through the cheese; arrange on lettuce leaves and use a very little dressing.

Codfish A La Mode—Mix well then beat until light one cupful codfish, shredded and freshened, or cold boiled fish, two cupfuls hot mashed potatoes, one pint of milk, two beaten eggs, one tablespoonful butter and salt and pepper to taste; turn into a buttered ramekin and bake twenty-five minutes in a steady oven.

English is now spoken by about 125,000,000 people.

...ls permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer, $2 trial bottle and treatise free Dr. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

Many of the large ocean greyhounds carry cats as mascots.

A Guaranteed Cure For Piles.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding, Protruding Piles. Druggists are authorized to refund money if Pazo Ointment fails to cure in 6 to 14 days. 50c.

Norway, have established Roosevelt streets.

Robbed in Church.

Just think what an outrage it is to be robbed of all the benefits of the services by continuous coughing throughout the congregation, when Anti-Gripine is guaranteed to cure. Sold everywhere. 25 cts. F. W. Diemer, M. D., manufacturer, Springfield, Mo.

Slavery still exists in British East Africa.

Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullen is Nature's great remedy—Cures Coughs, Colds, Croup and Consumption, and all throat and lung troubles. At druggists, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

The average age of an oyster is 15 years.

DOCTOR CURED OF ECZEMA.

Maryland Physician Cures Himself—Dr. Fisher Says: "Cuticura Remedies Possess True Merit."

"My face was afflicted with eczema in the year 1897. I used the Cuticura Remedies and was entirely cured. I am a practicing physician, and very often prescribe Cuticura Resolvent and Cuticura Soap in cases of eczema, and they have cured where other formulas have failed. I am not in the habit of endorsing patent medicines, but when I find remedies possessing true merit, such as the Cuticura Remedies do, I am broad-minded enough to proclaim their virtues to the world. I have been practicing medicine for sixteen years, and must say I find your Remedies A No. 1. You are at liberty to publish this letter. G. M. Fisher, M. D., Big Pool, Md., May 24, 1905."

Prizes for Lawns.

A number of Kansas towns are offering prizes to the people who have the best lawns about their homes. There is no better way to make a town look beautiful than having all private grounds well kept.

England's only humming bird died at the London zoo recently, two weeks after its much-heralded arrival from Venezuela, in spite of a diet of honey and beef tea.

There are 5,500,000 Roman Catholics in the United Kingdom.

LOST 72 POUNDS.

Was Fast Drifting Into the Fatal Stages of Kidney Sickness.

Dr. Melvin M. Page, Page Optical Co., Erie, Pa., writes: "Taking too many iced drinks in New York in 1895 sent me home with a terrible attack of kidney trouble. I had acute congestion, sharp pain in the back, headaches and attacks of dizziness. My eyes gave out, and with the languor and sleeplessness of the disease upon me I wasted from 194 to 122 pounds. At the time I started using Doan's Kidney Pills an abscess was forming on my right kidney. The trouble was quickly checked, however, and the treatment cured me, so that I have been well since 1896 and weigh 188 pounds."

Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Marriageable Girls.

It is very difficult to say what laws regulate proposals—why some girls attract attention only, while others attract "attentions." There are pretty and popular women to whom nobody proposes; there are plainer ones with whom every second man finds himself contemplating marriage.

Dr. E. A. Mears, an authority on ornithology, recently discovered several new species on the summit of Apo, a volcanic mountain of the island of Mindanao, in the Philippine group.

BOX OF WAFERS FREE—NO DRUGS—CURES BY ABSORPTION.

Cures Belching of Gas—Bad Breath and Bad Stomach—Short Breath—Bloating—Sour Eructations—Irregular Heart, Etc.

Take a Mull's Wafer any time of the day or night, and note the immediate good effect on your stomach. It absorbs the gas, disinfects the stomach, kills the poison germs and cures the disease. Catarrh of the head and throat, unwholesome food and overeating make bad stomachs. Scarcely any stomach is entirely free from taint of some kind. Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers will make your stomach healthy by absorbing foul gases which arise from the undigested food and by re-enforcing the lining of the stomach, enabling it to thoroughly mix the food with the gastric juices. This cures stomach trouble, promotes digestion, sweetens the breath, stops belching and fermentation. Heart action becomes strong and regular through this process.

Discard drugs, as you know from experience they do not cure stomach trouble. Try a common-sense (Nature's) method that does cure. A soothing, healing sensation results instantly.

We know Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers will do this, and we want you to know it. This offer may not appear again.

2106 GOOD FOR 25c. 142

Send this coupon with your name and address and your druggist's name and 10c. in stamps or silver, and we will supply you a sample free if you have never used Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers, and will also send you a certificate good for 25c. toward the purchase of more Belch Wafers. You will find them invaluable for stomach troubles; cures by absorption. Address MULL'S GRAPE TONIC CO., 325 3d Ave., Rock Island, Ill.

Give Full Address and Write Plainly.

All druggists, 50c. per box, or by mail upon receipt of price. Stamps accepted.

SYRUP OF FIGS

To sweeten,
To refresh,
To cleanse the system,
Effectually and Gently;

Dispels colds and headaches when bilious or constipated;
For men, women and children;

There is only one Genuine Syrup of Figs; to get its beneficial effects

Acts best on the kidneys and liver, stomach and bowels;

Always buy the genuine—Manufactured by the

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP Co.

Louisville, Ky. San Francisco, Cal. New York, N.Y.

The genuine Syrup of Figs is for sale by all first-class druggists. The full name of the company—California Fig Syrup Co.—is always printed on the front of every package. Price Fifty Cents per bottle.

Cock Fighting in Manila.

Chicken fighting is a universal passion among the Filipinos, and some fights are pulled off in each cock pit of the cock pits will seat 2,000 spectators. The great day for cock fighting is Sunday. The fighting begins immediately after early mass and continues all day. A great number of every Sunday, as a fight will last only a few minutes. The roosters are fitted with murderous steel gaffs, and when one of the combatants gets in a good stroke that contest is over; one of the roosters is dead. Then two fresh roosters are placed in the pit and this continues all day. Spectators pay a small admission charge and remain as long as they choose. The Americans tried to break up cock fighting, but the natives wouldn't stand for it, and there was so much indignation that it is now tolerated. I drove through one section of the poorer quarter at about 5:30 p. m., when the men were at home, and it seemed to me that in front of every house I saw a man or boy fondling a game rooster.

Beware of Ointments For Catarrh That Contain Mercury,

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists; price, 75c. per bottle.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Every man between the ages of 20 and 65 years is obliged to vote in Switzerland.

More than fifty kinds of bark are now used in the manufacture of paper.

DATE 'EM

When you buy a pair of

CLOVER BRAND SHOES

Write the date of purchase in the lining. That will tell the story.

We are the originators of this idea. Other manufacturers don't invite you to do this.

ASK YOUR DEALER FOR "AMIGO."

Wertheimer-Swarts Shoe Co.

LARGEST FINE SHOE EXCLUSIVISTS

ST. LOUIS, U. S. A.

CABBAGE Plants! CELERY Plants!

and all kinds of garden plants. Can now furnish all kinds of cabbage plants, grown in the open air and will stand great cold. Grown from seeds of the most reliable seedsmen. We use the same plants on our thousand acre truck farm. Plants carefully counted and properly packed. Celery ready last of Dec. Lettuce, onion and Beet plants same time or earlier. Reduced express rates promised, which, when effective, will give us 50 per cent. less than mercantile rates. Prices, small lots $1.50 per thousand, large lots $1.00 to 1.25 per thousand. J. F. O. B. Meggetts, S. C. Arlington White Spine Cucumber Seed 60 cents per pound. F. O. B. Meggetts, S. C. The United States Agricultural Department has established an Experimental Station on our farms to test all kinds of vegetables, especially Cabbages. The results of these experiments we will be glad to give you at any time.—Yours respectfully,—S. H. BLITCH COMPANY, MEGGETTS, S. C.

PRICE, 25 Cts

ANTI-GRIPINE

IS GUARANTEED TO CURE

GRIP, BAD COLD, HEADACHE AND NEURALGIA.

I won't sell Anti-Gripine to a dealer who won't Guarantee It. Call for your MONEY BACK IF IT DOESN'T CURE.

F. W. Diemer, M.D., Manufacturer, Springfield, Mo.

Am. 6, 1906.

10c for 50c worth of leading 1906 novelties in Choicest Garden Seeds. $1's worth of Universal Premium Coupons free with every order. BOLGIANO'S SEED STORE, BALTIMORE.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

A Double Saving

First: there's some money saved to your pocket every time you buy a pound of Good Luck Baking Powder—price only 10 cents per can. This is the purest and most reliable article on the market. Strength never varies. Every good cook who tries Good Luck becomes a steady user, but we couldn't sell such enormous quantities if we tried to make too much profit—therefore 10 cents a can.

A wonder of modern merchandising is

GOOD LUCK Baking Powder

Second: you receive useful and elegant premiums for the Good Luck coupons (notice picture below), and there is a coupon on every can. Many clever women manage to furnish their homes and obtain handsome pieces of jewelry for themselves, all from these coupons.

Other baking powders claiming to be equal to Good Luck cost more, and bring you no premiums, either.

Ask your grocer for a can. If he hasn't it, please send us his name.

THE SOUTHERN MFG. CO., Richmond, Va.

Cut the "car" coupon from Each Can.

ZENITH OF RACE REACHED

ANTHROPOLOGICALLY, AMERICANS HAVE CEASED TO MAKE PROGRESS.

There are More Celibates Now—Married People Have Smaller Families—Why Americans Have Failed in Literature and Art—Dire Effects of the Civil War.

The American race has reached its zenith, according to at least one man of noted authority. Prof. Edward Ross, sociologist of the University of Nebraska, who a few years ago, was asked to resign from the faculty of Leland Stanford University on account of his radical socialist views, lectured to University students recently on the subject, "The Sources of Americanism." In the course of his remarks he declared that the American race and he insisted that there is a distinct American race—had progressed as far as it is likely to progress.

The loss of the vast frontiers, the equal distribution of population and the tendency toward grouping of vast numbers in the large cities were given as his reason for believing that the race had run its onward course. The noted educator explained that he did not mean by this that the race would begin to show decline and decay at once. He proclaimed the American race the greatest in the world, but predicted that it would have to stand still for a long time now and that neither progress nor decline would be noticeable for years.

There is a distinct American race, contrary to most opinion, the Professor said. This race has been most progressive. It is true that most of our progress has been due to the natural resources of the country, yet a great deal of it is due entirely to the peculiar stable inherent qualities of our people.

If our population in 1880 had been made up exclusively of English, French, Germans, or any other race of European people we would not have made the great progress that has been made. Though we were the dumping ground of Europe in the Colonial days, we got better people than we left behind. The immigrants were not better mentally or more noble, but were superior in strength and energy. Our frontier life made the nation. The people met the hard knocks of life and grew strong from their contact with nature.

Anthropologically speaking, however, the American race has reached its zenith. We no longer have any frontier and the loss of this important element in our progress has been weakening. The population of the country is coming to be equally distributed throughout the country. Our young men are now going chiefly to the man-stifling cities. There they have smaller families. There are more celibates now. The city is a blast furnace in which men are made incandescent with fervid heat. The next moment they turn into cinders.

The nation has never recovered fully from the effects of the Civil War. Half a million of our best men were sacrificed in that conflict, and now the flower of the South is gone. In proof of this I call your attention to the fact that the leaders in statesmanship before the war came from the South, but not now. The South was robbed of its statesmen, while in the North the rot of graft crept in. The race has been diluted by a stream of unselected immigrants. In colonial times we got many of the best European people. We are now tapping a lower strata.

Americans are taller than their European cousins. We are a tall and a slim race. The cheek bones show distinctly in the pictures. Look at the symbolic pictures of Uncle Sam and John Bull. Uncle Sam is shown as tall and slim, while John Bull is the opposite. The chief traits of the American race are energy and will power. Americans always go in for efficiency and results. The activity of the American has placed a damper on lust. The social relations in America are higher than in Europe as a result.

Americans intend to speak the truth, but their desire to win leads to a combat between the desire for truth and the aim to win. The intense activity of the race has robbed it of comfort. With all its energy and perseverance the people have yet to learn how to relax and enjoy their leisures.

Americans have failed in literature and art because the men have been busy with world-building, while the women alone have given attention to art.—Chicago Chronicle.

FRANKLIN'S HONORS.

The American Philosopher the Rage of the French Court.

Franklin became the fashion of the season. For the court itself dabbled a little in liberal ideas. So powerful was the vast impulse of free thought that then influenced the mind of France—that susceptible French mind that always answers like the wind harp to the breath of every true human aspiration—that even the highest classes had caught the infection of liberalism. They handled the momentous words Liberty and Human Rights in their dainty way, as if they were only a new game for their amusement, not knowing what was to them the terrible import of those words. It became very much the accepted thing at court to rave about Franklin. The young and lovely queen, Marie Antoinette, was most winning and gracious toward him. The languid courtiers crammed natural science to talk with him. The small wits who knew a little Greek, called him Solon and Aristides and Phocion.

It is sad to think of the utter unconsciousness of these amiable aristocrats. They never dreamed that this man Franklin was a potent and a prophet of ruin to them. He was incarnate democracy, and they petted him! They never imagined that in showering their good-natured homage upon this austere republican they were sowing the wind which would ripen in an awful harvest of whirlwinds. Later, when the whirlwinds had hardly got beyond the frisky stage of their development, the Queen lamented bitterly the folly of these ovations to the great democrat. There was one sagacious head that was wisely shaken over these indiscretions while they lasted. Joseph II., Emperor of Austria, brother to the Queen, who was in Paris on his travels, and who was as much of a democrat himself as an emperor can be, when his sister rebuked his coolness on the American question, replied: "Madam, the trade I live by is that of a royalist."

Court incense could not turn the philosophic head any more than the loud acclaim of the people. When Franklin found himself the honored guest of royalty, his thoughts reverted to those far-away days of boyhood when his father used to quote to him, in the old candle shop at Boston, the words of the wise man, "Seest thou a man diligent in his business? He shall stand before kings." The old sage heard the echo of that paternal voice resounding over half a century, and a new and strange light, as of prophecy fulfilled, illuminated the immortal words. Surely no man ever lived more diligent in his business. Surely no man ever stood, with more of the innate dignity of upright manhood, before kings.—From John Hay's "Franklin in France" in the Century.

THE VERY FIRST MATCH.

John Walker, an English Druggist Was the Inventor in 1827.

In the nineteenth century—the century in which so many wonderful things were done—the fourth step in the development of the match was taken. In 1827, John Walker, a druggist in a small English town, tipped a splint with sulphur, chlorate of potash, and sulphid of antimony, and rubbed it on sandpaper, and it burst into flame. The druggist had discovered the first friction-chemical match, the kind we use today. It is called friction-chemical because it is made by mixing certain chemicals together and rubbing them. Although Walker's match did not require the bottle of acid, it nevertheless was not a good one. It could be lighted only by hard rubbing, and it sputtered and threw fire in all directions. In a few years, however, phosphorous was substituted on the tip for antimony, and the change worked wonders. The match could now be lighted with very little rubbing, and it was no longer necessary to have sandpaper upon which to rub it. It would ignite when rubbed on any dry surface, and there was no longer any sputtering. This was the phosphorous match, the match with which we are so familiar.

After the invention of the easily lighted phosphorous match there was no longer use for the dip-splint or the strike-a-light. The old methods of getting a blaze were gradually laid aside and forgotten. The first phosphorous matches were sold at twenty-five cents a block—a block containing a hundred and forty-four matches—and they were used by but few. Now a hundred matches can be bought for a cent. It is said that in the United States we use about 150,000,000,000 matches a year. This, on an average, is about five matches a day for every person. — From S. E. Forman's "Stories of Useful Inventions" in St. Nicholas.

An Unseasonable Caution.

The set form of pass prescribed by the War Department for visitors to Governor's Island contains a provision which seems unreasonable in cold weather. The clause referred to reads as follows: "This pass is issued with the understanding that the bearer and party keep on the walks and roads, and do not touch the flowers or shrubbery on the island."

The number of visitors to Fort Jay nowadays is larger than usual, owing to the fact that a regiment of about 800 is in course of organization for service in the Philippines. The start will be made soon. Relatives and friends of the privates composing that body flock daily to the headquarters of the Department of the East to say goodby. The "casual detachment," as the battalion scheduled to remain on the island is called, has been transferred from the main barracks to temporary quarters in the old gymnasium building adjoining the military prison, Castle Williams.—New York Press.

She Survived It.

Miss Louisa M. Alcott, says the Boston Herald, was once visiting at a small town in Connecticut in which only a few days before an exceedingly small child had been born. In the course of conversation the child was spoken of, and Miss Alcott laughingly said: "I have heard that I was a very small infant. In fact, tradition says that I could be put into a quart tankard and the cover replaced."

One old lady, who had been listening attentively, then asked, sympathetically, "And did you live?"

What will be the largest carpet in the world is being made in London. It will cover 62,000 square feet.

PRESERVED CHICKEN.

HOW POULTRY IS CANNED IN AMERICAN PACKING HOUSES.

Fowls Killed and Dressed at the Rate of Ten a Minute—In the Cooking Room—Deft Handed Girls Strip the Meat from the Bones—Turkeys, Geese and Ducks Canned.

Imagine chickens being cleaned, cooked and shot into tin cans at the rate of 5,000 pounds an hour throughout the working day, and you have a fair idea of the poultry canning industry at only one of Chicago's great packing houses. This concern in its rush season has prepared nearly a million pounds of chickens a week, and it is estimated that in the United States more than 75,000,000 pounds of canned chicken, valued in excess of $7,500,000, are put up every year, and the output is constantly increasing.

Some houses kill and dress at the rate of ten fowls a minute. If not intended for immediate use the poultry is frozen hard, the temperature in the coolers being gradually reduced to zero. At that temperature canners declare that all poultry may be kept for months without the slightest deterioration, provided that when it is "thawed out" the temperature is not increased too rapidly. The general method of thawing is to take the stock by degrees from "freezing" coolers to "warm" ones, where the temperature of the latter is a few degrees above the freezing point.

After being thawed out and taken from the coolers the heads and legs are severed and the fowls are drawn by girls, who also remove the pin feathers which have escaped the observation of the commission house employes. One thousand fowls an hour, or nearly twenty a minute, are handled by the fifty persons.

The poultry is now ready for the cooking room, a great department in which are scores of large tanks for all kinds of canning. These tanks are made of steel alloy, almost the height of a man and four or five feet across. A heavy metal cover, with a rubber gasket and large steel clamps, covers the top. These receptacles are filled with the chickens—previously cut into halves—and the tops screwed down. Steam is admitted at the bottom of the tank, passes through the mass of meat and finally escapes from a vent at the top. The steam is admitted under high pressure and penetrates every particle of the fowl, so that the thousands of pounds of meat are almost thoroughly cooked in an hour or a little more, depending upon the quality or age of the chickens.

The next process is to remove the bones, for no poultry is canned without being shred into small particles or ground by machinery. Several girls, with white aprons and caps, remove the bones. They seize the fowl by the drumsticks and with a quick pull remove the flesh from each leg; next with their knives and fingers they draw the meat from the halves of the body. Then they scrape the inside of the skeleton and remove the bits of meat which may have remained on the bones, for nothing goes to waste in a packing house. The whole process requires less time than it takes to explain it.

This meat, now in masses on the tables in front of the girls, is carried over endless belts into baskets, and is ready to be treated in the several ways used in preparing the different classes of canned goods. The most popular article is simply "boneless" chicken, without seasoning, except salt, although other brands are prepared with spices and also in combination with other meats.

The meat, as stripped from the bones, falls down a chute to a floor below, on tables surrounded by other girls. These take the pieces of flesh and shred them into bits about a quarter of an inch wide, and three or four inches long, mixing the white and dark pieces together and picking out any small bits of bones. This shredded meat is passed along over more endless belts, from which the young women lift it and place it in one-half and one-pound cans, the latter being more in favor. They pack the meat firmly, and other girls place parchment paper over the tops and put the tin covers on. The receptacles pass into rows of machines, which with one quick turn solder round the tops of the tins.

The cans are now placed in steel baskets, holding 100 or more, and these baskets are inserted in tanks similar to those used in the first cooking. The meat is heated by steam for thirty or forty minutes and when the cans are taken out the tops are punctured to allow the steam and any gases in the meat to escape. After this, men with soldering irons go over each basket, plugging the little holes. As a test to determine whether any opening remains elsewhere in the can the workmen tap each with a piece of metal and tell by the sound whether the meat is safely enclosed.

The cans next go to the labelling room on a floor below, moving into it over endless belts at the rate of several a second. The first process is to paint the ends of such cans as are not wholly enclosed in wrappers. This is done by machines with a capacity of 125,000 an hour, although the larger tins are painted by girls with brushes. Most of the cans, however, are covered with paper, one piece being wrapped around the sides and end, and a band, on which is printed the label, is pasted about the sides. The cans are packed in boxes holding one and two dozen, and the covers are nailed on by machines almost human in their ingenuity.

Chicken loaf is made in a different way, the white meat only being used and the dark being reserved for other preparations. The meat is placed, by bushels, into a large machine with numerous knives, which chop it into bits no larger than a pin head. This is mixed with pepper and other spices and passes into moulds just the size of a can, in which it again is cooked. Chicken loaf and the other articles are generally more costly than the plain canned chicken.

Another mixture is deviled chicken, chopped fine and prepared with mustard, curry powder and other seasoning. Potted chicken is a similar loaf, heavily spiced. Hundreds of turkeys are also prepared, being potted and deviled. These preparations bring high prices, and agents of the packing houses go out into the country looking for stock. Geese are put up by some of the packing houses and also a few ducks.—Frederick Haxton, in New England Grocer.

FLOWER HUNTING IN WINTER.

One of the Most Delightful Pleasures Which the Changing Seasons Hold.

It would be well for one who has never studied vegetation in winter to begin his cold-weather rambles in November. At that season in sheltered places an occasional leaf will cling to the stem, furnishing the key to identification, if he does not readily recognize his companions of the summer. He will then find the witch-hazel, latest flower of the year, flaunting its belated blossoms in freakish abandon among its sear and yellow leaves, while its mimic artillery bombarde the surrounding thicket with polished seeds, the frutiage of a year ago.

He will find the store walls decked with clustered whorls of the long, fuzzy seed tails of wild clematis. Asters will hold up their puffballs of downy seeds by the roadside, inviting the wind to waft them to fresh fields and pastures new. The goldenrod will be shorn of her hoyden yellow tresses, and will stand chastened and penitent in tassels and fringes of gray, exhibiting throughout the winter a quality of beauty which she did not possess before.

Even after the blizzards of February have howled over the marshes he will find them fringed with sedges and studded with cattails, still proudly erect. The low-lying thickets will be wreathed with the vine and decked with the bronze-yellow seed pods of the yam. The dark blue fruit of the carrion flower will mingle with the red berries of the black alder. So on to the warm March day when the skunk cabbage thaws its pathway up through the frozen ground, nature will yield abundant satisfaction to his craving for the wonderful and beautiful. The pillared aisles of the winter forest will be to him as worthy a temple as the greenwood. Its ever-changing vistas will beckon him on to fresh discoveries, and will stir his being with that vague sentiment of expectation and hope which alone renders life worth living.

On the other hand, he who sits gloomy and sluggish in the inglenook, gazing through a frosted window upon his buried garden, feeling that winter is dismal and nature dead, will miss the keenest, most chaste and refined pleasure which the changing seasons hold.—From Frank French's "A Winter Bouquet" in the Century.

THE MAN IN THE STREET.

And How He Really Feels When He Watches an Automobile "Honk" Past Him.

"You'll never find me standing on the curbstone and shouting, 'Git a horse!' You'll never find me scattering carpet tacks in the roadway. You'll never hear me calling them 'hell wagons,' or wrinkling up my nose and saying, 'Pue!' I rather like the smell of gasoline unless it's too near the gas-jet.

"I always stop and follow with my eyes when one honk-honks apast me. It's no use sending me on errands and telling me to be right back, if my way is near a fine smooth street. I've just got to stand and 'gawp' at them going by. And if there's one on the corner with a man trying to wind up the spring in the front (or whatever it is), so that the machine will shudder just right, I join the throng of messenger-boys, and men taking home the wash, and fellows out of work, and I stand, with my weight first on one foot and then on the other, trying to puzzle out what it is he does with the handle.

"I look at the folks riding in them, leaning back so grandly with their jaws tied up as for the mumps, and trying their blamedest not to let on how tickled with themselves they are, trying to pretend that it's an old story to them, and that they have autos ever since the machines came out. It is my daily effort to figure to myself how it would be with me if it was me instead of them. I was in one once for a little while. Honest I was. Now that's no joke. I was. Rode quite a ways, too. Anyhow, half a mile. I can't really describe my sensations. The luxury got me rather rattled in my mind. I came as near as scat! to making the worst bargain in my life, just on account of that automobile, because the main thing in my mind was that I ought to have one."—"Do I Want an Automobile?" by Eugene Wood, in Everybody's.

According to a recent report from Tokio, there are 1,736 wholesale and 235,414 retail tobacco dealers in Japan.

Thorsby, Alabam

Business Directory.

Commercial Club
OF THORSBY
DEFINITE and RELIABLE information furnished to parties who desire to locate in the South.

A. M. Johnson
Groceries and Delicatessen

J. J. STANLEY
GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

MRS. MARY R. RASBERRY
General Merchandise.

E. H. Adams
General Merchandise.

J. R. PARNELL
General Merchandise.

"MOLINE" Farming Implements and "FLORENCE" Wagons in stock at all times.
J. K. ORR SHOES.

J. L. FOSS
Meat Market.

The Thorsby Inn
G. C. Michelson, Prop.
Good Beds and Meals.

OLAF SCHI
Watchmaker
And Jewele
Horn's Drug S
Full assortment of Watch
elry, etc. All repair wo
anteed.

Thorsby Wi
—Co.—
Lofthus & Bromberg,

A. HORN
Drugs, Stationery and Articles.
LICENSED PHARM

City Bake
BREAD, CAKES PIES
of all kinds, fresh ever
K. A. EKBL

A Langville &
BLACKSMITHS
and HORSESHOER
Dealers in WAGONS and BUG

C. L. Forsm
Brick Yard.

J. BICE
Charcoal Ove

While in a state of mental melancholia, Ernest J. Norton, one of the richest young men of Louisville, Ky., shot himself.

Lewis Nixon arrived in New York City, having completed his shipbuilding contracts in Russia.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the payment of the debt secured by a certain mortgage executed to the undersigned on the 9th day of February, 1900, by William L. Parnell and wife, Eliza J. Parnell, and recorded in the Probate office of Chilton county, Alabama, in Mortgage Record 53, on page 247 et seq., and said default still continuing, I, the said Alexander W. Jones, will sell, under the power in said mortgage contained, on Tuesday, the 27th day of February, 1906, in front of the court house door of Chilton county, in the city of Clanton, county of Chilton and State of Alabama, during the legal hours of sale, at public outcry to the highest and best bidder for cash, the following described real estate situated, lying and being in said county and State, to-wit: The south half of the northwest quarter, the southwest quarter, the south half of the northeast quarter and the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter, the west half of the southeast quarter and the north half of the northwest quarter of section one (1), township twenty (20) and range eleven (11); the south half of the northeast quarter and the north half of the southeast quarter, southwest quarter of the southeast quarter, and the southwest quarter, the west half of the northwest quarter of section thirty-six (36), township twenty-one (21) and range eleven (11); the north half of the northeast quarter, southwest quarter of the northeast quarter, the east half of the east half of the southwest quarter, the southwest quarter of the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter and the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section two (2), township twenty (20) and range eleven (11); also the timber right on the following lands situated in the county of Chilton and State of Alabama, to-wit: The south half of the northeast quarter, north half of the southeast quarter and the north half of the southwest quarter of section sixteen (16), township twenty (20) and range twelve (12). This sale will be made to satisfy the debt secured by said mortgage, including a reasonable attorney's fee for the foreclosure of this mortgage and the collection of the debt and the cost of advertising.

ALEXANDER W. JONES,
Mortgagee.
R. CARLISLE JONES, Attorney.
1-25-06-4w

FOR SALE!
Full bred Holstein Cow (6 years old), wi in fresh in November milk record is 3 1-2 t lons per day. Addre
W. L. McDowe
tf. Clanton, A

60 Y EXPE
PATEN TRADE
DESIGN
COPYRIG
Anyone sending a sketch and de quickly ascertain our opinion fre invention is probably patentable. tions strictly confidential. HAND sent free. Oldest agency for secur Patents taken through Munn special notice, without charge, in t
Scientific Amer
A handsomely illustrated weekly. culation of any scientific journal. year; four months, $1. Sold by all
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, Branch Office, 625 F St., Washi

We Club Wit
The New York W
THRICE-A-WEEK EDI
Read Wherever the English Langu
For the autumn season no the most valuable paper to y the New York Thrice-a-we because it offers you more a than any other paper publ where in the world.
This is a time of great e are having great wars changes of a stirring kind af both at home and abroad. T a-Week World comes to you day, except Sunday, with a fully, accurately and prompt
The Thrice-a-Week World its political reports. You truth from its columns, whe Republican or Democra what you want.
The Thrice-a-Week World a serial story running, and a first-class story by a first-c The Thrice-a-Week World better fiction than any other in the United States. Spec is also given to markets, and many other valuable features
THE THRICE-A-WEEK regular subscription price per year, and this pays for We offer this unequaled ne THE UNION together one y The regular subscription two papers is $2.00.

T

VOL III.

ALABAMA S

Items of Interest Gat Over the

SON OF POSTMASTER

Accused of Robbing the Mails Alto, Ala.

Huntsville, Ala.—Absalom Dolberry of the postmaster at Alto, in Jack county, Alabama, was arrested an ought to Huntsville on a charge bing the mails. He was bound ov the federal grand jury after a hea before Commissioner Greenleaf. Dolberry was employed in the pos ce at Alto, and several registere ers passing through that office hav n tampered with recently. Dece ters were sent through the office b pectors Kline and Lewis, and Do ry was caught with them on hi son.

Heavy Suit for Damages.

Tuscumbia, Ala.—Heavy suits hav n filed in the circuit court of Co t county against the Sheffield Con y growing out of the fatal acciden ich befell Mrs. W. J. Mead, wh recently run down by an electri in Sheffield and killed. Mrs. Mea driving in a buggy with her tw ildren, when the horse becam htened and ran across the track i nt of the moving car, which groun her life, her children miraculousl aping. The suits were brought b C. T. Morris, father of the unfo ate woman, for $50,000 damages one for $25,000 by Charlotte Mo mother of Mrs. Mead, through he t friend, Dr. C. T. Morris. Th ter is known in the suit as the ad inistrator of the estate of Mrs. Mea

Fire in Cullman.

Cullman, Ala.—The New York Store longing to the Mountain City Me ntile Company, was burned at lock Saturday morning. The build and contents were entirely con med. The store was the largest an ndsomest in Cullman, being built o ssed brick and plate glass. Th s on the building was $30,000, wit ,000 insurance. Loss on stock, $60 0, with $15,000 insurance. The fir iginated, it is thought, from defect e wiring. Gus Koppman, the princ l stockholder, says that the stor ill be immediately rebuilt and opene r business by early spring. The law ices of Hon. S. J. Griffin were in th ilding, and his valuable library an rniture was destroyed. Mr. Griffin' surance policy had lapsed a few eeks ago.

McGucken Was Acquitted.

Florence, Ala.—The trial of Thoma cGucken, the former Florentine, a mpa, Fla., who was charged wit e murder of Charles Poter, has re lted in his acquittal, as his friend re confidently expected it would cGucken was a well-known con ractor, and soon after establishin mself in Tampa became involved i labor dispute with one of the loca ions. He was set upon by over helming odds and escaped by shoot g his way to liberty. The jur ached a verdict after a very few inutes' deliberation.

Captain Mastin a Candidate.

Montgomery, Ala.—Capt. Peter H stin announces himself a candidat r the legislature from Montgomer unty. With Mr. Mastin in the rac ere are now eight candidates for th wer house. Captain Mastin is ell-known and prosperous planter d he has spent his entire life in thi unty. In public affairs he has mani sted interest. He is a Confederate teran, and he fought throughout th ur years of the civil war, being i any of the great battles of the con ct. He is an ardent member of the ontgomery County Cotton Growers sociation.

G. W. Chambers Dead.

Talladega, Ala.—George W. Cham rs was stricken with paralysis at hi mily breakfast table and died Friday ght. Mr. Chambers had probably en Talladega's most valuable citizen a developer of her resources. He ut to Birmingham, England, and in ested capital which built the Talla ga furnace. He was the developer Talladega's great water power elec plant, and was the president o Talladega Electric Power Com y, which operated the plant. He s the largest land owner in Talla a county; owning valuable minera perty in this and Clay counties. He also owner of Chamber's Opera use and several business and dwell houses in the city.

Huntsville, Ala.—The Huntsville ald Publishing Company is prepar for the establishment of a new rnoon daily paper in this city.

, Alabam
Directory.

OLAF SCHI
Watchmaker
And Jeweler
Horn's Drug St
Full assortment of Watche
elry, etc. All repair work
anteed. . . .

Thorsby Win
—Co.—
Lofthus & Bromberg, P

A. HORN
Dr gs, Stationery and Articles.
LICENSED PHARMA

City Bake
BREAD. CAKES
PIES
of all kinds, fresh every
K. A. EKBLA

A Langville &
BLACKSMITHS
and
HORSESHOERS
Dealers in WAGONS and BUG

C. L. Forsm
Brick Yard.

J. BICE
Charcoal Over

FOR SALE!
Full bred Holstein
Cow (6 years old), wil
in fresh in November.
milk record is 3 1-2 to lons per day. Addre
W. L. McDowe
tf. Clanton, R

60 Y
EXPE
PATEN
TRADE
DE
COPYRI
Anyone sending a sketch and des quickly ascertain our opinion free invention is probably patentable.
tions strictly confidential. HANDBO sent free. Oldest agency for securi Patents taken through Munn & special notice, without charge, in the
Scientific Amer
A handsomely illustrated weekly.
culation of any scientific journal.
year; four months, $1. Sold by a MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway,
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washi

We Club With
The New York W
THRICE-A-WEEK EDI
Read Wherever the English Langua
For the autumn season the most valuable paper to y
the New York Thrice-a-W because it offers you more than any other paper publ
where in the world.
This is a time of great are having great wars changes of a stirring kind both at home and abroad.
a-Week World comes to you day, except Sunday, with all fully, accurately and prompt
The Thrice-a-Week World
its political reports. You truth from its columns, whe Republican or Democrat,
what you want.
The Thrice-a-Week World
a serial story running, and a first-class story by a first-
The Thrice-a-Week World better fiction than any oth in the United States. Spe is also given to markets,
many other valuable feature
THE THRICE-A-WEEK
regular subscription price per year, and this pays
We offer this unequaled
THE UNION together one
The regular subscription
two papers is $2.00.

THE UNION.

EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL; SPECIAL FAVORS TO NONE.

VOL III. CLANTON, ALA., FEBRUARY 15 1906. NO. 47

ALABAMA STATE EVENTS.

Items of Interest Gathered as They Transpire Over the Entire State.

SON OF POSTMASTER

Accused of Robbing the Mails at Alto, Ala.

Huntsville, Ala.—Absalom Dolberry, n of the postmaster at Alto, in Jackson county, Alabama, was arrested and brought to Huntsville on a charge of robbing the mails. He was bound over to the federal grand jury after a hearing before Commissioner Greenleaf.

Dolberry was employed in the postoffice at Alto, and several registered letters passing through that office have been tampered with recently. Decoy letters were sent through the office by inspectors Kline and Lewis, and Dolberry was caught with them on his person.

Heavy Suit for Damages.

Tuscumbia, Ala.—Heavy suits have been filed in the circuit court of Colbert county against the Sheffield Company growing out of the fatal accident which befell Mrs. W. J. Mead, who was recently run down by an electric car in Sheffield and killed. Mrs. Mead was driving in a buggy with her two children, when the horse became frightened and ran across the track in front of the moving car, which ground out her life, her children miraculously escaping. The suits were brought by Dr. C. T. Morris, father of the unfortunate woman, for $50,000 damages, and one for $25,000 by Charlotte Morris, mother of Mrs. Mead, through her next friend, Dr. C. T. Morris. The latter is known in the suit as the administrator of the estate of Mrs. Mead.

Fire in Cullman.

Cullman, Ala.—The New York Store, belonging to the Mountain City Mercantile Company, was burned at 2 o'clock Saturday morning. The building and contents were entirely consumed. The store was the largest and handsomest in Cullman, being built of pressed brick and plate glass. The loss on the building was $30,000, with $9,000 insurance. Loss on stock, $60,000, with $15,000 insurance. The fire originated, it is thought, from defective wiring. Gus Koppman, the principal stockholder, says that the store will be immediately rebuilt and opened for business by early spring. The law offices of Hon. S. J. Griffin were in the building, and his valuable library and furniture was destroyed. Mr. Griffin's insurance policy had lapsed a few weeks ago.

McGucken Was Acquitted.

Florence, Ala.—The trial of Thomas McGucken, the former Florentine, at Tampa, Fla., who was charged with the murder of Charles Poter, has resulted in his acquittal, as his friends here confidently expected it would. McGucken was a well-known contractor, and soon after establishing himself in Tampa became involved in a labor dispute with one of the local unions. He was set upon by overwhelming odds and escaped by shooting his way to liberty. The jury reached a verdict after a very few minutes' deliberation.

Captain Mastin a Candidate.

Montgomery, Ala.—Capt. Peter B Mastin announces himself a candidate for the legislature from Montgomery county. With Mr. Mastin in the race there are now eight candidates for the lower house. Captain Mastin is a well-known and prosperous planter, and he has spent his entire life in this county. In public affairs he has manifested interest. He is a Confederate veteran, and he fought throughout the four years of the civil war, being in many of the great battles of the conflict. He is an ardent member of the Montgomery County Cotton Growers' Association.

G. W. Chambers Dead.

Talladega, Ala.—George W. Chambers was stricken with paralysis at his family breakfast table and died Friday night. Mr. Chambers had probably been Talladega's most valuable citizen as a developer of her resources. He went to Birmingham, England, and interested capital which built the Talladega furnace. He was the developer of Talladega's great water power electric plant, and was the president of the Talladega Electric Power Company, which operated the plant. He was the largest land owner in Talladega county, owning valuable mineral property in this and Clay counties. He was also owner of Chamber's Opera House and several business and dwelling houses in the city.

Huntsville, Ala.—The Huntsville Herald Publishing Company is preparing for the establishment of a new afternoon daily paper in this city.

FOUL PLAY CHARGED.

Body Found in a Pond and a Woman Is Under Arrest as the Perpetrator.

Tuscumbia, Ala.—The dead body of a white infant, with a wound on its head, was found in a pond between this city and Sheffield Friday morning. A coroner's inquest was held, and the verdict was that the child had met death by foul means.

A white woman named Mrs. Mattie Lawson was arrested and committed to jail in this city to await a hearing next week. The evidence before the coroner's jury was that Mrs. Lawson, a widow, and another woman had occupied a cabin near the pond until a short time ago, when they removed to Florence. Mrs. Lawson was said to have been in a delicate condition when she moved into the house. The finding of the child connected Mrs. Lawson with its death, and her arrest followed the inquest. The woman's husband was killed two years ago in Sheffield, and she had not remarried.

Stallings Acquitted.

Greenville, Ala.—The jury in the case of Jack Stallings brought in a verdict of not guilty. Stallings was accused of the murder of Radford Buckhaults, which occurred nearly two years ago. At the time Stallings seriously wounded in the fight which resulted in the death of Buckhaults. The trouble between Stallings and Buckhaults was about the marriage of the latter to Stallings' sister. There was considerable conflict in the testimony, and it was one of the hardest fought legal battles ever held in this county. The sister of the defendant, who was the wife of the deceased, testified against her brother. Both sides were ably represented by prominent attorneys, and the court room was filled when the speaking began. It was at first thought when the jury had been out all night that a mistrial would be the result, but the jury brought in a verdict of not guilty after mature deliberation.

Summer Theatre for Tri-Cities.

Tuscumbia, Ala.—General Manager McClary, of the Sheffield Company, has received plans for a beautiful summer theatre to be erected without delay at the Tri-Cities Park, near Sheffield, Florence and Tuscumbia. The plans show a most modern building, with a large seating capacity and stage room ample to accommodate the largest attractions, and work will be pushed in order to have the theatre ready for the forthcoming season. The new theatre is now in the circuit with Nashville, Chattanooga, Birmingham and Memphis. Y. C. Allen will have the management of the theatre.

Blackburn Gets Place.

Tuscumbia, Ala.—James S. Blackburn, of Allsboro, succeeds to the vacancy on the board of county commissioners of Colbert county from the Southwest district, caused by the death of Commissioner Charles B. Woods ten days ago. The appointment was made Saturday by the governor, and gives general satisfaction. There were three applicants for the vacancy, the appointee, Lee Minon and W. M. Twitty. The appointee serves out the unexpired term of the deceased commissioner, which does not expire until November, 1908. He will take the oath of office next Monday and sit with the board in regular session next week.

Killed on Highway.

Huntsville, Ala.—Ike Williamson was instantly killed and Jim Williamson fatally shot by Jim Bates a few miles north of Fayetteville, Tenn. The shooting occurred on the highway, and was the outcome of a feud of long standing. All parties are prominently connected.

To Build Electric Line.

New Decatur, Ala.—C. H. Austin and associates have been granted a franchise by the two Decaturs for building an electric street car line to Austinville, three miles out. The company proposes to commence work on the line as soon as the weather will permit. Austinville is a growing suburb of nearly 1,000 people, and the line will be a paying one from the start.

Commits Double Tragedy.

Philadelphia, Pa.—In a jealous rage Frank Populace, aged 29, shot and instantly killed Mrs. Jablausky, aged 35 years, with whom he boarded. Running to the street he was pursued by a crowd, and after a chase of two blocks he turned the weapon upon himself, dying almost instantly.

DIE IN BURNING WRECK

Runaway Freight Train Crashes Into Passenger Cars.

FLAMES ENVELOP MESSENGER

All of the Coaches Are Hurled From the Tracks of the Northern Pacific Railroad Near Helena, Mont.—Forty Cars Scattered Over the Prairie — The Known Dead.

Helena, Mont.—The most disastrous railroad wreck that has taken place in the vicinity of Helena for many years occurred shortly before midnight, two and a half miles west of Helena.

A runaway Northern Pacific freight train crashed into a passenger train on the same line, wrecked it completely, set fire to it, and up to 3 o'clock in the morning four persons, whose identity is assured, were known to be dead.

The known dead are:

J. N. Robinson, Missoula.
Charles Brickle, passenger conductor.
J. A. Jessup, express messenger.
Foster Senegal, merchant, of Ellis-ton.

Brakeman Edward Brown was seriously injured, but an examination showed not fatally.

Many of the passengers who escaped with their lives were injured. The passenger train passed through Austin, about eight miles west of Helena, on time. Following it was a long freight train made up of box and flat cars loaded with lumber and shingles. At Austin the engine was uncoupled from the freight to take water and the train was left standing on the track. There is a steep grade east of Austin, and by some means the freight train got started down the hill.

The passenger train when it arrived at the Montana Central crossing stopped, when the engine driver heard a sound behind him that warned him of danger. He started his train, but it had gone but a few feet when the freight crashed into the rear car. There were but two cars in the train, and they were smashed and thrown into the ditch. The engine became uncoupled, but did not leave the track, and Engine Driver Pelty managed to keep ahead of the flying freight.

The freight went probably 500 feet when it, too, went off the track. In a few minutes fire started, and for hours the cars and the lumber burned away fiercely.

The crash of the collision was heard by persons living in the vicinity, who immediately started for the wreck. When they got there an awful scene met their gaze. The combination car was on fire, and pinned under a mass of wreckage was Jessup. He was conscious and heroic efforts were made to release him from his situation. Finally the fire became so hot that the rescuers had to give up the task.

Jessup, still conscious, cried, "It is hard to lie here and burn to death." He struggled to release himself as the fire took hold of his limbs, but the effort was fruitless, and after a few screams of agony unconsciousness came to him.

Exposed to full view, with blazing shingles all about him and his bed a mass of red hot coals, was the body of an unknown man. It was slowly consumed.

More than forty cars were scattered over the prairie. Owing to the distance of the wreck from the city limits and the absence of hydrants, the railroad officers made no attempt to save the wreckage from flames, and the forty cars, including the two passenger coaches, were consumed. The freight cars were laden with lumber and burned quickly. The track was torn up for a distance of several hundred yards, while several telegraph poles were destroyed by fire, cutting off all Southern and Western connections.

The bodies of Conductor Brickell and Inspector Robinson were thrown forty feet from the scene of the wreck and were later found by searchers.

MORE MIDDIES DISMISSED.

Dessaussure and Melvin Found Guilty of Hazing.

Washington, D. C.—Secretary of the Navy Bonaparte has issued orders directing the dismissal from the Naval Academy of Midshipman Richard L. Dessaussure, third class, of South Carolina, and Midshipman George H. Melvin, third class, of Illinois. Both of the young men were tried at Annapolis by court-martial on charges of hazing, found guilty and sentenced to be dismissed.

ARMY WIRELESS A WONDER.

Eighteen Months of Uninterrupted Service Makes a Record.

Washington, D. C.—The Signal Corps wireless system between St. Michael and Nome, Alaska, a range of 107 miles, suffered its first day of interruption since its installation eighteen months since. A violent storm broke the antennae, but communication was soon restored. This record of uninterrupted service is believed to be unprecedented in the world.

IN COLLISION WITH SUBMARINE.

French Battleship Injured During Naval Maneuvres in Mediterranean.

Toulon, France.—The battleship Suffren returned to this port leaking, after having been in collision with the submarine boat Bonite during the naval maneuvres.

NAVAL CADET PARDONED

Say Dismissal is Too Great a Punishment.

The President Declares That Naval Cadets Shouldn't Be Court-Martialed.

Washington, D. C.—The President made public a copy of a letter which he addressed on February 1 to the Chairmen of the House and Senate Committees on Naval Affairs on the subject of hazing at the United States Naval Academy. In it he said:

"I have directed that a pardon be issued to John Paul Miller, a midshipman at the United States Naval Academy, recently convicted of hazing and sentenced to dismissal from the academy. In the discussion of this case my attention has been called forcibly to the unsatisfactory condition of the law on this subject.

"A midshipman accused of hazing, whether the extent of his offense be great or small, must be tried by court-martial. The findings of such a court, if approved by the Superintendent of the academy, are declared final and cannot be revised by the Secretary of the Navy, or even by me, and neither the court itself nor the Superintendent nor the Secretary of the Navy has any discretion as to the punishment to be imposed.

"It is declared that in all cases of conviction the offender shall be dismissed and be ineligible for appointment as a commissioned officer of the Army, Navy or Marine Corps during a specified time. These provisions of law seem to me neither just nor judicious, and I am seriously concerned at the injury which I fear may be done to the discipline of the academy, and even to the future efficiency of the Navy if they are permitted to remain in force without amendment.

"I heartily disapprove of the practice of hazing and in common with all those interested in the welfare of the academy wish to see this practice thoroughly eradicated there. But the punishment of dismissal is altogether disproportionate to the culpability involved in some forms of hazing. In many cases these amount to nothing more than exhibitions of boyish mischief attended with no consequences of any moment to those hazed and indicating on the part of the hazers only some exuberance of animal spirits.

"Unquestionably they ought to be punished, for under any circumstances hazing constitutes a breach of the rules and the future officers of our Navy must be taught first of all and as a foundation for all other merits strict and unquestioning obedience. But to punish these faults of youth by depriving the young man concerned of his career in life is to commit a glaring injustice. Moreover, it frequently defeats the object of the law itself by causing the offender's fault to be forgotten in the sympathy felt for his misfortune so that it becomes hard to get a conviction, and when one is obtained the pressure is very great on Congress to pass a law restoring the offender.

"In addition this disproportionate punishment of what may be a trivial offense may result in depriving the Government of a promising officer on whose education it has already expended several thousand dollars."

GREAT WAR GAME ON SEA.

All British Ship Owners Asked to Aid June Maneuvres.

London, England. — The Admiralty has decided to request the co-operation of all British ship owners in the great naval maneuvres of the combined British fleets next June. According to the Admiralty's plans, the maneuvres will be directed with a view to determining thoroughly a practical scheme of defense of British commerce in time of war, and will include attack and defense of vessels flying the flag of the British mercantile marine. The maneuvres will be the most extensive ever attempted from the English Channel along the coasts of France and Spain to the Mediterranean. Owners of vessels bound to or from Mediterranean and South Atlantic ports will be asked to permit their captains to place themselves under naval command for a short period. Passenger steamers and live stock carriers will be exempt. Any vessel unduly detained will be reimbursed.

KILLS SELF AND 4 CHILDREN.

Husband Leaves Happy Family and Returning Home Finds All Dead.

Boston, Mass.—Mrs. Annie L. Dixon, twenty-seven years old, wife of Arthur R. Dixon, a steady mechanic, killed her four young children and herself with gas at their home. It is believed that the woman suddenly became insane, as she seemed in good spirits when Dixon left for work in the morning.

The husband returned home about 6 o'clock at night and discovered the bodies in bed, with gas flowing from three jets. All the bodies were nude.

Dixon married the woman about six years ago and four fine children were born to them. Another baby was expected soon.

RAILROADS IN ASIA PROPOSED.

Plans of Americans For Tashkend-Omsk and Chita-Bering Sea Lines.

St. Petersburg, Russia. — Commissions have been appointed to examine plans of two American promoters for the development of the Asian railroads, one road to run from Tashkend to Omsk and the other to extend from Chita to the Bering Sea.

News of the Week

WASHINGTON.

The Engineer Corps of the Navy is nine officers short of its quota, and no candidates can be found to qualify for the places.

The record target practice of the Atlantic fleet has been set for March off the south coast of Cuba.

Major-General Greely will command the army Southwestern Division, with headquarters at Oklahoma City, as his first line duty.

The supply ship Culgoa, of the Atlantic fleet, will probably be sold at auction by the Government.

On one of the new battleships, either the South Carolina or Michigan, turbine machinery will probably be installed for experiment.

The Department of Agriculture has sent a veterinarian to India to inspect 100 cattle bought by a Texan for import into this country.

Public Printer Stillings will appoint Charles S. Brown, of Michigan, as chief inspector of the Government Printing Office.

Keen interest is expressed in social and army circles at Manila over the forthcoming marriage of Miss Alice Roosevelt to Representative Nicholas Longworth.

OUR ADOPTED ISLANDS.

The sentence of Lieutenant Pendleton, United States Army, who was condemned at Manila, P. I., to life imprisonment for murder, has been reconsidered and changed to imprisonment for twenty years.

Major-General Wood is preparing for field maneuvres, to begin as soon, as the additional regiments being sent to the Philippine Islands arrive. The operations will extend over the larger part of Luzon. They are said to be intended to fit the troops for possible service in China.

Broad charges as to the indifference of American officials in Porto Rico to the wishes of Porto Ricans were made by Mayor Roberto Todd, of San Juan.

W. J. Bryan, on the eve of his departure from the Philippines for East India, declared that while he had learned much during his stay in the islands, his views on the subject of independence have not changed.

DOMESTIC.

Brigadier General Carter has reached Chicago, Ill., from the Philippines to take up his new command of the Department of the Lakes.

Guilty of conspiracy to defraud the Government in connection with land entries, Harry Welch was sent to jail for six months at Omaha, Neb.

Twenty-five persons were thrown into the Mississippi River, at New Orleans, by the breaking of a temporary gang-plank from a wharf to the German cruiser Bremen.

The Western Electric Company, of Chicago, Ill., increased its capital from $15,000,000 to $25,000,000.

The miners of Tennessee and Alabama are the only ones not affected by the convention at Indianapolis, Ind., as their contracts do not expire until June 30.

An arrangement has been made by which depositors in the defunct Provident Securities and Banking Company at Boston, Mass., may recover at once about forty per cent. of their money.

On twenty-five counts charging larceny, embezzlement and forgery, Clerk John A. Linn, of the Circuit Court of Cook County, has been indicted at Chicago, Ill.

Her clothing catching fire from an open grate before which she was combing her hair, Miss Ella Russell was burned to death at Birmingham, Ala.

Fifteen persons were hurt, two probably fatally, when an eastbound Rock Island express was derailed near Duran, N. M.

A collision on the Seaboard Air Line at Jacksonville, Fla., caused the death of one train hand, while five others were only hurt.

FOREIGN.

Serious fighting between Tartars and Armenians is reported in the Kazagh district. Villages have been besieged and burned.

The chiefs of police at Penza and Kutais have been murdered, says a St. Petersburg dispatch.

The Parahiba do Sul has broken its banks and inundated the lower parts of the city of Campos, Brazil, to the depth of twelve feet in some places. Many houses have collapsed.

Professor Emil von Behring, discoverer of the diphtheria serum, addressing the German Agricultural Council, announced his determination to adhere to the resolution which he promulgated in Paris of keeping his tuberculosis remedy a secret till the autumn.

Official reports of the foreign commerce of Argentina for 1905 shows that imports were $205,000,000 and the exports $322,000,000.

Revelations regarding the smuggling of arms into Finland from Sweden have redoubled the vigilance of the guards on the Russo-Finnish frontier, and they were rewarded by the capture of two wagons loaded with rifles, which were on their way to St. Petersburg.

At Rickmer's shipyard, at Bremerhaven, there was launched the biggest sailing ship in the world. The length of the craft is 438 feet, her breadth is fifty-four feet and she is of 8000 tons burden.

A fugitive from New York City, where he had been convicted for defrauding the Government, Charles C. Brown, a customs appraiser, has been arrested in Montreal, Canada.

Professional Cards.

Attorneys.

William M. Adams,
Attorney-at-Law,
CLANTON.
Office, Adams Place. Practices in all Courts. Long time loans negotiated on improved Farm Lands.

N. S. JOHNSON, M. D.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
Office at
Clanton Drug Store CLANTON

L. V. STABLER, M. D
Physician & Surgeon
Office Over Horn's Drug Store
Thorsby, Alabama

DR. E. G. HYMAN
DENTIST
Office in Tipton Mullins' Building
Office Hours 8 a. m. to 5 p. m.
CLANTON

A. C. SMITH J. OSMOND MIDDLETON
Smith & Middleton
Attorneys-at-Law
Practice in all Courts.
Office 6th St., Opp. Court House
CLANTON.

H. C. Junkerman
DENTIST
OFFICE: Franzen Building
Thorsby, Alabama.

G. H. GERALD,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Office at Thorsby Inn.
Deeds, Mortgages, Affidavits and other papers carefully made out.

I. S. Gerald, Notary Public
AT THORSBY SAVINGS BANK.

FREE
to Readers of
THE UNION

To everyone who sends us $1.00 for a year's subscription to THE UNION, new subscriber or renewal, we will give as a premium absolutely FREE,

A Year's Subscription
To
The Southern Ruralist

We have examined the Southern Ruralist and consider it to be the best and most practical farm paper published in the South, and it just suits this locality. Drop by The Union Office when you are in town and see a copy of the Ruralist. It will mean dollars in your pocket to read this paper with The Union for a year. tf.

TIMBER FOR SALE!

Over a hundred acres of Virgin Swamp timber for sale. Apply to T. J. Billingsley, Clanton, Ala. Route 3. tf.

NOTICE!

All who are owing me, by note or account, will please call and settle at once. I am needing the money and hope all will make prompt settlement.

Respectfully
A. A. JACKSON,
tf. Lomax, Ala.

Train Hit Street Car.

Chicago, Ill.—Two persons were killed and twelve others injured when a Pennsylvania passenger train struck a crowded street car at One Hundred and Sixth street, South Chicago. The street car was wrecked and the engine and first coach of the passenger train left the tracks. The train was a through train bound for East Chicago, Ind., leaving Chicago at 11:34. It was traveling at the rate of twenty miles an hour when the collision occurred.

Dance It Down

Does the cold world give a frown?—
  Dance it down!
Storm sweep over field an' town?—
  Dance 'em down!
That's the very way to go—
Liftin' lilies from the snow;
You'll lose trouble 'fore you know—
  Dance it down!

Meetin' sorrow just half-way,
  Dance it down!
Though the fiddler is to pay—
  Dance it down!
Round an' round the world must roll;
Don't let shadows hide yer soul!
Keep old trouble in control—
  Dance it down!

—Atlanta Constitution.

RETRIBUTION by WAY of SHOES

BY MARYN ENGLAND

(Copyright, 1906, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

She always declared that it was the little hole in the toe of her stocking that caused it all. It was such a tiny little hole, but the bright color spread over her pale face at the discovery and gave it a beauty that James Eliot was quick to notice.

She had sat up late the night before to mend them carefully, but having grown so thin, they could not bear the strain of darning. It had taken many weeks to save up enough money for the new shoes and she had needed them so much.

On entering the store she felt that every clerk was looking at her shabby shoes.

She remembered afterward that the tall, dark man, the proprietor, who waited on her, did not seem to notice their shabbiness and treated her with the courtesy to which she had been accustomed in happier days.

She smiled half bitterly as she remembered her extravagance in those days. Her mania for pretty shoes had been a family joke.

Her thoughts were interrupted by a pleasant voice saying. "These seem to fit you nicely. Do you care to wear them? Very well, I will send the others."

All that day something in the girl's face haunted James Eliot. He could not understand it. Had he ever seen her before? He had forgotten to ask her address, so could not send the old shoes. Perhaps she would remember and call for them, and wrapping them carefully he locked them in his desk.

Day, after day he watched, hoping she would return, but as she did not, one night he took them to his room and put them among the few treasures in his cabinet.

Those who knew James Eliot would have thought this very strange. All his energy seemed concentrated upon making money and no one dreamed of sentiment entering into his nature. With much at his command, he lived as simply as any clerk in his employ and no work was too hard for him. His presence was felt in all parts of his establishment.

One day he noticed a young lady quietly waiting in the store. She had evidently sought shelter from the storm. There seemed to be something familiar in the pathetic little droop of the head and as he walked past her she gave him a faint smile of recognition.

His face brightened as he said with an eagerness that startled her: "I am so glad to see you again." Recovering himself, he added: "Do you know I did not ask your name or address, so could not send the old shoes."

"Let me take them," she said, wondering at his embarrassment. He hastened to say, "No, it is raining, you will not want to carry a package. I will send them to-morrow."

He wondered what she would have thought had she known where they were and how sacredly they had been treasured.

"My name is Helen Arnold. Send them to 800 Hawthorne Ave."

"Helen Arnold!" Mr. Eliot said, in an astonished tone, but noticing her look of surprise he added quietly, "I knew a Mr. Frank Arnold in the East. You remind me strangely of him, but it is probably just a strange coincidence. He owned a large manufacturing establishment, but failed in business on account of the dishonesty of one he considered his best friend."

Had he ever seen her before?

The tears came to her eyes as she said: "He was my father." Mr. Eliot tried to speak naturally, as he said, "May I claim you as a friend for your father's sake? He was one of the noblest men I ever knew."

She held out her hand and said in a pathetic way, "I have been so lonely. It is good to meet some one who knew my father."

"May I call this evening and talk to you of him? I know it is asking much of you, but—"

"I want you to come," she said eagerly, "if you knew my father."

That evening as Helen Arnold prepared her tea and toast, she hummed softly, the first time for many weeks. She had been so lonely, but now some one was coming who had known her father. With unusual extravagance she added some fruit to her evening meal.

When she came down in a dainty

"It was all because I loved you so."

muslin dress that she had not worn since the other days, Mr. Eliot did not at first recognize the pathetic little creature he had seen at the store.

"You seem like an old friend," she said, giving him her hand in a cordial way. "It is so lonely to know no one. I feel sometimes that I must give up and go back."

"Why did you come here all alone?" he asked.

"Take that easy chair and I will tell you all about it. It will be a comfort to tell some one my troubles. It is kind of you to want to know. After the failure and father's death I felt that I wanted to get away from all the people I knew. My mother died when I was little, so father was all I had. Some of my friends tried to be kind, but I could not endure their pity, or to be dependent upon them.

"I had some ability for writing and came here expecting to make my living in that way. So many, many things that I wrote were rejected and when the little money I had was almost gone, I went to work in a store. I still try to write in the evenings, but often I am too exhausted to think. Oh, I am so tired of it all!"

"Poor child," he said, "I should think you would despise the one who brought this trouble on you."

"The man who caused my father's failure, and indirectly his death, is dead. There is a son, but I have never seen him. At the time of the failure he was abroad. I do not like to think of him, but he may not approve of what his father did."

"He would surely suffer did he realize what trouble has come to you," he said, shuddering. The paleness of his face startled her.

"By the way," he said, carelessly, just before leaving, "let me take some of your manuscripts. I know an editor that I am sure will accept them. You will probably hear from him in a few days."

When he left she remembered that she did not know his name. It did not matter, he was her friend.

The next evening when she went to her room, the air was sweet with the perfume of violets. The card bore the name of James Eliot. "I wish it were some other name," she thought. "But what difference does it make? He does not belong to that family."

The next morning she received a check for one of her manuscripts that was so large it almost frightened her. That day she had the first good meal for many weeks. How good it was not to be hungry!

Happy with success, and trustful in her new found friend, her girlhood beauty and enthusiasm returned to her.

"Helen," said Mr. Eliot a few months later, "you spoke of the man who ruined your father having a son. Have you ever thought if he is living, he should make retribution to you? I must tell you something, Helen. I can keep it from you no longer. It nearly kills me to say it, but I am that son. No, do not interrupt me, dear, I must tell it all.

"When I came into the possession of so much wealth after my father's death, I made inquiries and found that much of it had been dishonestly made, that the wealth in my possession rightfully belonged to another. I tried to find the daughter of the man my father had wronged and restore her what was rightfully her own. I have lived on a clerk's salary, saving everything for this girl.

"You know how I discovered you. I was a coward and did not tell you at once who I was for I loved you from the first, and knew you would despise me if you knew. I am afraid you will think worse of me for keeping it from you so long. It was all because I loved you so.

"Now I give back only what is your own. I am so glad to restore it to you, but it is hard to have you think ill of me."

She was sobbing quietly. How he longed to take her in his arms and comfort her!

"There is only one condition under which I will accept it, James," she said, when she could speak. "Can't you guess what it is? Oh, you stupid boy! You must go with it, dear."

FEE WAS ALL ARRANGED FOR

Lawyer to Recover the Lost Property and Keep It.

Not long before Charles Bonaparte left Baltimore in favor of Washington and a seat in the official family of the nation's chief executive, an amused office boy one morning announced to him that the 10-year-old son of one of his friends had called to see him. The great lawyer was amused, too, but he knows the boy-animal pretty thoroughly, so that when this particular specimen was shown in, he was met with a perfectly solemn "Good morning, Sammy. What can I do for you?"

"Well, Mr. Bonaparte," began Sammy, "I was out'n the country yesterday, an' I caught a tadpole, an' comin' in on the B. & O. I lost 'm."

"I think I understand," said Mr. Bonaparte; "you want to recover said tadpole. Is that it?" And Sammy nodded vigorously.

Still in his most professional manner, the attorney, with never a smile, continued: "Another thing; do you want return in value or kind?"

"Jes' the tadpole," was Sam's answer.

"I think we can settle it all right," was Mr. Bonaparte's next essay, "but look here, what am I to get for my trouble? Suppose the road gives up your tadpole, what do I get?"

"I've thought of that, too, Mr. Bonaparte," came the ready reply, "an' I thought I'd jes' give you the tadpole."

Modern Society.

Mrs. Van Oyster gave a $500 luncheon yesterday. Among those present were Mrs. Clamchowder in a $480 gown; Mrs. Doughnut, $560; Mrs. Cruller, $375; Mrs. Pancake, $730.

The dance given by Mrs. Golddust cost her $1,550, she announces.

A pleasant dinner was given on Tuesday evening by the Dougherty de Normans. The delightful informality of the affair may be guessed from the fact that Mrs. de Norman in her statement to the press put the cost at no more than $2,561.

The Rev. Smyth de Smythe was highly pleased with the attendance at his church on Sunday last. Prominent in the pews were Mrs. Oilwell, purple, with green trimmings, $250; Miss Rockflor, plain yellow, $680; Mrs. de Snifter, green, $1,050, and Mrs. Triphammer in magnificent pink and mauve. Unfortunately Mrs. Triphammer's price-tag was indistinct, and her telephone message to the office was taken by the sporting editor, who consigned the information to the waste basket.

Mrs. Playgore's theater party was a grand success. More than $10,000 worth of gowns reached the box before the last act was more than two-thirds ended.—Chicago American.

Japanese Colony for Texas.

Mr. Akioki, a Japanese of distinction, is in this country seeking information as to the climate and resources of Texas, where it is proposed to found a colony of his countrymen. He will shortly bring over 300 families, who will settle on a solid tract of 10,000 acres in Bee county. They will undertake tea-farming and silk culture. The mulberry tree grows everywhere in the region to a great size. San Antonio is the nearest town to the proposed colony and the expectation is that the newcomers will make good citizens and intermarry and coalesce with their Texas neighbors. Mr. Akioki says that if the first colony is a success he will buy another tract on which he has an option, and in this there are 10,000 acres, enough to make homes for 3,000 families. There is a small colony of Japanese now in Bee county. They have devoted themselves to raising tea and this year sold their products with a good profit.

Warm Language.

Mr. Fadoogus has gone to the basement to see what he can do with the furnace to make it send up more heat, and he finds the fire nearly out. He pokes his head into the furnace to inspect the condition of affairs, and when he sees the blackening coals his angry passions rise and he makes several remarks which are remarkable only for the floridity of their adjectivial components (which we trust is a phrase that may be verified by some dictionary or other). Then he rebuilds the fire and comes upstairs.

"It was all right, wasn't it?" asks his wife.

"No. The fire was out."

"How odd! Just after you went down a perfect flood of heat came through the registers."

WAS PLANNING TO SAVE TIME.

Stuttering Journalist Knew Minutes Were Precious.

Henry Guy Carleton, wit, journalist, and playwright, had an impediment in his speech about which he is not the least sensitive. Everybody's Magazine tells this story about him:

"Several years ago, when the Fifth Avenue theatre burned, Mr. Carleton appeared in the New York World office, where he was then employed, and the usual Saturday night confusion was increased by the late fire. The late Ballard Smith, then managing editor of the newspaper, was bellowing his orders with all his wonderful vigor in the effort to get to press on time.

"'M-m-mister Smith,' began Carleton, 'I've a g-g-great s-s-story about the F-f-fifth Avenue theatre f-f-fire.'

"'Great Heavens, man,' roared Mr. Smith, 'don't stop to talk to me about it! Don't you know this is Saturday night, and we go to press in fifteen minutes? Get to work and write it, and write it as fast as you know how. I want copy, not conversation. Don't you know that every minute is precious.'

"'Y-y-yes, sir,' said the journalist with an insistent effort to hold the editor's attention, 'I w-w-want to k-k-know if you w-w-would lend m-me your s-s-stenographer.'"

Name Made All Complete.

As is generally known, the charming town of Waldoboro, Me., included among its first settlers a successful colony of Dutch. The names of Ulmer, Helmerhausen, Winchenbaum, Sidensparker and many others of Dutch or German origin are now borne by the most respected families of Knox and Lincoln counties, and the old Dutch Lutheran churches of Waldoboro and Bristol, both erected in the eighteenth century, are visited by all tourists to that section.

One winter evening the solons of the village were gathered in the general store, and, having tired of the discussion of the latest "hoss trade" and other local events, were amusing themselves with constructing a steer from the names of those present.

Mr. Hoof thought his name answered very well for a starter; Joe Sides thought he was worthy of place in the animal; John Horn considered he would be ornamental as well as useful. Still the "critter" did not seem complete, when, by good luck, "Old Jim Onbehind" came in, and by unanimous consent it was voted that he would do very well for a tail.

Lost Fads of Fiction.

Where's the lackadaisic lady
  Who had tears on every page?
Where's the blood and thunder hero
  And the wars he used to wage?
Where's the specter ever present,
  And the gipsy and the seer?
Where, oh, where's the highway robber
  And the swart-browed buccaneer?

Where's the villain dark and daring
  Who pursued the maid averse?
Where's the helpless, hopeless, hapless
  Victim of an ancient curse?
Where's the lynx-eyed sleuth detective
  Of the big and brawny arm,
Who, alone and quite unweaponed
  Dealt a host of foemen harm?

Where's the guide and where's the redskin,
  And the trapper of the trail,
Whose impossible adventures
  Were the theme of many a tale?
Where's the mining camp contingent
  Of the California craze,
And the cruel overseer
  Of the ante-bellum days?

They are gone, the olden players,
  They have had their time and chance,
There's a newer type arisen
  In the region of romance;
We have turned to realism,
  And the greatest novelist
Is the one who dares to show us
  Life and love as they exist.

—American Illustrated Magazine.

One Told by Fitzgerald.

Ex-Congressman Fitzgerald of Boston, who passed the summer at Old Orchard, told this story of the clambake of the Redberry club, held at Pine Point late in August:

A chaplain had been called upon to officiate for the regular clergyman in congress early in the term. The minister was about to conclude his prayer, and reverent silence pervaded the big chamber, when the members were startled to hear the following sentence drop from the lips of the chaplain pro tem.: "May corruption and sin in every form be as far from every member of this body as Thou art, O Lord!"

It was several seconds before the members fully grasped the meaning of the clergyman's prayer, and when it did it was unanimously in favor of having another substitute when the regular chaplain was unable to attend.

Anecdotes of Sir Henry Keppel.

Many stories are told of Sir Henry Keppel, the late British admiral. Not long after the present style of uniform had been introduced into the navy he met Queen Victoria and the prince consort of the Isle of Wight. The queen asked him how he liked the change of uniform. He replied: "I like it very much, your majesty, but this morning I was taken for a railway official." When he accidentally fell from a ship's side on to the quay below and was badly stunned somebody cried for water. He thought it time to pull himself together and muttered: "Put some whisky in it."

Reminiscences Would Be Lively.

Both as journalist and publicist Henry Labouchere, who announces his retirement from parliament, has been an exceedingly interesting figure in British life for many years. He could always be depended upon to enliven debate in the house of commons with an audacious and brilliant onslaught on the favorite of the hour or on some abuse that needed correction. In the old liberal school he was an extreme radical, but has not for years been in touch with the later forms of radicalism. Mr. Labouchere is being urged to write a book of his reminiscences, of which he must have a wonderfully interesting collection.

WONDROUS FAD OF FASHION

How fearfully and wonderfully is the feminine of the hour built up in back!

A man with a discerning eye for these things swears that a fashionable young person who hat in front of him on the train the other afternoon towered yards above the back of her seat. Her collar, according to his calculations, was built up quite six inches high. It supported four diamond pins, each at least two inches long, so he reasons that this was a modest calculation. Where her collar left off, her back hair began, and he states that never in his experience has he witnessed hair erect to such a sky-scraping height. He cannot undertake to say how it was done. He only knows that it was waved and puffed far above his level, and he could only peer toward its dim, retreating billows in wonder. He says he knows her maid must have stood on a step-adder to dress it.

Away up on top, he says, there was set something in the nature of a hat, he couldn't clearly tell what, except that it was mounted on coils and coils of velvet, tilting it, as near as he could judge from that distance, at least a yard above her back hair. The top of it, he says, was not for man to contemplate, nor woman, either, unless she were a Brobdignagian.

When this extraordinary object turned around, the man says he got a distinct shock. The precipice that had been reared to such a lofty altitude behind tumbled straight down, sheer, threatening to slice off the pretty nose in the descent.

"It looked," said he, vainly struggling to express his emotions, "as if somebody had taken a sharp knife and trimmed her off close in front, as my mother used to slice the dough off the pie-tin. I must say, after the astonishing quantity of hat and hair aft, I was unprepared for such an anticlimax forward. She was an awfully pretty girl, but she appeared to feel that her head didn't quite balance in front, and she kept thrusting out her chin as if she hoped to make up for the deficiency. Poor thing! I suppose it's the fashion!"

Of course, what this man was talking about is the new felt sailor, which ed to great heights behind and ch off srort over the nose. Fashion Well, rather! As many feminine can pay the price are annexing same, and many, many men are to be amazed thereby.—Philad Bulletin.

MATINEE HATS SAD FATE

Just before the curtain rose on a matinee performance recently, a wo an very far above the weight that well regulated scales describe as normal, walked down the aisle and took her seat, an only one. The whole balcony seemed to vibrate when she sat down. Not more than a few minutes later a small, wiry, business-like woman hopped down the aisle, and with great difficulty and extraordinary gymnastic effort managed to climb over the fat lady and take the seat next to her. Everything was peaceful until after the first act, when the thin spectator decided to climb out again to speak to a friend ten or twelve hows back. She had a new hat, which she had been holding lovingly in her lap. With a last fond look at it, she hesitatingly left it on her chair, went through the same gymnastic act, landed safely in the aisle and went quickly back to her friend. Now fat people are always counted good natured, and the end seat occupant was no exception. Realizing the hardships her neighbor would have to go through to climb back again, with a most divine expression of sympathy and good will on her face, she stood up, moved along, sat down in the second seat—on the In the meantime the friends re back finished a rather excited c sation, during which the wir had become more and more e and then she came back. Fore all about her cherished hat and ingly intent on some other bu she unquestioningly took the e In two minutes she shot up—t was lost! She did not know where she had left it, but it w there! She searched under the within a radius of twenty fe hat was to be found. The fa sympathetic but immovable, she could to help look for it. stand up. Ushers were su ice-water boys, programme boy whole balcony was having a chill over the mysterious disa ance. Only the girl from Ba in the seat behind, knew the to the question, and she was hausted from the strain of supp laughter to explain. At the end play she did not wait to see the Her conscience wouldn't permi for she caught one glimpse crushed hat when the fat lady —Brooklyn Eagle.

GHOST SHOWED HIM GOLD

Bringing a bottle filled with almost pure gold, taken from a lode long hidden in mountain fastnesses, not far from here, W. E. Bartlett and M. C. Black, both well known business men, are back after a perilous trip to the Cascades.

Theirs, however, was labor richly rewarded, though the story is so interwoven with spiritualism and romance that it is well nigh incredible. Bartlett is the grandson of D. E. Ingels, a miner of the early '50s in these parts, who was murdered in the hills by his partner. The Bartlett family are spiritualists, and Bartlett declares his dead and murdered grandfather, through a Portland medium, sent word to him to find the lost mine and he would be independent for life.

Bartlett swears positively that he received specific directions from the spirit of his grandfather how to proceed to the lost mine. Moreover, he was told to select M. C. Black to accompany him. The men will not tell of the location of their find, b it cannot be reached save by a an extremely dangerous trip a filled with hardship, especially time of the year, when the mou are firmly in winter's icy gra the spring they will return a velop their find.

In a rough and mountainous they say, they found a gray ledge literally filled with p metal. Small pieces were bro pounded up in a frying pan whi had with them and the gold pic by the men's fingers and place bottle. Should the ledge pro rich as the samples, a man coul a mortar and gold pan, and week's time take out enough gold to make him wealthy.

As an evidence of their fin have the little bottle of gol which has already been view dozens of people, and tests hav made by O. D. Johnson which that the mineral is genuine.—chie correspondence Seattle T

COULDN'T HURT THE WATER

The late Eugene Field, while on one of his lecturing tours, entered Philadelphia one bright spring morning after that city had endured a three days' rainstorm.

There was some dalay at the bridge over the Schuylkill river, and the humorist's attention was attracted by the turgid, coffee-colored stream flowing underneath. "It reminded me so much of my own dear Chicago river," he afterward explained. He placed a detaining hand on the arm of the colored porter, who was passing at the time, and inquired, in his languid tone, if he were a resident of the Quaker City, says Success.

"Yassir!" replied that important functionary. "I was bo'n an' raised yere! Yassir!"

"Don't you people get your drinking water from this stream?" queried Field.

"Yassir! Ain't got no yuther place to git it frum 'cept th' Delaweah, an' dat's des a lil' mo' soapy yer wattah. Yassir!"

"Is it filtered before you dri

"No, sah, not as I evah he of!"

"I should think," said the h "that you would be afraid such water; especially as the from that cemetery I see on must drain directly into the r pollute it."

"D'ye mean dat big bu'yin' up yander by de tu'n ob de inquired the son of Ham. "I yo' all doan' know Philadelp well, sah, aw yo'd know dat Hill cemete'y!"

"Well, what of that?" ask somewhat puzzled at this unlo rejoinder.

"Dat wattah doan' bu't us delphians none, sah," replied tive son, with an air of pride mos' all of de folkses bu'ied t f'om ouah ver'y best fam'lies."

WILD TIMES IN ODESSA

Here is a correspondent's record of the minor hooligan outrages of one day in the city of Odessa recently: "Shortly before sundown a drunken member of a small military picket staggered across his rifle and fired wildly as a passing drosky carrying two women and a young girl. The bullet missed its mark. An officer, attracted by the shot, rushed over, and the drunken soldier ran as best he could, after dropping his rifle, but was brought down by a shot in the leg from the officer. On the opposite side of Cathedral place, 300 paces away, about the same time, an intoxicated policeman reeled out of a vodka shop and commenced blazing about with his revolver, one shot wounding a young woman in the hand. He was shot dead by a member of the nearest picket.

"Earlier in the day two s chants returning through a b oughfare from the custom ho stopped by hooligans and r everything. Thirty yards stood a picket of two soldier policeman. The indignant vi manded to know why the p not come to their assistanc of the soldiers replied it wa their business; they were t control the traffic only.

"Two other cases of robb violence occurred in the close to my residence. In t districts of the city there we teen similar assaults and and between nightfall and about twenty. In three of cases the military pickets bandits. A little girl of ni chased by the hooligans, dead on her own doorstep."

United States Not in Condition for

By Rear Admiral C

We are greatly in need of a need of battleships. W calibre that are strictly out of order, so that inste

England has eleven has ships of first class fi first class ships in our n to look at, and they will give d.

There are a lot of them that hav merely police duty, and they ne ag. Many of our ships are old fighting ships. It would cost lip in Manila Bay, a fighting vess The war in the East has taught us that the battleship is the or at a critical issue. We must wn.

We have twenty-seven battleship we will employ 65,000 men in c and thus far we are going along ke England's, for we are not bu tch up to her.

Following the fads of various po ng ships some millions of dollars anila I have seen one of them ro thing with a 12-inch gun—much n with a stone.

Three submarine ships came to t en only knows when they will of a craft the other end needs re ld, and the only thing I can see In 1908 we shall rank on paper f we strike from the list such s nd rate battleship, from the first e world only sixth, possibly fifth reach.

We must continue to build ships ent-built ship is as good, if not b w building in the Brooklyn Navy built in private yards. But th of repairs is known.

After all, there is only one kind leship of the line. All others abo ored cruiser is beautiful to look a he water.

The recent visitors from England line in the North River. In war ting in the Carribbean.

We have a few for such purpos r countries where we need to sen al results in war, we must depend

Don't Be Ob

Beatrice Fairf

NCE I make up my mind

The speaker was a She was evidently considered it a great vi

"Dear me," though a dreadful person to li

Some people seem

's mind.

On the contrary, it is a sign of opinion when all evidence show

No one is infallible.

We are all liable to form errone g to do is give in gracefully and I can't imagine anything more ti could change her mind and was

The vacillating person is just as But there is a happy medium in When you form an opinion on a the same subject, and if their vi Obstinacy frequently masquerad Through thick and thin they wi e voiced them, and they can't be en.

Be firm in your standard if you always be open to conviction wh Don't stick to a wrong view sim t it was a right one.—New York

Future of F

By Dr. Luther Halse American Physical

NOTHING more hopeful present uproar over ar conscience is becomin does not mean that th worse than it has bee there has always been letics who were willin the game for purposes of persona intercollegiate football is neith n ago. Players would occasional l more football now than there financial returns are larger; her k that they are worse.

This great protest against evil n for the future. Public opinio rance and politics, but even in Control is a necessity to free case of college athletics. The e been uncontrolled. The resu athletics. Those who need most field by the director, because wer which makes them availab e that of a city school, which h s of country schools would easi on to thees grounds 500 childre ed play. They can't do it.

As soon as skill begins to have develops a type of sport and a man has no opportunity. If i ill be but a very few years befor experts who make it their first A new spirit is coming into at compelled by public opinion.

Combat the Upper Classes Who Presume

By John Burns.

URGE you to remem wealth, frivolity, gam amongst the ignorant These tendencies, if d classes greater power governing virtues are the disorders and incr I appeal to you, the best, becau greatest, working class in the w walking quickly, boldly and f duals, classes and nations mu onal health, social happiness, My experience of workship, t exceptional opportunities of se in many of the greatest labou bled me to witness how drinkh , and political strength of the template, nor woman, either. ... she were a Brobdignagian.

...D OF FASHION

When this extraordinary ... turned around, the man says ... a distinct shock. The precipice ... had been reared to such a ... ttude behind tumbled straight ... sheer, threatening to slice ... pretty nose in the descent.

"It looked," said he, vainly ... gling to express his emotions, ... somebody had taken a sharp ... trimmed her off close in front, ... mother used to slice the dough ... pie-tin. I must say, after the ... quantity of hat and hair aft, I ... prepared for such an antielimax ... ward. She was an awfully pretty ... but she appeared to feel that ... didn't quite balance in front, ... kept thrusting out her chin as ... hoped to make up for the defic... Poor thing! I suppose it's the ... ion!"

Of course, what this man was ... ing about is the new felt sailor, ... ed to great heights behind and ... off srort over the nose. Fashion... Well, rather! As many feminine ... can pay the price are annexing ... same, and many, many men are ... to be amazed thereby.—Philadel... Bulletin.

...T'S SAD FATE

down in the second seat—on the ... In the meantime the friends ten ... back finished a rather excited ... sation, during which the wiry ... had become more and more ex... and then she came back. Forgo... all about her cherished hat and ... ingly intent on some other busi... she unquestioningly took the end ... In two minutes she shot up—the ... was lost! She did not know ... where she had left it, but it mu... there! She searched under the ... within a radius of twenty feet, ... hat was to be found. The fat ... sympathetic but immovable, ... she could to help look for it, ... stand up. Ushers were summ... ice-water boys, programme boys, ... whole balcony was having a ner... chill over the mysterious disap... ance. Only the girl from Bro... in the seat behind, knew the an... to the question, and she was too ... hausted from the strain of suppr... laughter to explain. At the end ... play she did not wait to see the ... Her conscience wouldn't permit ... for she caught one glimpse ... crushed hat when the fat lady ... —Brooklyn Eagle.

...WED HIM GOLD

of the location of their find, but ... it cannot be reached save by m... an extremely dangerous trip ac... filled with hardship, especially ... time of the year, when the mos... are firmly in winter's icy grasp ... the spring they will return an... velop their find.

In a rough and mountainous ... they say, they found a gray ... ledge, literally filled with pu... metal. Small pieces were broke... pounded up in a frying pan which ... had with them and the gold pick... by the men's fingers and placed ... bottle. Should the ledge pro... rich as the samples, a man could ... a mortar and gold pan, and ... week's time take out enough ... gold to make him wealthy.

As an evidence of their find ... have the little bottle of gold ... which has already been view... dozens of people, and tests have ... made by O. D. Johnson which ... that the mineral is genuine.—Chi... correspondence Seattle Ti...

...URT THE WATER

an' dat's des a lil' mo' soupy ... yer wattah. Yassir!"

"Is it filtered before you dri...

"No, sah, not as I evah hea... of!"

"I should think," said the ha... "that you would be afraid to ... such water; especially as the ... from that cemetery I see on ... must drain directly into the ri... pollute it."

"D'ye mean dat big bu'yin' ... up yander by de tu'n ob de ... inquired the son of Ham. "I ... yo' all doan' know Philadelp... well, sah, aw yo'd know dat's ... Hill cemete'y!"

"Well, what of that?" asked ... somewhat puzzled at this unico... rejoinder.

"Dat wattah doan' hu't us ... delphians none, sah," replied ... tive son, with an air of pride ... mos' all of de folkses bu'ied th... f'om ouah ver'y best fam'lies!"

...ES IN ODESSA

"Earlier in the day two ... chants returning through a ... oughfare from the custom ... stopped by hooligans and ... everything. Thirty yards ... stood a picket of two soldiers ... policeman. The indignant vic... manded to know why the p... not come to their assistance ... of the soldiers replied it was ... their business; they were ... control the traffic only.

"Two other cases of rob... violence occurred in the ... close to my residence. In ... districts of the city there w... teen similar assaults, and ... and between nightfall and ... about twenty. In three of ... cases the military picket ... bandits. A little girl of ... chased by the hooligans, ... dead on her own doorstep."

United States Warships Not in Condition for Real Service

By Rear Admiral Coghlan,

WE are greatly in need of a merchant marine, but we are more in need of battleships. We have only eighteen ships of fighting calibre that are strictly modern and two of that bunch are now out of order, so that instead of forty we count only sixteen today.

England has eleven ironclads alone. In her second class she has ships of first class fighting material, but we do not place any first class ships in our second class. Our vessels are good ... to look at, and they will give as good an account as possible when ...ed.

There are a lot of them that have done service in the past that are now ... merely police duty, and they seem to be regarded as good enough to fly ... flag. Many of our ships are old timers, and yet they are carried on our ... of fighting ships. It would cost a fortune to make the Olympia, Dewey's ...ip in Manila Bay, a fighting vessel.

The war in the East has taught us one lesson, and that is that it has ... us that the battleship is the only vessel to carry on a war or to decide ...r at a critical issue. We must build more battleships if we are to hold ...own.

We have twenty-seven battleships now in course of construction and by ... we will employ 65,000 men in our navy, where now we employ only 36,... and thus far we are going along strong lines. But our navy will never ...ike England's, for we are not building enough, nor building fast enough ...atch up to her.

Following the fads of various persons, we find among our twenty-seven ...ting ships some millions of dollars wasted on four monitors. In the harbor ...anila I have seen one of them rolling twenty times a minute trying to hit ...othing with a 12-inch gun—much as I have seen a woman trying to hit ...en with a stone.

Three submarine ships came to the Navy Yard last Spring for repairs. ...aven only knows when they will get away. As soon as you repair the ... of a craft the other end needs rebuilding. The insides have been wholly ...uild, and the only thing I can see to do with them is to build new hulls.

In 1908 we shall rank on paper as the second naval power of the world. ... If we strike from the list such ships as the sainted Oregon, now really a ...ond rate battleship, from the first line, we will rank among the sea powers ...the world only sixth, possibly fifth, but that will be the best rate that we ...ld reach.

We must continue to build ships, and in passing let me say that the Gov...ment-built ship is as good, if not better, than any. The Connecticut, which ...now building in the Brooklyn Navy Yard, will distance its mates which are ...g built in private yards. But the real test will come later on when the ...t of repairs is known.

After all, there is only one kind of ship to build, and that is the speedy ...tleship of the line. All others above the water are no earthly good. The ...nored cruiser is beautiful to look at, with its graceful lines and its buoyancy ...the water.

The recent visitors from England showed this, as they lay at the head of ... line in the North River. In war they may be good for something such as ...ting in the Carribbean.

We have a few for such purposes as a Santo Domingo difficulty and in ...er countries where we need to send our navy. But for actual work, and for ...ual results in war, we must depend upon the battleship of the line.

Don't Be Obstinate in Your Ideas

Beatrice Fairfax.

"ONCE I make up my mind, nothing on earth can change it."

The speaker was a young woman with a jaw like a steal trap. She was evidently very proud of her strength of mind and considered it a great virture.

"Dear me," thought I, "you are very good looking, but what a dreadful person to live with."

Some people seem to think it a sign of weakness to change ...'s mind.

On the contrary, it is a sign of weakness to adhere obstinately to one's ...n opinion when all evidence shows one to be in the wrong.

No one is infallible.

We are all liable to form erroneous opinions, and when we do the sensible ...g to do is give in gracefully and change them.

I can't imagine anything more tiresome than living with a person who nev... could change her mind and was proud of it.

The vacillating person is just as tiresome, and of course utterly unreliable.

But there is a happy medium in the person who is open to conviction.

When you form an opinion on a subject listen to what others have to say ... the same subject, and if their views are better than yours, adopt them.

Obstinacy frequently masquerades as strength of mind.

Through thick and thin they will stick to their opinions just because they ...ve voiced them, and they can't bear to acknowledge that they were mis...en.

Be firm in your standard if you are quite convinced that you are right, ...t always be open to conviction should the circumstances change.

Don't stick to a wrong view simply because you have once had the opinion ...t it was a right one.—New York Journal.

Future of Football.

By Dr. Luther Halsey Gulick, President of the American Physical Education Association.

NOTHING more hopeful has happened to sport for years than the present uproar over amateur athletics. It means that the public conscience is becoming more sensitive to honesty in athletics. It does not mean that the present situation is either better or worse than it has been in previous decades. The truth is that there has always been a considerable percentage of men in athletics who were willing to violate both the rules and the spirit ...the game for purposes of personal advantage.

Intercollegiate football is neither better nor worse than it was a genera... ...n ago. Players would occasionally kick each other then. There is a great ...l more football now than there was then; the audiences are much larger; ...e financial returns are larger; hence the evils are more glaring, but I do not ...nk that they are worse.

This great protest against evil in athletics I take to be the most hopeful ...n for the future. Public opinion is coming to demand honesty not only in ...urance and politics, but even in athletic sport.

Control is a necessity to freedom. This paradox is well illustrated in ... case of college athletics. The games have developed spontaneously and ...ve been uncontrolled. The result is that a great mass of students are out ... athletics. Those who need most to play on athletic fields are ordered off ...n field by the director, because they do not have the type of physique or ...wer which makes them available as intercollegiate material. The case is ...e that of a city school, which has a fair sized playground that in the old ...ys of country schools would easily accommodate fifty pupils. But now we ...t on to thees grounds 500 children, desiring them to have the same old fash...ed play. They can't do it.

As soon as skill begins to have a financial advantage to the player it rap... ...y develops a type of sport and a degree of excellence before which the aver... ...e man has no opportunity. If a man can earn his living playing football ...will be but a very few years before it becomes restricted to the comparatively ...w experts who make it their first business. This is unqualifiedly an evil.

A new spirit is coming into athletics. It is the spirit of honesty, which ...compelled by public opinion.

Combat the Ignorant Upper Classes Who Presume to Govern You

By John Burns, Member of Parliament.

I URGE you to remember that luxury, idleness, vulgar misuse of wealth, frivolity, gambling and cynical indifference are growing amongst the ignorant upper classes who presume to govern you. These tendencies, if developed, mean devolving upon the working classes greater power, efficency, courage, and character. These governing virtues are incompatible with drink, drunkenness or the disorders and incapacity that spring from them.

I appeal to you, the best, because you are the freest, and in many respects ... greatest, working class in the world; to renounce drink, because it prevents ...r walking quickly, boldly and firmly the straight but narrow path that in...viduals, classes and nations must tread if they wish to reach the goal of ...rsonal health, social happiness, communal culture and national greatness.

My experience of workship, the street, the asylum, the jail, have given ... exceptional opportunities of seeing the ravages of alcohol. My participa... ...n in many of the greatest labor movements of the present generation has ...abled me to witness how drinking cripples the social force, industrial en...gy, and political strength of the people.

For the Younger Children....

THE CHESTNUT BUR.

The wind cried aloud to the chestnut bur,
"Open, come open to me!"
And he blew with his might,
Till the bur shook with fright,
But never a bit opened she.

Then the sun smiled down on the little green bur,
"Please open," he coaxed, "to me!"
And he shone so warm
That the bur in alarm
Hid under the leaves of the tree.

Jack Frost came hurrying down the hill.
"Ho, ho, ha, ha!" laughed he,
And the bur laughed back
Till her brown sides cracked,
And out fell the chestnuts three.

Christine H. Hamilton, in Youth's Companion.

A GOOD DEED.

A correspondent to the Jacksonville Times-Union writes that he saw a very pretty scene a day or two ago during one of the heavy afternoon rains. A little kitten, the pet of some children probably, with a blue ribbon around its neck, soft gray fur, and dainty white feet, had wandered out into the street, and feared to cross the gutter where a swift stream whirled and dashed along. It was mewing piteously, but no one paid any attention to it. In this busy world the moaning of a human being excites but little attention, how much less, then, the crying of a forlorn kitten. Then there came along a great Newfoundland dog, with bright intelligent eyes and glossy coat. Attracted by the little kitten's distress, he gazed at it a moment, then glanced quietly about him. The nobler animal, man, was going by unheeding, so this dog walked out into the street, picked up the kitten in his mouth, and carried it gently to the sidewalk. There he placed it on a dry spot, licked it kindly once or twice, wagged his bushy tail, and went down the street. It was a little thing, but it struck me that that dog had something higher than intelligence.

FRANKLIN'S ELECTRIC DINNER.

Franklin took the universal applause that followed as quietly and modestly as he had put forth his suggestions, writes Joseph H. Choate, in The Critic. It was all fun to him from the beginning. Dr. Priestley says that at the close of the first summer of his experiments, when it grew too hot to continue them, the philosopher had a party on the banks of the Schuylkill, at which spirits were first fired by a spark sent from side to side through the river, without any other conductor than the water; a turkey was killed for their dinner by the electrical shock, and roasted by the electric jack, before a fire kindled by the electrified bottle, when the health of all the famous electricians in England, Holland, France and Germany was drunk in electrified bumpers, under a discharge of guns from the electrical battery.

Honors and distinction now crowded upon him; the Royal Society, as if to make quick amends for its previous neglect, by a unanimous vote made him a member, exempting him from the payment of all dues, and the next year with every circumstance of distinction awarded him the Copley medal, and Yale and Harvard conferred their honorary degrees upon him.

THE MUSICALE.

When mama asked who would keep house while she went to see Aunt Maria, three voices called out "I!" all at once—Polly's, Benny's and Bob's.

"Who'll amuse Betty?" asked mama. There was a pause. Betty was the baby, and babies were sometimes sometimes hard to please.

"I'll answer the telephone," said Benny, as if he had not heard mama.

"I'll mind the door-bell," said Bob.

"I'll take care of Betty, mama," said Polly.

"We'll help," said Benny and Bob together.

"Well, you must be very careful and not let her hurt herself; but I am sure I can trust you. I'll come back as soon as I can. Good-by!"

How very exciting and important it was to be left at home to keep the baby and the house without any grown-up people to tell them how and when to do things, and the children were very proud and happy. Even Baby Betty seemed to feel that something very unusual was going on.

Benny took down the messages that came for papa on the telephone with a very businesslike air, and Bob took the vegetables from the green-grocer's boy when he came, and answered the door; but there were not many messages, and nobody rang the door-bell except the man who mended broken umbrellas, and after a while the house began to seem a little lonely.

Polly played "William-come-Tripple-ton was a fisherman" with Betty, and picking nosegays out of the flowers in the carpet for a long time, but Baby Betty always wanted a new game. Of course she was the dearest, sweetest, cunningest baby in the whole world, but—well—babies are unreasonable, and mother did stay.

Suddenly a bright thought came to Polly. "Benny and Bob, come here!" she called. "I'm going to give a musicale. I'll sing and you can play and Bob can make the pedals go, so it'll sound loud, and it'll be Betty's benefit! Bob, you play with Betty while I dress up and bring the audience, Benny, put the chairs in a row of preserved seats!"

Polly liked to use slang, big words, and she turned red when Benny laughed very loud and said, "Open ... ...ment ... seats."

"Very well," said Polly, stiffly, "but it's most the same," and then she went up-stairs. When she came down she had mama's longest housekeeping apron tied on so that it made a long train in the back, and in her hair a trailing plume that used to be on one of mama's old hats, and in her arms a dozen dolls.

"Here's the au-di-ence!" she said, breathlessly. She seated the dolls in the chair quite primly, all facing the piano.

"Now let's begin the concert."

Benny sat down on the piano-stool and pounded the keys with quite a professional bang, and Polly stood up and made a little bow, and sang:

"Captain Bing
Was a pirate king,
He sailed the broad seas o-ver," while Bob worked the pedals very fast.

Really, it was quite a concert. The dog sat in a chair and howled loudly. Baby Betty said, "Goo, goo, goo!" and Benny said that was an encore, and meant Polly must sing another song, and then they all sang:

"Did you ever see a rabbit climb a tree?"

and all the time the audience was so staid and proper as an audience should be, and sat very still and gazed earnestly at the singers.

Baby Betty shrieked with delight, and came creeping over to where the polite "audience" sat, and nobody knows what would have happened to the pink silk dolly if in the midst of it all the door had not suddenly opened and mama walked in, laughing.

"Here is something Aunt Maria sent my little housekeepers," she said, emptying out a paper bag of sugar-coated cookies.

"Hurrah!" cried Benny and Bob. "Hurrah for Polly and Betty, and the concert and Aunt Maria!"

And everybody agreed that "Betty's benefit" had been in every way a tremendous success.—P. C. Bouve, in the Youth's Companion.

SAVING THE FAMILY.

Bobby had two grandmothers. One grandmother lived far away from him, and sent him presents—a striped worsted ball, a "Mother Goose's Melodies," a cotton-flannel pig, a calico cat, a rag doll and a pair of reins; and the other grandmother lived with Bobby, and had to play ball, read "Mother Goose," squeal for the cotton-flannel pig, "miau" and "scat!" for the calico cat, make dresses for the rag doll, and drive Bobby all over the house, crying, "Get up, horsey!"

Of all the presents Bobby liked the reins best. They were red reins, hung with tiny jinglers.

When grandma had callers, and so could not play "horsey," Bobby used to loop the reins over a chair-back, and sitting on a cricket, drive round the country until the callers were gone.

Somebody else in the family liked the red reins with jinglers. That was Pussy Gray, the pretty Maltese kitten. She used to chase round after grandma and the prancing horse, and whenever the team stopped she would come frisking up, lift a little fore paw, and set the bright bells ringing.

One day grandma had several callers, and the last one was the minister, and he took Bobby up on one knee and Pussy Gray on the other. The reins were left over the chair-back.

"Those are my new reins," said Bobby. 'My grandma that lives away off sent them to me. Do you know my grandma that lives away off?"

He slipped off the minister's knee, ran over to the table, and got an album. He laid this on the minister's knee, and turned the pages till he came to the photograph of a lady with white hair. "There," he said, "that's my grandma that lives away off. This is the whole family. Everybody's in it—grandma and papa and me and everybody."

The minister looked at all the photographs, and Bobby, standing at his side, told the name of each. This took a long time, so it was late when the minister said good-by.

Then grandma, Bobby and Pussy Gray went to supper. After supper grandma put Bobby right to bed; and the chair horse remained tied to the table all night.

In the middle of the night grandma woke up and heard a jingling of bells—like sleigh-bells; and not being really awake, she fancied that somebody was coming to give her a sleigh-ride. Then she woke up a little more, and knew that it must be Pussy Gray playing with the jinglers on the red reins.

"I forgot to put her down cellar," thought grandma. "I must go now, or she may get into mischief. Why, it is raining, and I left the parlor window open a little way! Dear me, I must hurry!"

When grandma reached the parlor she found the rain beating in at the open window; and she was just in time to save the album, which had been left in an easy chair by the window, from a wetting.

In the morning she told Bobby about it. "In another moment," she said, "the whole family would have been flooded. We may thank Pussy Gray for it, because if she had not been playing horses I should not have waked up. Pussy Gray saved the whole family from the flood." And grandma laughed.

"We must thank my horsey, too," said Bobby, "cause he was standing still to be stayed. I tied him there. My horsey helped save the whole family, grandma."—Elizabeth Hill, in the Youth's Companion.

A GREAT COMBINATION OFFER

We Will Furnish the "TWICE-A-WEEK" Issue of the

St. Louis Globe-Democrat

With

THE UNION

For

$1.50 Both Papers, one year, only $1.50.

The St. Louis Globe Democrat should not be classed with the many cheap weekly papers. It is a high-grade Semi-Weekly, eight or more pages, every Tuesday and Friday. It is beyond all comparison the biggest, best and cheapest National News and Home Journal published in the United States. It is strictly Republican in Politics but is above all

A Great Modern Newspaper.

It is not made up indiscriminately from the Daily issue. It is carefully edited with special reference to the needs of the Farmer, the Merchant and the professional man who desires to keep thoroughly posted without sparing the time to read a large Daily Paper. It also contains a great variety of well selected reading matter, making it invaluable to every member of the family.

This Liberal Clubbing Offer

is open to all old or new subscribers, but may be withdrawn at any time, and we must receive the cash with order. Address

THE UNION,
Clanton, Ala.

Ben M. Jacobs & Bros.,

Furniture and Rugs.

—SOLE AGENTS—

Globe-Wernicke Elastic Book Cases and Filing Cabinets.

Catalogue for the asking.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

DISPATCH PRINTING CO.,

Blank Book Makers and Lithographers.

County and Office Supplies a Specialty.

Ask for Estimates.

2113-2119 Morris Ave., BIRMINGHAM, ALA

Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association OF ALABAMA.

CHARTERED BY SPECIAL ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE

By the People and for the People.

Chilton County Branch

Organized February 3, 1900.

W. M. WILSON, President. WALLACE C. EDLER, Sec'y.-Treas.

INSURES Farmers' dwellings, outbuildings and contents and live stock against loss by fire, wind and lightning. The cheapest, safest and most sensible method of insurance known to man

Average Yearly Cost for Five and a half Years 43-100 of 1 per cent.

Full particulars furnished upon application to WALLACE C. EDLER, Clanton, Ala.

PAUL CALAME,

205 21st Street Birmingham, Ala.

Practical Watchmaker and Optician

Eyes Correctly Fitted

Mail orders promptly filled

DO YOU WANT

Letterheads, Noteheads, Billheads, Envelopes,

OR ANYTHING ELSE PRINTED?

Then Call at

THE UNION OFFICE

and See Fine Work at Low Prices.

500 Noteheads 500 Envelopes All For $2.00

Good Work on Good Material, done on Good Machines. Don't forget! THE UNION, Clanton, Alabama.

ADVERTISE IN

Your Home Paper

FOR GOOD RESULTS

THE UNION

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Wallace C. Edler, Ed. and Pub.

Subscription price, in advance, per year, $1.

For advertising rates, call at the office, Seventh street, between First and Second avenues.

Entered April 15, 1903, at Clanton, Ala., as second class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications to the Union must be signed by the writer's real name as well as that name which they wish to put in the paper. Letters must reach the editor Tuesday morning to get in the same week. While we will publish any and all communications complying with these requirements that do not contain any improper language, we are not responsible for the opinions expressed. tf.

CLANTON, ALA., Feb. 15, 1906.

Union Clubbing List

THE UNION And Yellow Jacket	$1.05
THE UNION And Southern Ruralist	1.00
THE UNION And Union Educator	1.05
THE UNION And Home and Farm	1.05
THE UNION And Weekly Age-Herald	1.25
THE UNION and Weekly Atlanta Constitution	1.25
THE UNION and Twice-a-Week Globe Democrat	1.30
THE UNION and Tri-W'kly Atlanta Constitution	1.50
THE UNION And Tom Watson's Magazine	1.50
THE UNION and Tri-Weekly N. Y. World	1.50
THE UNION And Rural South	1.50
THE UNION And Weekly Advertiser and Map of Alabama, U. S. and world	1.80

If there are any other papers you want call at THE UNION office, and we will get them for you at the lowest rates. tf

$10.00 REWARD

Will be paid to the three persons who secure for us the largest number of PAID subscribers between now and April 1st, 1906. No restrictions. Our clubbing prices go in this contest. $5.00 goes to the one with the largest list; $3.00 to the second largest list, and $2.00 to the third largest. Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds has kindly consented to be the judge in this contention, and he will make the awards. The names of the successful contestants will be published, also the names of all who tried for this reward. Now we have a thousand subscribers, help us to get a thousand additional, so as to fittingly celebrate the ending of our third year.

tf THE UNION.

Vote for the Schools Tuesday

FONVILLE BECOMES A CANDIDATE.

To the Editor of the Journal:

This is the anniversary of a very happy event in my life, and I'm thinking of doing a very heroic act.

I guess you've forgotten it, but I was once in the Legislature. You were, too, but the Lord is gracious and forgiving.

I know you haven't forgotten that I was Secretary of State two terms (under Kolb), but owing to a high tide of morals at that time I served without pay.

I had the honors, but bare honors are not very "fillin'" to a weary stomach.

I served one term in Congress (by anticipation)—the time my vote was divided between Tom Clark and Stallings, and they came near to contesting which one got the most of it.

If you'll think a moment you can call to mind how two new parties have called me, ———— from my plow and oxen to take pot luck with them.

So, honors real, honors "unfillin'," honors prospective, honors past and honors to come have followed me 'till the days of my poor farmer life.

I propose to do something now, on my own hook—unique, bold.

I can't vote in the Democratic primary, and the committee has published but one rule against me as a candidate.

I want to demonstrate that the committee was mistaken that "a poor man cannot run for the nomination in a Democratic primary."

I was to announce in this interesting letter that I am a candidate for Lieutenant-Governor.

Of course it will take a hot collection to get up my entrance fee in the primary. (I never saved a cent of my Secretary of State salary.)

The newspapers will advertise for me as I am a sort of newspaper man—not that I ever owned or managed or edited one, but I have read several, and never did undertake to advise an editor how "to run" his paper.

Yes, they'll advertise for me. I think the candidates who have announced have published personal platforms rather than stand on a Democratic platform.

They must be "going back" on Democracy—which is highly creditable in one calling himself a Democrat.

You can say for me that I'm a Populist of the old school, and can consistently stand for the rights of the people.

Perhaps I had better submit a little personal platform in addition to the general one, of which I am not ashamed.

First—I'm in favor of "giving the devil his due."

Second—I love the old soldiers, especially one, and am in favor of giving them a great deal more than they ever get.

(Don't forget that I am perhaps the only old soldier who has the honor to seek the office of Lieutenant-Governor, and govern yourselves accordingly.)

I'm in favor of the farmer (again I'm the only one in the race) and the working man. The two terms I was Secretary of State (under Kolb) I believe I worked harder, hoeing, plowing and resting in the farm than any four years of my unprofitable salaried life.

Recollect this when you come to vote.

Fourth—I'm in favor of more schools, larger enrollment and occasionally a better teacher, etc., etc.

Fifth—I'm in favor of a new kind of religion—one that makes a man hang his head in company when he has used another man's salary.

I propose, if the entrance fee is collected as above indicated, and the advertisement comes "as a gracious gift" to go before the people on the above set of principles.

I shall insist on joint debates with candidates for the same or any other office.

I mean to be consistent and true to my party and the Republicans. I shall not accuse my party associates with any of the evil legislation complained of.

I am not of the turkey buzzard breed that befouls its own nest. And, if in any joint debate any man who calls himself a Democrat charges that any gentleman of the Democratic persuasion had ought to do, whether as lawmaker, constitution maker or rate maker, in bringing about the deplorable conditions in our State, I'll tell him:

You ought to be ashamed of yourself.

I'll be the only candidate who can consistently tell the truth.

That's what the people want.—J. C. Fonville in Montgomery Journal.

Clanton, Feb. 10, 1906.

Mr. Editor:

Say, I've been silent just as long as I can, but when I see such men as J. W. Smith coming over on our side and such prosperous times as we Republicans are having I feel like throwing up my hat and hollowing as long as my throat would hold out. Well, I wouldn't be surprised at anything that happens these days. Every time I get my Union I look to see who's come over, as the Democrats are leaving their party like it was a sinking vessel. But come on, Democrats. We have a broad and liberal organization, and we'll do you good, and I know you'll feel better when you get that load of incompetency and sin (called Democracy) off your shoulders. But you can't all have office this time, but your time will come if you will just be good and observe the covenant. You all know I've got to have an office this time. I just can't wait any longer, and I promise you this: That if you give me an office that when the time comes for me to make way for another man, I'll stay with you and vote for him. Oh, I was made proud the other day. I felt like it was a great blessing to be a citizen of Alabama and have such great men in Congress and the Senate. I got three papers of flower seeds fresh from Washington. I tell you, I like to have yelled right out at the postoffice, hurrahing for such grand men in Congress. I don't believe there is another State that has such great men to represent it, for there is hardly a spring ever passes without them sending us some seeds as a token of gratitude to us for putting them where they could draw such nice money. I say hurrah for the Democrats for not letting any one run against our grand old men. Let's keep them there so we can get free seeds. Say, do you know that Clanton gets more like New York every day? "It's just the same, only different." When I look down the street at the new hotels, brick store house and new residences I say to myself, "B'gosh, if we can just keep these Democrats out of office for the next six years we'll all be so rich that it won't make any difference if they do get in and reopen their soup houses and start their tramps again." I'm really getting sorry for the Democrats that are left. I believe if I was in their place I'd go South with Sam Adams and Aiken Mims, and be in a hurry about it, for by the time B. B. Comer gets through with them there won't be enough of them left to take advantage of the cheap rates he'll make. Say, didn't some folks look sour when Comer was speaking here and hitting the railroads so hard, and didn't he score the Democratic party for making laws for the railroads and against the people. I wonder how the committeeman from this county voted on that railroad plan? I see one fellow has contributed $5 to the banner. Of course he doesn't expect to represent this county in the Legislature, coming from the company he keeps. No, brother; you must consult the people in this county. We common folks have something to do with electing the legislators from this county. Of course, we can't get in these caucuses where the railroad lawyers fix up plans to beat the people out, but when the election comes on we'll be there, whether the man we elect sends us garden seed or not. Say, how about our special school tax election? I've been looking for Congressman Bowie to come back here and speak for the tax, and that this would be one time when he wouldn't have to bring his nigger pictures, or talk about Roosevelt and Booker Washington, or what happened two or three generations back. I'd like to hear Bowie speak one time, and see what he would say when he left all that rubbish out. Where are the teachers of Chilton? Wake up, Pops and Republicans; let's not wait on the Democratic remnant (they are too slow in a fair election; they couldn't catch a cold going through an ice factory); let's have a good vote and make the corporations help educate our children. The next time I write I'll have something to say about the advantages we Clanton people have that you folks haven't got. Respectfully,

JUST A VOTER.

BEARDEN-LOVELADY.

On Wednesday, January 31, 1906, at 11 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parent Mr. B. L. Bearden and Miss Dollie Lovelady were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. Rev. R. M. Honeycutt tied the nuptial knot. Miss Lovelady was handsomely gowned in blue, and Mr. Bearden wore the conventional black. The bride is a well-known and charming young lady, and the groom is a well-known young man of our community. We wish them a long and most prosperous life.

"BIRD."

PLEASANT GROVE.

Editor Union:

Please allow me space in your columns to say a few words in regard to this community. The health of our community is good. We are having some beautiful weather for February. All the spring flowers are in full bloom. Our school is progressing nicely under the skillful management of Prof. D. L. Cooper. The farmers of this community are very busy preparing for their new crops. Our Sabbath school is progressing nicely. Rev. J. H. Thomas filled his regular appointment here on the fourth Sunday. G. A. Dawson's new house is now ready for him to move in. C. Cost is adding some improvements to his home. J. A. Wright is having a new house built down near his father's, Mr. J. W. Wright. J. A. Cobb, who has been in Bessemer for some time, was at home visiting his parents last week. Miss Mollie Cobb is visiting friends in Coosa county. We hope she will have a grand time. W. E. Thomas is talking of moving to Talladega, where he will put up a saw mill. D. C. Hubbard, of Jemison, has moved down to the W. E. Thomas place, and will open up his new stock of goods in a few days. If you would like to know the name of his store and will listen I will try to tell you.

We have nicknamed it "Old Glory,"
As it floats upon the breeze,
Rich in legend, song and story,
On the land and on the seas,
Far above the shining river,
Over mountains, glen and glade,
With a flame that lives forever,
Streams the union Betsey made.
Years have passed, but still in Glory, with a pride we love to see
Laureled with a nation's glory,
Waves the emblem of the free,
From the rugged pines of Northland
To the deep'ning everglade,
In the sunny heart of Southland,
Floats the Union with its made.

Success to The Union and its many readers. "GREEN HORN."

MARS HILL.

Editor Union:

Please allow me a few lines. Guano hauling seems to be the order of the day, and of course it is being taken from the cars by the farmers, ordered by the business agents of the different unions of the F. E. & C. U. of A., and oh, how proud it makes me feel to see so many of our members who have got stickability enough about them to stick to the union in buying fertilizer through the union regardless of price. I can see by being out among the farmers of the different communities that they are more determined to win that they ever have been before. There is only one way to win in anything, and that is to go, take hold and stay at your post, regardless of anything. You who have not bought your fertilizer, do not hesitate one moment, but go and order your guano through the union and save that filler which is generally sold in all other fertilizers. You may not make a great deal of actual money at present by buying the union guano, but look at the different companies selling down very low. Can't you see through that? It is only to undersell the union, and they think possibly the people will buy from them and thereby tear down the union trade, but, brother, stand firm, buy strictly through your union or not at all. Let us show those who said the farmers could organize, but would never stick, that there is actually some reality in the hearts and actions of the farmers this time. Our community is getting along finely. Mr. Morgan Scott and Miss Bettie Gothard eloped from this settlement a few days ago and went to Centerville, Bibb county, and were married by the Probate Judge. We all wish them a long, happy and prosperous life together. Mr. J. D. Terry's little child was badly burned last week, which resulted in its death. The good book says, "Suffer little children to come unto me, for of such is the kingdom of heaven." Mrs. Mattie Johnson's son, Monroe, has had a cancer taken out of his leg. His father died with cancer some time ago. We hope for his speedy recovery. I was glad to hear from our county lecturer through the columns of The Union. I say hurrah for Bro. Elland. Hoping to meet a good crowd of F. E. & C. U. of A. members at Clanton at the State meeting, I remain, yours in unionism,

G. W. SCOTT.

EAST BESSIE.

Mr. Editor:

Please allow me a little space in your valuable paper. Well, boys, it ain't but nine more days till we will get the chance to vote in behalf of the school tax. Let's put on our studying cap for the next nine days and vote for the school tax law. I believe it will be to the advantage of the children of Chilton county in getting an education, and that is what we want. Mr. J. D. H. Terry's 17-months-old baby got burned to death. He caught fire on the 5th of February and lived until 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, when the good Lord saw fit to take him out of his misery and put in a place of joy and happiness. The community of Freeman's school house met and organized a Sunday school on last Sunday evening, and had a fine turnout for the first time. So, Mr. Editor, I will leave and come again.

"BRIGHT STAR."

SARDIS.

Sabbath school here is progressing nicely. Farmers are hustling around preparing for another crop. We're sorry to say Mrs. John Klinner is very sick. Miss Minnie Klinner and John Bowden visited Mrs. Maggie Williams at Pletcher Sunday. Miss Thuley Seales, of Maplesville, is spending a few days with her brother and friends here. Our lovely friend, Miss Jessie Magee, was in Clanton Saturday. Monroe Patrick, of Perry county, is visiting his brother-in-law, W. M. Poole. Homer Ratliff visited his nephew, Alonzo Poole, Saturday night. We are glad to say Newton Walker has returned home. Miss Sadie Deason will soon be ready for college. She is now a pupil of Prof. Bone. Miss Everett Ratliff spent Thursday and Friday with her sister, Mrs. Susie Roper. Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Ratliff visited their daughter, Mrs. Eulah Seales, at Maplesville last week. As I am a new subscriber I won't stay too long this first time.

NOBODY'S DARLING.

(This letter never reached Clanton until Thursday, too late for publication last week.—Editor Union.)

LOMAX.

Editor Union:

Our farmers are busy preparing for another crop. Mr. and Mrs. Teel's little babe is very sick, but we hope for its speedy recovery. J. A. Ekblad, the Thorsby baker, was in our burg Friday. Dave Teel left for his home in Chambers county Sunday. He has been visiting relatives here. W. A. Jackson returned Monday from a visit to his son in Shelby county. Little Miss Gertie Hannibal visited Thorsby Saturday. A. E. Teel went to Bethel Sunday. F. J. Parker visited his son in Birmingham Saturday. W. M. Lodge had the misfortune to lose his barn and outbuildings with the contents by fire Saturday night. The fire originated in the crib on the east side of the lot, and with the brisk wind blowing soon destroyed the other buildings. The loss was 200 bushels of corn, 2,000 bundles of fodder, a lot of cotton seed and all his farming tools. No insurance. Mr. and Mrs. Henley have a new boarder—it's a boy. Mr. Henley is a member of the Lomax Lumber Co. and a professional log roller. Mrs. Lizzie Mitchell, of Wylam, Ala., will preach at Bethany church on the next fourth Sunday at 11 a. m. (the church is 2 miles east of Lomax.) Mrs. Mitchell is a good speaker and any one who would like to hear the gospel preached in its fullness should attend this service. We hear that W. T. Aldridge and J. H. Jackson are going to put in a new saw mill about 1 1-2 miles east of Lomax on Mr. Rogers' land. The Lomax mill is shipping a lot of lumber, and all business is good here. Groceries coming in by car load lots. We were glad to hear from J. H. Lundy, of Oklahoma, through THE UNION. Come again, Mr. Lundy. Success to you and your readers.

OBSERVER.

Pure Water Prevents Fevers.

DRILLED WELLS FURNISH PURE WATER

We guarantee water or no charge made. Estimates given. Address

L. E. SARBER CO.

Thorsby, Alabama

J. E. Littlejohn

Clanton, Alabama.

General Merchandise, Corn, Hay, etc.

SHOES

The most for the money in town. Come and see and we will do you good. :-: :-: :-: :-:

CEDAR GROVE.

Editor Union:

A few items from this part of the county. Miss Lee Robinson is teaching a music school in the U. N. I. building and we wish her good success. Farmers are making use of this pretty weather. There is some talk of building a new fence around Cedar Grove cemetery. The sooner the better, say we. Jess Hayes and Alf Collins went to Clanton Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Foshee spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. Price's family. J. P. Barrett was in Birmingham last week. Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Riggins spent Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Riggins. J. R., W. L., A. H. and John Collins and R. W. Scott were at the county seat Friday. Success to THE UNION, the only paper that represents the people of Chilton county.

UNION READER.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

Editor Union:

Health of community good and farmers busy preparing for the coming crop. Our S. S. is still improving. Rev. W. P. Lowery is on a visit to his old home in Coosa county and organizing F. E. and C. U. of A. locals. We wish him much success in his good work. A number of our people attended preaching at New Salem Sunday and among them we noticed several smiling very pleasantly, for instance, R. W. L. and Z. L. Every one enjoyed themselves and heard a good sermon by Rev. S. Smitherman. The singing at J. Wiley Foshee's Sunday night was well attended and proved a great success. J. C. Maddox, of Liberty, was a visitor in these parts Sunday. We were all pleased to see Mr. J. Wiley Smith's letter in the last UNION. That's right, boys. Come over on the Lord's side. Best wishes to our UNION.

JUST A SUBSCRIBER.

THORSBY.

The Norwegian Ladies' Aid Society met with Mrs. Dyrhovd on the 6th. Two excursionists arrived from Hancock, Mich., last week. Mr. T. T. Thorson arrived with a number of excursionists on the 14th. Mr. Altman's family has arrived from Pennsylvania. Mr. G. Berlin is entertaining his brother-in-law from Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Burr Anderson, who have spent the past three months in Thorsby doing photographic work, left for the south on the 10th. During their visit in Thorsby they made numerous friends who regretted to see them leave. Mr. T. Bosworth has moved into the home in Strasburg which he recently purchased from Mr. D. Gentry. Misses Gallager and Fay spent Saturday and Sunday at their homes in Montgomery. Rev. Beal was a Thorsby visitor last week. William Walker, of Maplesville, was in Thorsby on the 10th and 12th. Monroe Sorrels, of Birmingham, is spending a three weeks' vacation with his parents. Berrel Burnett, of Clanton, was seen in town during the past week. Many Clanton ladies have been patronizing our florists lately. Mr. Brandt's brother-in-law and friend, who have been visiting with him for the past few weeks, returned to the north on the 13th. The friends that Mrs. Rude made while visiting in Thorsby this winter will regret to learn that she passed away at her home in North Dakota a short time ago. Miss Irma Ericson entertained the Sunshine Society on Tuesday. The health of our comunity is good and this fine weather finds everybody at work in their orchards and fields.

NEMO.

DEATH OF W. B. SMITH.

Last night at 10:30 at the South hotel occurred the death of Mr. W. Smith. He had been sick for seve months with a complication of eases and was brought to Selma a ten days ago in the hopes that be care would prolong his life. He merly lived in Selma and with father, Dr. M. S. Smith, conducte drug store in the eastern part of city. About four years ago he mo to Dixie, Alabama, where he ha sided up to the time of his death

Mr. Smith was 31 years of age few years ago he married Miss S and to them were born two child His wife and one child survive h As a young man in Selma the ceased had many friends and th with her own friends deeply sym thize with the bereaved wife mother.

The deceased was a member of Catholic church of this city and funeral took place from that chu this afternoon at 3 o'clock. He a loving husband and devoted fa and was liberal and charitable.—S ma Journal Feb. 8, 1906.

Mr. Smith was one of Chilton co ty's popular merchants and had a l of friends throughout the state deeply sympathize with his bereav wife and relatives.

We suffer the loss of a good citi friend and co-operator in the welf of his country.

A FRIEND.

Guide and Illustrations of the City New York, Free.

Any of our readers who anticip taking a trip to New York city doubtlessly be glad to know that t may obtain a guide and post book the city of New York by applying Mr. Edward R. Swett, 1703 Bro way, New York city.

The Guide contains specific infor tion of all the points of interest, in the great metropolis; while post book contains handsome half-t illustrations of the many beauti buildings, sky scrapers, etc., and fine collection of views of Cen Park.

The Guide and Post Book will mailed free upon application to Swett.

The State of Alabama, Chilton Co ty. Probate Court, February 1906.

In the Matter of the Estate of H. Wilson, Deceased.

Letters of Administration on the tate of H. A. Wilson, Deceased, hav been granted to the undersigned the 6th day of November, 1905, by Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Judge of P bate of said County, notice is her given that all persons having cla against said estate are hereby quired to present the same within time allowed by law, or the same be barred.

T. C. MARCUS, Administrato

feb15-06-3w

FOR SALE!

Fine lot of barred Pl mouth Rock cockerels a pullets, 75c and $1.00 ea Brown Leghorn cockere $1.00 each. Brown Legho eggs, $1.00 per setting. full blood. P. C. SMITH, tf. Thorsby, A

BUSINESS PROPOSITIO

The best whiskey in t country is here. If y don't believe it, try me. J. M. COLLINS, Palace Saloon, Calera, A tf

NOTICE.

I hereby appoint the 4th Sat in each month as my regular day hearing civil causes at my re in beat 2, Chilton Co. Deeds, m gages and papers of all kinds c ly and legibly made out.

J. A. CADDELL, Notary Public & Ex-off. J. tf

AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

Circuit Court.
Term—Third Monday in May.
Term—Fourth Monday in N

—S. L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
—W. B. Bowling, Dadeville.
—Sam W. Collins.

Chancery Court.
Term—Second Monday in
Term—Second Monday in Sep

eller—Hon. W. W. Whitesides.
er—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan

County Court.
Monday in each month.

Commissioners' Court.
d Monday February, first Mon
il, first Monday June, second July, second Monday August,
nday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.
of Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
rer—W. T. Callen.
f—J. M. Morgan.
ter—W. M. Adams.
Assessor—L. B. Pounds.
Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.
District—W. H. Conway.
d District—Alex Glasscock.
District—R. P. Kendrick.
h District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.
J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyer.
R. Dahl, Calera.

State Senator.
W. R. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.

ATTENTION!

ors and clerks that wish their notices to appear in THE N will please send them in to ffice by March 10, 1906, when w and correct list will appear.

y Mount M. E. Church—Rev. arroll, pastor, 2nd Sunday. Song every 2nd and 4th Sunday ni s. Prayer meeting every Wed night.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.
Masonic.

ton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—Saturday, Clanton.

ndo Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No Fourth Saturday, Cooper.

nton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No First Saturday, Clanton.

ary Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No First Saturday, Billingsley.

man Lodge, A. F. and A. M., 34—Saturday on or before full Marbury.

ison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No Saturday on or before full moon, on.

nton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No Tuesday on or before full moon, on.

I. O. O. F.

ison Lodge—First and third Sat.

nton Lodge, No. 304—Second and Saturdays.

Woodmen of the World.

k Jack Camp, No. 130—First and Mondays.

I. O. R. M.

ocmus Tribe, No. 90—First and Mondays sleep. Visiting chiefs ly invited. E. B. Langston, C. J. H. Patton, Sachem.

L. M. P. A.

ton Lodge, of Thorsby—Second ourth Saturdays.

events Fevers.

RNISH PURE WATE

or no charge made.
tress

BER CO.

Alaba

ttlejohn

labama.

e, Corn, Hay, etc.

DES

in town. Come and see

DEATH OF W. B. SMITH.

Last night at 10:30 at the South
hotel occurred the death of Mr. W.
Smith. He had been sick for seve months with a complication of eases and was brought to Selma ab en days ago in the hopes that be care would prolong his life. He merly lived in Selma and with ather, Dr. M. S. Smith, conducted drug store in the eastern part of t
ity. About four years ago he mov o Dixie, Alabama, where he has ided up to the time of his death
Mr. Smith was 31 years of age.
ew years ago he married Miss Sa nd to them were born two childre
His wife and one child survive hi
As a young man in Selma the ceased had many friends and the with her own friends deeply symp thize with the bereaved wife a nother.

The deceased was a member of t
Catholic church of this city and uneral took place from that edifi his afternoon at 3 o'clock. He w loving husband and devoted fath nd was liberal and charitable.—S na Journal Feb. 8, 1906.

Mr. Smith was one of Chilton cou y's popular merchants and had a h f friends throughout the state w eeply sympathize with his bereav wife and relatives.

We suffer the loss of a good citiz riend and co-operator in the welf
f his country.

A FRIEND

Guide and Illustrations of the City
New York, Free.

Any of our readers who anticip aking a trip to New York city w oubtlessly be glad to know that th nay obtain a guide and post book he city of New York by applying
Mr. Edward R. Swett, 1703 Bro way, New York city.

The Guide contains specific infor ion of all the points of interest, e n the great metropolis; while ost book contains handsome half-t llustrations of the many beauti uildings, sky scrapers, etc., and ine collection of views of Cent Park.

The Guide and Post Book will ailed free upon application to M wett.

The State of Alabama, Chilton Co
ty. Probate Court, February 1906.

n the Matter of the Estate of H.
Wilson, Deceased.

Letters of Administration on the ate of H. A. Wilson, Deceased, hav een granted to the undersigned he 8th day of November, 1905, by ion. L. H. Reynolds, Judge of P ate of said County, notice is her iven that all persons having cla gainst said estate are hereby uired to present the same within ime allowed by law, or the same e barred.

T. C. MARCUS,
Administrato

feb15-06-3w

FOR SALE!

Fine lot of barred P
nouth Rock cockerels a ullets, 75c and $1.00 e
Brown Leghorn cockere
1.00 each. Brown Legho ggs, $1.00 per setting.
ull blood. P. C. SMITH,
f. Thorsby, A

BUSINESS PROPOSITIO

The best whiskey in t ountry is here. If y
on't believe it, try me.
J. M. COLLINS,
Palace Saloon, Calera, A
tf.

NOTICE.

I hereby appoint the 4th Sat
each month as my regular day earing civil causes at my re
Beat 2, Chilton Co. Deeds, ages and papers of all kinds and legibly made out.

J. A. CADDELL,
Notary Public & Ex-off. J.
tf

...TY AND COUNTY OFFICIALS.

Circuit Court.
...g Term—Third Monday in May.
...Term—Fourth Monday in No
...r.
...—S. L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
...ctor—W. B. Bowling, Dadeville.
...—Sam W. Collins.

Chancery Court.
...g Term—Second Monday in
...Term—Second Monday in Sep
...r.
...cellor—Hon. W. W. Whiteside
...ister—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan

County Court.
...Monday in each month.

Commissioners' Court.
...ed Monday February, first Mon
...April, first Monday June, second
...y July, second Monday August,
...Monday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.
...e of Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
...surer—W. T. Callen.
...rk—J. M. Morgan.
...itor—W. M. Adams.
...Assessor—L. B. Pounds.
...Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.
...t District—W. H. Conway.
...d District—Alex Glasscock.
...d District—R. P. Kendrick.
...th District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.
J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor.
...R. Dahl, Calera.

State Senator.
...W. R. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.

...ky Mount M. E. Church—Rev.
...Carroll, pastor, 2nd Sunday. Song
...e every 2nd and 4th Sunday at
...ns. Prayer meeting every Wed
...y night.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

Masonic.

...ton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—
...Saturday, Clanton.

...ade Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
...Fourth Saturday, Cooper.

...ton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
...First Saturday, Clanton.

...tury Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
...First Saturday, Billingsley.

...man Lodge, A. F. and A. M.,
...34—Saturday on or before full
..., Marbury.

...nson Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
...Saturday on or before full moon,
...on.

...nton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
...Tuesday on or before full moon,
...ton.

I. O. O. F.

...nson Lodge—First and third Sat
...s.

...nton Lodge, No. 304—Second and
...h Saturdays.

Woodmen of the World.

...k Jack Camp, No. 130—First and ...Mondays.

I. C. R. M.

...rmore Tribe, No. 90—First and
...Mondays sleep. Visiting chiefs
...lly invited. E. B. Langston, C.
...; J. H. Patton, Sachem.

L. M. P. A.

...reka Lodge, of Thorsby—Second
...fourth Saturdays.

ATTENTION!

...tors and clerks that wish their
...h notices to appear in THE
...ON will please send them in to
...office by March 10, 1906, when
...ew and correct list will appear.

CLANTON COTTON MARKET.

Total receipts to Feb. 14, '06, 6,085.
Price same date, 10 5-8c.
Receipts same time, 1905, 6,143.
Price same date, 7 1-4c.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

All road overseers in beat 9 who wish to have their list of hands renewed will please meet the apportioners at Thorsby at 10 a. m. on Saturday, February 17, 1906.

Lee Vickers, J. R. Collins and R. W. Scott were in Clanton Friday.

W. L. and Frank Collins and M. L. Giles were in town Friday.

G. W. Wilson was a Clanton visitor Friday.

W. T. Mahan was in town Friday.

J. A. Mims was a pleasant visitor Friday. He tells of an interesting experiment he made with oats last year. On second bottom land March 2d he sowed two acres in Texas rust-proof oats, one acre was treated to 20 bushels of rotted cotton seed and yielded 46 1-2 dozen large bundles; the other acre without any fertilizer produced 20 dozen. After cutting his oats Mr. Mims sowed the fertilized acre with a bushel of peas and 1-2 bushel of Golden Dent corn, and got over 3,000 pounds of hay off it.

Walter and Fate Popwell were in Clanton Friday.

R. A. Hancock was a pleasant visitor Saturday.

J. A. Caddell will be carrier and J. A. Champion substitute on R. F. D. No. 4 from Jemison.

R. F. D. No. 1 from Mt. Creek will have Sam Cpipepper as carrier and Mary B. Culpepper as substitute.

J. M. Burnett was a welcome caller Saturday.

C. W. Langston was a pleasant visitor Saturday.

Will G. Culp and J. Wiley Foshee were in Clanton Saturday.

W. T. Wells was a welcome caller Saturday.

W. D. Z. Foshee and J. M. Littlejohn were in town Saturday.

W. C. Dickinson was a jolly caller Saturday.

F. M. Littlejohn was a pleasant visitor Saturday.

Noah Littlejohn was in Clanton Saturday.

L. F. Williams was a welcome caller Saturday.

I. B. Martin, Chas. L. Glasscock, J. W. Martin, Clayton Glasscock, T. S. Martin and J. W. Braseley were visitors in town Monday.

Anderson Baker, Sr., and Thomas J. Jones were pleasant visitors Monday. Bro. Baker carries his years lightly and holds to his political opinions as firmly as any man in our wide country.

J. A., . M., A. J., C. L. and Edgar Davis were in Clanton Monday.

M. F. Lett was a pleasant visitor Monday. Bro. Lett says he quit the Omaha Grocery Co. when he found out that they would not deliver the bulk goods ordered. Now he sticks to the F. E. and C. U. of A.

J. H. Burkhalter, M. C. Williams and J. H. Williams were entertaining callers Monday.

T. C. Marcus was in Clanton Monday. He is administrator of the estate of the late Judge H. A. Wilson, of Lomax.

Street Commissioner Potts and two laborers spent Friday fixing up the sidewalk in front of Dr. E. A. Matthews' residence, making quite a difference in the looks of the street.

John W. Foshee left Wednesday for a visit to R. B. Edwards, his brother-in-law, at Dallas, Miss.; he will also visit Pine Bluff, Ark., while away, which will be about a month. May he have a good time and also get some subscribers to THE UNION.

J. H. Cox was a pleasant visitor Tuesday.

T. H. Williams, of South Alabama, who is visiting home folks in beat 1, was in Clanton Tuesday. He says his brother, Forrest, has been mighty bad with rheumatism, but is getting better slowly.

Carey Hubbard went to Montgomery Monday and bought a fine span of mules.

Judge Reynolds went up to Jemison Tuesday night.

One or two warm days makes our good ladies' thoughts turn to their flower gardens. Several were planning new beauties in their front yards this week, but they really ought to use a chalk line to lay out the beds.

James E. Norman, who has been confined in the Montgomery jail since his sentence at our last court, pending the result of his apeal to the supreme court, and which was refused by that body, was taken to Sanford Monday and began serving his sentence of 15 years in the lumber camp of the Henderson-Boyd Lumber Co.

W. A. Reynolds, of Jemison, was in Calera Monday. He says all those mules and mares are gone that he had for sale, but that he expects another big lot of choice animals at Clanton very shortly.

Ben Robinson, of beat 1, went to Birmingham Wednesday on business.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

E. C. Hayes and Miss Mealie Maddox. W. M. Walker and Miss Virginia L. Harris. A. J. Easterling and Miss Mary E. Bice. J. F. Devaughan and Miss Mayme Williams.

COLORED.

Macadory Gulledge and Cora Stanton. Jas. A. Samuels and Catherine Evans. Will Jackson and Emma Ford. Ben Williams and Lily Peoples.

List of election officers appointed to hold and conduct the special election at the several voting places in Chilton county, Alabama, on the 20th day of February, 1906, for the purpose of voting for and against the levying of a special school tax, in said county.

Beat One—W. L. Honeycutt, B. P. Martin and Mord Robinson, inspectors; T. J. Dorminey and H. C. Young, clerks; Green Retherford, returning officer.

Beat Two, Box 1—W. H. Shaw, Job Reynolds, E. M. Daniels, inspectors; W. G. Conway and J. B. Wiggins, clerks; James Cobb, returning officer.

Beat Two, Box 2—C. L. Langston, G. W. Shaw and A. J. Atkinson, inspectors; D. L. Langston and C. L. Glasscock, clerks; E. H. Lowe, returning officer.

Beat Three, Box 1—Y. O. Freeman, Monroe Nix and A. Patterson, inspectors; J. C. Veazey and Monroe Hubbard, clerks; W. D. Nix, returning officer.

Beat Three, Box 2—R. J. Williams, T. J. Lenoir and A. S. Jones, inspectors; W. F. DeShazo and S. K. Rasberry, clerks; Lee Hayes, returning officer.

Beat Four—E. H. Parish, J. Wiley Littlejohn and J. P. VanDerVeer, inspectors; N. A. Kicker, J. Watts Moore, clerks; J. M. Morgan, sheriff, returning officer.

Beat Five—W. H. Strock, J. T. Noris and J. A. Mitchell, inspectors; J. M. Calloway, C. A. Pyron, clerks; T. J. Traywick, returning officer.

Beat Six—W. L. Popwell, W. C. Dickinson and G. W. Edwards, inspectors; R. F. Atkinson, M. F. Lett, clerks; R. L. Williams, returning officer.

Beat Seven, Box 1—J. J. Letcher, W. Y. Nix and T. U. Crumpton, inspectors; S. B. McCary, W. J. Atchison, clerks; D. C. Cooley, returning officer.

Beat Seven, Box 2—Noah Latham, J. N. Gentry, J. J. Hicks, inspectors; J. H. Green, Arthur Latham, clerks; J. N. Moore, returning officer.

Beat Eight, Box 1—F. J. Fitts, W. C. Dyer, and L. L. Lester, inspectors; W. M. Price, T. G. Milling, clerks; P. D. Parnell, returning officer.

Beat Eight, Box 2—J. T. Chambers, W. T. Kemp and J. R. Rucker, inspectors; S. B. Ratliff, D. M. Apperson, clerks; M. F. Bridges, returning officer.

Beat Nine—T. G. Williams, J. W. Hayes and J. R. Billingsley, inspectors; J. D. Collins, A. Z. Bean, clerks; R. H. Bean, returning officer.

Beat Ten—J. M. Grant, J. W. Dennis and Riley Robinson, inspectors; J. N. Dennis and L. A. Calloway, clerks; J. M. Curlee, returning officer.

Beat Eleven—W. T. Mahan, W. S. Cox, John Gore, inspectors; M. A. Killgore, G. W. Pate, clerks; J. H. Gore, returning officer.

NOTICE.

Cooper, Ala., Dec. 30, 1905.

The books and accounts of A. G. Clark & Son are in my hands for collection. All parties interested will please come at once and settle and save time and trouble.

J. J. M'DOWELL,
tf Justice Peace, Beat 10.

COUNTY COURT.

Hold first Monday in each month. All interested will pleased take notice that the court will open at 9:30 a. m. sharp.

L. H. REYNOLDS,
Judge of County Court,
tf Chilton County, Ala.

ABOUT CANDIDATES.

All letters praising any particular candidate by name will have to be paid for at the rate of 1-2 cent per word. The UNION will publish free all matter relating to the general welfare and prospects of the party of the People. tf

SPECIAL OFFER! !

The Union, Weekly Montgomery Advertiser, and a great white and black map of Alabama, United States and world, three in one, with a picture of every president from Washington to Roosevelt, all for $1.50.

A NEW DISCOVERY.

A great improvement, the Dixie Liver Regulator, does not gripe nor sicken, and cures Constipation, Heartburn, Vertigo, Dyspepsia, Kidney troubles and Lazy Liver. For sale by all Dealers and by Shelby Drug Co., Calera, Ala. tf

FOR SALE OR RENT!

Land for sale, or to rent. One, two, three and four horse farms; two miles north of Jemison. Call on or address,

J. C. DUBOSE,
tf. Jemison, Ala.

NOTICE.

Blank Deeds, Mortgages, and all official forms for Justices of the Peace, etc., for sale at The Union Office. Only best approved forms are used. Come in and give us your order tf

A New York man is seeking a divorce from his wife because she is in the habit of tickling his feet with a feather when he is asleep, relates the Nashville American. She is willing that he shall have the divorce, because he nearly choked the life out of her for tickling his feet. He is an old fool; she is a young one. Let the divorce be granted.

There have been within the last month an astonishing number of railway crashes involving a very considerable loss of life and property, states the Philadelphia Record. Some of the wrecks were brought about by murderous design, but they were in the main due to preventable causes. At the bottom is the fact that nearly all the railroads of the country have more business than carrying equipment. They are overtasked.

There is at least one particular bright spot in the dun register of crime, declares the Columbia State. Lynching has decreased. We send fewer persons out of the world by that sort of violence, by that species of murder, than we have done since 1885. There were only sixty-six lynchings in this country last year; but it is terrible for us of the South to learn that of these sixty-six brutal crimes, sixty-five—all but one—were committed in the Southern States. Of the sixty-five lynchings in the South, all were negroes. But this horrible crime is becoming less and less frequent. The South is becoming ashamed of it, and is finding that its laws can be depended on to punish the guilty and, if strictly enforced, to protect the innocent.

To-day it is computed that there are in the United States no fewer than seventy estates that average in value $35,000,000 each, states Harper's Weekly. There are ten private fortunes aggregating $2,000,000,000—those, namely, of John D. Rockefeller, Andrew Carnegie, Marshall Field, W. K. Vanderbilt, John Jacob Astor, J. P. Morgan, Russell Sage, J. J. Hill, Senator W. A. Clark and William Rockefeller. There are 400 fortunes aggregating $3,000,000,000, and 4500 aggregating $10,000,000,000. Five thousand men in this country, whose aggregate wealth is estimated at $15,000,000,000, actually own, to say nothing of how much they control, nearly one-sixth of our entire national wealth in money, land, mines, buildings, industries, franchises and everything else of value; which sixth, if put into gold, would give them all of the yellow metal above ground in the world and leave more than $9,000,000,000 still owing them.

A writer in the New York Sun says: Once I took pride in every young American I saw. Once "Young America" stood for manliness and independence. Now, at least in the city of New York, he stands for what he can get. I reach this conclusion by several routes, the latest of which was at a theatre the other night. The house was crowded and we had seats in the balcony. Downstairs an usher told us we could get programs upstairs. We could not, and the man with me asked an usher for a program. The young man, quite a nice looking young fellow of eighteen or twenty, he was, too, came presently with the program, and instead of performing the service as a matter of courtesy he stood waiting for his tip. I felt as I looked at him, servilely standing with his hand out, that instead of thanking him for the service as gentleman to gentleman we might have kicked him downstairs, and he would have considered it no indignity so long as he had received his tip. In spirit he was a mere creature that served his betters, and so long as they tipped him any additional treatment would have been received gratefully. Bah! The spirit of such young men is a shame and disgrace to our whole country. What is the cause, and is there no remedy? What are our men of the future to be if our youth are thus educated?

Under the new California marriage certificate law the couple must swear that they are not insane.

Watson's Magazine
Increase in Price

Beginning with the February (1906) Number, our Magazine will be called WATSON'S MAGAZINE. It will have a handsomer cover. Several new features will be added. The price at bookstores and newsstands will be 15 cents.

To be just to our present subscribers, we have decided to receive renewals and new subscriptions at $1.00 a year up to March 31st, 1906. After that the subscription price will be $1.50 per year.

This is a golden opportunity for those who are not within easy reach of newsstands. If you have never seen the magazine, ask for sample copy, mentioning this paper and address

TOM WATSON'S MAGAZINE,
tf. 121 West 42d st., New York City.

Store Your Cotton
WITH
MULLINS & DOWNS
Planters Warehouse
Clanton, - Alabama.
Robidoux Scales. Best in the World.

Wouldn't You Like
BETTER WHISKIES FOR LESS MONEY?
than the kind youvl been getting? Then send your orders to us

THE BIG MAIL ORDER HOUSE

The house that sells nothing but the purest goods and guarantees every article it sells. If it's drugs or whiskies you want

WE CUT THE PRICE,

	Our Price.	Regular Price
Shehan's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50	75
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60	1 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65	1 00
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75	1 00
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75	1 00
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	1 25
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00	1 50
Stewart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	2 00
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84	1 50
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1 50
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1 50
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1 50
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00	1 50
Wilson Whiskey	85	1 50
J. M. Atherton bottled in bond	1 00	1 50
Mammoth Cave bottled in bond	1 25	1 75
Old Jordon bottled in bond	1 50	2 00
Green River, the whiskey without a headache	1 00	1 25
Old Shades Mountain Corn	50	75
Old Mountain Due Corn	75	1 00
Old Lincoln County	65	1 00
Old Holland Gin	50	75
Old Crown Gin	75	1 00
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	75
California Sherry or Port	50	75

Mellow Old Liquors and Wines by the Gallon in Jugs.

	Per Gallon		Per Gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.00
Old Mountain Due	2.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.50
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.00
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club	2.40
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County	2.50
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.00
Old California Port or Sherry	1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.00

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY,
The Big Cut Rate Drug Store
2012 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Come and Be Pleased.

PRICES AND TERMS upon which we are selling the most beautiful and attractive goods of the season will certainly please and surprise you.

The styles on which fashion has stamped her approval for the coming season are now shown with newest materials.

A Full line of Star Brand Shoes.
Men's and boys' Clothing.
Full line of Gents' Furnishing Goods.
Ladies' and children's Jackets, Skirts and Ready-to-Wear Hats.
Anything you want in Dress Goods, Hardware, Saddlery and Florence Wagons.

J. C. JONES,
Clanton, Alabama.

Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St. THE BIG STORE, Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St.
—is at The Head of The Procession.—
Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Shoes,
FURNITURE,
COFFINS AND BURIAL ROBES.
W. I. MULLINS,
Clanton. Alabama

LABOR WORLD.

The Reading (Pa.) Iron Company employs 2000 hands.

Agricultural laborers in Spain have a union with 3317 members.

The workmen engaged in building operations receive the highest wages.

A strike in the Humble oil field at Houston, Tex., involved about 400 men.

The number of men on the payroll of the railroads of the United States is 1,286,121.

Union funerals will hereafter be demanded by the Funeral Drivers' Union of New York.

It has been officially announced that there would be no strike of the Lackawanna Railroad firemen.

The seventh annual convention of the United Mine Workers of America was held at Indianapolis, Ind.

The Boston Pavers' Union has voted that all members more than sixty years old are exempt from paying dues or assessments.

Organized labor of California is contributing on the basis of five cents per capita to the striking printing trades in Los Angeles.

Gisborne (New Zealand) painters, paperhangers, ginziers, grainers and decorators have been given 1s. 3d. per hour by the Arbitration Court.

State Labor Commissioner Sherman, of New York, in his report to the Legislature, recommends the abolition of the free employment agency in New York City.

At a recent meeting of the San Francisco, Cal., Building Trades Council plans were outlined by the committee appointed for the purpose of a union labor temple.

Latest reports from the headquarters of the International Typographical Union show continued progress in the movement for the establishment of a national eight-hour day in the printing trade.

Indicted For Murder.

Joint indictments for second degree murder were returned at Norfolk, Va., against Dr. Luther R. Chiles and James Franklin in connection with a criminal operation on Miss Atkinson.

Ended His Troubles.

Discouraged at his failure to live down wrongdoing of fifteen years ago, for which he served a jail sentence, Frederick Kimball killed himself at Worcester, Mass.

Germany is gaining on England in the exportation of coal to France.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature on each box. 25c.

Of the 666 female students at the University of Berlin, 483 are Germans.

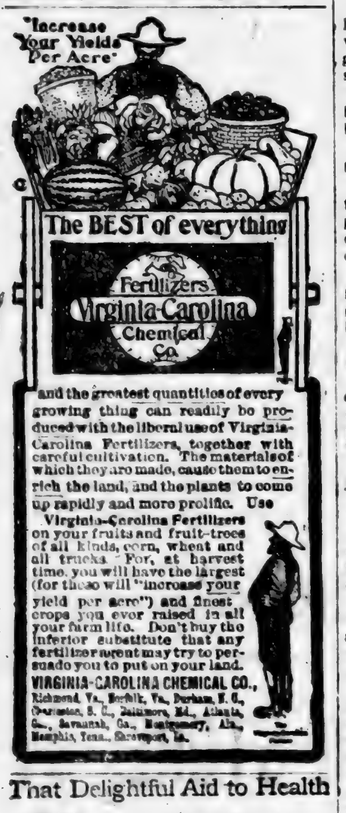
Itch cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion; never fails. Sold by Druggists. Mail orders promptly filled by Dr. Detchon, Crawfordsville, Ind. $1.

England's first spinning wheel to be worked by electricity has been started at Pendlebury.

The greatest plague who brought to London in 1664 in bales of cotton imported from Holland; 100,000 persons succumbed to the disease in one year.

REDUCED RATES

To Mardi Gras New Orleans and Mobile Round-trip tickets will be sold via Queen & Crescent Route at the rate of one fare (plus 25c) for the round trip. Tickets on sale February 21st to 26th inclusive and for trains scheduled to arrive in Mobile or New Orleans on or before noon of the 27th. Final limit March 3rd with privilege of extension until March 17th by deposit of ticket and payment of 50c with joint agent at New Orleans or Mobile. Stopover privileges. For information ask agents, or J. C. Conn, D. P. A., Chattanooga; A. B. Free man, T. P. A., Birmingham, Ala.



That Delightful Aid to Health

Paxtine

Toilet Antiseptic

Whitens the teeth—purifies mouth and breath—cures nasal catarrh, sore throat, sore eyes, and by direct application cures all inflamed, ulcerated and catarrhal conditions caused by feminine ills.

Paxtine possesses extraordinary cleansing, healing and germicidal qualities unlike anything else. At all druggists. 50 cents

LARGE TRIAL PACKAGE FREE

The R. Paxton Co., Boston, Mass.

Home Grown Tea.

"This year 12,000 pounds of choice tea will be shipped from what is, at present, the only tea farm in the western hemisphere," says Freeman Tilden in his article, "Great Chance for Tea Growers," in the February Technical World Magazine. "This farm is at Summerville, S. C. In the face of difficulties that at times seemed insurmountable, but on the other hand with the kindly assistance of the United States government, the Summerville tea farm has grown to a point where it can offer serious competition with the best grades of tea shipped from China, India, Formosa or Java. But, above all, it has been demonstrated that, barring the question of labor, the finest tea can be successully grown at home, and there is nothing that gladdens the heart of an American more than the discovery that he can enter into competition in a field hitherto denied him."

STATE SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The twenty-third annual convention of the Alabama Sunday School Association will be held in the city of Montgomery Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, April 24-26, next. The basis of representation is as follows: All officers of the State Association, five delegates at large from each county, all ministers of the Gospel, the superintendent and two other delegates from each Sunday school.

Application has been made to the railroads for reduced rates, to delegates attending the convention. The delegates will be entertained by the Sunday school workers of Montgomery.

For further information about the State Convention write to Joseph Carthel, General Secretary, or R. O. Blakey, Chairman of the Entertainment Committee, Montgomery, Ala.

Rich Bachelor Girls.

Not a few bachelor girls of New York support expensive establishments for their own use. Miss May Van Alen, for instance, has three private homes which cost her $60,000 a year, and Miss Evleyn Van Wart is said to pay $50,000 for a similar whim, having a fine house in New York city and two others in Europe. Miss Margaret Astor Chanler pays $30,000 a year for the support of her bachelor house in West Seventy-third street, New York. Miss Faith Moore and Miss Olive Trowbridge disburse nearly a like amount. Helen Gould has private establishments which represent an outlay of about $50,000 a year.

DEATH SEEMED NEAR.

How a Chicago Woman Found Help When Hope Was Fast Fading Away.

Mrs. E. T. Gould, 914 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are all that saved me from death by Bright's Disease, that I know. I had eye trouble, backache, catches when lying abed or when bending over, was languid and often dizzy and had sick headaches and bearing down pains. The kidney secretions were too copious and frequent, and very bad in appearance. It was in 1903 that Doan's Kidney Pills helped me so quickly and cured me of these troubles and I've been well ever since."

Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

World's Oldest Industry.

"There are in the Holy Land but few industries, and these of the most primitive kind," says W. G. Fitz-Gerald in his article, "Diving for Salt in the Dead Sea," in the February Technical World Magazine. "The awful desolation of the Dead Sea, however, which lies nearly 1,300 feet below the level of the Mediterranean, is broken here and there by the salt divers, whose work is proably as ancient as the human race itself. From remotest antiquity the salt of the Dead Sea has been collected and brought to the Jerusalem market, where it is used for curing hides and for domestic purposes.

"Dead Sea water contains over 25 per cent of solid substances, of which 7 per cent is chloride or sodium, or common salt. It is chloride of magnesium which gives the water its horribly bitter taste, while the chloride of calcium makes it feel smooth and oily to the touch, so that after the very curious sensation of a bath in the Dead Sea the skin retains an oly sensation.

"The Dead Sea contains no living creature; sea fish put into its waters speedily die. Not a single boat navigates its strange waters, nor is there any sign of life save the isolated parties of salt divers, who scrape and slowly amass their precious glistening heaps of crystal near the mouth of the Jordan.

"When a sufficient cargo is made ready a long string of camels crosses the desert, and the salt is loaded up into panniers or 'shwerries,' and taken into Jerusalem, where it finds a ready market."

Last year Great Britain coined $53,735,893 gold and $3,036,200 silver.

31 Boxes of Gold

300 Boxes of Greenbacks

For the most words made up from these letters

Y - I - O - Grape-Nuts

331 people will earn these prizes.

Around the fireside or about the well-lighted family reading table during the winter evenings the children and grown-ups can play with their wits and see how many words can be made.

20 people making the greatest number of words will each receive a little box containing a $10.00 gold piece.

10 people will each win one box containing a $5.00 gold piece.

300 people will each win a box containing $1.00 in paper money and one person who makes the highest number of words over all contestants will receive a box containing $100.00 in gold.

It is really a most fascinating bit of fun to take up the list evening after evening and see how many words can be added.

A few rules are necessary for absolute fair play.

Any word authorized by Webster's dictionary will be counted, but no name of person. Both the singular and plural can be used, as for instance "grape" and "grapes."

The letters in "Y-I-O-Grape-Nuts" may be repeated in the same word.

Geographical names authorized by Webster will be counted.

Arrange the words in alphabetical classes, all those begining with A together and those beginning with E to come under E, etc.

When you are writing down the words leave some spaces in the A, E, and other columns to fill in later as new words come to you, for they will spring into mind every evening.

It is almost certain that some contestants will tie with others. In such cases a prize identical in value and character with that offered in that class shall be awarded to each. Each one will be requested to send with the list of words a plainly written letter describing the advantages of Grape-Nuts, but the contestant is not required to purchase a pkg. These letters are not to contain poetry, or fancy flourishes, but simple, truthful statements of fact. For illustration: A person may have experienced some incipient or chronic ails traceable to unwise selection of food that failed to give the body and brain the energy, health and power desired. Seeking better conditions a change in food is made and Grape-Nuts and cream used in place of the former diet. Suppose one quits the meat, fried potatoes, starchy, sticky messes of half-cooked oats or wheat and cuts out the coffee. Try, say, for breakfast a bit of fruit, a dish of Grape-Nuts and cream, two soft-boiled eggs, a slice of hard toast and a cup of Postum Food Coffee. Some amateur says: "A man would faint away on that," but my dear friend we will put dollars to your pennies that the noon hour will find a man on our breakfast huskier and with a stronger heart-beat and clearer working brain than he ever had on the old diet.

Suppose, if you have never really made a move for absolutely clean health that pushes you along each day with a spring in your step and a reserve vigor in muscle and brain that makes the doing of things a pleasure, you join the army of "plain old common sense" and start in now. Then after you have been 2 or 3 weeks on the Grape-Nuts training you write a statement of how you used to be and how you are now. The simple facts will interest others and surprise yourself. We never publish names except on permission, but we often tell the facts in the newspapers and when requested give the names by private letter.

There is plenty of time to get personal experience with Grape-Nuts and write a sensible, truthful letter to be sent in the list of words, as the contest does not close until April 30th, 1906. So start in as soon as you like to building words, and start in using Grape-Nuts. Cut this statement out and keep the letters Y-I-O-Grape-Nuts before you and when you write your letter you will have some reason to write on the subject "Why I Owe Grape-Nuts."

Remember 331 persons will win prizes, which will be awarded in an exact and just manner as soon as the list can be counted after April 30th, 1906. Every contestant will be sent a printed list of names and addresses of winners on application in order to have proof that the prizes are sent as agreed. The company is well known all over the world for absolute fidelity to its agreements and every single one of the 331 winners may depend on receiving the prize won.

Many persons might feel it useless to contest, but when one remembers the great number of prizes —(331)—the curiosity of seeing how many words can really be made up evening after evening and the good, natural fun and education in the competition, it seems worth the trial; there is no cost, nothing to lose and a fine opportunity to win one of the many boxes of gold or greenbacks.

We make the prediction that some who win a prize of gold or greenbacks, will also win back health and strength worth more to them than a wagon full of money prizes.

There are no preliminaries, cut out this statement and go at it, and send in the list and letter, before April 30th, 1906, to Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich., and let your name and address be plainly written.

THE EXILE AND THE LEAF.

An exile dwelt amid the sea.
He dwelt within a wind-girt tower,
Upon an isle where grew no tree,
Nor ever grass, nor ever flower.

One sad dawn through the window gray
There came a silent little guest,
There blew a shining leaf of bay,
And fluttered straight into his breast.

"Whence camest thou? Whence camest thou?"
He sobbed. "Dear verdure, didst thou flit
Down hither from God's garden-bough?
O whisper it! O whisper it!

"Or did a brawny sailor stop
Last night for shelter, forward set
With morning, and forgetting drop
The token I may not forget?

"Now was it God or man who brought Thee, little leaf? Though ever thus
I question, thou shalt fill my thought,
And I shall call thee marvellous."

The exile kissed the leaf, and lo!
The barren reef became a bower,
Populous with the long ago,
Balmy with breath of many a flower.

The arch it was of bay and oak;
The floor of fragrant mosses fair;
And sweetest song and laughter broke,
And friendship's face was everywhere.

And intimate forevermore
The leaf was green within his hand,
And memory led him through the door
Unto his boyhood's distant land.

The billows lapped his rocky home,
The wind and raucous gull made weep,
The exile felt nor wind nor foam,
And all the night he smiled in sleep.

A human heart, the storm-girt reef,
And hope the leaf of unknown bough,
That hope which comes to heart of grief,
We know not whence, we know not how.

—Youth's Companion.

"FOR MOTHER'S SAKE."

By Emma Garrison Jones.

"I'm done with him. I've said so, and I'll stand to it. He's disgraced himself and my good name, and I wash my hands of him now and forever."

Mrs. Arnold stood in the cottage doorway, the sweet bloom and verdure of springtime all about her, and listened to her husband's angry words.

"Oh, James," she entreated, "remember he is our son."

"I shall make it my business to forget it from this hour; he is no son of mine!"

"But, James, James, think what the end may be. What if they send him to the State prison?"

"Let him go—he deserves it."

The angry father strode away, a hard, relentless look upon his face.

The mother stood there in the early sunshine, her poor face white with agony, her hands clutched hard together.

She could see the village spires from the cottage porch, and in the village prison her only son lay.

The trouble had come about in this way:

Dick Arnold was confidential clerk in the hardware house of Robinson & Co., at a fair salary. A promising young fellow was Dick, bright, intelligent and as shrewd and clever in business matters as he was genial and winning in his social relations. But his character had its weak points. In the first place he was fond of strong drink; in the second he had not the courage to say "No" when temptations assailed him.

Many a scrape poor Dick was lured into, many a heartache he caused his fond mother, many a reprimand he got from his over-severe father; but he did not mend his ways.

Nevertheless, his employers were fond of him, and trusted him, and winked at his shortcomings.

"He's a fine fellow; he'll get his wild oats in and do better after a while," they said.

One afternon Dick was summoned into Mr. Robinson's private office.

"Here, Dick," said that gentleman, putting a sealed envelope into the young man's hands, "I want you to take this and deliver it to Mr. Selby, in Covington. You know the place?"

"Oh, yes, sir."

"Very well, mind you keep steady on your legs, my boy, and deliver it safely."

Dick put the envelope in his breast pocket, bowed himself out and was steaming on his way to Covington in the next train.

He reached the little town just before nightfall, and feeling somewhat tired and thirsty, he dropped in at a dram shop for a drink. Ah me, if there were no such places, how much misery, and sin, and shame would be banished from the world! But they meet us at every turn, these devil's dens, wherein men are despoiled of their earnings and their honor.

Dick went in, and stumbled among some three or four old cronies. They leaped up and welcomed him with uproarious delight.

"Why, Dick, old fellow, haven't seen you for an age! Well met, 'pon my soul! Here, landlord, brandy and seltzer for four, and be spry at it."

The brandy and seltzer appeared and vanished. Oysters and crackers followed and then came more grog to wash it all down.

By sunset poor Dick's weak head was in a whirl. When darkness fell his errand was still neglected and he sat in the little bar parlor, looking on while his boon companions played cards, a hot bloom in his cheeks, an insane glitter in his handsome eyes.

"Come up, Dick and try your luck?"

"Don't care if I do," said Dick and at it he went.

His own purse was soon emptied, and then he never could clearly recall how it all happened, but insane from drink and determined to retrieve his losses, he ventured to open the sealed envelope and to borrow a stake from the funds intrusted to him by his employer.

"I'll soon double it," he thought, "and then I'll replace the amount."

But he lost instead of doubling, and then swallowed more brandy in his excitement, and at the invitation of his good friends.

The end was that they made a night of it, and when the morning dawned, poor Dick found himself alone, forsaken by his friends, and the sealed envelope and its contents gone.

The shock sobered him. He got up, and with his head beating like a trip-hammer, walked back to his native village, and, seeking his employer, confessed all that had happened. Mr. Robinson was greatly provoked, and at once put the matter into the hands of the law and Dick Arnold was arrested and sent to prison.

When the news came to his father's ears he refused to give his son either aid or countenance.

"I'm done with him. Let them send him to the State prison; he deserves it."

But the mother, her faithful heart going out in yearning pity for her erring boy, stood and pondered how she might save him.

In a little while she turned, and entering the pleasant cottage, went slowly up stairs and into her chamber, where her daughter Rose sat sewing on her bridal robes.

Sitting down beside her, she told her the story of her brother's trouble.

Rose understood her mother's meaning even before she could put it into words. There was a little box on the table, which contained her marriage dowry. Little by little the father and mother had hoarded it in their only daughter's name, that she might not be dowerless on her wedding day.

Pretty Rose took the box and put it in her mother's hands.

"Take it, mother," she said, "and do with it as you think best."

"Heaven bless you, my daughter, but it is hard to deprive you of your marriage dowry and your wedding day so near."

Rose's fair cheeks bloomed like her namesake in the little garden below, and her blue eyes lit.

"Never mind that, mother," she said, "Charlie will be willing to take me without the dowry—I am sure of it."

So Mrs. Arnold took the box and went her way. Before the day ended she had refunded the money to Mr. Robinson and the charge was withdrawn, and her boy was out of prison.

"I can't go home, mother. Father doesn't want me; he told me so," said Dick, as they stood under the green locust trees beyond the cottage lawn. "Let me go out into the world and work my way up, and then I'll come back."

She put her arms about his neck, and looked up at him with streaming eyes.

"Oh, Dick, my boy, my darling, you will do better—you will, Dick, for mother's sake?"

"Yes, mother, God being my helper, I will. I've caused you so much trouble, and you've always beea good and gentle to me, mother. Forgive me, now; I'll come back to be a comfort to you yet."

"My boy, I forgive you, and I believe in you. Here Dick," and she drew a purse and a worn little Bible from her bosom, "take these. You may need the money; the Bible is mine, Dick—mother's Bible, don't forget that. Mother has read in it every day and night for the last thirty years. You'll think of that, Dick, and you'll read it—for mother's sake?"

"Yes, mother."

"Every night, Dick, no matter where you may be, you'll read a chapter, and get down on your knees and pray, the little prayer mother taught you, if nothing else? Promise me, Dick. Every night at ten o'clock, at that hour I shall be on my knees praying for you, my boy. I shall never miss a night, Dick, while I live; promise me you won't, Dick. Promise me you'll do it for mother's sake."

Dick tried to promise but he let his handsome head drop down on his mother's bosom instead and wept there like a child.

As the sun set they parted.

"Good-by, my boy, and God bless you. You'll keep your promise, for mother's sake?"

"Yes, mother, with God's help. Good-by!"

Across the fields, with his little Bible in his bosom, and his bundle in his hand, went poor, erring Dick, and down the pathway Mrs. Arnold returned to the cottage.

"I'll never give up my boy," she said. "My prayers shall prevail with God for him. He will return to us yet, and be the comfort of our old age."

But her husband, bitter and remorseful of heart, laughed her to scorn.

Month followed month; summers came and went; harvests were sown and gathered in; winters heaped their white snows, and spring sunshine came and melted them.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Arnold, busy with her daily tasks, did not lose hope.

Pretty, dowerless Rose had married and gone to live in a happy home of her own, and as the years came and went, the master of the cottage, enfeebled and made helpless by disease, sorely repented of his harsh severity to his only son.

"If I had dealt kindly with him he might have done better," he said, in his remorse; "but I drove him from beneath my roof with reproaches, and now in my old age I am childless, desolate."

The mother held her peace, and every night at the appointed hour knelt down and prayed for her wandering boy.

Just about that time the whole country was ringing with the renown of a young reformer—a man of transcendent genius, who was spending the best days of his manhood for the good of his fellow men. His eloquence, it was said, was irresistible and thousands of erring sinners were brought after him, as they followed the Christ of old.

News came at last that this wonderful man would deliver a lecture in the village. Preparations were made in expectation was on tiptoe for the appointed night Mrs. Arnold with the rest.

The speaker took the stand, and announced the subject of his discourse. It was:

"For Mother's Sake."

The poor mother, her heart yearning for her own absent son, looked and listened, blinded by swift-flowing tears. She could scarcely see the tall form of the handsome speaker, but his voice thrilled her heart through and through.

The audience sat spellbound, breathless, until the lecturer drew near the close of his remarks.

"For mother's sake," he said, "has one little sentence has made me what I am. Who, in this crowded room, will recognize me? Five years ago, on such a night as this, I was a prisoner in the old jail over yonder. My mother's love saved me from the consequences of intemperance and folly, and when I parted from her under the old locust trees out in the lane I promised to be a man 'for mother's sake!' Now, and friends you all know me as I am Dick Arnold. I kept my promise. I have been a better man, 'for mother's sake!' I wonder if my mother lives and hears my voice tonight!"

"Oh, thank God! Oh, my boy, my boy!"

In another minute he had her in his strong arms, her gray head pillowed on his breast. She looked up at him with yearning, wondering eyes.

"Oh, no, I do not mistake—my own my son! Oh, Dick!"

He held her closely, tears streaming like rain over his bearded face.

"Your own boy, mother. God made him what he is, 'for mother's sake.'"—New York Weekly.

BARBARITY OF EPICURE

They Gloat Over Flesh Food While It is Killed.

"Did it ever strike you," asked an observer, "that there is something distinctly barbarous about your refined cure, your true gourmet or gastronome? I saw a great turtle in a restaurant the other day, lying on his back, his head pillowed on a cigar box and his flippers tied with stout strings. He was alive, of course, and eyed with a look of sullen but yet puzzled defiance the group that stood about him while the proprietor of the place explained, illustrating with touches of his foot, the way in which the creature was presently to be cut up and the different manner in which the various parts would be cooked. The reptile under discussion was to furnish the group with a 'turtle dinner,' and the mouths of the 'knowing ones' among them watered as the landlord continued his disquisition upon the peculiarities of that particular turtle. The men sat down and ate that turtle in the form of soup, steaks and stew, and enjoyed it all the more that they had seen the writhing reptile alive before me, had I been at the feast, would have pictured the bound and helpless creature rolling his glazing eyes upward at his torturers and his slayers would have arisen before me and taken away my appetite.

"There is a famous restaurant down in the Fulton Market which used to have a tank in it—I believe that it has it no more, as epicures now generally cross the Bridge—where that tank fish were swimming around. You could look into the tank and watch the gambols of the fish, select the one you wanted, and the waiter would catch it and cook it for you. If you had seen it alive a few minutes before it made its dead body taste better to the epicure.

"A certain restaurant in Boston used to have a back yard in which chickens were running about. It was the proper thing to sit on the veranda, pick out a certain fowl with his head cut off in your presence and then, after it had been cooked, eat it.

"Go into any all-night restaurant on Broadway and order a 'broiled lobster,' and the waiter will bring you the lobster with his antennae waving and his 'feelers' squirming, showing that he is very much alive. Then he will be broiled alive and you can eat him—if you want to, and most people do.

"It is the same with soft-shelled crabs and various other sorts of sea food. The epicure, or the man who thinks he is an epicure, wants to see the creature alive first to give a keener edge to his appetite. Mind you, it is not in restaurants where there is a reputation hood of the food furnished but it is that this custom prevails, but in places where the reputation of the place for the gastronomic discrimination of its customer almost guarantees that the food be fresh. No, it is the savage instinct of the epicure—the same that makes a cannibal gloat over his victim before he kills him for food."—New York Press.

Between twelve and fifteen hundred a day, or between 4000 and 5000 a week are built in this country.

How's This?

Offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

HALL'S CATARRH CURE is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucuous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Finnish Honesty.

Swedes all over Russia are glad to employ Finnish servants, because "they never steal and nothing has to be locked up." I remember once, when I went to the captain of a steamer which was carrying me to Helsingfors to find out when I could get a telegraph to Helsingfors for a valuable package which I had left in a hotel. He replied: "There is no occasion to telegraph. Write to the hotel manager when you get to Stockholm and he will send the buckle to you. No Finn ever steals in Finland." I wrote as directed and the buckle followed me to England, where I received it shortly after my arrival.

European Amazons.

Europe once had its republic of women in Bohemia. The precise date of this Utopia is given as 735. A Jewish writer states that at the death of King Crocus his daughter Libussa succeeded and at once surrounded herself with a powerful bodyguard of women, of whom she gave the command to her maiden friend, Wlast. Libussa had been compelled by her people to marry, but she had contrived to retain something more than the better half until her death left the widower sole ruler. His first thought was to get rid of the armed sisterhood, who then controlled, seized a mountain castle after a siege, and for many years, by treachery and violence, maintained such a terrorism that the neighboring states at last combined against them, and, decoying the Amazon army into an ambuscade, they literally exterminated it.

Origin of Shepherd's Plaids.

The shepherds' plaids, which is the correct name for two colored checks of all sizes, are being shown in all materials. By the way, does every one know why they are called "shepherds' plaids"? In the highlands every fighting man formerly wore the plaid of his clan, as he would paint the arms of his house on his belongings, and for the same reason that few could write his name even if he were able to write it. The simple folk who belonged to the clan only as servitors or dependents did not wear the clan plaid. Perhaps they could not afford to own it. At all events, they wore the simple two-color plaid, which is at present day taste is prettier than the startling combinations of the days of old.

A Catskin Rug.

One woman has a hearth rug which is probably unique. It is composed entirely of the skins of her deceased favorite pets. As her cats died she had the skin of each tanned and added to the rug, which is now complete and contains the skins of fourteen cats or "pussies." The rug is entirely of one color—black—as the lady in question has always made a point of buying cats of that color. On the reverse side of each skin there is a description recording the name of its former owner and the period during which he (or she) was the lady's property. Thus one inscription runs: "Mary, 1892-94," and another, "Beauty, 1900104."

London's greatest fire began Sept. 2, 1666; 89 churches, 13,200 buildings and 460 streets were destroyed.

A BOY'S BREAKFAST

It's a Natural Food That Makes It's Own Way.

There's a boy up in Hoosick Falls, N. Y., who is growing into sturdy manhood on Grape-Nuts breakfasts. It might have been different with him, as his mother explains:

"My eleven-year-old boy is large, well developed and active, and has been made so by his fondness for Grape-Nuts food. At five years he was a very delicate child and was subject to frequent attacks of indigestion, which seemed to rob him of his strength and made him very troublesome to deal with. He never seemed to care for anything for his breakfast until I tried Grape-Nuts, and I have never had to change from that. He makes his entire breakfast of Grape-Nuts food. It is always relished by him and he says that it satisfies him better than the ordinary dishes of a meal.

"Better than all he is no longer troubled with indigestion or nervousness and has got to be a splendidly developed fellow since he began to use Grape-Nuts food." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

now in my old age I am childless, desolate."

The mother held her peace, but every night at the appointed hour she knelt down and prayed for her wandering boy.

Just about that time the whole country was ringing with the renown of a young reformer—a man of talent and genius, who was spending the early days of his manhood for the good of his fellow men. His eloquence, it was said, was irresistible and thousands of erring sinners were flocking after him, as they followed the Master of old.

News came at last that this wonderful man would deliver a lecture in the village. Preparations were made, and expectation was on tiptoe. On the appointed night Mrs. Arnold went with the rest.

The speaker took the stand, and announced the subject of his discourse. It was:

"For Mother's Sake."

The poor mother, her heart yearning for her own absent son, looked and listened, blinded by swift-flowing tears. She could scarcely see the tall figure of the handsome speaker, but his voice thrilled her heart through and through.

The audience sat spellbound, breathless, until the lecturer drew near the close of his remarks.

"For mother's sake," he said, "that one little sentence has made me what I am. Who, in this crowded room, recognize me? Five years ago, on such a night as this, I was a prisoner in the old jail over yonder. My mother's love saved me from the consequences of intemperance and folly, and when I parted from her under the old locust trees out there in the lane I promised to be a good man 'for mother's sake!' Now, old and friends you all know me as I am Dick Arnold. I kept my promise. I have been a better man, 'for mother's sake!' I wonder if my mother is living and hears my voice tonight!"

"Oh, thank God! Oh, my boy, my boy!"

In another minute he had her in his strong arms, her gray head pillowed on his breast. She looked up at him with yearning, wondering eyes.

"Oh, no, I do not mistake—you are my son! Oh, Dick!"

He held her closely, tears streaming like rain over his bearded face.

"Your own boy, mother. God only made him what he is, 'for mother's sake.'"—New York Weekly.

BARBARITY OF EPICURES

They Gloat Over Flesh Food While It is Killed.

"Did it ever strike you," asked an observer, "that there is something distinctly barbarous about your real epicure, your true gourmet or connoisseur? I saw a great turtle lying in a restaurant the other day, flat on his back, his head pillowed on a cigar box and his flippers tied with stout strings. He was alive, of course, and eyed with a look of sullen hate, yet puzzled defiance the group of men who stood about him while the proprietor of the place explained, illustrating with touches of his foot, the various parts which the creature was presently to be cut up and the different manner in which the various parts would be cooked. The reptile under discussion was to furnish the group with the 'turtle dinner,' and the mouths of the 'knowing ones' among them watered as the landlord continued his disquisition upon the peculiar delicacies of that particular turtle. The men sat down and ate that turtle in the form of soup, steaks and stew, and enjoyed it all the more that they had seen the writhing reptile alive. For one, had I been at the feast, the picture of the hound and helpless creature rolling his starting eyes upon his tormentors and his slayers would have arisen before me and taken away my appetite.

"There is a famous restaurant in the Fulton Market which used to have a tank in it—I believe it has it no more, as epicures now generally cross the Bridge—where the tank fish were swimming around. You could look into the tank, choose the individuals of the fish, select the one you wanted, and the waiter would catch it and cook it for you. I have seen it alive a few minutes before and made its dead body taste better than it ever did before.

"A certain restaurant in Broadway used to have a back yard in which chickens were running about. It was the proper thing to sit on the stoop of the veranda, pick out a certain fowl, behead it with his head cut off in your presence and then, after it had been cooked, eat it.

"Go into any all-night restaurant on Broadway and order a 'broiled lobster,' and the waiter will bring you the lobster with his antenae waving and his 'feelers' squirming, to show that he is very much alive. You will be broiled alive and you can eat him—if you want to, and most people do.

"It is the same with soft-shelled crabs and various other sorts of seafood. The epicure, or the man who thinks he is an epicure, wants to get the creature alive first to give a keener edge to his appetite. Mind you, it is in the restaurants where there is a reputation of the food furnished that this custom prevails, but in those where the reputation of the place and the gastronomic discrimination of the customer almost guarantee that the food shall be fresh. No, it is the savage instinct of the epicure—the same that makes a cannibal gloat over his victim before he kills him for food."—New York Press.

Between twelve and fifteen hundred a day, or between 4000 and 5000 a year, are built in this country.

[illegible]-seven bodies have so far been recovered of the many lost by the wrecking of the steamer Valencia on the British Columbia coast.

The Earl of Aberdeen, the new Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, succeeding the Earl of Dudley, made his State entry into Dublin.

There is every probability that fish-ponds in the parks will soon be added to the attractions of London (Eng.) workmen.

How's This?

Offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucuous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Finnish Honesty.

Russians all over Russia are glad to employ Finnish servants, because "they never steal and nothing has to be locked up." I remember once, when I went to the captain of a steamer which was carrying me to Stockholm to find out when I could telegraph to Helsingfors for a valuable shoe buckle which I had left in a hotel. He replied: "There is no occasion to telegraph. Write to the hotel manager when you get to Stockholm and he will send the buckle to you. No Finn ever steals in Finland." I wrote as directed and the buckle followed me to England, where I received it shortly after my arrival.

European Amazons.

Europe once had its republic of women in Bohemia. The precise date of this Utopia is given as 735. A Bohemian writer states that at the death of King Crocus his daughter Libussa succeeded and at once surrounded herself with a powerful bodyguard of women, of whom she gave the command to her maiden friend. Whist. Libussa had been compelled by her people to marry, but she had contrived to remain childless more than the better part of her life, until her death left the widower free. His first thought was to get rid of the armed sisterhood, who then had settled a mountain castle after expelling the inhabitants, and for ten years, by treachery and violence, had maintained such a terrorism that the neighboring states at last combined against them, and, decoying the Amazon army into an ambuscade, they literally exterminated it.

Origin of Shepherd's Plaids.

The shepherds' plaids, which is the correct name for two colored checks of various sizes, are being shown in all materials. In the same way, does every one know why they are called "shepherds' plaids"? In the highlands every fighting man formerly wore the plaid of his clan, as he would paint the arms of his house on his belongings, and for the same reason that few could read his name even if he were able to write it. The simple folk who belonged to the clan only as servitors or dependents did not wear the clan plaid. Perhaps they could not afford to own it. At all events, they wore the simple two-color plaid, which is in present day taste is prettier than the startling combinations of the tartans of old.

A Catskin Rug.

One woman has a hearth rug which is probably unique. It is composed entirely of the skins of her deceased feline pets. As her cats died she had the skin of each tanned and added to the rug, which is now complete and contains the skins of fourteen beloved "pussies." The rug is entirely of one color—black—as the lady in question has always made a point of buying cats of that color. On the reverse side of each skin there is an inscription recording the name of its fond owner and the period during which he (or she) was the lady's property. Thus one inscription runs, "Fairy. 1892-94," and another, "Beauty. 1900-1904."

London's greatest fire began Sept. 2, and ended Sept. 6, 1666; 89 churches, 13,200 dwellings and 460 streets were destroyed.

A BOY'S BREAKFAST

Food's a Natural Food That Makes It's Own Way.

There's a boy up in Hoosick Falls, N. Y., who is growing into sturdy manhood on Grape-Nuts breakfasts. It might have been different with him, as his mother explains:

"My eleven-year-old boy is large, well developed and active, and has been made so by his fondness for Grape-Nuts food. At five years he was a very nervous child and was subject to frequent attacks of indigestion, which used to rob him of his strength and were very troublesome to deal with. He never seemed to care for anything for his breakfast until I tried Grape-Nuts, and I have never had to change from that. He makes his entire breakfast of Grape-Nuts food. It is always relished by him and he says that it satisfies him better than the ordinary kind of a meal.

"Better than all he is no longer troubled with indigestion or nervousness, and has got to be a splendidly developed fellow since he began to use Grape-Nuts food." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

THE PULPIT.

A BRILLIANT SUNDAY SERMON BY BISHOP BURGESS.

Subject: Church Music.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Bishop Burgess preached Sunday morning in the Church of the Redeemer. The occasion was the dedication of the beautiful memorial organ, a gift to the church. The bishop spoke on "Church Music." The text was from Psalm xciv:9: "He that planted the ear, shall He not hear? He that formed the eye, shall He not see?" Bishop Burgess said during his sermon:

This organ, which we dedicate today, to the glory of God, has been placed here in memory of one who was a faithful and devoted worshiper in this church, George Parker. There is a peculiar appropriateness in the gift, for church music appealed to him with an especial power. To make this part of our worship worthy of our church's traditions, to make its ritual, when ritual of some kind was necessary, seemly and historic, he was willing to sacrifice his time, his money, his strength. It has seemed to me that it would not be out of place for me to speak to you to-day of church music and to trace its history so that we may be better able to estimate the value of what must always be an adjunct to the service, the hand-maid, not the mistress, of worship.

The Bible never seeks to prove the existence of God. The prophets, poets, philosophers, historians of the Old Testament, as well as the Apostles and Evangelists of the new, everywhere assume the Being and Personality of God. They do not argue for this position. They simply claim it as their right. Only the fool, and he only under his breath, can deny the existence of God. But if any argument is hinted at, it is rather this argument from design, which is to-day, after all, the advance of modern science, considered the most cogent of them all and which is struck off at white heat, as it were, in this glowing sentence of the Psalmist, "He that planted the ear, shall He not hear? He that formed the eye, shall He not see?" The writer may not have known, perhaps, as much of human anatomy and of the physiology of the brain as Professor James, he may not have been as cognizant of the delicate structure of the eye and ear as one of our modern specialists, but the marvels and the beauty were before his mind in all their power when he wrote those words. It is an argument which the fool alone can set aside, that such things do not come by chance and that in the Supreme Being something corresponding to hearing and seeing exists, that the music which delights the ear of man is known to God, and the glow of the sunset, the sweet unfathomable beauty of the world, of the stars and of the flowers have their existence primarily for God. The horrified philosopher may call out "anthropomorphism," but for my part I do not fear that as much as the impersonality of pantheism or materialism. If it is true, as Professor Sholer says, that the naturalist has a right to conclude that the universe is under the control of power in ways like unto the mind of man then surely we have a right to believe that all our art, our music, our architecture, our paintings and sculpture are heard or seen by God and are pleasing or unpleasing to Him according as they are or are not founded upon the principles of truth. Let us not argue about this. Let us assume it now as we speak of church music.

We can watch their ways with our microscope, but we dare not assert that they do not hear commands and live in a world of the source of which we know nothing. So with the universe. We can plow the heavens with the telescope, but we know not that what we call the music of the spheres has no existence and that it is only a poet's fancy which asserts that the heavens, the stars and the planets accompany the sons of God in their praise of the Father in Heaven.

In all civilized nations I believe music has always had some connection with religion. The Greeks had no doubt carried it, as they did every art they touched, to a high grade of excellence. In Plato we find music is a constant source of illustration. In those days, as in these, they had the mere musician, who prided himself on his ear and lost the poetry and the meaning of the art. "The musicians," one of the characters says bitterly, "put their ears in the place of their minds." "Yes," replied Glaucon, "I like to see them laying their ears alongside of their neighbors' faces, some saying, 'That's a new note,' others declaring that the two notes are the same." But for Plato music had a deeper significance and in one single sentence he brings out its connection with morals. "Simplicity in music," he says, "was the parent of temperance in the soul," a truth which we need to remember to-day as never before.

But to the Hebrews the art was sacred. Miriam with her timbals and her dances accompanied her song of victory. The majestic rhythm of the Psalms were blended, no doubt, with an equally majestic music. When the people were carried away into captivity their conquerors wanted to hear them sing their beautiful national airs. But the young voices refused to answer. "How can we sing the Lord's songs in a strange land?" Browning has dramatized the scene, but the people must have been naturally musical when the shepherd lad could come with his harp and drive away the worst melancholy from the heart of the troubled monarch.

I doubt not that our Lord loved the music of the Temple and that one happy moment in Holy Week was when the children of the Temple, presumably the boys who sang this daily service, cried out in homage to their prophet, Hosanna to the Son of David!

The history of early church service is obscure, but at the beginning of the seventh century Gregory the Great, the Bishop of Rome, created a new era and probably a reform in the art by introducing what was known as the Gregorian tones or modes. I have not technical knowledge enough to assert whether this was original with him or whether he revived an older method, but certain it is that the Gregorian style, if I may use such a term, has become the model of all the best and strongest ecclesiastical music, whether Roman or Anglican.

But during the Middle Ages corruption had set in of so serious a nature that we find the Scottish Puritans and the Popes of Rome alike condemning music. The Puritans abolished all musical instruments from their churches and adopted the natural tone of voice for the services and prayers and the plainest of psalm tunes, which, however, had all the grandeur of Gregorian chants. But it is not as well known that the Council of Trent censured for centuries the prevalent style of church music with extraordinary severity and was on the eve of forbidding any kind of music in the church, when it was saved from this extreme action almost by a miracle.

Now why, in such different quarters, do we find such violent and virulent antagonism to church music? Let us first answer that question, and then see what it was that softened that antagonism. The reason why music was condemned was because it had become a traitor in the camp. During the Middle Ages the troubadours had invented many beautiful melodies, some of them soft and pathetic, some warlike and some gay. This kind of music has developed along with the sacred, and the church composers and precentors have adopted the secular tunes and incorporated them into the masses so that the people even sang the profane words instead of those of the Latin liturgy. It is as if to-day we should have the airs of "Annie Laurie" or "Way Down on the Suwanee River" used as a theme for the communion office or played on the organ at the time of partaking of the Bread and Wine of the Body and Blood of our Lord. This abuse of music became a scandal in the chancel. Apparently choirs and organists had not learned that obedience to the clergy while on trust has now been acquired, and the only way which seemed possible to stop the profanity was to silence the voice of organ and choir alike. You may rest assured that while there is some obscurity as to the real state of affairs, yet the desecration must have been very great when Scotch Puritans and Roman prelates united in their condemnation of the art.

What saved it, then? In the Protestant world it was Luther. His love of music was intense. He used to play on the flute, and said that the devil fled from its sound when he played. He wrote some of the stateliest and noblest of the German hymns. And if he did not compose the music as well, he certainly superintended its composition. This best of hymn music is really founded on the old method of plain song which Gregory the Great advocated.

In these revelations which are going on all the time now in the social, the financial and political world, we find that the standard of ethics is practically that of men who have no faith in the hearing and seeing God. It is the morality for the world. Sin is not sin unless it is found out. Provided the scandal is kept out of sight it is of no consequence. Large sums will be paid to the most disreputable papers under the guise of subscriptions to keep names out of the scurrilous sheets. Accounts are tampered with and entries changed or omitted, so that no one may learn the facts. And all is done because in the eyes of such men the only shame is the shame of the police courts and the cropped hair and striped garments of the prisons. But if the rapid machinery of modern life would stop long enough for men to think, maybe they would hear the psalmist's question ringing in their ears, "He that planted the ear, shall He not hear? He that made the eye, shall He not see?"

Morality and music are thus seen to have the same ideal. And the church which will teach the truth of Christ in this world of sin, will have her organs tuned with the heavenly, and her music will not be made to please the ear of man, but to delight the ear of God. No more sublime language exists than the passage in the communion office, "Therefore, with angels and archangels and with all the company of heaven we laud and magnify Thy glorious name." The church that speaks these words is speaking only unto God, and the music which must accord with such thought and language must be the music of a mind and heart which belong unto the Lord God Almighty.

Songs in the Night.

God * * giveth songs in the night. Any man can sing in the day. When the cup is full, man draws inspiration from it. When wealth rolls in abundance around him, any man can praise the God who gives a plenteous harvest, or sends home a loaded argosy.

It is easy to sing when we can read notes by daylight; but he is skilful who sings when there is not a ray of light to read by—who sings from his heart. No man can make a song in the night of himself; he may attempt it, but he will find that a song in the night must be divinely inspired. * * No, it is not in man's power to sing when all is adverse, unless an altar-coal shall touch his lip. * * * Then, since our Maker gives "songs in the night," let us wait upon Him for the music.

O Thou Chief Musician, let us not remain songless because affliction is upon us, but tune Thou our lips to the melody of thanksgiving.—C. H. Spurgeon.

Modern Miracles.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has been experimenting for some years in an effort to produce an orange which will grow in northern climates, and has recently met with success. Tangelo is the name of the new orange. How was it produced? By plant marriage. The wiry, tough, sour little orange of Japan was married to the luscious Florida orange. This is only one of the many miracles wrought to-day by scientists. Surely, it is feasible to think of a miracle wrought in the spiritual realm by the union of God and man. Every day spiritual miracles are being performed, man becomes a new creature as he becomes united through faith to his Saviour.

First evangelize the young men, and then make them an evangelizing force, for if these nations are going to be evangelized it is going to be by the sons and daughters of the soil. See that this present generation does not perish from the earth without the young men knowing that Jesus Christ died and rose again, and that He is a living Christ.—John R. Mott.

FITS permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free. Dr. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

The works of Schopenhauer are being translated into Japanese.

A Guaranteed Cure For Piles.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding, Protruding Piles. Druggists are authorized to refund money if Pazo Ointment fails to cure in 6 to 14 days. 50c.

England's most glorious period, the Victorial era, began with the accession to the throne of Princess Victoria on June 20, 1837, and continued through her illustrious reign until her death in 1901.

BABY COVERED WITH SORES.

Would Scratch and Tear the Flesh Unless Hands Were Tied—"Would Have Died But For Cuticura."

"My little son, when about a year and a half old, began to have sores come out on his face. I had a physician treat him, but the sores grew worse. Then they began to come on his arms, then on other parts of his body, and then one came on his chest, worse than the others. Then I called another physician. Still he grew worse. At the end of about a year and a half of suffering he grew so bad I had to tie his hands in cloths at night to keep him from scratching the sores and tearing the flesh. He got to be a mere skeleton, and was hardly able to walk. My aunt advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I sent to the drug store and got a cake of the Soap and a box of the Ointment, and at the end of about two months the sores were all well. He has never had any sores of any kind since. He is now strong and healthy, and I can sincerely say that only for your most wonderful remedies my precious child would have died from those terrible sores. Mrs. Egbert Sheldon, R. F. D. No. 1, Woodville, Conn., April 2, 1905."

Catholic monasteries were closed in England in 1539.

The first English Bible was printed in 1535.

Cures Blood, Skin Troubles, Cancer, Blood Poison. Greatest Blood Purifier Free.

If your blood is impure, thin, diseased, hot or full of humors, if you have blood poison, cancer, carbuncles, eating sores, scrofula, eczema, itching, risings and lumps, scabby, pimply skin, bone pains, catarrh, rheumatism, or any blood or skin disease, take Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) according to directions. Soon all sores heal, aches and pains stop, the blood is made pure and rich, leaving the skin free from every eruption, and giving the rich glow of perfect health to the skin. At the same time B. B. B. improves the digestion, cures dyspepsia, strengthens weak kidneys. Just the medicine for old people, as it gives them new, vigorous blood. Druggists, $1 per large bottle, with directions for home cure. Sample free and prepaid by writing Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga. Describe trouble and special free medical advice also sent in sealed letter. B. B. B. is especially advised for chronic, deep-seated cases of impure blood and skin disease, and cures after all else fails.

The Royal Italian Children.

Many mothers in this country who flatter themselves that they are bringing up their children to be strong and healthy would shrink in horror from attempting the rules prescribed for the royal children of Italy by their mother, Queen Helena. And yet there are few healthier little ones anywhere than are the two little Princesses Yolanda and Mafalda, and the little crown prince, their brother, who is now more than a year old.

Their beautiful mother is bringing them up as she herself was reared no matter what the weather may be, and upon awakening are given a plunge into water which, though not actually cold, is scarcely to be called lukewarm. They are dressed in flannel, but they go barefoot, even though the royal palace is only heated by sunlight, and in Italy the weather can be pretty severe in winter. But they tramp about the grounds hatless on cold days and keep warm by all sorts of joyous games, in which the oldest, Princess Yolanda, is the ringleader.

Cut Your Work in Two

Atkins Saws cut not only wood, iron and other materials better than any other, but they cut work.

That is because they are made of the best steel in the world by men that know how.

Atkins Saws, Corn Knives, Perfection Floor Scrapers, etc., are sold by all good hardware dealers. Catalogue on request.

E. C. ATKINS & CO. Inc.

Largest Saw Manufacturers in the World

Factory and Executive Offices, Indianapolis

BRANCHES—New York, Chicago, Minneapolis Portland (Oregon), Seattle, San Francisco Memphis, Atlanta and Toronto (Canada)

Accept no substitute—Insist on the Atkins Brand

SOLD BY GOOD DEALERS EVERYWHERE

Avery & Company

SUCCESSORS TO AVERY & McMILLAN,

81-83 South Forsyth St., Atlanta, Ga.

—ALL KINDS OF—

MACHINERY

Reliable Frick Engines, Boilers, all Sizes. Wheat Separators.

BEST IMPROVED SAW MILL ON EARTH.

Large Engines and Boilers supplied promptly. Shingle Mills, Corn Mills, Circular Saws, Saw Teeth, Patent Dogs, Steam Governors. Full line Engines & Mill Supplies. Send for free Catalogue.

A TRAINED NURSE

After Years of Experience, Advises Women in Regard to Their Health.

Mrs. Martha Pohlman of 55 Chester Avenue, Newark, N. J., who is a graduate Nurse from the Blockley Training School, at Philadelphia, and for six years Chief Clinic Nurse at the Philadelphia Hospital, writes the letter printed below. She has the advantage of personal experience, besides her professional education, and what she has to say may be absolutely relied upon.

Many other women are afflicted as she was. They can regain health in the same way. It is prudent to heed such advice from such a source.

Mrs. Pohlman writes:

"I am firmly persuaded, after eight years of experience with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that it is the safest and best medicine for any suffering woman to use."

"Immediately after my marriage I found that my health began to fail me. I became weak and pale, with severe bearing-down pains, fearful backaches and frequent dizzy spells. The doctors prescribed for me, yet I did not improve. I would bloat after eating, and frequently become nauseated. I had pains down through my limbs so I could hardly walk. It was as bad a case of female trouble as I have ever known. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, however, cured me within four months. Since that time I have had occasion to recommend it to a number of patients suffering from all forms of female difficulties, and I find that while it is considered unprofessional to recommend a patent medicine, I can honestly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for I have found that it cures female ills, where all other medicine fails. It is a grand medicine for sick women."

Money cannot buy such testimony as this—merit alone can produce such results, and the ablest specialists now agree that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the most universally successful remedy for all female diseases known to medicine.

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful periods, weakness, displacement or ulceration of the female organs, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation, backache, bloating (or flatulence), general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues and hopelessness, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles.

No other female medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement.

The needless suffering of women from diseases peculiar to their sex is terrible to see. The money which they pay to doctors who do not help them is an enormous waste. The pain is cured and the money is saved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

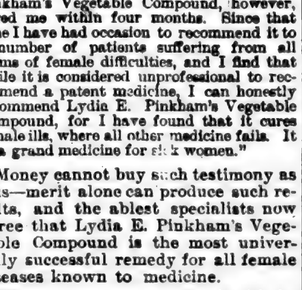
It is well for women who are ill to write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. The present Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, her assistant for many years before her decease, and for twenty-five years since her advice has been freely given to sick women. In her great experience, which covers many years, she has probably had to deal with dozens of cases just like yours. Her advice is strictly confidential.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail.

FOR EMERGENCIES AT HOME

And for the Stock on the Farm

NOTHING EQUALS



SLOAN'S LINIMENT

The Great Antiseptic

Price, 25c., 50c. and $1.00.

Dr. EARL S. SLOAN,

615 Albany St., Boston, Mass.

In 1350 London had a population of 90,000; in 1600, 180,000; in 1650, 350,000; in 1700, 550,000; in 1801, 864,000; in 1841, 1,872,000.

Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullen is Nature's great remedy—Cures Coughs, Colds, Croup and Consumption, and all throat and lung troubles. At druggists, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

Cromwell's long parliament assembled in 1640; Charles I was beheaded January 30, 1646, and Cromwell became lord protector in 1653. In 1660 the Stuarts were restored to the throne.

10c for 50c worth of leading 1906 novelties in Choicest Garden Seeds. $1's worth of Universal Premium Coupons free with every order. BOLGIANO'S SEED STORE, BALTIMORE.

Am. 7, 1906.

Dropsy CURED Gives Quick Relief.

Removes all swelling in 9 to 20 days; effects a permanent cure in 30 to 60 days. Trial treatment given free. Nothing can be fairer. Write Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Box B Atlanta, Ga.

CABBAGE Plants! CELERY Plants!

and all kinds of garden plants. Can now furnish all kinds of cabbage plants, grown in the open air and will stand great cold, grown from seeds of the most reliable seedsmen. We use the same plants on our thousand acre truck farm. Plants carefully counted and properly packed. Celery ready last of Dec. Lettuce, Onion and Beet plants, same time or earlier. Reduced express rates promised, which, when effective, will give us 60 per cent. less than mercantile rates. Prices: Small lots $1.50 per thousand, large lot $1.00 to $1.25 per thousand. F. O. B. Meggetts, S. C. Arlington White Spine Cucumber Seed 60 cents per pound. F. O. B. Meggetts, S. C. The United States Agricultural Department has established an Experimental Station on our farms to test all kinds of vegetables, especially Cabbages. The results of these experiments we will be pleased to give you at any time.—Yours respectfully.—N. H. BLITCH COMPANY, MEGGETTS, S. C.

PRICE, 25 Cts

ANTI-GRIPINE

IS GUARANTEED TO CURE

GRIP, BAD COLD, HEADACHE AND NEURALGIA.

I won't sell Anti-Gripine to a dealer who won't Guarantee It. Call for your MONEY BACK IF IT DOESN'T CURE.

F. W. Diemer, M.D., Manufacturer, Springfield, Mo.

COW PEAS draw nitrogen from the air in large amounts, if sufficient POTASH and phosphoric acid are supplied to the plant.

The multitude of purposes served by the remarkable cow pea, are told in the 65-page illustrated book, "The Cow Pea," which also tells of the splendid results obtained from fertilizing cow peas with POTASH. The book is free to farmers for the asking.

Address, GERMAN KALI WORKS, New York—93 Nassau Street, or Atlanta, Ga.—1224 Empire Building.

M'CLELLAN DEAD

Chief Justice of Supreme Court of Alabama Suddenly Expires.

END CAME ON BOARD A TRAIN.

Accompanied by His Nephew Famous Jurist Was on His Way to Texas When Death Occurred.

New Orleans, La.—As the Louisville and Nashville train entered New Orleans early Saturday Chief Justice Thomas N. McClellan, of the Alabama supreme court, succumbed suddenly to an attack of heart disease. The chief justice left his home in Athens, Ala., Friday, accompanied by his nephew, Thomas C. McClellan, for San Antonio because of failing health.

The body was removed to an undertaking parlor, where it was prepared for shipment and sent to Athens, arrangements being made by Mr. McClellan and Judge Shelby, of the United States court of Alabama, who was a close friend of Justice McClellan. The deceased jurist was about 53 years of age. He had been on the bench since 1889, and for the past nine years had held the office of chief justice. He was unmarried.

Thomas Nelson McClellan would have been 53 years of age if he had lived until the 23d day of this month, having been born in Limestone county, Alabama, February 23, 1853. His parents were Thomas J. and Martha Fleming McClellan, coming by his mother from the well-known Alabama family of the Moores. He was Scotch-Irish paternally and English on the other, and the family came to Alabama from Virginia. His ancestors on both sides of the house were revolutionary fighters and heroes. His father, a whig in politics, was a member of the constitutional convention in Alabama in 1861 and 1865 and a member of the legislature in 1862, and died at his home in Limestone county in 1887.

Thomas N. McClellan began his career in the service of his state in 1880, when he came to the state senate. Before that time he was register in chancery of his own county for two years. He became attorney-general in 1884, serving as such until 1889, when he was appointed by Gov. Thomas Seay to the supreme court bench, the legislature having provided for an additional member of that body. He served as associate justice until 1898, when he was elected chief justice, and re-elected in 1903. He was educated at Oak Hill College, Tennessee, and took his law degree at the Cumberland University, at Lebanon, Tenn. He was never married and was an uncompromising democrat in politics.

Life Insurance Swindlers.

Victor, Col.—J. J. McEachern, whose death was reported on January 22, and life insurance policies paid, was arrested at the home of his sister here by City Marshal Naylor after a fight, in which McEachern was wounded by a bullet. McEachern was reported to have been killed by the accidental discharge of giant powder, but investigation by fraternal societies in which he was insured disclosed the fact that the body of Robert Speed, who was killed two days previously in a mine, had been unearthed, taken to the tunnel in which McEachern was working and blown to pieces with giant powder. The authorities were informed that McEachern was the victim of the discharge, and an old line life insurance company paid a policy on his life.

A deeper investigation by fraternal societies resulted in finding McEachern alive and his arrest followed. Jack Crowley, who worked with McEachern, was also placed in jail. The treatment of the body of Robert Speed greatly incensed his friends and lynching was threatened. In order to better protect McEachern he was removed to to the county jail at Cripple Creek and a heavy guard placed around the prison.

Cup for Americans.

London.—The blue jackets of the British second cruiser squadron will shortly present the American Atlantic fleet with a handsome silver cup as a souvenir of the formers recent visit to the United States. It bears an inscription recalling with "grateful remembrance the many kindnesses, tokens of good fellowship and wonderful entertainments given to their British cousins by their comrades across the sea."

Cruiser Squadron Arrived.

Genoa, Italy.—The American cruiser squadron arrived here from Ville France. The local authorities exchanged visits and greetings with the American officers.

Cardinal Perraud Very Low.

Autun, France.—Cardinal Adolphe Perraud, archbishop of Autun, is believed to be dying. He is suffering from double pneumonia.

"NOTHING DOING"

In Bessemer on Sunday—Lid Was Put on Tight and Sealed.

Bessemer, Ala.—Sunday has come and gone, and with it passes into history a day of absolute quietude so far as the mercantile interests of the place were concerned. To say that the place was shut tight would be mildly describing it. It was absolutely covered and hermetically sealed with the blanket of the police committee, and it is said that several smotherations was the result. The place was not dead, though, by any means, and Chief of Police Jones can testify that so far as he and his men were concerned it was very much alive. Not that a paltry fourteen arrests cut much ice, but in the absence of any one else on which to lay the blame the usual frequenters of downtown resorts on Sunday took special delight in worrying the police officers, and the day was a strenuous one for that body of men.

The police were vigilant all day, and fourteen arrests were made. The livery stables were allowed to do business as usual, but the dairymen were all put under bond.

Will Kennedy, the undertaker, was also put under bond, and every one who looked like they only wished they could do business were watched by the officers, and if their doors were seen open and people inside they were immediately arrested.

The fight commenced on the saloon men and has ended in closing the entire town, and many conservative men have expressed the opinion that the drugs stores should be allowed to sell soda water, cigars, etc., and the fruit stands to sell their goods, which are perishable.

It is believed that the city council will moderate their action at the next meeting and issue special privileges along these lines.

LYNCHING AT GADSDEN.

Twenty-five Masked Men Storm Jail and Swing Bunk Richardson to River Bridge.

Gadsden, Ala.—Bunk Richardson, one of the four negroes charged with the murder of Mrs. Sarah Jane Smith, a white womon, in this city on the night of July last, was forcibly taken from the county jail at an early hour Sunday morning and hanged by a mob of twenty-five masked and heavily armed men.

The execution took place on the Louisville and Nashville railroad bridge across the Coosa river, three blocks distant from the jail.

Sheriff Chandler and the night jailer were the only officials in the prison at the time. They were surprised and easily overpowered. Resistance seemed out of the question, and there was absolutely no chance to call for help.

The governor will use every power of his office to bring to justice those who took part in the lynching of Bunk Richardson at Gadsden. This statement was made by Private Secretary J. Kirk Jackson.

Maj. John W. Thomas Dead.

Nashville, Tenn.—Maj. John W. Thomas, president of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway, ried at his home here Monday morning, aged 76 years. Major Thomas was one of the best known railroad men in this country. He was a native of this city, and entered the railroad service in November, 1858. From November, 1858, to January, 1863, he was agent of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway at Murfreesboro, Tenn., and from January, 1863, to July, 1865, was in charge of the rolling stock of the same road. From July, 1865, to September, 1868, he was auditor and paymaster, and from September, 1868, to September, 1872, superintendent of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad. From September, 1883, to September, 1884, Major Thomas was general manager, and from September, 1884, to January 1, 1899, president and general manager of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad, since which time he has been president.

Heart failure was the direct cause of Major Thomas' death. He leaves a widow and one son, John W. Thomas, Jr., general manager of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad.

The remains of Major Thomas were interred at Mt. Olivet cemetery.

Walking Arsenal.

Chicago, Ill.—An Italian said by the police to be an agent of an Italian secret society was arrested after a hard fight with detectives in the yards of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago railroad. A bottle of nitro-glycerine, a bomb six inches long, a double stiletto a foot long and six vials containing colored liquids of unknown composition were taken from the man before he was locked up. Three companions of the Italian escaped capture.

Postmasters Appointed.

Washington, D. C.—Postmasters appointed: Brilliant, Marion county, W. B. Dowell; Samson, Geneva county, Ewin Johnson; Springville, St. Clair county, Arthur B. Fowler.

Japanese Budget Passed.

Tokio.—The budget passed the house Saturday, the government consenting to an amendment providing for the reduction of $2,500,000 in the extraordinary expenses for the army and navy.

EXILE AMONG ESKIMOS.

SAILOR'S EXPERIENCE WITH ARCTIC NATIVES.

For Three Years Never Saw a White Man—Almost Forgot His Mother Tongue—Five Days Adrift on Ice Floe in a Blizzard—Life in Esquimau Snow House.

After being an exile in the Arctic regions six years, George G. Cleveland of Martha's Vineyard is in this city, says a New Bedford correspondent in the Boston Herald. In 1899 Cleveland went north as second mate of the schooner Francis Allyn, and the first winter he spent on board that craft, but for the following five years he has lived ashore.

For the first two winters after he left the Allyn he had a white companion, Charles Clemmons, but for three years succeeding he cast his lot with the native Esquimau, and had it not been for them he would have starved. For three years he saw the face of no white man, and says he almost forgot the white man's language.

"Many a day I had to be satisfied with one meal, and oftentimes I was obliged to eat the paunches of deer or starve," he said. He lived the primitive life of the natives for much of the time. In dress and style of living he was one of the tribe, whose chief purpose was to obtain their daily food from the animal life of their bleak and inhospitable country. During his spell of primitive life the whaleman underwent hardships and trying experiences that have, in his own words, added ten years to his life.

Cleveland had agreed to take charge of a whaling and trading station in the Hudson Bay country, but after spending a year on the schooner he was put ashore at the mouth of Wagner river, half way between Fullerton and Repulse Bay, and some little distance up the river he built a hut or shack of matched boards, 24 by 12 feet.

Clemmons joined Cleveland in the fall of 1900, and the two men made themselves comfortable for the winter in a house banked up with snow, and the time was passed in hunting when the weather was suitable. They had plenty of coal and did not suffer. Twice during the time Clemmons was with Cleveland they were caught in ice floes and once were reduced to eating shrubs and were on the point of eating one of the dogs when a bear was shot, which gave them enough food to last until the schooner Era was reached, when a supply of food was obtained.

"After these rather trying experiences Clemmons left me, and I decided to try my luck alone," said Cleveland. "I had some provisions left, but the stories that have been told that the whalers put what provisions they could spare on board my boats is all bosh. I was left with hardly any food, and it was not long before that was gone.

"It was a case of getting among the Esquimau or starve, and I made for the Iwillick tribe. I found the tribe and was taken among them as one of their own natives. I had nothing but a few necessaries and my two boats. I was not better than they were and did not try to be. I was glad to have somebody to try to help me get food.

"Starvation staring one in the face is not pleasant, and it took us all the time to get food. For days I had only one meal a day, and we often ate meat that in other circumstances would have been given to the dogs.

"For three years I never saw a white man. I dressed, ate the same food and lived in the same snow houses as the natives, and you would have not known whether I was a white man or an Esquimau. I lived entirely on animal food, and for three years did not have tea, coffee, biscuits or similar provisions.

"I was with a tribe of about three hundred persons, and took part in all their wanderings, and often shifted our abodes, going where the game was most plentiful. In the summer time we went to the coast after walrus and seal, which were secured in fair abundance. In the summer, when moss and heather could be obtained, our food was cooked. In the winter this could not be done and the flesh, which was often in a rancid state, had to be eaten raw.

"The daily search for the daily meal is the be-all and the end-all of the Esquimau's existence. The country of the Iwillick is bare and bleak, and when on the great track for food no clump of trees or shrubs offered their shelter to our half-famished hunters.

"At the beginning of the winter our tribe divided and went out in different parties to hunt. When it was possible dogs were used to haul our sledges, but when no dog teams were to be had we had to haul the sleds ourselves. Frequently long and toilsome stretches intervened between the spells of luck. When no game was obtainable we journeyed on, but when deer fell to our rifles we had a regal feast.

"It often happened that we were overtaken by blizzards, but you cannot get lost up here. Whenever the storm broke we began to build our snow houses, and I became as expert as any of the natives at this business. On one occasion, with the aid of two natives, I erected a comfortable house in forty minutes.

"You cannot boss the Esquimau. They simply won't have it, unless you have plenty of goods to trade with them, and then you can be the master. But going among them, as I did, I found that the natives didn't propose to have me tell them how to do things, and I was glad enough to fall into their ways, even to eating rancid fish. I could do nothing else, and the Lord help the strange white who gets lost in the Far North if he knows nothing about the natives' ways. He will surely starve to death. You have got to go out and help get the daily meat. I was always on terms of friendship with the natives, for I did my share of the hunting.

"Did I do any whaling with the Esquimau? Well, not much for the first two seasons. It was as much as we could do to get food sufficient to eat, and there was not much time for whaling. We were always on the move. And this very thing, the fact that the native has to take exercise to get his food, prevents him from having the scurvy, which among the white men is caused by eating too much salt food and taking too little exercise.

"The tribe had one or two witch doctors, and I had an experience with one of them. I had a high fever three winters ago, and was unconscious two days. I had done what I could with the medicines on hand, but grew worse rapidly. After my spell of unconsciousness I awoke one afternoon and found that the fever had left me, but standing over me was one of these witch doctors exercising his art after the slight-of-hand way, and when I woke up I found that the medicine man was claiming all the credit for having brought me back to life.

"Another experience I had, almost as bad as my first trip up the Wagner river, on ice floes was about three years ago, New Year's time. In company with two natives I set out across the ice in search of game with a dog team. The floe on which we were being drawn separated from the main field of ice and drifted out into the bay. We attempted to get back, but the intervening stretch of water was too wide to be bridged.

"A high wind was blowing, and as the floe of ice drifted further out into the bay our position became precarious. A furious blizzard raged for three days. Without shelter and with our provisions finished our small party was in bad shape. Owing to the thinness of the ice the snow could not be used in place of water, as it became tinged with salt. For five days we endured untold hardships of a terrible nature, drifting about the bay and not being able to see land.

"On the afternoon of the fifth day, when we were all pretty well discouraged, the floe grounded at a place called Beach Point, and we made the best time possible back to the rest of our party."

Two years ago Mr. Cleveland was appointed to have charge of the whaling station at Hudson Bay, owned by a Scotch firm. He still continued to live with the natives who worked for him. He caught two large whales this last summer.

"I am surely going back to Hudson Bay again," says Cleveland, "but it will be in proper shape and with plenty of provisions."

QUAINT AND CURIOUS.

At the Zoo of Hamburg the young children ride races upon giant turtles.

Official figures show that there are seventeen million children in Russia between the ages of six and sixteen who are not getting any education.

An ordinary watch contains about 150 pieces, but complicated repeaters, chonographs, etc., as many as eight hundred and in one case 975 pieces.

India rubber trees which are tapped every other day continue to yield sap for more than twenty years, and it is a curious fact that the oldest and most frequently tapped trees produce the richest sap.

The oldest working clock in Great Britain is that of Peterborough Cathedral, which dates from 1320 and is conceded to have been made by a monastic clockmaker. It is the only one now known that is wound up over an old wooden wheel.

The most costly leather in the world is known to the trade as the piano leather. The secret of preparing this is only known to one family of tanners in Germany, though the skins from which it is tanned come almost entirely from America.

A young woman in Westphalia was to be married recently, but it was found that her birth had never been recorded, which made her a marital impossibility. Her birth then was registered, and according to the documents preceded her marriage by about ten minutes, making her the youngest bride on record.

From the Bear's Standpoint.

As the big polar bear drew near the men stopped work, stood up and stared at her. For a moment they did nothing. Then, seeing that she meant business, two of them stepped aside and picked up what looked to her like two long sticks, which glinted in the sun. One man took a stride forward and pointed the stick at her in a way that seemed to her like a challenge. With a grunt of anger she charged straight at him.

From the point of the stick burst a flash and a roar, with a little puff of blue smoke that drifted off like a ghost over the waves. It might have been the ghost of the old bear herself, fading reluctantly back into the grim and desolate earth from which she had sprung; for at the instant of its appearance she plunged forward upon her nose and lay motionless, with a bullet through her brain.—The Christian Metropolitan Magazine.

Thorsby, Alaban

Business Directory.

Commercial Club
OF THORSBY
DEFINITE and RELIABLE information furnished to parties who desire to locate in the South.

A. M. Johnson
Groceries and Delicatessen

J. J. STANLEY
GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

MRS. MARY R. RASBERRY
General Merchandise.

E. H. Adams
General Merchandise.

J. R. PARNELL
General Merchandise.

"MOLINE" Farming Implements and "FLORENCE" Wagons in stock at all times.
J. K. ORR SHOES.

J. L. FOSS
Meat Market.

The Thorsby Inn
G. C. Michelson, Prop.
Good Beds and Meals.

OLAF SCH
Watchmake
And Jewele
Horn's Drug S
Full assortment of Watch elry, etc. All repair wo anteed.

Thorsby Wi —Co.—
Lofthus & Bromberg,

A. HORN
Drugs, Stationery and Articles.
LICENSED PHARMA

City Bake
BREAD. CAKES PIES
of all kinds, fresh every
K. A. EKBL

A Langville &
BLACKSMITHS
and
HORSESHOERS
Dealers in WAGONS and BUG

C. L. Forsm
Brick Yard.

J. BICE
Charcoal Oven

While in a state of melancholia, Ernest J. Norton, one of the richest young men of Louisville, Ky., shot himself.

Lewis Nixon arrived in New York City, having completed his shipbuilding contracts in Russia.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the payment of the debt secured by a certain mortgage exeeuted to the undersigned on the 9th day of February, 1900, by William L. Parnell and wife, Eliza J. Parnell, and recorded in the Probate office of Chilton county, Alabama, in Mortgage Record 53, on page 217 et seq., and said default still continuing, I, the said Alexander W. Jones, will sell, under the power in said mortgage contained, on Tuesday, the 27th day of February, 1906, in front of the court house door of Chilton county, in the city of Clanton, county of Chilton and State of Alabama, during the legal hours of sale, at public outcry to the highest and best bidder for cash, the following described real estate situated, lying and being in said county and State, to-wit: The south half of the northwest quarter, the southwest quarter, the south half of the northeast quarter and the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter, the west half of the southeast quarter and the north half of the northwest quarter of section one (1), township twenty (20) and range eleven (11); the south half of the northeast quarter and the north half of the southeast quarter, southwest quarter of the southeast quarter, and the southwest quarter, the west half of the northwest quarter of section thirty-six (36), township twenty-one (21) and range eleven (11); the north half of the northeast quarter, southwest quarter of the northeast quarter, the east half of the east half of the southwest quarter, the southwest quarter of the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter and the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section two (2), township twenty (20) and range eleven (11); also the timber right on the following lands situated in the county of Chilton and State of Alabama, to-wit: The south half of the northeast quarter, north half of the southeast quarter and the north half of the southwest quarter of section sixteen (16), township twenty (20) and range twelve (12). This sale will be made to satisfy the debt secured by said mortgage, including a reasonable attorney's fee for the foreclosure of this mortgage and the collection of the debt and the cost of advertising.

ALEXANDER W. JONES,
Mortgagee.
E. CARLISLE JONES, Attorney.
1-25-06-4w

60 YEAR EXPERIEN
PATENT
TRADE MA DESIGN COPYRIGHTS
Anyone sending a sketch and descripti quickly ascertain our opinion free whet invention is probably patentable. Comm tions strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on P sent free. Oldest agency for securing pat Patents taken through Munn & Co. r special notice, without charge, in the
Scientific America
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Lar culation of any scientific journal. Term year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsd
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington,

We Club With
The New York W
THRICE-A-WEEK EDITIO
Read Wherever the English Language
For the autumn season now the most valuable paper to you the New York Thrice-a-week because it offers you more at than any other paper publish where in the world.
This is a time of great even are having great wars and changes of a stirring kind are co both at home and abroad. The a-Week World comes to you ev day, except Sunday, with all t fully, accurately and promptly
The Thrice-a-Week World is its political reports. You can truth from its columns, whether Republican or Democra and what you want.
The Thrice-a-Week World al a serial story running, and it is a first-class story by a first-class The Thrice-a-Week World p better fiction than any other n in the United States. Special is also given to markets, and t many other valuable features.
THE THRICE-A-WEEK W regular subscription price is per year, and this pays for We offer this unequaled news THE UNION together one year The regular subscription pr two papers is $2.00.

The man who violates the l a Democrat, not a Republi a criminal, and ought to be that way, declared Governor Missouri, at the Academy of Philadelphia.

VOL. III.

GENERAL S

Current News Garne the Plan

TRY WHITE LABOR

riment With Foreigners Ne Greensboro is Being Watched With Unusual Interest

Greensboro, Ala.—Dr. Downe Mr. Charley Rawls, t ter of the famous Mrs. Ella Raw ter, have discarded negro tenan their plantations and substitute tenants with most satisfa results. Mr. Rawls went to Ne early in the fall for the purpo ringing these tenants south. Th mostly Italians and Swedes wi Hungarians. They could n a word of English when th came but have already picked ugh to make themselves unde and to work well quickly, o larity about them being that th ot loll out the noon hour as t o did but immediately upon finis a meal they go laughing back fields. This experiment of the essful farmers wil be watch a great deal of interest by oth ters, for the labor question has b a serious one and the southe er will either have to have i d labor or a crop that can be p d with less manual labor th on.

Shot in Chest

lma.—About dark Friday afte at Niles Hardy's store, abo teen miles across the river B iams, while standing in his wag nging some boxes that had be d was shot through the body wi stol ball. He had the pistol in h e pocket, and was leaning ov stooping position, when the wea ell out and the hammer struck ox. The ball entered full in t t, and was taken out under t ring the calibre of the pistol a position of the wound, the wond hat death was not instantaneou at noon today he was still aliv clothing of the unfortunate m set on fire from the powder fro pistol, but was extinguished e who went to his assistance.

ceiver for Cooperage Company ontgomery.—Alleging that it h mitted acts of bankruptcy and over $65,000, three Montgome s today filed a petition in the Un States circuit court against t tgomery Cooperage company, ch D. A. G. Carson, of Savanna is president. It is alleged th able properties have been tra d to the Cooperage company, rida, of Jacksonville, Fla., whi wned and controlled by the sam pany. Jacques Loeb, of Montgo was named as receiver by Jud mas G. Jones, and the alleg krupt was ordered to appear Mar d make answer.

H. C. Gilbert Badly Hurt.

lorence.—The breaking loose of ator weight in the new building en & King, on Court street caus erious and perhaps fatal accide H. C. Gilbert, assistant cashier Merchants' bank. Mr. Gilbert w rning to the bank from dinn stopped to inspect the buildi was ascending in the tempora ator used to hoist building mat when a rope gave way and ght struck by a heavy timb ch broke way and hit Mr. Gilb he forehead. He was carried ho onscious and it was found th skull was cracked.

Bad Cotton Fire

afayette.—About half past thr ck Saturday morning fire was d red in the cotton on the platfor e Allen warehouse. Alarms we kly given and heroic fighting so n. After about an hour the flam under control. About forty-fi s were completely destroyed a t thirtyfive damaged. The flam r reached the warehouse nor t ral of Georgia depot, which w across the tracks from the pl s which were destroyed. Most louses were covered by insuran

Wright Gets Verdict

untsville.—In the circuit cou sday, the jury returned a verd the plaintiff for $1,200 dama he suit of James Wright agai Dallas Manufacturing compa ght lost a hand while at work mill and sued for $15,000. Not peal has been given.

Fatally Stabbed By Son

ark, Ala.—Thursday night Wi was fatally stabbed by Will K on, during a difficulty. The ca e trouble is not known. Both m well known farmers and have fa

, Alaban
ss Directory.

OLAF SCHI
Watchmaker
And Jewele
Horn's Drug S
Full assortment of Watche
elry, etc. All repair wor
anteed.

Thorsby Win
—Co.—
Lofthus & Bromberg, P

A. HORN
Drugs, Stationery and
Articles.
LICENSED PHARMA

City Bake
BREAD, CAKES
PIES
of all kinds, fresh every
K. A. EKBLA

A Langville &
BLACKSMITHS
and
HORSESHOERS
Dealers in
WAGONS and BUGG

C. L. Forsm
Brick Yard.

J. BICE
Charcoal Ovens

60 YEARS
EXPERIEN
PATENTS
TRADE MA
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS
Anyone sending a sketch and description quickly ascertain our opinion free whe invention is probably patentable. Comm tions strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on P sent free. Oldest agency for securing pa Patents taken through Munn & Co.
special notice, without charge, in the Scientific Americ
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Larg culation of any scientific journal. Term year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsd
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D.

We Club With
The New York Wo
THRICE-A-WEEK EDITIO
Read Wherever the English Language
For the autumn season now the most valuable paper to you the New York Thrice-a-week because it offers you more at t than any other paper publish
where in the world.
This is a time of great event are having great wars and changes of a stirring kind are oc both at home and abroad. The a-Week World comes to you ever day, except Sunday, with all th fully, accurately and promptly t
The Thrice-a-Week World is its political reports. You can truth from its columns, whether Republican or Democrat, and
what you want.
The Thrice-a-Week World alw
a serial story running, and it is a first-class story by a first-class
The Thrice-a-Week World pu better fiction than any other ne in the United States. Special is also given to markets, and th
many other valuable features.
THE THRICE-A-WEEK W
regular subscription price is per year, and this pays for
We offer this unequaled newspa
THE UNION together one year f
The regular subscription price
two papers is $2.00.

The man who violates the la a Democrat, not a Republic a criminal, and ought to be that way, declared Governor
Missouri, at the Academy of Philadelphia.

THE UNION.

EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL; SPECIAL FAVORS TO NONE.

VOL III. CLANTON, ALA., FEBRUARY 22 1906. NO. 48

GENERAL STATE NEWS.

Current News Garnered as It Falls From the Plant of Report.

TRY WHITE LABOR

periment With Foreigners Near Greensboro, is Being Watched With Unusual Interest

reensboro, Ala.—Dr. Downey Mr. Charley Rawls, the sher of the famous Mrs. Ella Rawls ader, have discarded negro tenants their plantations and substituted te tenants with most satisfac- results. Mr. Rawls went to New rk early in the fall for the purpose bringing these tenants south. They mostly Italians and Swedes with e Hungarians. They could not ak a word of English when they t came but have already picked up ugh to make themselves under- od and to work well quickly, one ularity about them being that they not loll out the noon hour as the ro did but immediately upon finish- a meal they go laughing back to fields. This experiment of these cessful farmers will be watched h a great deal of interest by other nters, for the labor question has be- e a serious one and the southern mer will either have to have im- ted labor or a crop that can be pro- ed with less manual labor than ton.

Shot in Chest

Selma.—About dark Friday after- on at Niles Hardy's store, about rteen miles across the river Ben illiams, while standing in his wagon anging some boxes that had been ded was shot through the body with pistol ball. He had the pistol in his ide pocket, and was leaning oved a stooping position, when the weap- fell out and the hammer struck on box. The ball entered full in the st, and was taken out under the ering the calibre of the pistol and position of the wound, the wonder that death was not instantaneous, at noon today he was still alive. e clothing of the unfortunate man s set on fire from the powder from pistol, but was extinguished by se who went to his assistance.

Receiver for Cooperage Company

Montgomery.—Alleging that it has mmitted acts of bankruptcy and is over $65,000, three Montgomery ns today filed a petition in the Unit- States circuit court against the ntgomery Cooperage company, of ich D. A. G. Carson, of Savannah. , is president. It is alleged tha uable properties have been trans- red to the Cooperage company, of rida, of Jacksonville, Fla., which owned and controlled by the same mpany. Jacques Loeb, of Montgom- , was named as receiver by Judge omas G. Jones, and the alleged nkrupt was ordered to appear March nd make answer.

H. C.Gilbert Badly Hurt.

Florence.—The breaking loose of an vator weight in the new building of ten & King, on Court street caused erious and perhaps fatal accident H. C. Gilbert, assistant cashier of Merchants' bank. Mr. Gilbert was urning to the bank from dinner stopped to inspect the building. was ascending in the temporary vator used to hoist building mater- when a rope gave way and a ght struck by a heavy timber ich broke way and hit Mr. Gilbert the forehead. He was carried home conscious and it was found that skull was cracked.

Bad Cotton Fire

Lafayette.—About half past three lock Saturday morning fire was dis- ered in the cotton on the platforms the Allen warehouse. Alarms were kly given and heroic fighting soon ued. After about an hour the flames re under control. About forty-five es were completely destroyed and out thirtyfive damaged. The flames ver reached the warehouse nor the ntral of Georgia depot, which was across the tracks from the plat- ms which were destroyed. Most of losses were covered by insurance.

Wright Gets Verdict

Huntsville.—In the circuit court rsday, the jury returned a verdict the plaintiff for $1,200 damages the suit of James Wright against Dallas Manufacturing company. ght lost a hand while at work in mill and sued for $15,000. Notice appeal has been given.

Fatally Stabbed By Son

Ozark, Ala.—Thursday night Wiley g was fatally stabbed by Will King son, during a difficulty. The cause the trouble is not known. Both men well known farmers and have fam-

BIRMINGHAM MAN SHOT

H. C. Stack is Killed by a 14-Year-Old Girl in North Carolina

Charlotte, N. C.—Tonight H. C. Stack, a fireman on the Southern railway, was shot and instantly killed by a fourteen year old girl named Hannon, at Concord, N. C. Stack came recently from Birmingham, Ala.

In company with another young man he had been at the house earlier in the night. He returned to get a muffler he had left, and was denied admittance. He went to the girl's window and was shot in the breast. The girl together with a sixteen year old sister and her father were arerested and placed in jail.

Jelks After Lynchers

Montgomery.—Governor Jelks went into the Gadsden lynching case as soon as he got back from New York. The first act was to offer rewards of $400 each for the first four convictions for the offense of murdering Bunk Richardson, an evidently innocent negro, in the dead hours of night early on the morning of Sunday last. That is he will pay from the funds at his disposal $1,200 for the first four who may be found guilty of taking part in the mob.

The governor is intensely interested in getting something done in this matter and he will not only pay these rewards but more if there are more convicted, and do whatever else he can to aid in the investigation. He will also furnish a special solicitor to try the cases if any are indicted.

While nothing has been said of the matter it is understood that it has been suggested that a special term of the court be held to look into the lynching. The governor has no right to order such a court, but it is within his province to indicate his desire for it if he thinks best.

V. A. Stewart Announces

Centreville.—V. A. Stewart has announced himself for the legislature from Bibb county, subject to the action of the democratic primary. Mr. Stewart is a farmer and a sawmill man an timber contractor. He is well known in Bibb county, having taken an active interest in political affairs of Bibb county for several years. He is a man who is true to his friends.

Daylight Holdup

Birmingham.—Al.Stafford, son of E. C. Stafford, was the victim of a bold holdup Saturday afternoon near the corner of Avenue G and Twenty-first street. Young Stafford was on his way home about 5 o'clock, when he was ordered to "stand and deliver." Having no means of defense, his hands went skyward and the robber, a negro girl, was able to take his property and make her escape.

White Man Paroled

Montgomery, Ala.—W. A. Mooney, a white man, who was sent to the penitentiary last year from Monroe county for violating the prohibition law, was Friday given a parole by Governor Jelks. The physicial condition of the convict and the assurance of his friends that he will not again practice the blind tiger business were the causes of his being given his freedom conditionally.

Petition Circulated for Tyson.

Anniston.—Thursday a petition was circulated among the members of the local bar requesting that they endorse Associate Justice John R. Tyson to succeed the late Chief Justice Thomas N. McClellan. Similar petitions were cidculated throughout the state and especially in southern and central Alabama was Justice Tyson strongly endorsed.

Old Officer Re-Elected

Florence—At a meeting of the directors of the First National Band officers for the coming year were elected. All the old officers were elected and the number of directors increased from five to eight. The new directors named are: T. J. Reader, A. Andrew Jackson and Turner Rice.

Rural Routes Established

Washington.—Rural route No. 1 established April 2 at Gordo, Pickens county, serving 420 people and 105 houses.

Strike Riots in Vienna

Berlin.—Special dispatches from Vienna to Friday's papers report that strike riots have occurred at Fiume, that the military fired upon a mob and that many were injured.

Vacant Justiceship Creates Gossip

Birmingham.—The talk over various applicants for the position of supreme court justice, vacated by the death of Chief Justice McClellan last week, has also given rise to discussion over the fact that there will be three justices to be chosen during the latter part of the year, including a a chief justice, as the man who is appointed to fill the present vacancy will only hold office until fall.

The terms of Justice Tyson and Dowdell are also to expire next fall, they having drawn the short terms when the present court was organized. It is over the filling of three vacancies which are thus to come that so much talk is going the rounds at present. The places will not be filled by election, as has previously been customary, but by the state convention.

One of the first applicants for the supreme bench, although he has as yet made no formal announcement, is Judge William H. Simpson, at present chancellor of the northern division of Alabama. Chancellor Simpson is said to have a very strong support in the northern part of the state, and is also strong in Birmingham, Montgomery and Tuscaloosa. Chancellor Simpson has served his home county with distinguished success for years. He graduated at the state university in 1879, and was ten years later appointjudge of the city court of Decatur by Governor Seay, when that court was created. Three years later he was elected to succeed himself. In 1895 the legislature abolished the city court of Decatur and created the new chancery division. Following his appointment as chancellor, by Governor Oates, he was twice elected to the position, which he still holds.

New Mining Company.

Scottsboro, Ala.—A number of well-known capitalists have made application before the county register for a charter of incorporation for the purpose of developing several thousand acres acres of mineral lands near Alto, in the upper end of Jackson county. The name of the company is the Cumberland Coal & Lime company, and the capital stock is $10,000. The incorporators are J. R. Pitner, H. J. Smith, B. H. Holder, W. O. Peeples and O. T. Peeples. These men own rich iron and coal lands in Jackson county, which will be developed at an early date.

Would Build "Tampa Northern."

Tampa, Fla.—H. F. Atkins, Martin M. Amorous and H. S. Arkwright, Atlanta capitalists have made a proposition to the Tampa Board of trade for building a railroad from Brookville, Fla., to Tampa, with the ultimate purpose of extending it northward to Atlanta and other points. They made a statement of what they would expect from this city. The board has taken the matter under consideration. The capitalists made enthusiastic speeches about the proposed road, which is to be known as the "Tampa Northern."

Thinks Adjournment About May 15

Washington.— Speaker Cannon says congress will adjourn about May 15. The speaker does not pretend to know the terms of agreement on railroad legislation and other matters, but believes everything wil work out inside the next three months.

The senate quarantine committee, Senator Morgan, chairman, held a brief session this morning and designated Senators Brandegee, Spooner and Mallory a sub committee to consider the national quarantine bill recently adopted by a conference of southern members.

Pierce Agrees To Testify

Jefferson City, Mo.—Attorney General Hadley announced that H. Clay Pierce, of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company had agreed to apper before Commissioner Anthony. at St. Louis in March and give testimony in the ouster suit filed against the Waters-Pierce and the Republic. Oil companies.

Nine Officers Arrested

Denver.—Late Saturday night Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, Charles D. Hayward, secretary, were arrested on a charge of complicity in the murder of the late Governor Steunenberg, of Idaho. Their arrest was made at the request of the authorities and an officer is here from Idaho to take the men to that state.

French Marriage Restrictions

It sounds somewhat incredible, but is none the less a fact, that a Frenchman under twenty-five years of age, whose parents are dead and whose grandfather or grandmother is alive, cannot enter the married state without the whritten authority of both or either of them.

Columbus, Ga.—The jury in the C. O. Everett murder case Friday brought in a verdict of not guilty.

WEDDING

Of Nicholas Longworth and Alice Lee Roosevelt Most Brilliant Affair.

NOTABLE GUESTS PRESENT

At Ceremony in Historic East Room of White House—Assemblage as Brilliant as Any Ever Gathered There.

Washington.—With a plain circlet of virgin gold, in the historic east room of the white house, at thirteen minutes after 12 o'clock Saturday, Alice Roosevelt, the American president's eldest daughter, and Nicholas Longworth, the representative in congress from the first district of Ohio, were united in marriage.

The ceremony—one of the most impressive ever performed in the executive mansion—was according to the liturgy of the Protestant Episcopal church, of which the bride is a member. It was solemnized by the devotional beauty of a cathedral service.

No ceremony of a similar kind ever was witnessed by a more distinguished assemblage. There were present as guests not only the most eminent representatives of the American government, but the personal commissioners of the Kings and potentates of the powers of the civilized world, constituting an assemblage not only one of the largest, but the most distinguished that ever was gathered at one time in the white house.

A halo of a hundred years of romantic white house history hung over the bridal couple. Miss Roosevelt was the twelfth bride, according to accepted authorities, to plight her troth within its classic walls and the identical spot where she today joined hands with the husband of her choice, "for better or for worse," is hallowed in the memory of another white house bride, Nellie Grant, who, thirty-two years ago, on the same spot, became the wife of an Englishman, Algernon C. F. Sartoris. Mrs. Sartoris was today one of the witnesses of Miss Roosevelt's wedding.

While the bride herself and the president and Mrs. Roosevelt had desired that the ceremony of the marriage should be quiet and simple as possible, it was found impracticable to limit the function, as was intended at first, to the immediate relatives of the bride and bridegroom. It became necessary to include among the guests invited certain official classes and personal friends of Miss Roosevelt and Mr. Longworth and, in all, the people bidden to the ceremony numbered a thousand.

Not since the incoming of the administration of President Roosevelt have the white house apartments been so exquisitely graced with flowers as they were Saturday. While no space necessary for guests was taken up with floral decorations, every room in the lower part of the executive mansion was brilliant with flowers and decorative plants. The decorations were planned and executed by Geo. H. Brown, of the government botanical gardens, who studied with the eye of an artist the color scheme of the rooms of the white house and developed his ideas of floral decorations in consonance with the coloring of the various apartments.

Fight For Blood

Philadelphia.—Two students at the University of Pennsylvania whose homes are in Paris, fought a duel on Franklin field with half inch point foils to settle a dispute which occurred in the class rom.

The principals were George Emile T. Belarami and Clataire Boudy, both of Paris. The two men are members of the senior class of the university dental schol.

The meeting was witnessed by thirty-five students. Pierre Jean Rousset, another French student, acted as referee.

The bout lasted for fifteen minutes. Towards the end of the affair Boudy, who did most of the damage and who was the only one to bring blood, slashed Beltrami's sword forearm, inflicting a gash about four inches long. The referee, however, awarded the bout to Beltrami inasmuch as he had made the first three touches upon his opponents body.

Chief Gerald is Dead

Montgomery.—Adolph S. Gerald, chief of police of Montgomery died Saturday night.

Captain Gerald had been chief of police for about a quarter of a century and was well known throughout the country.

BIG STICK

Being Felt in the Indian Territory—Some Very Startling Disclosures.

FRAUDS ARE TO BE PROBED.

The President is Taking Personal Interest in Charges Made in Connection With Affairs of Five Civilized Tribes.

Washington.—President Roosevelt has taken personal interest in the charges of fraud and corruption which are said to have occurred in connection with the affairs of the five civilized tribes in the Indian Territory. But for his interference, indictments against several parties alleged to have been engaged in illegal practices would have been quashed. Now, however, under his orders, the interior department is pushing its investigations with increased vigor, and it is reliably stated that in the near future a number of indictments will be reported against not only several men already indicted, but they will also include a number of persons whose names have not heretofore been brought into the cases, including a high government official in Washington.

When it became known to the president that the district attorney of Indian Territory had been instructed to quash some indictments already found, he immediately sent orders countermanding this proposed action. He was led to do this by information received by him after March 4th, when the tribal relations of the five civilized tribed cease, certain facts would be put into his possession which would strengthen the hands of the government in its efforts to bring to trial a number of persons guilty of gross frauds perpetrated against the Indians.

It is known that Secretary Hitchcock has submitted to the president and to Attorney General Moody a special report dealing with the whole subject, which it is said gives such details as to make it imperative for the government to act. For obvious reasons the report for the present at least will not be made public, but Secretary Hitchcock characterizes the disclosures it makes as "startling."

COTTON

Declines on Light Trade.

The sentiment in the local cotton market the past week was a little more bullish, and prices worked up about fifteen points. The spot demand was said to be somewhat larger in the south, and there was some accumulation of speculative cotton, thought to be for western account. Local operators, while more or less bearish at heart, were inclined to favor the bull side for a rally, but were not inclined to take on very much cotton, as the position was too uncertan. The market this morning was barely steady at the start, with prices one point down to two points up, making a poor response to steady Liverpool advices. There was some little selling for foreign account early in the day, and some professional switching from March to May at about 18 points difference, but aside from this there was very little feature. Prices eased off a few points, but quickly rallied, and throughout the morning showed a fairly firm undertone. Week-end statistics were bearish, the visible supply showing a small decrease compared with last year, although spinners' takings were somewhat larger. Indications pointed to a continued liberal movement, and bulls are finding it difficult to create any enthusiasm, as long as the movement keeps up to its present basis. There were some complaints of unfavorable weather and backward farming operations, but the season is still early, and it is the general expectation that a large area will be planted.

J. B. Stetson Dead.

Deland, Fla.—John B. Stetson, the millionaire hat manufacturer of Philadelphia, died at his winter home at Gillen, near DeLand, Sunday.

Mr. Stetson was stricken with apoplexy in the morning and notwithstanding the best medical attention he died without regaining consciousness. His wife was the only member of his immediately family with him. Mr. Stetson had been feeling quite ill. He attended the university trustees' meeting Thursday and the presentation day exercises at the auditorium Friday.

The family and friends left on the midnight train for Philadelphia with the body.

Professional Cards.

Attorneys.

William M. Adams,
Attorney-at-Law,
CLANTON.
Office, Adams Place. Practices in all Courts. Long time loans negotiated on improved Farm Lands.

N. S. JOHNSON, M. D.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
Office at
Clanton Drug Store CLANTON

L. V. STABLER, M. D
Physician & Surgeon
Office Over Horn's Drug Store
Thorsby, Alabama

A. C. SMITH J. OSMOND MIDDLETON
Smith & Middleton
Attorneys-at-Law
Practice in all Courts.
Office 6th St., Opp. Court House
CLANTON.

DR. E. G. HYMAN
DENTIST
Office in Tipton Mullins' Building
CLANTON

H. C. Junkerman
DENTIST
OFFICE: Franzen Building
Thorsby, Alabama.

G. H. GERALD,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Office at Thorsby Inn.
Deeds, Mortgages, Affidavits and other papers carefully made out.

I. S. Gerald, Notary Public
AT THORSBY SAVINGS BANK.

FREE
to Readers of
THE UNION

To everyone who sends us $1.00 for a year's subscription to THE UNION, new subscriber or renewal, we will give as a premium absolutely FREE,

A Year's Subscription
To
The Southern Ruralist

We have examined the Southern Ruralist and consider it to be the best and most practical farm paper published in the South, and it just suits this locality. Drop by The Union Office when you are in town and see a copy of the Ruralist. It will mean dollars in your pocket to read this paper with The Union for a year. tf.

TIMBER FOR SALE!

Over a hundred acres of Virgin Swamp timber for sale. Apply to T. J. Billingsley, Clanton, Ala, Route 3. tf.

NOTICE!

All who are owing me, by note or account, will please call and settle at once. I am needing the money and hope all will make prompt settlement.

Respectfully
A. A. JACKSON,
tf. Lomax, Ala.

Standard pears and strong growing cherries, 20 feet apart each way.

Killed By Train.

Decatur, Ala.—While returning from Swan Lake, on the north side of the Tennessee river, Alfred Gant, an employe of the Louisville and Nashville railroad shops, was run over by a freight train and his body badly bruised and cut. He was taken to Drs. Myers & Watson's office, where he died in a short time. The accident happened about the middle of the river bridge.

Thorsby, Alabama

Business Directory.

Commercial Club
OF THORSBY
DEFINITE and RELIABLE information furnished to parties who desire to locate in the South.

A. M. Johnson
Groceries and Delicatessen

J. J. STANLEY
GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

MRS. MARY R. RASBERRY
General Merchandise.

E. H. Adams
General Merchandise.

J. R. PARNELL
General Merchandise.

"MOLINE" Farming Implements and "FLORENCE" Wagons in stock at all times.
J. K. ORR SHOES.

J. L. FOSS
Meat Market.

The Thorsby Inn
G. C. Michelson, Prop.
Good Beds and Meals.

OLAF SCHIVE,
Watchmaker
And Jeweler
Horn's Drug Store
Full assortment of Watches, Jewelry, etc. All repair work guaranteed.

Thorsby Winery
—Co.—
Lofthus & Bromberg, Props

A. HORN
Drugs, Stationery and Toilet Articles.
LICENSED PHARMACIST.

City Bakery
BREAD, CAKES and PIES
of all kinds, fresh every day.
K. A. EKBLAD

A Langville & Son
BLACKSMITHS
and
HORSESHOERS
Dealers in
WAGONS and BUGGIES

C. L. Forsman
Brick Yard.

J. BICE
Charcoal Ovens.

While in a state of melancholia, Ernest J. Norton, one of the richest young men of Louisville, Ky., shot himself.

Lewis Nixon arrived in New York City, having completed dis shipbuilding contracts in Russia

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the payment of the debt secured by a certain mortgage executed to the undersigned on the 9th day of February, 1900, by William L. Parnell and wife, Eliza J. Parnell, and recorded in the Probate office of Chilton county, Alabama, in Mortgage Record 53, on page 217 et seq., and said default still continuing, I, the said Alexander W. Jones, will sell, under the power in said mortgage contained, on Tuesday the 27th day of February, 1906, in front of the court house door of Chilton county, in the city of Clanton county of Chilton and State of Alabama, during the legal hours of sale, at public outcry to the highest and best bidder for cash, the following described real estate situated, lying and being in said county and State, to-wit: The south half of the northwest quarter, the southwest quarter, the south half of the northeast quarter and the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter, the west half of the southeast quarter and the north half of the northwest quarter of section one (1), township twenty (20) and range eleven (11); the south half of the northeast quarter and the north half of the southeast quarter, southwest quarter of the southeast quarter, and the southwest quarter, the west half of the northwest quarter of section thirty-six (36), township twenty-one (21) and range eleven (11); the north half of the northeast quarter, southwest quarter of the northeast quarter, the east half of the east half of the southwest quarter, the southwest quarter of the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter and the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section two (2), township twenty (20) and range eleven (11); also the timber right on the following lands situated in the county of Chilton and State of Alabama, to-wit: The south half of the northeast quarter, north half of the southeast quarter and the north half of the southwest quarter of section sixteen (16), township twenty (20) and range twelve (12). This sale will be made to satisfy the debt secured by said mortgage, including a reasonable attorney's fee for the foreclosure of this mortgage and the collection of the debt and the cost of advertising.

ALEXANDER W. JONES,
Mortgagee.
E. CARLISLE JONES, Attorney.
1-25-06-4w

60 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

We Club With
The New York World
THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION.

Read Wherever the English Language is Spoken

For the autumn season now at hand the most valuable paper to you will be the New York Thrice-a-week world, because it offers you more at the price than any other paper published anywhere in the world,

This is a time of great events. We are having great wars and other changes of a stirring kind are occurring both at home and abroad. The Thrice-a-Week World comes to you every other day, except Sunday, with all the news, fully, accurately and promptly told.

The Thrice-a-Week World is fair in its political reports. You can get the truth from its columns, whether you are Republican or Democrat, and that is what you want.

The Thrice-a-Week World always has a serial story running, and it is always a first-class story by a first-class author. The Thrice-a-Week World publishes better fiction than any other newspaper in the United States. Special attention is also given to markets, and there are many other valuable features.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequaled newspaper and THE UNION together one year for $1.50.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.00. tf.

The man who violates the law is not a Democrat, not a Republican—he is a criminal, and ought to be treated that way, declared Governor Folk, of Missouri, at the Academy of Music in Philadelphia.

Orchard and Garden

SORGHUM FOR FEED.

Not long since I noticed an article and discussion on sorgum in the Indiana Farmer. The article led me to write a little from experience and observation on the subject.

As we had 12 head of young mules to feed this winter and hearing of sorgum hay being fine we tried it. After the corn was planted we broke and fined down about one acre, hill clay ground, not any too rich either, but the only place convenient at the time, and as home dealers wanted $2.75 per bushel for sorghum seed we bought at Indianapolis at $1.50 per bushel, got 1¼ bushels and sowed on the acre with a two horse wheat drill. It was plenty thick, but that was all right as it wasn't so course. It grew about as tall as a man's head and so thick a dog could hardly go through it. It blew down some in a wind that flattened corn. When the majority of the heads had turned brown or black we cut with a mower; that was September 25. We let it lay about a week, the blades were cured, then we raked with self dump sulky rake and then shocked as you would timothy hay. It finished curing in the shock. It made the most feed to the amount of ground I ever saw, fully twice as much as the heaviest timothy, and it was hay easy made, too.

It will not spoil in the shock; just leave out in the shock and haul as you feed it through the winter. The mules and horses relish it, eat up stalk and all, for the stalk is juicy and sweet. It will make more feed to the acre than anything else in the line of dry and cured feed.

A friend of mine once drilled the cane with a corn planter (I think) tended same as corn and cut with a corn binder, then set the bundles up in shocks like fodder. That looks like it would be all right for those who had a corn binder. I have heard two mule feeders say that sorgum hay was the best feed for mules and I am inclined to think so myself. Shock it up and leave it out; needn't be afraid of it spoiling. If you have never tried sorgum hay it is worthy of a trial at least. After once tried, you will probably try it again and again especially if you see that your timothy or clover hay crop is going to be short of your expectation. You will find it the heayiest stuff to handle though, until it gets cured out.

We are inclined though to think that where an excess is fed, it is liable to give stock the scours, but are not certain, possibly something else might have been the cause. At present, January 1, we are feeding it right along in place of hay and the mules and horses are doing fine on it.—Abraham Bros., in Indiana Farmer.

A FLOCK THAT DOES WELL.

I would like to offer a ration for M. E. Roxbury, of Vermont, who says in your issue of November 20 that two to five eggs a day were as much as he could at that time make his hens produce.

I was getting at that time about a 30 per cent. egg production from Rhode Island Reds, and new pullets were beginning to lay nearly every day. The flock is composed of twenty-three yearling hens and fifty-seven pullets, a total of eighty, and the yearling hens averaged 40 per cent. production from August 1 to December 1, through the trying period, and are still at it. For the morning mash, which is fed at sunrise, I take two quarts of cornmeal and pour over it boiling water. This swells the meal about one-half and lightens the mash. I put just sufficient water to make a good stiff batter. Into this I stir four quarts of bran, one quart of feed flour and one quart of Bowker's meat scrap. One would think the scalded meal would not take up this amount of dry grain, but it will if you stir long enough, and right here lies one great secret of a good mash, viz., plenty of stirring to bring it to a crumbly condition. Too many persons make the mash much too moist, because it stirs more easily. This is fed in troughs, and is for eighty hens.

The above makes a fairly rich mash, and as his hens are a little out of condition, he should feed the meat food separately, keeping it before them all the time, giving the first feed of it after they have had a full feed of mash or grain, so they will not overeat of it and produce bowel trouble. It is conceded that, where milk is given fowls to drink, less meat is required, and if fed separately each hen can eat as much or as little as she chooses.

If the hens eat the mash ravenously and clean it up in a few minutes, I give each thirty fowls a pint of wheat or cracked corn in the litter; at noon one pint of wheat and once quart of cracked corn, and at 3 p. m. one quart of wheat and one quart of cracked corn, all in the litter for them to scratch out. Exercise is healthful and keeps them from feather pulling, egg eating, etc.

Of course judgment must be used. If the bowels are too loose, cut the mash out for one morning and feed again in the litter.

Give them the cattle beets at least every other day, as the green food will aid materially in warding off disease.

The above treatment, with no milk, is giving me excellent satisfaction, and a 40 per cent egg production during the moulting period speaks well for the condition of the stock eating it.

A variety is necessary, but settle on a ration and stick to it, and perseverance will generally bring good results in good time.—D. J. Ryther, in the Tribune Farmer.

TREATMENT OF SHYING.

Young horses which are being, or have just been, broken in are very generally apt to shy more or less at various objects and sights until they have become thoroughly familiar with and used to the road or street.

Nor is it in any way surprising that they should shy more or less frequently in these circumstances, seeing that they are unfamiliar with many things they meet. Such natural nervousness gradually but quickly wears off, as a rule, and the shying ceases. No importance need, therefore, be attached to this form of shying in a young horse, as it is but natural and quite temporary in character only.

There is, however, a right and a wrong way of treating this kind of shying. The right way is to be gentle to the young animal when it shies, to allay its nervousness by speaking to it quietly. If it will not pass an object or shows much fear of it, the young horse should be coaxed to it with patience, so that the animal may have the opportunity of familiarizing itself with it and of smelling at it. Once having done this, and being convinced that its fears are groundless, the young horse will no longer evince any fear of it, and the next time will probably take very little notice of it.

Patience and kindness are all that is needed under these conditions. Unfortunately, but too frequently, the horses are punished with the whip, jabbed in the mouth with the bit, and roughly spoken to, being forced past the object by sheer rough treatment, the result being that the animal's fears are much increased, that it's temper is upset, and that increased trouble is experienced next time it shies at something of which it is afraid or which is unfamiliar to it. Such treatment is eminently calculated to spoil the young animal, being apt either to cow it or to rouse its temper and obstinacy. In some cases, young horses actually become confirmed and bad shyers in consequence of such wrong and senseless treatment.—American Cultivator.

SEARCH FOR OUTLAW'S GOLD.

Treasure Stolen from Outlaws Buried in Indian Territory.

During the closing years of the Civil War, when the Indian Territory was the habitation of scores of lawless bands who lived by pillaging the country, a cask of gold was taken from a party of soldiers on their way to Fort Gibson and buried somewhere in the vicinity of what is known as Willow Springs.

Upon the arrival of the soldiers at the fort without the gold a large detachment of soldiers was sent out against the bands of outlaws. A battle ensued in which all of the outlaws were killed except one. This one was sentenced to a life term in the penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth.

Hope had never faded from this man, and he expected some day to be pardoned and then to return for the hidden treasure. As the years rolled by, however, the confinement broke the man in health, and a few weeks ago he passed away in his cell in the government prison. Before he died, though, this man told his attendants the story of the robbery and as nearly as possible where the treasure was buried.

A party has been in the Willow Springs country for several weeks searching for the lost gold, but no trace has been found. So much faith has been pinned to the dying man's story, though, another search is to be instigated. The previous hunters have been persons entirely unfamiliar with the country, but now one of Vinita's young men who has lived near Willow Springs since childhood will be employed and a thorough search made.—Vinita Chieftain.

But He Swung His Lantern.

Representative J. Sharp Williams tells a tale of the days when he was counsel for a railway line.

At one point on its line the company had stationed an old negro watchman whose duties consisted in warning travelers, when a train approached. One night a wagon belonging to a farmer was struck, resulting in a bad accident. The company was sued for damages and the old colored man was the principal witness for his employers. Among the questions was one as to whether he was sure that he had swung his lantern across the road when he perceived the train approaching. The negro replied:

"I shorely did, sah!"

The trial resulted in a verdict for the company, and Mr. Williams, as counsel took early occasion to compliment the aged negro on his excellent testimony, to which the latter replied:

"Thankee, Marse John, but I was sorely skeered when dat lawyer man begin to ask me about de lantern. I was afreaid for a minute dat he was goin' to ask me if it was lit or not. De oil done give out some time befo' de accident!"—Success.

The members of the new British Cabinet seem to be outdoor men.

A GREAT COMBINATION OFFER

We Will Furnish the "TWICE-A-WEEK" Issue of the
St. Louis Globe-Democrat
With
THE UNION
For
$1.50 Both Papers, one year, only $1

The St. Louis Globe Democrat should not be classed with the many weekly papers. It is a high-grade Semi-Weekly, eight or more pages, Tuesday and Friday. It is beyond all comparison the biggest, best and cheapest National News and Home Journal published in the United States. It is a Republican in Politics but is above all

A Great Modern Newspaper.

It is not made up indiscriminately from the Daily issue. It is carefully edited with special reference to the needs of the Farmer, the Merchant and professional man who desires to keep thoroughly posted without sparing time to read a large Daily Paper. It also contains a great variety of well selected reading matter, making it invaluable to every member of the family.

This Liberal Clubbing Offer

is open to all old or new subscribers, but may be withdrawn at any time, as we must receive the cash with order. Address

THE UNION,
Clanton, Ala.

Ben M. Jacobs & Bros.
Furniture and Rugs.
—SOLE AGENTS—
Globe-Wernicke Elastic Book Cases and Filing Cabinets.
Catalogue for the asking.
BIRMINGHAM, AL

DISPATCH PRINTING CO
Blank Book Makers and Lithographers.
County and Office Supplies a Specialty.
Ask for Estimates.
2113-2119 Morris Ave. BIRMINGHAM, A

Farmers' Mutual Insurance Associati
OF ALABAMA.
CHARTERED BY SPECIAL ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE
By the People and for the People.
Chilton County Branch
Organized February 3, 1900.
W. M. WILSON, President. WALLACE C. EDLER, Sec'y.-Treas.

INSURES Farmers' dwellings, outbuildings and contents and live stock against loss by fire, wind and lightning. The cheapest, safest and most sensible method of insurance known to man

Average Yearly Cost for Five and a half Years 43-100 of 1 per cent

Full particulars furnished upon application to WALLACE C. EDLER, Clanton, Ala.

PAUL CALAME,
205 21st Street
Birmingham, Ala.
Practical Watchmaker and Optician
Eyes Correctly Fitted
Mail orders promptly filled

DO YOU WANT
Letterheads, Noteheads, Billheads, Envelopes,
OR ANYTHING ELSE PRINTED?
Then Call at
THE UNION OFFICE
and See Fine Work at Low Prices.
500 Noteheads 500 Envelopes All For $2.00
Good Work on Good Material, done on Good Machines
Don't forget! THE UNION, Clanton, Alabama.

ADVERTISE IN
Your Home Paper
FOR GOOD RESULTS.

In the Mid...

DAVID'S CHRIS...

...ness and desolate ... old farm house stood in ... ness ... sky ... ah! years ago there was ... love, peace, happiness within ... But it was so many, many ... ago, that the oldest inhabitant ... the surrounding country had ... forgotten about such things ... peeped their unfruitful heads ... the snow reaching from the ... dilated porch leaning like an old ... litated man propped upon two ... s, down to the broken gate dang ... ling from its rusty hinges fastened ... to the rotten post. Barns burst ... with decayed hay, toppling and ... ening to the four winds of heaven ... solidified upon their foundations ... the loads and tons of the waste ... vestings of years, stood out like ... silhouettes of despair and ruin ... inst the chill landscape ... nd above all sailed the moon, pale ... Lady of the Night; and she smiled ... ely down upon the picture ... less harvestings, this phantasm ... a of neglect and ruin. ... Within the farm house the paper ... g from the crumbling and blackened ... walls in tattered malodorous rags ... e. Rats gnawed at the doors ... boards long since barren of food ... the marauders dragged from out ... that had not been replenished ... years, cobs, and made merry with ... mouldy remnants of bygone feasts ... mph the deserted chambers, or ... lease, tantalize and fret the head ... and brain of the only human being ... nt of the place, David Dreams, the ... ffuse, the miser. ... "Drat 'em and cuss 'em! They ... aling food, my food," would grow ... old recluse tossing uneasily upon ... dilapidated bed up in the attic ... d the stars that peeped through ... dust-laden panes of glass in the ... of blinked at him and mocked him ... he shivered among his rags. ... The old man would rise, light a ... w dip and go down the narrow ba... irs leading to the cheerless kitch... and chase the thieving marauders ... rough the hole in the cellar door ... would nail a piece of tin over the ... le; and mumble with toothless jaws ... "There, they'll not come again un... ey gnaw another hole, drat 'em ... as 'em!" ... Back to his attic he would crawl ... t before falling upon his rags ... d bed he would open the little cac... the chimney wall and fondle ... ress the roll of musty rotting b... d rusty coins and say: ... "It's all mine, all mine! My pr... s darlings!" ... Did he sleep? ... Like a child undisturbed; and if ... reamed he only dreamed of go... neer, comfort, ease and plenty as ... y stretched there upon the ... hich he shared with the vermin ... one, with his beloved money. ... Greed was his god, hunger his ha... aiden. And he must work and ... ceasing, dig and use thrift else ... aunt wolf will come and snarl at ... oor. ... In the entry leading to the m... ellar hung—as it had hung for ... ears—a petrified slab of bacon. Da... reams would pet and pat it as

"It's all mine, all mine!" ... assed it. He would fondle and ... ess it, smell of it and lick his ... lue lips and mumble: ... "What a glorious feast I'll ... ometime—but not now, not n... And the slab of bacon would s... nd bow and beckon beneath ... ouch when he waved the tallow ... ver it gloatingly. ... But the rats wanted it, too. ... wo years the tantalizing morsel ... ung there in the dark entry be... eir reach. Climb as they m... ey could not reach it. It mo... ess, fretted and bothered the

BINATION OFFER
"TWICE-A-WEEK" issue
the——
Globe-Democr
With—— UNION
For——
one year, only $1.
ould not be classed with the many
i-Weekly, eight or more pages,
omparison the biggest, best and ch olished in the United States. It is ern Newspaper.
from the Daily issue. It is car ds of the Farmer, the Merchant an thoroughly posted without sparing
o contains a great variety of well
every member of the family.
Clubbing Offer
t may be withdrawn at any time,
ess
THE UNION,
Clanton, Ala.
obs & Bros.
and Rugs.
AGENTS—
tic Book Cases
Cabinets.
INGHAM, AL
RINTING CO
and Lithographers.
Supplies a Specialty.
BIRMINGHAM, A
surance Associati
ABAMA.
ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE
d for the People.
unty Branch
bruary 3, 1900.
WALLACE C. EDLER,
Sec'y.-Treas.
gs, outbuildings and cont
by fire, wind and lightn ost sensible method of in 43-100 of 1 per ce
n application to
C. EDLER, Clanton,
Practical Watchma
and Optician
Eyes Correctly
Fitted
Mail orders promptly f
WANT
Noteheads,
Envelopes,
CLSE PRINTED?
Call at N OFFIC
rk at Low Prices.
For $2.00
done on Good Machi
N, Clanton, Alabama.
ISE IN me Paper
RESULTS.

In the Midst of Alarms

A boy alarming finds the scheme
Of college life.
Death lurks upon the football team
And in the strife.
Aftecliant on toat annual rush
Teleped the "zone."
Where hapless men in one mad crush
Are swiftly slain.

He shall he may bite the dirt
From blow of bat.
I should he come through it unhurt
There is the "frat."
A college man must ever look alive,
I wish to state;
The only wonder is that some survive
To graduate.

—Philadelphia Bulletin.

DAVID'S CHRISTMAS DONATION

BY HORACE SEYMOUR KELLAR

(Copyright, 1905, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

...ess and desolate the ... farm house stood in all ... outlined against a gray, ... sky.

...ish' years ago there was com... love, peace, happiness within its ... But it was so many, many ...rs ago, that the oldest inhabitants ... surrounding country had al... gotten about such things. ... peeped their unfruitful heads ... the snow reaching from the ... and porch leaning like an old ... man propped upon two ... down to the broken gate de... from its rusty hinges fasten... to the rotten post. Barns burst... with decayed hay, toppling and ...ing to the four winds of heaven, ... solidified upon their foundations ...h the loads and tons of the wasted ...ings of years, stood out like ...ilhouettes of despair and ruin ...inst the chill landscape.

...And above all sailed the moon, pal... Lady of the Night; and she smiled ... down upon the picture of ... harvestings, this phantasma... of neglect and ruin.

...n the farm house the paper ... from the crumbling and blacken... ...s in tattered malodorous rib... Rats gnawed at the doors of ...rds long since barren of food. ... marauders dragged from old ... had not been replenished ... cobs, and made merry with ...oldy remnants of bygone feasts ... the deserted chambers, only ... tantalize and fret the heart, ... brain of the only human hab... of the place, David Dreams, the ... the miser.

...m and cuss 'em! They're ...ing food, my food," would growl ... old recluse tossing uneasily upon ...s dilapidated bed up in the attic. ...nd the stars that peeped through ...e dirt-laden panes of glass in the ...f blinked at him and mocked him ...e shivered among his rags.

The old man would rise, light a tal... dip and go down the narrow back ...airs leading to the cheerless kitch... and chase the thieving marauders ...rough the hole in the cellar door. ...e would nail a piece of tin over the ...ole, and mumble with toothless jaws: "There, they'll not come again until ...ey gnaw another hole, drat 'em, ...uss 'em!"

Back to his attic he would crawl, ...t before falling upon his ragged ...d bed he would open the little cache ...n the chimney wall and fondle and ...aress the roll of musty rotting bills ...nd musty coins and say:

"It's all mine, all mine! My precious darlings!"

Did he sleep?

Like a child undisturbed; and if he dreamed he only dreamed of good cheer, comfort, ease and plenty as he lay stretched there upon the bed which he shared with the vermin—ate with his beloved money.

God was his god, hunger his hand ...ave. And he must work and toil ...ne rising, dig and use thrift else the ...ame wolf will come and snarl at his ...oor.

...he entry leading to the musty ...ellar hung—as it had hung for two ...ears—a petrified slab of bacon. David ...reams would pet and pat it as he

"It's all mine, all mine!"

passed it. He would fondle and caress it, smell of it and lick his thin blue lips and mumble:

"What a glorious feast I'll have sometime—but not now, not now." And the slab of bacon would swing and bow and beckon beneath his touch when he waved the tallow dip over it gloatingly.

But the rats wanted it, too. For two years the tantalizing morsel had hung there in the dark entry beyond their reach. Climb as they might they could not reach it. It mocked them, fretted and bothered them.

But the bugs and beetles, the ants and the vermin could reach it—and they feasted away at its goodness until it was but as a shred.

* * * * * *

"Well, it was real good of Mr. Dreams to send us this lot of money. My! but it almost takes my breath away—and him such a miser. Poor man! He went wrong when his wife died and when his son ran away to sea."

"I fear the world will turn about to-day. David Dreams has sent enough money to pay for all this nice dinner we are giving to the poor this Christmas day. My! but the money smells musty, the coins are all rust. What a lot of dirty money it is——"

"Never mind, money's money. I guess we made a mistake when we called him an old skinflint of a miser. He's sent us more money than all the rest together. Money enough to help us out on the new church—"

"Money enough to buy a new organ and a carpet for the Sunday school. We'll have a fine library and lots of things. I for one shall pray for David Dreams before this Christmas day passes."

And the preparations for the grand Christmas feast went on. The pots

"Give me back my bacon"

and kettles bubbled and simmered, the turkeys were browned to a rich hue and flavored to the proper point. The tables groaned beneath the load of good things, and the old town hall was merry from foundation to roof this glad Christmas day.

And while the feast was on an old man hobbled and stumbled down the country road leading to the town. He reached the door of the hall, opened it and burst in upon the merry gathering. His face was black with wrath as he stood there leaning upon his two sticks, and he looked like a demon of wrath as he fastened his eyes upon the merry ones.

"Give me back my bacon—I'm hungry. You have taken my food."

"David, sit down and eat with us if you are hungry. We are all so thankful to you for sending us the money—"

"I sent no money. I sent the bacon. I was forced to send it by the ghost of David Dreams. He came to me last night and made me do it."

"You talk strangely, David Dreams. You surely sent us money—"

"It's a lie, a blasting lie. You cannot fool me with your cant and whine, parson. Give me back my bacon."

"You must be dreaming, David Dreams—"

"Stop! Dreaming—dreaming! Ah! It all comes back to me now. I did dream that I was forced by the old David Dreams, the David Dreams of other days, to send the bacon for the Christmas feast. I did send it— or thought I did. I—I made a mistake and sent—the—the money."

"David Dreams, the money is here yet. You can have it all back. But see the good it can do. Look at the poor people feasting as they never have before. See the glad light in the eyes of the little ones. Does it not touch your heart and make it warmer than it has been for many a year? Be one with us. Give up the old greed and become as a little child, sweet and innocent once more. Will you, David Dreams?"

David Dreams faltered. His limbs shook under him, and his heart fluttered. His eyes became moist and a strange lump came into his throat and choked him. He fell upon a chair and bowed his head. And one of the little tots came and wound her warm arms about his neck and pressed a soft kiss upon his grizzled cheek.

The ice melted away from his heart and the warm blood flowed through his veins as it had not for many a year. When he lifted his face it was another David Dreams that looked at the good people gathered there.

And after he had made merry with them all and enjoyed to the full the newness of his awakened heart he went back to his home—now no longer the home of desolation and ruin. For every nook and corner of it was lightened by the glorious light of kindness, love for fellow man and a sincere love for the God who opened his eyes this Christmas day.

ADVICE FROM THE PROFESSOR.

Perhaps Not Strictly in Order, but Still Good Sense.

A young Southern lawyer sat in the Supreme court in which Justice Henry M. Gildersleeve was trying a case. "This is the first time I have ever seen the justice," he said, "but if he's as broad-minded as other members of his family there'll be no narrow application of the law in this case. A relative of his, Prof. Gildersleeve, was my professor in the University of Virginia. I was in the same class of which young Bradley Johnson, son of the famous Confederate General of that name, who died last fall, was a member. One day several of us had been out on a carouse and had failed to appear for recitations. It was our duty to report to Prof. Gildersleeve and make our excuses. I think it was I that was deputed to present the excuse. I hadn't said much when the professor broke in with a sternness which made us wish we couldn't tell the difference between French wine and corn whisky.

"'Young gentlemen,' he said, 'you must realize you have entered upon the stern realities of life.'

"We all bowed humbly, wondering whether expulsion was to be our fate.

"'Young gentlemen,' he added, 'never take it with water. I never do. Good day, gentlemen.'"—New York Times.

Supreme Test of Love.

"George, we have been married just a year to-day, haven't we?" said Mrs. Worthington, as George came home from work, tired and rather out of sorts.

"Yes, dear, did you think I had forgotten it?"

"No, George; but I just thought I would mention it. And, George, in all this time has your love for me wavered for an instant? Has the horrible thought come to you at any time that you had made a mistake? Do you still feel the same toward me that you did upon that night a year ago, when you promised to love me always, to care for me and protect me through the trials to follow? Do you still feel the same?"

"Why, dearest, how can you ask such questions, when you know that I have done all in my power and with my whole heart to make you happy; when you know that I would willingly do anything you ask."

"Then, George," sighed Mrs. Worthington, as she threw her arms around his neck and kissed him, "there is one thing I must ask of you."

"Yes, dearest."

"I shall have to ask you to go down and discharge the cook. I haven't got the nerve."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Appreciated Adulation.

Dr. Lorimer, on his return from abroad about two years ago, told this anecdote to the passengers of the steamship New England:

"The Hon. Justin McCarthy and I were the guests of a business men's club at the Imperial, Cork, Ireland, when the following story was told by the noted author, as a post-prandial:

"'An old school chum of mine by the name of Michael Hooley went to America in the early eighties to seek his fortune. His first position was that of a street sweeper, and then he was called "Hooley." In about a year he became "Fireman Hooley"; then he was promoted to "Policeman Hooley," and finally it became "Alderman Hooley." One bright autumn Sunday, after he became "Councilman Hooley," as he entered the doors of Tremont Temple, great was his pleasure when the entire congregation arose in a body and shouted: "Hooley, Hooley, Hooley Lord God Almighty."'"—Boston Herald.

Mysterious Disease.

A new sickness has appeared recently and is known as Morkus Sabbaticus, or Sunday sickness, and is a disease peculiar to church members. The attack comes on suddenly every Sunday; no symptoms are felt on Saturday night; the patient sleeps well, and eats a hearty breakfast, but about church time the attack comes on and continues until the services are over for the morning. Then the patient feels easy and eats a good dinner. In the afternoon he feels much better and is able to take a walk, talk about politics and read the Sunday papers; he eats a hearty supper, and about church time he has another attack and stays at home. He retires early, sleeps well and wakes up on Monday morning refreshed and able to go to work, and does not have any symptoms of the disease until the following Sunday.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Like Meeting an Old Friend.

The elderly cannibal greeted the new missionary warmly.

"Jackson?" he said, with a vigorous pressure of the hand. "Surely not K. Hooker Jackson III?"

"Yes," said the young man, beaming. "Yes. The same."

"Then it will interest you to know, sir," said the savage, "that I once served your grandfather, the first K. Hooker."

"Indeed? And in what way?" the missionary said.

"Broiled," the other answered, grinning ominously.

BROUGHT DOWN SWELLED HEAD

New Englander's Self-Importance Given Severe Shock.

The discussion had turned upon the subject of "swelled heads," and former State Senator John Ford told the following:

"In a little town in New England there was once a man who had a great idea of his own importance. He had the worst sort of a swelled head, and thought the town could not exist without him. He had held town offices and sincerely believed that no one discharged the duties of those offices as he had. He had also helped the town materially by giving it money for various purposes. But he was not content with the thanks of the townspeople for his services. He believed that there should be some distinct recognition of his worth to the community. So one day at a town meeting he asked permission to be buried in the town plot in the center of which the town hall stood.

"The Town Councillors laughed and the petition was tabled. The following year he petitioned for the same thing, and again it was tabled. The third year the same thing occurred.

"The fourth year the chairman of the Petition Committee arose and said: 'I have here a petition from the Hon. Mr. B——, asking that he may be buried in the town plot. I move, gentlemen, that we grant this petition, provided the petitioner is buried there next week.' The motion went through amid shouts of laughter and the petition was never again presented."—New York Press.

Russia's New Minister of Finance.

Admiral Birileff brings a robust disposition to his new task. He is a rollicking salt, with a Homeric stammer, a practical joker, like Lord Charles Beresford. Stories about him are numberless. Here is one: When Admiral Shestakoff was in power he passed a rigorous rule that his young officers must not bankrupt themselves in buying boquets for visiting royalties. The empress was to visit a ship on which Birileff served. As her majesty descended to the cabin a huge bouquet of flowers mysteriously appeared on the table, and delighted royalty at once took possession of it. Admiral Shestakoff saw the mass of fragrant blossoms in the imperial hands and turned furiously to his officer.

"Did I not give orders that no one must present flowers?"

"N-nobody did!" stammered Birileff; "s-she t-took it hers-self!"—Harper's Weekly.

The Fall of Galahad.

Her hair was brown, but dusted gold
Shown on it, by a young wind blown;
It lived in light and seemed to hold
The sun or star shine for its own.

Her eyes were like Our Lady's gray;
They ransomed light for other light;
They were a daydream of the day,
The echo of a perfect night.

The beauty of her face compelled
All thought, all reason, everything,
Yet half-withdrew, and just withheld
The crown of its imagining.
Her step was like a soft leaf's fall
That wakes a sleeper in the wood,
It came, and then it went, then all
Had gone from life that seemed most good.

One instant, for a moment's space,
She stood before him where he prayed;
He saw her eyes, her hair her face—
The wind that touched her in the glade.

He left his prayer, forgot the place,
Forgot the Vision of the Grael;
He saw her eyes, her hair her face—
His hilt-cross struck the alter-rail.

The music ceased, the shrine was rent—
He never cast one glance behind,
But followed on the way she went,
A hidden way and hard to find.
—A. H., in the Spectator (London.)

The Usual Way.

"Here's a good story," said the wife, looking up from her paper. "Here's a story of a man who bragged that he could make as good a hat as anybody could want by selecting the materials and then combining them as they are in the latest models. And when he had done so, he found that the raw materials cost him $2 more than the finished hat would have cost."

"I don't believe it," asserted the husband. "Now, here's another story in my paper. It's about a man who took the household management out of his wife's hands, and at the end of a month, after doing all the marketing and arranging the meals himself, he had lowered the expenses of the house 40 per cent."

"I don't believe it," declared the wife. "You can't believe a thing you read about the way men can manage better than women."

The Irish Sentry.

An Irish soldier on sentry duty had orders to allow no one to smoke near his post. An officer with a lighted cigar approached, whereupon Pat boldly challenged him, and ordered him to put it out at once. The officer with an air of disgust threw away his cigar, but no sooner was his back turned than Pat picked it up and quietly retired to the sentry box.

The officer happening to look around observed a beautiful cloud of smoke issuing from the box. He at once challenged Pat for smoking on duty.

"Smoking, is it, sur? Bedad, and I'm only keeping it lit to show to the corporal when he comes as evidence agin' you."

Poetry in the Black Hills.

"Wall," remarked the driver of the weekly stage, "I see you have a book called 'How to Write Poetry.' Has it helped you any?"

"Dunno," ejaculated the bard of the Black Hills. "I don't exactly ketch on to some things."

"What be they?"

"Wall, right here it says: 'If you don't succeed in poetry at first keep plugging away.' Blamed if I know whether it means to keep plugging at the poetry or the editor."

IN THE BALTIC PROVINCES

Russia's Baltic provinces are at the present time busily engaged in making history, so that the following facts may be of interest. Esthonia, Kurland and Livonia are the districts principally involved. In all three the aristocracy is German in language and race, but composes only a small part of the population. In Esthonia the vast majority of the inhabitants are Esths, a Finnish people of Uralo-Altaic stock. Livonia and Kurland are inhabited chiefly by the Letts, closely allied to the Lithuanians. The Russians constitute but a small fraction of the inhabitants of the district. In the thirteenth century the heathen peoples dwelling on the shores of the Baltic were subjugated by the Knights, Sword-Bearers and Teutonic knights, who introduced the German civilization. With the Lithuanians the Letts constitute a separate division of the Aryan, or Indo-European family. The old Prussians belonged to the Letto-Lithuanian stock.

These Letto-Lithuanians are physically well built. The face is mostly elongated, the features fine. The very fair hair, blue eyes and delicate skin distinguish them from the Poles and Russians. Their dress is usually plain in comparison with that of the Poles, and grayish colors predominate in it. Their language has great similarity to the Sanskrit. The popular poetry of both the Letts and Lithuanians is rich in both idyllic and lyric songs, imbued with the tenderest love and melancholy and a most poetical feeling for nature, and are remarkable for their absolute chastity. The national character is fully expressed in them—not warlike at all but melancholy and sociable. In the Lettish song there is an added characteristic, the hatred which the people feel toward the German landholders.

Despite the fact that the people are either Lutherans or Roman or Greek Catholics, the names of the old pagan divinities, very numerous in their former mythology, are continually mentioned in songs and also in common speech. The forests of Livonia and Kurland have played an important part in their history. Their chief priest worshiped in the forests, the people brought their offerings to their divinities at the foot of mighty oaks, and even during the fourteenth century the "zincs," an inextinguishable fire, was maintained. To this day traces of the worship of oak trees may be seen.

WHISKY BOTTLE IN ARCHIVES

A whisky bottle is filed away with care among the archives of the Hawaiian government, as are also two of the nodding chicken feather helmet adornments formerly worn by King Kalakaua on state occasions. The bottle is certainly a unique "document" for the archives, but a written statement across the face of the label shows that it played an important part in the revolution of 1895, when the attempt was made to overthrow the republic and restore the queen to her throne.

Th bottle is an ordinary one, with a bulging cork, and is about half full of a liquid of which, for some reason or another, no one in the capitol is willing to partake.

Across the face is the following written with pen and ink

"In re treason of Gulick et al. Ex. B. Filed this 21st day of January, 1895. J. W. Jones, 1st Lieut. Co. D., N. G. H., Recorder."

After the death of Charles Carter at Diamond Head, who was killed by revolutionists, the government troops were dispatched to Bertelmann's place and put on guard. It was a strenuous time. One night when the guards were being changed every hour, so that no sentry would have an opportunity of falling asleep, the officer in charge is said to have sent for some hot coffee. This would aid in keeping the soldiers awake. The coffee came. Also a bottle of whisky was brought along. The officers said the men could drink coffee, but not whisky. It was suggested that whisky might be put in the coffee. No. It might make them drowsy. But it happened that one of the soldiers drank some whisky. He fell asleep half an hour afterward and did not wake until the next morning about daylight. He was shaken several times during the night but he was in a deep, heavy slumber and could not be awakened.

The bottle of whisky was kept in the camp. The contents are, and probably will remain untouched, for there seems to be a general impression about that the contents were, and may be still, "doped."—Hololulu Commercial Advertiser.

MUST FIGHT FOR SUCCESS

Many a man has tried to justify his failure on the ground that he was doomed by the cards which fate dealt him, that he must pick them up and play the game, and that no effort, however great, on his part could materially change the result, says a writer in Success. But, my young friend, the fate that deals your cards is in the main your own resolution. The result of the game does not rest with fate or destiny, but with you. You will take the trick if you have the superior energy, ability and determination requisite to take it. You have the power within yourself to change the value of the cards which, you say, fate has dealt you. The game depends upon your training, upon the way you are disciplined to seize and use your opportunities and upon your ability to put grit in the place of superior advantages.

Just because circumstances do sometimes give clients to lawyers and patients to physicians, put commonplace clergymen in uncommon pulpits, and place the sons of the rich at the head of great corporations even when they have only average ability and scarcely any experience, while poor youths with greater ability and more experience often have to fight their way for years to obtain ordinary situations, are you justified in starting out without a chart or in leaving a place for luck in your program? What would you think of the captain of a great liner who would start out to sea without any port in view and trust to luck to land his precious cargo safely?

Did you ever know of a strong young man making out his life program and depending upon chance to carry out any part of it? Men who depend upon "luck" do not think it worth while to make a thorough preparation for success. They are not willing to pay the regular price for it. They are looking for bargains. They are hunting for short cuts to success.

Power gravitates to the man who knows how. "Luck is the tide, nothing more. The strong man rows with it if it makes toward his port; he rows against it if it flows the other way."

QVEER GIFTS TO JOCKEYS

One of the greatest of living jockeys has a most remarkable collection of tributes from admirers, unknown and otherwise. It contains, among other strange things, pawn tickets, writs and summonses contributed by unsuccessful backers of his mounts, talismans of all kinds to bring him luck in his races, sermons and tracts for his spiritual welfare, recipes for all kinds of ailments from coughs to a tendency to corpulence, forms for insuring against accidents, offers of marriage accompanied by bundles of photographs of would-be wives, welshers' tickets and a pair of wornout boots with the legend: "All that is left of them after walking from York to London; backed all your mounts."

A few years ago, after his horse had lost an important race, a well-known turfman went up to the jockey and made him a formal and public presentation of a silver snuffbox, saying that if he would look inside he would see the kind of horse he ought to ride in future. The jockey opened the box and found in it half a dozen fat snails. It was the same satirical owner who on another occasion presented his jockey with a sumptuous casket, which on being opened disclosed a wooden spoon, and to a third jockey who had failed to win an important race he handed a pair of crutches bought from a beggar on the course.

When John Singleton, a clever jockey of nearly two centuries ago, first won a race in Yorkshire the farmer whose horse he had ridden to victory was so delighted with his achievement that he made him a present of a ewe, whose offspring soon mustered a round dozen, and really started the ex-shepherd lad on his career as a jockey. Singleton was very proud of and grateful for his singular fee.

In this respect he furnished a great contrast to a well-known jockey who, when a check for $1,500 was handed to him by the owner of a horse on which he had won a race, crumpled it up contemptuously with the remark that he had "often received more for riding a 2-year-old."

THE OLD LOVED TUNES

A boy we had belongin' us, an' och, but he was gay,
An' we 'd sooner hear him singin' than we 'd hear the birds in May;
For a bullinch was a fool to him, an' all ye had to do,
Only name the song ye wanted an'he 'd sing it for ye through
Wid his "Up now there!" an his "Look about an' thry for it,"
Faith, he had the quarest ways of any ye could find—
"Popples in the Corn" too, an "Mollie, never cry for it!"
"The pretty girl I courted," an' "There's trouble in the wind."

Music is deludherin', ye 'll hear the people say,
The more they be deludhered then the better is their case;
I would sooner miss my shrink than never hear a fiddle play
And since Hughie up an' left us this has been another place.

Arrah, Come back, lad! an' we 'll love you when you sing for us—
Sure we're gettin' oulder an' ye'll maybe come too late—
Sing "Girl Dear!" an' "The Bees among the Ling" for us,
Still I'd shake a foot to hear "The Pigeon on the Gate."

Oh Hughie had the music, but there come on him a change,
He should ha' stayed the boy he was an' never grow a man;
I seen the shadow on his face before his time to range,
An' I knew he sung for sorrow as a winter robin can.
But that's not the way!—oh, I'd feel my heart grow light again,
Hughie, if I'd hear you at the "Pleasant Summer Rain."
Ould sweet tunes, sure my wrong 'ed all come right again,
Listenin' for an hour, I'd forget the feel o' pain.
—Moira O'Neill in the January McClure's.

BINATION OFFER
"TWICE-A-WEEK" issue
f the——
Globe-Democr
With—— UNION
For——
one year, only $1.
ould not be classed with the many
i-Weekly, eight or more pages,
omparison the biggest, best and ch blished in the United States. It is ll
ern Newspaper.
from the Daily issue. It is ds of the Farmer, the Merchant thoroughly posted without sparing
o contains a great variety of well
every member of the family.
Clubbing Offer
ut may be withdrawn at any time, rms
THE UNION,
Clanton, Ala.
obs & Bros.
and Rugs.
AGENTS—
tio Book Cases
Cabinets.
INGHAM, AL
PRINTING CO
s and Lithographers.
Supplies a Specialty.
BIRMINGHAM, A
surance Associati
LABAMA.
ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE
nd for the People.
unty Branch
ebruary 3, 1900.
WALLACE C. EDLER,
Sec'y.-Treas.
gs, outbuildings and cont
s by fire, wind and lightn most sensible method of in 43-100 of 1 per ce
on application to
C. EDLER, Clanton, A Practical Watchma
and Optician
Eyes Correctly
Fitted
Mail orders promptly fi
WANT
, Noteheads,
Envelopes,
ELSE PRINTED?
Call at
ON OFFIC
rk at Low Prices.
For $2.00
, done on Good Machi
N, Clanton, Alabama.
ISE IN me Pape
RESULTS.

In the Midst of Alarms

A boy alarming finds the scheme
Of college life.
Death lurks upon the football team
And in the strife.
Attendant on that annual rush
Collected [illegible]
Where hapless men in one mad crush
Are swiftly slain.

[illegible] that he may bite the dirt
From blow of bat,
And should he come through it unhurt
There is the "frat."
A college man must ever look alive,
I wish to state;
The only wonder is that some survive
To graduate.

—Philadelphia Bulletin.

DAVID'S CHRISTMAS DONATION

BY HORACE SEYMOUR KELLAR

(Copyright, 1905, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

...oss and desolate the ... farm house stood in all ... outraged against a gray, ...

...ah! years ago there was com... peace, happiness within its ... but it was so many, many ...rs ago, that the oldest inhabitants ...the surrounding country had al... forgotten about such things. ...peeped their unfruitful heads ...the snow reaching from the ...ed porch leaning like an old ...ed man propped upon two ...down to the broken gate de... from its rusty hinges fasten... to the rotten post. Barns burst... ...ing to the four winds of heaven, ...dilated upon their foundations ...the loads and tons of the wasted ...ings of years, stood out like ...lhouettes of despair and ruin ...the chill landscape.

And above all sailed the moon, pal... ...of the Night; and she smiled ...down upon the picture of ...harvestings, this phantasma... ...neglect and ruin.

...the farm house the paper ...om the crumbling and blacken... ...in tattered malodorous rib... Rats gnawed at the doors of ...ns long since barren of food. ...marauders dragged from old ...had not been replenished ...cobs, and made merry with ...dy remnants of bygone feasts ...the deserted chambers, only ...tantalize and fret the heart, ...brain of the only human hab... ...of the place, David Dreams, the ...the miser.

...em and cuss 'em! They're ...ing food, my food," would growl ...old recluse tossing uneasily upon ...dilapidated bed up in the attic. ...and the stars that peeped through ...ice-laden panes of glass in the ...winked at him and mocked him ...he shivered among his rags.

The old man would rise, light a tal... ...up and go down the narrow back ...stairs leading to the cheerless kitch... ...and chase the thieving marauders ...from the hole in the cellar door. ...He would nail a piece of tin over the ...hole, and mumble with toothless jaws: "There, they'll not come again until ...they gnaw another hole, drat 'em, ...curse 'em!"

Back to his attic he would crawl, ...but before falling upon his ragged ...bed he would open the little cache ...in the chimney wall and fondle and ...caress the roll of musty rotting bills ...and rusty coins and say:

"It's all mine, all mine! My precious darlings!"

Did he sleep?

Like a child undisturbed; and if he ...dreamed he only dreamed of good ...cheer, comfort, ease and plenty as he ...lay stretched there upon the bed ...which he shared with the vermin—...alone with his beloved money.

Gold was his god, hunger his hand ...maid. And he must work and toil ...unceasing, dig and use thrift else the ...gaunt wolf will come and snarl at his ...door.

...the entry leading to the musty ...cellar hung—as it had hung for two ...years—a petrified slab of bacon. David ...Dreams would pet and pat it as he

"It's all mine, all mine!"

passed it. He would fondle and caress it, smell of it and lick his thin blue lips and mumble:

"What a glorious feast I'll have sometime—but not now, not now." And the slab of bacon would swing and bow and beckon beneath his touch when he waved the tallow dip over it gloatingly.

But the rats wanted it, too. For two years the tantalizing morsel had hung there in the dark entry beyond their reach. Climb as they might they could not reach it. It mocked them, fretted and bothered them.

But the bugs and beetles, the ants and the vermin could reach it—and they feasted away at its goodness until it was but as a shred.

* * * * * *

"Well, it was real good of Mr. Dreams to send us this lot of money. My! but it almost takes my breath away—and him such a miser. Poor man! He went wrong when his wife died and when his son ran away to sea."

"I fear the world will turn about to-day. David Dreams has sent enough money to pay for all this nice dinner we are giving to the poor this Christmas day. My! but the money smells musty, the coins are all rust. What a lot of dirty money it is——"

"Never mind, money's money. I guess we made a mistake when we called him an old skinflint of a miser. He's sent us more money than all the rest together. Money enough to help us out on the new church——"

"Money enough to buy a new organ and a carpet for the Sunday school. We'll have a fine library and lots of things. I for one shall pray for David Dreams before this Christmas day passes."

And the preparations for the grand Christmas feast went on. The pots

"Give me back my bacon"

and kettles bubbled and simmered, the turkeys were browned to a rich hue and flavored to the proper point. The tables groaned beneath the load of good things, and the old town hall was merry from foundation to roof this glad Christmas day.

And while the feast was on an old man hobbled and stumbled down the country road leading to the town. He reached the door of the hall, opened it and burst in upon the merry gathering. His face was black with wrath as he stood there leaning upon his two sticks, and he looked like a demon of wrath as he fastened his eyes upon the merry ones.

"Give me back my bacon—I'm hungry. You have taken my food."

"David, sit down and eat with us if you are hungry. We are all so thankful to you for sending us the money—"

"I sent no money. I sent the bacon. I was forced to send it by the ghost of David Dreams. He came to me last night and made me do it."

"You talk strangely, David Dreams. You surely sent us money—"

"It's a lie, a blasting lie. You cannot fool me with your cant and whine, parson. Give me back my bacon."

"You must be dreaming, David Dreams—"

"Stop! Dreaming—dreaming! Ah! It all comes back to me now. I did dream that I was forced by the old David Dreams, the David Dreams of other days, to send the bacon for the Christmas feast. I did send it— or thought I did. I—I made a mistake and sent—the—the money."

"David Dreams, the money is here yet. You can have it all back. But see the good it can do. Look at the poor people feasting as they never have before. See the glad light in the eyes of the little ones. Does it not touch your heart and make it warmer than it has been for many a year? Be one with us. Give up the old greed and become as a little child, sweet and innocent once more. Will you, David Dreams?"

David Dreams faltered. His limbs shook under him, and his heart fluttered. His eyes became moist and a strange lump came into his throat and choked him. He fell upon a chair and bowed his head. And one of the little tots came and wound her warm arms about his neck and pressed a soft kiss upon his grizzled cheek.

The ice melted away from his heart and the warm blood flowed through his veins as it had not for many a year. When he lifted his face it was another David Dreams that looked at the good people gathered there.

And after he had made merry with them all and enjoyed to the full the newness of his awakened heart he went back to his home—now no longer the home of desolation and ruin. For every nook and corner of it was lightened by the glorious light of kindness, love for fellow man and a sincere love for the God who opened his eyes this Christmas day.

ADVICE FROM THE PROFESSOR.

Perhaps Not Strictly in Order, but Still Good Sense.

A young Southern lawyer sat in the Supreme court in which Justice Henry M. Gildersleeve was trying a case. "This is the first time I have ever seen the justice," he said, "but if he's as broad-minded as other members of his family there'll be no narrow application of the law in this case. A relative of his, Prof. Gildersleeve, was my professor in the University of Virginia. I was in the same class of which young Bradley Johnson, son of the famous Confederate General of that name, who died last fall, was a member. One day several of us had been out on a carouse and had failed to appear for recitations. It was our duty to report to Prof. Gildersleeve and make our excuses. I think it was I that was deputed to present the excuse. I hadn't said much when the professor broke in with a sternness which made us wish we couldn't tell the difference between French wine and corn whisky.

"'Young gentlemen,' he said, 'you must realize you have entered upon the stern realities of life.'

"We all bowed humbly, wondering whether expulsion was to be our fate.

"'Young gentlemen,' he added, 'never take it with water. I never do. Good day, gentlemen.'"—New York Times.

Supreme Test of Love.

"George, we have been married just a year to-day, haven't we?" said Mrs. Worthington, as George came home from work, tired and rather out of sorts.

"Yes, dear, did you think I had forgotten it?"

"No, George; but I just thought I would mention it. And, George, in all this time has your love for me wavered for an instant? Has the horrible thought come to you at any time that you had made a mistake? Do you still feel the same toward me that you did upon that night a year ago, when you promised to love me always, to care for me and protect me through the trials to follow? Do you still feel the same?"

"Why, dearest, how can you ask such questions, when you know that I have done all in my power and with my whole heart to make you happy; when you know that I would willingly do anything you ask."

"Then, George," sighed Mrs. Worthington, as she threw her arms around his neck and kissed him, "there is one thing I must ask of you."

"Yes, dearest."

"I shall have to ask you to go down and discharge the cook. I haven't got the nerve."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Appreciated Adulation.

Dr. Lorimer, on his return from abroad about two years ago, told this anecdote to the passengers of the steamship New England:

"The Hon. Justin McCarthy and I were the guests of a business men's club at the Imperial, Cork, Ireland, when the following story was told by the noted author, as a post-prandial:

"'An old school chum of mine by the name of Michael Hooley went to America in the early eighties to seek his fortune. His first position was that of a street sweeper, and then he was called "Hooley." In about a year he became "Fireman Hooley"; then he was promoted to "Policeman Hooley," and finally it became "Alderman Hooley." One bright autumn Sunday, after he became "Councilman Hooley," as he entered the doors of Tremont Temple, great was his pleasure when the entire congregation arose in a body and shouted: "Hooley, Hooley, Hooley Lord God Almighty."'"—Boston Herald.

Mysterious Disease.

A new sickness has appeared recently and is known as Morkus Sabbaticus, or Sunday sickness, and is a disease peculiar to church members. The attack comes on suddenly every Sunday; no symptoms are felt on Saturday night; the patient sleeps well, and eats a hearty breakfast, but about church time the attack comes on and continues until the services are over for the morning. Then the patient feels easy and eats a good dinner. In the afternoon he feels much better and is able to take a walk, talk about politics and read the Sunday papers; he eats a hearty supper, and about church time he has another attack and stays at home. He retires early, sleeps well and wakes up on Monday morning refreshed and able to go to work, and does not have any symptoms of the disease until the following Sunday.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Like Meeting an Old Friend.

The elderly cannibal greeted the new missionary warmly.

"Jackson?" he said, with a vigorous pressure of the hand. "Surely not K. Hooker Jackson III?"

"Yes," said the young man, beaming. "Yes. The same."

"Then it will interest you to know, sir," said the savage, "that I once served your grandfather, the first K. Hooker."

"Indeed? And in what way?" the missionary said.

"Broiled," the other answered, grinning ominously.

BROUGHT DOWN SWELLED HEAD

New Englander's Self-Importance Given Severe Shock.

The discussion had turned upon the subject of "swelled heads," and former State Senator John Ford told the following:

"In a little town in New England there was once a man who had a great idea of his own importance. He had the worst sort of a swelled head, and thought the town could not exist without him. He had held town offices and sincerely believed that no one discharged the duties of those offices as he had. He had also helped the town materially by giving it money for various purposes. But he was not content with the thanks of the townspeople for his services. He believed that there should be some distinct recognition of his worth to the community. So one day at a town meeting he asked permission to be buried in the town plot in the center of which the town hall stood.

"The Town Councillors laughed and the petition was tabled. The following year he petitioned for the same thing, and again it was tabled. The third year the same thing occurred.

"The fourth year the chairman of the Petition Committee arose and said: 'I have here a petition from the Hon. Mr. B——, asking that he may be buried in the town plot. I move, gentlemen, that we grant this petition, provided the petitioner is buried there next week.' The motion went through amid shouts of laughter and the petition was never again presented."—New York Press.

Russia's New Minister of Finance.

Admiral Birileff brings a robust disposition to his new task. He is a rollicking salt, with a Homeric stammer, a practical joker, like Lord Charles Beresford. Stories about him are numberless. Here is one: When Admiral Shestakoff was in power he passed a rigorous rule that his young officers must not bankrupt themselves in buying boquets for visiting royalties. The empress was to visit a ship on which Birileff served. As her majesty descended to the cabin a huge bouquet of flowers mysteriously appeared on the table, and delighted royalty at once took possession of it. Admiral Shestakoff saw the mass of fragrant blossoms in the imperial hands and turned furiously to his officer.

"Did I not give orders that no one must present flowers?"

"N-nobody did!" stammered Birileff; "s-she t-took it hers-self!"—Harper's Weekly.

The Fall of Galahad.

Her hair was brown, but dusted gold
Shown on it, by a young wind blown;
It lived in light and seemed to hold
The sun or star shine for its own.

Her eyes were like Our Lady's gray;
They ransomed light for other light;
They were a daydream of the day,
The echo of a perfect night.

The beauty of her face compelled
All thought, all reason, everything.
Yet half-withdrew, and just withheld
The crown of its imagining.
Her step was like a soft leaf's fall
That wakes a sleeper in the wood.
It came, and then it went, then all
Had gone from life that seemed most good.

One instant, for a moment's space,
She stood before him where he prayed;
He saw her eyes, her hair her face—
The wind that touched her in the glade.

He left his prayer, forgot the place,
Forgot the Vision of the Grael;
He saw her eyes, her hair her face—
His hilt-cross struck the alter-rail.

The music ceased, the shrine was rent—
He never cast one glance behind,
But followed on the way she went,
A hidden way and hard to find.
—A. H., in the Spectator (London.)

The Usual Way.

"Here's a good story," said the wife, looking up from her paper. "Here's a story of a man who bragged that he could make as good a hat as anybody could want by selecting the materials and then combining them as they are in the latest models. And when he had done so, he found that the raw materials cost him $2 more than the finished hat would have cost."

"I don't believe it," asserted the husband. "Now, here's another story in my paper. It's about a man who took the household management out of his wife's hands, and at the end of a month, after doing all the marketing and arranging the meals himself, he had lowered the expenses of the house 40 per cent."

"I don't believe it," declared the wife. "You can't believe a thing you read about the way men can manage better than women."

The Irish Sentry.

An Irish soldier on sentry duty had orders to allow no one to smoke near his post. An officer with a lighted cigar approached, whereupon Pat boldly challenged him, and ordered him to put it out at once. The officer with an air of disgust threw away his cigar, but no sooner was his back turned than Pat picked it up and quietly retired to the sentry box.

The officer happening to look around observed a beautiful cloud of smoke issuing from the box. He at once challenged Pat for smoking on duty.

"Smoking, is it, sur? Bedad, and I'm only keeping it lit to show to the corporal when he comes as evidence agin' you."

Poetry in the Black Hills.

"Wall," remarked the driver of the weekly stage, "I see you have a book called 'How to Write Poetry.' Has it helped you any?"

"Dunno," ejaculated the bard of the Black Hills. "I don't exactly ketch on to some things."

"What be they?"

"Wall, right here it says: 'If yeou don't succeed in poetry at first keep plugging away.' Blamed if I know whether it means to keep plugging at the poetry or the editor."

IN THE BALTIC PROVINCES

Russia's Baltic provinces are at the present time busily engaged in making history, so that the following facts may be of interest. Esthonia, Kurland and Livonia are the districts principally involved. In all three the aristocracy is German in language and race, but composes only a small part of the population. In Esthonia the vast majority of the inhabitants are Esths, a Finnish people of Uralo-Altaic stock. Livonia and Kurland are inhabited chiefly by the Letts, closely allied to the Lithuanians. The Russians constitute but a small fraction of the inhabitants of the district. In the thirteenth century the heathen peoples dwelling on the shores of the Baltic were subjugated by the Knights, Sword-Bearers and Teutonic knights, who introduced the German civilization. With the Lithuanians the Letts constitute a separate division of the Aryan, or Indo-European family. The old Prussians belonged to the Letto-Lithuanian stock.

These Letto-Lithuanians are physically well built. The face is mostly elongated, the features fine. The very fair hair, blue eyes and delicate skin distinguish them from the Poles and Russians. Their dress is usually plain in comparison with that of the Poles, and grayish colors predominate in it. Their language has great similarity to the Sanskrit. The popular poetry of both the Letts and Lithuanians is rich in both idyllic and lyric songs, imbued with the tenderest love and melancholy and a most poetical feeling for nature, and are remarkable for their absolute chastity. The national character is fully expressed in them—not warlike at all but melancholy and sociable. In the Lettish song there is an added characteristic, the hatred which the people feel toward the German landholders.

Despite the fact that the people are either Lutherans or Roman or Greek Catholics, the names of the old pagan divinities, very numerous in their former mythology, are continually mentioned in songs and also in common speech. The forests of Livonia and Kurland have played an important part in their history. Their chief priest worshiped in the forests, the people brought their offerings to their divinities at the foot of mighty oaks, and even during the fourteenth century the "zincs," an inextinguishable fire, was maintained. To this day traces of the worship of oak trees may be seen.

WHISKY BOTTLE IN ARCHIVES

A whisky bottle is filed away with care among the archives of the Hawaiian government, as are also two of the nodding chicken feather helmet adornments formerly worn by King Kalakaua on state occasions. The bottle is certainly a unique "document" for the archives, but a written statement across the face of the label shows that it played an important part in the revolution of 1895, when the attempt was made to overthrow the republic and restore the queen to her throne.

Th bottle is an ordinary one, with a bulging cork, and is about half full of a liquid of which, for some reason or another, no one in the capitol is willing to partake.

Across the face is the following written with pen and ink

"In re treason of Gulick et al. Ex. B. Filed this 21st day of January, 1895. J. W. Jones, 1st Lieut. Co. D., N. G. H., Recorder."

After the death of Charles Carter at Diamond Head, who was killed by revolutionists, the government troops were dispatched to Bertelmann's place and put on guard. It was a strenuous time. One night when the guards were being changed every hour, so that no sentry would have an opportunity of falling asleep, the officer in charge is said to have sent for some hot coffee. This would aid in keeping the soldiers awake. The coffee came. Also a bottle of whisky was brought along. The officers said the men could drink coffee, but not whisky. It was suggested that whisky might be put in the coffee. No. It might make them drowsy. But it happened that one of the soldiers drank some whisky. He fell asleep half an hour afterward and did not wake until the next morning about daylight. He was shaken several times during the night but he was in a deep, heavy slumber and could not be awakened.

The bottle of whisky was kept in the camp. The contents are, and probably will remain untouched, for there seems to be a general impression about that the contents were, and may be still, "doped."—Hololulu Commercial Advertiser.

MUST FIGHT FOR SUCCESS

Many a man has tried to justify his failure on the ground that he was doomed by the cards which fate dealt him, that he must pick them up and play the game, and that no effort, however great, on his part could materially change the result, says a writer in Success. But, my young friend, the fate that deals your cards is in the main your own resolution. The result of the game does not rest with fate or destiny, but with you. You will take the trick if you have the superior energy, ability and determination requisite to take it. You have the power within yourself to change the value of the cards which, you say, fate has dealt you. The game depends upon your training, upon the way you are disciplined to seize and use your opportunities and upon your ability to put grit in the place of superior advantages.

Just because circumstances do sometimes give clients to lawyers and patients to physicians, put commonplace clergymen in uncommon pulpits, and place the sons of the rich at the head of great corporations even when they have only average ability and scarcely any experience, while poor youths with greater ability and more experience often have to fight their way for years to obtain ordinary situations, are you justified in starting out without a chart or in leaving a place for luck in your program? What would you think of the captain of a great liner who would start out to sea without any port in view and trust to luck to land his precious cargo safely?

Did you ever know of a strong young man making out his life program and depending upon chance to carry out any part of it? Men who depend upon "luck" do not think it worth while to make a thorough preparation for success. They are not willing to pay the regular price for it. They are looking for bargains. They are hunting for short cuts to success.

Power gravitates to the man who knows how. "Luck is the tide, nothing more. The strong man rows with it if it makes toward his port; he rows against it if it flows the other way."

QUEER GIFTS TO JOCKEYS

One of the greatest of living jockeys has a most remarkable collection of tributes from admirers, unknown and otherwise. It contains, among other strange things, pawn tickets, writs and summonses contributed by unsuccessful backers of his mounts, talismans of all kinds to bring him luck in his races, sermons and tracts for his spiritual welfare, recipes for all kinds of ailments from coughs to a tendency to corpulence, forms for insuring against accidents, offers of marriage accompanied by bundles of photographs of would-be wives, welshers' tickets and a pair of wornout boots with the legend: "All that is left of them after walking from York to London; backed all your mounts."

A few years ago, after his horse had lost an important race, a well-known turfman went up to the jockey and made him a formal and public presentation of a silver snuffbox, saying that if he would look inside he would see the kind of horse he ought to ride in future. The jockey opened the box and found in it half a dozen fat snails. It was the same satirical owner who on another occasion presented his jockey with a sumptuous casket, which on being opened disclosed a wooden spoon, and to a third jockey who had failed to win an important race he handed a pair of crutches bought from a beggar on the course.

When John Singleton, a clever jockey of nearly two centuries ago, first won a race in Yorkshire the farmer whose horse he had ridden to victory was so delighted with his achievement that he made him a present of a ewe, whose offspring soon mustered a round dozen, and really started the ex-shepherd lad on his career as a jockey. Singleton was very proud of and grateful for his singular fee.

In this respect he furnished a great contrast to a well-known jockey who, when a check for $1,500 was handed to him by the owner of a horse on which he had won a race, crumpled it up contemptuously with the remark that he had "often received more for riding a 2-year-old."

THE OLD LOVED TUNES

A boy we had belongin' us, an' och, but he was gay,
An' we 'd sooner hear him singin' than we 'd hear the birds in May;
For a bullinch was a fool to him, an' all ye had to do,
Only name the song ye wanted an'he 'd sing it for ye through
Wid his "Up now there!" an his "Look about an' thry for it,"
Faith, he had the quarest [illegible]ngs of any ye could find—
"Poppies in the Corn" too, an' "Mollie, never cry for it!"
"The pretty girl I courted," an' "There's trouble in the wind."

Music is deludherin', ye 'll hear the people say,
The more they be deludhered then the better is their case;
I would sooner miss my dhrink than never hear a fiddle play
And since Hughie up an' left us this has been another place.

Arrah, Come back, lad! an' we 'll love you when you sing for us—
Sure we're gettin' oulder an' ye'll maybe come too late—
Sing "Girl Dear!" an' "The Bees among the Ling" for us,
Still I'd shake a foot to hear "The Pigeon on the Gate."

Oh Hughie had the music, but there come on him a change,
He should ha' stayed the boy he was an' never grow a man;
I seen the shadow on his face before his time to range,
An' I knew he sung for sorrow as a winter robin can.
But that's not the way!—oh, I'd feel my heart grow light again,
Hughie, if I'd hear you at the "Pleasant Summer Rain."
Ould sweet tunes, sure my wrong 'ud all come right again,
Listenin' for an hour, I'd forget the feel o' pain.

—Moira O'Neill in the January McClure's.

THE UNION

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Wallace C. Edler, Ed. and Pub.

Subscription price, in advance, per year, $1.

For advertising rates, call at the office, Seventh street, between First and Second avenues.

Entered April 15, 1903, at Clanton, Ala., as second class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications to the Union must be signed by the writer's real name as well as that name which they wish to put in the paper. Letters must reach the editor Tuesday morning to get in the same week. While we will publish any and all communications complying with these requirements that do not contain any improper languages, we are not responsible for the opinions expressed. tf.

CLANTON, ALA, Feb. 22, 1906.

Union Clubbing List

THE UNION And Yellow Jacket	$1.00
THE UNION And Southern Ruralist	1.00
THE UNION And Union Educator	1.00
THE UNION And Home and Farm	1.00
THE UNION And Weekly Age-Herald	1.25
THE UNION and Weekly Atlanta Constitution	1.25
THE UNION and Twice-a-Week Globe Democrat	1.50
THE UNION and Tri-W'kly Atlanta Constitution	1.50
THE UNION And Tom Watson's Magazine	1.50
THE UNION and Tri-Weekly N. Y. World	1.50
THE UNION And Rural South	1.50
THE UNION And Weekly Advertiser and Map of Alabama, U. S. and world	1.50

If there are any other papers you want call at THE UNION office, and we will get them for you at the lowest rates. tf

$10.00 REWARD

Will be paid to the three persons who secure for us the largest number of PAID subscribers between now and April 1st, 1906. No restrictions. Our clubbing prices go in this contest. $5.00 goes to the one with the largest list; $3.00 to the second largest list, and $2.00 to the third largest. Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds has kindly consented to be the judge in this contention, and he will make the awards. The names of the successful contestants will be published, also the names of all who tried for this reward. Now we have a thousand subscribers, help us to get a thousand additional, so as to fittingly celebrate the ending of our third year.

tf THE UNION

SCHOOL TAX ELECTION.

The returns so far from all the beats except 7 and 11, show 420 for the tax and 170 against, thus showing carrying of the election by the necessary two-thirds. There has been some question raised about an informality in the ticket, but under the power given to Chilton county in the local act passed by Judge Reynolds when he was representative from this county the tax will be levied sure enough.

A GOOD BANK.

Our readers should read the advertisement of the Citizens Savings Bank of Birmingham carefully, note what they tell you in regard to the law guarding savings banks. This bank's officers are able financiers and can hold their own with the competition that goes on in the business world in the large financial centers. Come around to the UNION and see the bank that will be given you as a depositor.

COUNTY COURT.

The court was in session last Thursday and Friday trying election and wine cases from Thorsby. Those accused of selling wine without a license, viz., Messrs. P. W. Peterson, Lofhus and Brunberg, plead guilty in one case each, and were fined $5.00 which, with the costs, footed up $42.50. This paper made an error two weeks ago in this: We said P. W. Peterson was accused of violating the election law. It should have read, "violating the revenue law." Messrs. Caverno and Lofthus were acquitted of the charge of "violating the election law," one incident worthy of note in the trial being the speech of Attorney A. C. Smith, who had just been called in to assist the prosecution, and who made a short but exceedingly able and logical speech, many of the audience expressing the opinion "that there was more sense in that little talk than they had heard in hours of the 'hot air' usually given out there."

EAST BESSIE.

Editor Union:

Everybody is busy working for next crop. Miss Rachel Edwards was buried in Mars Hill cemetery last Saturday, a large attendance was present at the services, which were conducted by Rev. J. P. Gentry and Rev. J. M. Gothard. I'm glad to say that our Farmers' Union at Mars Hill is getting back into fine shape after its little wrangle. Now, brethren, all I have to say is, let's abide by our constitution and we will be right, and RIGHT will ALWAYS win. Study your constitution, and come filled with brotherly love to our next meeting, and let's all enjoy ourselves. Success to THE UNION and its patrons.

BRIGHT STAR.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Whereas, God in his wisdom saw fit to call from our midst on the morning of February 17, 1906, our beloved sister and co-worker, Mrs. A. M. C. Massey, we, the local lodge of the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America, No. 329, at Mt. Pleasant, Alabama, respectfully submit the following resolutions: Resolved first, That we, the members of Lodge No. 329, realize that in the loss of Sister Massey we lose a good and loyal member of our union. Resolved 2d, That we hereby tender our sympathy to the bereaved family in their great loss, assuring them that their loss is heaven's gain, for she lived as she died, a Christian. From her early life she was a consistent member of the church and the church, as well as this community and union, will miss her smiling face and genial nature. Resolved 3d, That we carry her aged husband on the wings of prayer to the Throne of Grace, asking that his days may be lengthened, so that he may continue his usefulness on this earth for many days to come.

Resolved 4th, That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of this lodge and a copy be furnished our county paper, THE UNION, for publication.

JAMES A. THOMAS,
W. P. LOWERY,
Z. LOWERY,
Committee.

IN MEMORIAM.

Brother Polk Stagner.

"Oh, death where is thy sting, oh grave, thy victory?" On February 13th the death angel visited the home of Bro. Polk Stagner and called him from the walks of man. Bro. Stagner was in his 63d year, a member and deacon in the Missionary Baptist church at Pleasant Hill, and a devoted member of the Farmers' Union at that place. He was laid to rest in the cemetery at Pleasant Hill on February 15th. Bro. Stagner leaves a dear companion, 10 children, 28 grandchildren and a host of friends to mourn his loss. The sympathy of our people is with the bereaved family. We know that our words can not make their grief lighter, or bring back their dear one, but we would ask the mourners to remember that God is a just and wise God and does all things for the best; only strive to meet your loved one who is only gone before to wait your coming. Do not despair. Your struggle to live such a life as to follow your loved one will make you better and nobler. Your loss is his gain. He has left this world of sin and pain, and gone to dwell in the eternal sunshine. Try to reconcile your minds to God's will, remembering that it is "God's ways." His will be done is the prayer of your friend.

D. P. MARTIN.

MAPLESVILLE MELANGE.

This delightful weather is causing the beautiful little daisies and viloets besides other spring flowers to venture out, violet picking is quite a fad here. Mr. McGuire, of N. O., father of Mrs. Claughton, is with her here. R. H. Martin and wife and Miss Adair, our most excellent teacher, went to Selma to hear the world-renowned Sousa's band play, and had a most enjoyable time. Miss Daisy Berry, niece of Mrs. T. U. Crumpton, and her grandmother, Mrs. Mary DuBose, have returned from Orrville, the home of Miss Daisy. Mrs. Minnie Blalock and her handsome little son, Master Owen, are visiting the "old folks" here. Shep Bearden and family, of Selma, are visiting relatives here. Mr. and Mrs. Hicks, of Riderville, are visiting her father, Mr. Branch. Miss Pinson, of Birmingham, is employed as saleslady for R. H. Martin, as is Miss Laura O'Neal of Mr. Damsky, of T. T. C. T. U. Crumpton and T. Perry went to Randolph to attend the funeral of Milford Cleaveland. We are getting up to date folks since Mr. Dedrick, of New York, rides around in an automobile. The evening of the 14th a most delightful valentine party was given at Mr. Plant's and $18 was netted for the benefit of our Methodist church. Business and pleasure were combined since all confessed to a most jolly good time. There are good reasons to believe the little imp Cupid did some good work during the evening.

"O."

MOUNT PLEASANT.

"Gee" and "Haw" is now heard on all sides, as our farmers are taking advantage of this pretty weather to prepare for their crops. Our union held its regular meeting here Saturday, and had a good attendance. School closes next Friday, and no doubt some of our boys that are past school age will regret its closing. Miss Carrie Popwell was a welcome visitor at T. C. Sharbutt's the past week. Miss Minnie Kittrell has returned to her home in Tallassee after visiting friends and relatives here. J. C. Maddox and wife visited the latter's parents (Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Culp) Saturday and Sunday. Our young people were delightfully entertained at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Foshee last Friday night. Well, we're glad to hear from "Just a Voter" last week. Come oftener, old boy. Your letters make us all feel good.

JUST A SUBSCRIBER.

MT. PLEASANT HAPPENINGS.

Editor Union:

Please allow me space in your most valuable paper to say a few words about the happenings in our midst. This community was greatly shocked by the sudden death of Mrs. A. M. C. Massey last Saturday (17th). The cause of death was heart failure. She leaves a husband and three children to mourn her loss. The remains were laid to rest in Liberty Hill Cemetery Sunday. Prof. James A. Thomas' family moved to Clanton last week. We learn that he has rented the Cooley place in North Clanton. We were sorry to lose them, as no community can have too large a supply of such folks as the professor and his charming wife are, but we are sure they will be heartily welcomed in their new home. Our Sunday school will miss Bro. Thomas greatly, as he was an ardent worker and taught the advanced class. Rev. W. P. Lowery is at home for a few days' stay. He's been in Coosa organizing Farmers' Unions. Messrs. J. D. Parker, Silas and J. E. Kelley and Robert Bivens went to Columbiana Sunday to attend court this week. The entertainment at Mr. Jim Lowery's last week was a grand success, quite a number of our young people being present.

GUESS WHO.

F. E. & C. U. OF A.

The next regular meeting of the Farmers' Union of Alabama will be held at Clanton on 7th, 8th and 9th days of March, 1906. Program for first day:

10:30 a. m. Devotional exercises.

10:45 a. m. Welcome of the town of Clanton—The Mayor.

Response.

11 a. m. Welcome of Chilton county—Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds.

Response.

11:35 a. m. Welcome of Chilton County Union—County President J. H. Thomas.

Response.

1:30 p. m. Public lecture—W. A. Morris and others.

EVERYBODY is invited to attend on the first day of the meeting. COME and see if you don't form a better opinion of our organization than you now have. Respectfully,

J. W. SORRELL,
J. H. THOMAS,
W. A. BARNETT,
J. WILEY FOSHEE,
J. N. DENNIS,
tf Committee.

JEMISON, ROUTE TWO.

Editor Union:

A few words about this neighborhood. Mrs. Annie Johnson, of Birmingham, spent Sunday with her brother at Thorsby; she also paid Mrs. Penny Allen a flying visit. Mr. O. E. Stedt, of Birmingham, visited friends in Jemison last Sunday. Probate Judge and Mrs. L. H. Reynolds were visitors of Mrs. Penny Allen's Sunday afternoon.

ROUGH RIDER.

SARDIS.

Farmers are hauling fertilizer. We're glad to say that some of our sick folks are improving. Wm. Bearden and wife visited their daughter, Mrs. Nettie Ratliff, this week. Miss Lula Walker left Sunday for Birmingham on a visit to her sister, Mrs. White. Jackson White, of Birmingham, paid home folks a visit last week. Misses Davie and Janie Broadhead visited the Misses Ella and Gertie Klinner on Sunday. Misses Zadie and Lulia Deason were visitors of Miss Giles Sunday. Miss Jessie Mage's school is getting along nicely. Mrs. Ellen Walker returned home Wednesday from a visit to Birmingham. Best wishes to THE UNION and its many readers.

NOBODY'S DARLING.

PROGRAM

Chilton County Teachers' Institute, to Be Held at Jemison, March 23-24, 1906.

Friday.

10 a. m. Devotional exercises—Rev. Mr. Beal.

10:30. Welcome address—W. R. Jackson.

Response—H. L. Hicks.

11. "Ethics of School Training"—P. G. Maness.

1:30 p. m. "The Teachers' Present Opportunities of Improving Country Life"—W. B. Speer and Mrs. Leila Mullins.

2:30. "How to Teach English Grammar"—W. T. Harwell and Miss Josie Shaw.

3:30. "Supplementary Reading"—Miss Yula Stricklen and Miss Mienchen Fay.

Saturday.

9 a. m. Devotional exercises.

"Teaching Compared With Other Professions"—H. L. Hicks.

10. "The Importance of Regular Reviews and Examinations in Schools"—R. E. R. Hicks and C. J. Eiland.

10:45. "School Incentives and How to Use Them"—Misses Em. Smith and Florence T. Ford.

11:15. "How May Play Time Be Used to Best Advantage?"—B. L. Speer and B. J. Sessions.

We earnestly ask that all the teachers on the program be present, as well as all the teaching force of the county. We hope to have the help of educational leaders of other counties.

J. W. MOORE,
R. A. RASCO,
J. N. DENNIS,
tf R. E. SESSIONS,

FOR HONEST WORK BY THE SOUTH.

By Wm. G. Cochrane, Vice-Pres. and Genl. Agent Tombigbee Valley Railroad Co.

(Written for the Manufacturers' Record.)

I have been thinking a good deal lately about the general condition of things, and have felt tempted to try and express my thoughts in writing. The principal thoughts that worry me most are two:

1. I am thinking of now to keep the country places and farming interest up even with the growth of the larger cities. It seems to me that the manufacturing and mercantile interests are growing too fast in proportion to the producing or farming classes. Our country needs more tillers of the soil now. It is time for some of our young people to realize that all substantial wealth is dependent upon the products of the earth, mainly the farm. In the South there is a monopoly of cotton. No section in the entire world has a more commanding position as to producing wealth than the Cotton States of the South. It was this that has enabled the Southern man to withstand all the drain upon his part of the country since the war. The cotton crop has been the foundation upon which we have builded. No matter how politics oppressed us, and no matter how the great capitalists planned against us, they have always been compelled to send their money South after our cotton. It has taken forty years, but today the banks of the South are full of cotton money; in fact, the cotton crop of the South is worth more per annum than any other single production, not excepting gold and silver and coppermining output, and the blessing of it is that it permeates the entire population. Every family has a "mine" of wealth in its cotton field, and it gets its share of the vast sum of money that comes after the bales of cotton. The small farmer who raises one to five bales of cotton feels pride in having produced his own income without having to serve as a hireling to the richer man or corporation. It is like the blood in our body—it goes into every extremity of the body of people, or body politic, as sme say. My idea is to call a halt upon the leaving of the farms for the cities. The cities are getting top-heavy, and need no more recruits at present. I could write more on this, but simply wish to outline my thoughts.

2. I think the time has come when all branches of business and politics should stop and consider which is to rule them in their action. Shall good honest work be done? Should our locomotives, our looms, our plows and wagons and nails and shoes be made worth the price intrinsically, or shall the makers slight the work and make it appear good and sell the same as if it were good, thereby wronging the innocent purchaser? Shall a man in official position act from a high sense of true manhood, or shall he let money or influential friends lead him to act contrary to his oath and his conscientious convictions of right? I mean to say that manhood, and not money, must be the test. The issue must be made before the entire country as to every department; the cheat must be treated with contempt; truth and honesty must be held at a premium. At present the reward is mostly for the bad work. This is all wrong, and the reward should be for the just man. Manufacturers should be rewarded according to the quality of their goods. The people sooner or later learn who are reliable and who are not, and I think a little suggestion is well at times to keep our manufacturers up to the mark.

I have just written these pages to ask you what you thing of them or something in line with my thoughts. Our country is growing and rushing into all kinds of business. It is actually boiling over with activity. Men are pressed to find laborers to do one-half the work that is to be done. The South needs good laboring men and women badly. No man can make a mistake by coming into Alabama, Mississippi or Louisiana at this time. Along this line of getting more population I have a thought, too, and it is that the best way to get a good permanent class of people to live here is to try and bring young children and place them with good Southern families and let them grow up as one of the family. They will thus learn to love the country and will marry and settle in the country. The cities are crowded with many orphan girls and boys. If these could be distributed in the South and grow up they would soon add greatly to the labor on farms and be a blessing to themselves as well as to the country.

Healing Springs, Ala.

This country ranks first in the paper making industry, Germany is second and Great Britain comes third. The production in America is two or three times greater than in Great Britain.

The present is a wholesale age and it's dangerous to rob in a retail way.

Store Your Cotton

WITH

MULLINS & DOWNS

Planters Warehouse

Clanton, - Alabama

Robidoux Scales. Best in the World.

Pure Water Prevents Fevers.

DRILLED WELLS FURNISH PURE WATER

We guarantee water or no charge made. Estimates given. Address

I. E. SARBER CO.

Thorsby, Alabama

Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St. THE BIG STORE, Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St.

—Is at The Head of The Procession.—

Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Shoes

FURNITURE,

COFFINS AND BURIAL NECESSITIES.

W. I. MULLINS,

Clanton. Alabama

The World's Debt to Poverty

By Graham Hood.

ALTHOUGH it is generally a most uncomfortable feeling to be poor, it cannot be denied that the world owes more to poverty than to any other single factor in its development.

Prepare a list of the world's greatest men and you will find that nine out of ten of them began life as poor boys. Then prepare another list embracing the world's great achievements and you will discover that the majority of these deeds were performed by men who knew something about the pangs of poverty. Strange as this fact may seem at first thought there is really nothing very remarkable about it when you come to view the situation closely, for there is actually no greater hindrance to personal development than the possession of riches.

It is a well-established fact that men are so constituted that they are unable to do their best work except under forced pressure. There are exceptions to this rule, of course, just as there are exceptions to every rule, but it is only too true that the average man finds it extremely difficult to withstand the enervating effect of prosperity. The quickest way to check the growth of any genius is to endow its possessor with a competence. Place the ordinary man above the possibility of want and you remove the greatest source of inspiration from his life.

The great men of history—those who have performed the world's great deeds—owe their success largely to the fact that they were poor and did not want to remain in poverty. They were poor through force of circumstances. In many instances their ancestors bequeathed them nothing but poverty and a good constitution. Within them, somewhere, there was something that made poverty seem distasteful to them, so they promptly proceeded to bend their energies toward that one purpose—success. As a perfectly natural result they began to progress in the direction of the goal to which they had aspired.

There are a great many things in this world that are worth having, but the majority of cases men have got to work for them before they can have them, and there is nothing that is more inspiring to personal effort than the desire to have things that other people possess. The ambition to live well, to have a pleasant home, to educate one's children properly, are incentives to which many a man owes his prosperity. They are the things which have made him "try," and as success largely depends upon the manner in which one "tries" to succeed it is not difficult to understand why it is poverty instead of riches that is responsible for the world's great progress during the last few centuries.

Cheer Up

By The Optimist.

CHEER up! The world is taking your photograph. Look pleasant. Of course you have your troubles—troubles you cannot tell the policeman. A whole lot of things bother you, of course. Business worries, or domestic sorrows, it may be, or what not. You find life a rugged road, whose stones hurt your feet. Nevertheless, cheer up!

It may be your disease is selfishness—ingrown selfishness. Your life is too self-centered. You imagine your tribulations are worse than others bear. You feel sorry for yourself—the meanest sort of pity. It is a pathetic illusion. Rid yourself of that, and cheer up!

What right have you to carry a picture of your woebegone face and funeral ways about among your fellows, who have troubles of their own? If you must whine, or sulk, or scowl, take a car, and go to the woods, or to the unfrequented lanes.

Cheer up! Your ills are largely imaginary. If you were really on the brink of bankruptcy, or if there were no thoroughfare through your sorrows you would clear your brows, set your teeth, and make the best of it.

Cheer up! You are making a hypothetical case out of your troubles, and suffering from a self-inflicted verdict. You are borrowing trouble, and paying a high rate of interest.

Cheer up! Why, man alive, in a ten-minute walk you may see a score of people worse off than you. And here you are digging your own grave, and playing pallbearer into the bargain. Man alive, you must do your work! Smile, even though it be through your tears, which speedily dry. And cheer up!—Young Folks.

THERE are, of course, burglars and burglars. You may use a lack of chivalry, a greed of gain, a base provision for personal safety, a hesitation to attack houses that contain men or small dogs or babies, or even night-lights, in some of these gentry.

But no doubt it was much the same with the highwaymen of old. Not all of them graced their manly calling as we could have wished; not all were models of politeness and affability, taking a kiss as sufficient payment from the fair damsel, walking a minuet at the crossroads with the high-born lady of fashion, invariably respectful of age and sex. Was it not my Lord Bathurst who had boasted that he would never stand and deliver to a single gentleman on the road, and did he not find himself once confronted with the customary horse-pistol at his carriage window?

"It seems that one highwayman is sufficient after all," said his assailant contemptuously handling the peer's gold watch.

"Ruffian!" replied the intrepid Bathurst, "you know well enough I would never hand these over were it not for your friend just behind your shoulder."

The fellow turned his head to look for his imaginary colleague and was promptly shot dead by the ingenious nobleman.

COUNTY AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

Circuit Court.
...Term—Third Monday in May.
...Term—Fourth Monday in Nov.
...—S. L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
...tor—W. B. Bowling, Dadeville.
...—Sam W. Collins.

Chancery Court.
...Term—Second Monday in
...Term—Second Monday in Sep
...cellor—Hon. W. W. Whitesides.
...ister—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan.

County Court.
Monday in each month.

Commissioners' Court.
...d Monday February, first Mon...ril, first Monday June, second ...July, second Monday August, ...onday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.
...e of Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
...surer—W. T. Callen.
...riff—J. M. Morgan.
...itor—W. M. Adams.
...Assessor—L. B. Pounds.
...Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.
...District—W. H. Conway.
...nd District—Alex Glasscock.
...d District—R. P. Kendrick.
...th District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.
...J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor.
...R. Dahl, Calera.

State Senator.
...W. K. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.

ATTENTION!

...tors and clerks that wish their ...h notices to appear in THE ...N will please send them in to ...office by March 10, 1906, when ...ew and correct list will appear.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

Masonic.

...nton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—...Saturday, Clanton.

...ando Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...Fourth Saturday, Cooper.

...nton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...First Saturday, Clanton.

...ntury Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...First Saturday, Billingsley.

...oman Lodge, A. F. and A. M., ...534—Saturday on or before full ..., Marbury.

...nison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...Saturday on or before full moon.

...nton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...Tuesday on or before full moon.

I. O. O. F.

...nson Lodge—First and third Sa...

...nton Lodge, No. 204—Second and ...Saturdays.

Woodmen of the World.

...k Jack Camp, Nos 190—First and ...Mondays.

I. O. R. M.

...neome Tribe, No. 98—First and ...Mondays sleep. Visiting chiefs ...lly invited. B. B. Langston, C. ...; J. H. Patton, Sachem.

L. M. P. A.

...ton Lodge, of Thorsby—Second ...th Saturdays.

our Cotton

ITH

& DOWNS

Warehouse

Alabama

Best in the World.

revents Fevers.

RNISH PURE WATE

or no charge made.

dress

RBER CO.

Alabama

STORE, Cor. Ave 7th St.

The Procession.

ing, Hats, Shoes,

TURE,

ESSITIES.

ULLINS,

Alabama

ebt to Poverty

most uncomfortable feeling to be poor

e world owes more to poverty than w s development.

orld's greatest men had you will find n began life as poor boys. Then pro the world's great achievements and ajority of these deeds were performed angs of poverty. Strange as this fact ly nothing very remarkable about sely, for there is actually no greater he possession of riches.

are so constituted that they are u forced pressure. There are exceptions exceptions to every rule, but it is only remely difficult to withstand the ener ay to check the growth of any genius nce. Place the ordinary man above he greatest source of inspiration from o have performed the world's great fact that they were poor and did not poor through force of circumstances, etified them nothing but poverty and there, there was something that made y promptly proceeded to bend their

s. As a perfectly natural result they goal to which they had aspired.

s would that are worth having, but it ack for them before they can have spiring to personal effort than the desess. The ambition to live well, to hildren properly, are incentives to

They are the things which have made upon the manner in which one "tries"

d why it is poverty instead of riches progress during the last few cen

By

The Optimist.

is taking your photograph. Look u have your troubles—troubles you an. A whole lot of things bother ss worries, or domestic sorrows, it

You find life a rugged road, whose Nevertheless, cheer up!

ease is selfishness—ingrown selfish-elf-centered. You imagine your trib n others bear. You feel sorry for a pathetic illusion. Rid yourself of re of your woebegone face and fur-have troubles of their own? If you and go to the woods, or to the unfre-inary. If you were really on the thoroughfare through your sorrows,

, and make the best of it.

tical case out of your troubles, and are borrowing trouble, and paying minute walk you may see a score of are digging your own grave, and alive, you must do your work!

rs, which speedily dry. And cheer rglars and burglars. You may urge ed of gain, a base provision for pos to attack houses that contain mon

, or even night-lights, in some of much the same with the highway them graced their manly calling or ot all were models of politeness and as sufficient payment from the fair

ds with the high-born lady of fash

Was it not my Lord Bathurst who nd deliver to a single gentleman of ce confronted with the customary fficient after all," said his assailant atch.

st, "you know well enough I would

r friend just behind your shoulder,

r his imaginary colleague and was man.

TS AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

Circuit Court.

ng Term—Third Monday in May.
Term—Fourth Monday in No
er.

ge—S. L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
itor—W. B. Bowling, Dadeville.
k—Sam W. Collins.

Chancery Court.

ng Term—Second Monday in Term—Second Monday in Sep
er.
ncellor—Hon. W. W. Whitesides.
gister—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan-

County Court.

t Monday in each month.

Commissioners' Court.

ond Monday February, first Mon-
April, first Monday June, second
y July, second Monday August,
Monday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

ge of Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
asurer—W. T. Callen.
eriff—J. M. Morgan.
licitor—W. M. Adams.
x Assessor—L. B. Pounds.
x Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.

st District—W. H. Conway.
cond District—Alex Glasscock.
ird District—R. P. Kendrick.
urth District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.

of. J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor.

P. R. Dahl, Calera.

State Senator.

n. W. R. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.

ATTENTION!

astors and clerks that wish their ch notices to appear in THE
ON will please send them in to
office by March 10, 1906, when new and correct list will appear.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

Masonic.

nton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—rd Saturday, Clanton.

nade Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
—Fourth Saturday, Cooper.

nton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
—First Saturday, Clanton.

ntury Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
—First Saturday, Billingsley.

oseman Lodge, A. F. and A. M., 634—Saturday on or before full n, Marbury.

milton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
—Saturday on or before full moon,
lton.

anton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
—Tuesday on or before full moon,
nton.

I. O. O. F.

milton Lodge—First and third Satays.

nton Lodge, No. 304—Second and
th Saturdays.

Woodmen of the World.

ack Jack Camp, No. 190—First and d Mondays.

I. C. R. M.

ocoxerme Tribe, No. 90—First and d Mondays sleep. Visiting chiefs dially invited. E. B. Langston, C.
.; J. H. Patton, Sachem.

L. M. P. A.

reka Lodge, of Thorsby—Second
fourth Saturdays.

W. A. & L. H. Reynolds.

Will have a car load of horses, almost all of them are broken to work. Especially good brood mares in the lot.

Will Be in Clanton March 1st.

CLANTON COTTON MARKET.

Total receipts to Feb. 21, '06, 6,098.
Price same date, 10 3-8c.
Receipts same time, 1905, 6,153.
Price same date, 7 3-8c.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

J. H. Middleton has gone to Cullman, having accepted a good position there. We are sorry to lose him, but our loss is Cullman's gain.

T. B. Bethea was a pleasant visitor Thursday. Those Bethea boys are sure enough hustlers.

Felix Eiland and son, Ernest, were in Clanton last week. He says he killed two Berkshire pigs six months and seven days old. One weighed 170 and the other 171 pounds. Some pig that?

H. C. Abbott, of Birmingham, was a visitor of T. C. Marcus of Lomax Thursday last. The gentlemen went hunting and bagged 21 quail besides many rabbits.

R. G. Hall was in Clanton Saturday.

'Squire J. N. Dennis was in Clanton Saturday.

H. W. Devaughan and J. S. Scarborough were in town Saturday.

J. H. Burkhalter and J. P. Rushing were in Clanton Saturday.

C. C. Crumpton, of Jemison, was a visitor here Saturday and took Dr. Crumpton and his family up to his house for a visit.

J. J. Grant has moved to Clanton. We welcome him heartily, and ask for more like him.

T. J. Bates was in Clanton Tuesday.

T. P Smith and D. A. Martin were in town Tuesday.

J. A. Logan was in Clanton Tuesday.

C. W. Reynolds and family, of Jemison, are on a visit to Birmingham this week.

John H. Glass was in Clanton Tuesday.

J. J. Thompson, an old and respected citizen of Clanton, died Saturday of heart failure. He was found dead in the road between Lomax and Clanton, where he had fallen from the mule he was riding. He was 57 years old and leaves a large family behind him.

If you want to see sweet potatoes and get some good straight seed you should visit the "Potato King," Jno. L. Winston, whose place is about midway between Thorsby and Jemison. He also has fruit trees of all kinds for sale; also pure bred hogs, "O. I. C."

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

W. A. Howard and Miss Bertha May Busbey. Lewis Wright and Miss Zadie Wilson. W. T. Quillans and Mrs. Sallie Armstrong.

COLORED.

Bud Robinson and Georgia Hayes.

FOR SALE—One good horse weight 1000 pounds, 2 good milch cows with young calves. Call on or address,

T. C. MARCUS,
tf. Lomax, Ala.

DEATH OF MRS. W. C. CLECKLER.

Whereas, God in His infinite wisdom has called home the devoted wife of our esteemed brother, W. C. Cleckler; be it resolved, that the members of this union (No. 223), of which Bro. Cleckler is our honored chaplain, extend to him our heartfelt sympathies in his severe bereavement. Be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of our union and also sent to our county paper and to the Union Educator and Diversified Farmer, and a copy of each sent to our bereaved brother.

J. D. COLLINS,
R. A. RASCO,
Committee.

FOR SALE—A dark colored stallion, 3-4 Norman, 5 years old and weighs 1100 pounds.

O. H. PRESTHOLT,
tf. Thorsby, Ala.

Drowned in Tub.

Birmingham.—Susie Ruth Bass, the 13-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Bass, of Irondale, was drowned late Saturday evening at her home while playing at a tub of water sitting in the back yard and which was used for horses to drink from. The burial tok place at Hebron cemetery at 11 o'clock this morning, conducted by Shaw & Son.

NEWSY GLEANINGS.

The turbine ocean liner has come to stay.

In the United States there are 11,932 pupils in schools for the deaf.

At present hackney cafriages are not allowed to enter Hyde Park, London.

The deposits in Prussian savings banks have almost doubled within the last ten years.

The name of the Illinois couple to whom twins have been born six times and triplets once is Joy.

Haarlem, Holland, has the distinction of possessing one of the oldest newspapers in the world.

Chicago's Board of Education will name the proposed commercial high school for Marshall Field.

William B. Perry, who has been blind since seven, has been chosen City Solicitor of New Bedford, Mass.

The London County Council has decided to pave with noiseless material the portions of street car tracks in front of churches.

A sixteen-year-old boy in New York committed suicide the other day because of grief over the separation and probable divorce of his parents.

In an effort to stop the wave of crime which has become epidemic in Chicago, Ill., 500 patrolmen are to be added to the Police Department of that city.

The corporation of Limerick recently refused a request of local Nationalists to boycott all functions where military bands played or the Union Jack was flown.

MINOR MENTION.

Francis Villiers is the new English minister at Lisbon.

John Hawkes, a Cincinnati lumberman, has crossed and recrossed the Atlantic 228 times.

W. E. Johnston is believed to hold the record for long distance traveling among railroad men.

Rev. Dr. P. S. Henson says the country is going insane because it refuses to take sufficient rest.

Emil Zerkowitz has written a book dealing with American commerce from the Hungarian point of view.

Sir Walter Gilbey bears the reputation of being one of the greatest living authorities on all kinds of sports.

Dr. L. Radkofer, professor of botany at Munich, recently celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his doctorate.

William B. Perry, who has been blind since seven, has been chosen city solicitor of New Bedford, Mass.

The death mask of Heine, who detested such things, has been acquired by his student, Professor Hans Meyer, of Leipsic.

John Hawkes, a Cincinnati lumberman, has just returned from Europe after crossing and recrossing two hundred and twenty-eight times.

The death of Brigadier-General John Cambell recently leaves only eighteen officers on the retired list of the army who served in the Mexican War.

Edward De Mille Campbell, professor of chemical engineering and analytical chemistry in the University of Michigan, is totally blind.

Former United States Senator W. A. Harris, of Kansas, is negotiating for the repurchase of the Linwood farm which he sold while in politics.

Excited Over Shooting Affray

Guin, Ala.—Guin was thrown into considerable excitement over the shooting of John Kennedy by R. G. Wright. It seems the shooting was the result of putting Frank Evans, who, it is alleged, was drunk into the calabose Wright was assisting Marshal Akers in getting Evans into the lockup, when Kennedy is said to have interfered, striking Wright over the eye, which led up to the shooting. It is not now known how seriously Kennedy is hurt.

Do not plant too deep. Let upper roots be set an inch lower than before.

Bingera and nearly all the sugar mills in the Woongarra Scrub (Australia) have closed down.

A NEW DISCOVERY.

A great improvement, the Dixie Liver Regulator, does not gripe nor sicken, and cures Constipation, Heart burn, Vertigo, Dyspepsia, Kidney troubles and Lazy Liver. For sale by all Dealers and by Shelby Drug Co., Calera, Ala. tf

SPECIAL OFFER! !

The Union, Weekly Montgomery Advertiser, and a great white and black map of Alabama, United States and world, three in one, with a picture of every president from Washington to Roosevelt, all for $1.50.

FOR SALE

At all times, high grade hogs and pigs, Berkshire and Poland China, crossed.

M. J. BARRETT,
tf Thorsby, Ala.

Watson's Magazine

Increase in Price

Beginning with the February (1906) Number, our Magazine will be called WATSON'S MAGAZINE. It will have a handsomer cover. Several new features will be added. The price at bookstores and newsstands will be 15 cents.

To be just to our present subscribers, we have decided to receive renewals and new subscriptions at $1.00 a year up to March 31st, 1906. After that the subscription price will be $1.50 per year.

This is a golden opportunity for those who are not within easy reach of newsstands. If you have never seen the magazine, ask for sample copy, mentioning this paper and address.

TOM WATSON'S MAGAZINE,
tf. 121 West 42d St., New York City.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

Department of the Interior, Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., February 16, 1906.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before Clerk of Circuit Court, at Clanton, Ala., on April 2, 1906, viz.: Loemy J. Perry, Homestead entry, No. 35109, for the Sw 1-4 of the Sw 1-4 of Section 32, Tp. 20 n of R 11 e.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz.:

Anderson B. Jones, Frank D. Young, William E. Friday, Richard D. Ready, all of Plantersville, Ala.

ROBT. BARBER, Register.

feb22-06-6w

THE NEW YORK WORLD

Thrice-a-Week Edition.

Read Wherever the English Language Is Spoken.

The Thrice-a-Week World hopes to be in 1906 a better paper than it has ever been before, and it has made its arrangements accordingly. Its news service covers the entire globe, and it reports everything fully, promptly and accurately. It is the only paper, not a daily, which is as good as a daily, and which will keep you as completely informed of what is happening throughout the world.

The Thrice-a-Week World is fair in its political reports. You can get the truth from its columns, whether you are Republican or Democrat, and that is what you want.

A special feature of the Thrice-a-Week World has always been its serial fiction. It publishes novels by the best authors in the world, novels which in book form sell for $1 50 each, and its high standard in this respect will be maintained in the future as in the past.

The THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequaled newspaper and THE UNION together for one year for $1.50.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.00. tf

The State of Alabama, Chilton County. Probate Court, February 13, 1906.

In the Matter of the Estate of H. A. Wilson, Deceased.

Letters of Administration on the estate of H. A. Wilson, Deceased, having been granted to the undersigned on the 8th day of November, 1905, by the Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate of said County, notice is hereby given that all persons having claims against said estate are hereby required to present the same within the time allowed by law, or the same will be barred.

T. C. MARCUS,
Administrator.

feb15-06-3w

WANTED.

Four regular boarders. Good accommodations and reasonable rates. Apply to Mrs. J. J. Grant, near Methodist church, Clanton, Ala. tf

NOTICE.

Cooper, Ala., Dec. 30, 1905.

The books and accounts of A. G. Clark & Son are in my hands for collection. All parties interested will please come at once and settle and save time and trouble.

J. J. M'DOWELL,
tf Justice Peace, Beat 10.

FOR SALE OR RENT!

Land for sale, or to rent. One, two, three and four horse farms; two miles north of Jemison. Call on or address,

J. C. DUBOSE,
tf. Jemison, Ala.

FOR SALE!

Fine lot of barred Plymouth Rock cockerels and pullets, 75c and $1.00 each Brown Leghorn cockerels, $1.00 each. Brown Leghorn eggs, $1.00 per setting. All full blood. P. C. SMITH,
tf. Thorsby, Ala.

BUSINESS PROPOSITION

The best whiskey in the country is here. If you don't believe it, try me.

J. M. COLLINS,
Palace Saloon, Calera, Ala.
tf.

NOTICE.

Blank Deeds, Mortgages, and all official forms for Justices of the Peace, etc., for sale at The Union Office. Only best approved forms are used. Come in and give us your order. tf.

Collier Drug Co.

The Big Cut Rate Drug Store

2012 First Avenue, :-: BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

PRICE LIST

	REGULAR PRICE	OUR PRICE
Tutt's Pills	$ 25	$ 21
Carter's Little Liver Pills	25	21
Slocum's Lazy Liver Pills	25	10
Slocum's X-Ray Plasters	25	10
Allcock's Porous Plasters	25	13
Belladonna Plasters	25	15
Magic Porous Plasters	25	10
Chamberlain's Cough Remedy	25	21
Chamberlain's Colic Remedy	25	21
Austin's Liver Regulator	25	10
Simmons' Liver Regulator	25	21
Thedford's Black Draught	25	21
Wine of Cardui	1 00	83
G. F. P.	1 00	75
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound	1 00	83
Gilbert's Gravel Weed	50	42
Syrup of Figs	50	42
Fletcher's Castoria	35	28
Darby's Fluid	50	38
Sloan's Liniment	25	21
La Creole Hair Restorer	1 00	75
Newbro's Herpicide	1 00	75
Ayer's Hair Vigor	1 00	83
Danderine	25	20
Scott's Emulsion	50	42
Slocum's Ozomulsion	1 00	83
Slocum's Psychine	3 00	2 50
Colgate's Tooth Powder	25	15
Enthymol Tooth Paste	25	20
Lyon's Tooth Powder	25	18
Cuticura Soap	25	18
Packer's Tar Soap	25	15
Mennen's Talcum Powder	25	15
Colgate's Talcum Powder	25	15
Swamp Root	50	42
Swamp Root	1 00	83
Peruna	1 00	83

We carry an immense stock of drugs, Patent Medicines, Toilet Articles, Fine Wines and Liquors and sell everything at a cut price. Send us your orders and when you are in Birmingham call to see us.

COLLIER DRUG COM'Y

2012 FIRST AVENUE

Birmingham, Alabama.

Any one in Clanton or vicinity that wishes to purchase anything in the Drug Line can bring their orders and the money therefor to THE UNION, and it will be brought to them FREE of all charges whatsoever.

Come and Be Pleased.

PRICES AND TERMS upon which we are selling the most beautiful and attractive goods of the season will certainly please and surprise you.

The styles on which fashion has stamped her approval for the coming season are now shown with newest materials.

A Full line of Star Brand Shoes.

Men's and boys' Clothing.

Full line of Gents' Furnishing Goods.

Ladies' and children's Jackets, Skirts and Ready-to-Wear Hats.

Anything you want in Dress Goods, Hardware, Saddlery and Florence Wagons.

J. C. JONES,

Clanton, Alabama.

J. E. Littlejohn

Clanton, Alabama.

General Merchandise, Corn, Hay, etc.

SHOES

The most for the money in town. Come and see us and we will do you good. :-: :-: :-: :-: :-:

THE ONLY ONE

There is only One Genuine-Syrup of Figs,

The Genuine is Manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co.

The full name of the company, California Fig Syrup Co., is printed on the front of every package of the genuine.

The Genuine- Syrup of Figs- is for Sale, in Original Packages Only, by Reliable Druggists Everywhere

Knowing the above will enable one to avoid the fraudulent imitations made by piratical concerns and sometimes offered by unreliable dealers. The imitations are known to act injuriously and should therefore be declined.

Buy the genuine always if you wish to get its beneficial effects. It cleanses the system gently yet effectually, dispels colds and headaches when bilious or constipated, prevents fevers and acts best on the kidneys, liver, stomach and bowels, when a laxative remedy is needed by men, women or children. Many millions know of its beneficial effects from actual use and of their own personal knowledge. It is the laxative remedy of the well-informed.

Always buy the Genuine- Syrup of Figs

MANUFACTURED BY THE

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.

Louisville, Ky. San Francisco, Cal. New York, N.Y.

PRICE FIFTY CENTS PER BOTTLE

MAP

PRICE, 25 Cts

ANTI-GRIPINE

IS GUARANTEED TO CURE

GRIP, BAD COLD, HEADACHE AND NEURALGIA.

I won't sell Anti-Gripine to a dealer who won't Guarantee It. Call for your MONEY BACK IF IT DOESN'T CURE.

F. W. Diemer, M.D., Manufacturer, Springfield, Mo.

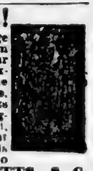
CABBAGE Plants! CELERY Plants!



and all kinds of garden plants, can now furnish all kinds of cabbage plants, grown in the open air and will stand great cold. Grown from seeds of the most reliable seedsmen. We use the same plants on our thousand acre truck farm. Plants carefully counted and properly packed. Celery ready last of Dec. Lettuce, Onion and Beet plants, same time or earlier. Reduced express rates promised, which, when effective, will give us 60 per cent. less than merchandise rates. Prices: small lots $1.50 per thousand, large lots $1.00 to 1.25 per thousand. F. O. B. Meggetts, S. C. Arlington White Spine Cucumber Seed 60 cents per pound. F. O. B. Meggetts, S. C. The United States Agricultural Department has established an Experimental Station on our farms to test all kinds of vegetables, especially cabbages. The results of the experiments we will be pleased to give you at any time.—Yours respectfully,—N. B. BLITCH COMPANY, MEGGETTS, S. C.

Norway's Queen.

The new queen of Norway, as all the world knows, is the youngest daughter of King Edward and was married to Prince Charles of Denmark in 1896. She has one child, a little boy of two and a half years whom she idolizes. Indeed, her love of children is proverbial, and many good stories are told concerning her and the little ones. Once when a class was being examined before the princess she took a shy little girl on her knees, and every one was astonished at the way in which the child replied to the questions put to her. Afterward, when asked how she learned her lessons so well, the mite replied, "Please, the lady told me what to say." The queen is one of the cleverest members of the British royal family, and, like her husband, is extremely fond of sport. She is an expert linguist and can speak five languages. She is also a keen cyclist and has ridden through the crowded streets of London on her machine. As Princess Maud she was never fond of ostentation and often expressed her dislike of court life.

Sixty years ago England led Europe in the increase of population; now it ranks as sixth. The increase per million per year is 15,000 in Germany, 13,600 in Russia, 12,300 in Holland, 10,400 in Switzerland, 10,100 in Belgium, 9,400 in Great Britain.

UNDER WHICH KING

"The More Postum the More Food—the More Coffee the More Poison."

The Pres. of the W. C. T. U. in a young giant State in the Northwest says:

"I did not realize that I was a slave to coffee till I left off drinking it. For three or four years I was obliged to take a nerve tonic every day. Now I am free, thanks to Postum Food Coffee.

"After finding out what coffee will do to its victims, I could hardly stand to have my husband drink it; but he was not willing to quit. I studied for months to find a way to induce him to leave it off. Finally I told him I would make no more coffee.

"I got Postum Food Coffee, and made it strong—boiled it the required time, and had him read the little book, 'The Road to Wellville,' that comes in every pkg.

"To-day Postum has no stronger advocate than my husband! He tells our friends how to make it, and that he got through the winter without a spell of the grip and has not had a headache for months—he used to be subject to frequent nervous headaches.

"The stronger you drink Postum the more food you get; the stronger you drink coffee the more poison you get." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek Mich.

There's a reason.

REDUCED RATES

to Mardi Gras New Orleans and Mobile Round-trip tickets will be sold via Queen & Crescent Route at the rate of one fare (plus 25c) for the round trip. Tickets on sale February 21st to 26th inclusive and for trains scheduled to arrive in Mobile or New Orleans on or before noon of the 27th. Final limit March 3rd with privilege of extension until March 17th by deposit of ticket and payment of 50c with joint agent at New Orleans or Mobile. Stopover privileges. For information ask agents, or J. C. Conn, D. P. A., Chattanooga; A. B. Freeman, T. P. A., Birmingham, Ala.

Greater London contained 924,143 inhabited houses in 1901.

Cures Rheumatism and Catarrh—Medicine Sent Free.

Send no money—simply write and try Botanic Blood Balm at our expense. Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) kills or destroys the poison in the blood which causes the awful aches in back and shoulder blades, shifting pains, difficulty in moving fingers, toes or legs, bone pains, swollen muscles and joints of rheumatism, or the foul breath, hawking, spitting, droppings in throat, bad hearing, specks flying before the eyes, all played out feeling of catarrh. Botanic Blood Balm has cured hundreds of cases of 30 or 40 years' standing after doctors, hot springs and patent medicines had all failed. Most of these cured patients had taken Blood Balm as a last resort. It is especially advised for chronic, deep-seated cases. Impossible for any one to suffer the agonies or symptoms of rheumatism or catarrh while or after taking Blood Balm. It makes the blood pure and rich, thereby giving a healthy blood supply. Cures are permanent and not a patching up. Drug stores, $1 per large bottle. Sample of Blood Balm sent free and prepaid, also special medical advice by describing your trouble and writing Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Some Royal Nicknames.

Nicknames are very prevalent among British royal princesses, most of whom have names by which they are affectionately known by their relatives. The king's youngest daughter, Princess Charles of Denmark, was always Harry with her brothers at Sandringham, while her eldest sister, the Duchess of Fife, earned for herself the nickname of Her Royal Shyness, which is as appropriate now as it was then.

Princess Victoria of Sleswick-Holstein, the eldest daughter of Princess Christian, is called Thora, and in her case the nickname is almost a necessity, for among her late majesty's descendants the name of Victoria is too general to be distinctive. That, no doubt, is why the Prince of Wales' little daughter, who started as Princess Victoria, is now known as Princess Mary.

Princess Thora was one of the most constant companions of Queen Victoria, and the death of her royal grandmother was a great grief to her. She is a most charming and lovable woman and has many friends.

The largest chain cable ever made is being constructed for one of the new Cunard turbiners. Each link weighs 100 pounds.

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

CURES 50c. and $1.00.

Swine Disease and Hog Cholera

Send for Circular with Directions.

Dr. EARL S. SLOAN, 615 Albany St., Boston, Mass.

There are 1,000,000 automobiles in use in the United States.

Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullen is Nature's great remedy—Cures Coughs, Colds, Croup and Consumption, and all throat and lung troubles. At druggists, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

The great Croton dam will hold 30,000,000,000 gallons.

WILD WITH ITCHING HUMOR.

Eruption Broke Out in Spots All Over Body — Cured at Expense of Only $1.25—Thanks Cuticura Remedies.

"The Cuticura Remedies cured me of my skin disease, and I am very thankful to you. My trouble was eruption of the skin, which broke out in spots all over my body, and caused a continual itching, which nearly drove me wild at times. I got medicine of a doctor, but it did not cure me, and when I saw in a paper your ad., I sent to you for the Cuticura book and I studied my case in it. I then went to the drug store and bought one cake of Cuticura Soap, one box of Cuticura Ointment and one vial of Cuticura Pills. From the first application I received relief. I used the first set and two extra cakes of Cuticura Soap, and was completely cured. I had suffered for two years, and I again thank Cuticura for my cure. Claude N. Johnson, Maple Grove Farm, R. F. D. 2, Walnut, Kan., June , 1905."

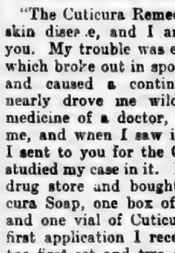
The Chinese have used kerosene tins in characteristic ways since oil was first sold in them. Buckets, lunch boxes, dustpans, all sorts of tinware of Chinese and foreign style have been made from them and not the least scrap has been wasted. The tins have a regular market value.

The increased consumption of the waters of the Rio Grande on the American side has caused a general depression in and near the Mexican city of Juarez, because of the scarcity of water for irrigating the fields.

RAISED FROM A DEATH-BED.

Mr. Pitts, Once Pronounced Incurable, Has Been Well Three Years.

E. E. Pitts, 60 Hathaway St., Skowhegan, Me., says: "Seven years ago my back ached and I was so run down that I was laid up four months. I had night sweats and fainting spells and dropped to 90 pounds. The urine passed every few minutes with intense pain and looked like blood. Dropsy set in and the doctors decided I could not live. My wife got me using Doan's Kidney Pills, and as they helped me I took heart, kept on and was cured so thoroughly that I've been well three years."



Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

THE PULPIT.

AN ELOQUENT SUNDAY SERMON BY DR. DONALD SAGE MACKAY.

Subject: How to Grow a Soul.

New York City.—Sunday morning, in the Collegiate Church, the Rev. Dr. Donald Sage Mackay preached on "How to Grow a Soul." The text was from II Peter iii:18: "Grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ." Dr. Mackay said:

In the course of my reading the other evening I came across this striking and suggestive sentence, "We can each grow a soul if we are willing to pay the price." These words set me thinking. What a tremendous possibility God has placed in the grasp of each one of us. We have in our power the opportunity of growing an immortal soul. That opportunity is this life—the question is, Are we willing to pay the price?

Do we realize what the growth of a soul within us means? Do we realize what life is without a soul? We hear it sometimes said of one that he is a "soulless man." Usually we understand by that description a man devoid of the ordinary feelings of our common humanity, lacking in kindliness and sympathy, and incapable of generous action. True enough, but a soulless man in the real import of the words, means a great deal more than that. To be soulless is to be dead at the vital centre of life. It is to be corrupt and degenerate at that point in character from which the divine and immortal springs into power. Soullessness is spiritual degeneracy. It is what Paul calls "Dead in trespasses and sins, without hope and without God in the world."

Is it worth while, then, paying any price if we can start within ourselves this growth of an immortal soul? "We can each grow a soul," said the writer, "if we are willing to pay the price. Assuredly it is worth it, for this is the one and the only victorious life." More than that—this is the heart of all true religion. If our religion is not developing spiritual life within us our religion is vain. That is the great thought of Christ's teaching, and in that He has emphasized the deepest thought of all the great teachers of the world. You may remember, for instance, the words of Socrates in his Defense, addressed to his accusers, when in describing the greatest work a man could do he said, "For I do nothing but go about amongst you, persuading you all alike, young and old, not to take thought of your persons or your properties, but to care about the greatest improvement of your soul." Than that statement of the great Greek teacher the Gospel of Christ can add no stronger emphasis to the tremendous significance which belongs to the growth of a soul.

And yet it is just at this point that, for most of us, the real tragedy of spiritual experience unveils itself. What is it that most troubles you in your religious life, if at any moment your give yourself to honest self-examination? What is the real discouragement that haunts us even in our keenest prayers and most fervent supplications? Is it not just this—our utter poverty in soul growth, the dreadful lack of any real evidence of progress in spiritual things? Judged by the ordinary standards of life our souls do not grow. At the very best they simply stand still, so that spiritually, even the best of us, are pretty much as we were fifteen or twenty years ago, with the same tendencies dominant, the same temptations present. With others of us it is worse than that. In spite of our prayers and aspirations we are conscious, when we are brave enough to face the fact, that spiritually we grow more stunted and dwarfed as the years pass on. Our faith becomes less fervid, the spirit of prayer dwindles, the sense of God evaporates in the stifling atmosphere of selfishness and wordliness that wraps itself like a sea fog around us. That, I repeat, is the spiritual tragedy that plays itself out in the secret places of our lives; spiritually we do not grow as we ought; our souls lack that touch of life which reveals itself in ever deepening strength and power.

Well, now having faced this two-fold fact—on the one hand that each of us can grow a soul if he is willing to pay the price, and on the other hand that this soul-growth is not being realized within us as it ought—let us see this morning what are some of the conditions in obedience to which soul-growth may become a glorious reality for each one of us.

1. Let us recognize in the first place what the soul is, what it represents. By the soul, we mean something deeper than "the machine which ticks in the brain, that calculates and memorizes, that learns the tricks of trade, and practices them in the world." That is not your soul, although I dare say it is the only apology for a soul some of us have. The soul is that in you and me which has kinship with God. It is the chamber in which the divine and immortal within us dwells. The soul is the holy of holies in a man's life. It is as Paul says, "The Temple of the Holy Ghost." When, for instance, you feel at times, as surely at times we all do, an almost overpowering yearning after God, to know Him, to be like Him, it is your soul that is speaking. It is the immortal within you, crying out for its kinship with God. The vitality of your soul, therefore, is the pledge of your immortality. Destroy the soul, and you destroy that within you without which eternity is unthinkable. That is why Christ put such emphasis on the awful possibility of losing the soul. "What shall it profit a man," He said, "if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" Nothing can compensate that loss. Christ does not say that "gaining the world" necessarily means loss of the soul; what He says is, that a prize even so great as the attainment of the whole world would not offset the loss of a single individual soul. Do we realize that?

The first condition, therefore, in soul-growth, is to realize the issue at stake, to recognize the infinite value of your soul as your one and only asset when death, with ruthless fingers, strips you of all else. "Think of living," said Carlyle, "for wert thou the pitifullest of all the sons of earth thy life is no idle dream. It is thine own. It is all that thou hast to face eternity with." True, but living without a soul is to make eternity a voidless blank. It is your soul within you, claiming its kinship with God, that is the only thing worth living for. That is the first point. When you recognise that, you have taken the first step in soul-growth.

2. The second condition is to recognize clearly the great hindrance to soul-growth. It is futile to ask why our souls do not grow naturally, as, for instance, the body does. Spiritual development is one thing, natural growth is quite another thing. The fact must be recognized, explain it how you will, that soul-growth is tremendously handicapped and hindered by forces which conspire its ruin. In other words, our souls are in the grip of a deadly disease, which dwarfs and stunts them. What is that disease? A correct diagnosis is the first step to complete the cure.

Suppose for a moment you have a boy who, instead of growing into health and strength, is pinched and dwarfed and anemic in appearance. You take the lad to a physician, and he will tell you that that boy of yours is really suffering from a wrong habit of life. He is not being nourished properly. His digestive organs are being overloaded with food which he cannot assimilate. What the boy needs is not more food, but less; not richer diet, but simpler. Nature is being thwarted by artificial living, and artificial living is the seed-plot of disease. And the physician will doubtless tell you that, the boy being young, the cure is simple. He will say: "Give nature a chance by simplifying his daily diet." Well, it is even so with the health of the soul. Our souls are starved and stunted by a disease, which is created and aggravated by a wrong mode of life. We are so gorging our minds with all the elaborated and artificial forms of living, that the spiritual within us is stifled. Sin is the disease which kills the soul, but sin is simply a product of that sordid selfish life which clogs the great arteries of the soul. If deliberately we follow a life which makes no provision for prayer and communion with God, which cherishes evil habits and nourishes actions which begin and end in self, then we are deliberately killing the soul within us. What, then, is the price we have to pay if we want to grow a soul? We must change the mode of life which enthralls us, and make provision, not for the things of the flesh, but of the spirit. In that purer, sweeter, simpler atmosphere the the soul will inevitably begin to grow. The vitality of your soul is wonderful. Its recuperative powers are marvelous, but these powers must have their opportunity. Here is a disease which is stunting and slowly killing my soul—am I willing to fulfill the condition which will eradicate that disease, and make spiritual growth a reality?

3. That leads to the third point. What is that condition? And who of us, by his own strength, is sufficient to meet that condition? We cannot certainly, by our own efforts, hope to reverse those natural tendencies within us which war against our souls. We cannot, by any strivings of our own, force spiritual growth. If we are unable to add a cubit to our physical stature, much less can we add to our spiritual growth. Yet, the call of Christ is to "grow in grace, and in His likeness." What, then, is the secret of that growth? The Gospel of Christ is the answer. Our souls grow as they come into living touch with Him. We cannot transform ourselves, but we are transformed into His likeness, as we reflect the spirit of Jesus, and we reflect Jesus in the measure that we reflect on Him. Make Christ the theme of your daily prayer and meditation, and every moment you spend in His presence is a springtide of spiritual growth within your soul. That growth you cannot check; no sin can hinder it if you are living in the atmosphere of Christ's life. It is not our strivings and strugglings that add to the stature of the soul; it is our faith, simple as that of a little child which, laying hold of the love of God revealed in Christ, builds up the soul, day by day, into His grace and into His likeness.

Now, I ask, is there anything strange or mysterious about that? Is spiritual growth subject to laws any different from those which govern any process of mental development? Surely not. To make any theme a subject of daily thought is to make that theme a potent influence in your life. The more deeply it lays hold of your mind the more profoundly it becomes a part of yourself. All you have to do is to fulfil the condition of continuous thought, and the object of your thought reacts upon you and becomes a dominant factor of growth. We speak, for instance, of a man being possessed by some master passion—it may be the love of money, or of power, or of sordid self-indulgence, or of some higher interest, but whatever it is, the result is the same. Constant dwelling upon it moulds character into its likeness.

So it is with the soul that surrenders itself to the influence of Jesus. As we think of Him, and as we enter into the spirit of His life, and breathe the atmosphere of His love and purity, gradually we are transformed, and the soul within us leaps up into glad recognition of its lawful Love. Every power we have, every faculty we possess becomes interpenetrated by His spirit, and because His spirit is life we live also.

Excited.

Rowland Hill used to tell this story of himself:

"People say when I preach the Gospel very earnestly, 'How excited Mr. Hill gets!' Why," said he, "I was walking through Wotton-under-Edge the other day, and saw some men digging gravel. All of a sudden the earth gave way and buried two or three of the men. I ran off as fast as my old legs would carry me, and I shouted, 'Help! help! help!' but people did not say, 'Poor old Mr. Hill is getting dreadfully excited!'

"Oh, no! he might be as excited as he pleased when men's lives were in danger; but when a man's soul was in danger the proper thing would be to say to him very quietly and calmly, 'My dear friend, unless something shall interpose, and you shall one of these days become somewhat different from what you now are, it will not be quite so well for you in another world as, perhaps, you might desire.'"—Belfast Witness.

The models of fashion here cannot even be certain of passing muster as the dec nats in heaven.

THE SUNDAY SC

INTERNATIONAL LESSON CO FOR FEBRUARY 25.

Subject: Jesus' Power to Forg ii., 1-12—Golden Text, Mark Memory Verse, 5—Topic: Fo of Sin—Commentary.

1. The multitude gathers Christ (vs. 1, 2). 1. "And a the close of the missionary tou lee. "Into Capernaum." "Wh His home or headquarters. some days." Some days after had been healed and the ex had quieted down. "It was The news spread very rapidl the house." Either the hous He occupied with His mother brethren (Matt. 4:13), or poss of St. Peter. When Christ i house, 1. Good men will be to it. 2. Bad men will be bes it. 3. Divine benediction upon it. 4. Beneficent ministr flow from it. 2. "Many were ered." The audience included sees and doctors of the law come from the towns of Galile and Jerusalem (Luke 5:17). T come to inspect and criticise Teacher. It was like the cath Israel on Carmel to witness t between Elijah and the priests "About the door." There was a concourse of people so that th and court were both filled. "P the word." The doctrine of of God. They had come partly cise and partly out of curiosi now Jesus seizes the opportu preach the Gospel.

II. A palsied sinner bro Christ (vs. 3, 4). 3. "Come unt Access to Jesus seemed im There were many obstacles in t Should they have waited for a lent season? No. They must their way to Christ. "Bringing He was young for Jesus calls but he was full grown for it r four men to carry him. Th many so weak and discourag they cannot go to Jesus without ance; we should always be re help such. "Sick of the palsy." takes away the sense of feeling weakens the will so that whe would do good evil is present them. 3. It produces a fixed co of evil, with intense suffering. of four." Each one holding a of the "pallet" or bed, which wa ly a thickly padded quilt or mat was co-operation in this wor could not have done it; it needed In the union of hearts and hand is strength. 4. "The pres seemed quite impossible for the to make an opening sufficiently for them to pass through. "Un the roof." Luke say, "throug tiling." "Broken it up." Orient were made of different kinds of rial. Luke says they let this man through the "tiling." They are slabs, sometimes used at this day

III. Christ forgives sins (vs. 5 "Saw their faith." Many of th of healing and restoration we tained through the faith and pra the friends of the sufferers. See 8:13; Mark 5:36; John 4:50. "saw" their faith. Real faith Christ always notices and com faith. "Son." He spoke with ness. Matthew adds, "Be of cheer." "Thy sins are forgiven V.) Our first great need is the f ness of sins. Jesus rightly pu ahead of the healing of the body

6. "Certain of the scribes." scribes were the leaders of the the theologians. "Reasoning i hearts." Our word "dialogue rived from the same Greek wo "Blasphemies." "But God only rightly understood that all s sins against God, and therefo He could forgive them. See Ps

IV. Christ heals disease (vs. 8. "Jesus perceived." Jesus knew thoughts (Matt. 9:4). When Bar declared himself Messiah, the quoted Isa. 11:3, and examined see if he could reveal the thoug their hearts. He failed and the him. "Why reason ye?" M says, "Wherefore think ye evi "Whether it is easier to say," etc think that in these expressions merely asking which is the easie to make. But He evidently more than that and uses the "say" with the farther thought ing." He then shows that He power to forgive sins by at once ing the palsied man.

10. "That ye may know." "Man." This is the title which most frequently applied to H sometimes interchanging it w "Son of God." This title is ne plied to Christ by the writers Gospels. Jesus appropriated t self the prophecy of Daniel (M 63, 64; Dan. 7:13). It is app Christ more than eighty times New Testament. "Power on They were thinking of God as h Heaven, and Jesus calls atte the fact that there is power o now to forgive sins. 11. " Here is the test. Christ show ability to forgive sins by His a heal.

12. "He arose." "Before the This thing was "not done in a c Christ's miracles were performe most public manner and were questioned by those who w them. "Amazed." Luke adds, were filled with fear." "Glorified They had a high degree of re for God and were filled with tion for His power and goodnes this fashion." Christ's work without precedent. He acts in ently and advises with no one had seen three marks of His d 1. Forgiving sins. 2. Pe thoughts. 3. Healing disease works of Christ are astonish world to-day. He is the same Saviour, and is still able to for

Cruiser Squadron Arrive

Genoa, Italy.—The American squadron arrived here fro France. The local authori changed visits and greetings American officers.

Cardinal Perraud Very L

Autun, France.—Cardinal Perraud, archbishop of Aut lieved to be dying. He is from double pneumonia.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Props., Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists, price, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation

...um preparations can not be ex... only used in the treatment of ..., on account of the great cost. ...adio-activity imparted to such ...nces as paper, fluids, etc., is too ... and fleeting to be of use, but ...mann, of Erfurt, now claims ...is new product—which has been ... radiophor—is endowed with ... permanent radio-activity of suf... strength, and it is inexpensive. ...ubstance is used on the skin ...owths or cavities, or for coating ...al instruments. In plates of pin... size, it is held to the skin by ... such means as plaster or band... and it is allowed to remain for ...ng periods of a few hours to ... days.

Reposes on a $30,000 Bed.

...e. Cecile Sorel, the beautiful and ...nt actress of the Comedie Fran... ... reposes, dreams of her tri... ... on a bed that, to speak sor... ... is worth $30,000.

...e. Sorel, as all the world knows, ... been nearly deafened by the ...lts of a public that worships her. ... mighty have bowed at her feet. ...s in her sumptuous home that a ...er president of France was strick... ...ith the sudden disease that car... ...him off.

...e possesses everything that is ...osed to make a lovely woman ...y. And she is happiest in the ...ession of this bed, which, dating ... the days of the French Rennais... ...e, is perfectly preserved.

...e reason? There is no other bed ...e world like it. Let other wom... ...ansack old chateaux from Calais ...lice, Mlle. Sorel is certain that ...ouch cannot be duplicated.

...omists have been unable to ob... any extract having the proper... of gastric juice, and for a num... of years attempts have been made ...rance and Russia to secure the ...al material from the stomachs ...gs or other animals. After long ...riment, Dr. Hepp has succeeded ...tting a regular supply from hog ... creating a new industry on a ...ch farm. At the age of 3 or 4 ...hs the animals are so operated ... that their food does not pass ...gh the stomach, and a gastric ...la is formed. Eating excites the ...l flow of gastric juice, which, un... ...ed with food, is drawn twice daily ... the fistula. The animals are ... clean, receive the best of food, ... their health remains perfect in ... of the serious change in their ...stive arrangements. The clear, ...er-colored gastric juice, which can ...kept indefinitely, is of great value ...reating stomach disorders.

...e novel combination automobile ...M. Henri Pieper, the Belgian in... ...tor, is claimed to be an important ...ance in several respects. The ... which is known as the "auto... ...e," is equipped with a gasoline ...or, a dynamo, and a storage bat... of 24 judor cells having a total ...ht of 340 pounds. The gasoline ...or is of ordinary four-cylinder ..., with a magnetic gas throttle for ...lating the speed. When the gas... ... motor is running with light load, ... dynamo acts as a generator to ...ge the storage battery, but on ris... ...grades and hard places it can be ... as a motor on current from the ...ery, and its aid gives a greater ...age speed than can be had from a ...ple gasoline machine of the same ...er. The distance run is not lim... by the charge in the battery, as ... the electric automobile, while ... case of break-down the battery ... be depended upon to run a cer... distance. No special starting de... is needed, and speed-changing ... and various other devices are ...e unnecessary.

...olored light rays have been shown ... Prof. Redard, of Geneva, to have ...d physiological effects which may ...me important in surgery as well ... medicine. The red acts as ex... ...nt and irritant, and is known to ...e effect in smallpox and other erup... ...s; the yellow seems to have a ...ressing action, and the blue calms ... soothes the nerve centers to such ...gree as to serve as an anaesthetic ... many persons. Dr. Millard, of ...don, has reported successful anaes... ...ia in twenty cases and failure in ...t. The patient looks steadily at ... incandescent light with blue bulb ...d ten inches away, and become ...nsible in a few minutes.

THE SUNDAY SC

INTERNATIONAL LESSON CO
FOR FEBRUARY 25,

Subject: Jesus' Power to Forgive ll., 1-12—Golden Text, Mark, Memory Verse, 5—Topic: Vo of Sin—Commentary.

1. The multitude gathers
Christ (vs. 1, 2). 1. "And again the close of the missionary tour
lee. "Into Capernaum." "Whic
His home or headquarters.
some days." Some days after th had been healed and the exci had quieted down. "It was The news spread very rapidly the house." Either the house
He occupied with His mother a brethren (Matt. 4:13), or possib of St. Peter. When Christ house. 1. Good men will be att to it. 2. Bad men will be bene it. 3. Divine benediction wi upon it. 4. Beneficent ministr flow from it. 2. "Many were ered." The audience included scribes and doctors of the law w come from the towns of Galilee, and Jerusalem (Luke 5:17). Th come to inspect and criticise thi Teacher. It was like the gather Israel on Carmel to witness the between Elijah and the priests o
"About the door." There was a concourse of people so that the and court were both filled. "Pr the word." The doctrine of th of God. They had come partly t else and partly out of curiosity now Jesus seizes the opportun preach the Gospel.

II. A palsied sinner brou Christ (vs. 3, 4). 3. "Come unto Access to Jesus seemed impo
There were many obstacles in the Should they have waited for a c tient season? No. They must their way to Christ. "Bringing
He was young for Jesus calls hi but he was full grown for it re four men to carry him. Ther many so weak and discouraged they cannot go to Jesus without ance; we should always be re help such. "Sick of the palsy."
takes away the sense of feeling.
weakens the will so that whe would do good evil is present them. 3. It produces a fixed co of evil, with intense suffering.
of four." Each one holding a c of the "pallet" or bed, which was ly a thickly padded quilt or mat.
was co-operation in this work.
could not have done it; it needed
In the union of hearts and hands is strength. 4. "The press seemed quite impossible for the c to make an opening sufficiently for them to pass through. "Unco the roof." Luke say, "through tiling." "Broken it up." Oriental were made of different kinds of rial. Luke says they let this man through the "tiling." They appe have broken up the tiling or thin slabs, sometimes used at this day.

III. Christ forgives sins (vs. 5-
"Saw their faith." Many of the of healing and restoration wer gained through the faith and pray the friends of the sufferers. See 8:13; Mark 5:36; John 4:50.
"saw" their faith. Real faith Christ always notices and com faith. "Son." He spoke with t ness. Matthew adds, "Be of cheer." "Thy sins are forgiven.
V.) Our first great need is the fo ness of sins. Jesus rightly put ahead of the healing of the body.
6. "Certain of the scribes."
scribes were the leaders of the the theologians. "Reasoning hearts." One word "dialogue rived from the same Greek wo
"Blasphemies." "But God only."
rightly understood that all sin sins against God, and therefore
He could forgive them. See Psa.

IV. Christ heals disease (vs.
8. "Jesus perceived." Jesus knew thoughts (Matt. 9:4). When Bar declared himself Messiah, the quoted Isa. 11:3, and examined h see if he could reveal the thoug their hearts. He failed and the him. "Why reason ye?" Ma says, "Wherefore think ye evil
"Whether it is easier to say," etc.
think that in these expressions J merely asking which is the easier to make. But He evidently more than that and uses the te say" with the farther thought o ing." He then shows that He h power to forgive sins by at once ing the palsied man.

10. "That ye may know."
Man." This is the title which most frequently applied to H sometimes interchanging it wit
"Son of God." This title is nev plied to Christ by the writers Gospels. Jesus appropriated to self the prophecy of Daniel (Ma 63, 64; Dan. 7:13). It is appl
Christ more than eighty times
New Testament. "Power on
They were thinking of God as b
Heaven, and Jesus calls attenti the fact that there is power o
now to forgive sins. 11.
Here is the test. Christ show ability to forgive sins by His ab heal.

12. "He arose." "Before the
This thing was "not done in a c Christ's miracles were performed most public manner and were questioned by those who wit them. "Amazed." Luke adds, were filled with fear." "Glorified
They had a high degree of rev for God and were filled with a tion for His power and goodnes this fashion." Christ's works without precedent. He acts in ently and advises with no one.
had seen three marks of His
1. Forgiving sins. 2. Pe thoughts. 3. Healing disease.
works of Christ are astonish world to-day. He is the same Saviour, and is still able to save

Cruiser Squadron Arrive

Genoa, Italy.—The American squadron arrived here from France. The local authorit changed visits and greetings
American officers.

Cardinal Perraud Very L

Autun, France.—Cardinal
Perraud, archbishop of Aut lieved to be dying. He is from double pneumonia.

Geronimo Weds.

Geronimo, the famous Apache chief,
has married for the eighth time.
His seventh wife died a couple of years ago, and the old man, who is about 76, was so lonely that he married an Indian widow named Mary Kenoi about Christmas time. The new
Mrs. Geronimo is 56. The wedding was kept secret for some reason or other, and the news has just leaked out.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies.
Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine.
It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials, free.
F. J. CHENEY & Co., Props., Toledo, O.
Sold by druggists, price, 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation

...dium preparations can not be ex-
...ively used in the treatment of
...ase, on account of the great cost.
...radio-activity imparted to such
...tances as paper, fluids, etc., is too
...le and fleeting to be of use, but
... Armann, of Erfurt, now claims
...his new product—which has been
...ed radiophor—is endowed with
...e permanent radio-activity of suf-
...ient strength, and it is inexpensive.
...substance is used on the skin,
...rowths or cavities, or for coating
...ical instruments. In plates of pin-
...d size, it is held to the skin by
...e such means as plaster or band-
...and it is allowed to remain for
...ying periods of a few hours to
...e days.

Reposes on a $30,000 Bed.

...lle. Cecile Sorel, the beautiful and
...liant actress of the Comedie Fran-
...e, reposes, dreams of her tri-
...e on a bed that, to speak sor-
...y, is worth $30,000.

...lle. Sorel, as all the world knows,
...been nearly deafened by the
...dits of a public that worships her.
...mighty have bowed at her feet.
...was in her sumptuous home that a
...mer president of France was strick-
...with the sudden disease that car-
...him off.

...he possesses everything that is
...posed to make a lovely woman
...y. And she is happiest in the ...session of this bed, which, dating
...m the days of the French Rennais-
...ce, is perfectly preserved.

...he reason? There is no other bed
...he world like it. Let other wom-
...ransack old chateaux from Calais
...Nice. Mlle. Sorel is certain that
...couch cannot be duplicated.

...hemists have been unable to ob-
...any extract having the proper-
...of gastric juice, and for a num-
...of years attempts have been made
...France and Russia to secure the ...ural material from the stomachs
...dogs or other animals. After long
...eriment, Dr. Hepp has succeeded
...getting a regular supply from hogs,
...s creating a new industry on a
...nch farm. At the age of 3 or 4
...nths the animals are so operated
...n that their food does not pass
...ough the stomach, and a gastric
...ula is formed. Eating excites the
...al flow of gastric juice, which, un-
...ed with food, is drawn twice daily
...m the fistula. The animals are
...t clean, receive the best of food,
...their health remains perfect in
...te of the serious change in their
...estive arrangements. The clear,
...ber-colored gastric juice, which can
...kept indefinitely, is of great value
...treating stomach disorders.

...The novel combination automobile
...M. Henri Pieper, the Belgian in-
...tor, is claimed to be an important
...vance in several respects. The
...which is known as the "auto-
...ete," is equipped with a gasoline
...tor, a dynamo, and a storage bat-
...y of 24 judor cells having a total
...ght of 340 pounds. The gasoline
...tor is of ordinary four-cylinder
...e, with a magnetic gas throttle for
...ulating the speed. When the gas-
...e motor is running with light load,
...dynamo acts as a generator to
...rge the storage battery, but on ris-
...grades and hard places it can be
...ed as a motor on current from the
...tery, and its aid gives a greater
...erage speed than can be had from a
...ple gasoline machine of the same
...wer. The distance run is not lim-
...ed by the charge in the battery, as
...th the electric automobile, while
...case of break-down the battery
...be connected upon to run a cer-
...in distance. No special starting de-
...ce is needed, and speed-changing
...ar and various other devices are
...de unnecessary.

Colored light rays have been shown Prof. Redard, of Genva, to have
...ried physiological effects which may
...come important in surgery as well
...medicine. The red acts as ex-
...ant and irritant, and is known to
...ve effect in smallpox and other erup-
...ns; the yellow seems to have a
...pressing action, and the blue calms
...d soothes the nerve centers to such
...degree as to serve as an anaesthetic
...many persons. Dr. Milliard, of
...ndon, has reported successful anaes-
...sia in twenty cases and failure in
...ht. The patient looks steadily at
...incandescent light with blue bulb
...ced ten inches away, and becomes
...conscious in a few minutes.

ELECTRICITY FROM MINE

CURRENT SUPPLIED FROM GENERATOR BUILT WHERE FUEL IS FOUND.

Possible Competition with Water-Driven Plants—The Plan Has Been Tried Recently in Lancashire, England, with Success.

Suggestions have frequently been made that the cost of electricity from coal might be materially reduced if the power plant were situated at the mine, and the electric current delivered over the wires, instead of shipping the coal to the power plant many miles away. The plan has been tried recently in Lancashire, England, and has proven a success, and it is considered entirely within the probabilities that coal may be used quite as cheaply as water in electric plants, provided that the full cost is kept at the minimum by using the cheapest coal in the best and most efficient machinery. The power station where this plan is working successfully, according to the Electrical World, is situated on the left bank of the River Irwell, and is contiguous to the Lancashire & Yorkshire railway on the other side. The site adjoins the Outwood coal mine, so that an abundant supply of coal and condensing water is assured.

A feature which renders the site chosen particularly advantageous resides in the fact that the local railroad from the mouth of the mine is some fifty feet above that part of the land on which the power station is built, so that coal can be taken directly from the mine cars to the grate of the boilers entirely by gravity. Coal is conveyed from the pit mouth in trucks which are shunted on to a sidetrack back of the power house by an electric locomotive, to which is also fitted a ten-ton jib crane for tipping purposes. At the end of, and under the siding, is fitted a containing hopper, into which the coal from the trucks is emptied. Under this hopper there is a small railway running down an incline and at right angles to the siding. Coal is conveyed down this in a small truck, into which it is weighed in one-ton lots from the hopper. Gravity takes the truck down the inclined railway into the top of the boiler-house and over the bunkers, where a toggle on the truck engages with a trip set at the bunker it is required to fill, and the sides of the bogie fall open, and it is emptied practically instantaneously; the empty truck is then returned to its original position under the siding hopper by a falling weight, which had previously been lifted by the truck on its downward journey. The coal is fed from the bunkers by chutes on to the grates, which are of the chain type, driven by electric motors.

The generating equipment consists of four 2,000 kilowatt turbine generators, each delivering 500-cycle, three-phase current directly at 10,000 volts, the transmission pressure. Each set consists of a vertical steam turbine and an alternator, mounted on the same shaft. The main cables from the generators and all the other cable work are fixed to the ceiling of the basement, being thus in sight and at the same time in a safe and convenient position. They are brought through the wall into the switchrooms. These are in three stories, one on the engine floor, and the third in the operating galley above. In the basement are the potential transformers. These are for reducing the pressure from the generating voltage to that suitable for operating the voltmeters. These transformers are partitioned off in brick chambers. On the floor above are the first main switches. The current is led directly from the generators to these, which are motor-operated switches, each in its own compartment. Then it goes to the other switches, and from the circuit switches the mains pass out through the walls on to the overhead obstruction; before leaving the building they are connected to a lightning arrester device for preventing undue rises of pressure, which consists of a series of metal discs placed in a row, with carbon resistances in series, and the end connected with the earth. Already many contracts to supply the current have been entered into, and in one large mill with 75,000 spindles electricity is in competition with steam which runs a mill adjoining.

THE ONE ACCIDENT CAME.

"It Never Happens to a Shooter but Once," said Jimmie O'Hare.

When Jimmie O'Hare was blown into fragments at Chelsea one day last week by the explosion of a wagon load of nitroglycerine a prophecy was fulfilled that was first made more than twenty years ago, and was reiterated times without number in every oil district in the country. For Jimmie had worked in every district in the country where the chug of the oil drill has been heard, and in his life he handled enough explosives to destroy Port Arthur several times. Daily he lived in close association with hundreds of gallons of nitroglycerine, and it was a common sight in the oil country to see him rattling over the hills on the seat of a wagon loaded with the deadly explosive.

"He will get it some day," the boys in the Pennsylvania oil fields began saying more than twenty years ago, and have repeated it everywhere Jimmie went.

But all these years Jimmie laughed at the prophecies and, laughing, would load up his wagon and rattle out into the country to shoot a well, taking with him from one to two hundred quarts of nitroglycerine. But the trite adage of the pitcher tells the story of Jimmie's end. As is usually the case in such accidents, nobody knows or ever will know how it happened. There was an explosion that shook the country for miles around, and when investigation was made there was little to be found except a wide, deep hole in the ground.

The man who was killed often told of instances that illustrated the freakishness of the explosive he handled, and it may have been some freak that cost him his life. Jimmie used to tell of the runaway in the streets of Bradford, Pa., when a team dragged a glycerine wagon the whole length of a street, the cans ricochetting around like billiard balls, and no explosion occurred. Then of another case which occurred in the old days, when the glycerine box was located right over the springs of the wagon. There was a leaky can, and three drops falling on the springs caused the loss of two lives. He told of still another case, where a shooter on a spree hurled bottles of glycerine against a rock. All of the bottles broke, but not one exploded. He would close with his story of that singular occurrence which took place in Chanute last spring, when a glycerine magazine caught fire and was entirely burned without exploding. And then he would say: "It's the friction, man, it's the friction, and that's what I'm always looking out for."

Maybe Jimmie forgot the friction for once.

Jimmie had certain rules he observed when handling nitroglycerine. One day while discussing explosives he said:

"A man had better quit this business when he loses his nerve. It is just like handling a nettle. Take hold of it, and take hold strong. A nervous or panicky fellow had better stay away from glycerine, because something will happen, and it never happens to a shooter but once."

Jimmie was known to nearly every oil man in New York, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Ohio, Kansas and California. —Cherrydale Correspondence Kansas City Star.

LINCOLN'S FAIRNESS.

It Was One of His Strongest Traits, Governing Every Action of His Life.

General Taylor was triumphantly elected, and then it became Lincoln's duty, as Whig member of Congress from Illinois, to recommend certain persons to fill government offices in that state. He did this after he returned to Springfield, for his term in Congress ended on March 4, 1849, the day that General Taylor became president. The letters that he sent to Washington when forwarding the papers and applications of people who wished appointment were both characteristic and amusing; for in his desire not to mislead or to do injustice to any man, they were very apt to say more in favor of the men he did not wish to see appointed than in recommendation of his own particular candidates.

This absolute and impartial fairness to friend and foe alike was one of his strongest traits, governing every action of his life. If it had not been for this he might possibly have enjoyed another term in Congress, for there had been talk of re-electing him. In spite of his confession to Speed that "being elected to Congress, though I am very grateful to our friends for having done it, has not pleased me as much as I expected," this must have been flattering. But there were many able young men in Springfield who coveted the honor, and they had entered into an agreement among themselves that each would be content with a single term. Lincoln of course remained faithful to his promise. His strict keeping of promises caused him also to lose an appointment from President Taylor as Commissioner of the General Land Office, which might easily have been his, but for which he had agreed to recommend some other Illinois man. A few weeks later the president offered to make him governor of the new Territory of Oregon. This attracted him much more than the other office had done, but he declined because his wife was unwilling to live in a place so far away.

His career in Congress proved of great advantage to him in after life, having given him a close knowledge of the workings of the Federal government and brought him into contact with political leaders from all parts of the Union.—From Helen Nicolay's "The Boys' Life of Lincoln"

Eggs as Were Eggs.

The importation of whale's eggs has puzzled the treasury officials, as well it may in view of the fact that the whale is a mammal and not a fish. The great size of the whale's alleged egg is not a circumstance to that of the Bar Yokni, a gigantic bird mentioned in the Talmud. The Jewish encyclopaedia says: "An authority at the end of the third century, in relating a number of wonders, says that this bird was so large that once one of its eggs, dropping from a height, flooded sixty cities and shattered 300 cedar trees." This makes a whale's egg by comparison quite insignificant. — Louisville Courier-

FITS permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free. Dr. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

The Japanese population of Formosa numbers only 30,000.

A Guaranteed Cure For Piles.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding, Protruding Piles. Druggists are authorized to refund money if Pazo Ointment fails to cure in 6 to 14 days. 50c.

The Kaiser's automobile is the only one without a number in Prussia.

STOPS BELCHING.

Cures Bad Breath—Positive and Instant Cure Free—No Drugs—Cures by Absorption.

A sweet breath is priceless.

Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers will cure bad breath and bad taste instantly. Belching and bad taste indicate offensive breath, which is due to stomach trouble.

Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers purify the stomach and stop belching, by absorbing foul gases that arise from undigested food, and by supplying the digestive organs with natural solvents for food.

They relieve sea or car sickness and nausea of any kind.

They quickly cure headache, correct the ill effect of excessive eating or drinking. They will destroy a tobacco, whisky or onion breath instantly.

They stop fermentation in the stomach, acute indigestion, cramps, colic, gas in the stomach and intestines, distended abdomen, heartburn, bad complexion, dizzy spells or any other affliction arising from a diseased stomach.

We know Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers will do this, and we want you to know it. This offer may not appear again.

2246 GOOD FOR 25c. 143

Send this coupon with your name and address and your druggist's name and 10c. in stamps or silver, and we will supply you a sample free if you have never used Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers, and will also send you a certificate good for 25c. toward the purchase of more Belch Wafers. You will find them invaluable for stomach trouble; cures by absorption. Address MULL'S GRAPE TONIC CO., 328 3d Ave., Rock Island, Ill.

Give Full Address and Write Plainly.

All druggists, 50c. per box, or by mail upon receipt of price. Stamps accepted.

There is considerable excitement in Italy over the increasing number of thefts of works of art in churches and monasteries.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature on each box. 25c.

Senator La Follette, according to a journal of gossip, is a vegetarian.

Itch cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion; never fails. Sold by Druggists. Mail orders promptly filled by Dr. Detchon, Crawfordsville, Ind. $1.

The Kaiser in his sports employs "all the modern improvements."

A barber shop on hygienic principles is a Munich novelty to set us wishing. The bristles of the brushes are fitted in an aluminum frame which may be removed from the wooden handle to be sterilized in steam. The combs also are of aluminum, to be sterilized by steam or hot water. The razors and scissors are disinfected by brushing with spirit of soap. Powdered soap is kept in boxes, from which the necessary amount is taken for each customer separately. The lather brushes are sterilized after use and the soap is washed from the skin by sterilized pieces of linen. Powder is applied by cotton-wool held in wooden forcepts. All linen is disinfected after each ue and a paper collar keeping the neck strap from the skin is destroyed after use.

On behalf of the Boers of the Orange river colony, a delegate will soon visit the Kongo Free State to inspect the territories there, with a view to obtaining land for settlement from the Kongo government.

Nervous Women

Their Sufferings Are Usually Due to Female Disorders Perhaps Unsuspected

A MEDICINE THAT CURES

Mrs. M. E. Shotwell

Can we dispute the well-known fact that American women are nervous?

How often do we hear the expression, "I am so nervous, it seems as if I should fly;" or, "Don't speak to me." Little things annoy you and make you irritable; you can't sleep, you are unable to quietly and calmly perform your daily tasks or care for your children.

The relation of the nerves and generative organs in woman is so close that nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous debility, the blues, sleeplessness and nervous irritability arise from some derangement of the organism which makes her a woman. Fits of depression or restlessness and irritability; spirits easily affected, so that one minute she laughs, the next minute weeps; pain in the abdominal region and between the shoulders; loss of voice; nervous dyspepsia; a tendency to cry at the least provocation—all these point to nervous prostration.

Nothing will relieve this distressing condition and prevent months of prostration and suffering so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. M. E. Shotwell, of 103 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I cannot express the wonderful relief I have experienced by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I suffered for a long time with nervous prostration, backache, headache, loss of appetite. I could not sleep and would walk the floor almost every night.

"I had three doctors and got no better, and life was a burden. I was advised to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has worked wonders for me.

"I am a well woman, my nervousness is all gone and my friends say I look ten years younger."

Will not the volumes of letters from women made strong by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound convince all women of its virtues? Surely you cannot wish to remain sick, weak and discouraged, exhausted each day, when you can be as easily cured as other women.

10c for 50c worth of leading 1906 novelties in Choicest Garden Seeds. $1's worth of Universal Premium Coupons free with every order. BOLGIANO'S SEED STORE, BALTIMORE.

If afflicted with weak eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

We will convince you that you can "increase your yields per acre" and you won't have to keep it a secret, either. Read what Messrs. Wherry & Son, of the Magnolia Fruit Farm, Durant, Miss., write: "From two acres of strawberries, on which 1,000 pounds of per acre were used, we cleaned a profit of $75.00 per acre more than the other 14½ acres of strawberries which had only 800 pounds of this fertiliser." Thus double the quantity of these fertilisers on each acre of any crop, and more than doubly "increase your yields per acre." Be sure you buy only Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers.

Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers

Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co.

Richmond, Va.	Atlanta, Ga.
Norfolk, Va.	Savannah, Ga.
Durham, N. C.	Montgomery, Ala.
Charleston, S. C.	Memphis, Tenn.
Baltimore, Md.	Shreveport, La.

Atlas Engines

Many prospective purchasers of engines and boilers are under the impression that because the Atlas Throttling Engine is of such high grade, and because it is fitted with a balance valve and a main bearing, such as only Corliss engines of other makes contain, it is necessarily of such price that it is quite out of their reach. This is not true. An Atlas engine is no higher in price than any other engine, except, perhaps, one that is made entirely in a foundry.

For your information, therefore, we give for the present an approximate price upon a 12x16 Throttling Atlas Engine, range 43 to 60 Horse Power of

$350.00

This includes engine complete with band wheel, governor, throttle valve, and all regular trimmings and represents the price delivered f. o. b. cars factory, or, if in stock at our Agencies at any of the following points.

Norfolk, Va.	Minneapolis, Minn.
Anderson, S. C.	Omaha, Neb.
Augusta, Ga.	New Orleans, La.
Montgomery, Ala.	Greensboro, N. C.
Des Moines, Iowa	Memphis, Tenn.
Shreveport, La.	Birmingham, Ala.
Ft. Smith, Ark.	Leavenworth, Kas.
New Bern, N. C.	Joplin, Mo.
Jacksonville, Fla.	Little Rock, Ark.
Athens, Ga.

ATLAS ENGINE WORKS
Selling agencies in all cities INDIANAPOLIS

Am. 8, 1906.

A WEBSTER POCKET DICTIONARY FREE WITH EVERY PAIR.

WEBSTER SCHOOL SHOE

FROM SIZE ELEVEN, UP.

Made Especially for the Busy Young Ones. It has

STRENGTH, STYLE AND COMFORT

DOWN TO A CERTAINTY. IT IS

FOOT EDUCATION

FOR THE BOYS AND GIRLS.

It's a CLOVER BRAND SHOE.

"ALWAYS JUST CORRECT."

Ask Your Dealer.

Wertheimer-Swarts Shoe Co.

LARGEST FINE SHOE EXCLUSIVISTS

ST. LOUIS, U. S. A.

Save the Good Luck Coupons.

Every Coupon Counts for a Premium

A Woman's Coat of Arms

Good Luck Baking Powder, the absolutely pure and reliable leavener, is a blessing to good cooks. You can count on a spoonful to go just so far, every time, and bank on your baking being crisp, light and tempting when you use

GOOD LUCK Baking Powder

Furthermore, it is to every woman's interest to purchase this reliable brand instead of the high priced kinds. It is sold at an honest price—10 cents for a pound can. That's money in your pocket—about 300 per cent.—every time the baking powder can is empty.

If you cut out the coupons found on back of each can we will send you useful and handsome premiums. For list and pictures of these, see the gift book found inside each can.

Your grocer ought to have Good Luck Baking Powder. If not, will you send us his name?

THIS COUPON ON LABEL OF EVERY CAN

IN CUTTING OUT COUPON FOLLOW THIS LINE

Solid Carload GOOD LUCK BAKING POWDER

CUT OUT THIS CAR AND SAVE IT. THEY ARE GOOD FOR VALUABLE ARTICLES. SEE LIST IN EACH CAN. Address: THE DEPARTMENT STORE OF THE SOUTHERN MFG. CO. Division 831 Richmond, Va. U. S. A.

1-LB.

THE SOUTHERN MFG. CO., Richmond, Va.

Fire Insurance

We buy, sell and rent Real Estate on commission, and are prepared to give you the very best fire protection on your property.

Our facilities for handling these lines enable us to give you most satisfactory results.

CITIZENS SAVINGS BANK

The only Strictly Savings Bank in the State

Read This Notable New Year's Editorial From the New York American.

Below we reproduce the strong, terse New Year's editorial on Savings from the New York American. It should be read and re-read by every man, woman, boy and girl in Birmingham and Alabama. It is laden with wisdom and sound advice, which if heeded by the people will redound to the continuous prosperity and happiness of this nation. Especially is its wisdom commended to the people of the Birmingham District, the great majority of whom are wage-earners, receiving good wages every month in the year.

Citizens Savings Ba

Stocks and Bonds

We handle Stocks and Bonds commission. We are always g advise you as to invest and as we do not deal on our o count, our opinions are unbi

CITIZENS SAVINGS BAN

THIS YEAR

DEVOTE an hour of careful thought today to your New Year's resolutions. Do not be among those who think resolutions are valueless because some are broken.

The progress of men as individuals and as a race has come from MENTAL EFFORT, from resolutions, from trying to do what they know they ought to do.

We can't all keep our resolutions. But we can at least try. We can remain hopeful earnest, and this is the day for us to begin again.

Let us question ourselves, accuse ourselves, investigate our weaknesses, recognize them. AND DETERMINE TO CORRECT THEM IN THE COMING YEAR.

Every man and woman must decide what she or he needs individually. With many of us lack of will power is the great curse—procrastination, self-indulgence.

With others it is easy good nature, extravagance. With others various bad habits that sap the vitality which could mean success, not mere amusement or physical gratification.

We recommend to you today a resolution illustrated in this picture.

Desiring to give the best possible advice to our readers, we advise them most earnestly TO SAVE MONEY. Every man with a child or any human being dependent upon him owes it to his sense of decency to save his money. For only money saved and accumulated can mean permanent safety for the weak.

We do not advise saving merely for the money's sake, merely for gratification or enrichment. To have money and have nothing else is to be poor indeed.

But money MEANS INDEPENDENCE. Remember that the man whose dollar you must get from day to day is the man THAT OWNS YOU.

And as long as you must deliver each day of your life for that man's dollar you do not own yourself.

In old slave days an unusually intelligent negro would be permitted, as the saying went, "to buy his time," or even "to buy his freedom." The master realized that the slave working free, with some incentive, would produce much more than under compulsion, and he would arrange to sell the slave his own time for so much per day, or sell him the right to buy his freedom absolutely.

What would you think of a negro who in those days would have refused the chance of freedom?

You would say that the man was made to be a slave, and he ought to be a slave.

But do you realize that when YOU FAIL TO SAVE MONEY YOU ARE REFUSING A CHANCE TO BUY YOUR FREEDOM?

Are you a free man, when you don't know where the money will come from to take care of your family or yourself the week after next?

Are you a free man, when you don't own a foot of the surface of th's earth, which men buy and sell to each other?

Are you a free man, if you haven't accumulated and saved that which makes you independent of other men?

Do you imagine that having your body owned by a man is so very different from having your time and your future owned?

Make up your mind that this year you will start in to buy your freedom.

We would not suggest to any man that he should free himself from wage dependence in order to be idle. If we believed that a man would accumulate enough to let him do nothing, and then do nothing, we would much prefer he never might save a dollar. Every man should work and want to work, as long as there is strength and energy in him.

But it is also true that every man should be in a position to do the best work that offers. He ought to be in a position to seize a good opportunity. He should be in such a position that, if duty told him to he could devote himself to the welfare of others, to working for his fellow men instead of working forever for his breakfast, luncheon, dinner and bed.

Money is crystalized labor. The dollars that you have saved up are all that you have to show materially for the efforts of your past life. What has become of the money—little or much—that you have received in the past? It has gone into your stomach, in pleasure, in clothes, unless you have it to show. Of course, if you have really spent every dollar as you got it for a family that needed every dollar, all honor to you.

But how many men and women can truthfully say that? How many can deny that if they had the will power they could save something and still do their duty?

Remember that this resolution to save means not only the accumulation of money, but the formation and strengthening of character.

Nine times out of ten the man who begins to save stops some kind of foolishness. Economy means giving up something, and the wise man usually manages to give up that which is bad for him. When you begin to save you begin, as a rule, to sleep longer, to drink and smoke less, to waste less time among unprofitable friends.

The saving of money not only means independence in the future, but it means better use of time in the present.

Think this over today. Think of your own case. Look at the men about you who have money. Remember that with a few disgraceful exceptions among the gamblers, thieves and politicians, the average man has money BECAUSE HE HAD THE STRENGTH OF CHARACTER TO SAVE. Even John D. Rockefeller has a thousand millions now BECAUSE HE WAS ABLE TO SAVE THE FIRST DOLLAR. IF HE HAD SPENT THE FIRST FEW DOLLARS HE WOULD HAVE SPENT ALL THE OTHER DOLLARS, AND WHILE HE WAS SPENDING THEM HE WOULD HAVE MISSED THE OPPORTUNITY THAT HAS GIVEN HIM THE MILLIONS PILED UP.

True, Rockefeller should not have those millions. He WOULDN'T have them if the other people of the nation equalled him in concentration of purpose, if they took an interest in their own financial welfare and their own government. Let a few millions of men develop the concentrated determination of Rockefeller, and YOU WILL HAVE MILLIONS OF PROSPEROUS MEN, AND NO ROCKEFELLERS.

As to how THE money should be saved, the simple recipe is BEGIN AT ONCE.

The savings bank, of course, is the simplest beginning. There are other ways. The man who has the intelligence to select the means of making one dollar produce another quickly is, of course, the lucky man.

All of us should watch for the opportunities that are offered in this day of extraordinary commercial and other develpoments.

The real estate field especially, with wise selection, offers a very great opportunity. We shall impress constantly upon all our readers, IN THE HOPE OF MAKING MANY OF THEM RICH, the fact that the problem of transportation is entering upon an absolutely new phase.

The electric road is going to be as great an improvement upon the steam road as the steam road was upon the stage coach.

Electricity will do as much for fifteen or fifty miles out of a city as the steam car did for land or three or five miles from a city.

Beware of land sharks. Beware all kinds of sharks. Beware of everybody who asks you for your money and promises you a great deal more.

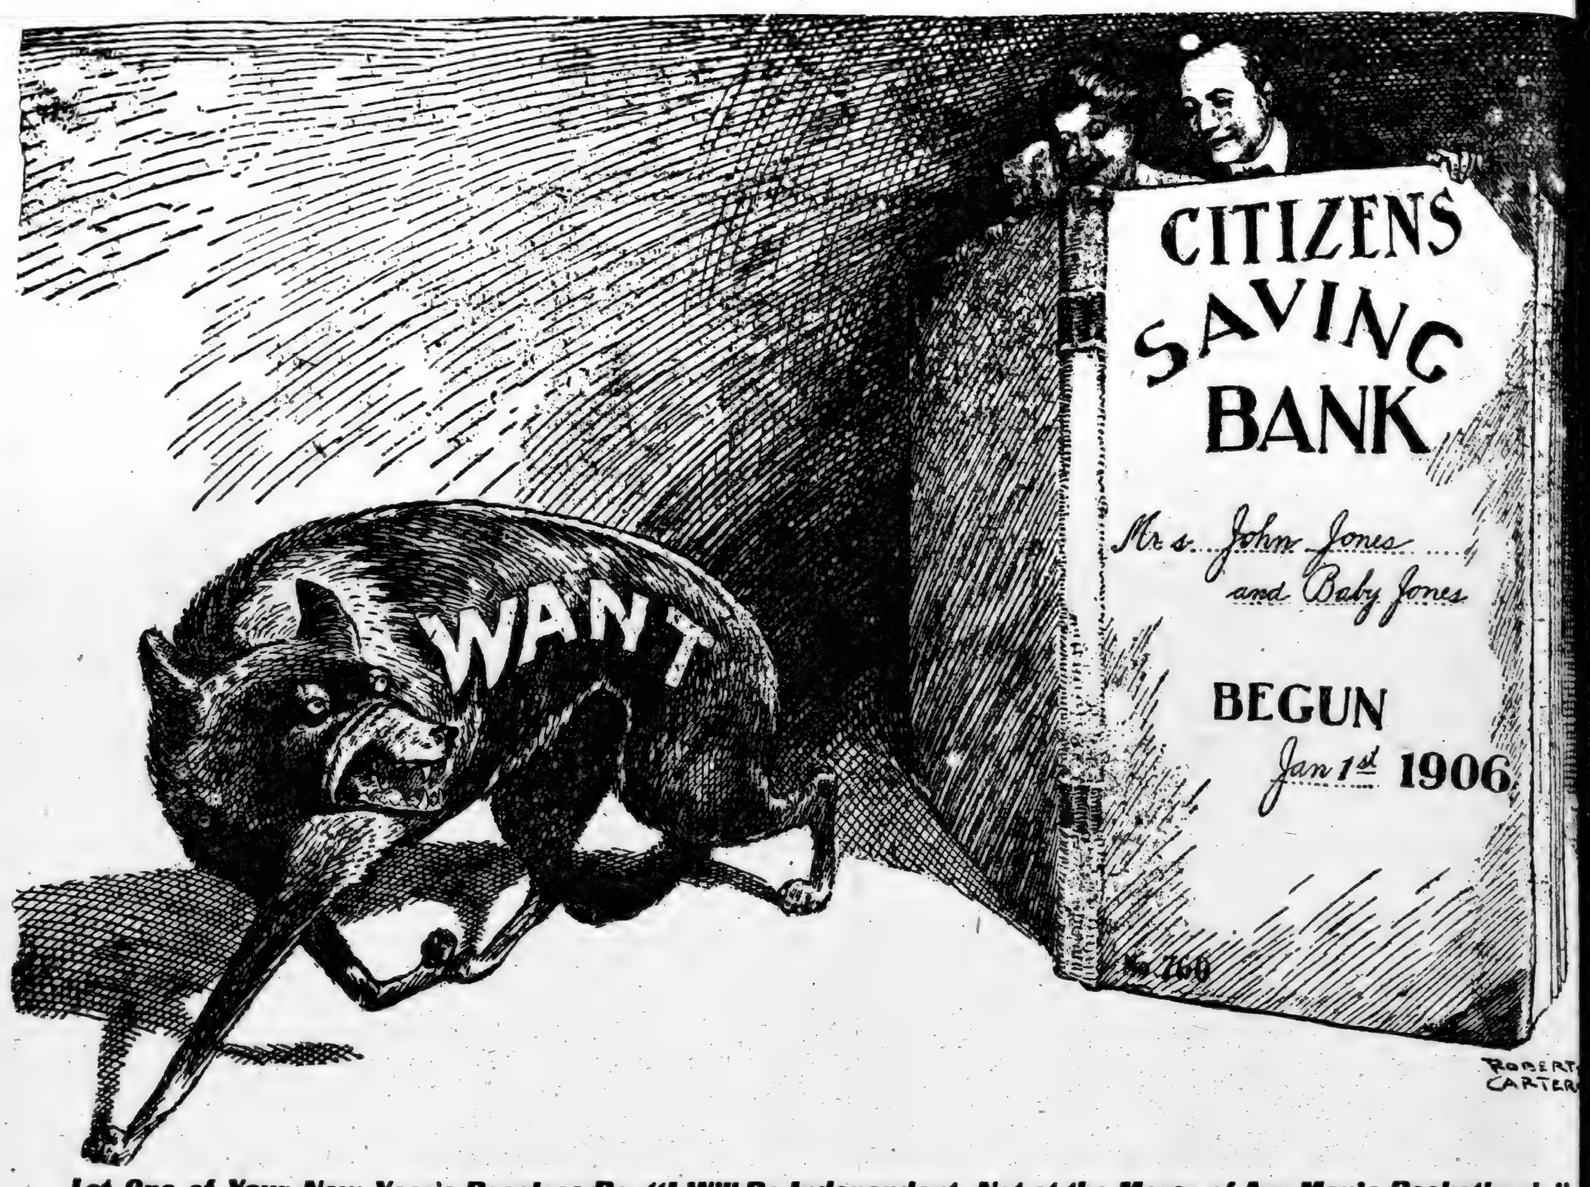
But don't be so cautious and so suspicious that you miss the opportunities.

The Bible gives you pretty good advice, much condensed: "Prove all things; hold fast that which is good."

Don't be credulous, and don't be suspicious that you miss a chance.

First of all SAVE. Get your money little by little, but steadily. Deny yourself. Don't deny your children, your wife or your parents. Do for you can for others, and at the end of the year, as you look upon the amount accumulated, have the feeling in your heart that you actually saved money, and saved it out of yourself.

As you save it, invest it wisely, cautiously. And good luck go with you.

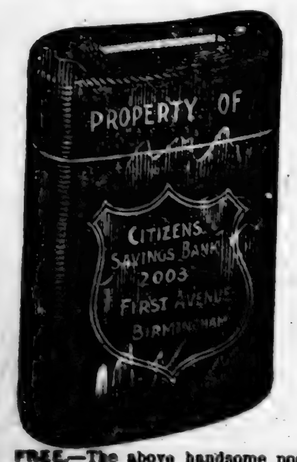


Let One of Your New Year's Resolves Be, "I Will Be Independent, Not at the Mercy of Any Man's Pocketbook."

The people of this district, and of the entire South, have got to learn the habit of saving and economy before they can ever become independent like their neighbors of the New England states and other sections where the savings bank is considered next to the church and school house in importance.

The Citizens Saving Bank was organized and is being conducted for the purpose of inculcating among the people the importance of thrift and saving, and is ready and anxious at all times to help you so far as we can along these lines.

The Citizens Saving Bank is the only important bank in the State which confines its banking business strictly and exclusively to Savings Accounts, and in this connection we ask you to read the Alabama law bearing on Savings Accounts, which we publish at the bottom of this page. We also print below an excerpt from the laws enacted for the protection of the vast number of savings depositors in the great savings bank State of Massachusetts. Read both of them. Each is a positive argument in favor of a strictly savings bank for savings deposits.



FREE.—The above handsome pocket Savings Bank (cut two-thirds actual size) free to any man, woman, boy or girl, applying for same. Convenient for the pocket or the shopping bag.

THE ALABAMA BANKING LAW.

Section 250 of the last Constitution provides that depositors in banks who have not stipulated for interest, shall, for their deposits, be entitled, in case of insolvency, to preference of pay over all other creditors, and this law applies to all banks, whether incorporated or not.

In other words, if a bank does both a savings business and a regular banking business, and should become insolvent, then the depositors who did not get interest on their deposits would have a preference over those who had their money in the bank for savings.

The Citizens Savings Bank accepts only savings accounts, hence every depositor stands on the same footing here.

THE MASSACHUSETTS BANKING LAW.

Extract from Section 3, Chapter 169, Acts of 1902, Massachusetts Statutes, reads:

"No savings bank .....shall occupy the same office or suite of offices with a national bank, trust company or other bank of discount, nor any office directly connected by means of doors or other openings in partitions with the office or suite of offices occupied by any such national bank, trust company or other bank of discount." The penalty for the violation of this section being not more than $500. Section 4 provides that "No president, vice president or treasurer of a savings bank shall hold the office or perform the duties of president, vice president, treasurer or cashier of a national bank, trust company or other bank of discount." The penalty for the violation of this section is also not more than $500.

Why these laws?

CITIZENS SAVINGS BANK

2003 First Avenue

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

FREE.—The above strong Home Savings Bank (cut one-half actual size) free to all depositors is a safe and convenient method saving the nickels and dimes.

Citizens Savings Ba

Stocks and Bonds

We handle Stocks and Bonds commission. We are always advise you as to investm and as we do not deal on our own count, our opinions are unbias

CITIZENS SAVINGS BANK

AVE MONE

ZENS
ING
NK

Jones
Baby Jones

UN
1st 1906

ROBERT CARTER

an's Pocketbook."

d as the steam road was upon ge coach.
lectricity will do as much for en or fifty miles out of a as the steam car did for land three or five miles from a eware of land sharks. Beware kinds of sharks. Beware of ev who asks you for your mo promises you a great deal mo t don't be so cautious and so ous that you miss the opport

he Bible gives you pretty good much condensed: "Prove gs; hold fast that which is go on't be credulous, and don't be licious that you miss a chanc rst of all SAVE. Get your mo by little, but steadily. D rself. Don't deny your children wife or your parents. Do can for others, and at the en year, as you look upon the am mulated, have the feeling in t that you actually saved
ey, and saved it out of yours
you save it, invest it wisely, ly. And good luck go with yo nd states and other sections help you so far as we can read the Alabama law bear

e great savings bank State

EE.—The above strong Savings Bank (cut one-fo l size) free to all depositors safe and convenient method
the nickels and dimes.

THE UNION.

EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL; SPECIAL FAVORS TO NONE.

VOL. III. CLANTON, ALA., MARCH 1 1906. NO. 49

GENERAL STATE NEWS.

Current News Garnered as It Falls From the Plant of Report.

HON. SAMUEL D. WEAKLEY

inted—Will Be in the Race for Chief Justiceship.

ontgomery, Ala.—The political nt of the week was the appointment Hon. Samuel D. Weakley, of Birgham, as chief justice of the sume court to succeed the late Judge . McClellan. It was not a surprise the citizens outside of Montgomery, it is said. The friends of Judge R. Tyson and Judge Weakley busy for some time getting enements, but Tyson, it was thought his friends, had the best of it. The nds of Judge Tyson thought he was re winner.

he appointment of Judge Weakley nly till the election, when a chief tice is to be elected. His appointnt will give him a strong pull for place. The friends of Judge Tyson ert he will be in the race for chief tice before the convention which been called by the state committee meetin this city and nominate two ociate justices. It is expected that and Judge Weakley will be the only candidates. Associate Justices dell and Tyson would have had no osition for these places, but as it is an almost assured fact that Tyson be in the race for chief justice, re will be many out for associate tice, it is thought.

udge Weakley is now at work getfamiliar with the duties before . They are not entirely new to , because he at one time acted as pecial associate justice. Soon after took the oath of office he announced t he would be a candidate for the ce.

ntey Thousand Acres in Alabama to Be Opened Up.

Washington, D. C.—The bill of Repntative Burnett, of Alabama, ich has passed the house of repretatives, will open up for homestead tlement about 90,000 acres of land Alabama, which have heretofore n closed. It is a classification of lic lands, and the bill will pass the ate. The land is in various secns of the state, and will afford many mes to poor people of Alabama.

Postoffice Appointments.

Washington, D. C.—Postmasters apnted: Flat Rock, Clay county, E. bertson; Roberts, Escambia county, vis B. Murphy; Seloca, Jefferson nty, Lorin B. Smith; Tickridge, nestone county, Andrew J. Bullingr; Loney, Madison county, B. G. Kel-

Rural carriers appointed: Gaylesville, route 1, Ross M. Hudson carrier, bert C. Hudson substitute; Tuscaa, route 1, Maxwell A. Morrow carr, Verner Robertson substitute.

n Trial for Murder of Stepmother.

Huntsville, Ala.—Charles Jackson, a ng man from the southern part of dison county, is on trial in the cirt court here on a charge of murderhis stepmother, Mrs. Mollie Jack, near Taylorsville. The indictt charges murder in the first de. Mrs. Jackson died last Novemand was buried before any suspias to the manner of her death ched the ears of the authorities. body was then exhumed and sevbruises found about the head, a oner's jury coming to the conclun that the woman had been murd by her husband, J. F. Jackson, son, Charles Jackson, and a boardnamed Charles Webster.

Kicked to Death by Mule.

Florence, Ala.—James N. Bragg, a mer who lives just across the state in Tennessee, was kicked to death ursday by a vicious mule at Cypress , Tenn. Pigg had been on a visit a neighbor and was hitching up to ura home. The mule kicked him in stomach, and he died instantly. leaves a widow and six children.

Postoffice Safe Robbed.

Abneville, Ala.—The postoffice here s robbed this week, the safe being n open and $600 stolen, including t $300 worth of stamps. The postce is in the store building occupied Killgore-Moore Company, across street from the hotel. It seems nitro-glycerine was used, as the safe door used by Postmaster ore was completely wrecked. ere is no clue. It would seem that robbers knew the situation well.

Montgomery, Ala.—Frank Adams, tenced from Jefferson county rch 3 has been commuted to life prisonment by the governor on the ice of the judge and solicitor who d him.

LETTER FROM WHEELER.

Letter Was Written by the General About a Month Before His Death, but It Was Not Mailed.

Montgomery, Ala.—A letter has just come to the desk of Hon. J. Kirk Jackson, private secretary to the governor, that gave him a shock. It bore the date of "Brooklyn, N. Y., February 18, 1906," and was addressed in the handwriting of Gen. Joseph Wheeler, dead and buried long before that date. It brought to mind in a vivid way the old general and the happy relations that existed between him and the recipient of the belated message. Mr. Jackson looked long at the envelope before breaking the seal, recalling the many good things that were a part of the life of the well-known and well-beloved Alabamian.

After opening the letter it was found to have been written by General Wheeler at the Imperial Hotel in Brooklyn on January 18, just one month before it was mailed. It had been left unsealed, and was discovered by his secretary in winding up the affairs of the general and getting up his last correspondence. He wrote a note along with the letter to tell Mr. Jackson that the letter was written before the death of general Wheeler, and thought it might be regarded by him as valuable. It simply requested Mr. Jackson, addressed "Dear Kirk," in an affectionate way, that he send a copy of the new constitution of Alabama. Mr. Jackson will keep the letter as a memento of the man who was in his lifetime kind to him in many ways.

TYSON A CANDIDATE.

Campaign for Head of Supreme Court Bench Promises to Overshadow the Race for Governor.

Montgomery, Ala.—Judge John Russell Tyson, of Montgomery, associate justice of the supreme court, will oppose Chief Justice Samuel D. Weakley for election to the office he now holds.

Judge Tyson has authorized the announcement of his candidacy. Judge Weakley announced his candidacy immediately after he had taken the oath of office as chief justice.

It was well known in political circles that Judge Tyson would place his name before the people as a candidate for chief justice. He was an applicant for the appointment to the chief justiceship after the place had been made vacant through the death of Judge Thomas N. McClellan. He received endorsements from throughout the state, and it was universally supposed that he would enter the lists against Judge Weakley.

Carnegie Aids in Rebuilding Library.

Huntsville, Ala.—Mr. Andrew Carnegie has written President A. H. Councill, of the Agricultural and Mechanical College at Normal, that he will furnish the money necessary above the insurance for the rebuilding of the Carnegie library that was recently burned. This means that Mr. Carnegie will give about $6,000 for rebuilding, the sum received from insurance being $6,000, and the original building, established with money donated by Mr. Carnegie, costing $12,000. The new building is already in process of construction, and brickmasons among the students are furnishing the labor.

Shortage Compromised.

Scottsboro, Ala.—J. A. Ridley's attorneys have compromised with the court of county commissioners of Jackson county and the probate judge of the county to settle his shortage with the county. The compromise was for $2,000 and Ridley to pay all the court costs.

Ridley was the tax collector that Judge Purifoy checked up short in his accounts. Suit was ordered brought by the county to recover the alleged amount, and the above compromise was agreed upon by the attorneys of both sides. Ridley is in moderate circumstances, and this will take about all he has to pay it.

Judge Boaran to Hold Court.

Huntsville, Ala.—Judge Alex Boarman, of Louisiana, has been appointed to hold the April term of the United States court in this city. The exact time for opening the court has not been set, but it will open either the first or second Monday in April.

Huntsville, Ala.—Sam Rodgers, a prominent young man of Fort Payne, has been arrested and lodged in jail there on a charge of attempting to defraud the government by making a false affidavit in a pension matter. The arrest was made by Deputy Marshal Arnold, of this city.

DEMONSTRATION

Against Loubet. Notre Dame Cathedral Center of Riotous Scenes.

DISPERSED BY THE GENDARMES.

Police Still Have to Force Their Way Into Churches and Safes Have to Be Blown Open.

Paris.—The famous Cathedral of Notre Dame was the center of much excitement Saturday, which later took the form of a disorderly manifestation against former President Loubet. Crowds assembled in the Place Notre Dame expecting the authorities to come and take an inventory of the chapter house. A force of 150 policemen patrolled the surrounding streets expecting trouble within the edifice, but as the authorities did not attempt an inventory this did not take place.

The crowd outside gradually increased in numbers, however, and finally several hundred persons marched to the Rue Dant, where M. Loubet has taken up his residence. The manifestants passed before the house of the former president, uttering insulting cries against him. The police then drove off the crowd, which, however, reassembled and returned, only to be dispersed again. A slight affray took place between the police and the manifestants as the latter sought to return once more, and a dozen arrests were made.

The explanation of the movement against M. Loubet is that the bill for the separation of church and state became a law during his administration.

Inventories have been made at several Paris churches. At the aristocratic Church of St. Thomas Aquinas the prefect of police, with a strong body of men, had to force his way through a long passage into the sacristy, owing to the resistance offered by a number of parishioners. The priests then refused to hand over the keys, and the prefect caused the safes to be blown open. An inventory of the property was then made. Ten arrests were made, General Recamiert being among those taken into custody.

David B. Henderson Dead.

Dubuque, Ia.—Former Speaker David B. Henderson, of the national house of representatives, died at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at Marcy hospital of paresis, which attacked him nine months ago. He began to sink Friday afternoon, rallied Saturday morning, in the afternoon lapsed into unconsciousness and failed rapidly until the end came. All of his family, except a son in California, were at the bedside, but Colonel Henderson had been unable to recognize any one but his wife since a week ago, except on Friday when he partly regained his mental faculties.

Tennessee Feud Breaks Out.

Woodbury, Tenn.—The Johnson-Motley feud in this (Canon) county has broken out afresh and as a result the following are fatally wounded:

Sam Blair, shot four times in stomach.

Bob Motley, shot twice in groin.

Richard Johnson, throat cut.

The trouble between the Motleys and the Johnsons, two large families of the Pea Ridge neighborhood, near the DeKalb county line, originated ten years ago over the operation of an illicit distillery, when blood was shed and has broken out intermittently since. Last night's renewal came at a young people's candy pulling, where, it is said, some liquor had been drunk. Both Motley and Blair were shot by Johnson, but who cut the latter's throat is unknown.

The sheriff has gone to the scene, which is in a wild mountainous district and hopes to prevent any further trouble, although it is said considerable excitement prevails.

Loses Her Life.

Chicago, Ill.—Returning to her flat to get her money, Mrs. John Hanley met her death in a burning apartment house. Mrs. Hanley had gone from the building with her son at the first alarm. When the firemen had put the blaze out they found the woman unconscious in a closet of her apartment on the third floor. She expired a few minutes later. The fire was in the structure at 6050 Washington avenue. Three other persons were injured. The loss was $5,000.

Gambier, O.—The buildings of Kenyon Military Academy burned at an early hour Saturday, and are a total loss. Three cadets are missing and at least eight are injured, three of whom will probably die.

GUARDS DOUBLED AT CAPITAL

Quarrel Is Reported in Palace Among Various Factions Regarding Selection of an Heir to the Throne.

Peking.—The guards around the forbidden city have been doubled, and all the palaces and residences of high officials are especially guarded. The police, who have hitherto carried batons, are now armed with rifles. All the officials that are accessible either refuse any information or profess ignorance of the reasons for the precautions that have been taken, and as a result many rumors are afloat. The chief of police and other officials were telephoned yesterday to report to the police, and the display of force immediately followed their conference. Possibly the only cause is the alarm of the empress dowager over the prevalence of revolutionary rumors recently.

The Chinese minister at Tokio a few days ago telegraphed the government warning it against several revolutionary students who are departing from Japan to China. Two packages of dynamite have been found in the street outside the gate leading to the palace.

Apparently they were dropped by some one afraid to carry them. One report finding credence is that there is a quarrel afoot within the palace between the partisans of the empress dowager and the emperor over the selection of an heir to the throne, but it is not confirmed.

Killed His Wife.

Richmond, Va.—Mrs. Mattie P. Hodges, of Durham, N. C., was murdered in her bed at an early hour this morning by her husband, John H. Hodges, according to his own confession. She was dragged from a sick bed by the infuriated man, her left arm being broken in the scuffle.

She was shot through the heart as she lay on the floor at her husband's feet. The tragedy was witnessed by the 19-year-old son of the couple, who was himself knocked down by his father when he attempted to interfere. Mrs. Hodges had recently instituted divorce proceedings against her husband. The murderer was promptly captured and confessed the crime.

Three Killed by Explosion.

Roanoke, Va.—A Times special from Bluefield, W. Va., says: Joe Deado, foreman of the gang, and three other Italians were killed near Rock by the explosion of a can of giant powder. The men were literally torn to pieces by the force of the terrific explosion. The victims were preparing a blast, and from some unknown cause the can from which they were using powder became ignited. That more men were not killed is miraculous. The men were employed in construction work on the Tidewater railroad.

Vanderbilt Mobbed.

Florence, Italy.—W. K. aVnderbile is detained at Pontedera, on the road to Pisa, having had an automobile accident in the street, by which a boy was injured. The boy is not seriously hurt. The incident involved the detention of both Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and their chauffeur, and turns out to have been much more serious than at first reported. Mr. Vanderbilt and his chaffeur were mobbed, and the former drew a revolver, and both Mr. Vanderbilt and his chaffeur were arrested and taken to the police station. Mrs. Vanderbilt was escorted to the best hotel in the place, where, according to the latest advices, she was awaiting developments.

Killed Over Whisky.

Canton, Ga.—Cleveland Picklesimon shot and instantly killed Thomas Grey in the road about eight miles from here. It is stated that the men quarreled over some whisky they had made together. Grey leaves a widow and several children.

Killed By Train.

Birmingham, Ala.—J. D. Cole, 47 years of age, a well known farmer of Mt. Pinson, was struck by a work train on the Louisville and Nashville railroad known as the "Dude," at Fifth avenue and Thirty-third street Saturday night and instantly killed.

Hensky Under Arrest.

Saratoff, Russia.—Matus Hensky, the absconding assistant of Father Gapon, was arrested here. He was located by a committee of St. Petersburg workmen, but refused to deliver up the $21,000 belonging to the funds of the workmen's organization. Hensky will be taken to St. Petersburg for trial.

Indianapolis, Ind.—The Indianapolis Sentinel has suspended publication and announced that owing to its operation being unprofitable its affairs would be gradually wound up. The daily subscriptions and the physical plant have been taken over by the Indianapolis News. The Sunday Sentinel will be taken over by the Indianapolis Star.

CHINESE REVOLT

Begins—Two Missions Destroyed—English Family of Four Murdered.

GUNBOAT GOES TO THE RESCUE.

Outbreak Occurs Four Hundred Miles Up the Yangtse River—Same Tactics as Before Boxer Riots.

Washington, D. C.—Consul-General Rodgers at Shanghai cables the state department Monday that the American missionary stations at Manchange and Kienze have been destroyed. The probable cause is local.

Telegrams received from those points state that the fourteen American missionaries at those places escaped, but the Kingham family, English, two adults and two children, are reported to have been killed.

The American gunboat El Cano, at Nankin, was ordered to proceed immediately to Kiukiang, probably arriving Wednesday. The scene of the trouble is about 400 miles up the Yangtse river.

A still later dispatch from Mr. Rodgers received at the state department says that the inland British missions are reported to be safe.

A cablegram from Commander Fletcher, the senior officer of the Raleigh, at Shanghai, received at the navy department Monday, confirms substantially Consul-General Rodgers' report.

A dispatch says: President Roosevelt has grown suspcious of the good faith of the Chinese government as the result of a policy which it seems to be pursuing. He has been given assurances through Minister Rockhill which are not in keeping with the acts of the Pekin authorities.

Apparently there has been adopted at the Chinese capital tactics such as were observed in 1900, prior to the Boxer outbreak. The diplomatic corps was told then most positively that the reports of a general uprising were without foundation and that the government had taken ample measures to suppress local disturbances and to prevent injury to life and property. The result of this representation was the failure of foreign powers to take action for the protection of their subjects and interests until it was too late.

The administration sees in the present situation a parallel with that which existed prior to the Boxer outrage, with this single and important difference—that the present unrest is not confined to two provinces in the north, but prevails all over the empire.

F. E. & C. U. of A.

The Chilton County Union will meet on March 14-15 at Cedar grove, 2 miles south of Thorsby. Local secretaries will please send in their quarterly reports to me at once so I can get my rolls ready for the county meeting. Yours fraternally,

J. N. DENNIS,
tf. County Sec.-Treas.

FOR SALE!

Jersey Bull, 4 years old, weighs 800 lbs, comes from registered stock, and is a fine animal with good disposition. Will sell cheap as I must get rid of him on account of in-breeding. A good chance for some local union. W. H. CONWAY, tf. Jemison, R. F. D. No. 2.

AUCTION SALE!

The undersigned will sell at public auction on his farm 3 miles southeast of Thorsby 1-2 mile from New Salem church, known as "Caine Place"

SATURDAY, MARCH 10, 1906
Commencing at 10 a. m.

1 horse, 2 mules, 1 milch cow and calf, 3 dozen chickens, 1 top buggy, 2 sets harness, 1 cart, 2 wagons, 1 harrow, 1 12-inch plow, 1 cotton planter, 3 tons hay, household goods, etc., etc.
tf. ANDREW NELSON.

Professional Cards.

Attorneys.

William M. Adams,
Attorney-at-Law,
CLANTON.
Office, Adams Place. Practices in all Courts. Long time loans negotiated on Improved Farm Lands.

N. S. JOHNSON, M. D.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
Office at
Clanton Drug Store CLANTON

L. V. STABLER, M. D
Physician & Surgeon
Office Over Horn's Drug Store
Thorsby, Alabama

A. C. SMITH J. OSMOND MIDDLETON
Smith & Middleton
Attorneys-at-Law
Practice in all Courts.
Office 6th St., Opp. Court House
CLANTON.

DR. E. G. HYMAN
DENTIST
Office in Tipton Mullins' Building
CLANTON

H. C. Junkerman
DENTIST
OFFICE: Franzen Building
Thorsby, Alabama.

G. H. GERALD,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Office at Thorsby Inn.
Deeds, Mortgages, Affidavits and other papers carefully made out.

I. S. Gerald, Notary Public
AT THORSBY SAVINGS BANK.

FREE
to Readers of
THE UNION

To everyone who sends us $1.00 for a year's subscription to THE UNION, new subscriber or renewal, we will give as a premium absolutely FREE,

A Year's Subscription
to
The Southern Ruralist

We have examined the Southern Ruralist and consider it to be the best and most practical farm paper published in the South, and it just suits this locality. Drop by The Union Office when you are in town and see a copy of the Ruralist. It will mean dollars in your pocket to read this paper with The Union for a year. tf.

TIMBER FOR SALE!

Over a hundred acres of Virgin Swamp timber for sale. Apply to T. J. Billingsley, Clanton, Ala, Route 3. tf.

NOTICE!

All who are owing me, by note or account, will please call and settle at once. I am needing the money and hope all will make prompt settlement.

Respectfully
A. A. JACKSON,
tf. Lomax, Ala.

FOR SALE

At all times, high grade hogs and pigs, Berkshire and Poland China, crossed.
M. J. BARRETT,
tf Thorsby, Ala.

A NEW DISCOVERY.

A great improvement, the Dixie Liver Regulator, does not gripe nor sicken, and cures Constipation, Heartburn, Vertigo, Dyspepsia, Kidney troubles and Lazy Liver. For sale by all Dealers and By Shelby Drug Co., Calera, Ala. tf

Thorsby, Alabama
Business Directory.

Commercial Club
OF THORSBY
DEFINITE and RELIABLE information furnished to parties who desire to locate in the South.

A. M. Johnson
Groceries and Delicatessen

J. J. STANLEY
GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

MRS. MARY R. RASBERRY
General Merchandise.

E. H. Adams
General Merchandise.

J. R. PARNELL
General Merchandise.

The Thorsby Inn
G. C. Michelson, Prop.
Good Beds and Meals.

J. L. FOSS
Meat Market.

City Bakery
BREAD, CAKES and PIES
of all kinds, fresh every day.
K. A. EKBLAD

OLAF SCHIVE,
Watchmaker
And Jeweler
Horn's Drug Store
Full assortment of Watches, Jewelry, etc. All repair work guaranteed.

Thorsby Winery
—Co.—
Lofthus & Bromberg, Props

A. HORN
Drugs, Stationery and Toilet Articles.
LICENSED PHARMACIST.

"MOLINE" Farming Implements and "FLORENCE" Wagons in stock at all times.
J. K. ORR SHOES.

A Langville & Son
BLACKSMITHS
and
HORSESHOERS
Dealers in
WAGONS and BUGGIES

C. L. Forsman
Brick Yard.

J. BICE
Charcoal Ovens.

. . A Model Municipal Code

By H. O. Stechhan.

UNIFORM government in all the cities and towns of Indiana is the end which the new municipal code enacted by the General Assembly this year seeks to achieve. It marks a distinct step forward in city government, and is intended to work a number of important reforms in the general conduct of municipal affairs, placing them on more of a business basis.

The code repeals all so-called individual city charters and separate incorporation acts, with special grants, under which the different municipalities of Indiana have been organized heretofore, and extends the same broad principles of local self-government to all. Owing to the varied systems of management that these cities and towns have had in the past, the experience of one contributed but little to the well-being of its neighbor, each being compelled to learn the same lesson for itself. This fact inspired the code, and it was drafted for the express purpose of meeting the wants of all similar communities within the confines of a state. Indiana's municipal code is constructed after the pattern of the city charter that prescribed the government of Indianapolis, the state's capital city, from early in 1891 until the middle of April, 1905, when the new law went into effect. Thoroughly tried and tested during the fourteen years that it was in force, the Indianapolis charter came to be regarded as one of the best to be found in our country.

In some quarters, what is known as the "city-made charter" is the most approved form of municipal law at the present time. This means a body of law that has been made and adopted by the people themselves for whom it is intended, after which it has been ratified by the legislature of the state, as distinguished from a code of laws originating in the General Assembly, as most city charters do. Constitutional provisions in Missouri and California authorize "city-made charters" for cities having more than 100,000 population. Kansas City, Missouri, is the latest municipality to make its own government. Fourteen years ago Indianapolis, through a committee of public-spirited citizens, built for local needs the body of law which the Indiana legislature approved at the time; and so satisfactory has been its operation in the interim that this year's assembly saw fit to apply the provisions of this organic law, "city-made" according to the latest meaning of the term, to all the cities of the state. For the larger cities the same machinery of government employed in Indianapolis for fourteen years has been adopted, though minor modifications have been made to adjust it to the varying needs of the smaller ones. Where a sort of governmental chaos has existed in the local affairs of municipalities within the state, this act is expected to bring about systematic regularity.—Forum.

Birds' Academy.

A man living at Bow, London, about six months ago started an Academy of Music for Birds. He charges 2s. 6d. to teach a bird three songs. There are three rooms with a phonograph in each, and the proprietor hangs his pupils in each room in turn. It usually takes about three weeks to teach the birds, and during the six months he had only one failure.

The first statue of Queen Alexandra on English soil will be erected in the grounds of the London Hospital.

No Time for Sleep.

A Doniphan County farmer who is known for working his men long hours recently hired an Irishman, says the Kansas City Journal. A day or so later the farmer said he was going to town to buy a new bed for Pat.

"Yes needn't git extraveghant on me account," said Pat. "If it's jist the same to yez, yes can cut out buyin' a new bed and can thrade the ould wan for a lanthern."

England's only humming bird died at the London Zoo recently.

IN JAPAN.

(The Japanese is taught to regard his mother-in-law as much as his own mother.)

Who was it helped me win my bride,
When I was downcast took my side,
And never has been known to chide?
My mother-in-law.

Who was the first to praise, the last
To blame, or call me wild and fast,
Or ask too much about my past?
My mother-in-law.

Who soothed my fiance's papa,
When he was coarse, and shouted "Bah!"
And was polite to my mamma?
My mother-in-law.

Who never called me silly, vain,
Idle, effeminate, inane,
Or talked of horses—bridge—champagne?
My mother-in-law.

And now that we are wed, and May
Snubs and annoys me night and day,
Who helps in keeping her at bay?
My mother-in-law.
—London Globe.

Flashes of Fun

"She married an octogenarian, didn't she?" "I guess not. He looked to be as white as any of us."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Where are you going?" "South." "What for?" "Rheumatism." "Gee! Can't you get enough of it here?"—Cleveland Leader.

First Millionaire—"How is your machine working?" Second Millionaire—"Very poorly. Haven't paid a fine for over three days."—Life.

Said she, "My dear, I need a hat;
Now do I get it, Ned?"
"A useless question," he replied,
And that was all he said.
—Kansas City Times.

"Do you think a little learning is a dangerous thing?" "Possibly. But it isn't half so dangerous as the same amount of ignorance."—Detroit Free Press.

Edyth—"I wonder if young De Short really married Miss Angular for her money?" Mayme—"Let us hope so. I'd be sorry to think him crazy."—Chicago Daily News.

"You don't resent that author's flagrant plagiarism?" "No," answered Miss Cayenne. "After reading the original portion of his work, I wish he had plagiarized more."—Washington Star.

"You told me this automobile was a snap," said the new purchaser. "And didn't you find it to be one?" asked the dealer. ""I should say so. Something snapped every five miles."—Chicago Daily News.

"Don't those poor girls work hard behind those counters!" exclaimed the sympathetic lady. "Yes, but mercy! I've worked a good deal harder in front of them, matching samples."—Detroit Free Press.

"In a few years we will hear no more of grafting," said the earnest reformer. "I sincerely hope so," answered Senator Sorghum. "It is an ugly word of low origin. I will be glad when a substitute is provided."—Washington Star.

"We should always," said the jail evangelist, "consider any circumstances which add weight to the steps we take." "I do," murmured the convict, sadly, as he cast a casual glance at the ball and chain.—Baltimore American.

Here's to the stork,
A most valuable bird,
That inhabits the residence districts.
He don't sing any tunes,
Nor yield any plumes,
But he helps out the vital statistics.
—Portland Oregonian.

Rimer—"I showed this sonnet to Crittick and he seemed quite struck with it. He liked the idea, anyway." Brightly (incredulously)—"Is it possible?" Rimer—"Yes. I told him this was my idea of a perfect sonnet, and he said the idea was certainly original."—Philadelphia Press.

"I have called," began Mr. Nervey Poorman, "to speak to you about your daughter. Of course, you must have noticed that there is something between us——" "No," interrupted Mr. Roxley, "but I'm sure there will be pretty soon." "Ah!" "Yes, the Atlantic Ocean. I'm going to send her abroad until she learns a little common sense."—Philadelphia Press.

Stories Told of Professor Park.

Professor Park, so long the especial light at Andover Theological Seminary, when a young man studied in Germany. His acute mind made him the terror of the professors. The eminent Dr. Tholuck, after being driven into a corner in an argument with the young American, exclaimed, "Now I am sorry that Columbus discovered America."

When Professor Park, at Andover, was asked by a student the reason for the tower of Pisa, he quickly answered: "No doubt the contractor did not pay his men promptly, so that they were compelled to put a lean on the tower."

Professor Park was very particular to call his students by name. One day he met a student by the name of Jones. Not wishing to betray the fact that he could not recall his name, he said: "By the way, how do you spell your name?" The student with some surprise, exclaimed: "J-o-n-e-s. Is there any other way of spelling it?"

Educating Chinese Girl.

Chinese girls as a rule are not sent to school; the mother superintends their training in housework. As soon as the girls are old enough they are taught to cook, sew, make and mend clothes, and indeed, do all domestic work. But the enlightened Chinese sends his daughter to school when near a mission or some other school.

Harps Long Silent.

Harps have occasionally been found in Egyptian tombs. In some even the strings were intact, and gave forth distinct sounds after 3000 years' silence.

OUR SEVENTH GREAT INDUSTRY.

Gross Product of Printing and Publishing is Over $347,000,000 a Year.

An interesting paper on printing and publishing, by W. S. Rossiter, a census expert, appears in Ad Sense. At the last United States census the value of products of American manufacturers footed up thirteen billions of dollars. One quarter of this aggregate is represented by seven leading industries, of which printing and publishing is last. The seven are:

1. Iron and steel.
2. Slaughtering.
3. Foundries.
4. Lumber.
5. Flour.
6. Men's clothing.
7. Printing and publishing.

Printing and publishing comes into this group for the first time, having passed in succession, cotton goods and carpentry. This newcomer among our industrial giants carries with it, of course, advertising. The total gross product of the printing and publishing industry in 1900 was $347,955,000, of which $121,799,000 represents book and job printing, $2,270,000 the value of the products of the printing of music, and $222,983,000 the gross receipts of newspapers and periodicals. The receipts of newspapers and periodicals are divided as follows:

Advertising	$95,861,127
Subscriptions and sales	79,928,483
Books and pamphlets	18,407,528
Music	544,802
Job printing	22,793,322
Bookbinding	2,067,450
Blank books	554,557
Electrotyping, engraving	491,567
All other	2,334,733

The advertising receipts of New York State during 1900 were over $25,000,000, those of Pennsylvania nearly $11,000,000, Illinois nearly $10,000,000 and Massachusetts nearly $7,000,000. In the twenty years from 1880 to 1900 there was an increase in advertising in every State in the Union of forty per cent. or more, excepting only the four States of Mississippi, Louisiana, Delaware and South Carolina. In these, rather strangely, advertising has remained nearly stationary. Mr. Rossiter gives the total expenditure for advertising in 1900 at $100,000,000, and believes that the census of manufactures which is to be compiled this year will show that for 1905 it is fully $125,000,000.

An Anecdote of Wagner.

The following anecdote of Wagner is told by Alfred Reisenauer, the pianist, who, as a pupil of Liszt, knew the composer of "Parsifal" personally.

"Wagner was always more or less self-conscious," says Reisenauer, "and only at rare intervals did his friends see him in moods that could be called anything but premeditated. In Bayreuth I saw him in a highly characteristic situation, and I never shall forget it. It was at a rehearsal of 'Parsifal.' The garden scene had just been admirably sung and danced, whereupon Wagner, in his exuberant joy, hugged and kissed the artists, and then, quite beside himself, got down on all fours and barked like a dog, concluding his exhibition by throwing his legs in the air and balancing himself on his head. At this interesting moment Liszt and several of his pupils, including myself, walked on the stage. Quick as a flash, Liszt, who always played the role of Wagner's self-constituted defender, said grimly, 'Well, if that's a pose, it's the hardest one in the world to hold, by thunder!' For the sake of the Meister we tried to restrain our mirth, but the effort was not wholly successful. I firmly believe, however, that Wagner himself was secretly pleased at the sensation for which he was responsible."—Harper's Weekly.

About Habit.

Because we have not hitherto had the best possible habits is no reason why we should not begin to form them in 1906. Professor James, who has made a profound study of habit, has furnished us with one or two excellent maxims on the subject. First, he tells us that it is indispensable to begin with "as strong and as decided an initiative as possible." Accumulate all the possible circumstances which shall reinforce the right motive. Put yourself assiduously in conditions that encourage the new way and make engagements incompatible with the old; in short, envelope your resolution with every aid you know. Never suffer an exception to occur until the new habit is securely rooted in your life. Each lapse is like the letting fall of a ball string which one is carefully winding up; a single slip undoes more than a great many turns will wind again. Let the expression of your habit be the least thing in the world, speaking genially to one's grandmother, or giving up one's seat in a car if nothing more heroic offers. But let it not fail to take place."—Margaret E. Sangster, in Woman's Home Companion.

Use For Old Shoes.

Janitors collect the shoes cast away by tenants and send them to auction rooms, where they are sorted into piles marked "Men," "Women," "Children."

Several poor people made fair bids, but the auctioneer did not seem eager to sell. Finally a red-faced man pushed his way through the crowd and offered ten cents apiece for the whole lot. His bid was successful.

"I was killing time with talk waiting for that fellow," said the auctioneer afterward. "He always pays high for these shoes, and he does not want them for wearing either.

"He wants to beat them out for the leather in them. He gets what material there is, puts it through a process and makes stamped imitation leather novelties, such as picture frames, bags, pocketbooks, penknife holders and even chair backs and seats. He finds a ready sale for there novelties and gets a good price for them."—The Shoe Retailer.

A GREAT COMBINATION OFFER

We Will Furnish the "TWICE-A-WEEK" Issue of the

St. Louis Globe-Democ

—With—

THE UNION

—For—

$1.50 Both Papers, one year, only

The St. Louis Globe Democrat should not be classed with the many weekly papers. It is a high-grade Semi-Weekly, eight or more pages Tuesday and Friday. It is beyond all comparison the biggest, best and National News and Home Journal published in the United States. It is Republican in Politics but is above all

A Great Modern Newspaper.

It is not made up indiscriminately from the Daily issue. It is edited with special reference to the needs of the Farmer, the Merchant, professional man who desires to keep thoroughly posted without spending time to read a large Daily Paper. It also contains a great variety of well reading matter, making it invaluable to every member of the family.

This Liberal Clubbing Offer

is open to all old or new subscribers, but may be withdrawn at any time. Must receive the cash with order. Address

THE UNION,
Clanton, Ala.

Ben M. Jacobs & Bros
Furniture and Rugs.
—SOLE AGENTS—
Globe-Wernicke Elastic Book Cases
Filing Cabinets.
Catalogue for the asking.
BIRMINGHAM, AL

DISPATCH PRINTING C
Blank Book Makers and Lithographers
County and Office Supplies a Specialty
Ask for Estimates.
2113-2119 Morris Ave. BIRMINGHAM,

Farmers' Mutual Insurance Associa
OF ALABAMA.
CHARTERED BY SPECIAL ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE
By the People and for the People.
Chilton County Branch
Organized February 3, 1900.
W. M. WILSON, President. WALLACE C. EDLER, Sec'y.-Treas.

INSURES Farmers' dwellings, outbuildings and co and live stock against loss by fire, wind and ligh The cheapest, safest and most sensible method of ance known to man

Average Yearly Cost for Five and a half Years 43-100 of 1 per c

Full particulars furnished upon application to WALLACE C. EDLER, Clanton.

PAUL CALAME,
205 21st Street
Birmingham, Ala.
Practical Watchm and Optician
Eyes Correct Fitted
Mail orders promptly

DO YOU WAN
Letterheads, Noteheads, Billheads, Envelopes,
OR ANYTHING ELSE PRINTED?
Then Call at
THE UNION OFFIC
and See Fine Work at Low Prices.
500 Noteheads 500 Envelopes All For $2.00
Good Work on Good Material, done on Good Mac
Don't forget! THE UNION, Clanton, Alabama.

ADVERTISE IN Your Home Pape
FOR GOOD RESULTS.

Environm

Or ball, you pawed de du
Hit settled on yo' back
You hollered 'cross de g
Ma yurin's c'ared yo'
You look' de cha'root 'a'
'N' you could n' stan' fe
You had big notions in yo
'T was spring, en you

But now yo' back's bowed
'S a-standin' up on een
Hit 's dald grass, dald gra
But not a tussick groen
You disremembers how to
When I went atter you,
En how I sweated in de s
En how you matchly flew

Oh, you kin stan' behin' d
En nibble at de straw,
But 't ain't no dus' upon
You do' know how to pa
You could n' beller now, i
You 's glad enough to s
'T wus grass en water
Wat made you sich a

—Chan

FIGHT SURR

BY REX

(Copyright, 1905, by Daily M

never faced anything square- had long been such an expert ing an issue that she was com- referred to in her immediate near and dear ones as "The Dodger." All through the long, ter she had seen her fate in e of Kenneth Page closing in er. Every time she danced, talked with him she left with sixth sense that he meditated al, but her elusiveness warded A look of determination in his he bade her good night in the ne presence of her brother, od her that he would be bad- o longer. His look had been ive—almost menacing—she de- nd his tone insinuating, as he with emphasis that he would again very soon.

was meditative after he had She didn't want to meet the et, of course. She liked Ken- ry much—better than she did , but she shied at an engage- She wanted another summer— well, she wasn't sure anyway. ked weapons and courage for unter, so she sought her usual -fight.

breakfasted with the family the orning, which was a rare oc- e. When the family were as- l, she casually announced her n of running down to see Aunt t the farm for a few days. It e so restful after all her dissi- She really was on the verge ous prostration, she declared. r surprise and relief there was sition to this plan.

effort to speak and appear in- t, Betty looked at none of her or she would have seen a word- egraphy of intelligent glances ed.

isn't a bad idea," said her "Telephone Uncle Homer to u."

did some active work in tele- and packing in order to be off Kenneth should be apprised of rney.

is running away from Ken- sighed her mother ruefully; only fifty miles to the farm." ll stay about two days and one prophesied her brother. ountry in the latter part of y certainly did not appeal to eye for the beautiful. The as nearly gone, and the car- wheels crumbled dismally the thin, ice-coated ruts in the om the station to the farm. ged her resolution, and when ped into the big, comfortable ee with its old-fashioned, ged fireplace, and was greeted hospitable welcome of cousins, nd aunts, she was more cheer-

Brooks, the stern-featured, ed school teacher, dropped in Lydia's on her way home. She the depths of despair. She to go away for a week to at-

Betty was meditative.

wedding of her brother, but find no substitute.

each school for you for a volunteered Betty, anxious to ships lest in her loneliness a to home and Kenneth. "I ch them anything, but I can going for you."

chool teacher looked at Betty y.

aught in the charity kinder- nd all schools," remarked plessantly.

Brooks brightened.

you can get along with the econd reader classes."

NATION OFFER ICE-A-WEEK" Issue
lobe-Democ
UNION
e year, only not be classed with the many Weekly, eight or more pages, parison the biggest, best and ed in the United States. It is n Newspaper.
m the Daily issue. It is e f the Farmer, the Merchant roughly posted without spar ontains a great variety of well
ry member of the family.
ubbing Offer
ay be withdrawn at any time,
THE UNION,
Clanton, Ala.
bs & Bros.
nd Rugs.
ENTS—
Book Cases
binets.
NGHAM, AL
RINTING C
nd Lithographers
pplies a Specialty.
BIRMINGHAM,
rance Associat
AMA.
OF THE LEGISLATURE
or the People.
ty Branch
uary 3, 1900.
ALLACE C. EDLER,
Sec'y.-Treas.
outbuildings and con
fire, wind and light sensible method of i
-100 of 1 per ce
pplication to EDLER, Clanton,
Practical Watchm
nd Optician
Eyes Correct
Fitted
ail orders promptly
WAN Noteheads,
nvelopes,
SE PRINTED?
at OFFIC
at Low Prices.
For $2.00
one on Good Mach
Clanton, Alabama.
E IN e Pape
RESULTS.

Environment

Of bull, you pawed de dus' ontil
Hit settled on yo' back;
You bellered 'cross de grassy hill,
En yurbin's cl'ared yo' track.
You hook' de cha'r root 'ca'se 't wus raid,
'N' you could n' stan' fer dat;
You had big notions in yo' haid;
'T was spring, en you wus fat.

But now yo' back's bowed, en yo' ha'r
Is a-standin' up on een',
Hit 's daid grass, daid grass uvvywhar,
But not a tussick green.
You disremembers how you run
When I went atter you,
En how I sweated in de sun,
En how you natchly flew.

Oh, you kin stan' behin' dat stack
En nibble at de straw,
But 't ain't no dus' upon yo' back;
You do' know how to paw.
You could n' beller now, ner run;
You 's glad enough to stan',
'T wus grass en water en hot sun
Wut made you sich a man.
—Charlotte Observer.

A FIGHT AND A SURRENDER

BY BELLE MANATES

(Copyright, 1905, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

y never faced anything square- had long been such an expert ging an issue that she was com- referred to in her immediate of near and dear ones as "The Dodger." All through the long, inter she had seen her fate in ape of Kenneth Page closing in her. Every time she danced, talked with him she left with tic sixth sense that he meditated osal, but her elusiveness warded

A look of determination in his n he bade her good night in the une presence of her brother, ced her that he would be bad- no longer. His look had been ive—almost menacing—she de- and his tone insinuating, as he er with emphasis that he would again very soon.

y was meditative after he had She didn't want to meet the yet, of course. She liked Ken- ery much—better than she did e. But she shied at an engage- She wanted another summer— , well, she wasn't sure anyway. acked weapons and courage for counter, so she sought her usual -flight.

breakfasted with the family the morning, which was a rare oc- ce. When the family were as- ed, she casually announced her ion of running down to see Aunt at the farm for a few days. It be so restful after all her dissi- She really was on the verge vous prostration, she declared. her surprise and relief there was position to this plan.

er effort to speak and appear in- nt, Betty looked at none of her , or she would have seen a word- elegraphy of intelligent glances nged.

t isn't a bad idea," said her r. "Telephone Uncle Homer to you."

y did some active work in tele- g and packing in order to be off Kenneth should be apprised of rney.

is running away from Ken- sighed her mother ruefully; 's only fifty miles to the farm." 'll stay about two days and one prophesied her brother.

country in the latter part of ry certainly did not appeal to eye for the beautiful. The was nearly gone, and the car- wheels crumbled dismally h the thin, ice-coated ruts in the rom the station to the farm. gged her resolution, and when pped into the big, comfortable use with its old-fashioned, ged fireplace, and was greeted hospitable welcome of cousins, and aunts, she was more cheer-e Brooks, the stern-featured, red school teacher, dropped in t Lydia's on her way home. She the depths of despair. She to go away for a week to at-

Betty was meditative.

e wedding of her brother, but ld find no substitute.

teach school for you for a volunteered Betty, anxious to r ships lest in her loneliness urn to home and Kenneth. "I ach them anything, but I can going for you."

school teacher looked at Betty ally.

taught in the charity kinder- and aid schools," remarked mplacently.

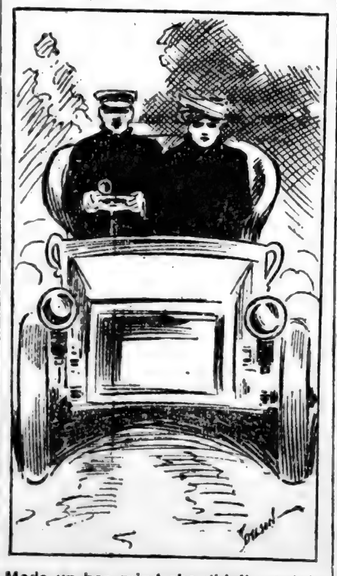
Brooks brightened.

you can get along with the d second reader classes."

"Oh, I can get along all right."

So it was arranged that Betty should begin her duties on Monday morning, as this was Saturday and Lizzie would start at midnight.

When Betty made her debut as schoolma'am, she certainly made a hit. Admiration for her clothes alone held her charges captivated and spellbound. A breathless silence ensued. When they had recovered from their first awe at her striking appearance, she made a second hit by asking them if they weren't all thirsty, and the water pail was passed frequently and



Made up her mind she didn't want to dodge this issue.

with alacrity throughout the day. She occasionally called on a class for recitation and made a stab at asking some of the questions, but for the most part her instructions were confided to teaching the first reader class to cut out paper dolls and prick patterns with a pin on colored paper. She showed the older girls how to pompadour their hair and described football games vividly to the big boys. With all was she cheery and sympathetic. Life for that week was certainly a beautiful dream to the pupils. When the last day of her term came, however, the novelty had all worn off for Betty, and she felt like "jumping her job."

In the afternoon a diversion was caused by hearing the chug-chug of an automobile, and the little children stood up in their seats to gaze out, unreproved, for Betty herself was eager to see this reminder of her former life.

To the children's delight, the big car came right into the school ground. Betty had little spasms of several emotions as she saw Kenneth coming in at the schoolroom door. She gave him a calm, unsmiling welcome. He volunteered the information that he had "just run over in his machine to bring her some books and things."

"I couldn't believe you were really teaching school!" he added. "I had to come and see. It's a great joke, Betty!"

Defiance raged within Betty. "So you think I can't teach," she thought "Well, I'll show you!"

"Sit down," she said, drawing a chair forward. "We are always pleased to have company."

Her composure was somewhat ruffled by following the glances of the tittering children. On the blackboard, which he was supposed to be erasing, bold Bobby Green had written: "Teecher's Got a Bo!"

"Rub that out, Bobby, and pass the water," she said sternly.

While Bobby executed this maneuver, she called a class in spelling, and gave out only the easy words. After this recitation, there was a disposition on the part of the bad boy of the school to get into mischief.

"Pass the water, Hank!" she commanded, believing in prevention.

The teacher and scholars acquitted themselves with credit throughout the afternoon.

"It's coming!" she thought, as she put on her wraps, and noted the grim look of determination in Kenneth's eyes. His air of satisfaction vanished as they came outside. Several children, in waiting, immediately surrounded Betty.

"They always walk home with me," she said delightedly, "so you'll have to let them ride with us."

He filled the big green and white car with rapturous children. Kenneth was equal to the occasion, and insisted on taking each one to his or her home before bringing up at the farm. Betty's heart began to palpitate when the last child had been delivered, and she was left alone with Kenneth on the return ride of five miles. A second thought reminded her that he never talked when he was running his car. Her security was short lived. On a lonely cross road the car came abruptly to a standstill.

"Can't you make it go?" she asked anxiously.

"I guess I can—when I want to. I am going to ask you something first."

"Oh, not now, Kenneth," she replied nervously. "I am—so—cold! Let's hurry home."

He made no response, and she shot him a covert glance. He did not see her, as he was looking straight ahead. So she looked again and again, and each time she looked, she thought him bigger, stronger and handsomer. She made up her mind then and there she didn't want to dodge this issue.

"Betty, you know what it is I want!"

"No—no!"

"I want to be what Bobby Green wrote on the blackboard."

"But you are that already, aren't you, Kenneth?"

"With all it implies, Betty?" he asked entreatingly, as he put his arm about her.

"Yes," she whispered.

NOT WHAT MAMA LOOKED FOR.

Second Shock of the Day for Wilbur's Mother.

Mrs. Mortimer Rutherford, of Riverside Drive, in despair of breaking her little boy of swearing, at last threatened that the next time he used a bad word she would banish him from home. The very next day he exploded a big, big D.

"I am very sorry, Wilbur," said Mrs. Rutherford, "but I have never broken my word to you, so now you must leave home."

Nanette packed the child's little toy suit case, and he, without a whimper, but with round, wondering eyes and downcast mouth, kissed his mama and departed. Mrs. Rutherford's eyes were dim as she watched her baby boy in his blue traveling suit sturdily trudging away, without one faltering backward glance.

A long way off, Wilbur set his burden on the ground, and himself perched solemnly on the curb, chin in hands in deep meditation. The spectacle was too much for the fond mother-heart. Very quietly mama sped down the drive and tiptoed up behind Master Wilbur. As she was hovering on the very point of surprising him with tearful kisses, a pompous old man appeared.

"Child," he said; "child, will you—hum—tell me where Mr. Milliken lives?"

Ah! Now mama's little man would show his excellent breeding! Wilbur raised his solemn blue eyes, and regarded the pompous man coldly.

"You go to—" he said, calmly. "I have troubles of my own."—Saturday Evening Post.

Couldn't Have Done Better Himself.

I was teaching a country school in St. Lawrence county, New York, and boarding around. "Uncle Tom's Cabin" had just appeared and was shaking the country. When I went to the district I took a copy with me. I first boarded with old Deacon Short, a Scotch Dissenter. When I went to my next boarding place I left "Uncle Tom" with him. After a week or two I happened to drop in on the deacon. He received me with some eagerness of manner and began to tell me of his interest in the book I had left with him.

"A most remarkable book," he said. "It has changed my whole views on the subject of slavery. But the most remarkable thing about it is that it was written by a woman! Why, do you know, I don't believe—if I should sit down and do nothing else for a whole month—that I could write a better book than that!"

Reads like a pleasantry, doesn't it? But you should have heard the emphasis and seen the solemnity of the deacon's face.—Boston Herald.

Children's Jokes.

Mary announced the other day that she was hungry. Her brother, to tease her, inquired, "How do you feel when you are hungry?" Mary promptly replied, "Exactly as if I had a corkscrew in my stomach."

The same little girl had just been introduced to a visitor named Mr. Hunter. After dinner this visitor said: "If you remember my name you shall have these bonbons, Mary," and in her eagerness to get the bonbons lost by exclaiming, "It's Mr. Shooter."

Willie had just started to kindergarten. The terms horizontal and perpendicular had been explained. The next Sunday Willie said, "Mother, I don't like my Sunday school teacher."

"Why?" asked his mother.

"Well," replied Willie, "she's all right for a school teacher, but I don't like her for a Sunday school teacher. She's too horizontal, and she ought to be more perpendicular."—Exchange.

Fulfilled Threat of Death.

That Sicilian brigands are still living up to their melodramatic traditions is proved by the following bit of news from that island: About a month ago Signor di Martino, a Sicilian of good family, was captured by brigands while cycling near Palermo. His parents, instead of paying the ransom, hired soldiers to search for him. His dead body has now been found buried under a pyramid of stones.

TRACED TO EMPEROR TIBERIUS

Originator of Remark About "Forty, Fool and Physician."

It would appear that the Emperor Tiberius was the originator of that well known saying: "Every man at forty is either a fool or a physician." But Tiberius said thirty, not forty, so Bacon informs us in his "History of Life and Death":

"Tiberius, though a drunkard and luxurious in his diet, was yet very careful of his diet and used to say that every one after thirty was either a fool or a physician."

Probably Bacon's authority was Tacitus ("Annals," book VI., chapter 46), who says of Tiberius that "He was wont to make sport of the physicians, and of people who after thirty needed others to tell them what was good or bad for them." In Tacitus, of course, the epigrammatic flavor is lost.

But why has popular usage altered the age from thirty to forty? Simply on account of the alliteration, so caressing to the popular ear. De Quincey, who quotes the modern phrase in his "Opium-Eater," dwells upon its alliterative value, and conjectures that our forefathers emphasized that alliteration by spelling physician with an F. Likely some of them did. The strange thing is that De Quincey seems to have been ignorant of the fact that the craze for alliteration had gone so far as to change the age in the proverb.—Penn Steele in The Sunday Magazine.

Possessed of a Devil.

In a small town in one of the southern states a very good old minister of one of the churches of the town was presented with a pair of new breeches.

His old ones were not quite worn out, so the new ones were hung in an unfinished chamber to wear on state occasions. The occasion came, and the preacher donned his breeches, which in the meantime had been the abode of several hornets.

He entered the pulpit and began his three hour sermon. His "firstly" was a little uneasy, his "secondly" showed signs of a coming storm, his "thirdly" was a regular cake walk and before his "fourthly" was finished he said: "Brethren, I am awfully sorry, but I can't finish this sermon. You'll have to excuse me. The word of God is in my mouth, but the devil's in those breeches."—Washington Times.

Stumped the Judge.

"One of the most peculiar defenses and at the same time one of the worst comparisons I ever heard was when I first ascended the bench," said Judge Cabaniss. "A man was up before me for beating his wife, and, as usual, I asked him what he had to say before I passed sentence upon him. He said:

"'Say, judge, you're a married man, ain't you? Well, suppose you was enjoying your dinner and feelin' pretty good and suddenly your wife came up, and after telling you of all the fellers she could have instead of you, started chucking the dishes at you and ended by telling you that she could make a better man than you out of a piece of coal and an old hat and not half try—say, judge, what would you do?'

"I couldn't very well tell him," concluded the judge, "so I simply had to discharge him with a warning."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Brevity the Soul of Ghosts.

"Here's the shortest ghost-story in the world," said the red-nosed man, who now, with the coffee, broke silence for the first time at the dinner.

"Two men were traveling from Boston to New York; strangers, but sharing between them the smoking compartment. After a bit, one laid by his magazine and said: 'Seems a bit jolty right here.' 'Yes,' replied the other, 'I was killed just here three years ago.'"

"Shortest in the world, did you say?" remarked some one at the other end of the table. "But here's a shorter. A lonely old bachelor waking up late at night, reached out his hand for the matches, and they were handed to him."

Then the host nodded to the butler.—The Sunday Magazine.

Slow Horses.

It was during mess hour at a sawmill camp that the slowness of horses came up for discussion.

"There's Kelly's old gray; you couldn't whip her into a trot," said one.

"Johnson's black mare will beat that; she refuses to help herself to the barley at night, for most times she isn't through eating her dinner," said another.

"Old Water's spindle-shank takes the prize," put in a third; "she's double-jointed in the knees—she walks both ways at once."

"I stood out on the road," drolled Shepard, coming in late for his dinner, "for twenty minutes talking to Myers; and all that time his bay mare never stopped."—San Francisco Chronicle.

"One More River."

Des a worl' er trouble—
Des a life er loss;
Always one mo' river
Fer de traveler ter cross!
But when you reach de river
What fur fum sun en star,
How you gwin ter make it
Ef de ferryman ain't dar?

Des a worl' er trouble!—
Fur fum feelin' prime,
Always one mo' hilltop
Fer de tired feet ter climb!
But w'en you in de lowgroun'
En storm hides sun en star,
How you gwine ter make it
In de shadders round you dar?

Ef de ferryman has lef' you
En cross de river's foam,
De lights forgit ter twinkle—
De hope quit ring you home,
Den call de Lawd yo' shelter:
"De bird will fin' his nes'—
De hill was high, de valley
In de sweets' place to res'.
—Atlanta Constitution.

FINE ORATION BY INDIAN

In the twilight of the tribal life of the American aborigines stands the chief of the Creeks, says the Muskogee I. T.) Times. He is heard to utter the following oration. It will be read in the reading books of the youth of other centuries. The oration is dignified, tranquil, eloquent. There is hope in the heart of the chief whose people dared and forebore so long in the unspoken cut of the forest. Gen. Pleasant Porter said:

The vitality of our race still persists. We have not lived for naught. We are the original discoverers of this continent and the conquerors of it from the animal kingdom, and from it first taught the art of peace and war, and first planted the institutions of virtue, truth and liberty. The European nations found us here and were made aware that it was possible for men to exist and subsist here. We have given to European people on this continent our thought forces. The best blood of our ancestors have been intermingled with their best statesmen and leading citizens. We have ourselves an indestructible element in their natural history. We have shown what they believe to be arid and desert places were habitable and capable of sustaining millions of people. We have led the vanguard of civilization in our conflict with them for tribal existence from ocean to ocean. The race that has rendered this service to the other nations of mankind can not perish utterly.

Though our tribal organization is fading away, we will be transformed as a potent factor, an element within the body of Christian civilization. The philosophy of the history of the future shall trace many of the principles of government and institutions so dear to them to those they found among us.

Now that we have demonstrated that we have the ability to make for ourselves and our children homes, and having sanction of every law, let us make for ourselves this firm resolution: Let our every act speak it forth; let the elements of forces of nature carry our resolutions to our fellow men the world over; let them in their senses know and feel it and enter upon the performance of our high mission.

Many of you have accomplished it already; many have begun it; begin at once and devote all your energies of soul, mind and body to the task set before us, even if it takes years—yes, a lifetime, to carry it out.

When we have thus resolved to make for ourselves and our children homes, we will have indited in and upon ourselves a law for our guidance which divine and human law will protect and sustain us in its maintenance. No statutory law will ever annul it, and we shall then have risen to the place of our high destiny.

WONDERFUL CROSS IN SKY

Perfectly formed, exquisitely colored and standing out in bold relief from a cloudy sky, a wonderful cross was observed here this afternoon. Five minutes after the sun had disappeared, its rays, piercing a low bank of clouds along the horizon, were thrown upon a higher bank of dark gray clouds in the form of a perfect cross, blood red in color, which was visible without a perceptible change in form for fully ten minutes.

In some places people rushed from their homes into the street to watch the awe-inspiring spectacle, which many superstitious ones regard as portending some wonderful event in their community. Frightened negroes fell upon their knees in the streets, believing the Judgment at hand.

Passengers on trains from Philadelphia had their attention called to the brilliant coloring of the western heavens, and windows and vestibules were filled with faces. To these the flaming cross was visible several minutes. One thus graphically describes the scene:

"Passengers had been watching the magnificence of the sky's colorings from the time our train crossed the Delaware River bridge.

"As the sun sank below the horizon three immense bars of golden light shot upward nearly to the zenith. As if by magic, two disappeared, and the remaining one seemed to become as dazzling as the orb that had just disappeared.

"With the same suddenness, a bright bar of light fell across this perpendicular one, forming a cross that was geometrically perfect. Its height was about 15 degrees, and at first it was a bright orange color, but gradually changed into a gorgeous red. All about this form of a cross the clouds were dark greenish gray, while beyond they presented almost every color and tint imaginable in marvelous arrangement.

"The cross disappeared as it came, the horizontal bar going first, and the upright slowly fading away, after which the sky again became a bright orange color, which gradually faded as darkness fell."—Atlantic City Cor. Phila. North American.

PAINT FROM ROYAL HEARTS

A correspondent of the Paris Temps describes the discovery of an affidavit in the national archives signed Philippe Henri Schunck, a citizen of Paris of about the year 1819, who is certified as having been a good royalist of unimpeachable character.

His statement is to the effect that he made the acquaintance of an artist named St. Martin, a friend of a revolutionary official who superintended the opening of monuments in the Jesuits' church. St. Martin related that he and another painter named Martin Droling were present on the occasion of the opening of the monument, their object being to utilize the royal dust as momie, a valuable dark brown pigment which was then usually obtained from mummy cases and ancient tombs.

St. Martin actually converted part of the heart of Louis XIV. to this use, but handed over the rest with the heart of Louis XII. intact to Schunck, through whom they reached their present resting place at St. Denis. St. Martin made this surrender during his last illness when he could hardly have been in the mood to perpetrate a practical joke on posterity.

As to Droling, Schunck learned from St. Martin that the two painters also witnessed the opening of other monuments and that Droling bought eleven hearts, including those of Anne of Austria, Maria Theresa, Gaston of Orleans, the Regent and Mme. Henriette, who was immortalized by Bossuet's funeral oration, and made them into momie. A picture by Droling "Interieur de Cuisine" is in the Louvre and it is quite possible that its dark tints owe their richness to minute parts of defunct Bourbons.

Anne of Austria's heart mixed with oil and spread on an artist's canvas! What a concise, eloquent sermon on the vanity of human greatness.

WEIGHED IN THE BALANCE

"So I hear you are going to part with the new minister, the one that came here from Brownsville?"

"Jest so; he didn't suit our folks at all," responded Uncle Jesse Putnam promptly.

"Well, you folks must be getting hard to please, all of a sudden. Now you like that old-fashioned man, Dr. Patterson—"

"Nice, easy sort of feller; read his sermons in a ca'm, unconcerned kind of way,' interrupted Uncle Jesse, by way of comment.

"Yes, and you took to young Mr. Banks—I thought you'd object to him, after Dr. Patterson! Why, young Banks was a regular firebrand, full of vim and enterprise—delivered his sermons in a loud, excited voice. When he, too, fitted into things here in Shelbyville, I concluded young folks would take to any one that came along."

"That's just where you got fooled," remarked Uncle Jesse. "Now, they's a lot of us old fellers—fact is us old fellers about run this Shelbyville church. Old Dr. Patterson, ca'm and soothin' like, he suited us. Then that young feller, Banks—I tell you, he made things hum, and us old fellers set up and listened to the music! Time church was over we was pretty well stirred up—hungry fer dinner and had a good afternoon nap.

"But this new man, from over to Brownsville"—Uncle Jesse shook his head—"W'y, he couldn't holler up loud enough to keep a man good'n awake; but that pesky voice of his'n, w'y, it was jest loud enough and jumpylike so's to keep me from gettin' a nice nap, like we used to get when old Dr. Patterson preached.

"The trouble with this new feller is that he ain't neither one thing nor t'other!"—New York Times.

WEAPONS OF THE OCTUPUS

Both the octopus and the cuttlefish have arms that are clothed with a formidable array of suckers which are wonderful pieces of mechanism. When the sucker comes into contact with an object, the central piston, having previously been raised so as to completely fill the cavity of the sucker, is at once withdrawn and a perfect vacuum produced explaining the great tenacity with which the suckers cling. They number upward of 100 pairs to each arm of the octopus, and once they obtain a grip on the victim, unless the arm is actually torn away from the body of the octopus it is practically impossible for its prey to disentangle itself.

In addition to these suckers the octopus has a powerful pair of jaws, shaped like the beak of a parrot, behind which is a formidable armor-plated tongue used as a rasping organ. The octopus will attack and kill crabs and lobsters of considerable size, ripping open the body by means of its powerful jaws and devouring the contents. In spite of being a creature of such awe-inspiring looks, the octopus has several enemies in various species of whales, sharks and conger eels, in fact, the latter are particularly fond of devouring the smaller octopuses.

Conger eels hunt for the octopus and when found, proceed to browse on its limbs. The octopus tries to hug the slippery, slimy conger tight, but in vain, and, finding its limbs growing less, discharges its ink in the face of the foe and under cover of the turbid water beats a hasty retreat. It is to escape the too-pressing attentions of its foes that the octopus possesses the power of changing its color to correspond with that of its surroundings.

THE UNION

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Wallace C. Edler, Editor and Pub.

Subscription price, in advance, per year, $1.

For advertising rates, call at the office, Seventh street, between First and Second Avenues.

Entered April 15, 1903, at Clanton, Ala., as second class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications to the Union must be signed by the writer's real name as well as that name which they wish to put in the paper. Letters must reach the editor Tuesday morning to get in the same week. While we will publish any and all communications complying with these requirements that do not contain any improper language, we are not responsible for the opinions expressed. tf.

CLANTON, ALA., March 1 1906.

Union Clubbing List

THE UNION And Yellow Jacket	$1.00
THE UNION And Southern Ruralist	1.00
THE UNION And Union Educator	1.00
THE UNION And Home and Farm	1.00
THE UNION And Weekly Age-Herald	1.25
THE UNION and Weekly Atlanta Constitution	1.25
THE UNION and Twice-a-Week Globe Democrat	1.50
THE UNION and Tri-W'kly Atlanta Constitution	1.50
THE UNION And Tom Watson's Magazine	1.50
THE UNION and Tri-Weekly N. Y. World	1.50
THE UNION And Rural South	1.50
THE UNION And Weekly Advertiser and Map of Alabama, U. S. and world	1.50

If there are any other papers you want call at THE UNION office, and we will get them for you at the lowest rates. tf

$10.00 REWARD

Will be paid to the three persons who secure for us the largest number of PAID subscribers between now and April 1st, 1906. No restrictions. Our clubbing prices go in this contest. $5.00 goes to the one with the largest list; $3.00 to the second largest list, and $2.00 to the third largest. Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds has kindly consented to be the judge in this contention, and he will make the awards. The names of the successful contestants will be published, also the names of all who tried for this reward. Now we have a thousand subscribers, help us to get a thousand additional, so as to fittingly celebrate the ending of our third year.

tf. THE UNION.

VERY TRUE.

"The man who takes a newspaper out of the postoffice with the intention of beating the publisher out of the price of it is making a mistake. He will receive a statement upon his arrival at the gates of H— for the amount due."—Cordova News.

SCHOOL TAX CARRIED.

The county canvassing board, consisting of the judge of probate, circuit clerk and sheriff, met last Friday at noon, and counted the vote cast in the election of February 20th. Over 72 per cent of the vote polled was in favor of the tax, though the law only requires 60. The first figures are for, and the last against the proposed tax: Mineral Springs, 7-45; Jemison, 67-14; Providence, 14-3; Benson, 20-3; Macedonia, 14-9; Clanton, 82-37; Verbena, 34-4; Kincheon, 42-14; Maplesville, 18-7; Shoults, 17-0; Dixie, 28-0; Pletcher, 17-8; Thorsby, 76-6; Cooper, 47-33; Flint Hill, 19-8. Total vote cast, 693. Total for 502. Total against, 191.

A RURAL RHAPSODY.

Paul Cook in his corner of last Saturday's Age-Herald gets off the following, taking as his text the opening paragraph of a letter in last week's UNION, from Mount Pleasant signed "Just a Subscriber." Mr. Cook says "an exchange," but we'll do better and give him due credit:

An exchange says: "'Gee' and 'Haw' are now heard on all sides, as our farmers are now taking advantage of this pretty weather to prepare for their crops." You can almost hear the ploughman's cry come floating over the field as he wends his way down the long row. The country is bathed in sunshine all around and on the hills there is a suggestion of Nature, still dreaming away but drawing near to the day when she will awake to the call of spring and strew the earth with blossoms; when the bluebirds will sing and the rivers run down through verdant and flower-filled valleys; when old Mother Earth will bring forth generously and the golden harvest of next autumn will be aborning. It must be sweet to hear the ploughman urge his mule along and to rest in the calm beauty of a rural landscape on a day so full of brightness as yesterday. How much better for the city man it would be if he could hear "Gee" and "Haw" instead of the cold "Step lively, please."

Clanton, Ala., Feb. 23, 1906.

To the People of Chilton County:

The school election is over, and it was carried by a large majority, and it speaks well for our county. Now I am very sorry that any mistake was made in the tickets, and I will proceed to let the public know how it occurred. As the record here will show, I have been very busy for the last month, and especially last week. I had twelve important cases from Thorsby, in the outcome of which the whole county was interested. So all of my time was taken up, and I had no time to look after the election. I told Mr. Honeycutt, my clerk, that I would take the tickets to Birmingham on Wednesday and have them printed, as I intended going up to the dedication of the new Masonic temple there on that day. But as I have said, I had several cases in court, and I could not get off. However, I came down from Jemison on Wednesday morning, the 14th, and when I got off the train I saw Mr. Edler standing at the depot and I asked him to wait and I would run up to my office and get the ticket, and that I would appreciate it if he would carry it to Birmingham and have them printed for me. So I went as fast as I could to my office, asked Henry for the copy he had made, and he gave it to me. I ran back to Mr. Edler, and as I handed it to him the train was coming. I told him to take it to a first-class printer; that it was important to have the tickets just like the copy (AND IT IS AN EXACT COPY AS HENRY MADE IT). We never got the tickets until Saturday morning between 8 and 9 o'clock, and as everybody knows the ballots have to be kept private, so Henry carried them in the recording room and put them in the boxes as fast as he could, as the Sheriff was waiting for them. Now, it would have been an easy matter for me to have walked into the room and have read one of these ballots, but I had held court Friday until night and I had some important mail to answer Saturday morning, so I told Henry to look after the election boxes and I would attend to my mail. But I feel sure if all the people of the county could understand just what a rush we were in that no one would blame me for the mistake. I have had over fifty criminal cases since Christmas, and the office has handled over $1,000, mostly in 5 and 10-cent amounts, from mortgages, etc., in that time. Now, I have been particularly anxious to do my whole duty in the Probate office, but especially I have tried to discharge my full duty when sitting in judgment on a man's liberty. I felt a great responsibility resting on me last Thursday and Friday, passing on the election law and the right to vote under it. Now, as the editor of the Banner expresses such great sympathy with the tax payers of Chilton, and has seen fit to refer to the mistake in the tickets in the manner he has, and mixes just enough truth with his statement to confuse the people, I wish to mention some things about tax levies. What about the school levy that Judge Adams made a few years ago? Did he not collect $500 or $600 from the poorer people of the county (not the corporations or moneyed people, but the honest farmers) in his illegal levy? Of course it was offered back to the people for a certain time, but there was about $500 that was never called for that had been collected solely for public schools. Did they ever get it? No, it was put in the general fund and spent by his administration, and I think if you will examine the record you will find that Treasurer Dake was paid $50 to help rectify Judge Adams' mistake in levying that tax. Now, let's examine a little further, and see how diligent Mr. Crichton has been in looking after the people's interest. Judge Adams levied a special bridge tax, which was declared illegal by such lawyers as Collier Collier, and the common people paid this tax, but two railroad companies only paid under protest, and they are now suing the county and the case is in the Supreme Court. This case was kept back until Adams went out of office, and now it is on my hands and the present County Commissioners, and if the county loses the case it will not only have to pay the $600, but interest on that sum and the court costs. You see mine is not the only mistake that has been made in levying taxes in Chilton, though there is so much said about it. Now, I am not trying to get up a controversy nor ring some one else into this mix up, but Mr. Crichton was such a strong supporter of Judge Adams and held his administration up to the tax payers as so economical, and advocated his re-election over every one else, even life-long Democrats. Now, I think if Mr. Crichton will see to it that this school money that was paid by the poorer people of the county, and for the education of their children (which they never got), together with the cost of the suit the county is now defending, and the principal if it loses the suit, is paid back by his crowd, it will then be time for him to take up the people's cause. In conclusion, I will say that I expect criticism, but in the future I shall do as I have done up to now; do my duty as I see it regardless of what anybody says. And when it comes to having the printing done for my office I will most assuredly not have it done in the Banner office so long as Mr. Crichton's politics are what they are, and I do not believe that the reasonable Democrats expect it. How much printing would The Union have gotten from this office if my opponent had been elected? But the Banner seems to think that the mistake was made because it did not get the job of printing the ballots, and also says they should have read "10 mills on the hundred dollars." This would only have been one cent on the hundred dollars, which would have been a much more serious mistake than the one that was made, but perhaps this is all that he would levy for the schools if the matter was in his power, or perhaps he made a mistake like Mr. Honeycutt did, only going to the other extreme, and in that case he should move out of his glass house before he throws stones. For fear some will mistake my position, let me say that in the future, as in the past, I shall continue to do all I can honorably in a political way to help the people that elected me, and I say to them, here and now, whenever I can serve you command me. I am at your service in politics, but in my official capacity I know no one. I have no axe to grind, no one to punish. My motto is, Justice to all, to do my duty as I see it without fear or favor, and I want all that have business in my office to feel free. Now, I am sure that there are many of my political opponents that would be glad to see this last election a failure, but let me say that this mistake shall not cost the people one cent. You will get the tax you intended to vote for, and if this election did have to be held again I would pay every cent of this expense out of my pocket.

Yours respectfully,

L. H. REYNOLDS.

ABOUT DISTRICT TRUSTEES.

Editor of he Union:

Dear Sir—Please publish the following letter for me and greatly oblige:

Department of Education,
Alabama,
Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 25, 1906.

Rev. P. G. Maness, R. F. D. No. 1, Lawley, Ala.:

Mry Dear Sir—Superintendent Hill has your letter of January 23, and in reply directs me to say that the Attorney-General has given to this office an opinion, in which he holds that district trustees are exempt from paying poll tax, road duty, jury duty, etc.

Yours very truly,
H. C. GUNNELLS,
Chief Clerk.

I also have a similar letter dated about a year ago. Of course if a district trustee wants to pay a poll it is all right, but the non-payment will not debar him from voting.

Yours sincerely,
P. G. MANESS.

The above letter flatly contradicts a letter written by the State Auditor to Tax Collector Hubbard in 1904, in which the Auditor says: "I know of no law which exempts district trustees from paying poll tax. The Department of Education would confer a favor on the people if it would publish the Attorney-General's opinion in full.

EDITOR UNION.

IMPORTANT TO FARMERS.

In deciding the appeal in the case of the State of Alabama vs. Jim Thomas, appealed from Montgomery city court, the supreme court upheld an act which is of considerable importance to the farmers of this state. In 1903 the legislature passed an act amending section 4330 of the code, which act provides that a person who enters into a written contract for the performance of work or services and obtains money or other personal property and without just cause and with intent to defraud, and without refunding the money or paying for the property, is as guilty as if he had stolen it, and failure of such person who entered into the contract to perform or carry out such contract or refund the money or pay for the property without just cause, shall be prima facie evidence of the intent to injure or defraud. This was the act held to be constitutional by the supreme court, thereby reversing the decision of Judge Thomas of the lower court, who held it unconstitutional. The decision is of great importance to the farmers of Alabama as it is a protection to them in making contracts for labor.

EAST BESSIE.

Mr. Editor:

I wish to thank you for the space you give me in your good union paper. Health in this neighborhood is good. The S. S. at Mars Hill is progressing, but could be made more interesting by studying our lessons more. There was a nice little singing at E. G. Cofer's Thursday night last. Our singing last Sunday evening brought out a large assemblage of people, some in their new buggies. G. S. Rasberry and family were visitors at F. M. Langston's Sunday. J. D. H. Terry and family visited J. M. Foshee's. C. L. Langston dined at E. G. Cofer's Sunday. R. L. Leach and family were pleasant visitors of Tim Smith's Sunday, also calling at J. M. Foshee's.

BRIGHT STAR.

LOMAX.

Health of community is good except that W. W. Jones has a sick child and Alonzo Jackson is confined to his room with a cold. Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Marcus have a new comer; it's a girl. The farmers are hustling these betutiful warm, sunny days. All are rejoicing over the good times we're having under Republican administration, though I fear we are not as thankful as we should be. When I look back to the time when we were glad to get 8 cents for cotton, 50 cents for corn, and 50 cents for a day's work. These prosperous times are bringing us ten to eleven cents for cotton, 75 cents for corn, and one to three dollars per day for our labor; and we still are not satisfied. Wouldn it not be wise to put down a great big republican stob where we are at right now, and not try to stretch things any further for a while for fear we might break something? Success to THE UNION, its editor and many readers.

OBSERVER.

SOUTH BESSIE.

Dear Union:

Your correspondents are numerous and quite interesting, yet we think a few thoughts from this part will be acceptable. We are pleased to read an article from Mr. Lundy, of Oklahoma, in THE UNION. Hope he will write again.

We are also pleased to hear from "Observer" again. People are going right on with their work, really pushing their work, which is the proper and successful way, push, we live in a time of push and progress.

The Henry Bros. are erecting a saw mill near Mrs. Samantha Waldrup's at the ford of Six Mile Creek, beat 2. Mr. and Mrs. Jones were among their friends in beat 9 last Sunday. Cliff Martin has bought a new buggy. Alfred Pate has added some to his residence. The Sunday school at the Freeman school house is progressing nicely. Some of our people attended church service near Lomax Sunday. Mrs. Mitchell, of Wylam, Ala., was the speaker. Congregation good. The preaching was radical, searching, loyal to the cross and the Bible way only. Among all your forgetting, one thing don't forget, and that is that populism in Chilton county is not dead. So don't fail to "reckon with the host," but let UNION be the motto of the reformers in Chilton. Success will come in no other way. Hear the brave Tom Watson continually thundering the truths of populism. He stands today without a peer as a statesman in the southland. We consider him superior to W. J. Bryan and feel that Mr. Bryan should have felt himself honored in having the brave Georgian for a running mate. So let the reformers of Chilton watch and not get side-tracked. UNION. UNION, should characterize every one and then let the people rule. Our paper, "THE UNION," was established to that end. Let it grow. It seems to us that the voting strength of the Farmers' Union must ultimately be united, otherwise it would look like building a structure and then tearing it down. Others of more fertile brain see it in the same light. So let us all read and think and grow in knowledge. We hope all THE UNION correspondents will write freely and give us the news. Success to the UNION, Chilton's searchlight. Let it shine.

"ONE OF THE BOYS."

MACEDONIA.

Editor Union:

Please allow me space in your most valuable paper to say a few words about happenings. We were greatly shocked by the sudden death of Mr. M. L. Cleveland on the night of the 16th at 11 o'clock. The cause of death is said to be heart failure. He leaves a wife and six children to mourn his loss. The remains were laid to rest in the Randolph cemetery Sunday. Rev. Harrison concluded the funeral service. Mr. Cleveland was a most business merchant of Randolph and will be greatly missed by all. Gordon Cleveland, his oldest son, has taken charge of his father's business, and his many friends wish him success.

Sam Glass has been very sick, but now he is improving nicely. Mrs. W. L. Nix and her sister-in-law, Miss Bamma Nix, paid a flying visit to Mr. Lewis Waldrop's family last Monday and had a real nice time. Charley Glass and wife, Mrs. Claudy Glass, of Mullins, were the welcome guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Nix Saturday and Sunday. The writer of this letter grew a collard in the year 1905 that measured in height 6 feet 5 inches. Who can beat that for a collard? Most of the ladies of this community have planted their gardens and have some hens setting and are anticipating having plenty of vegetables and fried chicken to eat this summer. With best wishes to THE UNION and its many readers.

"BIRD."

CEDAR GROVE.

Rev. T. J. Ledbetter filled his regular appointment here Sunday. J. W. Hays' fine house is near completion, which adds a lot to our community. R. W. Littlejohn has moved to the J. W. Riggins place, near saw-mill town. G. D. Collins went to Birmingham Monday on business. Mr. and Mrs. Lige Burnett spent Sunday with J. L. Collins, Sr. R. W. Scott and family visited J. R. Collins Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Collins spent Saturday and Sunday at R. D. Childress', near Pleasant Grove. Our rural route is improving and has several new boxes, and a lot of Unions to go in them. A. C. Marcus is building a new shop at his home. Now, a few words to our Union men in regard to the national constitution (which we have before us). I want every man to think over the matter well before he votes and see if the farmer can make $100 per month on his farm or not. If so, vote for it; if not, vote against it. I'll stop to see what the next man has to say.

UNION READER.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

Here I come again, scarce of news, but will send the few dots I've caught. Health is good and farmers busy, and full of hope for the new crop. Rev. W. P. Lowery filled his appointment here Sunday and preached an excellent sermon to a large and attentive congregation. Our S. S. is greatly improved, and is now one that any community would be proud of. There is no better place to train our children, and it is beneficial to all. The Good Book says brng them up in the way you would have them go, and when they are old they won't depart from it. We noticed some of our boys driving down the long lines Sunday evening wearing a broad smile. Grady Williams and his charming sister, Miss Annie, were welcome visitors in this community Sunday. With best wishes to OUR UNION,

JUST A SUBSCRIBER.

THORSBY.

Mrs. James Bosworth, who has been a pleasant Thorsby visitor for the past six weeks, has returned to Birmingham. Many of our citizens were Clanton visitors during the past week. The Misses Lucas have opened up their millinery store and dressmaking shop and will be glad to have their friends call upon them. Mrs. J. F. Peterson entertained the Swedish Ladies' Aid Society on the 15th. There were over sixty in attendance. The Ladies' Auxiliary met at the Thorsby Inn on Wednesday last. The florists, Messrs. Howard & Hanson, are erecting a neat office building on their carnation grounds. The O. A. B. club was entertained at the home of Reano Villadsen on the night of the 14th. A pleasant time is reported by the guests. Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Smith went to see "Humpty Dumpty" in Birmingham last week. Mrs. Carl Larson left for Chicago during the past week, where she intends making her future home. Mr. and Mrs. Artman, who have been spending some of the winter months in Thorsby, left for California on the 15th. Mr. and Mrs. Feast are proud parents of a baby girl. Hartilius and wife, Mr. Olson, Carlson and Mrs. J. L. Foss were Clanton visitors on Friday.

Mrs. Robinson, who has been living with her husband in Tenn... for some time, has returned to home. Mr. Scott Caverno was a Birmingham visitor on the 17th. Mr. Mrs. Sam Collins entertained a number of their friends at their home Saturday night. G. H. Gerald was the Capital City on Sunday. Mr. Mrs. I. E. Sarber are entertaining gentleman friend from the north. ... lie Peterson and his oldest son for Anniston on Monday. Mr. Mrs. Latham, of Montevalla, Thorsby visitors on the 19th. Mes... J. Parnell and J. Stanley visited county seat on Monday. Mr. and ... Lon Reagan, who have been Tho... residents for some time, left for ... tur on Wednesday. Their ... friends regret seeing them leave. Misses Simpson, who have been ... ing with relatives in Birmingham ... Fayette for the past two months, ... returned to Thorsby. Nine pe... arrived on Wednesday's exc... Mr. Paulson and daughter Tarina ... Clanton visitors last week. Mrs. ... land entertained the Norwegian ... dies' Aid Society on Thursday. ... and Mrs. John Carlson are the ... parents of a baby girl. Mrs. ... visiting with her sister, Mrs. ... There were many Jemison visitors ... our town on Sunday. Miss Mary ... lager spent Saturday and Sunday ... Montgomery. The friends of Mr. ... son, who is visiting with his ... Mrs. Hartilius, gave him a pl... surprise on Monday night. Mr. ... Mrs. Gerald spent Tuesday in our ... tal City. The Sunshine Society ... with Miss Sarah Collier on the ...

NEL...

Chathan has the distinction of ... ing the first city in Canada to ... public heating plant.

Wouldn't You Like

BETTER WHISKIES FOR LESS MONEY?

than the kind youvl been getting? Then send your order to us

THE BIG MAIL ORDER HOUSE

The house that sells nothing but the purest goods and guarantees every article it sells. If it's drugs or whiskies you want

WE CUT THE PRICE,

	Our Price.	Regular Price.
Shehan's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50	75
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60	1 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65	1 00
J. Martin's Five year-old Virginia Rye	75	1 00
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75	1 00
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	1 25
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00	1 50
Stewart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	2 00
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84	1 50
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1 50
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1 50
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1 50
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00	1 50
Wilson Whiskey	85	1 50
J. M. Atherton bottled in bond	1 00	1 50
Mammoth Cave bottled in bond	1 25	1 75
Old Jordon bottled in bond	1 50	2 00
Green River, the whiskey without a headache	1 00	1 25
Old Shades Mountain Corn	50	75
Old Mountain Due Corn	75	1 00
Old Lincoln County	65	1 00
Old Holland Gin	60	75
Old Crown Gin	75	1 00
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	75
California Sherry or Port	50	75

Mellow Old Liquors and Wines by the Gallon in Jugs.

	Per Gallon		Per Gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.50
Old Mountain Due	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	3.00
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.00
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club	3.00
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County	3.00
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	3.00
Old California Port or Sherry	1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	3.00

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY,
The Big Cut Rate Drug Store
2012 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

Pure Water Prevents Fevers.

DRILLED WELLS FURNISH PURE WATER

We guarantee water or no charge made. Estimates given. Address

I. E. SARBER CO.

Thorsby, Alabama

Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St. THE BIG STORE, Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St.

—Is at The Head of The Procession.—

Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Shoes
FURNITURE,
COFFINS AND BURIAL NECESSITIES.
W. I. MULLINS,
Clanton. . . Alabama

COUNTY AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

Circuit Court.
...g Term—Third Monday in May.
... Term—Fourth Monday in Nov.
...—S. L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
...ner—W. B. Bowling, Dadeville.
...—Sam W. Collins.

Chancery Court.
... Term—Second Monday in
... Term—Second Monday in Sep...
...cellor—Hon. W. W. Whitesides.
...ster—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan...

County Court.
... Monday in each month.

Commissioners' Court.
...d Monday February, first Mon...
...pril first Monday June, second
... July, second Monday August,
...onday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.
...e of Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
...surer—W. T. Callen.
...riff—J. M. Morgan.
...itor—W. M. Adams.
Assessor—L. B. Pounds.
Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.
... District—W. H. Conway.
...nd District—Alex Glasscock.
...d District—R. P. Kendrick.
...th District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.
... J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor.
... R. Dahl, Calera.

State Senator.
... W. R. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.

ATTENTION!

...tors and clerks that wish their ... notices to appear in THE ...N will please send them in to ...ffice by March 10, 1906, when ...w and correct list will appear.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

Masonic.

...ton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—Saturday, Clanton.

...ade Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...ourth Saturday, Cooper.

...ton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...irst Saturday, Clanton.

...ary Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...irst Saturday, Billingsley.

...man Lodge, A. F. and A. M., ...4—Saturday on or before full ... Marbury.

...son Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...aturday on or before full moon, ...

...ton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...uesday on or before full moon, ...

I. O. O. F.

...on Lodge—First and third Sat...

...ton Lodge, No. 304—Second and ... Saturdays.

Woodmen of the World.

... Jack Camp, No. 190—First and ...ondays.

L. O. O. M.

...more Tribe, No. 90—First and ...ondays each. Visiting chiefs ...y invited. E. B. Langston, C. ... H. Patton, Shaken.

L. M. W. A.

... Lodge, of Thorsby—Second ...rth Saturdays.

...You Like...
...LESS MONEY?
Then send your ord...

...DER HOUSE
...he purest goods and gua...
...s drugs or whiskies p...

...PRICE,

	Our Price.	Regular Pric...
	75	1 00
	75	1 00
	75	1 00
	50	75
	60	1 00
	65	1 00
	75	1 00
	75	1 00
	85	1 25
	1 00	1 50
	1 25	2 00
	84	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	85	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 25	1 75
	1 50	2 00
che	1 00	1 50
	50	75
	75	1 00
	65	1 00
	50	75
	75	1 00
	50	75
	50	75

...y the Gallon in Jugs.

	Per Gallon
...l Mason's Pure Rye	$2.00
...vate Stock Virginia Rye	1.50
...Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	2.50
...l Style Country Club	2.00
...l Lincoln County	2.50
...hmond Club Virginia Rye	4.00
...A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	4.00

...COMPANY,
...rug Store
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

...nts Fevers.
...SH PURE WATE
...o charge made.

...CO.
...Alaban...

...TORE,
Cor. ... Ave ... 7th St.
...Hats, Shoe...
...URE,
...NECESSITIES.
...LINS,
...Alabam...

...orsby, left for California on ...
... Mr. and Mrs. Feast are ... parents of a baby girl. ...
...us and wife, Mr. Olson, ...
...n and Mrs. J. L. Foss were ...
...isitors on Friday.
... Robinson, who has been ... ...ith her husband in Tennes... ...me time, has returned to ...
... Mr. Scott Caverno was a ... ...m visitor on the 17th. Mr. ...
...Sam Collins entertained a ... ... their friends at their home ...ay night. G. H. Gerald wa... ...pital City on Sunday. Mr. ...
... E. Sarber are entertaining ...nan friend from the north. ...
...terson and his oldest son ...niston on Monday. Mr. ...
...atham, of Montevalla, ...y visitors on the 19th. Mes... ...nell and J. Stanley visited ... seat on Monday. Mr. and ...
...eagan, who have been The... ...ts for some time, left for ... ...n Wednesday. Their ... ... regret seeing them leave.
... Simpson, who have been ... ...h relatives in Birmingham ... for the past two months, ...d to Thorsby. Nine per... ... on Wednesday's excur... ...ulson and daughter Tarina ... ...visitors last week. Mrs. ...ntertained the Norwegian ...id Society on Thursday. ...s. John Carlson are the h... ... of a baby girl. Mrs. Ki... ... with her sister, Mrs. C... ...were many Jemison visitors ...n on Sunday. Miss Mary ...pent Saturday and Sunday ...mery. The friends of Mr. ...o is visiting with his ... ...artilius, gave him a plea... ...e on Monday night. Mr. ...rald spent Tuesday in our ... ... The Sunshine Society ...ss Sarah Collier on the 3r...

...an has the distinction of ... first city in Canada to ha... ...eating plant.

...TS AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

Circuit Court.

...ing Term—Third Monday in May. ... Term—Fourth Monday in No...

...ge—S. L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
...icitor—W. B. Bowling, Dadeville.
...k—Sam W. Collins.

Chancery Court.

...ing Term—Second Monday in ...

... Term—Second Monday in Sep...

...cellor—Hon. W. W. Whitesides.
...gister—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan...

County Court.

...st Monday in each month.

Commissioners' Court.

...ond Monday February, first Mon... April first Monday June, second ...day July, second Monday August, ...Monday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

...dge of Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
...asurer—W. T. Callen.
...eriff—J. M. Morgan.
...icitor—W. M. Adams.
... Assessor—L. B. Pounds.
... Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.

...st District—W. H. Conway.
...ond District—Alex Glasscock.
...ird District—R. P. Kendrick.
...rth District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.

...f. J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor.

P. R. Dahl, Calera.

State Senator.

...n. W. R. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.

ATTENTION!

...stors and clerks that wish their ...ch notices to appear in THE ...ON will please send them in to ... office by March 10, 1906, when ...new and correct list will appear.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

Masonic.

...nton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—... Saturday, Clanton.

...nade Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...Fourth Saturday, Cooper.

...nton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...First Saturday, Clanton.

...tary Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...First Saturday, Billingsley.

...man Lodge, A. F. and A. M., ...34—Saturday on or before full ... Marbury.

...lson Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...Saturday on or before full moon, ...on.

...nton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...Tuesday on or before full moon, ...on.

I. O. O. F.

...lson Lodge—First and third Sat...

...nton Lodge, No. 304—Second and ... Saturdays.

Woodmen of the World.

...k Jack Camp, No. 190—First and ... Mondays.

L. O. R. M.

...ne Tribe, No. 90—First and ... Mondays each. Visiting chiefs ...lly invited. E. B. Langston, C. ... J. H. Patton, Scribe.

L. M. A.

...ton Lodge, of Thorsby—Second ...rth Saturdays.

W. A. & L. H. Reynolds.

Will have a car load of horses, almost all of them are broken to work. Especially good brood mares in the lot.

Will Be in Clanton March 1st.

CLANTON COTTON MARKET.

Total receipts to Feb. 28, '06, 6,115.
Price same date, 10 1-4c.
Receipts same time, 1905, 6,290.
Price same date, 71-4c.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

TO LOAN ON GOOD SECURITY, $250.00. CALL ON OR ADDRESS THE UNION. tf

J. C. C. Wooley, of Stanton, filed a petition of voluntary bankruptcy in the U. S. court at Montgomery last Thursday. He alleges inability to pay his debts, which amount to $1,368.40, the greater part of which are small accounts to Stanton tradesmen. His assets are $15.

W. O. Mulkey, of Briarfield, was a very pleasant visitor Thursday.

'Squire McDowell and grandson, Zebedee, were welcome callers Thursday.

W. P. Headley and son, William, were pleasant visitors Thursday. Mr. Headley's daughter, Mrs. C. W. Blackwell, of Oxmoor, who has been on a visit to her parents, returned to her home Monday.

C. A. E. Nelson was in Clanton Friday. Be sure and go to that auction sale. See the ad.

J. M. Smith was in town Friday.

T. L. Robinson was a pleasant visitor Friday.

Unity local, F. E. and C. U. of A., was instituted on February 22d. A good day and a good deed.

J. R. Collins was in Clanton Friday.

J. W. Kicker was in town Friday.

Mr. J. F. Hayes, Jr., and his charming bride were in Clanton Saturday, buying some additional furnishings for their new home. Best wishes.

J. O. Johnson was a pleasant visitor Saturday.

Adam Price was in Clanton Saturday.

J. P. Smith and family were Clanton visitors Saturday.

F. J. Fitts was in town Saturday. He says he intends starting a livery business in Maplesville.

Tax Collector Hubard was in town Saturday. His getting ready to close down on delinquent tax payers.

A. D. Massey was in Clanton Thursday. All of us sympathize with our worthy brother in his great loss, the recent death of his wife. Mrs. Massey was 57 years old and beloved by all who knew her. A son, P. J. Massey, in the employ of the L. and N. at Birmingham, who was here to attend his mother's funeral, has returned to his duties.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Maddox, of Wylam, who have been visiting friends and relatives in this vicinity, went home Monday. Mr. M. renewed his subscription to the Union, saying it was a family necessity.

F. J. Massey was in town Friday.

J. N. Scott, Business Agent of Mars Hill union, was in Clanton Monday.

F. Smith was in town Monday.

John Thames was a pleasant visitor Monday.

L. H. and W. A. Reynolds with their respective families went to Pensacola Monday to attend the Mardi Gras festivities.

Commissioners W. H. Conway and Moses Robinson were in Clanton Monday attending stockholders' meeting of the Chilton Warehouse Co.

C. J. Smith, of Birmingham, was tried before Justice Dake Saturday for the wrongful conversion of a pair of mules from J. A. Cox, of Thorsby. Attorney J. Osmond Middleton, by some clever detective work, got Mr. Smith to Chilton county and he is now under $300 bail.

Messrs. M. E. Thompson and J. W. Huff, owners of the Dixie Turpentine works, were pleasant visitors Tuesday. They are doing a good business in beat 8 and purchased about 1,000 acres of land which was sold here Tuesday by Mr. Jones, of Selma, under a mortgage given by William L. Parnell.

G. O. Foshee and James Glass were pleasant visitors Tuesday.

John Garner, of Owenton, spent the forepart of the week in Clanton, saying "howdy" to his many friends. He is suffering from a severe cold, but is still "our John."

Don't forget the "Horse Sale" at Clanton this week.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

T. F. Limbrick and Miss Nannie Davenport. J. F. Hayes, Jr., and Miss Callie F. Smith. N. L. Minor and Mary Ann Connell. E. D. Baker and Miss M. B. Cassil.

COLORED.

Henry Hall and Savannah Williams.

HAYES-SMITH.

On Thursday evening, February 22, 1906, at 3 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Smith, Mr. J. F. Hayes, Jr., and Miss Callie Smith were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. Rev. A. L. Foshee tied the nuptial knot in the presence of a few friends and relatives. May prosperity and happiness be with them all through life is the wish of

A FRIEND.

FOR SALE—One good horse weight 1000 pounds, 2 good milch cows with young calves. Call on or address,

T. C. MARCUS,
tf. Lomax, Ala.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County. Probate Court, February 13, 1906.

In the Matter of the Estate of H. A. Wilson, Deceased.

Letters of Administration on the estate of H. A. Wilson, Deceased, having been granted to the undersigned on the 8th day of November, 1905, by the Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate of said County, notice is hereby given that all persons having claims against said estate are hereby required to present the same within the time allowed by law, or the same will be barred.

T. C. MARCUS,
Administrator.
feb15-06-3w

WANTED.

Four regular boarders. Good accommodations and reasonable rates. Apply to Mrs. J. J. Grant, near Methodist church, Clanton, Ala. tf

---

PROGRAM

Chilton County Teachers' Institute, to Be Held at Jemison, March 23-24, 1906.

Friday.

10 a. m. Devotional exercises—Rev. Mr. Beal.

10:30. Welcome address—W. R. Jackson.

Response—H. L. Hicks.

11. "Ethics of School Training"—P. G. Maness.

1:30 p. m. "The Teachers' Present Opportunities of Improving Country Life"—W. B. Speer and Mrs. Leila Mullins.

2:30. "How to Teach English Grammar"—W. T. Harwell and Miss Josie Shaw.

3:30. "Supplementary Reading"—Miss Yula Stricklen and Miss Mienchen Fay.

Saturday.

9 a. m. Devotional exercises.

"Teaching Compared With Other Professions"—H. L. Hicks.

10. "The Importance of Regular Reviews and Examinations in Schools"—R. E. R. Hicks and C. J. Elland.

10:45. "School Incentives and How to Use Them"—Misses Em. Smith and Florence T. Ford.

11:15. "How May Play Time Be Used to Best Advantage?"—B. L. Speer and B. J. Sessions.

We earnestly ask that all the teachon the program be present, as well as all the teaching force of the county. We hope to have the help of educational leaders of other counties.

J. W. MOORE,
R. A. RASCO,
J. N. DENNIS,
tf R. E. SESSIONS,

F. E. & C. U. OF A.

The next regular meeting of the Farmers' Union of Alabama will be held at Clanton on 7th, 8th and 9th days of March, 1906. Program for first day:

10:30 a. m. Devotional exercises.

10:45 a. m. Welcome of the town of Clanton—The Mayor.

Response.

11 a. m. Welcome of Chilton county—Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds.

Response.

11:35 a. m. Welcome of Chilton County Union—County President J. H. Thomas.

Response.

1:30 p. m. Public lecture—W. A. Morris and others.

EVERYBODY is invited to attend on the first day of the meeting. COME and see if you don't form a better opinion of our organization than you now have. Respectfully,

J. W. SORRELL,
J. H. THOMAS,
W. A. BARNETT,
J. WILEY FOSHEE,
J. N. DENNIS,
tf Committee.

NOTICE.

Blank Deeds, Mortgages, and all official forms for Justices of the Peace, etc., for sale at The Union Office. Only best approved forms are used. Come in and give us your order. tf.

FOR SALE OR RENT!

Land for sale, or to rent, One, two, three and four horse farms; two miles north of Jemison. Call on or address,

J. C. DUBOSE,
tf. Jemison, Ala.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

Department of the Interior, Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., February 16, 1906.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before Clerk of Circuit Court, at Clanton, Ala., on April 2, 1906, viz.: Loemy J. Perry, Homestead entry, No. 35109, for the Sw 1-4 of the Sw 1-4 of Section 32, Tp. 20 n of R 11 e.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz.:

Anderson B. Jones, Frank D. Young, William E. Friday, Richard D. Ready, all of Plantersville, Ala.

ROBT. BARBER, Register.
feb22-06-6w

THE NEW YORK WORLD

Thrice-a-Week Edition.

Read Wherever the English Language Is Spoken.

The Thrice-a-Week World hopes to be in 1906 a better paper than it has ever been before, and it has made its arrangements accordingly. Its news service covers the entire globe, and it reports everything fully, promptly and accurately. It is the only paper, not a daily, which is as good as a daily, and which will keep you as completely informed of what is happenng throughout the world.

The Thrice-a-Week World is fair in its political reports. You can get the truth from its columns, whether you are Republican or Democrat, and that is what you want.

A special feature of the Thrice-a-Week World has always been its serial fiction. It publishes novels by the best authors in the world, novels which in book form sell for $1 50 each, and its high standard in this respect will be maintained in the future as in the past.

The THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequaled newspaper and THE UNION together for one year for $1.50.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.00. tf

---

FOR SALE—A dark colored stallion, 3-4 Norman, 5 years old and weighs 1100 pounds.

O. H. PRESTHOLT,
tf. Thorsby, Ala.

SPECIAL OFFER! !

The Union, Weekly Montgomery Advertiser, and a great white and black map of Alabama, United States and world, three in one, with a picture of every president from Washington to Roosevelt, all for $1.50.

FOR SALE!

Fine lot of barred Plymouth Rock cockerels and pullets, 75c and $1.00 each Brown Leghorn cockerels, $1.00 each. Brown Leghorn eggs, $1.00 per setting. All full blood. P. C. SMITH,
tf. Thorsby, Ala.

BUSINESS PROPOSITION

The best whiskey in the country is here. If you don't believe it, try me.

J. M. COLLINS,
Palace Saloon, Calera, Ala.
tf.

Watson's Magazine
Increase in Price

Beginning with the February (1906) Number, our Magazine will be called WATSON'S MAGAZINE. It will have a handsomer cover. Several new features will be added. The price at bookstores and newsstands will be 15 cents.

To be just to our present subscribers, we have decided to receive renewals and new subscriptions at $1.00 a year up to March 31st, 1906. After that the subscription price will be $1.50 per year.

This is a golden opportunity for those who are not within easy reach of newsstands. If you have never seen the magazine, ask for sample copy, mentioning this paper and address,

TOM WATSON'S MAGAZINE,
tf. 121 West 42d St., New York City.

---

60 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Collier Drug Co.

The Big Cut Rate Drug Store

2012 First Avenue, :-: BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

——PRICE LIST——

	REGULAR PRICE	OUR PRICE
Tutt's Pills	$ 25	$ 21
Carter's Little Liver Pills	25	21
Slocum's Lazy Liver Pills	25	10
Slocum's X-Ray Plasters	25	10
Allcock's Porous Plasters	25	13
Belladonna Plasters	25	13
Magic Porous Plasters	25	10
Chamberlain's Cough Remedy	25	21
Chamberlain's Colic Remedy	25	21
Austin's Liver Regulator	25	10
Simmons' Liver Regulator	25	21
Thedford's Black Draught	25	21
Wine of Cardui	1 00	83
G. F. P.	1 00	75
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound	1 00	83
Gilbert's Gravel Weed	50	42
Syrup of Figs	50	42
Fletcher's Castoria	35	28
Darby's Fluid	50	38
Sloan's Liniment	25	21
La Creole Hair Restorer	1 00	75
Newbro's Herpicide	1 00	75
Ayer's Hair Vigor	1 00	83
Danderine	25	20
Scott's Emulsion	50	42
Slocum's Ozomulsion	1 00	83
Slocum's Psychine	3 00	2 50
Colgate's Tooth Powder	25	15
Enthymol Tooth Paste	25	20
Lyon's Tooth Powder	25	18
Cuticura Soap	25	18
Packer's Tar Soap	25	15
Mennen's Talcum Powder	25	15
Colgate's Talcum Powder	25	15
Swamp Root	50	42
Swamp Root	1 00	83
Peruna	1 00	83

We carry an immense stock of drugs, Patent Medicines, Toilet Articles, Fine Wines and Liquors and sell everything at a cut price. Send us your orders and when you are in Birmingham call to see us.

COLLIER DRUG COM'Y
2012 FIRST AVENUE
Birmingham, Alabama.

Any one in Clanton or vicinity that wishes to purchase anything in the Drug Line can bring their orders and the money therefor to THE UNION, and it will be brought to them FREE of all charges whatsoever.

Come and Be Pleased.

PRICES AND TERMS upon which we are selling the most beautiful and attractive goods of the season will certainly please and surprise you.

The styles on which fashion has stamped her approval for the coming season are now shown with newest materials.

A Full line of Star Brand Shoes.

Men's and boys' Clothing.

Full line of Gents' Furnishing Goods.

Ladies' and children's Jackets, Skirts and Ready-to-Wear Hats.

Anything you want in Dress Goods, Hardware, Saddlery and Florence Wagons.

J. C. JONES,
Clanton, Alabama.

J. E. Littlejohn

Clanton, Alabama.

General Merchandise, Corn, Hay, etc.

SHOES

The most for the money in town. Come and see us and we will do you good.

CUBANS NOW SHAVE.

BEARDS AND MUSTACHES DISAPPEAR, FOLLOWING AMERICAN CUSTOM.

Young Women Responsible—On Their Visits to the United States They Have Taken a Fancy to Prevailing Style—May be a Permanent Fashion.

A man with a beard or mustache is seldom, if ever, observed now on the streets of this city, following the craze of having one's face smooth-shaven after the American style, writes the Havana (Cuba) correspondent of the New York Globe. This fad among the men, which has suddenly manifested itself, has caused an extra demand for barbers, and scores of them are arriving from the States in order to meet the emergency.

The fashion is not only followed by men in society, but it has reached every class. The Cuban has always been characterized, and even distinguished, by his mustache and beard, and a smooth-faced Cuban was rare indeed. But it is very different now, following the new fad, and clean, smooth-shaven faces are seen on the streets, in the cafes, and at the theatres.

Even old men, who prided themselves on their beard, have given in to the dictates of fashion. The change, which is most noticeable, is more closely observed on the piazzas at night time, when hundreds of young Cubans promenade.

According to a keen observer, no craze has been taken up since the advent of the Americans with such a degree of enthusiasm. It has almost had the effect of changing the general appearance of the landscape. Pretty senoritas are no longer serenaded by youths with drooping mustachios. It's a smooth-shaven face which looks up to them in the soft moonlight.

Just how long the craze will hold out is a matter of conjecture. Judging from what has gone before, it has a splendid chance of becoming a permanent fashion. Everything American which has been adopted here has settled down for good, even the bootblacks, who came as an innovation, and are now seen on every street corner and on the various plazas.

It is said that the young men who first sacrificed their beards and mustachios did so when they realized that the senoritas were showing a decided preference to the young Americans who were smooth-faced. A panic of hearts ensued. A meeting was held in a fashionable cafe. "We will show the girls that we can be just as adaptable as they are. It's cruel, boys, but we'll have to shave them off if we want to keep our sweethearts."

The Cuban girl of to-day is quite a different person from the girl of ten years ago. With their wonderful adaptability and elasticity of temperament they have thrown aside the traditions of centuries, in consequence of which the young American stands just as good a chance as the handsome young Cubans.

In many cases he has beaten out the men who are famed for their love making at their own game. Hundreds of wealthy Cuban girls visit New York every year, and they very soon assimilate the customs of American girls, and naturally have a leaning toward the smooth-shaven man.

When they get back to their native home their old admirers come flocking to them. Of course they are very much surprised when the girl says: "I think you would look so much better if you shaved off your beard."

Then, again, a Cuban maid was never seen alone on the streets. The girls who now go about their businesses unaccompanied at first threw mortification into the hearts of their admirers. They were just a little backward in sanctioning such freedom. Not so with the young, smooth-shaven American, who took time by the forelock and stepped in while the young Cuban made up his mind. Cuban men have the greatest admiration and esteem for American customs.

It is a well known fact that the toms, and are as eager as their feminine relatives and sweethearts to copy the modern institutions of a free country.

They have adopted a lot of Yankee ways, but nothing has been of such speedy adoption as the smoothly shaven face. Among the younger set there was a reason, which has already been explained. Now the fad has extended into the countryside, and the young peasants, who delighted in their mustache as a peacock does in his feathers, ride into the city beardless, and immediately purchase a new American razor. It's an ill wind that doesn't blow a barber a good thing now and then.

FRENCHMAN'S SLIDING BOAT.

Skims Along Surface of the Water at a Good Speed.

The fact that a stone can skim the water if its flat surface strikes squarely has recently been put in practise in the construction of a sliding boat by a French inventor, M. de Lambert. The friction which is present when the de Lambert boat glides over the water is very slight, and the power which is necessary in order to make the boat glide is not high. When the boat is at rest it is supported by floats.

The boat constructed by M. de Lambert has a total length of 20 feet, with a width of 10 feet between the inclined planes upon which it slides. The boat has parallel floats resembling certain Asiatic canoes. The two floats are very narrow and united by cross-pieces, partly of wood and partly used of aluminum, a metal which has been used to a large extent in the construction of the boat because of its slight weight.

The motor used is a 12 horsepower, but the essential parts of the boat are fixed sliding planes, adjusted under the boat at carefully regulated distances from each other. These planes, which are made of wood, are immersed to a depth of several centimeters when the boat is at rest, and they incline at an angle which has been decided upon after wide experimentation. The total weight of the boat is about 1,200 pounds, but in order to move this weight it requires a motor of only 12 horse power, while in the case of automobile boats the motors required are 60, 80 and even 100 horse power.

M. Bellet says that M. de Lambert's boat has been timed by official chronometers, and that the results have been surprising. When the motor is started the boat commences to move with the planes still submerged, cutting the water horizontally. But this lasts only a short time; the planes show an instantaneous tendency to rise, and they are practically on the water at the end of a few meters. Then the speed quickly increases because of the immense diminution in resistance, and soon the boat is sliding on the water, or, more exactly, on a layer, at a speed of fourteen, fifteen of twenty-five miles an hour.—American Inventor.

GREEN TURTLES EXPENSIVE.

Where They Are Caught and How They Are Brought North.

"The flesh of the green turtle often brings $50 a pound," said an oyster dealer. "This rich meat comes to us from the coral reefs of the West Indies.

"The turtles are caught in nets among the rocks. They are very carefully brought north. They are deck passengers at first, but as the weather grows cold with the ship's progress they are penned in warm rooms below—regular staterooms.

"It is a different treatment that they get, though, at the natives' hands. If a native is bringing turtles north he nails them fast to the deck by their flippers. Strange creatures that they are, they appear to suffer little under such cruel treatment.

"The calipae and calipash are respectively the flesh from the breast and the back of the green turtle, tidbits which, I have heard epicures say, are unequalled in the earth beneath, the heavens above, or the waters under the earth. This meat is superlatively rich, delicate and tender.

"Live green turtle fetches, wholesale, from a dime to a quarter a pound. What makes the meat so expensive in the end is that out of a 140 pound fish you'll only get two pounds of calipee and one of calipash.

"Several times when there has been a tight turtle market the chefs of millionaires and of certain extravagant hotels have offered me $1 a pound for live turtle. At that rate your calipee and calipash would come to quite $50 a pound, wouldn't it?"

He led the way to a basement, dark, warm, dry. Here drowsed a number of enormous green turtles, and in several heavy cases lay heaps of what looked like crisp, curly pieces of glue.

"That," said the dealer, "is the finest sun dried turtle meat."

"Do you ever have accidents in handling big turtles?"

"Not often. Last month, though, a 200-ponder bit my foreman's nose off. The fellow has sued me for damages. He claims the turtles ought to be muzzled. He says elevators and dangerous machines have guards and the muzzles would be the guards of the turtles. But that is nonsense."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Losses From Insect Pests.

C. L. Marlatt, of the Department of Agriculture in Washington, has prepared a statement as to the loss by insect pests in the United States each year. He notes that the losses each year in all the plant products of the soil, both in the growing and in the stored state, together with those in live stock, exceed the entire expenditure of the national government, including the pension roll and the maintenance of the army and the navy. Placing the value of these products at $5,000,000,000 per year, he notes an annual shrinkage, due to insect pests, of fully 10 per cent. —in many cases of 50 per cent.; but, at 10 per cent., $500,000,000 is "the minimum yearly tax which insects levy upon the products of the farm." This does not include loss to farm products in storage, $100,000,000; or to natural forest and food products, also $100,000,000; making a total annual loss of $700,000,000 directly traceable to insect pests.—From W. S. Harwood's "Saving California's Fruit Crops" in the Century.

Paris Umbrella Novelty.

Among the Paris novelties is a red umbrella with striped border and handle covered with pigskin. The leather with use takes on a polish and rich dark hue. If bright-colored umbrellas come much into fashion, rainy days will take on a very cheerful aspect.

New York City added 10,435 persons to its population in January.

THE PULPIT.

A SCHOLARLY SUNDAY SERMON BY THE REV. A. H. C. MORSE.

Subject: Evangelization.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—In the Strong Place Baptist Church, Sunday morning, the pastor, the Rev. A. H. C. Morse, preached a foreign mission sermon, the subject being "Evangelization." The text was from Joshua xiii:1: "There remaineth yet very much land to be possessed." Mr. Morse said:

There is an ancient Israel, and there is a modern Israel. The task before the former was the establishment of the kingdom of God in the land of promise. And the task before the latter is the establishment of the kingdom of God in all the world. The work before these ancient people was preparatory and temporal. The work before the church is final. What remains beyond the work appointed to us is yet hidden behind the hills of eternity.

The supreme thing, then, is the evangelization of the world. And I make no apology this morning when I call your attention to this stupendous subject. It will do us good to lift our eyes from our own immediate field, and look at the world which is the field of God; and to leave our own little beaten track, and to swing out into the circle where sweep His mighty plans. Centuries have elapsed since our work was announced, and herculean tasks have been performed. Mountains of prejudice have been leveled; rivers of blood have been forded; fires of persecution have been endured, and whole kingdoms have been taken. "But there remaineth yet much land to be possessed," I want to speak to you then on "The Authority for Foreign Missions, and Their Aims and Inspiration."

In a single word, the authority for Christian missions must be found, not in the truths we hold, but in the Person whom we love. This may be seen in the very etymology of the word, for authority is something added—added to the abstract truth or duty. There is no authority apart from a person. When an attorney is asked his authority, he cites the decisions of a judge; and when a scholar is asked his authority, he does not exploit his opinions, but he names his author. The same principle holds in religion. And the ultimate authority must be a person, and that person must be the highest, and moreover he must be known. It is easy to see, therefore, that authority is ruled from the so-called religion of pantheism, for it posits no personal being. It rules authority also from rationalism, for reason, fallible and dependent, cannot be the highest. And it takes authority from agnosticism, for that declares that God cannot be known. But I shall not pursue this subject into the mazes of philosophy. I simply lay this down as an opening thought that the authority for Christian missions is found in Christ because He is a person, and because He is the highest person, and because He can be known. It is in view of this that He can say, "All authority is given unto Me in heaven and on earth. Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations."

Authority belongs to Christ because He is the eternal word, and is also the only God with whom we have to do. I know there are secondary sources of authority to which we must give obedience, such as to parents and teachers and to the laws of the State. But back of all these and over them all is the personal Christ, and He alone has a right to tell me what are truth and duty. And authority belongs to Him because He has undertaken to dispel the darkness of the world by a special revelation of the love of God. He has joined Himself to humanity to save it. And it is this revelation of God that is added to all the truth we hold that constitutes the authority for missions. Missions are the propaganda of Jesus, and His method of reconciling an apostate humanity. And even if He had not uttered His great commission, still world-wide missions would have their claims, for they are but the answer to the call from the ends of the earth; for humanity sundered from God feels its destitution and misery. The whole world groans in its hunger. You can hear it in the plaintive song of the bird, and the sighing of every breeze. And after all a world-wide mission is only an answer to a world-wide need.

The authority for missions is "God manifest in the flesh." But what flesh? The flesh of the Anglo-Saxon. We are a wonderful people. Let us freely admit that we are the most virile race upon the earth; that our institutions are the best; that we possess the bulk of the world's culture and refinement; that we are the subjects of the best government; and are the most ingenious and inventive and wealthy. But how came we to have this premier position? We are only the great-grandchildren of heathen and barbarous fathers. We owe our superiority to the remaining heathen nations to the fact that the Gospel was first preached to us. Wonderful we are. But we are not the sum total of the race of men. "Who do men say that I the Son of Man am?" The son of what man? Of Abraham? Of the Anglo-Saxon? Of the man of India? Or of Africa? Or the man of the islands of the sea? The manhood of humanity was in the flesh of Jesus, and I fall back upon the humanity of Christ as my authority for a world-wide mission. And that is what makes me confident that the Gospel is the power of God unto salvation to India and China and Africa, to the islands of the sea. Not that we hope to make these peoples but a pale copy of the Anglo-Saxon; but that we shall develop that gift of thought and heart which God has wrought into their texture, and that they shall be patterned, not after us, but after the Son of Man. The authority for missions is found in a universal hunger of the heart.

So much then for the authority for foreign missions. Now I speak of their aim and inspiration. And this is a phase of the subject which is not always clear in the public mind. I have read in a missionary paper, even, that if foreign missions are to accomplish permanent results, we must aim at the total reorganization of the whole social fabric of the countries into which we go. Now that is an evil doctrine. You can find nothing to justify it in the history, nor in the expositions of the church, nor in the example of our Lord and His apostles. They did not aim at reconstructing the social fabric, but at implanting the life of Christ in the human heart. They sought to renew the lives of men, and they knew that these new lives would demand new social combinations. They knew that no human tyranny could exist where Jesus Christ was King.

We must not confuse the immediate aim with the secondary aim, nor with the ultimate result of missions. There is no work in all the world so powerful to accomplish secondary results as the work of foreign missions. Of course, the habits are changed and the civic life reorganized. But that is not the immediate aim. The immediate aim is not social nor civilizing, but religious. And I had rather, as Mr. Speer says, "Plant one seed of the life of Christ under the crust of heathen life than cover that whole crust over with the veneer of our social habits, or the vesture of Western civilization." We are trustees, but not primarily of better social customs, but of a life which will shape its own civilization.

The aim of missions is evangelization, and that is the publishing in all the world of God's glad tidings. The aim is to make Christ known in all the world. I state it thus, for though it does not shift our responsibility, it does lighten our burden. It does not remove the obligation to hasten with the proclamation of Christ, but it does relieve us of the impossible burden of converting the world. We cannot convert a single soul; how shall we convert the world? But we can present the Gospel in such a way to every soul in all the world that the responsibility for what is done with it shall rest no longer upon the church nor upon any person in the church, but upon the man himself. We can so present the message of evangelization that we can fling the responsibility for the world's conversion back upon God Himself, for He alone can renew a human heart.

I do not preach upon missions because I want to challenge your sympathies for the philanthropic results which they achieve. My object is larger than that. I want your aid in making Jesus known. I know these other things will follow. I believe that God is King, and that the hand that shaped the world at first is in all the forces that to-day are shaping life. He holds the reins of politics and commerce and civilization. It was John Newton who said, he read the New Testament to see how God loved the world, but he read the newspapers to see how He governed it. And I am convinced that all our everyday affairs do run into the great goals of God. And these things, our governments and customs and inventions, are but as the chaff before the wind as compared with the supreme purpose that God, who is King, shall reign as King, and rule as Lord of Lords.

We are getting to understand the problem, and these last years are witnessing wonderful movements. The annual accessions to the churches in the foreign fields far outnumber those of the churches at home. And in many instances their offerings to this great work go far before our own. More work is being assigned to the native churches, and greater responsibilities laid on them. Modern missions are young, but we can almost see the day when mission boards will not need to send to foreign fields great sums of money, nor large numbers of preachers. For the native churches are prolific in preachers of their own who can find the hearts of their people much better than we can. And already the day is come when our largest attention is given to the teaching and education of the preachers, and to the general administration of the work. That is the meaning of this call for endowment for the great Christian colleges and seminaries which are growing up in those far off lands.

Paul said he was a "prisoner of Jesus Christ." That is the essence of the missionary life. The Lord's prisoner—not the prisoner of Rome, though he lay in a Roman prison, and was scourged of Caesar. He said he was an "ambassador in bonds." He didn't look like that. His old rusty chain rattled on his wrists, and clanked in his empty cell. But he said I am conducting an embassy in chains. Oh, what limitations the missionaries have endured! Sickness and suffering and infirmity and separation from wife and children. And what are they doing? Conducting an embassy for heaven in chains and in a limitation which God permits. They do not complain, they feel their freedom, and are the happiest men in all the earth. I have seen them, battered and worn, return to the churches at home. But I never applaud them as some do when they speak at national meetings. We who remain at home are not worthy to unloose the latchets of their shoes.

The story of modern missions reads like a romance. One hundred years ago it was a forlorn cause. Then the doors of the nations were locked, and the church itself was either unmissionary or anti-missionary. Now the sky is ablaze with light and there is no self-respecting church in all the land that will tolerate a man in its pulpit who does not publish foreign missions. And all over the world are to be seen the camp fires of those who have gone away with the great evangel.

Can we not read the signs of the times? Great days are crowding upon us, and after years of prayer and patient labor, the Lord is giving us the attention of this great section of the city. Can it be saved? Do we believe in the strong arm of the Gospel? Then pour your life into this great work. The church—this church, exists for no other purpose than to give the Gospel to the world. Be large in your interest in our immediate work. But that is not enough. Be large in your effort in world-wide evangelization.

Christian Experience.

Henry Ward Beecher once said: "Shallow waters are easily muddied. After a night of storm the waters of the bay, along the beach, are foul and black with the mire and dirt. But look beyond, out into the deep water, how blue and clear it is! The white caps on the surface show the violence of the wind, but the water is too deep for the storms that sweep its surface to stir up the earth at the bottom. So is Christian experience. A shallow experience is easily disturbed; the merest trifles becloud and darken the soul whose piety is superficial; while the most furious storm of life fails to darken or disturb the soul which has attained a deep experience of the things of God."

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR MARCH 4.

Subject: Jesus Tells Who Are Blessed. Matt. v., 1-16—Golden Text, Matt. v., 8—Memory Verses, 3-6—Topic: Bible Secret of the Blessed Life.

I. The gathering multitudes (vs. 1, 2). 1. "Seeing the multitudes." The multitudes referred to in verse 25 of the preceding chapter. Attracted by His miracles the people came in great numbers from all over Palestine. "Into a mountain." According to tradition Jesus spoke this sermon on a square shaped hill with two tops, which gives it the modern name of "the Horns of Hattin." Hattin being the village on the ridge at its base. "Was set." The usual position for teaching among the Jews. They stood to read the Scriptures, but sat to teach. "Disciples came unto Him." They occupied a position near to Him and the multitude was farther away.

2. "Opened His mouth." The expression marks the solemnity and importance of the discourse. "Taught them." The moment had come when the principles of the new covenant are to be enunciated.

II. The character and privileges of God's people (vs. 3-12). These verses contain the eight beatitudes. 3. "Blessed." Blessed means more than happy. "Poor in spirit." All the beatitudes are affixed to unlikely conditions, to show that the judgment of Christ and of the world are different. "Theirs is." Now at this present time. "Kingdom of heaven." The kingdom of heaven and the kingdom of God mean the same thing, and have reference to that spiritual kingdom which Christ sets up in the hearts of His children. 4. "They that mourn." That is, those who, conscious of their spiritual poverty, mourn. "Comforted." The Lord comforts by speaking the words of pardon and peace to their hearts.

5. "Meek." Of gentle and long-suffering disposition; of peaceable temper; submissive, compliant, yielding. "Inherit the earth." Under this figure our Lord promises the abundance of spiritual good provided for in the gospel.

6. "Hunger and thirst." A figurative expression. "After righteousness." The state, or quality, of being right with God. "Shall be filled." With righteousness. Everything else fails to satisfy. 7. "The merciful." "The merciful," says Erasmus, "are those who weep over the calamities of others, who feed the hungry and clothe the naked, admonish those in error and pardon the offending." "Obtain mercy." As we deal with others God will deal with us.

8. "Pure in heart." The heart is the seat of the affections, the desires, the motives, the will; with the pure heart these will all be pure. "See God." That is, possess and enjoy God. 9. "Peacemakers." "Those who avoid contention themselves, and labor to restore peace wherever it is broken." "Children of God." God is the Father of peace, and those who promote it are said to be His children. 10. "Persecuted." Those who are pursued by an enemy. "For righteousness' sake." Because of right doing. "Kingdom of heaven." See on verse 3. 11. "Revile." To slander; "to be abusive in speech or act." "Falsely for My sake." It must not only be false, but for His sake; because we are Christians and are bringing forth fruit unto holiness. 12. "Rejoice." To be persecuted for Christ's sake is to be crowned (Rev. 2:10). "Be exceeding glad." Leap for joy. "The prophets." We are to have an inheritance with the prophets.

III. The duties and responsibilities of God's people (vs. 13-16). In these verses we have the "relations of the citizens of the kingdom to the world." 13. "Ye." Christ's true followers, described in the preceding verses. "Salt of the earth." Salt preserves and purifies, and so Christians spread the truths of the gospel by which the world is preserved and purified. "Lost his savour." That is, has become tasteless, and lost its saliness. "Wherewith—salted." The question implies that the salt is entirely worthless. "Good for nothing." It is not only good for nothing itself, but it actually destroys fertility.

14. "Are the light." In John 8:12 Jesus says, "I am the light of the world." The Christian is not like the sun, self-luminous, but borrows his rays, like the moon, from a primal source. Light is not only opposed to darkness, but overcomes it; so the truth and holiness possessed by the disciples of Christ, who is the true light, dispel the world's darkness, by overcoming its ignorance and sin. "Cannot be hid." In the East cities are often built on hills. The illustration vividly sets forth the high calling of the followers of Christ.

15. "A candle." Rather, "lamp," as in Revised Version. "A bushel." Rather, "the bushel" (see R. V.), that is, the common measure found in every Jewish house. Strictly speaking, the modius, translated "bushel," denoted a smaller measure equal to about two gallons. "Candlestick." Rather, "lampstand." The lamps were of earthenware or metal, in the shape of a saucer, turned up on one side to hold the wick. Olive oil was used to burn in them. The idea is that even men would not be so foolish as to light a lamp and then cover it, and certainly God will not be so unwise as to illuminate His people and then keep them in concealment. 16. "Light so shine." Where Christ is in the heart the spirit of Christ will shine out in the life. We are commanded to shine in such a manner that our good deeds will give glory to God. We cover our light by pride, worldliness and ostentation; we let our light shine by living a humble, holy life, and by keeping filled with the love of God (Rom. 5:5).

Begin at Home.

I venture to say the hardest place for those disciples to begin to preach was in their own city, Jerusalem. Then Judea was the next hardest place and Samaria was the next hardest. The hardest place to begin is at home, in your own church, your own family; but that is what God wants us to do.—D. L. Moody.

A Little Thorn.

A little thorn may rend the finest fabric so may a little sin mar the fairest soul.—United Presbyterian.

BIGGEST CORN FARM

Season's Yield is 300,000 Bushels—Small Army of Men Employed.

Webster, Ia.—The largest corn growing farm in the world is Adams' 2,000-acre ranch near Odebolt. His 100 men, who are regular employes, have just finished husking the 300,000 bushels of the cereal. The crop is all cribbed, husked from the shock. The stalks will be shredded for the fat cattle before spring.

Thirty-seven double stalk cultivators were used to bind the corn in the shocks last fall. Mules were employed almost everywhere to do the heavy draft work on the farm, and there are always two hundred of these animals kept there constantly. Mr. and Mrs. Adams and family are at present at their winter home in Chicago, and the farm is in the hands of it's manager.

With the exception of a large number of feeders which are purchased every fall no cattle are raised on the big farm except enough milch cows to keep the help supplied with milk.

Last winter Mr. Adams had 6,000 sheep brought from his North Dakota ranch for feeding, and it is announced that he will do it again this winter as soon as the present yardful of cattle has been marketed.

The affairs at the farm are conducted with as much system as any large business office in this city. There is a main office and headquarters where the manager of the farm has his desk. It is here that Mr. Adams himself spends a large part of his time in summer. The farm is divided into sections and each part is under the direction of a sub-foreman and worked by a force of men.

All the houses of the employes are located in one place near the centre of the farm, making a small town. A school house is also erected here for the children of the workers.

The farm and it's methods are a revelation to the visitor. Adams is an enthusiast for good roads, and through the place he has built have some driveways.

There is another farm in Sac county, Iowa, which contains 600 acres. The land there is not all tilled, as on the Adams ranch, and hence it is not of general interest to the public. It is though, among the record breakers in this state of acerage owned by one man in one contiguous piece.

DON'T MISS THIS.

A Cure For Stomach Trouble—A New Method, by Absorption—No Drugs.

Do You Belch?

It means a diseased Stomach. Are you afflicted with Short Breath, Gas, Sour Eructations, Heart Pains, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Burning Pains and Lead Weight in Pit of Stomach, Acid Stomach, Distended Abdomen, Dizziness, Colic?

Bad Breath or Any Other Stomach Torture?

Let us send you a box of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers free to convince you that it cures.

Nothing else like it known. It's new and very pleasant. Cures by absorption. Harmless. No drugs. Stomach Trouble can't be cured otherwise—so says Modern Science. Drugs won't do—they eat up the Stomach and make you worse.

We know Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers cure and we want you to know it, hence this offer. This offer may not appear again.

336 GOOD FOR 25c. 140

Send this coupon with your name and address and your druggist's name and 10c. in stamps or silver, and we will supply you a sample free if you have never used Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers, and will also send you a certificate good for 25c. toward the purchase of more Belch Wafers. You will find them invaluable for stomach trouble; cures by absorption. Address MULL'S GRAPE TONIC CO., 328 30 Ave., Rock Island, Ill.

Give Full Address and Write Plainly.

All druggists, 50c. per box, or by mail upon receipt of price. Stamps accepted.

Korea has a population of 6,000,000. Seoul, the capital, has 22,000.

A Guaranteed Cure For Piles.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding, Protruding Piles. Druggists are authorized to refund money if PazoOintmentfails to cure in 6 to14 days. 50c.

Numerous arrests of editors in the Russian provinces continue.

Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullen is Nature's great remedy—Cures Coughs, Colds, Croup and Consumption and all throat and lung troubles. At druggists, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

Dakota Railways.

Reports for the year show that railway construction North Dakota stood first in the whole list of states with 525 miles of new track, and Minnesota ranked fifth with 2[illegible] miles.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

There are 10,982 advocates, notaries and procurators in Italy, whose gross incomes, according to the income tax returns, amount to $3,462,[illegible] which gives an average income of about $315. Of these legal men, 6[illegible] profess to have an income of $[illegible] eight of $5,000, sixteen of $4,000, [illegible] enty of $2,000 and 5,[illegible] return their as under $200.

The Almadon quicksilver mines in Spain have been worked for over [illegible] years.

I HAD CATARRH TH

Congressman Meekison Pe-ru-na For His

CONGRESSMAN MEEKISON

Hon. David Meekison, Napoleon, Ohio, writes:

"I have used several bottles of Peruna and hereby free my catarrh of the head. And if I use it a short time longer I will be cured of a disease of thirty years' standing."—Da

ANOTHER SENSATIONAL CURE:

[illegible]unty, Mo., writes: "I have been in bad health for [illegible] ing twelve bottles of your Peruna I am entirely well. If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis. Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

Switzerland males between twenty and sixty-five are obliged to vote.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature on each box. 25c.

There were no silver dollars coined in [illegible]

Suez Canal.

The Suez canal connects the Mediterranean with the Red sea, shortening the route from India to England and America more than 5,000 miles. It was commenced in 1859 and completed in 1869. Length 100 miles; average width, 329 feet; depth, 26 feet. Cost in gold, $65,000,000. Distances: England to Calcutta, via Cape Good Hope, 13,000 miles; via canal, 8,000. New York to Calcutta, via Cape Good Hope, 14,650; via canal, 9,500. The British government purchased the interest of the khedive of Egypt in the canal in 185 for $20,000,000.

Germany has considerably more than one-half of the coal still stored in Europe.

PAINS

AMERICAN WOMEN FIND RELIEF

Case of Miss Irene Crosby Is One of Thousands of Cures made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

How many women realize that it is not the plan of nature that women should suffer so severely.

Miss Irene Crosby

Thousands of American women, however, have found relief from all monthly suffering by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it is the most thorough female regulator known to medical science. It cures the condition which causes so much discomfort and pain at these periods of their terrors.

Miss Irene Crosby, of 313 Charlton Street, East Savannah, Ga., writes:

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was a true friend to woman. It has been of great benefit to me, curing me of irregular and painful periods when everything else had failed, and I gladly recommend it to other suffering women."

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, nervousness (or flatulence), displacement, inflammation or ulceration, "bearing-down" feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, nervous prostration or the blues, should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for further free advice. She is daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years has been advising women free of charge. Thousands have been cured by doing.

CUBANS NOW SHAVE.

BEARDS AND MUSTACHES DISAPPEAR, FOLLOWING AMERICAN CUSTOM.

Young Women Responsible—On Their Visits to the United States They Have Taken a Fancy to Prevailing Style—May be a Permanent Fashion.

A man with a beard or mustache is seldom, if ever, observed now on the streets of this city, following the craze of having one's face smooth-shaven after the American style, writes the Havana (Cuba) correspondent of the New York Globe. This fad among the men, which has suddenly manifested itself, has caused an extra demand for barbers, and scores of them are arriving from the States in order to meet the emergency.

The fashion is not only followed by men in society, but it has reached every class. The Cuban has always been characterized, and even distinguished, by his mustache and beard, and a smooth-faced Cuban was rare indeed. But it is very different now, following the new fad, and clean, smooth-shaven faces are seen on the streets, in the cafes, and at the theatres.

Even old men, who prided themselves on their beard, have given in to the dictates of fashion. The change, which is most noticeable, is more closely observed on the piazzas at night time, when hundreds of young Cubans promenade.

According to a keen observer, no craze has been taken up since the advent of the Americans with such a degree of enthusiasm. It has almost had the effect of changing the general appearance of the landscape. Pretty senoritas are no longer serenaded by youths with drooping mustachios. It's a smooth-shaven face which looks up to them in the soft moonlight.

Just how long the craze will hold out is a matter of conjecture. Judging from what has gone before, it has a splendid chance of becoming a permanent fashion. Everything American which has been adopted here has settled down for good, even the bootblacks, who came as an innovation, and are now seen on every street corner and on the various plazas.

It is said that the young men who first sacrificed their beards and mustaches did so when they realized that the senoritas were showing a decided preference to the young Americans who were smooth-faced. A panic of hearts ensued. A meeting was held in a fashionable cafe. "We will show the girls that we can be just as adaptable as they are. It's cruel, boys, but we'll have to shave them off if we want to keep our sweethearts."

The Cuban girl of to-day is quite a different person from the girl of ten years ago. With their wonderful adaptability and elasticity of temperament they have thrown aside the traditions of centuries, in consequence of which the young American stands just as good a chance as the handsome young Cubans.

In many cases he has beaten out the men who are famed for their love making at their own game. Hundreds of wealthy Cuban girls visit New York every year, and they very soon assimilate the customs of American girls, and naturally have a leaning toward the smooth-shaven man.

When they get back to their native home their old admirers come flocking to them. Of course they are very much surprised when the girl says: "I think you would look so much better if you shaved off your beard."

Then, again, a Cuban maid was never seen alone on the streets. The girls who now go about their businesses unaccompanied at first threw mortification into the hearts of their admirers. They were just a little backward in sanctioning such freedom. Not so with the young, smooth-shaven American, who took time by the forelock and stepped in while the young Cuban made up his mind. Cuban men have the greatest admiration and esteem for American customs.

It is a well known fact that the Cuban ladies, and are as eager as their feminine relatives and sweethearts to copy the modern institutions of a free country.

They have adopted a lot of Yankee ways, but nothing has been of such speedy adoption as the smoothly shaven face. Among the younger set there was a reason, which has already been explained. Now the fad has extended into the countryside, and the young peasants, who delighted in their mustachio as a peacock does in his feathers, ride into the city beardless, and immediately purchase a new American razor. It's an ill wind that doesn't blow a barber a good thing now and then.

FRENCHMAN'S SLIDING BOAT.

Skims Along Surface of the Water at a Good Speed.

The fact that a stone can skim the water if its flat surface strikes squarely has recently been put in practise in the construction of a sliding boat by a French inventor, M. de Lambert. The friction which is present when the de Lambert boat glides over the water is very slight, and the power which is necessary in order to make the boat glide is not high. When the boat is at rest it is supported by floats.

The boat constructed by M. de Lambert has a total length of 20 feet, with a width of 10 feet between the inclined planes upon which it slides. The boat has parallel floats resembling certain Asiatic canoes. The two floats are very narrow and united by cross-pieces, partly of wood and partly used of aluminum, a metal which has been used to a large extent in the construction of the boat because of its slight weight.

The motor used is a 12 horsepower, but the essential parts of the boat are fixed sliding planes, adjusted under the boat at carefully regulated distances from each other. These planes, which are made of wood, are immersed to a depth of several centimeters when the boat is at rest, and they incline at an angle which has been decided upon after wide experimentation. The total weight of the boat is about 1,200 pounds, but in order to move this weight it requires a motor of only 12 horse power, while in the case of automobile boats the motors required are 60, 80 and even 100 horse power.

M. Bellet says that M. de Lambert's boat has been timed by official chronometers, and that the results have been surprising. When the motor is started the boat commences to move with the planes still submerged, cutting the water horizontally. But this lasts only a short time; the planes show an instantaneous tendency to rise, and they are practically on the water at the end of a few meters. Then the speed quickly increases because of the immense diminution in resistance, and soon the boat is sliding on the water, or, more exactly, on a layer, at a speed of fourteen, fifteen of twenty-five miles an hour.—American Inventor.

GREEN TURTLES EXPENSIVE.

Where They Are Caught and How They Are Brought North.

"The flesh of the green turtle often brings $50 a pound," said an oyster dealer. "This rich meat comes to us from the coral reefs of the West Indies.

"The turtles are caught in nets among the rocks. They are very carefully brought north. They are deck passengers at first, but as the weather grows cold with the ship's progress they are penned in warm rooms below—regular staterooms.

"It is a different treatment that they get, though, at the natives' hands. If a native is bringing turtles north he nails them fast to the deck by their flippers. Strange creatures that they are, they appear to suffer little under such cruel treatment.

"The calipae and calipash are respectively the flesh from the breast and the back of the green turtle, tidbits which, I have heard epicures say, are unequalled in the earth beneath, the heavens above, or the waters under the earth. This meat is superlatively rich, delicate and tender.

"Live green turtle fetches, wholesale, from a dime to a quarter a pound. What makes the meat so expensive in the end is that out of a 140 pound fish you'll only get two pounds of calipee and one of calipash.

"Several times when there has been a tight turtle market the chefs of millionaires and of certain extravagant hotels have offered me $1 a pound for live turtle. At that rate your calipee and calipash would come to quite $50 a pound, wouldn't it?"

He led the way to a basement, dark, warm, dry. Here drowsed a number of enormous green turtles, and in several heavy cases lay heaps of what looked like crisp, curly pieces of glue.

"That, said the dealer, "is the finest sun dried turtle meat."

"Do you ever have accidents in handling big turtles?"

"Not often. Last month, though, a 200-ponder bit my foreman's nose off. The fellow has sued me for damages. He claims the turtles ought to be muzzled. He says elevators and dangerous machines have guards and the muzzles would be the guards of the turtles. But that is nonsense."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Losses From Insect Pests.

C. L. Marlatt, of the Department of Agriculture in Washington, has prepared a statement as to the loss by insect pests in the United States each year. He notes that the losses each year in all the plant products of the soil, both in the growing and in the stored state, together with those in live stock, exceed the entire expenditure of the national government, including the pension roll and the maintenance of the army and the navy. Placing the value of these products at $5,000,000,000 per year, he notes an annual shrinkage, due to insect pests, of fully 10 per cent.—in many cases of 50 per cent.; but, at 10 per cent., $500,000,000 is "the minimum yearly tax which insects levy upon the products of the farm." This does not include loss to farm products in storage, $100,000,000; or to natural forest and food products, also $100,000,000; making a total annual loss of $700,000,000 directly traceable to insect pests.—From W. S. Harwood's "Saving California's Fruit Crops" in the Century.

Paris Umbrella Novelty.

Among the Paris novelties is a red umbrella with striped border and handle covered with pigskin. The leather with use takes on a polish and rich dark hue. If bright-colored umbrellas come much into fashion, rainy days will take on a very cheerful aspect.

New York City added 10,425 persons to its population in January.

THE PULPIT.

A SCHOLARLY SUNDAY SERMON BY THE REV. A. H. C. MORSE.

Subject: Evangelization.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—In the Strong Place Baptist Church, Sunday morning, the pastor, the Rev. A. H. C. Morse, preached a foreign mission sermon, the subject being "Evangelization." The text was from Joshua xiii:1: "There remaineth yet very much land to be possessed." Mr. Morse said:

There is an ancient Israel, and there is a modern Israel. The task before the former was the establishment of the kingdom of God in the land of promise. And the task before the latter is the establishment of the kingdom of God in all the world. The work before these ancient people was preparatory and temporal. The work before the church is final. What remains beyond the work appointed to us is yet hidden behind the hills of eternity.

The supreme thing, then, is the evangelization of the world. And I make no apology this morning when I call your attention to this stupendous subject. It will do us good to lift our eyes from our own immediate field, and look at the world which is the field of God; and to leave our own little beaten track, and to swing out into the circle where sweep His mighty plans. Centuries have elapsed since our work was announced, and herculean tasks have been performed. Mountains of prejudice have been leveled; rivers of blood have been forded; fires of persecution have been endured, and whole kingdoms have been taken. "But there remaineth yet much land to be possessed," I want to speak to you then on "The Authority for Foreign Missions, and Their Aims and Inspiration."

In a single word, the authority for Christian missions must be found, not in the truths we hold, but in the Person whom we love. This may be seen in the very etymology of the word, for authority is something added—added to the abstract truth or duty. There is no authority apart from a person. When an attorney is asked his authority, he cites the decisions of a judge; and when a scholar is asked his authority, he does not exploit his opinions, but he names his author. The same principle holds in religion. And the ultimate authority must be a person, and that person must be the highest, and moreover he must be known. It is easy to see, therefore, that authority is ruled from the so-called religion of pantheism, for it posits no personal being. It rules authority also from rationalism, for reason, fallible and dependent, cannot be the highest. And it takes authority from agnosticism, for that declares that God cannot be known. But I shall not pursue this subject into the mazes of philosophy. I simply lay this down as an opening thought that the authority for Christian missions is found in Christ because He is a person, and because He is the highest person, and because He can be known. It is in view of this that He can say, "All authority is given unto Me in heaven and on earth. Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations."

Authority belongs to Christ because He is the eternal word, and is also the only God with whom we have to do. I know there are secondary sources of authority to which we must give obedience, such as to parents and teachers and to the laws of the State. But back of all these and over them all is the personal Christ, and He alone has a right to tell me what are truth and duty. And authority belongs to Him because He has undertaken to dispel the darkness of the world by a special revelation of the love of God. He has joined Himself to humanity to save it. And it is this revelation of God that is added to all the truth we hold that constitutes the authority for missions. Missions are the propaganda of Jesus, and His method of reconciling an apostate humanity. And even if He had not uttered His great commission, still world-wide missions would have their claims, for they are but the answer to the call from the ends of the earth; for humanity sundered from God feels its destitution and misery. The whole world groans in its hunger. You can hear it in the plaintive song of the bird, and the sighing of every breeze. And after all a world-wide mission is only an answer to a world-wide need.

The authority for missions is "God manifest in the flesh." But what flesh? The flesh of the Anglo-Saxon. We are a wonderful people. Let us freely admit that we are the most virile race upon the earth; that our institutions are the best; that we possess the bulk of the world's culture and refinement; that we are the subjects of the best government; and are the most ingenious and inventive and wealthy. But how came we to have this premier position? We are only the great-grandchildren of heathen and barbarous fathers. We owe our superiority to the remaining heathen nations to the fact that the Gospel was first preached to us. Wonderful we are. But we are not the sum total of the race of men. "Who do men say that I the Son of Man am?" The son of what man? Of Abraham? Of the Anglo-Saxon? Of the man of India? Or of Africa? Or the man of the islands of the sea? The manhood of humanity was in the flesh of Jesus, and I fall back upon the humanity of Christ as my authority for a world-wide mission. And that is what makes me confident that the Gospel is the power of God unto salvation to India and China and Africa, to the islands of the sea. Not that we hope to make these peoples but a pale copy of the Anglo-Saxon; but that we shall develop that gift of thought and heart which God has wrought into their texture, and that they shall be patterned, not after us, but after the Son of Man. The authority for missions is found in a universal hunger of the heart.

So much then for the authority for foreign missions. Now I speak of their aim and inspiration. And this is a phase of the subject which is not always clear in the public mind. I have read in a missionary paper, even, that if foreign missions are to accomplish permanent results, we must aim at the total reorganization of the whole social fabric of the countries into which we go. Now that is an evil doctrine. You can find nothing to justify it in the history, nor in the expansion of the church, nor in the example of our Lord and His apostles. They did not aim at reconstructing the social fabric, but at implanting the life of Christ in the human heart. They sought to renew the lives of men, and they knew that these new lives would demand new social combinations. They knew that no human tyranny could exist where Jesus Christ was King.

We must not confuse the immediate aim with the secondary aim, nor with the ultimate result of missions. There is no work in all the world so powerful to accomplish secondary results as the work of foreign missions. Of course, the habits are changed and the civic life reorganized. But that is not the immediate aim. The immediate aim is not social nor civilizing, but religious. And I had rather, as Mr. Speer says, "Plant one seed of the life of Christ under the crust of heathen life than cover that whole crust over with the veneer of our social habits, or the vesture of Western civilization." We are trustees, but not primarily of better social customs, but of a life which will shape its own civilization.

The aim of missions is evangelization, and that is the publishing in all the world of God's glad tidings. The aim is to make Christ known in all the world. I state it thus, for though it does not shift our responsibility, it does lighten our burden. It does not remove the obligation to hasten with the proclamation of Christ, but it does relieve us of the impossible burden of converting the world. We cannot convert a single soul: how shall we convert the world? But we can present the Gospel in such a way to every soul in all the world that the responsibility for what is done with it shall rest no longer upon the church nor upon any person in the church, but upon the man himself. We can so present the message of evangelization that we can fling the responsibility for the world's conversion back upon God Himself, for He alone can renew a human heart.

I do not preach upon missions because I want to challenge your sympathies for the philanthropic results which they achieve. My object is larger than that. I want your aid in making Jesus known. I know these other things will follow. I believe that God is King, and that the hand that shaped the world at first is in all the forces that to-day are shaping life. He holds the reins of politics and commerce and civilization. It was John Newton who said, he read the New Testament to see how God loved the world, but he read the newspapers to see how He governed it. And I am convinced that all our everyday affairs do run into the great goals of God. And these things, our governments and customs and inventions, are but as the chaff before the wind as compared with the supreme purpose that God, who is King, shall reign as King, and rule as Lord of Lords.

We are getting to understand the problem, and these last years are witnessing wonderful movements. The annual accessions to the churches in the foreign fields far outnumber those of the churches at home. And in many instances their offerings to this great work go far before our own. More work is being assigned to the native churches, and greater responsibilities laid on them. Modern missions are young, but we can almost see the day when mission boards will not need to send to foreign fields great sums of money, nor large numbers of preachers. For the native churches are prolific in preachers of their own who can find the hearts of their people much better than we can. And already the day is come when our largest attention is given to the teaching and education of the preachers, and to the general administration of the work. That is the meaning of this call for endowment for the great Christian colleges and seminaries which are growing up in those far off lands.

Paul said he was a "prisoner of Jesus Christ." That is the essence of the missionary life. The Lord's prisoner—not the prisoner of Rome, though he lay in a Roman prison, and was scourged of Caesar. He said he was an "ambassador in bonds." He didn't look like that. His old rusty chain rattled on his wrists, and clanked in his empty cell. But he said I am conducting an embassy in chains. Oh, what limitations the missionaries have endured! Sickness and suffering and infirmity and separation from wife and children. And what are they doing? Conducting an embassy for heaven in chains and in a limitation which God permits. They do not complain, they feel their freedom, and are the happiest men in all the earth. I have seen them, battered and worn, return to the churches at home. But I never applaud them as some do when they speak at national meetings. We who remain at home are not worthy to unloose the latchets of their shoes.

The story of modern missions reads like a romance. One hundred years ago it was a forlorn cause. Then the doors of the nations were locked, and the church itself was either unmissionary or anti-missionary. Now the sky is ablaze with light and there is no self-respecting church in all the land that will tolerate a man in its pulpit who does not publish foreign missions. And all over the world are to be seen the camp fires of those who have gone away with the great evangel.

Can we not read the signs of the times? Great days are crowding upon us, and after years of prayer and patient labor, the Lord is giving us the attention of this great section of the city. Can it be saved? Do we believe in the strong arm of the Gospel? Then pour your life into this great work. The church—this church, exists for no other purpose than to give the Gospel to the world. Be large in your interest in our immediate work. But that is not enough. Be large in your effort in world-wide evangelization.

Christian Experience.

Henry Ward Beecher once said: "Shallow waters are easily muddied. After a night of storm the waters of the bay, along the beach, are foul and black with the mire and dirt. But look beyond, out into the deep water, how blue and clear it is! The white caps on the surface show the violence of the wind, but the water is too deep for the storms that sweep its surface to stir up the earth at the bottom. So is Christian experience. A shallow experience is easily disturbed; the merest trifles becloud and darken the soul whose piety is superficial; while the most furious storm of life fails to darken or disturb the soul which has attained a deep experience of the things of God."

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR MARCH 4.

Subject: Jesus Tells Who Are Blessed. Matt. v., 1-16—Golden Text, Matt. v., 8—Memory Verses, 3-6—Topic: Bible Secret of the Blessed Life.

I. The gathering multitudes (vs. 1, 2). 1. "Seeing the multitudes." The multitudes referred to in verse 25 of the preceding chapter. Attracted by His miracles the people came in great numbers from all over Palestine. "Into a mountain." According to tradition Jesus spoke this sermon on a square shaped hill with two tops, which gives it the modern name of "the Horns of Hattin," Hattin being the village on the ridge at its base. "Was set." The usual position for teaching among the Jews. They stood to read the Scriptures, but sat to teach. "Disciples came unto Him." They occupied a position near to Him and the multitude was farther away.

2. "Opened His mouth." The expression marks the solemnity and importance of the discourse. "Taught them." The moment had come when the principles of the new covenant are to be enunciated.

II. The character and privileges of God's people (vs. 3-12). These verses contain the eight beatitudes. 3. "Blessed." Blessed means more than happy. "Poor in spirit." All the beatitudes are affixed to unlikely conditions, to show that the judgment of Christ and of the world are different. "Theirs is." Now at this present time. "Kingdom of heaven." The kingdom of heaven and the kingdom of God mean the same thing, and have reference to that spiritual kingdom which Christ sets up in the hearts of His children. 4. "They that mourn." That is, those who, conscious of their spiritual poverty, mourn. "Comforted." The Lord comforts by speaking the words of pardon and peace to their hearts.

5. "Meek." Of gentle and long-suffering disposition; of peaceable temper; submissive, compliant, yielding. "Inherit the earth." Under this figure our Lord promises the abundance of spiritual good provided for in the gospel.

6. "Hunger and thirst." A figurative expression. "After righteousness." The state, or quality, of being right with God. "Shall be filled." With righteousness. Everything else fails to satisfy. 7. "The merciful." "The merciful," says Erasmus, "are those who weep over the calamities of others, who feed the hungry and clothe the naked, admonish those in error and pardon the offending." "Obtain mercy." As we deal with others God will deal with us.

8. "Pure in heart." The heart is the seat of the affections, the desires, the motives, the will; with the pure heart these will all be pure. "See God." That is, possess and enjoy God. 9. "Peacemakers." "Those who avoid contention themselves, and labor to restore peace wherever it is broken." "Children of God." God is the Father of peace, and those who promote it are said to be His children. 10. "Persecuted." Those who are pursued by an enemy. "For righteousness' sake." Because of right doing. "Kingdom of heaven." See on verse 3. 11. "Revile." To slander; "to be abusive in speech or act." "Falsely for My sake." It must not only be false, but for His sake; because we are Christians and are bringing forth fruit unto holiness. 12. "Rejoice." To be persecuted for Christ's sake is to be crowned (Rev. 2:10). "Be exceeding glad." Leap for joy. "The prophets." We are to have an inheritance with the prophets.

III. The duties and responsibilities of God's people (vs. 13-16). In these verses we have the "relations of the citizens of the kingdom to the world." 13. "Ye." Christ's true followers, described in the preceding verses. "Salt of the earth." Salt preserves and purifies, and so Christians spread the truths of the gospel by which the world is preserved and purified. "Lost his savour." That is, has become tasteless, and lost its saltiness. "Wherewith—salted." The question implies that the salt is entirely worthless. "Good for nothing." It is not only good for nothing itself, but it actually destroys fertility.

14. "Are the light." In John 8:12 Jesus says, "I am the light of the world." The Christian is not like the sun, self-luminous, but borrows his rays, like the moon, from a primal source. Light is not only opposed to darkness, but overcomes it; so the truth and holiness possessed by the disciples of Christ, who is the true light, dispel the world's darkness, by overcoming its ignorance and sin. "Cannot be hid." In the East cities are often built on hills. The illustration vividly sets forth the high calling of the followers of Christ.

15. "A candle." Rather, "lamp," as in Revised Version. "A bushel." Rather, "the bushel" (see R. V.), that is, the common measure found in every Jewish house. Strictly speaking, the modius, translated "bushel," denoted a smaller measure equal to about two gallons. "Candlestick." Rather, "lampstand." The lamps were of earthenware or metal, in the shape of a saucer, turned up on one side to hold the wick. Olive oil was used to burn in them. The idea is that even men would not be so foolish as to light a lamp and then cover it, and certainly God will not be so unwise as to illuminate His people and then keep them in concealment. 16. "Light so shine." Where Christ is in the heart the spirit of Christ will shine out in the life. We are commanded to shine in such a manner that our good deeds will give glory to God. We cover our light by pride, worldliness and ostentation; we let our light shine by living a humble, holy life, and by keeping filled with the love of God (Rom. 5:5).

Begin at Home.

I venture to say the hardest place for those disciples to begin to preach was in their own city, Jerusalem. Then Judea was the next hardest place and Samaria was the next hardest. The hardest place to begin is at home, in your own church, your own family; but that is what God wants us to do.—D. L. Moody.

A Little Thorn.

A little thorn may rend the finest fabric; so may a little sin mar the fairest soul.—United Presbyterian.

BIGGEST CORN FARM

Season's Yield is 300,000 Bushels—Small Army of Men Employed.

Webster, Ia.—The largest corn growing farm in the world is Adams' [illegible] acre ranch near Odebolt. His 105 [illegible] who are regular employes, have just finished husking the 300,000 bushels of the cereal. The crop is all cut and husked from the shock. The stalks will be shredded for the fat cattle for spring.

Thirty-seven double stalk cutters were used to bind the corn in the field last fall. Mules were employed almost everywhere to do the heavy draft work on the farm, and there are about two hundred of these animals kept there constantly. Mr. and Mrs. Adams and family are at present at their winter home in Chicago, and the farm is in the hands of it's manager.

With the exception of a large number of feeders which are purchased every fall no cattle are raised on the big farm except enough milch cows to keep the help supplied with milk.

Last winter Mr. Adams had [illegible] sheep brought from his North Dakota ranch for feeding, and it is announced that he will do it again this winter as soon as the present yardful of cattle has been marketed.

The affairs at the farm are conducted with as much system as any large business office in this city. There is a main office and headquarters where the manager of the farm has his desk. It is here that Mr. Adams himself spends a large part of his time in summer. The farm is divided into sections and each part is under the direction of a sub-foreman and worked by a force of men.

All the houses of the employes are located in one place near the centre of the farm, making a small town. A school house is also erected here for the children of the workers.

The farm and it's methods are a revelation to the visitor. Adams is an enthusiast for good roads, and through the place he has built have some driveways.

There is another farm in Sac county, Iowa, which contains 600 acres. The land there is not all tilled, as on the Adams ranch, and hence it is not of general interest to the public. It is though, among the record breakers this state of acreage owned by a man in one contiguous piece.

DON'T MISS THIS.

A Cure For Stomach Trouble—A New Method, by Absorption—No Drugs.

Do You Belch?

It means a diseased Stomach. Are you afflicted with Short Breath, Gas, Sour Eructations, Heart Pains, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Burning Pains and Lead Weight in Pit of Stomach, Acid Stomach, Distended Abdomen, Dizziness, Colic?

Bad Breath or Any Other Stomach Torture?

Let us send you a box of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers free to convince you that they cures.

Nothing else like it known. It's safe and very pleasant. Cures by absorption. Harmless. No drugs. Stomach Troubles can't be cured otherwise—so says Medical Science. Drugs won't do—they eat up the Stomach and make you worse.

We know Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers cure and we want you to know it, hence this offer. This offer may not appear again.

336 GOOD FOR 25c. 10

Send this coupon with your name and address and your druggist's name and 10c. in stamps or silver, and we will supply you a sample free if you have never used Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers, and will also send you a certificate good for 25c. toward the purchase of more Belch Wafers. You will find them invaluable for stomach trouble; cures by absorption. Address MULL'S GRAPE TONIC CO., 328 [illegible] Ave., Rock Island, Ill.

Give Full Address and Write Plainly.

All druggists, 50c. per box, or by mail upon receipt of price. Stamps accepted.

Korea has a population of 6,000,000. Seoul, the capital, has 22,000.

A Guaranteed Cure For Piles.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding, Protruding Piles. Druggists are authorized to refund money if PazoOintment fails to cure in 6 to 14 days.

Numerous arrests of editors in the Russian provinces continue.

Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullen is Nature's great remedy—Cures Coughs, Colds, Croup and Consumption and all throat and lung troubles. At druggists, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

Dakota Railways.

Reports for the year show that railway construction North Dakota stood first in the whole list of states with 525 miles of new track, and Minnesota ranked fifth with 2[illegible] miles.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

There are 10,982 advocates, solicitors and procurators in Italy, whose gross incomes, according to the income tax returns, amount to $3,462,000, which gives an average income of about $315. Of these legal men, [illegible] profess to have an income of $6,000, eight of $5,000, sixteen of $4,000, seventy of $2,000 and 5,500 return them as under $200.

The Almaden quicksilver mines in Spain have been worked for over [illegible] years.

HAD CATARRH TH[illegible]

ngressman Meekison [illegible]

Pe-ru-na For His[illegible]

CONGRESSMAN MEEKISON

Hon. David Meekison, Napoleon, Ohio, writes:

"I have used several bottles of Peruna and hereby [illegible] my catarrh of the head. I feel that if I use it a short time longer I will be entirely cured. Because of thirty years' standing."—Dec.

ANOTHER SENSATIONAL CURE

[illegible]nty, Mo., writes: "I have been in bad health for [illegible]ing twelve bottles of your Peruna I am entirely cured. If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis. Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

Switzerland males between twenty and sixty-five are obliged to vote.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature on each box. 25c.

[illegible]ere were no silver dollars coined in 1[illegible]

Suez Canal.

The Suez canal connects the Mediterranean with the Red sea, shortening the route from India to England and America more than 5,000 miles. It was commenced in 1859 and completed in 1869. Length 100 miles; average width, 329 feet; depth, 26 feet. Cost of construction, $65,000,000. Distances: English channel to Calcutta, via Cape Good Hope, 13,000 miles; via canal, 8,000. New York to Calcutta, via Cape Good Hope, 14,650; via canal, 9,500. The British government purchased the interest of the khedive of Egypt in the canal in 1875 for $20,000,000.

Germany has considerably more than one-half of the coal still stored in Europe.

PAINS

ERICAN WOMEN FIND RELIEF

Case of Miss Irene Crosby Is One Thousands of Cures made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

ow many women realize that it is not the plan of nature that women should suffer so severely.

Miss Irene Crosby

[illegible]ousands of American women, however, have found relief from all monthly suffering by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it is the most thorough female regulator known to medical science. It cures the condition which causes so much discomfort and pain at these periods of their terrors.

Miss Irene Crosby, of 313 Charlton St., East Savannah, Ga., writes:

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a true friend to woman. It has been of great benefit to me, curing me of irregular and painful periods when everything else had failed, and I gladly recommend it to other suffering women."

[illegible]men who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, [illegible]ing (or flatulence), displacement of [illegible]rans, inflammation or ulceration, "bearing-down" feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, nervous prostration or the blues, should take Lydia E. Pinkham's action to ward off the serious consequences, and be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and then write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for further free advice. She is daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and has for twenty-five years been advising women free of charge. Thousands have been cured by doing.

BIGGEST CORN FARM

...n's Yield is 300,000 Bu...
...mall Army of Men Employed...
...bster, Ia.—The largest corn ...
...rm in the world is Adams' ...
...anch near Odebolt. His 10...
...are regular employes, have ...
...ed husking the 300,000 bu...
...ereal. The crop is all cut ...
...d from the shock. The s...
...e shredded for the fat cattle ...
...spring.

...rty-seven double stalk cut...
...used to bind the corn in the ...
...ill. Mules were employed al...
...where to do the heavy dra...
...on the farm, and there are o...
...undred of these animals ...
...constantly. Mr. and Mrs. Ad...
...mily are at present at their ...
...me in Chicago, and the farm ...
... hands of it's manager.

...h the exception of a large n...
...f feeders which are purcha...
...fall no cattle are raised on ...
...rm except enough milch cows ...
...the help supplied with milk. ...
... winter Mr. Adams had ...
... brought from his North Dak...
... for feeding, and it is announc...
...e will do it again this winter ...
...s the present yardful of cat...
...een marketed.

... affairs at the farm are conduc...
...h as much system as any la...
...ss office in this city. There is ...
... office and headquarters wh...
...anager of the farm has his de...
... here that Mr. Adams hi...
...s a large part of his time in ...
...The farm is divided into sectio...
...ach part is under the directi...
...ub-foreman and worked by ...
... of men.

...the houses of the employes ...
...d in one place near the centre ...
...rm, making a small town. ...
... house is also erected here ...
...ildren of the workers.

... farm and it's methods are a re...
... to the visitor. Adams is ...
...liast for good roads, and ...
...h the place he has built ha...
...driveways.

...re is another farm in Sac coun...
... which contains 600 acres. T...
...here is not all tilled, as on t...
... ranch, and hence it is not of ...
... interest to the public. It ...
..., among the record breakers ...
...nts of acreage owned by c...
...n one contiguous piece.

DON'T MISS THIS.

For Stomach Trouble—A Re...
ho I, by Absorption—No Drugs.

...ou Belch?
...ana a diseased Stomach. Are y...
... with Short Breath, Gas, Sc...
...ions, Heart Pains, Indigestion, D...
... Burning Pains and Lead Wei...
... of Stomach, Acid Stomach, D...
... Abdomen, Dizziness, Colic?
... Breath or Any Other Stomach T...

...s send you a box of Mull's Ant...
... Wafers free to convince you that ...

...ing else like it known. It's ...
...ry pleasant. Cures by absorptio...
...ss. No drugs. Stomach Troub...
...e cured otherwise—so says Medic...
... Drugs won't do—they eat up t...
...h and make you worse.
...now Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers cu...
... want you to know it, hence th...
...This offer may not appear again.

GOOD FOR 25c.

...d this coupon with your name ...
...ddress and your druggist's name ...
...0c. in stamps or silver, and we ...
...supply you a sample free if you ...
... never used Mull's Anti-Belch...
...rs, and will also send you a cer...
...e good for 25c. toward the pur...
... of more Belch Wafers. You will ...
...them invaluable for stomach trou...
...cures by absorption. Address ...
...'s GRAPE TONIC CO., 329 M...
... Ave., Rock Island, Ill.

Full Address and Write Plainly.

...ruggists, 50c. per box, or by m...
...ceipt of price. Stamps accepted.

... has a population of 6,000,0...
...the capital, has 22,000.

Guaranteed Cure For Piles.

...Blind, Bleeding, Protruding Pile...
...s are authorized to refund money ...
...tment fails to cure in 6 to 14 days. ...

...rous arrests of editors in the R...
...vinces continue.

...'s Cherokee Remedy of Sweet G...
...len is Nature's great remedy—Co...
... Colds, Croup and Consumpt...
...throat and lung troubles. At ...
...c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

Dakota Railways.

...rts for the year show that ...
... construction North Dako...
...rst in the whole list of state...
...5 miles of new track, ...
...nnesota ranked fifth with ...

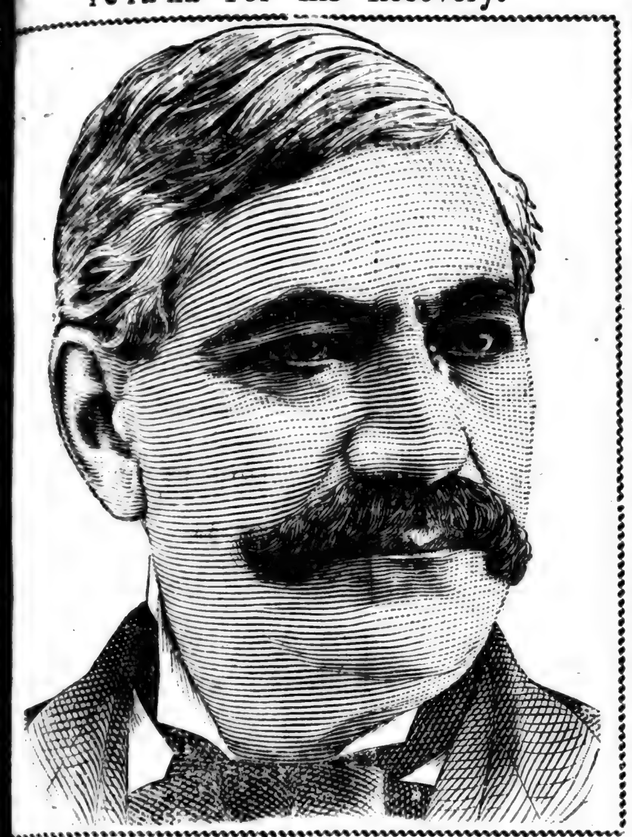
...s more Catarrh in this section of t...
...than all other diseases put togethe...
...d the last few years was supposed ...
...able. For a great many years doctor...
...ced it a local disease and prescrib...
...edies, and by constantly failing ...
...h local treatment, pronounced it ...
... Science has proven Catarrh to be ...
...tional disease and therefore requir...
...tional treatment. Hall's Catarr...
...nufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co...
...Ohio, is the only constitutional cu...
...arket. It is taken internally in do...
...rops to a teaspoonful. It acts direc...
... blood and mucous surfaces of th...
... They offer one hundred dollars f...
... it fails to cure. Send for circu...
...monials. Address F. J. Cheney ...
...edo, O.
...r Druggists, 75c.
...Hall's Family Pills for constipati...

...are 10,982 advocates, soli...
... procurators in Italy, who ...
...comes, according to the ...
...x returns, amount to $3,462,6...
...gives an average income ...
...215. Of these legal men, 6...
... to have an income of $6,0...
... $5,000, sixteen of $4,000, ...
... $2,000 and 5,500 return the...
...r $200.

Almaden quicksilver mines ...
...ave been worked for over ...

HAD CATARRH THIRTY YEARS.

Congressman Meekison Gives Praise to Pe-ru-na For His Recovery.



CONGRESSMAN MEEKISON PRAISES PE-RU-NA.

Hon. David Meekison, Napoleon, Ohio, ex-member of Congress, Fifty-fifth Dis... writes:

"I have used several bottles of Peruna and I feel greatly benefited thereby from my catarrh of the head. I feel encouraged to believe that if I use it a short time longer I will be fully able to eradicate the disease of thirty years' standing."—David Meekison.

ANOTHER SENSATIONAL CURE: Mr. Jacob L. Davis, Galena, Stone ...ty, Mo., writes: "I have been in bad health for thirty-seven years, and after ...ing twelve bottles of your Peruna I am cured."—Jacob L. Davis.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, ...te at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be ...ased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

...n Switzerland males between twenty ...nty-five are obliged to vote.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

...e Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. ...gists refund money if it fails to cure. E. ...Grove's signature on each box. 25c.

...ere were no silver dollars coined in ...6.

Suez Canal.

The Suez canal connects the Medi...ranean with the Red sea, shortening ...ade from India to England and ...erica more than 5,000 miles. It ...s commenced in 1859 and completed ...869. Length 100 miles; average ...idth, 329 feet; depth, 26 feet. Cost ...gold, $65,000,000. Distances: Eng...h channel to Calcutta, via Cape Good ...pe, 13,000 miles; via canal, 8,000. ...w York to Calcutta, via Cape Good ...pe, 14,650; via canal, 9,500. The ...glish government purchased the in...est of the khedive of Egypt in the ...al in 1875 for $20,000,000.

...ermany has considerably more ...n one-half of the coal still stored ...Europe.

PAINS

...ERICAN WOMEN FIND RELIEF

...e Case of Miss Irene Crosby Is One ...Thousands of Cures made by Lydia ...Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

...How many women realize that ...s not the plan of nature that women ...uld suffer so severely.

...thousands of American women, how...r, have found relief from all monthly ...ering by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's ...getable Compound, as it is the most ...rough female regulator known to ...dical science. It cures the condition ...ich causes so much discomfort and ...e these periods of their terrors.

...iss Irene Crosby, of 313 Charlton ...et, East Savannah, Ga., writes:

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound ...s true friend to woman. It has been of ...t benefit to me, curing me of irregular ...d painful periods when everything else had ...iled, and I gladly recommend it to other ...ffering women."

...oman who are troubled with pain... or irregular periods, backache, ...ading (or fin...ience), displacement ...organs, inflammation or ulceration, ...s "bearing down" feeling, dizzi..., fa... ...ess, indigestion, nervous ...stration or the blues, should take ...pinkham's Vegetable Compound to ward off the seri... ...consequences, and be restored to ...perfect health and strength by taking ...dia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Com..., and then write to Mrs. Pink..., Lynn, Mass., for further free ad... She is daughter-in-law of Lydia ...E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years ...has been surveying women free of ...rge. Thousands have been cured ...re doing.

Hetty Green's Activity.

The possession of something like $30,000,000 or $40,000,000, and the reputation of being the richest woman in America, do not seem to weigh very heavily on Mrs. Hetty Green, if one may judge by the reports of her continued activities in these days. She is still as fond of money and as anxious to add to her millions as she fifteen or twenty years ago. Mrs. Green's father was a New Bedford (Mass.) man, Edward Mott Robinson, who became rich in the whaling business, leaving her $9,000,000; she got other millions from her aunt, Miss Sylvia Howland, to get which involved some litigation and charges of forgery against her. She was quite a belle in her youth, and yet never seemed susceptible to any sentiment except money getting; so that she was married to E. H. Green, who had made a fortune in the China trade on a business basis. She owns railroads, mines and other things too numerous to mention, and she has a son, Edward Howland Robinson Green, who is a capable and enterprising railroad manager in Texas. Mrs. Green has a reputation for a hard and grasping nature, and for living as poorly and dressing as shabbily as if she had not a penny in the world. How much injustice is done her by these tales of her miserly ways and narrow and wretched life it is not for us to say. But if they are only measurably true there is not a woman in the world more unenviable than Mrs. Hetty Green.

The present population of Paris is 2,700,000.

FOOD AND STUDY

A College Man's Experience.

"All through my high school course and first year in college," writes an ambitious young man, "I struggled with my studies on a diet of greasy, pasty foods, being especially fond of cakes and fried things. My system got into a state of general disorder and it was difficult for me to apply myself to school work with any degree of satisfaction. I tried different medicines and food preparations but did not seem able to correct the difficulty.

"Then my attention was called to Grape-Nuts food and I sampled it. I had to try something, so I just buckled down to a rigid observance of the directions on the package, and in less than no time began to feel better. In a few weeks my strength was restored, my weight had increased, I had a clearer head and felt better in every particular. My work was simply sport to what it was formerly.

"My sister's health was badly run down and she had become so nervous that she could not attend to her music. She went on Grape-Nuts and had the same remarkable experience that I had. Then my brother, Frank, who is in the Postoffice Department at Washington city and had been trying to do brain work on greasy foods, cakes and all that, joined the Grape-Nuts army. I showed him what it was and could do and from a broken-down condition he has developed into a hearty and efficient man.

"Besides these I could give account of numbers of my fellow-students who have made visible improvement mentally and physically by the use of this food." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

UP TO DATE RECRUITING.

Phonograph and Stereopticon Used to Get Labor for Queensland Plantations.

Thousands of natives of Polynesia are needed to work on the sugar and other plantations of Queensland. These plantations are in the low coast regions; and as the climate is tropical white labor is not successful.

For many years sailing vessels have been visiting the islands to recruit Kanakas for the Queensland plantations. The trade gave rise to abuses which have been suppressed by law, but the natives are not so eager to emigrate as formerly and it is hard work to fill the vessels.

A sea captain in the Kanaka trade has introduced a new method of making emigration attractive. Before he sailed from Queensland a year ago he visited a number of the plantations where South Sea Islanders are employed.

He had a camera and a phonograph. Going from one plantation to another he photographed groups of natives and also took individual pictures of well-known fellows from the New Hebrides, Solomon and other groups.

Then he brought the phonograph into service. The best known natives who had a large acquaintance in the islands were induced to talk into the instrument and tell their friends the kind of life they led in Australia and how they were getting along on the plantations.

These phonographed letters were obtained from Kanakas who formerly lived in about a dozen of the islands which the recruiting vessels are in the habit of visiting. Then the ingenious shipmaster had his photographs turned into lantern slides and off he sailed for the islands well equipped to astonish the natives.

According to a Queensland newspaper the scheme has been a great success. The captain had an ample supply of lantern slides showing emigrants from each of the islands he visited.

Everybody was on hand to see the show and the natives were beside themselves with delight when they saw the well-known visages of their friends and acquaintances thrown upon the screen. But the greatest wonder was when each picture actually talked to the crowd in the very tones and accents which many of the auditors connected with the man upon whose face they were gazing.

The man sent them greetings from his plantation home 1,000 miles away. He told them he was doing well, that he liked the life and that Queensland was a good place to come to. He talked about the country, the money he earned and the good treatment he received.

Pictures were shown of the huts occupied by the emigrants, the fields they worked in and groups of laborers whose sleek appearance and smiling faces seemed to show that they were enjoying life.

The result is that the stereopticon and phonograph have proved to be valuable recruiting agents. Even the natives who have had the worst misgivings about emigration become enthusiastic converts to the idea when they see their friends actually before them and hear their well-known voices.

The captain had no difficulty in making up a load and other captains engaged in the Kanaka trade say they are going to employ the same expedient.

Pelican Island.

In that long, narrow lagoon on the east coast of Florida known as Indian River, there is a muddy islet three or four acres in extent. Originally it doubtless did not differ from hundreds of similar neighboring islets; but, for some reason past finding out, this islet, and this alone, forms the nesting resort, the home, of all the pelicans of the Indian River, if not, indeed, of the east coast of Florida. The brown pelican, unlike its white cousin, nests normally in low trees and bushes; and there is evidence that when the original pelican colonists landed on the islet which now bears their name, it was well grown with black and red mangroves in which the birds placed their scaffolding of sticks. Exceptionally low temperature and high water—perhaps also excessive use by the birds, which sometimes build as many as seven nests in a single mangrove—have killed tree after tree, until at present only three serviceable trees remain. Still the birds come back, the impelling motive which prompts them to return to this particular spot being evidently stronger than that which induced them to nest in trees.—Century.

Ate the Heart of Louis XIV.

There is no need to be skeptical regarding Mr. Labouchere's story that the late Dean Buckland swallowed the mummified remains of the heart of Louis XIV, and that it now rests in the dean's body in Islip churchyard, when one recalls the many weird dishes that the famous divine consumed in his life time. At his dinner parties, which were attended by leaders of science and literature, the menus were often of a most eccentric character. On one occasion pickled horse tongue was greatly relished by the guests until they were told what they had eaten. Alligator was served up as a rare delicacy, and puppies occasionally, and mice frequently. At other times hedgehogs, tortoises, potted ostrich and sometimes rats, frogs and snails were prepared for the delectation of favored guests. What more likely than that the dean should have a fancy for a royal heart?—London Chronicle

HIGH CLASS DRUGGISTS AND — OTHERS.

The better class of druggists, everywhere, are men of scientific attainments and high integrity, who devote their lives to the welfare of their fellow men in supplying the best of remedies and purest medicinal agents of known value, in accordance with physicians' prescriptions and scientific formula. Druggists of the better class manufacture many excellent remedies, but always under original or officinal names and they never sell false brands, or imitation medicines. They are the men to deal with when in need of anything in their line, which usually includes all standard remedies and corresponding adjuncts of a first-class pharmacy and the finest and best of toilet articles and preparations and many useful accessories and remedial appliances. The earning of a fair living, with the satisfaction which arises from a knowledge of the benefits conferred upon their patrons and assistance to the medical profession, is usually their greatest reward for long years of study and many hours of daily toil. They all know that Syrup of Figs is an excellent laxative remedy and that it gives universal satisfaction, and therefore they are selling many millions of bottles annually to the well informed purchasers of the choicest remedies, and they always take pleasure in handing out the genuine article bearing the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package. They know that in cases of colds and headaches attended by biliousness and constipation and of weakness or torpidity of the liver and bowels, arising from irregular habits, indigestion, or over-eating, that there is no other remedy so pleasant, prompt and beneficial in its effects as Syrup of Figs, and they are glad to sell it because it gives universal satisfaction.

Owing to the excellence of Syrup of Figs, the universal satisfaction which it gives and the immense demand for it, imitations have been made, tried and condemned, but there are individual druggists to be found, here and there, who do not maintain the dignity and principles of the profession and whose greed gets the better of their judgment, and who do not hesitate to recommend and try to sell the imitations in order to make a larger profit. Such preparations sometimes have the name—"Syrup of Figs"—or "Fig Syrup" and of some piratical concern, or fictitious fig syrup company, printed on the package, but they never have the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of the package. The imitations should be rejected because they are injurious to the system. In order to sell the imitations they find it necessary to resort to misrepresentation or deception, and whenever a dealer passes off on a customer a preparation under the name of "Syrup of Figs" or "Fig Syrup," which does not bear the full name of the California Fig Syrup Co. printed on the front of the package, he is attempting to deceive and mislead the patron who has been so unfortunate as to enter his establishment, whether it be large or small, for if the dealer resorts to misrepresentation and and deception in one case he will do so with other medicinal agents, and in the filling of physicians' prescriptions, and should be avoided by every one who values health and happiness. Knowing that the great majority of druggists are reliable, we supply the immense demand for our excellent remedy entirely through the druggists, of whom it may be purchased everywhere, in original packages only, at the regular price of fifty cents per bottle, but as exceptions exist it is necessary to inform the public of the facts, in order that all may decline or return any imitation which may be sold to them. If it does not bear the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package, do not hesitate to return the article and to demand the return of your money, and in future go to one of the better class of druggists who will sell you what you wish and the best of everything in his line at reasonable prices.

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES

Color more goods brighter and faster colors than any other dye. One 10c package colors all fibers. They dye in cold water better than any other dye. You can dye any garment without ripping apart. Write for free booklet—How to Dye, Bleach and Mix Colors. MONROE DRUG CO., Unionville, Missouri

Am. 9, 1906.

Positions GUARANTEED BY A $5,000 BANK DEPOSIT
500 FREE COURSES
Notes taken. Limited education no hindrance. Board at Cost. Write today.
GA.-ALA. BUSINESS COLLEGE, Macon, Ga

CABBAGE Plants! CELERY Plants!

and all kinds of garden plants. Can now furnish all kinds of cabbage plants, grown in the open air, and stand great cold. Grown from seeds of the most reliable seedsmen. We use the same plants on our thousand acre truck farm. Plants carefully counted and properly packed. Celery ready last of Dec. Lettuce, onion and Beet plants, same time or earlier. Reduced express rates promised, which, when effective, will give us 60 per cent. less than merchandise rates. Prices: Small lots $1.50 per thousand, large lots $1.00 to $1.25 per thousand. F. O. B. Meggetts, S. C. Arlington White Spine Cucumber Seed 60 cents per pound, F. O. B., Meggetts, S. C. The United States Agricultural Department has established an Experimental Station on our farms to test all kinds of vegetables, especially Cabbages. The results of these experiments we will be pleased to give you at any time.—Yours respectfully,—N. H. BLITCH COMPANY, MEGGETTS, S. C.

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

For Your Family and Your Horse

The Best Antiseptic Known.

TRY IT FOR

Rheumatism, Strains, Sprains, Swellings and Enlargements.

Price, 25c., 50c. and $1.00.

Dr. EARL S. SLOAN,
615 Albany St., Boston, Mass.

America makes more barrels than any other country.

FITS permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free Dr. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

11,126,750 men are liable for military duty in the United States.

H. H. GREEN'S SONS, of Atlanta, Ga., are the only successful Dropsy Specialists in the world. See their liberal offer in advertisement in another column of this paper.

Value of Nitrogen.

Nitrogen is so vital to the growth of plants that large sums are expended for fertilizers rich in that element. So far chemistry has done nothing effective in the way of obtaining nitrogen from the atmosphere. Yet it is calculated that the nitrogen in the air weighs no less than four billion million tons.

When the lofty palm tree of Telian puts forth its flowers, the sheath bursts with a report like a pistol.

HIS ONE WEAK SPOT.

Prominent Minneapolis Merchant Cured to Stay Cured by Doan's Kidney Pills.

O. C. Hayden, of O. C. Hayden & Co., dry goods merchants, of Albert Lea, Minn., says: "I was so lame that I could hardly walk. There was an unaccountable weakness of the back, and constant pain and aching. I could find no rest and was very uncomfortable at night. As my health was good in every other way I could not understand this trouble. It was just as if all the strength had gone from my back. After suffering for some time I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. The remedy acted at once upon the kidneys, and when normal action was restored, the trouble with my back disappeared. I have not had any return of it."

For sale by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

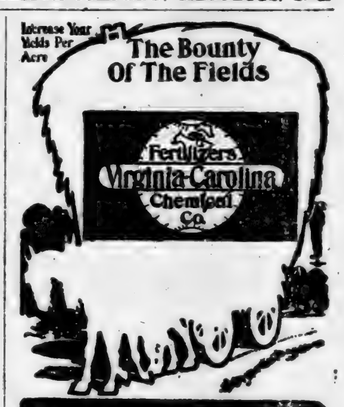
There is a special examination in Australian cities for female barbers.

Avery & Company
SUCCESSORS TO
AVERY & McMILLAN,
51-53 South Forsyth St., Atlanta, Ga.
—ALL KINDS OF—
MACHINERY
Reliable Frick Engines, Boilers, all Sizes. Wheat Separators.

BEST IMPROVED SAW MILL ON EARTH.
Large Engines and Boilers supplied promptly. Shingle Mills, Corn Mills, Circular Saws, Saw Teeth, Patent Dogs, Steam Governors. Full line Engines & Mill Supplies. Send for free Catalogue.

Increase Your Yields Per Acre

The Bounty Of The Fields



depends upon the life-long study and experience of the men who direct this business, and who mix a fertilizer which "makes three (often a dozen) blades of grass grow, where only one grew before." The name of it is Virginia-Carolina Fertilizer.

By its very liberal use, a week or two before, or at planting, as well as second application, multitudes of farmers in the South have "increased their yields per acre," and with the larger profits which these increased yields brought, paid off the mortgage on their farms. Don't be fooled by any dealer into buying a "cheap" substitute.

Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co.

Richmond, Va.	Atlanta, Ga.
Norfolk, Va.	Savannah, Ga.
Durham, N. C.	Montgomery, Ala.
Charleston, S. C.	Memphis, Tenn.
Baltimore, Md.	Shreveport, La.

WANTED—FOUR ENERGETIC MEN to travel and Sell our MONUMENTAL TOMBSTONE WORK in Alabama and Mississippi. Either on Salary or Commissions. In answering give references and Experience.
DIXIE MARBLE COMPANY,
CANTON, Cherokee Co., GEORGIA.

5 0c for 50c worth of leading 1906 novelties in Garden seeds. $1's worth of Universal Premium Coupons free with every order. BOLGIANO'S SEED STORE, BALTIMORE.

COTTON YIELDS are sure to dwindle from year to year unless the soil is kept supplied with a complete fertilizer containing sufficient POTASH.

Just how POTASH increases cotton crops is shown in our 90-page book, "Cotton Culture." This book is sent absolutely free of any cost or obligation to any farmer who will write for it.

Address, GERMAN KALI WORKS,
New York—66 Nassau Street. or Atlanta, Ga.—2314 Empire Building.

Citizens Savings Bank | The only Strictly Savings Bank in the State | Citizens Savings B

Read This Notable New Year's Editorial From the New York American.

Real Estate and Fire Insurance

We buy, sell and rent Real Estate on commission, and are prepared to give you the very best fire protection on your property.

Our facilities for handling these lines enable us to give you most satisfactory results.

CITIZENS SAVINGS BANK

Stocks and Bonds

We handle Stocks and Bo commission. We are always advise you as to invest and as we do not deal on our count, our opinions are unbi

CITIZENS SAVINGS BAN

Below we reproduce the strong, terse New Year's editorial on Savings from the New York American. It should be read and re-read by every man, woman, boy and girl in Birmingham and Alabama. It is laden with wisdom and sound advice, which if heeded by the people will redound to the continuous prosperity and happiness of this nation. Especially is its wisdom commended to the people of the Birmingham District, the great majority of whom are wage-earners, receiving good wages every month in the year

THIS YEAR

SAVE MONE

DEVOTE an hour of careful thought today to your New Year's resolutions. Do not be among those who think resolutions are valueless because some are broken.

The progress of men as individuals and as a race has come from MENTAL EFFORT, from resolutions, from trying to do what they know they ought to do.

We can't all keep our resolutions. But we can at least try. We can remain hopeful, earnest, and this is the day for us to begin again.

Let us question ourselves, accuse ourselves, investigate our weaknesses, recognize them. AND DETERMINE TO CORRECT THEM IN THE COMING YEAR.

Every man and woman must decide what she or he needs individually. With many of us lack of will power is the great curse—procrastination, self-indulgence.

With others it is easy good nature, extravagance. With others various bad habits that sap the vitality which could mean success, not mere amusement or physical gratification.

We recommend to you today a resolution illustrated in this picture.

Desiring to give the best possible advice to our readers, we advise them most earnestly TO SAVE MONEY. Every man with a child or any human being dependent upon him owes it to his sense of decency to save his money. For only money saved and accumulated can mean permanent safety for the weak.

We do not advise saving merely for the money's sake, merely for gratification or enrichment. To have money and have nothing else is to be poor indeed.

But money MEANS INDEPENDENCE. Remember that the man whose dollar you must get from day to day is the man THAT OWNS YOU.

And as long as you must deliver each day of your life for that man's dollar you do not own yourself.

In old slave days an unusually intelligent negro would be permitted, as the saying went, "to buy his time," or even "to buy his freedom." The master realized that the slave working free, with some incentive, would produce much more than under compulsion, and he would arrange to sell the slave his own time for so much per day, or sell him the right to buy his freedom absolutely.

What would you think of a negro who in those days would have refused the chance of freedom?

You would say that the man was made to be a slave, and he ought to be a slave.

But do you realize that when YOU FAIL TO SAVE MONEY YOU ARE REFUSING A CHANCE TO BUY YOUR FREEDOM?

Are you a free man, when you don't know where the money will come from to take care of your family or yourself the week after next?

Are you a free man, when you don't own a foot of the surface of the earth, which men buy and sell to each other?

Are you a free man, if you haven't accumulated and saved that which makes you independent of other men?

Do you imagine that having your body owned by a man is so very different from having your time and your future owned?

Make up your mind that this year you will start in to buy your freedom.

We would not suggest to any man that he should free himself from wage dependence in order to be idle. If we believed that a man would accumulate enough to let him do nothing, and then do nothing, we would much prefer he never might save a dollar. Every man should work and want to work, as long as there is strength and energy in him.

But it is also true that every man should be in a position to do the best work that offers. He ought to be in a position to seize a good opportunity. He should be in such a position that, if duty told him to he could devote himself to the welfare of others, to working for his fellow men instead of working forever for his breakfast, luncheon, dinner and bed.

Money is crystalized labor. The dollars that you have saved up are all that you have to show materially for the efforts of your past life. What has become of the money—little or much—that you have received in the past? It has gone into your stomach, in pleasure, in clothes, unless you have it to show. Of course, if you have really spent every dollar as you got it for a family that needed every dollar, all honor to you.

But how many men and women can truthfully say that? How many can deny that if they had the will power they could save something and still do their duty?

Remember that this resolution to save means not only the accumulation of money, but the formation and strengthening of character.

Nine times out of ten the man who begins to save stops some kind of foolishness. Economy means giving up something, and the wise man usually manages to give up that which is bad for him. When you begin to save you begin, as a rule, to sleep longer, to drink and smoke less, to waste less time among unprofitable friends.

The saving of money not only means independence in the future, but it means better use of time in the present.

Think this over today. Think of your own case. Look at the men about you who have money. Remember that with a few disgraceful exceptions among the gamblers, thieves and politicians, the average man has money BECAUSE HE HAD THE STRENGTH OF CHARACTER TO SAVE. Even John D. Rockefeller has a thousand millions now BECAUSE HE WAS ABLE TO SAVE THE FIRST DOLLAR. IF HE HAD SPENT THE FIRST FEW DOLLARS HE WOULD HAVE SPENT ALL THE OTHER DOLLARS, AND WHILE HE WAS SPENDING THEM HE WOULD HAVE MISSED THE OPPORTUNITY THAT HAS GIVEN HIM THE MILLIONS PILED UP.

True, Rockefeller should not have those millions. He WOULDN'T have them if the other people of the nation equalled him in concentration of purpose, if they took an interest in their own financial welfare and their own government. Let a few millions of men develop the concentrated determination of Rockefeller, and YOU WILL HAVE MILLIONS OF PROSPEROUS MEN, AND NO ROCKEFELLERS.

As to how THE money should be saved, the simple recipe is BEGIN AT ONCE.

The savings bank, of course, is the simplest beginning. There are other ways. The man who has the intelligence to select the means of making one dollar produce another quickly is, of course, the lucky man.

All of us should watch for the opportunities that are offered in this day of extraordinary commercial and other develpoments.

The real estate field especially, with wise selection, offers a very great opportunity. We shall impress constantly upon all our readers, IN THE HOPE OF MAKING MANY OF THEM RICH, the fact that the problem of transportation is entering upon an absolutely new phase.

The electric road is going to be as great an improvement upon the steam road as the steam road was up stage coach.

